Village may act on sewer, Sanctuary

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen will vote March 19 on actions concerning the proposed Sanctuary development and on terms and on actions concerning the terms and conditions related to the Salado Wastewater Treatment system. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

While the two items are separate discussion items on the official agenda, they have been closely related since the Sanctuary Development Corporation announced its plans last fall for the 300-acre multi-use development sitting outside of the southern limits of the Village.

Both sides have been quiet about the closed-door negotiations.

"We laid out our side of things with the Village and their legal team last month," stated Madison Inselmann, development directory for The Sanctuary, in response to an email enquiry from Salado Village Voice. "Per their process it has to be discussed in committee and then the decision on moving forward shared with us. Once we know their side then we know how we move forward."

Earlier this year, Mayor Skip Blancett appointed committees related to the negotiations between the Village of Salado and the Sanctuary Development, as well as preliminary negotiations with developers that put much of the Robertson Ranch property in the southwestern ETJ of Salado under contract. Those committees included sewer and infrastructure, development agreements and annexation.

Since then, the contract on the Robertson Ranch has fallen through, according to Mayor Blancett.

Blancett also announced earlier this month that the Village was interested in acquiring up to 10 acres of property within or outside of the city limits for placement of a central sewer system.

The Village, city manager Kim Foutz told Salado Village this week, has been meeting with other large property owners in the area in addition to the Robertson Ranch group and The Sanctuary Development.

She said that the Village is investigating partnering with "a WCID or another city or another district of some kind." She added that all alternatives to providing the best system for Salado remain on the table.

The Village examined a handful of those alternatives in 2011 through a Wastewater Feasibility study contracted by Kasberg, Patrick and Associates Engineering (KPA). Those alternatives included building a stand-alone sewer system owned wholly by the Village, connecting to an existing sewer system to the north or to the south or partnering with a developer for service.

Some of these alternatives may be revisited by Salado in the coming weeks due to recent changes.

In February, the City of Belton approved a $26 million, five-year water and sewer improvement plan earlier this year that includes $5 million to install sewer and water lines along I-35 from the Loop 121 intersection to the Lampasas River bridge.

Foutz said that the Village would continue to utilize KPA in evaluating the options that are available.

All of the options, Foutz said, will include the demolition of the Stagecoach plant. A grinding and lift station would be put in that area instead.

Once the Village settles on an option, or combination of options, the process of designing and ultimately building the delivery system and/or wastewater plant will begin.

Aldermen have set a town hall meeting for noon-1 p.m. March 27 at the Municipal Building to "create a Vision for Main Street." The Village of Salado, in partnership with the Texas Target Communities program at A&M University, is holding a Community Meeting to gather feedback that will direct future Main St. design, improvement projects, and priorities. All residents and business owners are invited.

King and Queen of the Hill

The first male and female to reach the top of Eagles Nest Hill will be crowned the King and Queen of the Hill during the annual Smokin' Spokes March 28 in Salado. Local residents are asked to keep their dogs penned along the route so that they will not chase or harass cyclists. For information about routes and registration, visit saladospokes.com.

Hundreds of cyclists on streets for ride

Hundreds of cyclists will take to the rural and city streets of Salado on March 28 and the Salado Volunteer Fire Department asks that you look out for the safety of these riders as they come from around the state to Salado.

Besides looking out for the bike riders themselves, participants ask that you pen up dogs.

One local participant told me that every year on the rural roads of the route he has to be aware of loose dogs chasing him. "I plan on bringing pepper spray this year," he said.

But he wouldn't have to if property owners would pen up their dogs for the one-day event. Dog owners in the Village of Salado are reminded that there is a leash law in Salado and that animals should be fenced or kept on a leash.

Senate passes e-cigarette restrictions, alternate path to high school graduation

By RICHARD LEE
LEGISLATIVE TECH
SENATE MEDIA SERVICES

(Austin) This week marks the first week after the constitutional 60 day ban on passing legislation, and the Senate passed its first non-emergency bills of the session March 17. In addition to a final vote on the contentious open carry bill, the Senate approved nine others. Among those were a bill to ban the sale of e-cigarettes to minors and another to offer an alternative way to graduation for students that fail a high-stakes test.

Senate Bill 149, by Amarillo Senator Kel Seliger, would create a mechanism by which high school seniors who have passed all coursework and met all graduation requirements except passing one or two end-of-course assessment exams could still graduate on time. Seliger said that many students who are ready to move on could be stuck in high school in May. "Absent legislative action, up to 28,000 high school seniors will not graduate simply because they cannot pass a high stakes exam," he said. SB 149 would permit the creation of individual graduation committees, comprised of school administrators, teachers, counselors and parents or guardians, that would meet and determine if a student who has met all other requirements besides passing one or two STA-AR exams can graduate. The committee's decision must be unanimous. The bill was amended to add data reporting requirements so the state can see how many students graduate each year in this manner, and a two-year sunset provision in the bill means the Legislature will revisit the issue again next session.

The Senate also approved Tuesday a ban on sales of e-cigarettes to minors. These devices which vaporize a liquid containing nicotine which is then inhaled are gaining in popularity on school campuses, said bill author Senator Juan "Chuy" Hinojosa of McAllen. "I call them training devices," he added, warning that kids hooked on nicotine vapor will go on to smoke tobacco cigarettes as adults. Under SB 97, the penalties for violating this rule would be the same as for other tobacco products; vendors could face fines up to $500 for selling e-cigarettes to minors. People under 18 would also be banned from possessing or using the devices. Both this bill and SB 149 now head to the House for consideration.

