Aldermen put manager on leave, to mull personnel

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen will consult with the Village attorney regarding the investigation and employment contract of Village Administrator on Sept. 22 as well as discussing the appointment, employment, and/or reassignment of the following positions: interim Village Administrator, Village Secretary, Village Planner and Receptionist.

The board may take action following the discussion in executive session on these personnel items.

Aldermen, following a 90-minute executive session Sept. 15, put Village Administrator Kim Foutz on paid administrative leave "for a period not to exceed 30 days under terms set by the Mayor, in order for the Mayor or his designees to conduct an investigation into complaints against the Administrator and to determine if the Administrator's employment contract should be terminated for Good Cause."

The motion to put Foutz on administrative leave Sept. 15 came from alderman Michael McDougal with a second from alderman Frank Coachman, who were joined by aldermen Fred Brown and Amber Preston-Dankert in voting for the motion. Alderman David Williams voted against the motion.

McDougal read the motion from a prepared type-written paper. The paper included a second possible motion to place Foutz on paid administrative leave "for a period not to exceed 15 days under terms set by the Mayor, in order to negotiate terms of a Mutual Agreement for termination of the Administrator's contract."

Following the Sept. 15 vote, Mayor Skip Blancett announced that aldermen McDougal and Brown would be conducting the investigation.

In the meantime, aldermen will mull contracting for city administrative services on an interim basis during the 30-day leave and continuing those services if the board choose to terminate the three-year employment contract it now has with Foutz.

According to section 1.2 of the employment agreement with Foutz: "Each year during the term hereof this Agreement shall automatically be extended for an additional year, unless the Board notifies the Administrator in writing at least four (4) months prior to the anniversary of the effective date of this Agreement that it has voted to not extend this Agreement. The Board may decide to not extend this Agreement for an additional year as set forth in this Paragraph for any reason, with or without cause."

The agreement sets the annual pay at $80,000 with the following additional benefits: $517 per month for premiums for health, hospitalization, and major medical insurance coverage; $100 per month toward the purchase of a term life insurance policy, Accidental Death and Dismemberment Policy, and Dental insurance policy; retirement contribution of at least a 2:1 contribution match at the rate of five percent or greater on the Administrator's behalf; automobile allowance of $500 per month as well as professional dues and fees, travel expenses and training expenses.

The agreement also outlines an annual review process, the first of which was to be conducted in Oct. 2015 and "subsequent annual reviews to occur concurrently with all other Village employee performance evaluations thereafter unless the parties agree otherwise."

The agreement outlines five circumstances for termination of the contract: "a. Mutual agreement of the Board and Administrator in writing and signed by them; b. Retirement or death of the Administrator; c. Termination of Administrator's Employment with or without "good cause" (as defined in Paragraph 6.2 below); e. Expiration of the term of this Agreement. d. A Unilateral Severance (as defined and set forth in Section 6.3 below)."

If aldermen unilaterally sever the agreement without good cause it must pay a severance amount outlined in the agreement as the following: "(a) an amount equal to the value of twelve (12) months of the Administrator's then current salary to serve as the primary basis for the Administrator's severance pay, plus (b) the value of any accrued but unused vacation and sick/personal leave days, computed on an hourly basis determined by dividing the Administrator's then current annual salary by 2080 hours. The "Severance Benefits" means, at the Village's expense: (i) continued health insurance benefit pursuant to Paragraph 3.5 of the Agreement, for a period of six (6) months or if sooner, until the Administrator obtains other full time employment and coverage through a group health insurance plan from the Administrator's new employer. The "Current Obligations" includes all salary and benefits under this Agreement payable by month or otherwise owing by Village to Administrator through and including the Severance Effective Date." The severance amount is payable, in full, within 14 days of issuing the unilateral severance.

The Village hired Foutz in September 2014. She began work on Oct. 1 2014.

The Clinton Diagnosis

With the Clintons, mistrust always pays.

