Residents voice concerns, support of sewer bond

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"You're talking about a 300 percent increase in my taxes for a sewer system that you have said will never serve me," Kimberly Stockton said during an October 6 town hall meeting at the Salado Intermediate School. "This increase is not justified."

Stockton was one of a handful of speakers at the meeting to rise in opposition to the proposal.

"I believe in economic development and I am pro business," she said, "Does downtown need a sewer system? Absolutely. But not at the expense of the families of Mill Creek. There has to be other ways of funding this without putting the burden on the other 67 percent of homeowners."

The idea that businesses will come to Salado just because there is a sewer system is a false one, according to Stockton, who added, "Businesses are going to come here based upon the number of rooftops you have, whether there is a sewer system or not."

She contrasted Salado with Jarrell, where Sonterra Municipal Utility District was established to develop a sewer system, saying that "Everyone in the proposed area who was going to pay the higher property tax was also going to be served by the proposed sewer system."

Larry Sands said that the decision to support the bond issue is not just about future business in Salado. Sands says that he manages several properties in the Village and that septic systems and requirements are always an issue. "I believe that Salado Mansion would still be open if we have a sewer line. We are behind the eight ball on restaurants in town. The ones we have are on systems in the ground that are getting older," he said, adding that without a central sewer system Salado is looking at lower sales tax revenues and lower property values in the future.

Former alderman and Village investment officer Stephen Peters stated that the outlined service area for the sewer systems represented only about $50 million in property values. If those properties increased in value by 20 percent because of a sewer system serving them, that would be a $10 million increase in property values. "That is about the cost of the sewer system you are proposing," he said. The burden of paying for that system, he said, is on the remaining $150 million in property values, which are mostly homeowners.

Peters said that for the 25 year life of the bond, at the proposed 47-cent tax rate, a homeowner can expect to pay about $20,000 in property taxes "for a sewer that will never serve them."

During his half-hour presentation prior to the open discussion portion of the meeting, Jim Reed told the audience that the price tag and tax burden for the propose sewer system is likely to be much lower than what the Village had to legally advertise. Truth-in-taxation laws required the village to advertise the 47-cent tax rate because it could not consider several factors that will come into play.

First off, is that about $1 million of the price tag will be paid for by the commercial end users of two proposed lines in the service area: one to serve the Mill Creek Dr. area to Brookshire Brothers and another that will serve the hotels in the northern most service area as well as the Salado High School in the northwest area.

"If those entities don't participate, those lines will not be built," Reed iterated. However, that fundamental change cannot be reflected in the cost predictions legally required by truth-in-taxation laws.

Nor can any increase in overall property values be considered in the impact on the tax rate, according to Reed. Nor can any increase in sales tax revenues be considered in the funding formula for the proposal.

Furthermore, the Village has a Letter of Intent from the development corporation that is pursuing construction of a mixed use development on property that is in the southeastern portion of the service area. "Their participation, and the potential impact on the tax rate," Reed said, could be reflected in the published tax rate.

Reed told the audience that he has been in contact with U.S. Department of Commerce Economic Development Administration about a potential $1.5 million grant for the sewer system. "Federal and state entities are interested in helping us fund this project," Reed said, "but we can't even pursue these without a successful bond election" to put the local funding source in place.

The Village is also looking at formation of a Tax Increment Refinance Zone that would accelerate the payout of the bond. Reed explained that the incremental increase in property values for those properties that receive the sewer services could be applied toward accelerated payout of the bond issue. He estimated that the additional annual payment toward the principal amount due to the future formation of a TIRZ could total as much as $200,000 per year, which could result in a much faster payoff of the bond.

Reed also told the audience that the interest rate in figuring the potential property tax rate for the bond was 5.5 percent. He told the audience that the current average rate for bonds sits at about 2.85 percent. "That is 49 percent less than the amount we used to determine the tax rate," he said.

Salado aldermen, voted at a special called meeting earlier in the evening Oct. 6, to adopt ordinances that will require all properties in the service areas to tie-in to the system and that will require tie-in fees for those properties. The or-

Firefighters remind you that October is a good time to replace the batteries in all of the smoke alarms in your home and business. Firefighters recommend testing fire and smoke alarms every month.

Christmas in October is here; hurry to bake sale!

Start your Christmas shopping early at the annual Christmas in October held at the Stagecoach Inn Conference Center on Oct. 10-11. Admission is just $2 per person for this event sponsored by the Salado Chamber of Commerce Ladies Auxiliary.