In committee action Tuesday, the Senate Finance Committee approved two measures that supporters say will equal billions in property tax cuts for Texas homeowners. SB 1 and SJR1, by Committee Chair Jane Nelson, would increase the homestead exemption from the current $15,000 to 25 percent of the median home price in Texas. That is an estimated $33,625 in 2016 and $35,975 in 2017. Because the law would require amending the state constitution, voters would get to decide the issue on the November ballot.

The bill was amended by its author to include a provision that exempts the two measures from the constitutional restriction on spending growth. Nelson has filed a package of legislation to exempt all tax cuts or debt relief spending from the cap, but the amendment added Tuesday would mean that even if that legislation doesn't pass, the money needed to reduce property taxes, estimated by the Office of the Comptroller at $2.1 billion, wouldn't count against the cap in this biennial budget.

The committee also approved measures to cut franchise taxes by $2 billion in the form of Senate Bills 7 and 8. SB 7 would reduce the franchise tax rate and SB 8 would exempt businesses that make less than $4 million in annual revenue from the levy. All bills now head to the full Senate for consideration.

Historian to discuss importance of baseball

The annual Wilmer Memorial Lecture will have a different twist this year as it focuses on the sport of baseball. Historian and baseball expert, Talmadge Boston, will speak about the nature and power of baseball at the 18th annual Wilmer Lecture on March 28. The event is sponsored by the Institute for the Humanities at Salado and is free and open to the public. The program begins at 4 p.m. at the Salado Civic Center, 601 N. Main St., in Salado.

Talmadge Boston is a prominent commercial trial and appellate lawyer with the firm of Winstead PC in Dallas. He has been recognized as a Texas Monthly Super Lawyer for ten consecutive years and named one of the best lawyers in America. He is a sought-after keynote speaker, author and expert on legal matters nationwide.

However, it is his avocation, baseball, that is his passion, and has brought him additional notoriety. Boston is a baseball historian and is considered one of the country's leading experts on the game. He has also written two critically acclaimed baseball history books, 1939: Baseball's Tipping Point and Baseball and the Baby Boomer, and has been inducted into the Texas Baseball Hall of Fame as a Media Member.

He has been a Keynote Baseball Speaker at the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York, at The Great Fenway Park Writers Series in Boston, and at the St. Louis Cardinals Legends Camp, among many other events.

In May of last year, he assembled and moderated a program televised on C-SPAN entitled "Baseball & American Life," in which his panelists were United States Supreme Court Justice Samuel Alito, the Washington Post's George Will, the New York Times' David Brooks, ESPN's Tim Kurkjian, and USA Today's Christine Brennan.

He grew up in Texas and Connecticut and graduated from the University of Texas and the UT School of Law. He lives in Dallas but his central Texas connections include his mother and brother, both of Belton, and his sister, of Salado.

This is the 18th annual Wilmer Memorial Lecture which honors the two Harry Wilmer's who were instrumental in founding the Institute for the Humanities. The purpose of the Wilmer Memorial Lecture is not only to remember Harry and Hank Wilmer but also to remember others in the community who have died and to celebrate life, and spirit of humanity in the community.

This lectureship combines The Harry Wilmer II lectureship, formerly held in January, with the Harry Wilmer III (Hank) Wilmer Memorial Lecture, held in June. The Wilmer Lecture has been an annual event since 1998, following the death of Hank Wilmer (Harry Wilmer III).

The Wilmer family and the Institute for the Humanities at Salado created The Wilmer Fund to perpetuate the memory of both men and help support the organization they created. That fund supports the annual Wilmer Memorial Lecture as well as other designated lectures and events that represent the Institute's mission and the Wilmer's legacy.

Pre-registration is not necessary for this free lecture which is open to the public.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

The Return of the Clinton Scandals

The grim forced march to a Hillary Clinton coronation just got a little grimmer. The Hillary email scandal -- on top of the revelation of continuing foreign donations to the Clinton Foundation while she was secretary of state -- is a nice reminder for Democrats about what they are signing up for.

The Clinton Restoration will require routinely defending the indefensible. It will require recalibrating all legal and ethical standards to suit the personal and financial interests of the Clintons. It will require a willingness to use these phrases with a shameless abandon: "old news," "everybody does it" and "not technically illegal."

Usually the advantage of having been around national politics forever is that there are no surprises lurking in the background. But what should be the most vetted couple in the world always needs just a little more vetting.

The Clintons come from the Frank Underwood school of politics. What unites Bill's roguish charm and Hillary's relentless determination is an eye for the main chance, with adherence to the rules optional.

Hillary Clinton's self-serving email arrangement is not the worst example, but it is textbook. Pretty much anyone in government knew that if you used your private account for official business, you had to copy your government account for record-keeping purposes. But Hillary didn't even have a government account.

For this to have been an innocent oversight, we'd have to believe that Hillary -- intimately familiar with the workings of government since at least 1979, when Bill became governor of Arkansas, and with the federal government since at least 1993 -- didn't know how government email worked.