A couple of weeks ago, Hillary was yukking it up with Jimmy Kimmel over the absurdity of rumors that she was hiding something about her health. Look, she can open a pickle jar! That feels so long ago now that her campaign has admitted that she was indeed hiding something about her health -- a pneumonia diagnosis.

Some of the diagnoses from afar of Hillary's purported illnesses have been elaborate fantasies, and she might have really been fit as a fiddle when she opened the famous pickle jar. But through her secretive handling of her pneumonia, she has, once again, shown how it never pays to trust a Clinton.

Bill and Hillary have a way of treating the credibility of their allies as a disposable commodity, in this case including the credibility of a protective media.

The press had worked itself into a lather about the illegitimacy of inquiries into Hillary's health. They were repaid by Clinton leaving reporters behind without notice at the Sept. 11 memorial; nearly collapsing when she was out of their view (the incident was captured on video by a bystander); giving them a wave and a misleading "feeling great" outside of Chelsea Clinton's apartment, where she had gone to recover; and leaving them behind yet again to go to her home in Chappaqua and see a doctor.

Her campaign initially said Hillary "overheated" (on a gorgeous and mild morning in New York City). Can happen to anyone, right? Well, yes -- and especially someone walking around with a case of pneumonia.

It is a cliché in the press to say that Hillary hurts herself by not being more transparent. But cover-ups have their advantages. If things had bounced differently, Bill Clinton might have been able to get away with denying his affair with Monica Lewinsky; we might never have learned of Hillary's private server; and Hillary's pneumonia diagnosis might have been kept under wraps, too.

Surely, the public had a right to know. Millions of people get pneumonia every year, and often it is easily treatable, yet the condition is serious enough that Hillary's doctor told her to scale back her campaign schedule. The public interest in disclosure took a back seat to Hillary's interest in not giving any more fodder to critics questioning her vigor.

Clinton has now been caught being dishonest about an area where public skepticism is most justified. Politicians lying about or concealing health problems is a common feature of every political system the world over, democratic or totalitarian. Hillary would do well to adopt an uncharacteristic policy of complete transparency about her health records and perform the rest of the way without a disruption more serious than a stray sneeze.

Even if she does, the handling of her pneumonia is a preview of how a second Clinton White House would operate. If she's elected president, inevitably, some outlandish allegation will arise. The Clintons and their defenders will dismiss it as a hateful fantasy, before -- when all other options are exhausted -- admitting it's actually true.

This is the Clinton pattern over a couple of decades of stoking, and validating, their critics' distrust.

Meet with your mayor Mon.-Wed. nights

"The reason people give up so fast is that they tend to look at how far they still have to go, instead of how far they have gotten." (QuotesGram)

This Village has come a long way . . . so much more to do. The journey seems forever. Instead of long-distance-gazing, here is what's happening now:

Beginning, September 19, 6:30 p.m. - 7:15 p.m., I will be at the Municipal Building Monday - Wednesday to visit with those needing information or not understanding Village business. No appointment is necessary. Please understand that individual time may be limited depending on the number who desire to talk.

Mondays, Rick Lewis, James Construction, and I do a tour deep into the I-35

Mayor Skip Blancett

Construction area. He explains each project section and completion dates. In Rick's words, "we are near rain-proof; rain will not stop us. August rains put us behind two-weeks but we are catching-up. We know November/December are critical months for the Village."

Wednesdays, Rick Kasberg, Village Engineer, and I meet for Sewer discussion: Bidding sewer project in October. Schedule for tunneling under the creek and I-35, and laying pipe under Main Street, the West Side, and Royal Street. Water treatment plant construction. Rick says, "this is a partnership between me and Salado. The entire project will be completed November, 2017." And when said, he does not blink.

