Community struggles with deer population

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

“There is no quick fix. There is no cheap fix. The problem will not go away. The longer you wait, the more expensive it will be.”

Derrick Wolter, a biologist with the Texas Parks & Wildlife, told a room full of Saladoans this about addressing the problems associated with a growing population of white tail deer in the Village more than a year ago.

Since then, every step taken by the Village to address the population of white tail deer has been met with opposition.

To say the least.

Earlier this year, the board adopted an ordinance prohibiting the intentional feeding of deer. This measure stopped short of a 2015 ordinance that would have included issuing Land Management Permits for the hunting of deer within the Village of Salado.

Backlash against the Wildlife Management Permits was so much that it was dropped. However, earlier this year, the Village was issued 300 permits for the hunting of deer. The permits allow licensed hunters to take additional deer as long as they meet specific guidelines under the program and guidance of the Texas Parks and Wildlife department. The Village conducted a survey of the deer population resulting in the 300 permits. Yet, the Village opted not to issue those permits to hunters.

However, the Deer committee did support the hunting of deer by bowhunters as long as the hunters followed state laws pertaining to hunting on private property only, not crossing public roads or entering on to private property or shooting across private property without the explicit consent of the property owner.

This announcement at Village aldermen meetings resulted in the recent backlash that includes dozens of No Kill Zone signs around the Village, various rants on social media and the recent addition to the Main Street landscape of two large signs directed toward the Board of Aldermen.

After the backlash, aldermen discussed adding arrows to the list of weapons banned within the Village limits.

the amendments to its weapons ordinance on Nov. 17.

But the board could not agree on the verbiage of the ordinance. Aldermen bogged down in discussion of disposing of varmints and nuisance animals such as skunk versus dangerous animals such as venomous snakes.

“I don’t care if it is venomous or not,” Alderman Fred Brown, “if I see a snake, I am going to shoot it. I’m not about to walk up to it and ask if it is venomous.”

The board directed staff to clean up the wording of the ordinance to make the prohibition clear and bring it back at a later meeting. The next meeting will be Dec. 8.

Since the Village passed the ordinance prohibiting the intentional feeding of deer, no citations have been issued to violators. According to Police Chief Jack Hensley, when the Village has had a complaint, officers have gone to the property owner to inform them that the prohibition is in place. Chief Hensley said the Village has responded to a small number of complaints.

Hensley also said that the Village has responded to very few complaints of “illegal hunting.” Social media sites including Facebook and Nextdoor have had many reports of illegal hunting, but none have been substantiated by local police.

Hensley said that “We have had some second hand reports of suspicious vehicles in the Village. They were reportedly ‘chasing deer.’” One was a white Cadillac and the other was a brown pickup truck with reportedly “hunters in the back of it” Hensley said. The complaints were made a day after the incident and could not be verified.

This week, a large buck with an arrow in it was reported near Salado Creek, downtown. “As we got closer, it ran off,” Hensley said.

The Village also disposed of a deer carcass in the Creek at the low water crossing in Mill Creek. “I could not tell if it had been shot or died of other causes,” Hensley said. “The buzzards had already been working on it pretty hard.”

The debate over the deer population has polarized Salado in the past two years. However, this rancorous discussion on social media, in coffee shops and at public meetings is similar to that which other communities in the state have gone through and continue to face as they struggle with the problems of a growing urban and suburban deer population.

The community should learn from the mistakes, missteps and success of other communities, as well as listening to what experts from the Texas Parks & Wildlife and other state agencies have to say about the issues of deer in a suburban community.

Last year, the Village sponsored a town hall meeting on the topic of controlling a growing population of white tail deer in a suburban community.

Specialists included biologist Wolter, from Texas Parks and Wildlife, Charles Edwards, former Mayor of Lakeway, Dr. Walt Cook, chief wildlife veterinarian at Texas A&M University College of Veterinarian, Bryan Durlock, Bell County Game Warden, John Cornelius, Wildlife Management professional, Laura Murphy, past president of the Bell County Master Gardeners and Susan Terry, former Salado alderman and Keep Salado Beautiful president.

Wolter said that defining the problem is the first step to a community’s success in combatting an ever-growing urban deer population.

Former mayor Edwards told the audience that this is what was done in Lakeway before a program was pursued to control the population. “We documented the number of accidents involving cars and deer, the numbers of deer that were being disposed of by the city workers,” Edwards said.

Lakeway figures for deer deaths due to accidents was more than 200 per year when the town of about 15,000 outside of Austin began a methodic approach to culling the white tail deer herd.

In the first year of Lakeway’s Trap, Transport and Transplant program, 650 deer were moved to ranches in Texas. Edwards said that the process for a local Texas ranch to become a recipient of the TTT deer was too prohibitive for much local participation.

“We could not get relocation permits,” Edwards explained, “Ranchers did not want to follow through with permit process because they had to justify that they had the carrying capacity.”

So then, the city moved 800 deer to ranches in Mexico. “Mexican ranchers picked them up in Laredo,” Edwards said.