And that she happened to set up her own private email account with a server in her own house, registered under a pseudonym, in a fit of technological absent-mindedness.

As The Associated Press notes, homemade servers are inferior to professional facilities that "provide monitoring for viruses or hacking attempts, regulated temperatures, off-site backups, generators in case of power outages, fire-suppression systems and redundant communications lines."

All of these were mere details compared with the one overwhelming advantage of her own server that clearly trumped every other consideration: "impressive control over limiting access to her message archives," in the words of the AP.

Recently, Clinton turned over to the State Department 55,000 pages of emails, and now she says she wants them released. But it is her flunkies who decided what to give the department. This is transparency Clinton-style.

The defense from Clinton world has been that everyone conducts official business on private email, so what's the big deal? But her predecessor, Condoleezza Rice, and her successor, John Kerry, both managed to use government accounts.

The legal debate is now whether she merely violated the spirit of the law or actually broke it, the perpetual question with the Clintons.

If Democrats have liked what they've seen from Hillary the past couple of weeks, they should relish the prospect of the next two years, when any revelation can instantly put them back in Clinton scandal-defense mode. This is the future they are choosing, apparently without even bothering to consider an alternative with less baggage or higher standards.

The threat of ISIS is real, Mr. President!

Six years have passed and his head is still buried deep in the sand. Despite the evidence, the President is showing no signs of awakening to the deadly threat of radical Islamic extremism.

We've seen this before when the President classified Nadal Hasan's 2009 murderous jihad-inspired rampage at Fort Hood as "workplace violence." And we're seeing it now in how the President is dealing with the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS).

How can the President not see that the threat of ISIS is not just verbal saber-rattling from the mouths of fanatics? ISIS is an Islamic extremist group, committed to returning civilization to the seventh century and bringing about the apocalypse.

Their barbarism is truly horrifying. The UN reports that ISIS militants are selling abducted Iraqi children as sex slaves. Iraqi police chiefs report ISIS militants burned 45 people to death in al-Baghdadi. ISIS released a terrifying video showing a captured Jordanian pilot standing in a cage, doused with gasoline, and set on fire. Just last month, ISIS issued another video showing the beheading of 21 captured Egyptians, all Coptic Christians that ISIS refers to as "people of the cross."

He tells us our response will not entail U.S. ground forces. He's led us to believe that 1,200 Syrian rebels will mount a counter attack against ISIS once we train them. Or that the Iraqi Army will somehow retake key terrain as early as this summer.

The President is utterly wrong. In the meantime, ISIS expands its reach and continues to brutalize the Middle East.

Several weeks ago, the President released his new National Security Strategy and submitted a request for

Capitol Comments

U.S. Representative

Unless we wake up to the very real threat ISIS poses, I fear this is only the beginning of their reign of terror. Despite international outrage, they won't stop until their demented goal of a world ruled by extreme Islam is complete.

The President argues ISIS can be defeated by providing a peaceful ideology, more economic opportunities and more tolerance. His strategy relies on collective action, selective use of force, targeted counterterrorism operations, and increasing the capacity of the United Nations and regional organizations.

He tells us our response will not entail U.S. ground forces. He's led us to believe that 1,200 Syrian rebels will mount a counter attack against ISIS once we train them. Or that the Iraqi Army will somehow retake key terrain as early as this summer.

The President is utterly wrong. In the meantime, ISIS expands its reach and continues to brutalize the Middle East.

Several weeks ago, the President released his new National Security Strategy and submitted a request for authorization to use force against ISIS. Yet, despite the photo-op pageantry of all this, he's showing just how weak and inexperienced he really is.

The President's request prevents the level of commitment necessary to assure ISIS's destruction. It prohibits enduring ground combat operations and expires after three years. He effectively tips our hand and provides ISIS with hope for outlasting the greatest military power on earth. And while this doomed strategy would play out, the American people would be at risk.

We need a real commitment of force to stop ISIS, not naive idealism. There should be absolutely no constraints on our efforts to destroy those who despise our way of life and wish for our children's destruction.

Any leader elected in the shadow of 9/11 should understand the dangers of Islamic extremism. ISIS is the great evil of the 21st century and needs to be destroyed. I hope President Obama learns that before it's too late.

There are no free lunches in Salado, (but there are "free snow cones")

They came knocking, knocking at my Chamber door. Tis some wind and nothing more. Quietly, quietly the door was opened and there stood two lovely girls.

"Is this where the Mayor lives?"

"Yes."

"Is his name Skip?"

"Yes."

"Is it Skip Blancett?"

"Yes."

"We are studying President Obama and him in school. Is he here?"

"He just arrived and is taking a shower. He will be here in the morning. Will you come back?"

"Yes."

The next morning, 9, there came a knocking at the chamber door. Tis two girls and nothing more. Quietly the door opened and there stood 4 girls.

"Yes."

"Is the Mayor here?"

"Yes, just a minute,

Mayor Skip Blancett

please would you like to come in?"

"Yes."

"Hello, ladies"

"I am honored you came by. How may I help you?"

"May we have your autograph?"

"Yes, of course. What grade are you in?"

"Second grade."

"I'm in the fourth."

"May I ask you some questions?"

"Yes."

"How can the Village help children your age?"

"Could we have free Ice cream every Saturday?"