Recently, a new resident said it best, "My wife and I have felt that perhaps some of Salado doesn't realize what they truly have. It's not a complaint. It's also not completely surprising. It's easy to grow complacent and to forget how much better we have it compared to other cities/towns/villages. My point is that we know what we have and we are so grateful. Salado is unique, enchanting, and our family has quickly grown to LOVE it." James Gonzalez

KSB thanks volunteers

Dear Editor:

Keep Salado Beautiful would like to thank ALL of the many people that came out on Sept. 17 to participate in the Village Fall Cleanup. We had over 60 people working all over town, and if you include the Adopt-A-Spot and Pocket Garden sponsors, well over 100 people will have been involved in making our downtown core more beautiful this fall. We had Scouts, Lions, Rotarians, Brewers, newcomers, al-

Presidential politics, CEO pay

By SARAH ANDERSON

Politicians love to beat up on overpaid CEOs.

In the wake of the 2008 financial crash, Republican presidential candidate John McCain lashed out at executives of bailed-out banks, calling for their pay to be cut to the salary level of the President of the United States, $400,000 a year.

President Barack Obama has been even tougher, once telling CBS's "60 Minutes" that he "did not run for office to be helping out a bunch of fat cat bankers on Wall Street."

This election season, Donald Trump said huge CEO paychecks were a "joke" and a "disgrace" -- the result of company boards stacked with cronies.

For her part, Hillary Clinton has said it "just doesn't make sense" that big company CEOs make 300 times more than workers, especially when the gaps in other countries are so much narrower.

Clearly, the outrage over out-of-control CEO pay runs across the political spectrum. What else do these leading politicians have in common? A lack of effective solutions.

Since losing his presidential race, Sen. McCain hasn't supported any tough CEO pay reforms. Trump, for all his bluster about the problem, hasn't put forward any solutions either.

Obama did support several executive pay reforms that were included in the 2010 Dodd-Frank financial reform bill. Some of these have been implemented, including "say on pay," which gives shareholders a vote on executive pay packages. But the impact is limited because the votes aren't binding on corporate managers.

The Dodd-Frank law also includes an important new rule that'll require companies to report the ratio between CEO and median worker pay, starting in 2018. But the Obama administration hasn't supported proposals to put real teeth in this reform by linking it to tax and procurement policies.

If companies with low pay gaps were rewarded with lower tax rates or preferential treatment in government contracting, we'd see some real change. And one of the most important Dodd-Frank provisions, a ban on Wall Street bonuses that encourage inappropriate risk, still hasn't been implemented. In fact, thanks to a perverse loophole in the tax code, taxpayers are actually subsidizing these bonuses.

The creator of this loophole is another presidential candidate who talked tough about CEO pay on the campaign trail: Bill Clinton.

In 1993, he pushed Congress to cap the deductibility of pay at $1 million. Companies could still pay their CEOs as much as they liked, but anything above $1 million wouldn't be deductible. It was a good plan -- until Clinton agreed to insert a huge loophole for so-called "performance-based" pay.

This meant that the more companies doled out in stock options and other bonuses, the less they paid in taxes. The loophole applies to all companies, but it's been particularly problematic in the financial industry.

A report I co-authored for the Institute for Policy Studies found that the Museum, college park to merge

The Boards of Directors of the Central Texas Area Museum (CTAM) and the Robertson Colony-Salado College Foundation, Inc. announce the merger of these major historical organizations. The two groups have joined together to form the new Salado Museum and College Park, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. The mission of the newly formed organization is to promote and preserve the pioneer history of Salado through educational programs and the exhibition of artifacts, books and papers that document the settlement and heritage of this area.

"An ongoing renewal program to renovate and revamp the historic 100-year-old stone museum building and its exhibits is currently underway," says Sterling Ambrose, the museum founder's grandson and CTAM board member. "This exciting renewal program is being funded through private donations by members of both existing organizations who believe in the future of the new Museum and Park and the value of its success to Salado residents and visitors."

