Road funding could lead to breakdown

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

After rejecting a $141,718.45 bid for reconstruction of a 0.2 mile of Chisholm Trail June 5, aldermen voted unanimously to consider adding $50,000 per year to the road budget for a five-year plan to add sidewalks, Victorian-era streetlights and benches along Main Street.

Earlier in the day, city administrator Jim Reed told the board that he wanted “to be sure we are taking a realistic look” at Salado’s approach to repairing and replacing road surfaces. Currently, the city budgets approximately $135,000 for road resurfacing with another $20,000 for minor road repairs.

He told aldermen that the Village has 68.2 miles of roads within its boundaries. “Cost estimates for a seal coating roads in central Texas is $13,000 to $28,000 per mile,” Reed said.

It could cost the village more than $1.3 million to seat coat all of its roads, according to Reed. He said that the standard for resurfacing roads is a five to seven year basis, “depending upon the quality and condition of the road base underneath.”

Salado has not seal coated roads in the past several years. Instead, the road budget has been mostly dedicated to an approach of completely replacing about 0.2 miles of road per year, along with ribbon curbs to extend the life of the road. Replacement of the Smith Bluff bridge devoured one year’s budget, as did replacement of Park Road due to the damage of the 2010 Salado Creek flood.

“If we wait until a road is in disrepair,” Reed said,

“it will only cost us that much more to resurface it.”

He estimated that seal coating all of the village streets would cost the Village about $279,000 a year for the next five years. This would cost approximately 8.5 cents in additional property taxes, according to Reed.

“Seal coating is perfectly fine for most of the roads in Salado, as long as the base underneath is in good condition,” he told aldermen in the workshop session.

“Seal coating is the least expensive method” for road repairs, according to Reed. “If we are under funding the most basic way to do road maintenance, then you need to know that. It will be much more expensive if we take another approach. This will help you decide what a realistic road budget is.”

Reed warned that a budget of $135,000 per year for roads is “going to result in infrastructure breakdown.

Area municipalities of like size to Salado spend anywhere from $38,802 (Lorena 2013-14 budget) to $577,984 per year for streets (McGregor 2013 budget).

Following the workshop, aldermen defeated a motion 2-3 to award a $141,718.45 bid to Lone Star Grading and Paving for the rehabilitation of Chisholm Trail from 3806 Chisholm Trail to Smith Bluff even though Lone Star was the low bidder.

Alderman Fred Brown said that the proposal “wipes out entire budget for year for a piece of road that is not that serious of a problem.” Aldermen Michael McDougal and Dr. Amber Preston-Dankert vote in favor and Brown, Frank Coachman and Blue Lapis Light will bring a show developed specifically for Salado during its July 25 performance in Pace Park. The performance will be free to the public and is a gift to the community from the Public Arts League of Salado.

Air dancers perform in Pace Park July 25

Blue Lapis Light will be dancing in the ancient oak trees of Pace Park in a free performance at 9 p.m. July 25.

This mesmerizing aerial ballet will “feature dancers in aerial silks suspended from trees and on tiger stands,” according to Lauren Peterson, Managing Director of Blue Lapis Light. “We have created this work specifically for the village of Salado with the aim of inspiring audiences and offering a prayer of peace for the planet.”

The performance of the Austin-based site-specific aerial dance company is the gift of the Public Arts League of Salado to the village. PALS is bringing the one-of-a-kind performance to Salado through a matching grant from the Texas Commission of the Arts.

“We are so excited to have Blue Lapis Light coming to Salado,” said Jill Shipman.

Blue Lapis Light’s breakthrough production was in June 2006 when “Requiem” was held at the unfinished Intel Building in downtown Austin and was seen by more than 14,000 people in 33 performances.

As a result, BLL’s prominence has grown, leading to large-scale performances at the historic Seaholm Power Plant (Illumination; 2007), the J.J. Pickle and Homer Thornberry Federal Buildings in downtown Austin (Constellation; 2007 and 2008, and Impermanence; 2009) and the Long Center for the Performing Arts (ONE; 2010 and Heaven~Earth~One; 2012 and 2013).

“Devotion” in 2011 was another innovation for the company, featuring dancers performing on, in, and above Lady Bird Lake and gaining mention in the New York Times.

Blue Lapis Light is under the direction of its founder Sally Jacques, who creates site-specific aerial dance works that speak to social, political and spiritual issues.