"How would you like free snow cones?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Can school be 4 days? "Could we have longer recess periods?"

"How about a summer carnival?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Well, we have to be going now."

"Thank you for coming."

"Bye"

We do much in our community, but outside of school activities, we do little for our children. Our community demographics are changing. It is becoming younger. Children may not have money to pay bills, but they have spirit, smiles, and a fresh way of looking at the world. That is as important.

This summer, the Mayor will fulfill one wish --

Several Saturdays this summer, he will serve free snow cones.

Our children deserve our best efforts. We can all do something.

Health Care Under Fire

The Supreme Court is riddling the Affordable Care Act with potshots.

Look out, the Supreme Court's black-robed gang of far-right ideologues is rampaging again.

The Supreme clan is firing potshots at the Affordable Care Act. Caught in the crossfire is the court's own integrity, along with the health of millions of innocent bystanders.

In an attempt to override the law, these so-called "justices" have jumped on a wagonload of legalistic bovine excrement called King v. Burwell.

This case is a very rickety legal vehicle. It sprang from a frivolous lawsuit financed by the Competitive Enterprise Institute, a front group for oligarchs like the Koch brothers, Big Oil, Big Tobacco, and Big Pharma.

The chairman of the group bluntly described the suit as a raw political assault on Obamacare: "This bastard has to be killed as a matter of political hygiene," he howled. "I do not care how this is done, whether it's dismembered, whether we drive a stake through its heart," or "whether we strangle it."

So much for the lawsuit's intellectual depth. The lawyers on this case fabricated it on a nitpicking interpretation of only four words in Affordable Care Act's 906 pages of text.

They claim that now widespread health insurance subsidies constitute an illegal, backdoor bribe to "force" every state to allow people access to a federal benefit they otherwise couldn't afford. They want to eliminate federal health subsidies to people who live in states that have refused to set up their own exchanges.

The lower courts rejected that right-wing tommyrot. Nonetheless, the gang of Supremes grabbed the case as a chance to wreak their own brand of ideological havoc on a law some of them personally dislike.

By taking this case, these Republican judges have openly become partisans, thrusting the Supreme Court itself into the forefront of the GOP's war on making health care more widely available -- and against Obama himself.

Next disaster government prevents with openness may be its own

By JOHN HUGHES
PRESIDENT,
THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB
AND
DAVID CUILIER
CHAIR, FREEDOM OF INFORMATION
COMMITTEE, SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL JOURNALISTS

Last year, federal officials made a startling discovery in a storage room overseen by the Food and Drug Administration at the National Institutes of Health campus in Bethesda, Md. As reported by The Washington Post, the discovery included long-forgotten samples of smallpox along with boxes and vials of other pathogens, including the virus behind the tropical disease dengue.

Close to the same time, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention admitted it had had a number of incidents in recent years in which its staff mishandled live anthrax and other deadly pathogens.

Karen Midthun, director of FDA's Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research, said FDA would work to ensure the problem did not happen again. Thomas Frieden, director of the CDC, said he would improve agency safety culture, put stronger oversight in place and encourage workers to report incidents that happen, according to the Post.

In the spirit of Sunshine Week, we hope both agencies take an additional step: Encourage their staff to talk openly with the news media.

Staff members at CDC and FDA should not only be open about wrongdoing and safety breaches. They should discuss the research they are conducting and facts they are learning as they go about their work on behalf of the American people. If the agencies had this approach in place before last year, the discovery of the mishandled pathogens might have been made public sooner than it was. The agencies might have been quicker to respond.

A lack of openness pervades many federal agencies and goes far beyond Washington into state and local governments. When information is shared, unfortunately, it is all too often being done in a limited or selective manner.

Many federal agencies bar staff from communicating with news media representatives unless a public information officer is informed and monitors the conversation. This approach is understandable from the perspective of an agency that wants to ensure staff communication is consistent with agency policy. However, the approach discourages or even prevents staff members from speaking frankly and openly about a subject. Workers fear that the boss might not like what they have to say.

Federal staff members often fail to appear at a public gathering, particularly one that is important, unless a public relations official is with them. Staff members sometimes take on a look of panic when they are approached by a reporter at a public meeting.

When reporters do connect with government staff, it too frequently is because they went through a lengthy vetting process with the PR office. Delays in getting an interview can be so long, the eventual conversation may be too late to be used for a story.

A 2013 survey sponsored by the National Association of Government Communicators and the Society of Professional Journalists found that 40 percent of public-information officers admitted to blocking reporters because of "problems" with those journalists' previous stories. A 2012 survey by SPJ found that 70 percent of reporters who cover federal agencies consider such controls to be overt censorship.

John Donnelly, chairman of the National Press Club's Press Freedom Committee, noted earlier this year that the Pentagon has barred reporters from embedding on military missions against Islamic State targets, and that the Defense Department is restricting access to information about conditions at its prison in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

"In the United States," Donnelly wrote, "reporters do not face physical threats so much as an expanding set of insidious, bureaucratic efforts to stymie journalists."

Limits on reporters' direct contact with agency staff may seem positive at first glance from the agency perspective. Potential stories agency leaders view as negative may seem to have been blocked. But in fact, because disclosure is delayed, problems with in agencies may linger for a longer period and eventually spiral into larger public embarrassments. Indeed, a lack of free reporting may even conceal trouble from agency leadership and the Presidential administration itself.

