

Freeze cannot be repealed

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Many of the same arguments launched against the $10.55 million bond election for the construction of a sewer system for Salado are again being launched via letters to the editor, website postings and social media postings concerning the upcoming Disannexation election.

While many of those arguments are valid and worth consideration, others are misleading. Most recently, former alderman and mayor Danney McCort stated in a March 9 letter to the editor that, "Based on the heavy debt that is being created, citizens over 65 will very likely lose the over 65 exemption."

The Property Tax Code clarifies: "Sec. 11.13 RESIDENCE HOMESTEAD. (n-1) The governing body of a school district, municipality, or county that adopted an exemption under Subsection (n) for the 2014 tax year may not reduce the amount of or repeal the exemption. This subsection expires December 31, 2019."

The Village of Salado has maintained the following exemptions for homesteads, over 65 and disabled homeowners.

For every homeowner that files for their property to be their homestead, the Village of Salado offers an exemption of 20 percent from the taxable value of the homestead with a minimum reduction in the taxable value of $5,000. If you own a home of $200,000, the amount deducted from the taxable value of your home is $40,000, lowering it to $160,000. The total property tax bill for the Village of Salado for this home for 2016 is $867.04.

For those homeowners age 65 or older and for those homeowners who are disabled, the Village of Salado freezes the total property tax at the ceiling of taxes paid in the year that the homeowner files with the Appraisal District for the tax freeze. In addition, the Village of Salado offers an exemption of $50,000 from the taxable value of the home.

That same $200,000 home, for those claiming the age 65 and older or the disabled tax freeze and exemption, is now taxed at a value of $110,000. Now, the total tax bill for that home is lowered to $596.09. Furthermore, regardless of what aldermen adopt for the tax rate in the future, the total tax bill for that home cannot exceed the tax ceiling or freeze of $596.09.

If a future board of aldermen (after Dec. 31, 2019) should reduce or repeal the amount of the over 65 or disabled exemptions, it would not affect any of those over 65 or disabled homeowners whose taxes have already been frozen.

The change in exemption would apply for future assessments of those applying for the over 65 or disabled tax freeze.

This was affirmed by Deputy Chief Appraiser Roger Chesser in 2014. Chesser, in an email with Salado Vil- lage Voice on Oct. 24, 2014, was asked this direct question: "A municipality — once it has adopted the over 65 tax ceiling — cannot repeal the tax ceiling. It can repeal or lower the tax exemptions. Are those correct statements? Even if the city were to repeal the exemptions ($50,000 for over 65), it would not affect the ceilings already in place."

His response was this: "To the best of our knowledge those statements are true."

The Comptroller's office, in a lengthy paper on property tax, confirms this, as does the Texas Municipal League (TML) and the Texas Association of Counties. A county, junior college district or municipality, once it has adopted the over 65 Tax Ceiling, may not repeal or rescind it.

The municipal tax freeze and exemptions were put into place in 2003 by a bill by then-State Rep. Fred Brown calling for a constitutional amendment to allow Texas counties, junior colleges and cities to adopt a tax freeze on homesteads of those over age 65 and on homesteads of disabled veterans, it passed the state House unanimously. In 2003, the constitutional amendment was approved by 81 percent of the voters statewide. The amendment freezes the municipal taxes that senior citizens pay, much like the school taxes for seniors have been frozen in Texas for many years.

For many city leaders that were quick to embrace the tax freeze and implement it locally, the idea has backfired as they now face the dilemma of funding their budgets every year.

Many cities have refused to put the tax freezes into place. Others have done so, only to regret it later, especially when they cannot repeal or rescind the tax ceiling.

This is one reason that many Texas counties and cities have chosen not to adopt the tax ceilings. Around the state, cities are dealing with the long-term ramifications of those tax ceilings.

According to the 2016 certified values, the Village of Salado has a certified total freeze adjusted taxable value of $168,130,780. According to the certified values sent by Chief Appraiser Marvin Hahn, the Village had a total of 1,996 properties and a total Market Value of $289,774,823. The Village loses $121,644,043 in values due to exemptions and tax freezes. Of that decrease in taxable value, $32,055,692 is due to the 20 percent homestead exemption for 719 homeowners. Another $20 million is reduced in taxable values due to the over 65 exemption to 419 homeowners.

The state exemptions account for another $18 million decrease from market value to taxable value.

The tax freeze for over 65 and disabled accounts for another $50,318,767 reduction in assessed value. This reduction in taxable value is because of the numbers of eligible homeowners who froze their taxes when the tax rate for the Village was as low as

BoA discuss Pace Park operations

Salado aldermen approved renewing their lease with the Pace Park Foundation to maintain and operate Pace Park for the next year. The Village of Salado leases the entire Pace Park property for $1 per year paid to the Pace Park Foundation. In return, the Village operates and maintains the Park on behalf of the community, assuming liability and management of the seven acres.