Her direct experiences traveling the globe to work on issues such as homelessness, human rights abuses and environmental racism inform her work as much as her artistic journey.

A native of England, Jacques’ early career included international performances in Munich, Barcelona, Vienna and Costa Rica.

Furry Friends Festival June 14

The Salado Chamber of Commerce will host the Furry Friends Festival 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. June 14 in Pace Park along Salado Creek.

The Furry Friends Festival will offer an array of animal themed vendors, as well as treats for the pups and humans.

Admission to Pace Park is free to all animals and humans.

Returning again this year will be the Military Dog Demonstration Unit from Ft. Hood at 10 a.m. The crowd will be wowed by the strength, agility and command of these military police dogs as they perform their “take-down” techniques.

A costume contest and pet tricks performance will be held at 11 a.m., followed by basic training for pets and their humans at noon.

A portion of the Furry Family Festival proceeds will go to the Wounded Warrior Project.

The event will conclude with the return of the Duck Race to Salado Creek at 2 p.m.. Tickets will be $5 each (six for $25) for a cash prize to the top winner. Tickets are available from the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

Recycling coming to end in Salado

After five years, Salado Recycling is coming to an end in June.

“As the recycling industry grows, support for smaller communities dwindles,” said Karen Kinnison, one of the weekly volunteers for the Keep Salado Beautiful recycling program that is open every Saturday morning.

The last collection day for glass will be June 14. The final day for recycling will be June 21.

“It is hard to end a service that Jay and I believe in strongly: Reduce, Reuse and Recycle,” she added. “We wish for the recycling to continue in Salado and would love it if someone would be willing to pick up the torch.”

Kinnison pointed to the volunteer work of Salado High School honor students, Salado Rotary Club, former mayor Danney McCort and “the many good people who were willing to help out on our rain-or-shine Saturdays of waste management.”

Kinnison said that if a group were willing to take on the task of managing and operating the recycling center, they could contact her on June 14 or June 21.

“We will have information on other recycling locations in the area,” she said, “so that you can continue recycling.”

TxDOT will update locals on I-35

Texas Department of Transportation officials will give a look at what Saladoans should expect over the next 18 months with the expansion project of I-35 during a 6:30 p.m. June 26 town hall meeting at the Salado Intermediate School cafeteria.

While the south entrance to Salado is nearing completion, as well as the overpass on the south side and much of the work is completed on the north side of the project, the next 18 months will be crucial to the reconstruction of the ramps and underpasses at Salado Plaza Dr.

That portion of the overall project may be some of the trickiest part of the expansion of I-35 through Salado. Officials will have more information on what to expect in terms of begin and completion dates as well as impacts on traffic flows.

Officials will always point people to the TxDOT website for I-35 through Central Texas, my35.org and following TxDOT on Twitter for late-breaking news about closings and traffic changes.

TxDOT and construction officials will give an informal brief of plans beginning at 6:30 p.m., followed by an open session of questions and answers. Officials will also stay afterward for specific questions from residents, businesses and other interested parties.

Mayor Skip Blancett is working with TxDOT to organize the meeting. Several, if not all, aldermen are likely to attend the meeting, but no action or discussion by the board of aldermen will occur.

Public Arts League seeks cultural district designation

From Sirena to Salado Legends to the Sculpture Garden to artists working in many media, Salado has been a home to the arts and to artists. Soon, it may have a distinction from the Texas Commission on the Arts.

Public Arts League of Salado filed an application through the TCA Cultural District program to designate much of the downtown and historic district as a Cultural District. This designation may help Salado in securing arts and restoration grants. Just this month, PALS secured a matching grant from TCA to bring Blue Lapis Light to Salado in July (see related story this page).

It will also help with marketing Salado as an arts and culture destination. Just two dozen districts have been designated by TCA and Salado would be the smallest community to receive such a distinction.

Salado aldermen voted unanimously for a resolution of support for the effort to have Salado designated as a Cultural District. The designation does not come with the regulatory strings of other designations, such as historic districts.

Among the communities to receive the designation are these: Abilene, Alpine, Austin, Bastrop, Clifton, Dallas, Denison, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Georgetown, Houston (four), Hunstville, McAllen, Rosenberg, San Angelo, San Antonio, San Elizario, Smithville and Winnsboro.