How many past government scandals benefited from a delay in disclosing them or talking about them? We can't think of any.

Since the nation's founding, free speech has been crucial to a well-functioning democracy. An important part of free speech is the ability of employees of the government, as well as other entities funded by taxpayers, to tell the public through the press what's going on. When leaders block that avenue, they hurt democracy and potentially let problems fester.

Journalists, elected officials, public employees and taxpayers must insist on reversing these controls on information. It is, after all, Sunshine Week.

Reach out to a journalist. Be helpful. Take speech restrictions off employees. Your public — your democracy — will thank you.

Local Collections on Display at Temple's Railroad & Heritage Museum

This spring, Temple's Railroad and Heritage Museum unveils a new exhibit showcasing several private collections from local Temple residents. Temple Collects, on display March 17 – May 23, will feature items from nine different collectors within the Temple area. The collections cross a wide assortment of topics, from antique radios to science fiction.

"We are highlighting some amazing collections in this exhibit and aimed to get a range of items that will appeal to just about everyone," said Museum Director, Stephanie Long. "Many of these collectors have been gathering items for years, but have never had the chance to show them off to the public."

The exhibit will feature collections on loan from the following residents:

Dinah Rawls - A third generation pharmacist, her antique pharmaceutical collection ranges from the classic mortar and pestle sets, to cod liver oil bottles, salesman samples, and syphilis testing kits.

Aubrey Brickhouse - Collector of console and tabletop antique radios from the 1930s and 40s.

Steve Wooley - Collector of promotional advertising items. Items on loan include several vintage items given out by Central Texas businesses.

Michael Hudgins - Collector of resin figures that he models and paints. He will be displaying artwork relating to classic and current movies.

Sharon and Thomas Hughes - Collectors of Niagara Falls memorabilia. Items on loan for the exhibit include an assortment of images and collectibles featuring the falls and area attractions.

JC Fisher, Bradley Linda, and Brian Schenk - Railroad collectors whose items range from objects used by railroad employees such as pocket watches and lanterns, to toy trains and locomotive-shaped teapots.

The exhibit also showcases a private collection that was donated to the museum by Durward Howard, longtime director of the Temple High School Band. He and his wife Jean donated their collection of photos, scrapbooks, recordings, uniforms, and band items to the museum in 2001.

"The Howards donated a wonderful collection that we usually do not get to display here at the museum," said Museum Curator Angela McCleaf. "We thought this exhibit was a great chance to highlight a fantastic private collection that has been graciously given to us."

Temple Collects can be viewed Tue. Sat., 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. The Temple Railroad and Heritage Museum is located at 315 W. Avenue B in downtown Temple, Texas.

Mill Creek PGA Tour Pro offers golf clinic to youngsters

Mill Creek golf pro J.L. Lewis will lead a two-hour Junior Golf Clinic for children of all ages 10 a.m. to noon March 21.

The cost for this clinic is $75 per individual.

Lewis gives top-of-the-line golf instruction to adults and children.

When he began work at Mill Creek in January 2014, he told Salado Village Voice that the future of golf is in children, getting them to the course and teaching them the basics.

He has lived by that, by teaching golf clinics at various times of the year for youth and children.

Lewis is a lifetime golfer and a two-time winner on the PGA Tour and has over $8.5 million in career earnings since 1989 on the PGA and Champions Tours.

He brings a great deal of experience to Mill Creek, both as a traveling pro tour player when he represented Horseshoe Bay Resort and Golf Club for five years and as a course golf pro.

He was the assistant golf pro at Berry Creek Country Club in Georgetown, Las Vegas Country Club in Nevada and Live Oak, Yaupon & The Hills of Lakeway, a 54-hole semi-private golf resort.

He was the head golf pro and general manager of the 18 hole Forrest Creek Golf Club in Round Rock from 1990 to 1993. There, he implemented a junior golf program that grew to more than 100 participants and sold 50 events per year with 50-200 players per event. He also implemented member-related activities for the Men's and Ladies' Golf Association there.

He was Director of Golf for the Ben White Golf Center in Austin for two years, an active driving range with more than 100 players per day. He taught an average of seven lessons per day and worked to promote and instruct weekly clinics for golfers of all ages and levels. He worked with staff to develop good golf instructors.

These are some of the things he has developed at Mill Creek. He continues to hold Thursday afternoon beginner clinics for golfers of all ages.

Lewis wants to build on the momentum started by the new ownership group by fully developing a junior golf program. Lewis said that in addition to the local Salado families, the course will continue to reach out to all of the communities in the area to develop junior play. "That's where the future of golf is."

The March 21 junior clinic is the second one

Night at the Derby Gala April 25 benefits PKRC

A Night at the Derby Gala returns to Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children on April 25.

The Derby Gala evening will include traditional cuisine, racing entertainment, finish-line photos, Derby hat contests, "Run for the Roses Raffle", "Fastest 2 Minutes Auction", Grandstand Gift Bags and more thoroughbred thrills!

A Night at the Derby Gala raises funds for Variety Texas' Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children.

Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children was established in 1984 in memory of Charles Schreiner V, son of Mary Helen and Charlie Schreiner IV and grandson of Daurice and Jim Bowmer. Charles Schreiner V (also known as Baby Charlie) was born with a congenital heart defect, and after a courageous battle for almost a year, he passed away at the age of eleven months. The Bowmers started Baby Charlie's Fishing Camp and they, along with Mary Helen and Charlie, brought children and their parents from nearby Scott &

White Hospital to fish on the Lampasas River.

The fishing camp grew, and the Bowmer family expanded and started what is now Variety's Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children on 120 acres adjacent to the Lampasas River. The retreat serves over 4,000 children with chronic illnesses and special needs each year. The children participate in three programs at the retreat: Summer Camp Program, Weekend Program or Environmental Education Program.

Event Coordinator begins in April

Salado Chamber of Commerce and Tourism Bureau has hired a new Event Coordinator, Yvonne Lane, who will begin work in Salado next month.

Lane was the Grant and Community Programs Coordinator and Historical Preservation Officer for the City of Cedar Park, a position she held for almost seven years. She left it in Nov. 2012 to care for a family member.

She has most recently worked with The Austin Project on a contract basis to raise funds and improve business relations.

Lane spent two years as the staff vice president of conventions and communications for the Hospitality Financial Technology Professionals Association.

She was also the Main Street program manager for the City of Levelland, a director of special events and meetings for the Austin Apartment Association and an interim director for a regional board of the American Lung Association.

She holds a Masters of Business Administration concentrating in marketing from LeTourneau University, a bachelors degree from University of Texas at Austin.

The 13th Annual Smokin' Spokes Bike Ride benefits the SVFD. Riders will begin their journey in downtown Salado at 8 a.m. March 28. All routes will begin and end in Salado Pace Park.

As in previous years, a variety of routes will be available for riders to choose from, with each route differing in distance and overall difficulty.

Riders can pick from 15, 27, 57, 70, 85 and 102 mile rides.

Most routes will take cyclists east to the Summer's Mill area, and also west to Stillhouse Hollow Lake.

There are rest stops designated with each route. "We placed most of our rest stops at very scenic locations," said Shane Berrier, Salado Volunteer Fire Department Chief. "One is on the shore of Stillhouse Hollow Lake; one is at the Overlook Park on top of the dam to Stillhouse Hollow; and one is at Summer's Mill."

Entry fee will be $25 for pre-registration and $30 for on-site registration.

The first 300 pre-registered riders will be guaranteed a Smokin' Spokes T-Shirt. Pre-Register by March 25.

Visit the website at saladospokes.com/ to register via the internet and learn more about the race, including maps of the various routes.

On-site registration can be completed for $30.

Free food and drinks will be handed out to riders all day long at the finish line.

Lady Eagles earn first district soccer crown

After thrashing Liberty Hill 6-0 in the district finale, Salado High School Lady Eagles are District 25-4A Champions for the first time since Salado instituted a soccer program four years ago.

The win avenged an earlier loss to Liberty Hill, Salado's only loss in a 20-1 and 7-1 district run. The girls will play a warm up game at Gatesville on March 23 prior to the first round of playoffs when they will face Smithville, the fourth place team from District 26-4A.

"We came into the game knowing that need to start out strong," Ashlen LaCanne said of the win on March 13. "Teamwork pays off!"

LaCanne, a forward, led the girls with two goals and an assist.

Forward Sara Wilkerson also scored two goals for Salado. Kristin Couch, midfielder, added a goal and an assist and China Saxton, midfielder scored a goal. Outside midfielder Katey Ewton contributed an assist in the match played in Salado.

The win over rival Liberty Hill came on the hills of a 16-0 shellacking of the Jarrell Lady Cougars on March 10 in Salado.

"We played well," said Katey Ewton, "and had a lot of fun. Coach Goos has worked us hard in practice to become a team with a strong offense and defense, and I think it shows in results like this."

The results also show in Salado's top ranking in 4A soccer by the Texas Girls

Coaches Association.

Four girls scored multiple goals in the match against Jarrell: Defender Stephani Fleagle and Forward Taylor Valeriano each scored two goals and had an assist. Outside Midfielder Reagan Morreale and Forward Gema Vitolas both scored two goals in the win.

Also scoring for the Lady Eagles were these: Forward Annie Ewton, one goal and two assists; Outside Midfielder Katey Ewton and Forward Ashlen LaCanne, one goal and one assist each; Midfielders Kristin Crouch, China Saxton, Tyler Pierce and Dani Gantenbien, one goal each. Midfielder Rebecca Gonzalez had three assists while Forward Sara Wilkerson had one assist.

Salado High School band members returned from the Regional Concert and Sight-Reading contest with the Sweepstakes trophy. It is the second year in a row for the band to win sweepstakes and the sixth time in eight years for SHS to earn the award.

Back-to-back SHS Band brings home concert, sight-reading sweepstakes

On March 5, Salado High School Marching Band competed in Cameron at the UIL Music Region 8 Concert and Sight Reading contest.

For the second year in a row and for the sixth time in the last eight years, the Salado High Band has brought home a UIL sweepstakes trophy.

"Sweepstakes is a coveted award in UIL music," according to SHS Band Director Tom Bremer. "Bands that receive a superior rating in marching, concert, and sight reading receive this trophy."

The band received unanimous superior ratings (1st division) from all six judges on March 5.

"We had great rehearsals. We had a great performance. The Village of Salado should be proud of these musical ambassadors. What a great way to finish the competition year," said Bremer.