Because of the threat of Chronic Wasting Disease in the white tail deer population, Trap, Transport and Transplant programs have become very costly to implement without much demand for the deer.

Lakeway spends more than $30,000 per year on its deer population control program.

The other TP&W program to control white tail deer populations is a Trap, Transport and Process permit in which deer are ultimately killed and processed with the meat donated to local non-profit agencies.

Lakeway donates the majority of deer meat through its TTP permit to Austin-based agencies such as the Capitol Area food bank.

Wolter and Edwards concur that building consensus in the community is crucial to the success of any control program. Edwards said that since Lakeway began its program about 15 years ago, “there are a whole lot of new people in town and we’ve got to educate them.”

In addition to the TTP program, Edwards said that Lakeway also has a strong Do Not Feed the Deer ordinance. Implementation of this program required a great deal of education about the harms of feeding corn to deer, according to Edwards.

“Having the political will to implement a program is the hardest thing to overcome,” Edwards said. “Then you have to find the money for the program.”

According to Wolter, there are several approaches to controlling deer population in suburban and urban areas, with varying costs and effectiveness.

High fencing costs more than $25,000 per mile and works only on closed properties such as ranches.

Trap and relocate programs cost more than $150 per deer. However, some transplant programs have been seen as much as 50 percent fatality among the deer, according to Wolters.

John Cornelius, a wildlife management professional, said that with new approaches in transplanting deer, the fatality rate that he has seen in his transplant programs is closer to three to five percent.

Sterilization and birth control programs are not effective in open deer populations, according to both Wolters and Cornelius. Both iterated that these are expensive approaches with limited success. These programs can easily cost more than $750 per deer and are most effective in closed populations behind high fences where the number of does coming into and out of the herd are controlled.

Laura Murphy, with the Bell County Master Gardeners and Susan Terry, with Keep Salado Beautiful addressed issues for homeowners who have trouble keeping deer from eating their landscape.

“There is no such thing as a deer-proof landscape,” according to Murphy who said that deer will eat even so-called resistant plants during drought conditions. “When there is plenty to browse, they will leave unfriendly plants alone, but when it is dry they will eat just about anything,” Murphy said.

Spraying garden areas with predator urine is temporary at best, according to Murphy. Rains and sprinkler systems will dilute the spray quickly.

Electric fences have limited effectiveness when the deer figure out a way around, under or over them, according to Murphy. These fences might work best around small vegetable gardens.

Terry and Murphy recommend homeowners get a copy of the Agrilife Extension and Grow Green resource book on “Native and Adapted Landscape Plants.”

An electronic version of the book can be found online at <https://www.austintexas.gov/sites/default/files/files/Watershed/growgreen/plantguide.pdf>.

Curbside recycling continues to grow here

Curbside recycling continues to be a growing success in Salado.

“Newcomers may not know that Salado had a small recycling center for six years; collections were taken behind the Sculpture Garden by faithful volunteers and sponsored by Keep Salado Beautiful,” said Susan Terry, president of Keep Salado Beautiful.

In the final year of the recycling center, KSB collected 10.5 tons of mixed recycling (cardboard/plastic/paper) and 4.3 tons of metal (tin and aluminum.)

In 2015 Eagle and

Clawson Disposal Companies began curbside recycling programs in Salado and last year 32 tons of mixed material and 9 tons of metal were saved from the landfill.

“Last year we tripled the amount of mixed material - paper, plastic, cardboard, and more than doubled the amount of tin and aluminum that is recycled from Salado,” Terry said. “Does this make a difference? Consider the following facts.”

- Recycling one aluminum can saves enough energy to run your television for 4 hours.

- If Americans had recycled all paper in 2011, we could have diverted enough paper from the waste stream to cover 42,000 soccer fields in paper three feet deep. (use some of that paper to keep weeds out of your flowerbeds)

- Americans recycled enough plastic bottles in 2011 to provide the raw material needed to produce 7 million extra large t-shirts

- Producing steel cans from recycled material saves about 67 percent of the energy needed to produce them from raw material.

- A ton of recycled paper saves 166 gallons of gas, and lots of trees!

- A ton of aluminum cans saves 1,234 gallons of gas and additional natural resources

- Landfills are full in some parts of the country and they are filling here. They release toxic fumes and runoff and require expensive management.

“This year, 2016, has seen an even greater increase in the use of curbside recycling,” Terry said.

“We have increased the amount collected by another 30 percent. We are now preventing more than 3 tons per week from entering the landfill; a huge cost savings and resource management bonus.

“Just think what we could do if more households participated in the program,” she added. “We could significantly reduce the landfill space requirements and reuse more materials.”

Contact Clawson Disposal about the curbside recycling program. The program is offered to regular garbage customers of Clawson Disposal as well as regular garbage customers of Eagle Disposal (for an additional fee).

The curbside recycling program picks up every other Monday. Recyclables do not have to be sorted and separated. A separate can for the recycled material is made available to customers. The program replaced the regular recycling drop-off program of Keep Salado Beautiful.

“Do it for Salado; do it for your family,” Terry said. “Let’s work together to Keep Salado Beautiful.”