Letters of support were attached to the application for the cultural designation, including one written by Tim and Marilyn Fleischer that can be found online at www.saladovillagevoice.com.

Tiananmen Square, 25 years later

Heritage Forum

by Edwin Feulner

It's one of the most iconic images of the 20th century: a man standing perfectly still, facing a large tank as it bears down on him. He's unarmed and alone. Defenseless ... except for an unshakable conviction that freedom is so important, it's worth risking your life.

Which is just what that man was doing when in June 1989, he joined thousands of other fellow citizens in China for what became known as the Tiananmen Square Massacre. The tank, which was moving down Beijing's Chang'an Boulevard and could have plowed over him easily, stopped directly in front of him. He stood his ground.

The tank turned right to try and maneuver around him. He immediately stepped to his left and continued to block its path. The tank went left; he moved right back in front of it. Right again, then left. It was no use. His message was plain: You want to move? You want to continue to oppress us? You'll have to do it, quite literally, over my dead body.

How many of us would have had the courage to stand there in the face of what seemed like certain death? How far would we have to be pushed before we said, "Enough"?

The people of China had certainly been pushed quite a bit by that point. The scene described above was the climax of a series of events that began almost two months earlier when former Communist Party General Secretary Hu Yaobang died of a heart attack.

Yaobang had supported reforms that helped bring economic opportunity and some political reforms to China. But hardline Party members forced him from office because he appeared to tolerate student protests that pushed for further freedoms. Now he was truly gone, and many people throughout China were in mourning.

Wang Dan, the main student leader of the Tiananmen Square protests, was among those who encouraged tens of thousands of students, workers and civilians to fill the streets of Beijing in the wake of Yaobang's death. On May 13, they began a hunger strike.

"After the hunger strike, the student movement transformed into a country of political protest with a lot of other groups like workers and especially intellectuals," Wang reflected 20 years later. "That made our government very scared."

So it was not surprising when martial law was declared on May 19. "Until martial law, I didn't say it was very serious," Wang said. "We had such a tradition of student protest. But when the government issued the martial law, I started thinking 'Wow, this is kind of big and very serious.' This martial law made student and government become enemies. Before that, we still had hope for the government."

Matters came to a head on June 3, when armed troops and the government's tanks rolled in and cleared the protestors from Tiananmen Square. Bloodshed followed the next day. Hundreds had been killed by the time the lone protestor some later dubbed "Tank Man" made his unforgettable stand.

Unforgettable, that is, as long as we strive to keep the memory of it alive.

That's why, for example, the Victims of Communism Memorial Foundation marked the 25th anniversary of the Tiananmen Square Massacre on June 11 with a wreath-laying ceremony attended by foreign ambassadors, Chinese dissident leaders, members of Congress and other Washington dignitaries.

The memorial statue for the VOCMF, in fact, is the "Goddess of Democracy," a bronze replica of the statue erected by Chinese students in Tiananmen Square in the spring of 1989. Many world leaders have visited the memorial site in Washington, D.C., to pay their respects and lay commemorative wreaths.

"We never thought a student movement could ever become so big," Wang said. But should we be surprised? History shows that the human desire for freedom can move mountains. It can embarrass a government. It can even stop a tank.

It takes a nearly impenetrable obtuseness to conclude that the most salient thing to know about University of California Santa Barbara killer Elliot Rodger is that he was a white male who didn't like women.

Yet many liberal commentators have managed it in the painful festival of stupidity that has followed his horrific act of mass murder. The reaction has featured rants about sexism, white privilege and Hollywood, all of which are absurdly detached from the reality of what happened at UCSB.

It is usually only the details of these sorts of rampage killings that differ, not the central element: a sick young man not getting proper treatment for his severe mental illness. Rodger's mother had been so frightened by his YouTube videos that she alerted his counselor, and the police visited his apartment. According to The New York Times, Rodger had been prescribed risperidone, an anti-psychotic, but evidently refused to take it.

Even without that background, it is obvious that Rodger's final YouTube video and his 140-page manifesto promising to exact vengeance upon the women who spurned him are the ravings of a deranged person; as such, it is the derangement itself, not the content of the ravings, that is most important. Nonetheless, some commentators have plumbed his lunacy for meaning as if they were reading "The Bell Jar."

