Agreements signed, final approval pends for Stagecoach Inn

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen, at their July 14 meeting, should give final approval to an Economic Development Agreement package for the long-term redevelopment of Stagecoach Inn property.

Clark Lyda, principal of Stagecoach 1943, LLP, has signed the documents after final changes were approved by the board of aldermen July 7 and has sent the originals to the Village, according to City Administrator Kim Foutz.

The changes to the agreements include the timelines that push back the completion of Phase I (restaurant and conference center) and Phase II (motel property). At the time the original agreements were made last summer, Village of Salado leaders and developers in the area were told that the highway would be completely finished in Spring 2016, a year behind the original deadline.

Other changes to the agreements ask for an unqualified letter of support from the Village concerning two things: deed for the water tower on College Hill that provides water to Stagecoach Inn and support in securing a license through the Texas Department of Transportation for full design and landscaping control of the Main Street right-of-way adjacent to the premises. This is similar to the license the owner obtained from TXDOT on another development through the assistance of the City of Georgetown.

With the signing of the agreements and approval by the Board of Aldermen tonight, it appears that the Stagecoach Inn restaurant will reopen no later than Spring 2017.

Work will begin soon on the 1861 building that opened as the Shady Villa Hotel. The second story balcony of the old hotel is storied to have been the location of an anti-secession speech by Sam Houston. According to the Texana book "Texas Siftings," Houston reportedly had an exchange with a fiery secessionist from the crowd who shouted at him, "General Sam, we can whip them Yankees with cornstalks!"

"That may be true, but they have not agreed to fight with cornstalks," Houston retorted.

This is just one of the many stories that has kept travelers from around the state enrapt about the Stagecoach Inn.

That historic charm is part of what led Austin developer Clark Lyda to purchase the property and will continue to be a focus in the branding of the Stagecoach Inn as a destination for travelers.

Dion and Ruth Van Bibber opened the restaurant in 1943 and it quickly became a renowned highway restaurant featured in Life magazine, Ford Times and on the prestigious Duncan Hines list. It was named by Texas Highways Readers as a Readers Favorite restaurant in Texas.

The distinctive menu, recited from memory by waitresses who had worked decades at the restaurant, included the famous hush puppies, tomato aspic, banana fritter and, of course, the Strawberry Kiss.

When the restaurant reopens, you can expect many of those favorites to stay the same.

But there will be some exciting changes to the restaurant, which will be under the operation of La Corsha Hospitality.

The team, according to Lyda, has "a clear understanding of the Stagecoach's history, the strength of the brand and people's affection for it, and the potential of the place to once again draw locals and visitors from across Texas."

Jeff Trigger and David Bull are the principals of La Corsha. They have experience in the hospitality industry from operating the iconic Mansion on Turtle Creek in Dallas to the restoration of the Driskill Hotel in Austin.

Bull graduated from the Culinary Institute of America in 1994. He joined The Mansion on Turtle Creek in Dallas, Texas and became the youngest-ever sous chef employed by the hotel. Moving to Austin, he served as the executive chef of the Driskill Grill, earning the Austin American-Statesman's Number One Restaurant Award for three consecutive years. The Driskill Grill was recognized by USA Today as one of the country's Top 50 Hotel Restaurants. Food and Wine Magazine honored Chef Bull as one of "The Best New Chefs 2003." Bull has been nominated three times for the prestigious James Beard award for "Best New Chef Southwest."

La Corsha operates Congress Austin, a tri-leveled dining and drinking establishment that includes the popular Second Bar + Kitchen, Bar Congress and Restaurant Congress.

The group recently opened the three-leveled Boiler 9 Grill at the Seaholm development in Southwest Austin this summer.

Lyda has been involved in many developments in the central Texas area, including Monument Cafe and El Monumento restaurants in nearby Georgetown.

He was also the owner of the 2,000 acres on which Del Webb built Sun City Georgetown.

On the weekends, Salado Creek has been the gathering place for many families. Local lake parks have been closed due to the Spring and Summer floods, forcing folks to seek other places to play.

Families flock to Salado Creek

Spring rains have caused local lakes to close many of their parks, which has sent many summertime families to Salado Creek.

Many of those are gathering at the Stagecoach Dam and in Pace Park, but others have found the low water crossing at Sherrill Park for outdoor activities that include fishing, swimming, floating and -- for some -- outdoor cooking.

