Evening of light, dance set July 25 in Salado's Pace Park

Blue Lapis Light will be dancing in the ancient oak trees of Pace Park in a free performance at 9 p.m. July 25.

Prior to the performance, children from the Salado Silver Spur Arts Academy camp held July 21-25 will perform in a recital and film presentation at 7:30 p.m.

You will want to come early for some of the activities that will occur in Pace Park leading up to the night-time dance by Blue Lapis Light.

You can have your photo taken as a mermaid in backdrops painted by Debbie Harrison.

There will be food and drink and activities for the family leading up to the performance by Blue Lapis Light, arranged specifically for Salado.

This mesmerizing aerial ballet will "feature dancers in aerial silks suspended from trees and on tiger stands," according to Lauren Peterson, Managing Director of Blue Lapis Light. "We have created this work specifically for the village of Salado with the aim of inspiring audiences and offering a prayer of peace for the planet."

The performance of the Austin-based site-specific aerial dance company is the gift of the Public Arts League of Salado to the village. PALS is bringing the one-of-a-kind performance to Salado through a matching grant from the Texas Commission of the Arts.

"We are so excited to have Blue Lapis Light coming to Salado," said Jill Shipman.

Blue Lapis Light's breakthrough production was in June 2006 when "Requiem" was held at the unfinished Intel Building in downtown Austin and was seen by more than 14,000 people in 33 performances.

As a result, BLL's prominence has grown, leading to large-scale performances at the historic Seaholm Power Plant (Illumination; 2007), the J.J. Pickle and Homer Thornberry Federal Buildings in downtown Austin (Constellation; 2007 and 2008, and Impermanence; 2009) and the Long Center for the Performing Arts (ONE; 2010 and Heaven~Earth~One; 2012 and 2013).

Village to discuss purchase of theater

Salado aldermen will discuss at their July 10 workshop meeting the possibility of the Village purchasing the Sanford-Guest granary that housed the Salado Silver Spur theater.

Since the Silver Spur theater closed the building has not had a tenant and is currently owned by Morris Foster.

Announcements concerning items of community interest will be made as well.

Salado digs flowers in summer-

The Baines House was the first Salado Digs Flowers garden of the month, having been selected by a committee of three Master Gardeners. Others will be announced each month through the growing season of the summer and early fall.

"We do not use fertilizer or chemicals and only kill fire ants and wasps that are close to people places," said Sheryl Russell of the Baines House property that stretches across Center Circle at Royal Street.

"I try to plant enough for the deer and birds and people who stop to look and enjoy," she added. "The serpentine hedge at the west end of Royal was planted by me -- one tiny sprig at a time surrounded by stones. People who walked by teased me about my miniature rock garden that could corral drunk snails."

"Gardens bring people pleasure and connect us in ways that are amazing. I've read that smell/scents linger longer in our memories than sights," Russel said. "Gardens capture all our senses."

The Salado Digs Flowers beautification through streetscaping competition is an effort to promote and beautify the village during the growing season with colorful flowers and plants.

All businesses are encouraged to continue participation by registering their name and address with Keep Salado Beautiful/Salado Community Foundation by sending an email to Susan Terry at sl-terry@gmail.com

Garden areas must include live plants and flowers. Plants can be planting in hanging baskets, planters/pots, green-wall systems or in the ground.

Each month, noteworthy gardens will have signs placed at their business locations.