The board will meet to discuss the Park Regulations and Agreement with Pace Park in a workshop session on March 16. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. at the municipal building.

The Village and the Pace Park Foundation are in preliminary discussions with the Salado Rotary Club about the future management and operation of the Park. The Salado Rotary Club has proposed taking over the day-to-day management of Pace Park from the Village of Salado.

Pace Park was founded 70 years ago when the heirs of W.A. and Mary Jane Pace gave seven acres of their land to be used as a public park in Salado.

The following history of the Pace family and Pace Park appeared in a 2005 edition of the Salado Village Voice when the playground was first dedicated at the Park. It was written by Jackie Mills at that time.

The W. A. Pace family arrived in Salado in 1854. They had journeyed from Indiana to Central Texas with a wagon train, traveling 1,200 miles in three months. They first built a home on what is today called College Hill. W. A. and Mary Jane parented 17 children. Twelve of the 17 lived to adulthood.

"One of their daughters, Phebe Ann, married a man who was not good to her," said Elizabeth Mosley. "Phebe, was only 16 years old when she carried her feverish infant from a house located on the Brazos River to her parents' home in Salado. Phebe and the baby lived only a few days after her arrival. She had walked the sole off her shoes but continued walking in the winter storm to reach home. They are buried somewhere on College Hill, but we never could find the location of the graves," said Mosley who is W.A. and Mary Jane's great-granddaughter.

The Paces owned hundreds of acres, and later they built a new and bigger home in Prairie Dell. W. A. was the first farmer to raise cotton in the area during 1873. He owned the first horse-powered thresher in the community and bought the Salado Grist Mill from W. A. Davis. The mill was washed away by the 1900 flood and was never rebuilt. The Paces were charter members of the Salado Methodist Church.

On Aug. 16, 1946, heirs of W. A. and Mary Jane Pace gave seven-plus acres of their land to be used as a public park in Salado. It is recorded in Volume 569, Page 625 in Bell County records.

The following is an account from Patsy Sanford, her husband the late Paul Sanford, the late Elizabeth Mosley and the late Wilbur Foster of what happened to the park from late in the 50's until 1992. "In about '57, seeing that the park had grown up with weeds, bushes, etc., the Pace family told some people in Salado that if the park was not cleaned up, they would reclaim their gift to Salado. All of the creek area had grown up so that the stream could not be seen from any distance," according to the late Paul Sanford.

Patsy Sanford remembers, "At about the age 10, several of my friends and I made tunnels through the blood weeds near the spring, since the weeds grew higher than our heads."

Mosley remembers, "The girls swam by the spring 'cause the weeds were so high no one could see them. The boys always went swimming at the blue hole farther on down the creek."

Paul said, "The Paces also wanted a sign to read 'Pace Park' by the entrance on Main Street, which was then Texas Highway 81. So in the late 50s a meeting was held to decide what action to take. Among those present at the meeting were Wilbur Foster, Earl Guest, Charlton Johnson and John Allen Barton.

Paul remembered, "After that first meeting a Park Board was formed. Some members included Chester Critchfield, Dr. Ashe, Wilbur Foster, and Col. Larson. The County Agent and an A&M specialist gave the group a program on parks. Efforts were begun to clear the area. B.E. Wilson brought a dozer to clear away stumps and limbs accumulated through years of flooding.

R. Bishop took up money and got a dragline for additional work. A couple of community workdays were designated and while the men wielded their tools, the community women prepared and served a picnic lunch for the volunteers."

Paul added, "Wilbur Foster and Charlton Johnson found someone to make a wooden sign that rainbowed above the north entrance to the park. The old well in the park was reactivated with Earl Guest furnishing the pump, and Wilbur turning his garage into a workshop where he built the well canopy."

"Joe Bentley and I mixed concrete to build the first tables and benches in Pace Park," Wilbur remembered. "The Salado ISD ag boys built forms for the steps leading up to the picnic tables. Too often drivers would become stuck in the gravel along the creek and would have to be pulled loose. To help avoid this, Joe Bentley and I put up the first light poles which were donated from TP&L by then manager, Fred Norwood," said Foster.

"In about '65, when Darrell Street was the Salado Chamber of Commerce President, I was in charge of a barbecue to raise money to build a pavilion in Pace Park" Paul said. "Clem's furnished the barbecue for the fundraiser. The event included an auction to sell rocks to build the structure. Enough money was raised for the building materials, and Mr. Peck, a then Salado contractor, paid for the labor to construct the pavilion. Louis Griffith and I wired the building," said Paul.

"The first Art Fairs were held on the Village Green below Stagecoach Inn. The Art Fair grew in size and spread to the spring area and then grew big enough to be conducted across the creek. Fort Hood soldiers built bridges to span the creek. As the Art Fair grew, it found a permanent home in Pace Park," said

Paul. In 1996, the 50th Anniversary of Pace Park, Roy Hector, Chamber President, had a new "Pace Park" sign erected to honor the Pace family.