Visitors are reminded that Pace Park rules do not permit alcohol or glass containers. Outdoor open flames are also prohibited by Pace Park rules.

Visitors to Salado Creek are also encouraged to take their trash with them as they leave the area.

The Village of Salado has only one full-time maintenance person, which is not enough to clean-up after hundreds of visitors play in the creek on the weekends.

Visitors are also asked to be careful around the springs areas of Salado Creek, just east of the Main Street bridge. This area is one of the very few habitats for the Salado Salamander, which has been designated as Threatened by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Services.

By working together with visitors to Salado Creek, we can keep it clean for future use.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

1776 Was Amexit

Two hundred and forty years before Brexit, there was Amexit, also known as the American Revolution.

In terms of historical consequence, the Brexit vote and the American Revolution don't occupy the same universes, but they are connected by a belief in popular sovereignty and a refusal to be governed by a remote authority with only an attenuated mechanism -- if that -- for representation.

In Brexit, the British people decided that their Parliament should trump the governing machinery of the EU, and in our Revolution, we decided that our Colonial assemblies should trump the governing machinery of the British Empire. Both acts exhibited a punctiliousness about government by consent that struck critics as unreasonable and even dangerous.

The Revolution fed off popular passions that shocked and embarrassed some Colonial elites who were more cautious about separating from Britain, in an echo of the elite reaction to Brexit. John Adams pushed back against the "sneers and snubs" directed at "the multitude, the million, the populace, the vulgar, the mob, the herd and the rabble, as the great always delight to call them." (I'm in the debt of the magisterial new book "Toward Democracy," for this and other quotes.)

The Founders sought to protect the bedrock principle that the people, again the words of Adams, are "the Source of all Authority and Original of all Power." Alexander Hamilton wrote that "the only distinction between slavery and freedom" is whether man is governed either "by the will of another," or "by the laws to which he has given his consent."

By this standard, the case against the British Parliament was highly intuitive: Members of Parliament didn't live in the Colonies, and the colonists didn't elect them. Benjamin Franklin wrote as early as 1768 that either "parliament has the right to make all laws for us," or "it has the power to make no laws for us."

History didn't come full circle, but it did look over its shoulder when a leading advocate of Brexit, the Tory politician Michael Gove, cited the American Revolution as inspiration for Britain's separation from the EU.

Of course, the circumstances are vastly different. The EU didn't suspend the British Parliament. It isn't sending a fearsome fleet across the Channel to crush all resistance and to hunt down Nigel Farage, leader of the U.K. Independence Party, and have him hanged (although some EU officials might harbor this fantasy). Britain obviously didn't become a newly independent nation upon the passage of Brexit.

But the Brexit vote is a reminder that the threat to self-government never truly abates; it just takes different (and more or less benign or noxious) forms. This is why self-government always needs to be jealously and zealously guarded -- something our forefathers understood and acted upon.

Levi Preston, a captain at the Battle of Concord, explained decades later why he had fought: "What we meant in going for those redcoats was this: We had always governed ourselves, and we always meant to. They didn't mean we should." It's a sentiment as relevant now as it was more than 200 years ago -- and will always remain so as long as men yearn to be free.

BOA and Chairs to meet monthly to move Salado development forward

Last Saturday, July 9, Village committee Chairs came together to discuss the Comprehensive Plan for the Salado Village. The Board of Aldermen/lady (BOA), in a previous meeting, agreed that going forward meant being "on the same page," going in the same direction, and unified in purpose. Recovery and going forward would require a comprehensive plan of balanced, positive thinking built on what is best for the total Village. Economic Development, Chair Frank Coachman, led the meeting.

In the meeting, each Chair had the opportunity to discuss these areas: Planning and Zoning; Transportation; West Side; Main Street; Historic Preservation; Sewer; Economic Development; Recreation Green Space; Trails and

Mayor Skip Blancett

Parks; ETJ Future Land Use; Annexation; and Architecture.

At the conclusion, the following was agreed upon:

(1) The positive direction of the Village and what has to be done in the next 6 months. The absolute fact that we can work together, agree to disagree, and find a "win-win" solution for everyone.

(2) Updating the Village Comprehensive Plan of 2004. The BOA will begin by selecting a "working committee" of citizens and elected officials. The Comprehensive Plan 2016-2017 will be the planning framework.