The newly-formed Salado Museum and College Park organization becomes operational in January 2017. Members of the two existing groups are working together on museum and park projects during the transition period. The new organization will focus on the preservation and promotion of Salado history, the care and development of College Hill Park, and the maintenance and growth of the museum and its programs. "We are very excited to bring these two organizations together to create a beautiful and vibrant complex that showcases the rich history of Salado," says Robertson Colony-Salado College Foundation president Bill Kinnison. "We hope the people of Salado will join us in our mission by supporting the new Museum and Park through our annual fundraising campaign, donor programs, or with any financial or gifts-

Central Texas Area Museum and Salado College Hill Park will merge into one organization to be named Salado Museum and College Park.

in-kind they can share."

The Central Texas Area Museum was established in 1959 to preserve the pioneer history of Central Texas and its colorful cultural diversity. The Robertson Colony-Salado College Foundation was established in 1973 to beautify, maintain and protect the site of Salado College built in 1860. The Museum is located on South Main Street across from the historic Stagecoach Inn. College Park is just south of the museum.

For more information on how to support the museum and park, go to (www.saladoscottishfestival.com) or call the museum at 254-947-5232. Current museum hours are Wednesday and Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Fridays and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

top 20 U.S. banks paid out more than $2 billion in fully deductible performance bonuses to their top five executives over the past four years. This translates into a taxpayer subsidy of $1.7 million, per executive, per year.

Beyond the lost revenue, this loophole also perpetuates the reckless Wall Street bonus culture that caused the financial crash in the first place.

If elected president, Hillary Clinton would have an opportunity to correct her husband's policy mistake. So far, though, she's only said she wants to "reform" this loophole, without explicitly calling for its closure.

If our leaders want to be taken seriously when they rant about runaway CEO pay, they need to embrace solutions that'll have a real impact — rather than just spewing rhetoric to score populist political points.

Auxiliary members prepare baked items to be sold at Christmas in October

Bakers needed for Christmas in October Fundraiser

Attention! Bakers needed! Get your favorite recipes ready and start baking for the annual Christmas in October Bake Sale.

Fourth Friday Gospel Singing Sept. 23

First Cedar Valley Baptist Church invites you to its monthly Fourth Friday "Gospel Singing" on Sept. 23 at the church located at 12237 FM 2843, eight miles southwest of Salado.

Singing will start around 7 p.m. with a potluck supper following the singing. There may be musical instruments to accompany the singers.

The bake sale is always a popular part of Christmas in October, an event sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Ladies Auxiliary. The Village ladies (and sometimes men) bake pies, cakes, cookies, fudge, brownies and other delectable treats for the bake sale. Gluten free and sugar free items are increasingly popular. Each year the bake sale is successful by selling out of goods before the end of the Christmas in October event. Profits from the bake sale are dedicated to community grants and high school scholarships.

Christmas in October Bake Sale Co-Chairs, Maurine Nathanson and Dorothy Dentry, want "Village Bakers" to know that containers for baked goods are currently available at the Visitor Center. Baked goods can be delivered to The Venue, 8 am - 5 p.m., on Oct. 6 or 7. So gather your favorite recipes, assemble the ingredients, and let the baking begin!

Community bible study to hold introduction session on Isaiah

The Temple-Belton Community Bible Study (CBS) adult evening class is registering members for the fall/spring 30-week interdenominational Bible Study of Isaiah. The class meets Mondays from 7:30-9 p.m. in the small sanctuary of First Baptist Church of Belton, at Sixth and Main Streets, Belton. An introductory class will be held for anyone interested in learning more about Community Bible Study. Individuals may choose to participate in core groups for men, women, or married couples.

Each week participants receive a reading commentary on the previous week's topic and a set of questions to work on each day covering the next week's reading. These questions are discussed in small groups of about fifteen. Following the small groups there is a short teaching over the same section of Scripture. The class will break for Christmas and spring vacations and finish at the first of May, 2017. For additional information, contact the class coordinator at (254) 773-1842.