Washington Post film critic Ann Hornaday led the way with a piece asserting that it is "clear that his delusions were inflated, if not created, by the entertainment industry he grew up in" (his father works in Hollywood). According to Hornaday, "a sexist movie monoculture" dangerously misled Rodger into believing that he could always get the girl in the end.

Salon ran a piece by Brittney Cooper arguing that "white male privilege kills." Cooper seems to believe that severe psychiatric disorders are something that rich white kids are prone to because they consider themselves so entitled.

The other interpretation is that, as Jessica Valenti put it in a piece for The Guardian, "misogyny kills." There is no doubt that Rodger hated women. But who watches Rodger's final video promising to annihilate all of unworthy humanity like a god and thinks: You know what's wrong with that guy? The sexism. If only he were cool with women, he would want to spare humanity from his wrath.

Nonetheless, the Twitter hashtag #YesAllWomen got started as a rebuke to Rodger's toxic attitude to women. It cataloged all that women suffer from sexism. I don't doubt that it's hurtful, to sample one of the tweets, to be a female shark biologist told that the public isn't ready to see you on camera. It just has nothing to do with Elliot Rodger's condition or his crime.

The reaction to the UCSB killings is sadly typical. Our political and media culture has proven impervious to serious discussion of severe mental illness and how it is treated in this country.

Rep. Tim Murphy, a Pennsylvania Republican, actually has a proposal to make it easier to treat the severely mentally ill. Alas, his bill won't get a viral Twitter campaign because it focuses on the real problem rather than exploiting the latest horror for cheap ideological points.

Fast food giants pick their workers' pockets

No matter how small the haul, a thief is a thief, right?

If a poverty-wage fast-food worker sneaks out a couple of burgers to take home to the kids, the bosses yell: "Thief!"

But what do you call it when the bosses steal from those same workers? How about outrageous, disgusting — or simply unbelievable? Well, believe it or not, it's happening every day in multiple ways, and not by a few bad apples, but in what has become routine corporate practice by McDonald's, Burger King, Domino's, and other hugely profitable giants.

Jim Hightower

Fast food giants are stealing worker's wages.

Technically this short-changing is called "wage theft." It involves such slick-fingered moves as erasing hours from employee time cards, requiring off-the-clock work, not paying for overtime hours, refusing to reimburse workers for gas they burned while making deliveries, or inventing uniform fees and other deductions that illegally drop pay below the minimum wage.

Come on — isn't it shameful enough that these global behemoths pay rock-bottom wages without them circling back like low-life pickpockets to steal from their own employees? This isn't just corporate thievery, it's thuggery.

How low can fast-food greed go? So low that the top bosses at headquarters play a sleazy game of hide and seek, pretending that they have nothing to do with this ripoff. Personnel practices, they air-ily claim, are left to local franchisees, who are "independent business owners." Bovine excrement! Corporate central dictates how much mustard each franchise can put on a bun, so to think that it doesn't monitor every dime in payroll is a ludicrous lie.

In a recent survey of fast-food workers, 9 out of 10 said they've had wages stolen by their bosses. This thievery has become business as usual, and it's worse than shameful — it's slimy. For more information, go to the National Employment Law Project: www.nelp.org.

Longtime Saladoans celebrate 65 years

Robert and Doris Denman of Salado will celebrate 65 years of marriage on June 12. Recently the family gathered for a time of celebration. The Denmans have three children, six grandchildren and six great grandchildren. ## Village Artist form new group to focus on painting live models

The Salado Village Artist announce the forming of a evening group to meet at their facilities, Tuesdays at 6 p.m., for painting and drawing live models (no nudes). This is an opportunity for all levels of experience to practice their skill in the medium of their choice.

The gathering is open for high school students on up and requires a yearly membership fee of $40. This is not a class, just a gathering of artist who want to polish their portrait skills. Call Hollye Davis at 254.541.4098 or email hbd72@hotmail.com, if you are interested in joining the group.

Greatest Generation Exhibition opens June 14

Our Lives, Our Stories: America's Greatest Generation Opens June 14, at Bell County Museum

Who speaks for the experiences of a generation and their impact on the world around them? What experiences help to create a sense of shared identity? Our Lives, Our Stories: America's Greatest Generation, a new exhibition opening Saturday at the Bell County Museum, explores the life arc of the World War II generation—as told in their own words. Born in the 1910s and 1920s, these people were decisively shaped by the Depression and World War II. They went on to make the “baby boom” and shape the economic boom of the postwar era. Today – well into the 21st century – we are all living with their legacy.