(3) A large wall map will be developed of Salado proper, the ETJ, and areas of possible annexation. The map will have overlays depicting working projects, future projects, and developments coming into or around the Village. It will be available to any citizen, developer, or visitor that wants to see and understand the plans.

(4) The BOA and Board of Chairs will meet monthly on Saturday for updates, plans, and evolving issues.

This BOA and Board of Chairs will work on the overall vision of Salado.

Each Chair will go back to their Committee and work out the details. Together, citizens, elected officials, and the Village Administration will go forward.

Deer ordinance will be just one more selectively enforced rule

To the Editor:

My sincere compliments to Dr. Paul Cromwell and his Letter to the Editor, on 6-30-16, where he very clearly examined, why we, US, have a system of ideals/liberties/rights "guaranteed" by the US Constitution and Bill of Rights...even while living/paying taxes in the ever-evolving, 'gulag' of Salado. It is also apparent we have a "midget league" local government here, omnipotent in their own, provincial minds, led by an 'almighty' mayor and his merry band of parasitic, cretins on the Board of Alderpersons (SBOA), who think they can supersede these rights just because of their microcosmic, local 'importance.' Within the confines of the SBOA's own minuscule "Echo Chamber" at city hall, they continue to regurgitate their schemes via a menu of unenforced or perhaps, at best, selectively enforced ordinances. What comes from their efforts in futility are 'local ordinances' as in-bred as the local deer population and just as full of deer scat.

How many times since a noise ordinance was codified, have I heard

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

the cacophony of "live music" at my property two-plus miles away from an offending bbq joint/hearing loss laboratory in SW Salado, obviously, in violation of any noise ordinance? How many daily, fully loaded, 80000# + 'gravel haulers' have I had to dodge while traveling on Chisholm Tr. going to/from my residence in violation of the road ordinance weight limit of 58420# (which just happens to coincide with state FM or RR limits... and is not not even close to the minimal limits of the third world, paths of crumbled pavement within Mill Creek)? If there has been any enforcement of these and other ordinances I'd be shocked and awed... so where can I find a record of these violations? I thought so-zero, because the offenders are always, pampered "business."

I predict, the same outcome will hold true of the proposed 'deer ordinance,' now in play after the Board of AlderMorons have 'kicked that can so far down the ever-deteriorated, Salado roads', it has become meaningless with regard to the overwhelming, over-population of deer problem....feeding is not the problem; long-term SBOA negligence to the ever-increased deer population of Salado is. I predict this asinine resolution will produce the same outcome as the other, ineffectual ordinances-either they are ignored for the 'sake of business/economic development' or selectively enforced or used to try to trample the property rights of Salado citizens.

Clearly the taxpayer, citizen, voter of Salado, in response to the exhibited tyranny of the Salado SBOA, needs to heed the value of their 'legal rights' as conveyed in Dr. Cromwell's letter, and as contained under the umbrella of OUR, US Constitution...because as is clearly pointed out, Salado SBOA does not respect those 'rights' very much, if at all...! Thank you, again, Dr. Cromwell!

Central Texas Food Bank accepting donations, signing up volunteers

The Central Texas Food Bank celebrated its official grand opening with a ceremony attended by partner agencies, elected officials and supporters from the 21 counties it serves. Bell County is one of the counties in the service area of the Central Texas Area Food Bank.

There are more than 471,000 food-insecure people in the Food Bank's 21-county service area.

Nearly 1 in 6 Central Texans (17.3%), and 1 in 4 Central Texas children (24.4%) are at risk of hunger. Both figures are above the national average.

More than one third (37%) of Central Texans facing food insecurity make too much to qualify for federal nutrition assistance programs. For these working poor, food assistance provided by the Food Bank and its Partner Agencies is crucial.

About the Central Texas Food Bank:
Nearly 46,000 Central

Texans across 21 counties rely on our services each week. One-third of them are children.

In the last year, the Food Bank distributed more than 33 million pounds of food – more than ever before and provided more than 28 million meals.

According to the Food Bank, 80 percent of their Partner Agencies say without support from the Food Bank, their ability to serve clients would be jeopardized.

For every $1 donated, the Food Bank provides four meals.

About the people served by the Food Bank:

Of those served, 93 percent are not homeless.

Nearly two-thirds of our client households had at least one working adult at home in the last year.