Salado ISD seeking mentors for students

The Salado Mentor Program is in need of both men and women to be mentors to 4th-8th grade Salado students. They have an immediate need to match five boys to male mentors. Mentors have the potential to change a child's life for the better in as few as two hours a month. Studies show that children who have an adult to mentor them are far less likely to get involved with drugs, alcohol and more likely to stay in school. If you would like to be involved in something that can make a real difference in a child's life, email Burt Smith at burt.smith@saladoisd.org or visit the website http://www.saladoisd.org/241227_4 for the application and background check form.

Shooter Jennings coming to Johnny's Outback

When you hear about the son of two country music legends, the product seems inevitable...

But what you get from Shooter Jennings is a little bit of that, and a whole lot of what you didn't realize.

A musician, song writer, producer, and video game creator, Jennings has released eight studio albums, two live records, and has produced and released various projects courtesy of his own record label Black Country Rock. Jennings' career hasn't ever stuck to one format, and you can find him all over the map when it comes to where he is at in the game.

This week, you can find him at Johnny's Outback, where he will perform on Sept. 24. Tickets are $15 in advance at johnnyssteak-sandbbq.com or $20 at the door. Gates open at 6 p.m. for the show.

His latest album, released in 2016, Countach (For Giorgio), came in at #7 on the US Dance/Electronic charts, and was Jennings' ode to electronic music innovator and songwriter, Giorgio Moroder. The album features songs with various artists including Marilyn Manson, Brandi Carlile, and Steve Young.

Shooter Jennings

With his 2005 debut solo record, Put The O Back In Country, Jennings enlisted Dave Cobb as producer (who remained producer on his first four solo records) and the album included southern rock tracks "4th Of July" and "Steady At The Wheel". The record debuted at #22 on the US Country chart.

Fast forward to 2010, and you'll find Jennings releasing Black Ribbons, a heavy, psychedelic country-rock concept album that included narration from Stephen King as the album's character Will O' The Wisp. At the time, the album was a left turn for Jennings, but created a new path for fans of all genres, and somewhat of a cult-following of the record. Black Ribbons will be re-released on Nov. 8 (Election Day) as an "Ultimate Edition"

While some stay in the safe-place of their genres, Jennings continues to place himself where he wants to be, and creates exactly what he feels is needed for the time. Music.

Discography: (Studio Albums): Put The O Back In Country (2005) - #22 on US Country; Electric Rodeo (2006) - #12 on US Country; The Wolf (2007) - #12 on US Country; Black Ribbons (2010) - #16 on US Indie; Family Man (2012) - #10 on US Country; The Other Life (2013) - #19 on US Country; Don't Wait Up (For George) EP - (2014) #23 on US Country; Countach (For Giorgio) (2016) - #7 on US Dance/Electronic.

Eagles rock Florence 38-8

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado Eagles rocked the Florence Buffaloes for 22 points in the third quarter, including two touchdowns within seconds of each other tonight, as the Eagles improved to 2-2 on the season.

The Eagles haven't seen a 2-2 start since Jeff Cheatham was head coach.

With each week, the Salado offense eliminates more and more of the costly penalties and fumble that marked their first two losses.

This week, Salado put the ball on the ground twice, losing both fumbles and the Eagles were called for 55 yards in penalties on eight flags.

If the Eagles continue to cut down on the mental mistakes, they will have a head full of steam going into a completely new district in October.

The defense was also remarkable, allowing just 177 yards and 10 first downs.

Let's revisit the third quarter.

Cutter Hudgens returned the second half kick off 19 yards to the Salado 41 yard line as the Eagles had a 13-0 halftime lead already established.

On the first play from scrimmage, the Eagles, who have been a run-heavy team thus far, took to the air. Hayden Haire found a wide open Aaron Torczynski, hitting him in stride 20 yards down the middle of the field. Torczynski never looked back taking the pass for a 59 yard touchdown less than 30 seconds into the second half. Jake Walrath kicked the PAT for a 20-0 lead.