Our Lives, Our Stories draws on memories and oral histories gathered by the Minnesota Historical Society to help us understand who these people really were. The exhibition begins with the babies of the 1910s and 1920s, and then explores the human impact of events that marked major turning points in their lives, including the Depression, the bombing of Pearl Harbor, World War II, the rising awareness of Civil Rights, and the growth of media-driven consumer culture during the postwar boom. While this generation's identity is clearly linked to World War II, the focus of Our Lives, Our Stories seeks to restore a wholeness to our understanding of them by allowing people to tell their stories along the larger arc of their lives. In the process, their diversity of memories reveals a complex mix of real people who truly helped shape the world we live in today.

Opening reception will be held at 2 p.m., June 14 with special guest speaker Dr. Jeremi Suri. Professor Suri holds the Mack Brown Distinguished Chair for Leadership in Global Affairs at The University of Texas at Austin.

Our Lives, Our Stories: America's Greatest Generation has been made possible by NEH on the Road, a special initiative of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Originally developed by the Minnesota Historical Society in Saint Paul, Minnesota, the exhibition was adapted and is toured by Mid-America Arts Alliance through NEH on the Road. NEH on the Road offers an exciting opportunity for communities of all sizes to experience some of the best exhibitions funded by the (NEH).

Hans Fields voted against. Aldermen were unanimous in support of considering a $50,000 per year commitment for the next five year for a Main Street project to put lighting, sidewalks and benches in the business district. Year one would be 20 new turn-of-the-century street lights. Year two would another 20 street lights. Year three would add sidewalks and cross walks. Year four would add music speakers along downtown streets, as well as containers for flowers and covered rest area, year five would be for replacement, maintenance and new projects. "This investment will pay great dividends to both the city in increased tax revenue and the businesses that participate as they see their profits increase," he said. In other business, aldermen approved $500 to fund the Salado Volunteers who mow and maintain several public spaces in the community. They also approved Jani King for cleaning of the Stagecoach restrooms, municipal building and Tourism Center, a monthly contract of $467. Aldermen also approved tree trimming in preparation for the Blue Lapis Light performance.

Travel industry comes to Salado

At right, David Teel, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Texas Travel Industry Association (TTIA) Frank Morogiello (Chair), chairman of the TTIA Board of Directors, were enthusiastically thumbs-up during their dinner at The Range Restaurant in the Barton House on June 9, co-hosted by The Range and Salado Tourism Department. The TTIA executive committee came to Salado for a retreat June 8-9. They stayed at Inn on the Creek and enjoyed a Sunday evening reception at The Shed and a gallery reception at Prellop Fine Art Gallery that was hosted by Salado Historical Society. Salado Tourism Director Debbie Charbonneau, Nancy Liles from Abilene and Larry Prellop are shown at right. Charbonneau sits on the TTIA Board of Directors.

Bazar earns All-American honors, pitches in Super Regional finals

Salado Eagles baseball fans may have seen a familiar face on ESPN2 this week when 2013 graduate Reagan Bazar, a leading pitcher on the Eagles team that played in last year's state tournament, took the mound in the final inning of University of Louisiana at Lafayette's loss to Ole Miss in the Super Regionals that sent Ole Miss to Omaha.

When he took the mound, he was the third pitcher in the ninth for the UL-Lafayette Ragin' Cajuns as Ole Miss scored four runs with just one out.

Bazar put an end to the offensive onslaught of Ole Miss. Ole Miss's Preston Overbey doubled to center field. Errol Robinson lined out to left field for the second out of the ninth. Braxton Lee walked to put runners at first and second. Bazar then fanned Auston Bousfield to strike him out and end the inning.

The 6'7" 230 lb. pitcher was named last week to the 2014 Louisville Slugger Freshmen All-American Team, the fourth player from UL-Lafayette to earn that distinction.

He made 25 appearances in the Ragin' Cajuns season, earning a 4-0 record with six saves. He registered a 2.27 ERA this season, striking out 20 batters.

Morgan Hill will play in the Texas Girls Coaches Association All Star Game on July 11. She was also named to the TGCA 2A All State Team. Hill handed the Crawford Lady Pirates their only loss this season and pitched for a 16-8 record. (PHOTO BY TIM FLEISCHER)

Hill will play in All Star Game in Arlington

Morgan Hill's high school softball career is not over just yet. She will play in the Texas Girls Coaches Association All Star game July 11 at the Workman Softball Complex in Arlington.