In 1998, Tim Fleischer who was then President of the Salado Chamber of Commerce, spent a week obtaining funding for 12 new limestone picnic tables and benches built by Wayne Phillips that today grace the park.

Denver Mills remembered, "In 2001 another change occurred in the way the park is managed. The Chamber of Commerce approached the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen and requested financial assistance in carrying out their mission. An agreement was reached whereby the Village of Salado would provide funding to the Chamber for the care of the park."

In 2002 Alderman Rick Ashe spearheaded the efforts for a children's playground in Pace Park. The Salado Moms Club members and helpers, including Linda Privitt, Amanda Gerhart, Christi Arner, Marie Sunshine and Gavin Radenbaugh sold tiles to decorate the playground and contributed $7,000.

The Village of Salado budgeted $25,000 over a period of two years for the playground. PALS came to the aid of the children of Salado with gifts for the playground. Mike Cornett and Alex Jaimies built the rock wall surrounding the playground, Jeremy Boatwright delivered the wood fiber used as cushioning material into the playground and Jeff Kelley dug a ditch for the wall foundation.

The Rotary Club recently added the shade covering over the playground. The Rotary Club also supported the construction of the restrooms on the north side of the pavilion.

Denver Mills summed up by adding, "The vision that W. A. Pace descendants had in 1946 has endured over the years to the degree that the precious little park is now an idyllic spot in a remarkable community. The efforts of the many, many Salado citizens who have kept the park in repair have resulted in many thousands of visitors who visit Salado and enjoy one of the greatest amenities that the Village has to offer."

An Open Exchange of Ideas

The Battle of Middlebury

At Middlebury College earlier this month, Charles Murray needed a safe space -- literally.

In a significant escalation of the campus speech wars, protesters hooted down the conservative scholar in a lecture hall and then roughed up a Middlebury faculty member escorting him to a car.

The Middlebury administration commendably tried to do the right thing and stand by Murray's right to be heard, but was overwhelmed by a yowling mob with all the manners and intellectual openness of a gang of British soccer hooligans.

Sometime soon, we may yearn for the days when college students were merely childish and close-minded. If campus protests of speech begin to more routinely slide into violence, Middlebury will be remembered as a watershed.

First, there was the target. Charles Murray is controversial -- mainly for his book "The Bell Curve," about IQ -- but he is one of the most significant social scientists of our age. His latest book, which was to be the topic of his Middlebury talk, is "Coming Apart," a best-selling account of the struggles of the white working class that illuminated some of the social forces behind the rise of Donald Trump.

Second, there was the

venue. No one has ever mistaken Middlebury, a small Vermont liberal arts college founded by Congregationalists, for Berkeley, and yet it has given us one of the most appalling episodes of anti-speech thuggery in recent memory. If it can happen at Middlebury, it can happen anywhere (or at least at Swarthmore or Bucknell).

Finally, there was the violence. The students who brought in Charles Murray framed the evening as "an invitation to argue," and in that spirit asked professor Allison Stanger, a Democrat in good standing, to serve as Murray's interlocutor. When chanting students commandeered the lecture hall, Stanger and Murray repaired to another room for a live-streamed discussion. Protesters found the room and pounded on the windows and pulled fire alarms. When Murray and Stanger headed for their get-away car, protesters shoved and grabbed Stanger, who was shaken up and later went to the hospital, and pounded on the car and tried to obstruct it.

Political correctness has been a phenomenon on campuses since the 1980s, but now has become much more feral. The root of the phenomenon is the idea that unwelcome speech is tantamount to a physical threat against offended listeners. If this is true, it follows that dissenting speech needs to be shunned (in safe spaces) and attacked (in protests). Shutting down a speaker and literally running him off campus is, from this warped perspective, an entirely justifiable defensive action.

Of course, speech doesn't threaten anyone. The appropriate response to an erroneous argument is counterargument. And the free exchange of ideas always allows for the possibility that someone will actually learn something. If campuses aren't to sink further into their current miasma of illiberalism, administrators will have to actively fight the tide of suppression. It's not enough to say the right things about free speech; they have to punish thuggish student agitators. Otherwise, college campuses may become increasingly unsafe spaces for anyone departing from a coercive orthodoxy.

Salado and Belton taxes

The following are facts about Belton and Salado Taxes. According to Bell County Tax Office, here is the comparison between Belton and Salado taxes:

Local Tax Exemptions for Citizens over 65:

Belton gives $10,000 in tax exemptions to citizens over 65

Salado gives $50,000 in tax exemptions to citizens over 65

Disabled Tax Exemptions:

Belton gives $10,000 in tax exemptions to citizens

Salado gives $50,000 in tax exemptions to citizens

Homestead Tax Exemption:

Belton's Homestead Exemption is 0 (nothing)

Salado's Homestead Exemption is $5,000 or 20 percent of market value

Maintenance and Operation (M&O) Property Tax

Belton's M&O Property tax is $0.53930 per $100

Salado's M&O property tax is $0.19990 per $100

Debt Obligation Tax Rate or I&S Rate (Interest and Sinking)

Belton: $0.12050

Salado: $0.34200 (Sewer and Waste Water Treatment Debt Service Taxes)

Total Rate of Taxes per $100

Belton's Current Tax is -- $0.65980

Salado's Current Tax is -- $0.54190

Fact: If Disannexation wins and a part of Salado is Disannexed, the Debt Obligation Tax is the obligation of every property owner whether in Salado city limits or Disannexed area until paid in full.