One judge wrote on the comment sheets, "You are a great example of music education in our state."

The Salado JHS Symphonic Band will compete April 29 in their UIL Concert and Sight Reading Contest in Belton.

Eagles return to soccer playoffs after win over Jarrell, loss to LH

Salado Eagles varsity soccer return to the playoffs as the third place team in District 25-4A after a win over Jarrell and a loss to Liberty Hill last week.

The boys lost to Liberty Hill 1-0 after two rounds of penalty kicks in the final home match on March 13.

"These guys have a never-say-die attitude and their hard work over the past season showed in this game against the district champion team," Coach Michael Goos said. "We held this team until the very end. I couldn't be more impressed with these boys, and I look forward to seeing what they can do in playoffs."

The Eagles will face Taylor, the second place team from District 26-4A.

Scoring penalty kicks in the extra periods were Kaden Smein, Brandon Rodriguez, Christian Martinez, Armando Castillo, Alex Carmona, Camden LaCanne and Costas Loullis.

The boys beat Jarrell 4-2 on March 10 to secure a spot in the playoffs.

Forward Brandon Rodriguez and Outside Midfielder Christian Martinez led the squad scoring two goals each.

They were given assists by Manuel Magadan, Daniel Magadan, Scout Puckett and Alex Carmona.

"We went into the game confident and ready to play," Rodriguez said of the Jarrell game.

"After scoring the first goal, assisted by Manuel, we continued to work hard," Rodriguez added. "After Jarrell evened the score we played with determination to even the win."

The Eagles finished their season with a 10-10 record and 2-4 in District 25-4A play.

Eagle Bots place 4th in 62-team regional FIRST Robotic competition

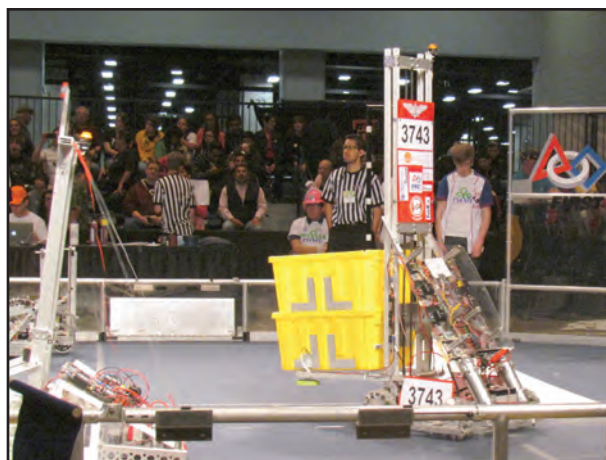

The Salado Eagle Bots (FRC Team 3743) participated in their fifth F.I.R.S.T. (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics Competition. The Eagle Bots started out in a strong first place at the beginning of the completion held on the March 12-14 at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in San Antonio and placed fourth overall out of 62 teams from high schools of all sizes.

The competition theme for this year was Recycle Rush; two alliances of three robots each compete for time to score points by stacking totes on scoring platforms, capping those stacks with recycling containers, and properly disposing of pool noodles, representing litter.

After the FRC 2015 kick off on Jan. 3, where all teams received the rules for the competition via live broadcast from the FRC mediators team members with advice from sponsors and mentors began the six week task of designing and building the robot after class and on weekends.

Salado Robotics team members are Katie McFarland, Nathaniel Sunshine, Tanner Van de Plas, Tyler Barrett, Sabrina and Lance Spakes, Zachary Moreno, Derek Wales, Sean Clement, Marc Olivares, Harrison Glaze, James Siwert and Sarah Colley.

Volunteer mentors are Robert Franks, Ed Nelson, Patti and Charles Franks, Ben Moreno, Buck McFarland, and Alberto "Beto" Rocha Morales.

Kick off Spring festival season March 28-29 in Salado

Spring marks the advent of wine festivals in Texas. Kick off the season at the oldest wine festival in Central Texas during the weekend of March 28-29, and you'll find the Village of Salado filled with folks sipping wine, browsing art and enjoying food during the Seventh Annual Texas Wine and Rogue Art Fest.

Celebrate spring by attending the biggest wine festival between Austin and Grapevine.

The Texas Wine and Rogue Art Fest is one part of the Wildflower Arts Weekend in Salado.

The Wildflower weekend includes a Pub Crawl on March 27, the Wildflower Art Show on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center on March 28-29, the Texas Wine and Rogue Art Fest on the grounds of Salado Winery on March 28-29 and the Edgy Art Show at Peddler's Alley on March 28.

One of the newer products of Glass River Design are glass faucets that complement the glass sinks, countertops and back splashes. See the display of glass artist Melissa Paxton during the Texas Wine and Rogue Art Fest, which is part of the Wildflower Arts Weekend March 27-29.

Twenty wineries and vineyards pouring all varieties of Texas wine, alongside 40 booths featuring art, delectable foods, and handmade goodies. The festival is set on the grounds of Salado Wine Seller on North Main Street.

The Texas Wine & Rogue Art Fest will feature wineries from Florence, Waco and Meridian, as well as Poteet, Burleson, Marble Falls, Dallas and Houston. With over 95 wines to sample, there is something for everyone.