America Is Not a Safe Space

Pity the anti-Trump protesters thronging the streets of American cities. Apparently, no one ever told them that they live in a geographically, economically and ideologically varied nation, and that about half of its inhabitants might support a Republican candidate for president. They mistook the country for the campus of Oberlin College.

The news that it actually isn't arrived with the force of a thunderclap on Nov. 8. The shock of Donald Trump's election has occasioned tears, rending of garments and days of protests showcasing the rank infantilism of the American left.

Prior to the election, liberal commentators obsessed over Trump's rumblings about not accepting the outcome and worried about his supporters lashing out. But the specter of Republican mayhem was always far-fetched. When was the last time that GOP protesters ran out of control and burned down local business establishments? Tea-party rallies were famous for their orderliness -- participants in a massive rally on the Mall in Washington, D.C., even picked up their own trash.

It is left-wing protests that invariably devolve into law breaking, and so it was that the same kids who think Donald Trump is too divisive were soon smashing windows and throwing projectiles at police in behalf of their supposedly more open-minded vision of America.

The level of self-awareness of the protesters isn't high. Some hold signs reading "This is what democracy looks like." It is true that the right to peaceful assembly is a key aspect of any liberal democracy (even if some protesters need to work on the "peaceful" part), but as an illustrative exercise in democracy, you can't beat the national election that has so outraged anti-Trump protesters.

They have now adopted the slogan "Not my president," a phrase that the day before yesterday the left considered a racist slur when hurled at President Barack Obama.

The post-election mayhem could be written off as the work of an unruly fringe, if it weren't that the Democratic Party is so beholden to the sensibilities of its cosseted youth, whom it mistakes for the shock troops of the future. A party that considers it forbidden to say "all lives matter" because it will of-ferend the enforcers of political correctness is a party that is going to have trouble appealing to Middle America.

One anti-Trump protester was seen the other day holding a sign reading "Your vote was a hate crime." It's hard to imagine a better distillation of the coercive small-mindedness that prevails on college campuses. This attitude ensures a state of perpetual shock and outrage at the lived reality of a continental nation of more than 300 million free men and women.

The anti-Trump protests aim to associate the president-elect with chaos and delegitimize him from the outset. But it is fully in Trump's power, so long as he doesn't show irritation or anger, to see that they backfire. One petulant tweet aside, he has struck a unifying tone, while it is his adversaries who are unhinged.

Trump's critics are certain that he is the champion of a blinkered worldview. But the election and its aftermath show that it is the self-styled citizens of the world who need to get out more.

Celebrate the many blessings

Sunday evening, our community gathered for the Community Thanksgiving Service in St. Stephens Catholic Church. Filled with singing, prayers, Scripture reading, and a thought-provoking message, the service brought back the account of the First Thanksgiving in Plymouth colony.

September, 1620, 102 pilgrims embarked from England aboard the Mayflower. Their intent was to establish a settlement in the Hudson River area. However, after sixty-six days later, they made landfall 150-miles north at the eastern tip of Cape Cod. A month later, they sailed further west and landed at Plymouth.

The first months, the majority remained aboard ship where many succumbed to malnutrition and disease. It is estimated that half died by the following Spring. With the return of favorable weather, the remaining left the ship.

Edward Winslow was among the Pilgrims present at the first Thanksgiving. He described the scene December 12, 1621:

"Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling, that so we might after a special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors. They four in one day killed as much fowl as, with a little help beside, served the company almost a week.

King Massasoit, with some ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five deer, which they brought to the plantation and bestowed on our governor and others. And although it be not always so plentiful as it was at this time with us, yet by the goodness of God, we are so far from want that we often wish you partakers of our plenty." (Eyewitness to History.com)

This Thanksgiving, may we, like the Pilgrims, celebrate the many blessings we have among which are our families, friends, and community. May your day be joyous, peaceful, and filled with delightful memories.

Differing opinions on hunting deer in Village

Dear Editor:

Shock and horror. That was what I felt when I found five razor-sharp hunting arrows on my property last month. The thing is, my property is on Main Street—in the middle of Salado! Of course, stepping on the arrows posed an immediate risk to me, my family, my pets, and my guests. But of even greater concern was how these weapons could have ended up here. Surely there was a city ordinance prohibiting firing lethal projectiles within the village limits, I thought. After all, a compound bow has an effective killing range of up to eighty yards! However, after talking with Salado Village Secretary Chrissy Lee, I learned that, yes, it is perfectly legal to hunt with these weapons in densely populated areas of the village. In fact, bow hunting of deer is permitted throughout the village, including our neighborhoods and shopping districts, near our schools and our churches.