About 80 percent of the Food Bank clients had to choose between paying for food and paying for medicine or medical care in the past year; two-thirds had to choose between food and housing.

More than 60% of their clients must rely on receiving food from the Food Bank or one of its Partner Agencies as a part of their everyday lives.

Nearly 90 percent of Food Bank clients who are SNAP participants say that those benefits run out in three weeks or less each month.

The Central Texas Food Bank provides food and grocery products through a network of about 300 Partner Agencies and mobile food pantries, serving nearly 46,000 people every week. Though headquartered in Austin, the Food Bank Serves 21 counties in Central Texas—an area about twice the size of Massachusetts.

Through social services programs and nutrition education courses, we help clients access nutritious food and promote healthy eating habits.

Full operations began in the new facility on June 20. The new 135,000-square foot distribution facility is located at 6500 Metropolis Drive in southeast Austin. The space includes 2.5 times the dry storage space, seven times the refrigeration and freezer capacity, a commercial kitchen and 15 loading docks.

If you would like to contribute to the fundraising goal for the new facility, visit www.central-texasfoodbank.org/capital-campaign.

Other ways you can help include these:

Donors, volunteers and advocates make it possible for the Food Bank to connect more people to healthy food and reduce the health risks associated with an insulin diet.

Every $1 donated provides four meals.

Volunteers are critical to ensure all donated food is safe for distribution and meets our quality standards. After the holiday season, volunteers are especially crucial as we sort through donations from holiday food drives, and volunteer numbers decline.

The most requested food items are:

- Peanut butter
- Canned chicken breast or tuna
- Canned low sodium vegetables
- Canned fruit in its own juice (no sugar added)
- Dry pinto beans
- Brown rice
- Non-fat dry milk powder
- 100 percent whole grain cereal

Delicious tips for outdoor summer entertaining, Italian style

(StatePoint) Italians are famous for their seamless entertaining style: good food, wine and conversation. With Italy's variety of light cuisine options, meals can be packed with summer vegetables, fresh seafood, olive oil and crisp white wines.

Here are some helpful suggestions for your next summer celebration from Roberto Pighin, owner of Fernando Pighin & Figli Winery.

SIMPLY ELEGANT MEALS

Grilling is the most social and simple cooking method during the summer. Enjoy the sunshine with friends while grilling calamari or a whole fresh fish, such as trout or Arctic char with olive oil, garlic and fresh herbs.

Main entrees can be appreciated with a side of pasta and vegetables. Grill tomatoes, squash and peppers for a flavorful side dish. Fresh basil is plentiful in summer, so make the most of it with a pesto pasta sauce. If you are more classic, toss your pasta with garden-fresh garlic and olive oil.

CRISP WHITE WINES

In the hot summer weather, consider a versatile bottle of white wine that will taste great with each course and refresh guests while sitting pool-side or in the backyard.

Pinot Grigio is a perfect accompaniment to summertime outdoor dining.

"When preparing for a summer gathering, pair meals with medium-bodied white wines that have fruity aromas and bright acidity," explained Pighin, whose winery produces high quality products that are easy-drinking in warm weather.

A Pinot Grigio Collio, the finest area of Pinot Grigio production within the Friuli-Venezia Giulia region of Italy, would be a great match for any al-fresco event. The wine has citrus notes and white fruit on the nose and palate. It has lively acidity with a clean, fresh finish. Wines like this are ideal with fish dishes, risotto or grilled chicken with lemon.

THOUGHTFUL APPETIZERS

For starters, take advantage of in-season produce, such as caprese salad. Right-off-the-vine tomatoes, fragrant basil and fresh mozzarella are refreshing ways to whet appetites. Certain light cheeses, such as fontal, gruyere, parmigiano reggiano, pair well with crisp white wines.

A tasty alternative is a seafood platter or shrimp cocktail. Pighin shared an innovative twist on the classic shrimp cocktail that will be sure to please:

SHRIMP AND MANGO MINT COCKTAIL

Ingredients:
 • 12 fresh jumbo shrimp
 • Ripe mango
 • 2 Tbsp. of apple cider vinegar
 • 5 fresh mint leaves
 • Fresh peeled ginger
 • 1/2 gallon of water
 • 1 large carrot

- 2-3 celery stalk
- 1/2 white onion

Mango Mint Topping:

• Combine into a mixer: peeled mango, apple cider vinegar, 3 fresh mint leaves, peeled ginger

Josh Abbott Band at Johnny's Outback July 15

When Josh Abbott Band recorded "Ghosts" for its fourth album, Front Row Seat, Abbott expected to redo the vocals. The final chorus had some technical imperfections, and he figured he could improve on the performance once his heart settled down. Producer Dwight Baker, one-half of the Austin-based duo The Wind and The Wave, wouldn't let Abbott retouch it.