The pre-game for the 28 players chosen from 1A-3A will begin at 10 a.m. at the softball complex located at 701 East Arbrook Blvd. in Arlington.

She was named to the All Star Red Team of 14 players that will be coached by Head Coach Arthur Behrend of La Grange High School and Assistant Coach Michael Saucke of Hubbard High School.

Hill was also named to the TGCA 2A All State Softball Team as a pitcher. Forty 2A players from around the state received All State honors.

Hill was also named All District as the First Team Pitcher.

Hill pitched in 24 games and had a record of 18-6. She faced 579 batters and had an ERA of 2.18. She struck out 159 batters and allowed 101 hits and 76 walks.

At the plate, she had a batting average of .333 in 153 plate appearances. She had 38 hits and drove in 13 runs.

Hill handed the State Champion Crawford Lady Pirates their only loss this season pitching the entire game in which Salado won 8-6 in the Region final. Crawford went on to beat Lone Oak 9-2 in the semi-final and East Bernard 5-3 in the final.

Creativity is key at SSAA Camp

The Silver Spur Arts Academy (SSAA), invites you and your children, ages 4 to 18, to celebrate creativity this summer in the heart of Salado.

The SSAA will be offering arts camps 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on June 23-27 and July 21-25 and a mini-camp in August.

"We invite your imagineers and aspiring artists of every kind to plunge into a one-of-a-kind array of dance, drawing, film production, crafting, crooning, painting, play-acting, moving, yoga-grooving, imagining and more," said Tiffany Schreiner, co-founder of the Arts Academy.

Tuition fee for the Camp is $55 per day or $265 for all five days. Students are encouraged to bring a sack lunch or snack to fuel their bodies and minds.

For more information or to reserve a spot for an student, call the Salado Silver Spur Arts Academy ASAP as space is limited, at 254-466-5018, email cosmicbanditastx@gmail.com, or visit the SSAA website: www.silverspurarts.com.

Creative imaginations are celebrated at the Silver Spur Arts Academy Camp for kids. Aspiring artists ages 4 to 18 are encouraged to spend the day creating, moving and bringing that imagination to life. Art camps will be held in June, July and August on Main street in Salado.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

When a defender is reasonably sure he can set an opposing contract, he naturally considers doubling. Before he actually utters the word, however, the defender should consider whether he might be giving away information that will help declarer make a contract that might otherwise fail.

Take this case where West doubled four hearts and led the three of clubs. South had no trouble diagnosing the three as a singleton, since the deuce was in dummy and the bidding marked West with length in spades and hearts.

Declarer won the club with the queen and, utilizing his knowledge of West's hand to the fullest, cashed the ace of hearts, disdaining a finesse. When East showed out as expected, South led another heart toward the J-8.

West put up the king since declarer would finesse the eight if the heart was ducked. Furthermore, West wanted to lock declarer in dummy and force him to lead a diamond or a club.

Accordingly, after taking the heart king, West played the ace and another spade to dummy's king. Declarer cashed the jack of hearts and then made the key play, leading the diamond king from dummy. This rendered the defense helpless. (If declarer had led a low diamond instead, East could have won the trick and given West a club ruff to defeat the contract.)

West took the king of diamonds with the ace, but when he tried to cash the queen, declarer ruffed and drew West's ten of trumps with the queen. South then claimed, discarding his fourth spade on one of dummy's good clubs.