Ms. Lee explained that the village does not explicitly allow bow hunting, but neither does it prohibit it. Therefore, hunting on the neighborhood lots of Salado falls under the jurisdiction of state hunting laws, laws written to manage large rural properties. How absurd! The Board of Aldermen (BOA) did consider passing an ordinance in July 2015 aimed at dealing with deer overpopulation in the village. The ordinance would have expressly allowed bow hunting in village limits. After a public hearing, that ordinance was not passed, likely because it would have been very unpopular. Thus, in a recent article titled "Let's Talk Deer," Mayor Skip Blancett claimed the BOA has never "sanctioned or approved killing deer by any means." This is pure doublespeak. For in fact, what the BOA did, by deferring to state law instead of choosing to prohibit or regulate this dangerous activity, was indeed to tacitly sanction this action. The bottom line is hunters are shooting lethal arrows throughout the city and the BOA is not doing anything about it.

This is baffling. State statute specifically permits municipalities to regulate the discharge of bows and arrows. Even for extraterritorial jurisdictions or areas annexed after September 1, 1981, Bell County municipalities can still regulate the firing of these weapons on tracts of lands smaller than 10 acres or those less than 150 feet from a residence or occupied building located on another property. Dozens of municipalities in our region have banned or curtailed this dangerous activity (e.g., Austin, Georgetown, Copperas Cove). But Salado's BOA chooses not to. In reality, the BOA not only has the authority to regulate this action, they have a moral obligation to do so. The citizens who elected them have entrusted the BOA to protect their safety and that of their children, pets, and property. The tourists who help support our economy should expect protection from this danger. Yet, the BOA is satisfied with telling us it is against state law to fire across a property line or a roadway. This lip service will not prevent dangerous accidents. We see how well it worked on my Main Street property.

Here are the simple facts: bow hunting in densely populated areas jeopardizes people, property, and pets. Wantonly shooting arrows equipped with tips designed to split bones and lacerate organs poses an obvious risk. And make no mistake—that is what is happening. I found five arrows on my property. That is reckless, dangerous, and criminal. But it is not surprising considering the environment the aldermen have created here. Then, there is the risk of mistaking victims for game. Since 2010, TPWD has documented at least 8 instances where victims were injured by hunters mistaking them for game. Hunting is inherently dangerous in populated areas and even well-trained hunters make mistakes. Since 2010, there have been 15 instances of hunters shooting victims who accidentally moved into the line of fire. Some of these were fatal. In a 2003 hunting accident in Van Zandt County, an arrow ricocheted, traveled another 35 yards and struck a victim in the chest, puncturing his lung. Even arrows lying on the ground can endanger lives. In 2011, a hunter in Red River County stepped over an arrow that had fallen from his own quiver. The broadhead punctured his lower leg, requiring an emergency field tourniquet before he was air lifted to a hospital. This is the environment our aldermen have allowed to exist mere yards from where our children play.

Yes, of course the village has a major problem with deer management. Deer cause vehicle accidents. They eat landscaping. They carry disease. I agree that creative solutions are needed and difficult decisions will have to be made to solve this problem. Yet, the solution is not for the BOA to turn a blind eye to our safety. Simply deferring to state laws is not working. Firing across property lines is prohibited by state law. Yet, the existence of the law is not enough to deter people from doing it. When the aldermen allow bow hunting on small properties in densely populated areas, they are creating an environment where this illegal activity will inevitably occur. In practical terms, how can this law be effectively enforced? How can violators be held accountable? Bell County game wardens are stretched thin as it is. In a 2013 Killeen Daily Herald article, game warden Brandt Bernstein was asked if Bell County really needed three game wardens. His response?

“We need four,” he said. Salado needs stronger leadership from our BOA. We need these elected officials to stop sitting on their hands while citizens’ and tourists’ lives are put at risk. We need them to take action to stop this dangerous practice and work to protect our children, pets, and visitors. And we need them to act now—before it is too late.

To the Editor:

I have only lived in Salado for 10 years now, 20 years in Texas; but I have no doubt that I will live here the rest of my life. Middle to upper class, subdued, well educated, great schools, successful, Christian, and wealthy, that is the Salado I love. Unfortunately, lately I have seen a side of Salado I am ashamed of. Some of those same individuals that will well claim all I have said above are also cruel, bigoted, threatening, and aggressive. They spew personal attacks on our elected leaders and fellow citizens. They mislead and misrepresent to the point that the kind things I can say about us are hardly relevant. I am sad to see this in Salado and I hope our children are not watching, but unfortunately they are.

Yes, I am talking about the vitriol by a few concerning bow hunting in Salado. The bigotry towards hunters and their supporters is ugly. Who has driven the personal attacks? Who has been threatened by a hunter? In all cases it is the so called supporters of deer that have broken civility. I can appreciate both sides of the issue and have sympathies for both. But, I have witnessed outlandish attacks by supposedly peace loving people. I have heard personal verbal assaults on good people that any decent person could be ashamed of. Business signs have been vandalized and derogatory signs with no bases in fact have been placed on Main Street; designed to hurt business in Salado just to pressure the Alderman and Mayor. I am tired of a small segment of our population that demands decorum and gives little. They stigmatize with their labeling but have hypocrite souls.

How we appear to others is that some of us are Jesus invoking, others are not, self-entitled, self-aggrandizing, holier than thou, I can afford to be, spoiled brats! I would chastise my children if they acted like some of you older and not so wiser citizens. This is not name calling, its personal observations. Not to mention grown men and women attacking others while shamelessly hiding behind their children.