"I was actually crying my eyes out during that last chorus, and that's why there's a couple of notes in the beginning of that section that don't really explode like normal," Abbott says. "Dwight was like, 'We're keeping that. That's real.'"

Real is the operative word for Front Row Seat, a 16-track song cycle that represents the most ambitious and emotionally challenging project yet for JAB, a highly melodic six-piece ensemble that's managed to keep a foot in both the Texas music scene and the national country world. The band won four times during the inaugural Texas Regional Radio Awards behind an upbeat brand of country that still leans on classic instrumentation – particularly banjo and fiddle – to effect a raucous, roof-raising attitude.

The Josh Abbott Band will perform songs from that album and the previous three during a performance July 15 at Johnny's Outback in Salado. Tickets are available online at johnnysoutback.com for $20 per person. Tickets will be available at the gate for $25 per person. Gates open at 6 p.m.

The band has lobbed three singles onto the Billboard Hot Country Songs chart – including "Oh, Tonight," the first charted track to feature Grammy-winning Kacey Musgraves – and nabbed a Top 10 album with the 2012 release Small Town Family Dreams and reached No. 12 with the 2014 EP Tuesday Night.

But Front Row Seat steps beyond the band's honky-tonk inclinations for a more personal journey as the album traverses the emotional course of Abbott's first marriage and subsequent divorce. It was not his original intention to depict his private life in a public way, but as he wrote the songs for Front Row Seat, beginning before the split actually occurred, he naturally mined his emotional life for a set of songs that were profoundly honest and revealing. It was only as they began recording the material at Baker's Matchbox Studios outside of Austin, that they realized they had the germ of a tangible plot.

"We started looking at the music we'd done and had a whole bunch of other songs that we really loved and we were like, 'Man, we could put this together and make a really neat story out of it,'" fiddler Preston Wait recalls. "Especially with the song 'Front Row Seat,' we basically just made it kind of like you're watching a movie and it's your front row seat to this life."

Owing to that silver-screen character, JAB employed screenwriting technique by assembling the project with the five elements of plot structure: the exposition, or beginning; an inciting incident; the climax; a falling action (in this case, a breakup); and the resolution.

The story begins with "While I'm Young," in which a college-aged Abbott lives a typically care-free existence, spending much of his discretionary income in bars and living for the moment, an ideal that's captured authoritatively in the anthemic "Live It While You Got It." As the album progresses, he meets a woman who commands his attention for more than one evening, finding himself by track 7, "Crazy Things," mulling what it is that would make a woman who's dang-near perfect fall for someone so flawed.

By the time the album concludes, his once-ideal relationship has turned sour, and the two are no longer one. The fracture becomes apparent through the resignation of "Born To Break Your Heart," and he discovers in "Ghosts" that all the memories that once lived with such passion and revelry continue to haunt his memory, taunting him with whispers of a past he can never reclaim. As Front Row Seat closes with "Anonymity," Abbott sings a spare dirge with acoustic guitar and fiddle, fantasizing that he could return to the start of the relationship and live it out right.

"When you're moving on from somebody, even once you've accepted it, you just feel alone," Abbott observes. "That's the reason the acoustic track ends the album."

Even though Front Row Seat represents an ode to a failed relationship, it also marks what Abbott expects to be the beginning of a new phase for JAB. One of Texas' best party bands, the group evolved heavily in the process of making the album. The players fully committed to a darker sound and gave even more prominence to Wait's fiddle and Austin Davis' banjo, highlighting the trad-country elements in the lineup while still infusing the influence of multiple genres in its sonic drama.

"When you get to the end of this album, you see a band that grew up before your eyes – like literally front to back, a band that sonically changed," Abbott says. "You never want to make the same album multiple times, and you never want to sound the same your entire career. You know, you look at The Beatles and you look at all these other great bands, they tweaked their sound over time, and I think you're gonna start to see us do that a little bit more."