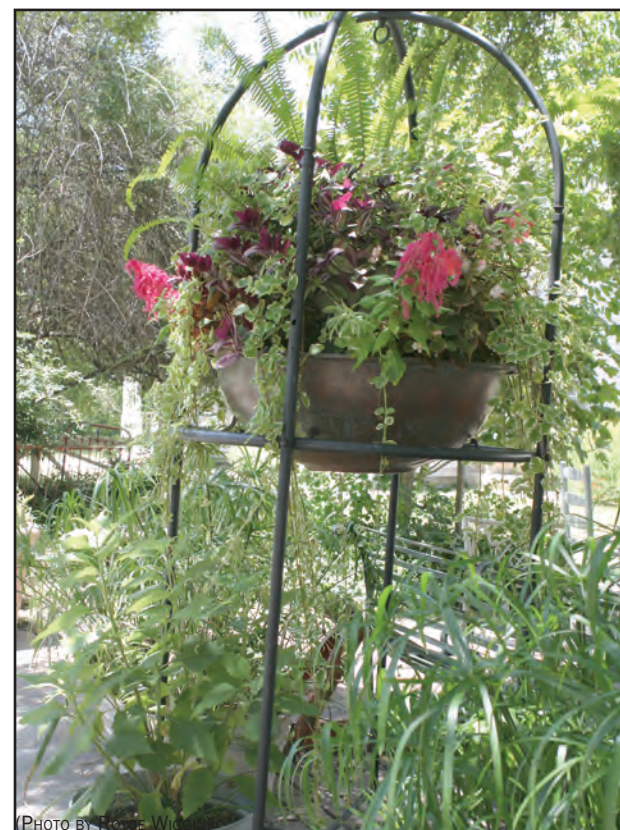

Each business must water and maintain its garden until the judging is complete and the winner is announced on October

2 at the regular Board of Alderman Meeting

To choose the winners, judges will select the garden and/or individual business whose display has the greatest impact by transforming the shopping area with flowers.

The winners will receive unique garden art crafted by Salado artists suitable for outdoor display as their award. The award will remain with the winner and can be permanently displayed.

If you have any questions or need additional information, contact Debbie Charbonneau at (254) 947-8634 or dcharbonneau@saladotx.gov.

The Baines House is verdant this summer.

The War on Women

It has long been suspected that the Supreme Court hates women, although it took the court's 5-4 decision in the Hobby Lobby case to fully reveal its blatant misogyny.

The court held that the Religious Freedom Restoration Act forbids the administration from forcing Hobby Lobby -- an arts-and-crafts chain owned by evangelical Christians -- to cover contraceptives that its owners object to on religious grounds (specifically, four drugs that it believes act as abortifacients).

If you don't see the anti-women agenda at work in this decision, you aren't as discerning as the hysterics on the left who point out, accusingly, that the five justices in the majority are all men. QED.

Sen. Harry Reid, displaying his unflinching instinct for the inane, tweeted, "It's time that five men on the Supreme Court stop deciding what happens to women." The majority leader seems to believe that the court was deliberating in the case of Hobby Lobby Stores, Inc., et al. v. The Fate of Women's Freedom in the United States.

The ruling was quite limited. It didn't strike down the contraception mandate, which represents a sweeping extension of government power. The decision only says that the mandate can't apply to Hobby Lobby and other closely held corporations that oppose it on religious grounds.

Of course, Hobby

Rich Lowry

Lobby doesn't have the power to deny its employees the drugs it finds objectionable, nor does it claim such a power. Women who work for the company can buy them on their own. For that matter, Hobby Lobby doesn't claim the right to stop them from having abortions. The women who work for Hobby Lobby have exactly as much "choice" now as they did prior to the decision.

The Religious Freedom Restoration Act, passed by Congress in the 1990s with large bipartisan majorities, created a broad protection for religious liberty. It says that government can't create a substantial burden on someone's exercise of religion unless it is using the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling government interest. The court held that there are less restrictive means for the government to get women the drugs in question.

head around the idea that the law or the Constitution sometimes limits the means whereby it seeks to achieve its ends. The left doesn't really do law. It often doesn't even do reasoning. It does bullying and demagoguery. In the argument over Hobby Lobby, it has brought the logic of the "war on women" -- its shameless smear job -- to the Supreme Court.

There are numerous lawful ways around the Hobby Lobby decision. If it wants to get at the root of the matter, Congress can carve out an exception from the Religious Freedom Restoration Act for the contraception mandate, or repeal the act in its entirety. Surely, if liberal lions like Ted Kennedy and Bill Clinton had foreseen how the act would eventually get in the way of the left's coercive cultural agenda, they never would have supported it.

But finding a way to eviscerate or kill the act is for another day. For now, inveighing against the sexist Supreme Court is the priority.

Even Fox News roasted our former vice president over his attack on Obama's Iraq policy

Republican opportunists hoping to score political points are hammering President Barack Obama with vitriolic criticism and blaming him for the latest upheaval in Iraq. So I was pleased when, finally, two Republicans spoke out loudly to deflect those partisan attacks.

Thank you, Dick and Liz Cheney.