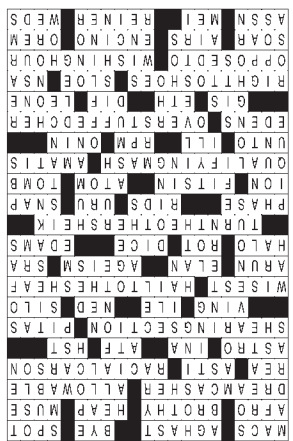

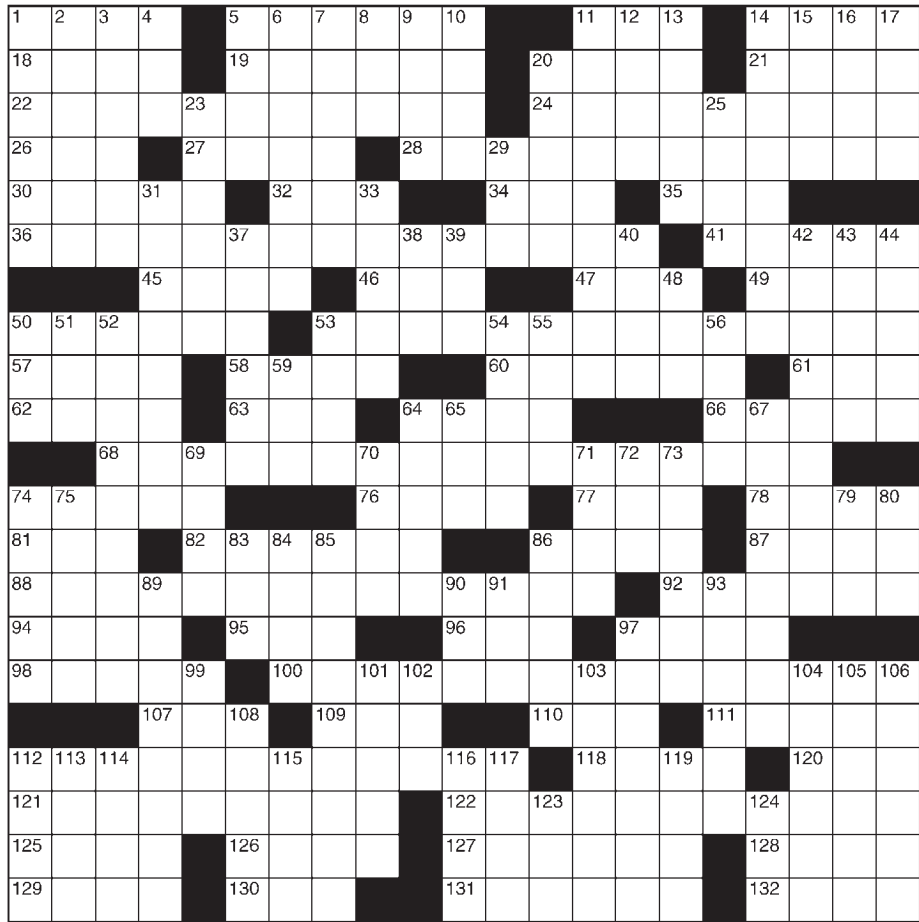

It's true that South might have made four hearts without the double by West, but the double left declarer with no doubt about how to proceed.

BBB Alert: False utility bill collectors con consumers into payment

BBB warns of utility scams targeting local consumers

BBB serving Central, Coastal, Southwest Texas and the Permian Basin has received reports from CPS Energy in San Antonio that customers are claiming they are being contacted by someone representing the utility company. These scammers request payment or threaten the customers with disconnection of service. Last week, CPS Energy received over 100 reports of these types of encounters. Unfortunately, nearly a dozen individuals complied with the scammer's request.

Residential and commercial customers are receiving phone calls or visits from individuals claiming to be with CPS Energy. They use electric utility terminology to gain customers' trust. In some cases, scammers make their phone numbers show up on caller ID as originating from the customer's utility company. These cons may also create a sense of urgency, especially for businesses, by threatening to shut off power immediately if a payment is not made. Customers who have been contacted in this way should call the police and CPS Energy directly.

Customers should know that CPS Energy employees will:

NEVER threaten to disconnect service by phone or in-person.

NEVER ask for Green Dot or prepaid cards.

NEVER call to request credit card or banking information.

NOT ask to enter a home without a request for service or prior notification.

BBB wants consumers to be on alert and has this advice to avoid being scammed:

Hang up the phone. Utility representatives should never ask customers to wire money for payment or ask asks customers to pay with a prepaid debit card. Beware if you are asked to provide credit card numbers or banking information over the phone. Hang up and call the utility company directly to verify whether you owe money.

Never give out personal information. Never give out your bank account numbers, date of birth, credit card number or Social Security number to unidentified individuals.

Get informed. Find out what forms of payment your utility company accepts. If the caller is requesting a wire transfer or prepaid debit card payment, that's a red flag. If you are visited by someone claiming to be a CPS Energy representative, you can call the company's Security Hotline at (210) 353-4000 to confirm that the individual is an actual CPS Energy employee.