Next door to the festival, St. Joseph's Episcopal Church of Salado will be holding their second Annual Art Show as well. The parishioners of St. Joseph's wanted to help promote local artists so they have assembled their own art celebration. Their art will include handcrafts such as recycled hand-painted flower pots, name jewelry and homemade goodies like coconut granola. The youth group will be selling hot dogs and lemonade.

Naturally there will be music to add to the beautiful setting at Salado Winery and Salado Wine Seller.

This year, the event has expanded with more tents, wines, music and food.

Glass River Design, a Salado-based company, will be showcasing their design work at the Seventh Annual Texas Wine & Rogue Art Fest at Salado Winery Company. The two companies have worked together before, specifically when creating the winery's beautiful glass bathroom door. The door depicts owners June Ritterbusch and Sheldon Vickers working hard in the vineyard. It was custom made after the glass panel was broken in the original antique door. They also created a glass piece of June with her vines for the winery's entryway. The winery's clientele frequently ask about these pieces.

Ritterbusch speaks highly of Paxton and her work after these experiences. "Not only is Melissa's work a great addition to the winery, but she is a pleasure to work with," says Ritterbusch.

Glass River Design started in Arizona in 1985 and moved to Salado in 2002. Owner and founder Melissa Paxton has been creating glass art for over 35 years. Each piece is handcrafted and customized. They've made glass countertops, kitchen back-splashes, glass partitions, sinks, shower doors, and glass signage, among other items.

You can see Glass River Design's work on their website at www.glassriverdesign.com, their studio in Salado, and at the Texas Wine & Rogue Art Fest March 28-29.

"I wanted to attract a different type of artist, so I named it 'Rogue' as in the artists are goin' rogue," Ritterbusch goes on to explain, "We are always searching for unusual artists and this year we have found some. These Texas wineries are rogue entrepreneurs as well, and I think all the wine and art folks are going to create a great experience."

Admission is free and $10 buys six wine tasting tickets and souvenir glass. Additional wine tasting tickets will be available.

Three Steps to Protect Your Pets

(SPM Wire) Your pet is part of the family. So when it comes to disaster preparedness, keeping pets safe should enter into the equation.

Here are three simple ways pet owners can prepare for emergencies and prevent accidents:

- The American Red Cross recommends taking a Pet First Aid Class to learn such basics as how to administer medicine, treat wounds, care for injuries and prepare for disasters. Whether you're at home or on the road, these skills can save lives.

- Depending on the type of emergency situation you're faced with, your home may become an unsafe place to stay. Evacuation plans should include ing property. Today, there are more secure ways of renting a vacation home rather than just finding an online ad. Legitimate websites exist to protect renters by providing secure payment solutions, visitor comment sections and ratings systems. However, even legitimate sites are not immune to dishonest cons.

BBB warns consumers of the following red flags when searching for a vacation rental property:

The deal sounds too good to be true. Con artists will often list a rental for a very low price to lure victims. Find out how comparable listings are priced. If the rental comes in suspiciously low, consider walking away.

The landlord is located elsewhere and prefers to communicate via email. Scammers might say they have just relocated out of the country for a job or missionary work. If the landlord is truly overseas, there is also no way to get a copy of a lease or keys.

The landlord cannot provide additional photos or information. Request more photos of the property, or ask to be given a virtual tour via webcam. Ask for specific details about the house. Legitimate property owners will be happy to oblige.

Being told you must rent now because others are putting money down. Sometimes you may pets. Know in advance if you have friends or family with whom you and your pet can stay. If that's not possible, keep a list of boarding facilities or hotels that accept animal companions.

- Ensure toxic chemicals in your home, such as cleaning supplies, are inaccessible to pets. Additionally, be sure any medications are sealed and out of reach of curious paws. If you suspect your pet has consumed a poisonous substance, contact the ASPCA poison hotline at (888) 426-4435. The hotline operates 24 hours a day.

With a little knowledge and preparation, you can be a more responsible pet owner.

BBB warns consumers to be cautious when renting a vacation home

BBB cautions consumers when using online websites to find a rental home.

Ready to start booking your next vacation? Maybe you're thinking about renting a house or condo. These days it's easy to connect directly with property owners who advertise their vacation homes online, and you've probably heard wonderful stories from people who rent vacation properties. We have, too. But we've also heard from people who've fallen for vacation rental scams. Better Business Bureau serving Central, Coastal, Southwest Texas and the Permian Basin warns consumers of scammers who may see vacation plans as an opportunity to rip people off.

There are many ways rental scams work. In most cases, con artists create rental listings that may contain appealing photos to attract customers. Once the potential renter has fallen in love, the phony landlord collects an up-front deposit, leaving the vacationer to find out they've been cheated when they show up at the address weeks later.

Bait-and-switch is another way scammers may appeal to vacation home hunters. The scammer may show them a home that isn't actually available and at the last minute change the location to a much less appeal-receive a phone call or email pressuring you to make a decision on the spot for a rental. The crook may tell you that someone else is interested and will pay more, in order for you to act now. Ignore it and move on.

The landlord asks the renter to wire money. Money sent via wire transfer service is extremely difficult to retrieve. Once the scammers have picked it up, there is little recourse, if any, for getting any money back.

If you don't want to be a victim for your next vacation rental, find businesses you can trust at BBB.org.