I believe that our township is not a traditional hunting grounds. But I also accept what countless other municipalities have concluded. Deer are wild animals, not pets. With the artificial habitat we have chosen to create, an acceptance of responsibility for these animals must exist. Responsibility that the most vocal, uninformed, and mean-spirited inhabitants of Salado refuse to take. This should be about the deer. Not their personal, irrational attachment they have. What I have witnessed are people who pat themselves on the back, attack others and show no affiliation with their fellow citizens. Hero’s or heroines, no. Just soiled, self-centered people that feel they have a right to demonize their neighbors and hunters. Clearly placing their own desires over the welfare of the deer and civil discourse.

Sincerely,
Shane Hodyniak Sr.

A&M College of Ag., Life Sciences honors Lastovica as 2016 Outstanding Alumni

Steven Lastovica of Salado was honored as one of the three 2016 Outstanding Alumni for the Texas A&M College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at the “Legacy and Leadership” Banquet on Nov. 19.

“A foundation in agriculture and Texas A&M is the best educational foundation we can give,” Lastovica said in accepting the award.

Lastovica found his calling in agriculture early—on his family’s Angus farm in Bell County. As an Animal Science major at Texas A&M, he worked at the Beef Cattle Center and was active in many student organizations, including the Corps of Cadets, the Ross Volunteers, and the Texas A&M Senior Livestock Judging Team.

Soon after graduation, he began working as an extension agent for agriculture in Washington County, Texas, where he developed his people skills—and a business idea—as he worked with local livestock breeders.

In May, 1986, less than a year after college graduation, he and his brother started Milano Livestock Exchange.

For 30 years, it was Milam County’s oldest, family-run livestock market, having sold more than 1.5 million head of cattle. No longer operating as a weekly livestock auction, Steven has transitioned MLE to operate as a USDA Licensed Livestock Dealership, providing stocker and feeder cattle to the feedlots as well as high-quality replacement

Local Program delivers Holiday Spirit to Temple Area Seniors

The holidays are a time to celebrate the joy and warmth of the season with friends and family. In Temple, the local Home Instead Senior Care® office is inviting the community to celebrate with local seniors who may be alone during the holiday season.

The Home Instead Senior Care office serving Temple and Killeen is helping to facilitate Be a Santa to a Senior®, a community program that provides gifts and companionship to seniors who may be isolated from friends or family during the holiday season. The program is made possible through the generous support of Temple businesses, nonprofit organizations, retailers, numerous volunteers.

“The holidays can be a troubling time for seniors. They may feel the absence or the distance of loved ones,” said Brandy Firebaugh of the Temple Home

Instead Senior Care office. “Be a Santa to a Senior provides a ray of hope for many seniors, and it means so much for them to know that people care and value them..”

The local Home Instead Senior Care office has partnered with Immanuel Baptist Church, Backyard

BBQ, Westside Pharmacy, The Gin, Baylor Scott and White West Campus, Big Chew Chews, Expert Nails and Altrusa International of The Chisholm Trail, along with local nurse homes, assisted living facilities, home health and Hospice and senior centers to help with gift collection and distribution.

Holiday shoppers are invited to participate in Be a Santa to a Senior by picking up a paper ornament at a participating location. Participating locations will display Be a Santa to a Senior trees from now to Dec. 11 which will be hung with ornaments featuring seniors' first names and their desired gifts. Holiday shoppers can choose an ornament, buy the requested gift and return it back to the tree location with the ornament attached. There's no need to worry about wrapping — community volunteers and program partners will wrap and deliver the gifts to local seniors in time for the holidays.

Be a Santa to a Senior trees can be found at the following locations: Immanuel Baptist Church, 1401 Central Ave., Temple; Backyard BBQ, 1695 Morgan's Point Rd., Belton; Westside Pharmacy, 1516 S. 31 St., Temple; The Gin, 219 S. East St., Belton; Baylor Scott and White West Campus, 5701 Airport Rd., Temple; Big Chew Chews, 8150 W. Adams, Temple; Expert Nails, 2158 N. Main St., Belton.

Salado Eagles take the field for the Area Round of the playoffs against Bellville on Nov. 19. (PHOTO BY RON LEQUIN)

Eagles fall to #10 Brahmas in Area round

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

The final score of 34-14 didn't truly capture the drama of the Salado Eagles' final game of the season in their loss to the Bellville Brahmas. The Brahmas will face the top team in state this week playing West Orange Stark.

Had a couple of fourth downs turned out differently, the score would have been much closer.

At the top of the second quarter, trailing 7-0, the Eagles lined up to punt from their own 26 yard line on a fourth and four. Trevor Stump apparently had trouble with a snap and took off hoping to get a first down. He was stopped by the Brahmas at the Salado 25 yard line.

Four plays later, the Brahmas had a 14-0 lead on a one yard dive by Mac Briscoe. The Eagles defense gave up a couple of yards and looked as if it might make the Brahmas settle for a long field goal, when Tylin Bryant took a sweep for 21 yards and a first and goal to set up the touchdown.