While JAB is truly a group, the name is centered on Abbott – the lead singer, primary songwriter and band namesake – with good reason. He is a determined force of nature, and his ability to lead – to, in essence, turn something small into something much bigger – has been a hallmark of the band since its inception.

That start came in the mid-2000s when Abbott and frat brother Davis showed up for a few informal gigs at the Blue Light Live in Lubbock, Texas.

"We played two open-mic nights, and we had two songs, no band. Just him and me," Davis recalls. "I walk in the back, and Josh is talking to the owner and the manager about doing a live record there. And I'm thinking, 'We don't even have a band.' His thing was, 'We'll get to that later.' He's always thought that way. I've played in other bands but never saw anybody else with that kind of confidence."

Wait and drummer Edward Villanueva showed up a year and a half later, and in short time, JAB's first single – "Taste," self-released on Pretty Damn Tough Records – found a home on Texas radio stations. Bass player James Hertless and lead guitarist Caleb Keeter came on board circa 2010, and the lineup has stabilized for the past five years.

The bidding:
South West North East
7♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

ace of diamonds, you should play one round of trumps and then cash the A-K of hearts. After West shows out without ruffing, you trump a heart in dummy, and the rest of the tricks are yours. Of course, you're a bit lucky that the second heart didn't get ruffed, but then again, you were unlucky that the hearts split badly in the first place.

It would be technically wrong -- and in the actual case fatal -- to cash all your trumps first and rely solely on a favorable heart division. Playing one round of trumps followed by two rounds of hearts allows you to make the contract whenever it can be made.

It would be a pity to hold a hand like this and watch it go down the drain because you failed to take a measure of protection -- however small -- against a bad heart division. That would not be the proper way to show your gratitude for being dealt a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity like this one.

Once in a lifetime

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

It's unlikely you'll ever be dealt a hand as luscious as the one held by South in today's deal. But, just in case lightning strikes and you do get such a hand -- or a reasonable facsimile thereof -- here is a word or two about how to bid and play it.

The bidding should be short and sweet. It would be pointless to indulge in an elaborate or extended series of bids. You should immediately cast your vote for seven spades and bid it.

The play's not as simple as that, though it's not really difficult. It's obvious from the start that the grand slam is ice-cold unless one opponent has five or six hearts to the ten.

Therefore you should -- as a cautious player -- assume that such a situation exists and adapt your play accordingly. So, after ruffing the split badly in the first place. It would be technically wrong -- and in the actual case fatal -- to cash all your trumps first and rely solely on a favorable heart division. Playing one round of trumps followed by two rounds of hearts allows you to make the contract whenever it can be made.

It would be a pity to hold a hand like this and watch it go down the drain because you failed to take a measure of protection -- however small -- against a bad heart division. That would not be the proper way to show your gratitude for being dealt a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity like this one.

Round tailed horned lizards lay eggs

When a person mentions a particular type of animal, one species is usually at the top of the mind. For example, if someone mentions rattlesnake, the first species usually thought of is the Western Diamond-backed Rattler. If someone mentions bass, the first species to cross the mind is Large-mouth Bass. If someone says Horned Lizard (or mis-appropriately "horny toad") and the first species to come to mind is the Texas Horned Lizard. However, there is another species of horned lizard found in west Texas

Wild About Texas

that is just as intriguing and that is the Round-tailed Horned Lizard.

The Round-tailed Horned Lizard (Phrynosoma modestum) is one of three species of "horny toads" that live in Texas, and it has the second-largest area of distribution. It occurs throughout the Trans-Pecos, where it can be quite abundant. It also can be found sporadically in the western portions of the Hill country and Edwards Plateau, as well as in a narrow north-south band through the middle of the Panhandle. Outside of Texas, it occurs westward to southeastern Arizona and southward to the central plateau regions of Mexico.

The habitats that this lizard prefers are arid to semi-arid sandy areas in prairies and grasslands, as well sand dunes and areas of open scrubland. This species of "horny toad" is not as prone to basking on paved roads as is the Texas Horned Lizard, but it will oftentimes utilize the caliche county roads for sun soaking.