Fact: The Board of Aldermen/lady, after the first attempt to Disannex, voted:

(1) Honor the results of the election and Disannex the outlined area, and

(2) drop the Disannexed area from Salado's Extra Territorial Jurisdiction (ETJ) making the area available for annexation by surrounding towns.

The vote remains.

Fact: If the second attempt to Disannex passes and Belton annexes the Disannexed area, taxes for the Disannexed citizens:

Belton: $0.65980 (Current Tax) + $0.34200 (Salado Debt Obligation Sewer Debt Tax): $1.0018 per $100

Salado: $0.54190, which includes that Debt Obligation tax, remains: $0.54 cents per $100

Fact: Belton's city limits are currently at the Amity Bridge. Belton recently annexed approximately 600 acres near or next to Salado's ETJ. The potential Maintenance and Operation Property Taxes available from the Disannexed area is a strong reason to annex.

Fact: As far as total Property Tax exemptions:

Belton gives a MAXIMUM of $10,000 in exemptions. A homeowner cannot add the Over 65 and the Disabled exemptions together and claim the total. IT IS A MAXIMUM $10,000 and no more.

Salado gives a Maximum of 20% PLUS $50,000.

These are facts and if you want more information, please go to the Bell County Tax Office or call Ms. Hubnick, 939-5841.

Town Hall Meeting needed to address disannexation rumors

To the Editor:

There are so many rumors as well as unanswered questions concerning the disannexation election. The letters to the editor in the Salado Village Voice from the organizers (community organizer) do not answer our questions. We need a "fact checker" on this subject. It would be nice if the MCCA

Texas must act now to repair damage to Public Information Act

By KELLEY SHANNON
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
FREEDOM OF INFORMATION FOUNDATION OF TEXAS

We Texans are fortunate when it comes to access to government information.

Correction. We were fortunate.

For more than 40 years, Texas' open records law was one of the nation's strongest. The Texas Public Information Act, originating during a time of scandal in the early 1970s, presumes all government records are available to citizens, unless there's a specific exception preventing release of the document.

But our modern era of openness shifted dramatically with two state Supreme Court decisions in 2015 known as the Boeing ruling and the Greater Houston Partnership ruling. Both put many government financial records off limits to citizens.

If the damage isn't repaired in this legislative session, Texas will be way back in the pack compared with other states' transparency laws. Details on the spending of many millions of dollars in taxpayer money will be secret.

Sadly, the message to citizens will be: "Don't bother asking. It's none of your business."

As we embark on Sunshine Week, March 12-18, let's commit to maintaining Texas' national standing as a leading right-to-know state. The free flow of accurate information has always been important. It's especially so in this time of misinformation and fake news.

The so-called Boeing ruling allows all sorts of contracts the government holds with private businesses to be sealed from public view.

The government or the private entity simply must claim a record's release would lead to a competitive disadvantage - not a decisive disadvantage, buy any disadvantage.

Do you want to see your school district's bus or food service contracts so that you know whether your taxpayer money is being well spent? Good luck. Already, some of those basic documents have been ruled unobtainable. The same has happened to requestors seeking taxi and ride-sharing company filings with the government. Small business owners who want to view the winning contracts awarded by a local community college also have been thwarted.

In one of the most unbelievable examples, the city of McAllen refused to reveal how much taxpayer money it paid entertainer Enrique Iglesias to perform in a city holiday festival. The Attorney General's Office, citing the Boeing court ruling, agreed to the withholding. The state office has made hundreds of similar closed records decisions because of the Boeing case.

The Greater Houston Partnership decision prevents the public from viewing the financial books of non-profits that are supported by taxpayer money and act in a government agency fashion. Often, economic development activities are farmed out to these types of non-profits, as they were to GHP. To prevent corruption and hold these agencies accountable, public oversight of how they spend money is necessary through the Texas Public Information Act.

Sen. Kirk Watson, D-Austin, and Rep. Giovanni Capriglione, R-Southlake, are working together on the bipartisan issue of protecting the public's right to know and each have filed bills to reconstruct what the Texas Supreme Court dismantled.

Senate Bill 407 and House Bill 792 address the Boeing decision, while Senate Bill 408 and House Bill 793 address the Greater Houston Partnership ruling.

The Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas and other open government advocates are pressing for additional transparency measures in the Legislature. One attempts to improve access to public records stored in private email accounts and on private electronic devices. Another seeks to resume access to dates of birth in certain public records, including crime documents and election filings, which fosters accuracy and informs the public. House Bill 2670 and House Bill 2710, respectively, address these two big issues. Rep. Todd Hunter, R-Corpus Christi, authored the bills.

Meanwhile, open government supporters are working to block bills that hinder citizen access to government information. Many secrecy bills are filed every legislative session.

The clock is ticking on the time we have to preserve openness in Texas. The current Legislature meets until May 29. We should all urge state lawmakers to let the sunshine in as they do the people's work.

Texas Families -- especially Texas children need a healthy Medicaid program

By STACY E. WILSON, J.D.

Medicaid is an efficient and effective health coverage program for Texas children, and federal and state governments should continue to stabilize and improve the program's coverage and benefits for children.

About 3.5 million children in Texas are enrolled in Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). That's about half of the children living in Texas, yet children don't drive Medicaid costs. Non-disabled children make up about 70 percent of the Medicaid caseload in Texas but account for only 30 percent of the spending.

Medicaid provides a safety net for working families that have children with complex medical conditions. The program helps shoulder the financial burden not covered by commercial insurance, ensuring that these families are not devastated financially.

Children with access to Medicaid are more likely to attend school, graduate from high school, and go to college, becoming healthier adults who will earn more and pay more in taxes than those who do not have appropriate health care as children. Dramatic changes or across-the-board cuts to Medicaid would negatively impact coverage for children.

Thanks to the efficiency of the program, growth in per capita Medicaid expenditures in Texas falls below both commercial insurance and Medicare levels. When adjusted for inflation, Texas is spending less per Medicaid enrollee than the state did in 2001.

The Children's Hospital Association of Texas (CHAT) advocates for a series of elements that we believe are essential for the Medicaid program to adequately protect Texas children.

To continue to be efficient and cost-effective, the Medicaid benefit design should specifically address children's needs. National standards emphasize early intervention, and those standards should continue as the baseline benefit for children.

Current criteria for children's Medicaid eligibility should remain in place. Delaying access to health care for children, especially preventive services, through waitlists or suspended enrollment only creates higher costs for these children and the health system later.

Children must have timely access to appropriate health care services. This access to high-quality, appropriate care can be ensured through fair and adequate provider reimbursement. Reimbursement rates must be sufficient so that an adequate number and the appropriate types of providers participate in Medicaid. Similarly, network adequacy requirements should ensure that children and their families have access to high-quality services designed for them.

Burdensome cost-sharing requirements will delay treatment, add to providers' bad debt, and ultimately increase costs. Children should continue to have access to preventive services at no cost. Alternatively, cost-sharing should be applied on a sliding fee scale, and certain children should be exempt from these requirements. Reasonable out-of-pocket caps should be implemented to avoid penalizing patients with chronic physical or behavioral health conditions.

Medicaid should incentivize improvements in quality, safety, and efficiency. This can be achieved by sharing cost savings with providers or encouraging other alternative payment methodologies. Medicaid should also provide bonuses or other incentive payments for quality and safety achievements by providers.

Children must not lose ground as health care is debated at the federal and state levels. Any reforms must build on the achievements our state and others have already made to further improve children's health coverage and care for children. CHAT members are committed to the health care and health of children across the state, serving all children who walk through their doors. We should work towards solutions to ensure that Texas children thrive, with better health and stronger futures.

Stacy E. Wilson, J.D. is the president of the Children's Hospital Association of Texas. CHAT members are Dell Children's Medical Center of Central Texas (Austin), Driscoll Children's Hospital (Corpus Christi), Children's Health (Dallas), El Paso Children's Hospital, Cook Children's Health Care System (Fort Worth), Texas Children's Hospital (Houston), Covenant Children's Hospital (Lubbock), and Children's Hospital of San Antonio.

The duo will perform in concert in the Salado Civic Center, 601 N. Main Street, at 7 p.m. March 25. Tickets are $25. The concert will be part of Salado's 10th Annual Wine & Rogue Art Fest.

Maines is a Grammy Winning Texas Music producer and multi-instrumentalist, who has been involved in over 4000 recordings with many of Texas' A-List artists, spanning a career of four decades. Hendrix is an independent artist who has released more than 14 albums on her own Wilory Records. Her songs cover a wide range of genres from folk, to pop, country, blues, and jazz. Both artists have carved out successful careers in music from right here in Texas. Their excellence in performance and generosity in sharing their experience and wisdom show how the Spirit of Texas is redesigning the Music Business of the 21st Century.

Each seminar attendee will receive a free copy of Hendrix's acclaimed book, The Part that Ain't Art, a how-to guide for going your own way in the music business. They will also receive access to a hidden website link that uncovers a wealth of information on everything from guitar skills to songwriting tricks and need-to-know info on the music business.