Bellville took this swing in momentum and extended its lead to 21-0 at the half.

Before the halftime buzzer, though, Salado threatened to score and cut the Bellville lead in half.

The Eagles defense held Bellville deep in its own territory and Cutter Hudgens returned a Brahma punt from the Bellville 45 yard line to the 32 yard line.

Trey Sheppard dove through the middle of the Brahma defense on a fourth and two at the 24 to put the ball at the 20 yard line.

A false start pushed Salado back to the 25 yard line. Runs by Sheppard, Jake Harvey and Aaron Torczynski brought the ball to the 16 yard line. Hayden Haire dropped back on fourth and six and hit Torczynski, who was dropped a yard shy of the first down, taking away the scoring opportunity with 2:54 left in the half.

Bellville marched the 89 yards in two minutes, due mostly to a 48 yard pass from Connor McIntyre to Tristen Williamson to get the ball to the Salado 28 yard line. Following a Salado timeout, Bellville scored on the next play on a Tylin Bryant sweep with a minute left in the half.

The extra point gave Bellville a 21-0 lead at the half.

Salado took the second half kick off, driving from their own 29 to the Brahmas' six yard line. On a fourth and five, Salado elected to go for a field goal. A low snap and hold resulted in Jake Walrath's kick hitting the crossbar, and turning the ball over to Bellville.

The Brahmas took advantage of the break, driving the length of the field in eight plays, scoring on a 14 yard run by Briscoe. The PAT gave Bellville a 28-0 lead with 3:23 left in the third.

Salado answered by putting up the Eagles' first score. The Eagles took the ball 69 yards in less than 90 seconds. Trey Sheppard had runs of three and 31 yards, followed by a 26 yard by Torczynski. Jake Harvey scored from the nine yard line and Walrath converted the kick for a 28-7 score.

Harvey scored again on a 41 yard run with 6:19 left in the game. The kick by Walrath brought the score to 28-14.

The Eagles attempted an on-sides kick, giving the Brahmas a short field. The defense forced Bellville to a three-and-out series. Salado took over at their own 21 yard line after a 16 yard return by Hudgens. On a fourth and four, Harvey took the ball 41 yards, picking his way through the Bellville defense and giving Salado a first and 10 at the Brahma's 32 yard line with 1:53 left.

Salado could not convert the opportunity to narrow Bellville's lead, turning the ball over on downs.

The Eagles defense held standout running back Mac Briscoe to just 80 yards on 28 carries. This was his lowest output in the entire season. Prior to this, Briscoe averaged nine yards per carry and had nine games over 100 yards rushing, seven of them with more than 200 yards.

Bellville had a total of 260 yards rushing, but added 120 passing for 380 yards total offense.

Salado had 334 yards on the ground and five yards in the air for 339 yards total offense. The Eagles had just one fumble, which they recovered, near the end of the game.

Harvey led the Eagles with 126 yards on 13 carries. Sheppard followed with 109 yards on 17 carries. Torczynski added 72 yards on the ground on 11 carries.

Basketball tournament remembers contributions of Salado's "Coach" Smith

Salado Eagle Basketball fans are gearing up for the Coach Smith Memorial Basketball Tournament, Dec. 1-3 at Salado High School.

Twenty teams will be competing in the Tournament with boys and girls brackets that start play early on Dec. 1. Brackets can be found on-line at saladovillagevoice.com. Look under Salado Eagles Basketball and Lady Eagles Basketball under the Salado sports menu. Brackets will be printed in the Dec. 1 edition Salado Village Voice.

"The purpose of this tournament is to make money to support our Eagle and Lady Eagle Basketball Programs," said Kristi Jarvis, organizer of the event for the Salado Athletic Booster Club. "This is the 15th year we have been honoring Coach Smith and his support of Salado ISD and especially the Salado Basketball Program."

"There are many ways you can help," Jarvis added. "We are selling commemorative t-shirts. We suggest that you pre-order as there will be a very limited selection available for sell during the tournament. We are also offering sponsorships at several levels. You can give a shout out to your favorite player and advertise your business. We also welcome you to come cheer our teams on."

To find out more about sponsorships, contact Jarvis at kristijarvis@mac.com or 254-295-6471

The Coach Smith Tournament memorializes the long term contributions of U.G. "Coach" Smith to the athletic programs of Salado.

Coach Smith came to Salado in the early 70's from Los Angeles to accept the Salado ISD Head Football/Athletic Director position. During his tenure, Coach Smith brought unbridled enthusiasm and passion to Eagle sports.

After retiring, he returned to Salado as the owner of Salado Dairy Queen.

Coach Smith and his crew consisting of Darrell Street, Charles Schreiner and the late Jamie Bonner, were dogged fans of all sports involving Salado youth. He passed away on Sep. 1, 2002 at the age of 81.

"No game was too far and no sport too small for Coach and his friends to attend and support. Coach Smith was an advocate of higher education," Jarvis said. "It was through his personal efforts that many Salado students not only attended college but graduated. Coach Smith would be pleased with the quality and scope of today's Coach Smith Memorial Basketball tournament."