The Round-tailed Horned Lizard is a flattened reptile that has scaled, horny skin. It is the smallest horned lizard that inhabits this state, with adults reaching a total length of a mere four inches, although the average is between three and three and one-half inches. The background coloration can be various shades of tan, brown or even brick red, matching the color of the soils where it is living. The pattern along the back can vary from having prominent large brown blotches to almost being pattern-less. Aside from the size, it differs from the larger Texas Horned Lizard by the absence of a row of fringe scales along the sides of the body. There are only four horns that adorn the head with all of them being the same size. The belly is white and the tail does not taper behind the body, but rather narrows abruptly. Hence the common name, the tail is distinctly round in shape.

Round-tailed Horned Lizards, like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that they do not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather are dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. They are active throughout the day in the spring and fall, adjusting their schedules to the morning and afternoon hours during the heat of the summer.

This species of lizard has a specialized diet, although not as specific as the Texas Horned Lizard. It's preferred choice of food is the small honey pot ants, although it will also feed on other small invertebrates such as crickets and flies. Unfortunately, the imported fire ant is not on the Horned Lizard's dietary menu.

The Round-tailed Horned Lizard is oviparous, which is a fancy way of saying that it lays eggs. After emerging from the winter-long brumation period (reptiles do not hibernate in the true sense of the word), males will search out females to mate. After mating, the female will lay anywhere from two to thirteen eggs in moisture retaining soil. After approximately two months of incubation, the miniscule 3/4 inch long young emerge prepared to fend for and care for themselves.

Populations of this misnamed "horny toad" (they are not amphibians, but rather reptiles) are apparently quite stable. It is extremely shy, and prefers to rely on camouflage rather than flight for defense. Many are almost stepped on before they make a short dash. They will then stop abruptly, blending in with the substrate to the point of being difficult to detect again.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN WATER QUALITY PERMIT RENEWAL

PERMIT NO. WQ0014898001

APPLICATION. Village of Salado, P.O. Box 219, Salado, Texas 76571, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) to renew Texas Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (TPDES) Permit No. WQ0014898001 (EPA I.D. No. TX0125610) to authorize the discharge of treated wastewater at a volume not to exceed a daily average flow of 300,000 gallons per day. The domestic wastewater treatment facility is located north of the intersection of Shepard Drive and Farm-to-Market Road 2268, approximately 2,000 feet north from the end of Shepard Drive in Bell County, Texas 76571. The discharge route is from the plant site to Smith Branch; thence to Salado Creek. TCEQ received this application on May 31, 2016. The permit application is available for viewing and copying at Village of Salado Village Hall, 301 North Stagecoach Road, Salado, Texas. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to application.

<http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=30.930602&lng=-97.52761&zoom=13&type=r>

ADDITIONAL NOTICE. TCEQ's Executive Director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application. After technical review of the application is complete, the Executive Director may prepare a draft permit and will issue a preliminary decision on the application. Notice of the Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the county-wide mailing list and to those who are on the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the deadline for submitting public comments.

PUBLIC COMMENT / PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting on this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ will hold a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments, and the Executive Director's decision on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision and for requesting a contested case hearing. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in state district court.

TO REQUEST A CONTESTED CASE HEARING, YOU MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING ITEMS IN YOUR REQUEST: your name, address, phone number; applicant's name and proposed permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the proposed facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; a list of all disputed issues of fact that you submit during the comment period and, the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing." If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group's representative for receiving future correspondence; identify by name and physical address an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the proposed facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member's location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group's purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

The Commission may only grant a request for a contested case hearing on issues the requestor submitted in their timely comments that were not subsequently withdrawn. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact or mixed questions of fact and law relating to relevant and material water quality concerns submitted during the comment period.

TCEQ may act on an application to renew a permit for discharge of wastewater without providing an opportunity for a contested case hearing if certain criteria are met.

MAILING LIST. If you submit public comments, a request for a contested case hearing or a reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision, you will be added to the mailing list for this specific application to receive future public notices mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk. In addition, you may request to be placed on: (1) the permanent mailing list for a specific applicant name and permit number; and/or (2) the mailing list for a specific county. If you wish to be placed on the permanent and/or the county mailing list, clearly specify which list(s) and send your request to TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION. All written public comments and requests must be submitted to the Office of the Chief Clerk, MC 105, TCEQ, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, TX 78711-3087 or electronically at www.tceq.texas.gov/about/comments.html. If you need more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call TCEQ Public Education Program, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040. General information about TCEQ can be found at our web site at www.tceq.texas.gov.