Wyatt Bagley, on the ensuing kickoff, fell on a fumble by Braxton Carlile at the Florence 32.

Haire hit Jake Harvey in stride at about the same spot from scrimmage that he had connected with Torczynski earlier. Harvey high-stepped it into the end zone for another touchdown before a minute had gone off the game clock. Trey Sheppard bulled his way in for a two-point conversion and a 28-0 lead.

The Eagles forced Florence to a three-and-out series and Hudgens returned the punt 40 yards to give Salado the ball at the Florence 28 yard. Workhorse Sheppard pounded the ball on hand off after hand off to give Salado a first and goal at the six. A flag for false start moved the ball back before Cade DePoy took the ball twice in a row, scoring on a six yard run with 7:09 left in the third. Walrath kicked the extra point for a 35-0 lead.

Edel Hernandez scored the only touchdown for Florence with 4:20 left in the third, running for 10 yards on a third down attempt.

With 4:42 left in the game, Walrath kicked a 24-yard field goal for the final score of the game, 38-8.

Sheppard, who carried the ball 22 times for 151 yards, scored on a 14 yard run on a fourth and two to put the first points on the board. Walrath added the extra point for a 7-0 lead two minutes into the second quarter.

Zach Adams, Ashton Sniggs, and Chase Kunz tackled Hernandez for a three yard loss on a fourth down and six for the Buffaloes, to give Salado the ball at the Buffs' 36 yard line.

On a third and 12, Haire threw the ball over the middle to Hudgens for a 66 yard touchdown. The PAT failed, giving Salado a 13-0 lead that the Eagles took to the lockers.

Salado ninth graders beat the Taylor 9th grade team 30-0 on Sept. 15.

The Eagles scored two touchdowns in the first period. Josh Gonzalez scored on a seven yard run, but the PAT failed. Jacob Markham intercepted a Taylor pass and returned it 19 yards for a touchdown. Gonzalez ran in the point-after for a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Karsen Trice had a 49 yard touchdown run in the second quarter, capped by a point-after run by Hunter Pannrell for a 22-0 lead.

In the third quarter, Markham caught a 12 yard touchdown pass from Caleb Self. CGonzalez added two points for the final score of 30-0.

Trice and Gonzalez ran very effectively for the Eagles, according to Coach Scott Ringo.

Markham and Pannell led the defense.

The ninth graders are 2-1 on the year and play Leander Glenn Sept. 22 on the road.

Golf tourney benefits FCA

The Heart of Texas Fellowship of Christian Athletes will be hosting its 17th annual Grant Teaff Golf Tournament Sept. 26 at Ridgewood Country Club. This year's presenting sponsor is Baylor University. A full field of 100 golfers will participate in helping to raise funds to fuel the FCA's ministry to "coaches, athletes, and all whom they influence" in the Heart of Texas area.

Coach Grant Teaff started this tournament with the hope of bringing a full time FCA staff presence to the Heart of Texas area. An area he calls home and experienced great coaching success at Baylor University. With the success of this tournament, his hope has become a reality as now 6 staff and countless volunteers serve nearly 200 middle school, high school and college campuses in a 12 county area.

Once again Coach Teaff will be front and center to welcome and thank tournament players and sponsors. The tournament is scheduled for a shotgun start at 12:45pm and will be preceded by a lunch served at 11:30.

The Burton Lawless College Scholarship sponsored by Fuddrucker's will be presented to one male and female recipient during the lunch. Burton is a faithful Leadership Board member for our area and a Super Bowl champion from the Dallas Cowboys. The award is based on the recipient's involvement in FCA, leadership, and recommendation from their huddle coach.

The Salado Spirit U15 girls have been wearing these bands in support of their Coach Rob Pffingsten's, best friend, Shawn Godfrey who has stage four cancer. The bands say Praying for Shawn. Since the girls are not allowed to wear them on their arms during the game, they are wearing the bands on their soccer cleats. The girls lost to last year's state champions Lampasas 3-0 on Sept. 17. The girls will face Lampasas again later this fall. Nohemi Perez was the player of the game. Madisyn Madduz is shown at right kicking the ball down the field. "The girls fought hard and can't wait to play them again in October," Coach Rob Pffingsten said.