Keep numbers updated. If you are contacted by a utility company employee and asked for personal information, it's best to hang up and dial the number on your phone bill to be sure you are speaking with a legitimate representative.

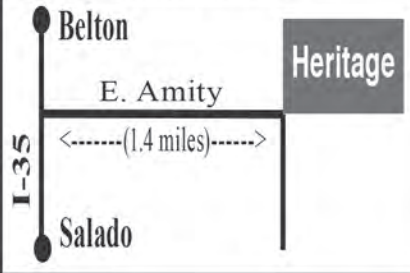

Get help. If you receive a phone call to make a wire transfer to pay a utility bill, report the incident immediately to your utility company.

Texas Wildlife Webinar

Texas Wildlife Association has teamed with Texas A&M AgriLife Extension to host a series of webinars covering a wide array of wildlife and land management topics. These FREE online webinars are held during the lunch hour (noon - 1 p.m., CST) so that anyone interested may tune in during the work day. The webinar series provides sound, science-based wildlife management information delivered by experts to you in the comfort of your own home or office.

The next webinar, "State and Federal Government Landowner Assistance Programs", will be held on June 19. This month's presenter is Jon Hayes, Oaks and Prairies Joint Venture Conservation Delivery Specialist, Texas Parks and Wildlife. The webinar will provide information on programs and services made available to private landowners in Texas by the various local, state, and federal resource agencies. Focus will be on financial incentive programs, however, programs that provide technical assistance, planning assistance, and equipment will also be discussed.

How to sign on: On the day of the webinar, simply point your browser to <https://texas-wildlife.webex.com> and click to join the Wildlife for Lunch webinar. (Please note: WebEx webinars are not supported on handheld devices such as iPads or iPhones.) Each web based seminar is fully interactive and allows you to engage the experts, make comments, and ask questions during the course of the presentation.

If you cannot make the live webinar: Each webinar is archived and available for viewing following the initial air date at the Texas Wildlife Association website: www.texas-wildlife.org.

Spruce up your home this summer for under $100

(StatePoint) Looking for an easy and inexpensive way to refresh your home this summer? With a little inspiration and work you can give your home a quick makeover within a limited budget.

“From interior décor projects to a fresh coat of paint, there are plenty of ways to make a big impact in a room for under $100,” says Carmen De La Paz, 3M spokesperson and former host of HGTV’s “Hammer Heads.”

With that in mind, De La Paz, an interior designer and DIY expert, has some tips to help inspire project ideas:

- Refurbishing a home can be expensive and tiring. Don’t replace perfectly good furniture when there is no need. Instead, consider refreshing a tired chair, table or coat rack with a coat of paint.
- Make a big impact by painting an accent wall in your home. Consider using complementary color

First, tape off rectangles with high-quality painter’s tape. The shapes can be varying sizes and shapes to create an interesting wall effect. Apply your creativity to have the shapes fill your wall space.

Remember, there are no rules, so at this point, get experimental and tape a design that looks appealing to you.

After taping, choose a single paint color and trace the painter’s tape. For a bolder effect, pick two complementary colors and alternate tracing the rectangle shapes. Alternating colors will achieve a brighter, bolder look. Take into consideration what the room will be used for as that can help set the tone for the pattern and colors.

Also be sure to let the paint dry enough so that it’s dry to touch before carefully removing it.

Feeling inspired? Channel that creativity this summer by submitting your own home refresh project for under $100 and you could win $5,000 to put towards a home makeover. Visit www.ScotchBlue.com/home-contest to enter the “Home of ScotchBlue Painter’s Tape” contest by July 15, 2014 or learn more, and see official rules.

You don’t need an enormous budget or a professional. With a bit of inspiration and the right tools, you can refresh any humdrum space in an afternoon.

to the palette of the space. Whether you want to enhance the size of a room, draw attention to a new furniture piece or just add a little flair, an accent wall is a simple way to make it happen.

- Paint a fresh design element like a pattern or a stripe to change the look of a room. You don’t need to turn to a professional service for sharp, crisp paint lines. With a high quality painter’s tape, such as the new ScotchBlue Painter’s Tape with Advanced Edge-Lock Paint Line Protector, you can get super sharp paint lines. This tape provides edge-to-edge protection for improved paint bleed performance.

- Spice up your room with a DIY wall art project, such as this one from the Nesting Place blog.