Further information may also be obtained from the Village of Salado at the address stated above or by calling Ms. Kim Foutz at 254-947-5060.

What games are your kids playing?

BBB offers tips for online games and mobile apps

WACO, Texas—School's out for the summer and with a lot of free time on their hands, chances are your kids are playing video games. With the Internet available at your fingertips, going online to play a game or downloading an app to a mobile phone is quick and easy. But, did you know that by downloading an app you could be allowing the company—or worse—hackers access to your phone? Even following a link to a website to play a game could be an attempt to download malware to your computer.

In 2015, BBB received more than 1,400 complaints involving video game developers nationwide. Complainants allege problems with sales, misleading advertising and unexpected charges. In addition to complaints, more than 70 scams related to online gaming, video games and mobile apps have been reported to BBB Scam Tracker since last year.

Aside from the threat of gaming scams or attempts of identity theft, it's important to know how video games and apps operate. For example, some online-enabled games can expose players to chat (text, audio or video). Also, some mobile apps and online games use the location sharing feature, may access a device's camera or contacts list, and may collect user data.

To help you navigate the gaming world, Better Business Bureau serving Central, Coastal, South-west Texas and the Permian Basin and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) offers the following tips:

Consider parental controls. Depending on the type of device, parental controls may include in-game purchasing restrictions, internet access restrictions or time limits.

In-game purchase restrictions: Many times downloading a game app is free; however, sometimes you can buy downloadable items within the game with a credit card. Consider setting a password to restrict purchases or don't save the credit card number to your phone.

Disable Internet access: This setting can disable your kids from accessing online features or websites. For example, some game systems include parental controls that allow you to disable the online chat feature that comes with many gaming consoles, according to the FTC. Some systems even offer the ability for parents to approve friend requests or create lists of friends their kids can play with or talk to.

Set time limits: Consider setting time limits for the amount of time your kids are allowed screen usage. Some game systems allow parents to set days and times your kids can play, and for how long. Consider video game ratings. After putting in place parental controls, consider video game ratings. Do your research and decide which games you feel comfortable letting your kids play. On the front and back of most video game boxes are age rating symbols and content descriptions of the game elements to give you a better idea of the ages the game may be appropriate for. Video games have their own rating system (much like movie ratings) from the Entertainment Software

Rating Board (ESRB).

Check your phone settings. If you have a smartphone or tablet with Internet access, it probably contains apps. Most mobile operating systems have an online app store where you can purchase and download apps, many that are free. But since not all apps are free, you may have to provide a credit card number or set up an account with one. Check your phone settings to ensure your kids don't have access to your credit card. This may mean enabling a feature to prompt a password before purchasing or downloading an app or disable your phone from

The Blackland Income Growth Conference

WACO—The Blackland Income Growth Conference, the largest conference for Central Texas Blacklands region farmers and ranchers, will be held at an earlier date than in the past to accommodate the region's producers, according to organizers.

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service conference is set Dec 13-14, at the Waco Convention Center, 100 Washington Ave., in Waco.

"We are anticipating this date will work well with all of the farmers as well as ranchers in the region to plan ahead for 2017," Woolley said. "This gives them plenty of lead time to make important decisions with regards to new seed varieties, planting methods and other important decisions with a new crop. This also gives early ideas for other varieties in other commodity areas such as beef, forage, grain, horticulture, wildlife and rural land management." This will mark the 54th conference, which provides producers with the latest information on new technology and cropping methods to boost yields and profits, said Ron Woolley, AgriLife Extension regional program leader in Stephenville.

Julie Borlaug, associate director of the Norman Borlaug Institute for International Agriculture at Texas A&M University in College Station, will be the keynote luncheon speaker Dec. 13 discussing agriculture sustainability. Borlaug is the granddaughter of the late Dr. Norman Borlaug, Nobel Peace Prize laureate who was considered the father of the Green Revolution.

The chairman is Robin Liebe of Waco. The vice chairman is Bill Foshea of Midlothian. Committee chairpersons are Jason Embry, Limestone County, beef; Terry Coufal, Bell County, cotton; Mike Garrett, Falls County, forage; Steve Beakley, Ellis County, grain; Don Griffin, McLennan County, horse; Louis McDaniel, McLennan County, horticulture; Page Bishop, Navarro County, rural land management; Gary Phillips, Bosque County, wildlife; Dana Tarter, family nutrition.