The Secret Garden of Shirley and Bill Pinkston

BY MARGARET B. WILLIAMSON

A stone-lined path leads up into this secret garden.

This is one of my all-time favorite gardens in Salado and many people have written about it and enjoyed the opportunity to visit. The secluded garden and home is nestled between a natural area with a seasonal creek and a steep hill terraced with Texas limestone and native plantings.

Native trees block the view from the road and as one steps across the bridge over the ravine you get transported to a garden that embraces the natural vegetation instead of competing with it. A sense of serenity settles in as the secret garden unfolds.

Potted clevia, common names are Natal lily or bush lily, from the same family as amaryllis line the upper walkway. These are an elegant foliage plant, even when not in bloom but in the springtime, the flowers are showy with the primary color being orange but in this garden, there are some highly prized yellow-flowered plants that are rare.

This garden was designed as a formal garden to blend with the natural setting and as you reach the front of the home with its wonderful open porch that overlooks the wet weather ravine naturalized with seasonably blooming and evergreen Texas natives a stone lined path leads both right and left. If you are lucky, sometimes you are greeted by their friendly standard poodle, Trey at the top of the stairs. The ravine is bordered with dwarf yaupon and an abundance of native plants such as trailing gold lantana, holly fern, Turks cap, bird of paradise, lambs ear, tropical sage, rosemary, butterfly weed, obedient plant, variegated vinca minor (great for lightening up a shady area in the garden), rock rose, spirea, ajuga, and a host of trees including Texas mountain laurel, Mexican buckeye, a peach and Buford pear that bloom in the spring. Foundation plantings are a combination of giant liriopse, loropetalum (fringe flower) with a cross vine on one side. Bill is an avid bird watcher and thrilled when the family of screech owls return each winter to raise a new family.

Following the pathway to the back yard one experiences the amazing space of the yard consisting of around one and one-half acres. The back portion of the yard has a stacked limestone wall with native plantings hanging over the top with trailing purple, white and yellow lantana and Mexican petunia interspersed within the cracks of the stone and in the flower beds. There is a bed of iris, a 'Martha Gonzales' rose, Mexican sage, Mexican honeysuckle, purple cone flowers, Texas sage and Jerusalem sage - just a sampling of the variety of plantings.

When I am in this garden, I am reminded of a lovely quote : "And the secret garden bloomed and bloomed and every morning revealed new miracles." Frances Hodgson Burnett, The Secret Garden

The garden tour will be 10 a.m. - 4 p.m., Oct. 8.

Other private home gardens with a wide variety of inspiring landscaping styles are the yards and gardens of Linda and Mickey Rawls, Nancy and Owen Messenger, C.R. and Joyce Pennington and Alice and George Romfh.

Tickets for the tour are $15 and can be purchased online at www.keepsaladobeautiful.com or at the Chamber of Commerce located at 813 N. Main Street.

All proceeds from the tour will go toward future improvement of the Salado Sculpture Garden. For more information, visit the website at keepsaladobeautiful.com. Previous articles and photos of the gardens can be found on the Salado Village Voice website: www.saladovillagevoice.com

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Assume South is declarer at six hearts and West leads the queen of diamonds. How should he play the hand?

The actual declarer won the diamond lead with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the A-K of spades and ruffed a spade. He then cashed the king of diamonds, led a trump to the king and ruffed dummy's last spade. South now exited with the nine of diamonds, hoping West would have to win the trick and return a club. This method of play might well have succeeded, but unfortunately West had very shrewdly disposed of his jack of diamonds on the second diamond lead. As a result, East won the nine with the ten and returned a club, and declarer went down one.