Winners of the Songsmith Songwriting Showdown will be announced at the seminar, with prizes including a week in a spa/condo in Branson, a $1000 songwriter video, consultation with New York copyright attorney, Jeff Jacobson, and more.

Salado United Methodist Church hosted an Appalachian Crafts Fair to benefit the Red Bird mission March 8. In an effort to alleviate the real unemployment rate approaching 50 percent in the Red Bird Valley, Red Bird Mission Crafts markets a wide selection of high quality crafts for as many as 100 different crafters living within an 80-mile radius of the mission. Shoppers found handmade honeysuckle vine, creek willow, and reed baskets, a family tradition developed in an age when total self-sufficiency was necessary for those living in the isolated mountains. Red Bird Mission has enabled local residents to become more self-reliant since its beginning in 1921 as a mission school in the isolated community of Beverly.

Body of Christ community clinic honors volunteers

The Body of Christ Community Clinic (BOCCC) honored its volunteers at a dinner recently.

Rev. Joe Keyes, pulpit minister of the Salado Church of Christ, was the featured speaker for the gathering. Rev. Keyes talked about how the Bible calls for us to be servants and help those who are less fortunate than we are.

About 75 people attended the event which was held at the Belton Church of Christ. The event is held each year to thank the many volunteers who work at the two clinics. About 150 volunteers give of their time to serve the needs of others in the Belton-Salado-Temple area.

John C. Perry of Salado, Board Chair, was the emcee and Donna Dunn of Temple, Executive Director presented volunteer awards. Honored as the Volunteer of the Year was Fernando De Leon, MD of Belton. Dr. De Leon has volunteered at the Clinic since 2013. Ms. Dunn said, "We are so very blessed to have Dr. De Leon as a volunteer and although he no longer practices medicine, he faithfully volunteers his time at the Clinic twice a week."

Also, honored with special recognition awards were Jayesh Patel, DDS of Waco, Maria Duarte, NP of Temple and Ronald Henderson, DDS of Temple. Dr. Patel has been a regular volunteer dentist at the Clinic since 2011. Mrs. Duarte has served as the Clinic's Medical Director since 2012. Dr. Henderson has served as the Clinic's Dental Director since 2011. Ms. Dunn pointed out how fortunate the Clinic has been to have such faithful volunteer providers who freely donate their time and talents to those in need of medical and dental care.

Volunteers sought to help plant flower beds for Monarch Way Stations at rest areas

Volunteers are sought for work days at the Bell County rest areas south of Salado for March 17 and 18.

The Tonkawa Chapter of the Native Plant Society of Texas will be planting on March 17, beginning at 10 a.m. at the southbound rest stop area.

The local Chapter will be planting at the northbound rest stop area beginning at 10 a.m. March 18.

The plantings will complete work on the Monarch Butterfly Waystations.

The I-35 rest stops south of Salado will soon have Monarch Butterfly Waystations through a cooperative agreement between the US Fish and Wildlife Service (US FWS) and the Native Plant Society of Texas (NPSOT).

The agreement provides funding and technical assistance to NPSOT for the planning, establishment, and maintenance of Monarch butterfly waystations and interpretive signage on Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) safety rest areas between Austin and Dallas.

Two matching rest areas in Bell County, in Salado, will be the sites of NPSOT Monarch waystations. These Monarch waystations will be established in 1,000 sq. ft. of existing landscaping beds near the Visitor's Center.

The Tonkawa Chapter of the NPSOT has held work days in February and March to prepare the waystations at the Salado rest stop areas.

They invite local groups and volunteers to help with the bed planting days.

Waystations are places that provide resources necessary for monarchs to produce successive generations and sustain their migration (MonarchWatch.org).

Monarch waystations fea-

Monarch butterfly. (ADOBE STOCK)

ture native milkweed plants to feed the successive generations of butterflies during the spring and summer migration to the north U.S. and Canada and fall nectar-producing plants to feed the adult Monarch butterflies as they migrate to their overwintering grounds in Mexico.

To offset the loss of milkweeds and nectar sources from development and changes in agricultural practices within the migration corridor, we need to create, conserve, and protect milkweed/monarch habitats.

"We can help reverse habitat loss by creating Monarch waystations in home gardens, at schools, businesses, parks, zoos, nature centers, along roadsides, and on other unused plots of land," said Kay Jenkins, Vice President of NPSOT. "A garden as small as 100 sq. ft. in area can qualify as a Monarch waystation if the right native plants are used."

The Village of Salado is not alone among local municipalities in feeling the economic squeeze of tax freezes coupler

Most municipalities in Bell County have adopted the tax ceiling (often referred to as a tax freeze) for over homeowners over the age of 65.

The Village of Salado did so when it first adopted an ad valorem tax by ordinance in 2008. At that time, village aldermen also adopted the most generous property tax exemptions in Bell County and the lowest property tax in the county at a rate of $0.0492 per $100 valuation.