I mean it. The snarling, self-righteous, shameless old hypocrite wrote a nasty op-ed with his daughter in The Wall Street Journal. They meant to skewer Obama on Iraq, but their words backfired.

Dick Cheney's Iraq Offensive

The Cheneys' attack was so vitriolic and personal -- even accusing Obama of betrayal and being "a fool" -- that it revealed just how mean and malignantly partisan they are. More significantly, though, the venomous rant reminded everyone that -- wait a minute -- it wasn't Obama who made a ghastly mess of Iraq.

It was former Vice President Dick Cheney and his imperious regime of neo-con chicken-hawks.

The punchline in their op-ed was a haymaker intended to floor Obama:

history has proven that you got it wrong as well in Iraq, sir. You said there was no doubt Saddam Hussein had weapons of mass destruction. You said we would be greeted as liberators. You said the Iraq insurgency was in the last throes back in 2005," Fox interviewer

Gage Skidmore/Flickr

"Rarely has a U.S. president been so wrong about so much at the expense of so many."

But -- whammo -- it was such a wild swing that instead of socking Obama, the Cheneys' roundhouse punch went full-circle and smashed into the former vice president's own glass jaw. Even Fox News, which had been a wildly enthusiastic backer of Cheney's wars, roasted him over that line.

"Time and time again,

Megyn Kelly told Dick Cheney. "What do you say to those who say you were so wrong about so much at the expense of so many?"

Precisely, right.

Thank you, Dick and Liz Cheney, for taking the heat off of Obama and putting it right where it belongs.

Random acts: Salado

As much as we elected officials want to significantly influence and improve Salado through policy, encouragement, and meetings, we cannot. It comes from individual people or small groups doing Random Acts of Kindness (for lack of a better phrase) in partnership with us. Examples:

A Random Act of Kindness: Billy Helms and the Golf Course members invited the community to a spectacular fireworks show complete with food and said, "enjoy, be our guest."

A Random Act of Kindness: PALS envisions a performance in the ancient Oak Trees of Pace Park and invites Blue Lapis Light for an evening of acrobatic beauty; paid for it; and said to the village, "especially for you, no cost."

A Random Act of Kindness: First State Bank to the Aldermen, "You have a difficult, problem-solving six hours Saturday, let us bring you lunch, our treat." Bell County COG, "use our Conference

Mayor Skip Blancett

Room."

Random Acts of Kindness: The VIP Volunteers mow daily "for the beauty and love of Salado."

A Random Act of Kindness: Salado ISD said "Yes" when the TX-DOT Information Briefing and the Historical Society Picnic needed a place to meet.

Random Acts of Kindness: Tablerock trains Broadway actors, Keep Salado Beautiful, gardeners; and Midnight Madness, athletes.

Random Acts of Kindness: Salado-style. A neighbor takes someone to the doctor; a meal to a bereaved family; a note to a shut-in; a smile to brighten a day; a "I'll keep the kids, enjoy the evening."

It is YOU that influences and improves, we only help (and sometimes get in the way). Random Acts of Kindness makes a Village strong, vibrant, and healthy.

By-the-way, that mail-person could use a thank you card; that struggling shop, a sale; that neighbor, a helping hand -- YOU know what to do -- YOU ARE SALADO.

Fireworks: some great, some not-so-great

To the Editor:

When you think you have seen it all, you may not have! Upon my arriving at the Mill Creek Golf Course, everyone was enjoying great hamburgers and hotdogs, visiting happily with one another, and waiting for the fireworks display that was soon to follow the sunset. My attitude was casual about fireworks before Saturday night. I have seen them before, I thought. Wrong! I had never seen anything like the spectacular fireworks display over the Mill Creek Golf Course Pond. My jaw dropped and mouth went open after the first explosion of color, light, and sound. It stayed open in awe throughout the entire event. The crowd moaned and gasped as they watched totally captivated by the cascading nonstop adrenalin creating display in the sky. Even when the crowd was leaving, they were marveling over the experience, talking to strangers and friends alike.

Thank you Mr. Billy Helm and the Mill Creek Golf Course Association for the wonderful over-the-top gift to the community. It was a well-attended, well-appreciated, family adventure that will never be forgotten by those that were fortunate enough

To the Editor :

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Mill Creek Country Club for the July 4th activities on the evening of Saturday, July 5th.