Salado Lions Club first Vice President Dave Swarthout presents a $1,300 donation to Salado ISD Superintendent Michael Novotny.

Salado Lions give $1,300 to Salado ISD track program

Salado Lions Club recently donated $1,300 to the Salado track and field program from the proceeds of the Lions Roar track meet held in Salado on Oct. 15.

"We had a total of 116 people register to participate in the meet, ranging from 6 years of age to 84 years of age," said Dave Swarthout, first vice president. The event was planned by Salado Lions Swarthout, Tom McManhan, Justin Gaidusek, George Dentry and Salado ISD Athletic Director Paul Baird.

"We are already starting to work on the second Annual Lions Roar track meet in 2017," Swarthout said, "and hope to donate even more money to the Salado track and field program next year."

"This is just one example the many ways that the Salado Lions Club supports our school district and our community," Swarthout added. "The Lions Club provides eyeglasses to our students whose families can't afford them. The Lions Club also provides thousands of dollars of college scholarships to our graduating seniors."

To help raise funds for these student scholarships and community projects, the Salado Lions Club also hosts a pancake breakfast twice a year. The next pancake breakfast will be on 7:30-10 a.m. Dec. 10 at the Salado Church of Christ Activity Center. Tickets are $6 per person and kids six years and under are free.

The Cooper House on Bluff Circle in Mill Creek.

Golf course homes will be featured on Christmas Tour

The Cooper home on Bluff Circle and the Newman Home on Chisholm Trail are a contrast in styles. They will both be on tour during the annual Salado Historical Society Tour of Homes Dec. 2-4 in Salado.

The Newman Home at 2221 Chisholm Trail is an example of the Colonial Williamsburg Revival architecture. It is located overlooking Mill Creek Golf Course.

This beautiful rendition of Colonial Virginia style is filled with early American furnishings.

The owner-architect carefully selected furniture that makes a comfortable manor home in which to live.

Don't miss the Thomas Jefferson style mirror in the living room.

Another unique feature of the home is the twin facing garages. These are styled to represent the Williamsburg Governor's Palace.

The home of Michael and T9E Cooper at 2101 Bluff Circle is adjacent to the Mill Creek Golf Club.

Built in 1998, its location is overlooking the magnificent greens of the golf course.

Mike Cooper boasts that he has the most beautiful and expansive backyard in Central Texas and that he "never has to mow."

The interior of the house is a charming eclectic family home. Throughout are plaques, certificates and treasured family memorabilia. Do not miss the award to Mike for the Order of St. John, authorized by Queen Elizabeth II.

Step outside the back of

the house to see the most comfortable patio with the pond in view.

The Historical Society Tour of Homes will feature the Tyson home at 615 De-Grummond, the Newman home at 2221 Chisholm Trail, the Cooper Home at 2101 Bluff Circle, the Jack Husung home at 609 Willow Creek, as well as the Historic Log Cabins on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center and the historic Salado United Methodist Church Chapel, all decorated for the season.

Tickets are available at the Salado Visitors Center.

Tickets purchased after Thanksgiving will be $20 per person. Tickets will be available at each stop on the tour.

The Homes Tour will be 5 - 8 p.m. on Dec. 2, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Dec. 3 and 1 - 4 p.m. on Dec. 4.

The Live Nativity Scene at First Baptist Church in Salado will be part of both weekends of The Stroll.

Christmas Stroll Annual two weekends promise to be 'Stuff of Holiday Dreams!'

With visions of sugar plums dancing in your head, enjoy the first two weekends in December in Salado on Dec. 2-4 and Dec. 9-11 for the annual Christmas Stroll.

The event kicks off on Dec. 1 at 5 p.m. with the Christmas Parade. Scores of floats, bands, groups and assorted hometown creations will proceed up Main Street starting near Royal Street on the south side of the Village. To the delight of children of all ages, the highlight of the parade will be an appearance by jolly old St. Nick himself as the last entry in the parade.

The Salado Christmas Stroll is noted for shopping all day and into the night for all the people on your Christmas List where you will find the unique and one-of-a-kind items only Salado can offer.

Food and drink at local establishments and from various vendors will provide varied and delicious offerings for any hungry tummy.

Music can be found in the Village and in many establishments with strolling carolers and instrumentalists. Three easily locatable "Entertainment Hot Spots" will be placed along Main Street featuring daily back to back entertainment for your listening pleasure.

A new addition to the Christmas Stroll this year is the Salado Christmas Adventure Game. Stop by the Salado Visitors Center, 831 N. Main, and purchase your game card to play the Salado Christmas Adventure Game on Saturday Dec. 3 and Dec. 10 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Game cards are $5. Walk the Village and find the characters/locations listed on the card, get your card stamped at the location by the Stroll Helpers and get entered into a drawing to win $500 cash.