According to Marvin Hahn, chief appraiser for Bell CAD, Killeen adopted the freeze in 2008, Nolanville in 2005, Temple in 2005 and Troy in 2007. In addition to the tax freeze for over 65, Killeen offers a $20,000 tax exemption, while Temple offers a $10,000 tax exemption for those homesteads. Troy offers the tax freeze only.

The City of Belton offers a $10,000 exemption and tax freeze for over 65 and disabled.

Temple and Salado are the only two municipalities in Bell County to offer a tax exemption for homesteads. Both offer a $5,000 minimum or 20 percent exemption from the taxable value of the homestead. Additionally, the local homestead tax exemptions of 20 percent are stacked with either the over 65 exemption and freeze or the disabled homeowner exemption and freeze.

Salado Museum features 3 scribes at writers' workshop March 25

The Salado Museum and College Park will host a Writers' Workshop 2 p.m. March 25, in the Museum Event Hall, 423 S. Main St. in Salado. The event, being held in conjunction with the traveling exhibit, Texas Writers, on display at the museum through March 31, includes Texas authors Dr. Barry Hankins, Jessica D. Lovett, and Carol Wilson.

The exhibit and workshop are made possible by grant funding from Humanities Texas, state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, and by funding from the Salado Public Library. Both events are free and open to the public. The workshop will include a short talk by each author during the first hour followed by break-out groups where attendees can speak with each of the authors individually.

Dr. Hankins is a professor of history and head of the Baylor University History Department. He has written numerous books on religious fundamentalism and evangelicals; his latest book is Woodrow Wilson: Ruling Elder, Spiritual President.

Ms. Lovett holds a Master's degree in humanities with an emphasis in creative writing from Tiffin University and a Bachelor of Arts degree in literature from Howard Payne University. Her debut novel is entitled Transplanting Hope.

Ms. Wilson, who makes Temple her home, is the author of The Stage Stops Here, the History of the Stagecoach Inn, Salado, Texas and In the Governor's Shadow: The True Story of Ma and Pa Ferguson.

The museum's traveling panel exhibit features information on Texas writers from the mid-20th century to the present day (www.humanities-texas.org). Salado's ties to arts, culture, and education make this exhibit relevant to the Village's past, present, and future. The exhibit also features items on loan from the Salado Public Library.

About the Museum

The Salado Museum and

College Park, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, was formed in January 2017 with the merger of the historic Central Texas Area Museum (est. 1959) and the Robertson Colony-Salado College Foundation (est.1973). The mission of the newly formed organization is to promote and preserve the pioneer history of Salado, Texas, through educational programs and the exhibition of artifacts, books and papers that document the settlement and heritage of this area. The Museum is located at 423 South Main Street in Salado across from the Stagecoach Inn. College Park is just south of the museum. ## Star Party March 18 focuses on Beehive cluster (M44)

The Central Texas Astronomical Society will host free public star parties 8-11 p.m. March 18 at Overlook Park near Belton and the Hubbard City Lakes Park in Hubbard.

Sunset is at 7:40 p.m., with full darkness by 8:04 p.m. CTAS members will provide telescopes to view the visible planets and a selection of star clusters, nebulas, and galaxies.

The Beehive cluster (M44) is an open star cluster in the constellation Cancer. Open cluster Messier 47, in the constellation Puppis, contains about 50 stars and is 1600 light years from the earth. M35, a large bright open cluster, and the Eskimo Nebula (NGC2392) are located in the constellation Gemini (the twins). To locate Gemini, look for two bright stars, Castor and Pollux, to the upper left of Orion.

Gas giant Jupiter returns to the star party skies this month, rising at 9 p.m. Jupiter's four brightest moons will be easy to identify on Saturday. Callisto and Europa will be on one side of Jupiter, Io and Ganymede on the other. Europa and Io will be closer to Jupiter, with Io being the closest. Mars will be low in the west, right after sunset.

Star gazers will look at these and many other celestial objects this month. Check the web site, <http://www.centexastronomy.org>, for more information and directions to the site closest to you. Dress warmly. Clear nights cool off quickly. In the event of cloudy weather, a cancellation notice will be posted on the CTAS website homepage by 6 p.m.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

The number of tricks a side can make often is determined by distributional factors rather than high-card points, as witness this deal from a match between Ireland and Italy.

The Irish declarer, Peter Pigot, got to four hearts doubled as shown after East, Benito Garozzo, opened with one club, showing 16 or more points.

West led a spade, ruffed by Pigot, who returned the king of diamonds and discarded a spade from dummy. East took the ace and played another queen. Garozzo could do no better than return a trump, won by South with the ace.

After ruffing a diamond with dummy's last trump, Pigot took a club finesse, which won, and led the J-10 of diamonds. West ruffed with his high trump and played still another spade, but Pigot ruffed and scored the last two tricks with the A-J of clubs to make four hearts doubled.

Thus it was that South, with 17 points, scored 10 tricks, while East-West, with 23 points, scored only three.