The food and drink were great. Many Salado residents and friends from many places filled the club house and areas around the golf course to watch the wonderful 4th of July Fireworks Display. It made me and many others proud to be a resident of Salado. This is what Salado is.

Sincerely,
Jack Hardin

To the Editor:

WOW!!! What a super fantastic Fireworks show provided Saturday night by the Mill Creek Country Club. The program started a few minutes after 9 p.m. and lasted for the better part of twenty minutes. Location was the pond near the clubhouse and the presentation was varied, extensive, impressive and very professional. It was difficult to estimate the size of the crowd because they continued to arrive well after dark on foot and by golf cart, car and pickup. A safe perimeter was established around the pond and Salado VFD had personnel and several trucks strategically stationed for safety. Likewise, Salado PD was also on hand. Attendees included families with small children that romped and played on the grass beforehand. And then there were folks of all ages, including Joan and I who drove over in our convertible with the top down for better viewing.

We've seen a number of fireworks shows over the years and last night's was one of the very best. What a terrific finale to our Independence Day celebration. Thanks to the new and greatly improved Mill Creek Country Club for this spectacular show.

Humane Heroes rescue 44 dogs from local breeding facility

Due to an increase in awareness of the number of homeless animals falling victim to space-related killing in local municipal shelters, the public is responding with pointed leads and assistance in ending the over-breeding of dogs throughout our community. Yet another Bell County dog breeder has agreed to close her business and asked Texas Humane Heroes (TXHH), a private, non-profit, No Kill animal adoption organization to find forever homes for the remaining 44 animals. The dogs are currently being assessed for medical needs and will be available for adoption at the TXHH Killeen Adoption Center beginning July 9 at 11 a.m.

Texas Humane Heroes coordinated efforts to safely take in over 40 dogs from the breeding facility this past Monday. The breeds include Chihuahuas, Poodles, Shih Tzus, Cocker Spaniels, and Schnauzers. The cost of spay/neutering, micro-chipping, vaccinating, and caring for each of these dogs is approximately $200. Community members are encouraged to donate to TXHH's Emory Bellard Memorial Fund at www.TexasHumaneHeroes.org/donate to assist TXHH in continuing rescue efforts of this kind.

"To know that our community is actively supporting animal welfare through the adoption of homeless animals as a family companion is heart-warming to say the least. Hearing that the breeding facilities are closing and breeders are willingly turning over the animals to organizations like ours is certainly a step in the right direction. In order to end mass euthanasia in municipal shelters nationwide, we must join together in the movement to continue to spay/neuter our animals and choose adoption," said Eran Fehily, Director of Development with Texas Humane Heroes.

"This breeding facility, along with many others nationwide, may not necessarily be considered a 'puppy mill'; nonetheless, the animal conditions were heart-breaking. Many of the dogs have come to TXHH in poor physical condition, needing dental care, vaccinations, and grooming. Dogs were seen with skin sores, missing and rotting teeth, and in great need of individual attention and affection. Several of the adult female dogs are pregnant and will be placed into foster care immediately to care for the mothers and the eventual birth of the puppies, who will be ready for adoption at eight weeks of age. Our hopes are that each of these dogs will find a loving forever family to spend their life with," continued Fehily.

Many of the dogs from this breeder rescue effort are available for adoption at the Texas Humane Heroes - Killeen Adoption Center, located at 5501 Clear Creek Rd beginning July 9. Additional dogs from this rescue will be available for adoption at the TXHH Leander Adoption Center, located at 10930 E Crystal Falls Pkwy, beginning July 11.

Chasing Texas Confederates is topic at Geanealogical Society meeting July 15

“Looking for Bizarre Travel? How About Chasing Texas Confederates?” will be presented at the East Bell County Genealogical Society meeting July 15, at the Temple Public Library.

Killeen residents Annette Lucksinger, a retired school teacher, and her husband Henry, a retired dentist, started looking for Texas Confederates when the civil war sesquicentennial began.

They share their travel experiences and the chasing of Texas Confederates, along with some interesting and unique finds. Both are members of Bell County Historical Commission and she writes articles on their travels in the Bell County Historical Commission newsletter.