Other "Not to Miss" Christmas Stroll Highlights:

Historical Society Tour of Homes - The Salado Historical Society will conduct their Tour of Homes 5-8 p.m. Dec. 2, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Dec. 3 and 1-4 p.m. Dec. 4. You are invited to tour four private homes, the historic Salado Methodist Church and two completely restored log cabins. Tickets are $20 available at the Salado Chamber/Tourism Office at 831 N. Main. Tickets will also be available at each of the tour stops.

Live Nativity - Sponsored by and located at the First Baptist Church in the evenings on both weekends.

Salado Community Chorus - Christmas Concert at First Baptist Church featuring traditional and contemporary Christmas Carols at 7 p.m. Dec. 8.

A Christmas Carol: Annual performance of Dickens' classic Christmas tale at Tablerock Amphitheater at 7 p.m. Dec. 2-3 and Dec. 9-10. For tickets go to tablerock.org or call 254-947-9205.

Central Texas Area Museum - "Spotlight on Salado Auction and Social" will be Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Museum on South Main Street. "Historic Salado Christmas" on 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Dec. 10 will also be at the Museum, 23 South Main Street.

The "Robertson Gala at the Robertson Plantation" will be at 6 p.m. Dec. 10. Call 254-947-5232 for further information.

Be sure to go to www.Salado.com or come by the Salado Visitor Center at 831 N. Main to pick up your "Grand Calendar" of events for both weekends.

(Bassariscus astutus (Ringtail))

The Ringtail is nocturnal

Many animals are quite distinguishable from other species. Ask anyone to describe a skunk, or a raccoon, or a bobcat, and chances are the description will match the animal's appearance. However, there are a few mammals that are so secretive, so elusive, that many folks have not even heard of them. One such animal found in west Texas is the Ringtail.

The Ringtail (Bassariscus astutus) can be observed statewide, although it is much more prevalent in the Edwards

Wild About Texas

Michael Price

Plateau and Trans-Pecos eco-regions. Outside of this state is can be seen from Oklahoma westward to California and southward to Veracruz. It is the state mammal of Arizona. It prefers to dwell among densely vegetated rocky canyons than open country. Females seem to prefer rocky den areas whereas males tend to bed down in brush piles and hollow trees.

Ringtails are medium sized mammals that are about the size of a slender domesticated housecat, with a maximum body length of about two and 1/2 feet, although most specimens are smaller. Like many mammals in this region, the males are the larger sex. The fifteen inch tail is brightly banded with alternating black and white rings that are approximately one inch in width. The background color is best described as brown (or sometimes gun-metal gray) with a black overcast while the slender, elongated face is adorned with large white patches under the ears and circling the eyes. The eyes are coal black, and quite large. Each foot has five toes, and the ankle joint is flexible, allowing it to rotate its back feet sideways to assist in descending from rocky cliffs and trees rapidly.

This species, as the large eyes indicate, is almost exclusively nocturnal. It has such an aversion to light that many times it is not observed until the latter hours of the evening (technically early morning). Ringtails are omnivorous, feeding on both plant and animal matter. Recent studies have shown that small mammals (mice, rats, kangaroo rats, etc.) make up the majority of its diet at sixty-two percent. Fruits are secondary at twenty-eight percent. Small birds, insects, other invertebrates and cold blooded vertebrates round out the dietary preferences of this almost endearing mammal.

During the majority of the year, Ringtails are solitary animals, only gathering together for short periods of time in March and April for the purpose of reproduction. Females are very vocal at this time, emitting a series of chirping calls to alert males of her coming into heat. Males (and disturbed females) will bark. Gestation lasts about sixty days, and the two to four young are similar in appearance to many smaller mammals in that they are small, pink, and toothless with their eyes closed at birth. Their eyes open and they begin to have fur after just one month, and by two months of age they begin to forage with their mother. The young achieve adult coloration and size by the end of their third month of life.

Ringtails, commonly referred to by many as "ringtailed cats" are not closely related to cats at all, nor related to anything in the feline family. Rather, it shares its genetics with two other members of the Procyonid family, the coati and the popular raccoon. Ringtails are occasionally harvested for its pelt, and it is second only to the raccoon in pelt harvesting importance. Populations of this sleek mammal in Texas are quite stable, although continued fragmentation of its habitat in

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY

Proposed Flood Hazard Determinations for the Village of Salado, Bell County, Texas, Case No. 16-06-2289P. The Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) solicits technical information or comments on proposed flood hazard determinations for the Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM), and where applicable, the Flood Insurance Study (FIS) report for your community. These flood hazard determinations may include the addition or modification of Base Flood Elevations, base flood depths, Special Flood Hazard Area boundaries or zone designations, or the regulatory floodway. The FIRM and, if applicable, the FIS report have been revised to reflect these flood hazard determinations through issuance of a Letter of Map Revision (LOMR), in accordance with Title 44, Part 65 of the Code of Federal Regulations. These determinations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that your community is required to adopt or show evidence of having in effect to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program. For more information on the proposed flood hazard determinations and information on the statutory 90-day period provided for appeals, please visit FEMA's website at www.fema.gov/plan/prevent/fhm/bfe, or call the FEMA Map Information eXchange (FMIX) toll free at 1-877-FEMA MAP (1-877-336-2627).