South's plan was good, but not good enough. He pursued the right idea in stripping the dummy of spades so that he could later try to put West on lead with a diamond and thus avoid a club finesse. His execution, though, left something to be desired. South gave the show away when he started ruffing dummy's spades. He made it too easy for West to see that an endplay was in the offing if he retained the jack of diamonds. The best play is to win the opening diamond lead with the king and cash the ace at trick two. West would have to be extremely farsighted to play his jack at this point, and if he makes the normal play of the four at trick two, declarer winds up making the slam as described above. As in many similar hands, the key play by declarer should be made before the opponents have any notion of what is going on. In the actual case, it would be almost impossible for West to know at trick two that the critical point of the play had already been reached.

Texas Spiny Lizard

Texas Spiny Lizards love fence posts

Many adults that spent much time outdoors as a kid have fond memories of the backyard wildlife that they would come in contact with. Before the electronic entertainment age in which we now live, many a young person would spend his or her summer days collecting bugs and various other "critters", only for his or her parents to find them in the pockets of his or her bluejeans. Many times, one of the most common creatures collected by the young naturalists were a species that calls central Texas its home, and that is the Texas Spiny Lizard.

The Texas Spiny Lizard (Sceloporus olivaceus) is one variety of the seven species of spiny lizards that reside here in Texas, and it is undeniably the variety that is encountered the most frequently by man. It ranges from extreme southern Oklahoma southward through the Tamaulipan thornscrub of central Tamaulipas, westward to central Coahuila and northward to the caprock areas of the Texas Panhandle.

This lacertilian variety are often called "tree-lizards" or "fence-lizards" by those who are lucky enough to witness them, and for good reason. Texas Spiny Lizards are highly arboreal, spending much of their time above the ground in Oak, Pecan, or Mesquite trees. Wooden fenceposts are also a favorite, although they will occasionally be seen while foraging on the ground. But at the first hint of danger from a perceived predator they will dash for the nearest tree and rapidly ascend the trunk, typically on the opposite side of whatever has frightened them.

Wild About Texas

The Texas Spiny Lizard is one of the larger members of its genus, with adult males frequently achieving lengths of nearly eleven inches. The background coloration of this reptile ranges from gray to tan to dark brown. The dorsal region is marked with nine black wavy bars from behind the neck to just above the vent. There are two distinctive and light colored lines that run along the body mid-dorsally. Occasional specimens will have a patch of rusty-red that encompasses the first three or four black bars in between the two dorsal lines. It can be quite intricately patterned, and this combination of colors and pattern assist with the camouflaging of the lizard while on its arboreal perches.

The belly is usually cream-colored and males have two blue patches on either side of their belly. The tail is quite long, and like other members of its genus, can be utilized as a defensive strategy. If the tail is grabbed by a predator it is easily severed from the lizard. This defensive move is known as autotomy. This is where the tail comes off rather easily, and while the potential predator is pre-occupied with the still moving tail, the lizard can crawl away to safety. Over time, the lizard will regenerate a new tail, although this new one is never as long or as colorful as the original.

Texas Spiny Lizards, like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that they do not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather are dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. They are primarily active during the summer months, but can be seen occasionally during the winter months on warm days when temperatures achieve a level that allows activity.

This species of lizard is strictly carnivorous, feeding on small invertebrates such as grasshoppers, wasps, and beetles. They are also egg-layers, and after mating, the female will lay a clutch of up to twenty eggs. These eggs are laid in a nest that the mother will dig out in areas of adequate humidity. After approximately sixty days of isolated incubation, the delicate two inch long young emerge prepared to fend for and care for themselves. Many females can lay up to four clutches of eggs in a summer.

Texas Spiny Lizards can be quite numerous within the boundaries of their natural range, and many are seen in backyards and residential parks. They tend to thrive in these areas, cohabitating with mankind as humans plant arboreal habitats for these lizards to flourish in. They are completely harmless, and are quite beneficial in the control of invertebrate pests in the yard.