The East Bell County Genealogical Society meetings are held on the third Tuesday of each month, 6:30 - 8 p.m., in the boardroom, 3rd floor, Temple Public Library, 100 North First Street, Temple TX. Meetings are open to the public.

To the Editor:
The police report last week concerning the two huge broken limbs caused by the large moving van does not state all the facts. I was present both days and these are the facts.

The afternoon of June 25, a moving van was proceeding west on Indian Trail to move a family from Salado. The van grazed a large tree that forms a canopy over the street, scattered leave and small branches. The homeowner followed the van and addressed the driver in a very civil manner and asked him to please go around the other way on Indian Trail. He stated that because of all the recent moisture, the large limbs with lots of foliage were slightly sagging after he had hired a professional tree-trimmer to cut the limbs, raising them to 14’4”, four inches above the required Salado ordinance. The driver did state that his customer, the homeowner who was moving, had directed him to a better route. Then, for apparently no reason, the van driver’s attitude and tone changed and he became belligerent with the homeowner (of the tree). We left the area with nothing else said.

The next afternoon the homeowner, his son and myself returned from town after admiring the areas we had mowed and cleaned up to find two large limbs, still attached to the tree but lying flat on the road (Indian Trail). The van driver and two helpers -- driving a U-Haul truck -- were attempting to pull the limbs out of the street. The homeowner was assessing the damage when he was told by the driver to “get out of my way or I’m going to pull these limbs down on top of you.” The homeowner, who was driving his golf cart with his son as his passenger, did move away to avoid further ramifications. The homeowner’s son was talking to the driver in a non-threatening manner when the driver wrapped a chain around his hand, stating, “Don’t come near me or I’ll use this chain on you.”

Soon the police arrived. From the outset, it was evident that our Salado police officer was sympathetic to the moving van driver. He was not interested in any facts except that the truck was 13’6” in height (actually 13’7”) and the tree was lower. Nothing about the discussion the day before or the driver’s threat with the chain was written into the officer’s report. The officer’s parting remark alluded to it being the homeowner’s responsibility to “clean up this mess.” With that, the moving van driver was not held accountable for his wrongdoing nor his threats and was escorted out of town.

The police reports stated that the homeowner was upset and causing a disturbance. He was very upset, but not the one who caused the disturbance. The morning of June 27, Skip Blancett, Fred Brown and Will Dankert removed the large amount of broken limbs and cleaned up the debris caused by the moving van. This was very much appreciated by the homeowner and the neighborhood.

If you like live Texas music, you will have your choice of it on July 12 as three different venues in Salado are bringing a variety of music to town.

Roger Creager will take the stage at Johnny's Outback with the gates opening at 6:30 p.m. July 12. Tickets are $20 per person at the gate.

Jenna McDaniel will perform 7-10 p.m. July 12 at The Shed, corner of Royal and Center Circle.

Benjamin Guenther will perform upstairs at The Lounge at the Range Restaurant on Main St. beginning at 7 p.m. July 12.

Roger Creager will take the stage at Johnny's Outback on July 12, playing songs from his new CD Road Show set for release in July. He recently released River Song, the first single from the album.

Creager is an adventurer; he does not like to sit still while the world passes by. Whether it's climbing Mount Kilimanjaro in Africa, jumping off his boat to snorkel with wild dolphins, snow skiing in the Rockies, catching tuna 100 miles from shore, piloting his airplane to far-off concerts, spear-fishing around oil rigs, scuba diving coral reefs, surfing in Costa Rica, or playing music through the Italian countryside, he tries to get the most out of what the world has to offer. All of this finds its way into Roger's music and live shows.

The gates open at 6:30 p.m. and tickets are available for $20 per person at the gate.

Jenna McDaniel will perform at The Shed on Royal and Center Circle 7-10 p.m. July 12.

Currently ranking #1 on the local country charts, Jenna McDaniel has performed in venues from Texas to Nashville. With her guitar in hand, Jenna has shared her talent either as the headliner or the opening act for the likes of Cory Morrow, Roger Creager, Jason Bolland, Aaron Watson, Wade Bowen, Rick Trevino, and John David Kent.

With a busy development and performing schedule, Jenna still finds time to give back to the community by volunteering for nonprofits and fundraisers. You may see her around town helping the Ronald McDonald House, Love Cures, or the Temple Jaycees.