The outcome emphasizes that what counts in bridge is the number of tricks you can take and not the number of points you have. Point-count enthusiasts eventually learn from bitter experience that while high-card points are a valuable measuring rod, they are by no means an accurate barometer of how many tricks actually can be made.

Green Anole

The Green Anole is oviparous

There are certain animals that elicit feelings of nostalgia back to a time when local dime stores and mail-order magazines would stock "chameleons" for those who were interested. While these little gems were sold as some exotic treasure, most folks didn't realize that this animal was actually one that is common in Texas, the Green Anole.

The Green Anole (Anolis carolinensis) is one of two species of anoles that live in Texas, and it is the only native variety. Observations of this pretty little lizard are generally relegated to the eastern half of the state, with the Concho Valley area being the farthest range to the west. Elsewhere in the United States it can be observed throughout the gulf coast states and northward through parts of the Atlantic Seaboard.

The habitats that this colorful lizard prefers are arboreal settings in densely vegetated areas. Although occasional specimens are discovered foraging on the ground, the vast majority of sightings are of individuals in shrubbery and short trees. Many Green Anoles are observed living around landscaped human habitations such as houses and even businesses.

Wild About Texas

The Green Anole is among the most brilliantly colored and yet plain lacerilian species in the United States. The scales on the back are small and granular in appearance and texture, and it is one of the few lizards in the world that can undergo a complete change in color, hence the popular name in the southeast of American Chameleon. The background coloration varies from a bright green to a dark brown, all depending on a variety of environmental factors. Contrary to popular belief, neither this species nor the true Chameleons of the Old World change colors to match their surroundings. The Green Anole maintains a shade of various greens when relaxed while in times of distress or when the temperatures are below optimal it will hold various shades of brown. The elongated head is not noticeably separated from the body, and the tail, which is colored like the back, is about one-half of the six inch total length.

"American Chameleons", like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that it does not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather is dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. It is active during the early mornings and late afternoons from early April to October, and like many other reptile species it avoids the hottest part of the day by resting in shaded areas.

This species of lizard is an opportunistic carnivore, feeding primarily on small insects such as moths, butterflies, crickets, grasshoppers, beetles, and the like. Occasionally larger males will feed on smaller lizards, but this is rather rare in occurrence.

The Green Anole is oviparous, which is a fancy way of saying that it lays eggs. After emerging from the winter-long brumation period (reptiles do not hibernate in the true sense of the word), males will search out females to mate. During the breeding season, which is typically in early spring, males will attempt to attract females by extending his bright pink dewlap (a flap of skin underneath the chin) while bobbing his head in a "push-up" manner. After a month following a successful copulation, the female will begin to lay clutches of two eggs. As many as five clutches can be produced by a single mating session. These eggs are laid in areas of high humidity, and typically will hatch in about five weeks. The two-inch long hatchlings are colored identically like the adults, and are capable of fending for themselves immediately.

This lizard species is a gregarious basker and will often allow people to get rather close as it relies upon its coloration for protection. However, once it feels an intruder has approached too close for comfort, it will quickly dart for cover among the leaf litter.

Bell County Master Gardener's spring plant sale March 25

When it comes to plants, research is constantly being done to find and improve characteristics of the many different varieties of flowering, and fruiting plants, as well as trees and grasses. Those which perform well and have the desired characteristics may get to wear the title of Texas Superstar®.

When you think about Superstar plants, popularity and success comes to mind. When it comes to being a Texas Superstar®, a plant must be not only beautiful, but must also perform well for both the consumer and the grower.

Texas Superstars® are varieties which have been subjected to statewide testing by Texas A&M AgriLife Research and the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service. It is not easy to become a Texas Superstar® and it certainly doesn't happen overnight.

First, a plant undergoes several of years of extensive field trails during which it has to show itself to be disease and insect tolerant, beautiful, and yet require minimal care and minimal need for chemical pest control. Next the decision on what plants will be marketed as Texas Superstar® plants is made by an Executive Board based on observations made at plots and demonstration trials throughout the state. Finally, growers must be able to produce a sufficient number of the plants to meet the increased demand created by Texas Superstar® marketing.

Along with A&M designated EarthKind® plants, some 27 different Texas Superstar® plants will be available for purchase at the annual Bell County Master Gardener's annual spring plant sale being held Saturday, March 25 from 8 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Bell County AgriLife Building grounds located at 1605 N. Main in Belton.

Many categories of specialty and Heirloom plants will be available including annuals, perennials, roses, succulents, vines, trees, shrubs, groundcovers, herbs and vegetables. Just a few of the Superstars you can find at the sale are: Artic Frost and Orange Frost Satsumas, New Gold Lantana, Mexican Bush Sage, Gold Star Esperanza, Tycoon Tomatoes, Laura Bush Petunia.

If you have additional questions, contact the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service, Bell County Office, 1605 North Main Street, Suite 102, Belton, Texas or call the office at 254-933-5305.