Benjamin Guenther will perform upstairs at The Lounge at the Range Restaurant on Main St. beginning at 7 p.m. July 12.

Over the past twelve years, Benjamin Guenther has performed solo music at weddings, charity events, private parties, bars, and restaurants across Texas.

Guenther can hold an audience captive with his acoustic guitar, harmonica, and diverse vocals. Celebrating all types of music, Ben takes song requests from a wide variety of genres including country, classic rock, reggae, and Americana.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Where's the missing damsel?

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Assume you're South and get to four spades as shown. West starts by cashing the K-A-Q of diamonds, East producing the doubleton 10-9, and shifts to the ten of clubs.

You win with the ace, play the A-K of trumps, catching West's Q-x, and there you are with the contract securely in tow -- provided you guess which way to take the two-way heart finesse.

Undoubtedly, you've faced this situation many times before, and how well you've done at guessing the location of the missing damsel in the past is a good indication of how good a card player you are. How do you solve such problems? Granted, every case is different, but the underlying principle is pretty much the same. You look for clues of any kind whatsoever, and hope they'll point you in the right direction.

Sometimes the winning play is very easy to find, as in the present deal. You've learned quite a lot about West's hand from the bidding and play thus far, and it's not difficult to apply this knowledge to the task at hand.

From the bidding, you know that West passed originally and that he subsequently overcalled your opening spade bid with two diamonds. From the play you learned West started with five diamonds headed by the A-K-Q and that he also had the Q-x of spades.

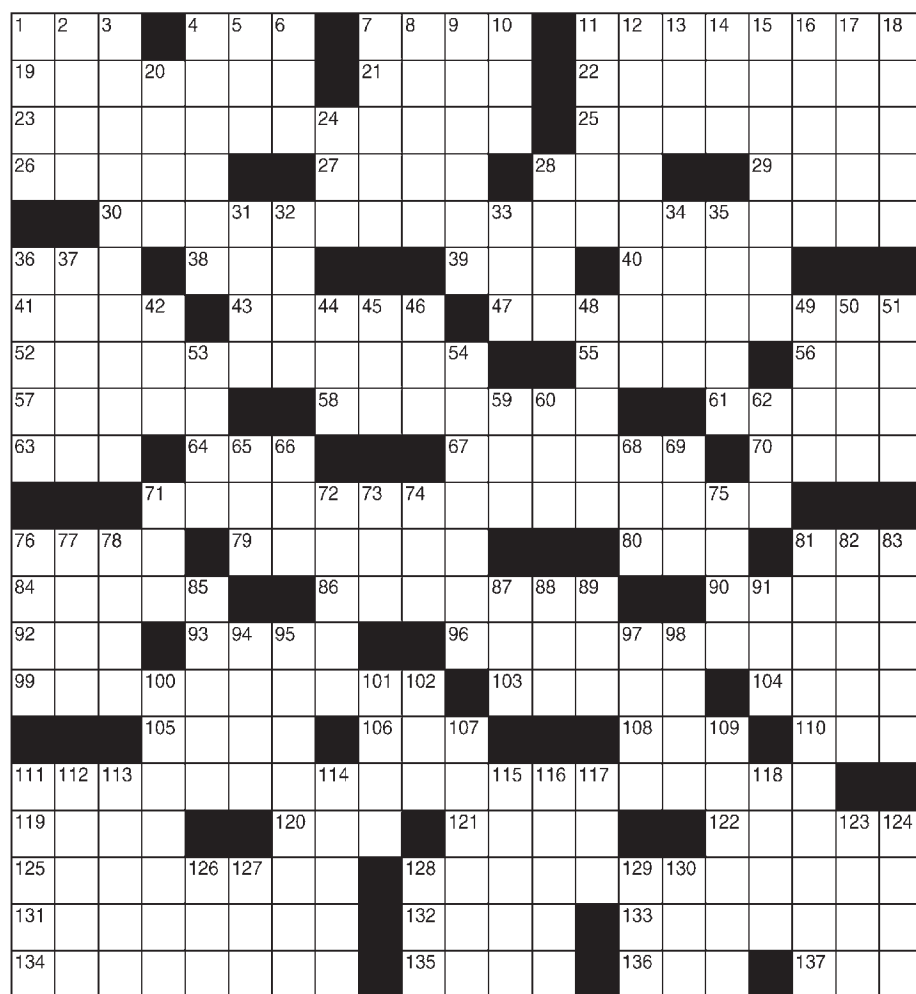

Putting all this together, West can't realistically be credited with the queen of hearts because he surely would have opened the bidding had he held that card. So at trick seven, you lead a heart to the king and return the jack of hearts, planning to finesse with utmost confidence in the outcome.

Add S'more to your campfire this summer

There is no hallmark of summer fun quite like a campfire -- whether you've gathered some neighbors and friends in your own backyard or you're on a backpacking adventure.

In fact, 99 percent of campers have a campfire and 91 percent of campers "roast" over their campfires, according to research from The Mind-Click Group. And now there are some great ways to give this age-old tradition some innovative twists.

Go Green

Take care of the nature that you're enjoying. Remember to keep the honorable principle of "leave no trace" top of mind. Regularly clear your campfire and your campsite of debris and garbage. This is also a good practice to keep bears at bay. Separate your bottles and cans, as many parks have separate bins for recyclables.

You can also green your campfire by your choice of what you burn. Instead of traditional firewood, consider a cleaner-burning roasting log to reduce your impact on the air around you. For example, duraflame Campfire Roasting Logs are made from 100 percent renewable resources and burn 60 percent cleaner than firewood in a fire pit.

The logs are resource efficient. Just five pounds of Campfire Roasting Logs creates a fire equivalent to about 24 pounds of firewood. And because they are made with wood charcoal, recycled sawdust and renewable bio wax, no trees are cut down to produce them. They are also easy to transport for your camping trip, and stack and burn like wood for a robust fire that creates hot, glowing coals safe for roasting marshmallows, hot dogs or other campfire food.

Old Treats Made New

S'mores, a staple of campfire eats, are a delight for children and adults alike. But you don't need to stick with the standard recipe at your next campfire. Get s'more out of the experience with these scrumptious suggestions from the experts at Duraflame:

- Everything But the Kitchen Sink: Graham crackers with peanut butter cups, white-chocolate covered pretzels and marshmallows sprinkled with crumbled chocolate wafers.

• Mint Medley: Chocolate wafer cookies with mint wafer chocolate and marshmallows.

• Strawberry Shortcake: Shortbread cookies with white chocolate and strawberry marshmallows or slices of fresh strawberry.

• Turtles: Add chopped pecans and caramel to a standard-style s'more.

Five ways to enrich your lawn and garden this summer

You may not recognize honey bees beyond their black and gold stripes, but bees and other pollinators play a vital role in our environment. Bees pollinate more than 16 percent of flowering plant species, including those found in yards, landscapes and parks in our communities and across the country.

Government officials and scientists agree bee health is a complex issue dating back to the 1800's. Research points to multiple factors affecting bees, such as pests, parasites, climate change, and nutrition problems.

Fortunately, even home gardeners can promote bee health by maintaining pollinator-friendly lawn and landscapes, and incorporating plants that provide an essential habitat.

"Gardeners can make conscious decisions to purchase flowers or plants that increase opportunities for bees and other pollinators to enrich our environment," says Aaron Hobbs, President of RISE (Responsible Industry for a Sound Environment). "One way we can promote bee health is by creating an inviting habitat and an abundant source of food to ensure bees can meet their nutritional needs to survive and thrive."

With that in mind, RISE is offering tips for maintaining bee-friendly lawns and landscapes:

- Plant native flora. Growing native flowers and plants will adapt better to where you live and provide a familiar food source to local pollinators.
- Include diverse flower colors and fragrances in your garden. Bees are especially attracted to flowers in shades of purple, blue, white and yellow, while butterflies like red and purple.
- Provide water and

sun. Pollinators love visiting a sunny location with a source of fresh water nearby.

• Read and follow label instructions. Be responsible by always reading and following all label instructions when using any pesticide product. Make sure to choose the right product for your problem, and apply it correctly.

• Plant generously. A large amount of flowers is more attractive to pollinators than single plants.

Pollinators play an important role in a healthy environment. Promoting bee health around your lawn and garden can make a difference.

To learn more about the many factors affecting bee health and how to promote their long-term existence, visit www.DebugtheMyths.com. You also can join the conversation on Facebook and Twitter with #BeeResponsible.