Many visitors to Salado, as well as local residents, look forward to starting their Christmas shopping for unique and special gifts at the various booths, and in the many shops in Salado.

Dolores Marshall and Charlotte Guthrie are busy gathering decorations from their shop, Springhouse, to decorate the Conference Center at the Stagecoach Inn.

"We have a wonderful variety of merchants for our event this year," said Tommye Prater, who chairs the Christmas in October event. "Our vendors will bring holiday decorations, beautiful house wares and seasonal items, fall and winter clothing for children and older, make-up, candles, leather goods, jewelry, clocks, healthy chocolates and delicious seasonings for you to taste."

The Bake Sale is a very popular part of the event. Homemade pies, cakes, cookies and desserts are very much in demand. The bake sale will be held in the Lobby of the Stagecoach Inn.

During the day, shoppers enjoy seeing models wearing fashions from various vendors.

Proceeds from the annual event stay in the community as the Auxiliary contributes to local scholarships, Salado Volunteer Fire Department and many other local efforts.

Newspaper pages reflect things in life we care about most

BY ROBERT M. WILLIAMS, JR.

Commentary National Newspaper Week is October 5-11

What do you care most about in life?

Most of us would put family at, or near, the top of such a list. Friends would be there. So would our jobs or businesses, our livelihoods. Our homes. Maybe our pets. Our hobbies and pastimes. Add in those around us: Neighbors, the community, etc.

That's our world, our "sphere of influence." Whatever happens to those who inhabit that place in our hearts and lives means something to us.

We monitor.
We respond.
We pay attention. We laugh. We cry. We hurt.

We rejoice.
We care.
And that is what well-run newspapers do, too. (The italics on well-run are mine.)

As I have traveled the nation this past year, it's been reassuring to see so many dedicated men and women who see newspapering as so much more than a "job." Newspapering is a job in the same sense that being a father or mother is a "job."

Parents are responsible for the well-being of their family. Good newspapers take on that role with the communities we serve. Newspapers are vigilant in protecting our communities from destructive influences, both from without and within. Newspapers sound the alarm with swift, accurate and thorough coverage when sensitive issues arise. We provide not just facts, but clearly labeled editorials and analysis stories that offer in-depth points — and counterpoints — to help everyone weigh matters with sufficient information.

Newspapers also serve as "points of pride" where communities celebrate individual and collective achievement, offering congratulations and joining in mass celebration.

Newspapers serve communities in sad times as well, providing clear, concise facts about tragic events, their causes and how they might be prevented from re-occurring. When communities are sick or injured, newspapers bleed. We share the pain and shed tears along with our readers.

If the newspaper I've described sounds like a living, breathing thing ... that's because they are. Despite what a few might have you believe, newspapers are far from dead.

As long as parents take pride in the birth of a baby, a home run by their Little Leaguer, or graduation, marriage, promotion or any number of life's milestones, people will enjoy reading about them in their community newspaper.

As long as people care about who died in their community this week, how high their taxes may rise or who scored the winning touchdown at the high school football game — community newspapers will be alive.

As long as bulletin boards and refrigerator doors display cherished family memories, community newspapers will be alive.

John Donne said: "No man is an island." Because we don't live isolated lives, apart from everyone around, newspapers are going to be here to help us celebrate, mourn and record life's history as it happens. Newspapers are the "tie that binds" people together.

And in the words of that old hymn: "Blest be the tie that binds."

Thanks for reading your newspaper during National Newspaper Week.

The insipid war on women 2.0

The “war on women” is back, and more tendentious than ever.

Democrats are replaying one of their greatest hits of 2012 in their furious battle to minimize their mid-term losses in a political environment defined by an unpopular president and general unease.

And why not? The war on women has a proven record of success -- in mobilizing Democratic women and trumping what would otherwise seem much more important issues -- and it is so simple that any idiot can run on it.

The recipe is one part taking offense where clearly none was intended, and one part discerning new nefarious schemes to deny women access to birth control. If War on Women 1.0 was strained and unconvincing, the new version lacks all self-respect. To paraphrase Karl Marx, it is history repeating itself, first as farce, then as self-parody.

During their first debate in North Carolina, Republican candidate Thom Tillis referred to Sen. Kay Hagan by her first name, offending her supporters with his undue familiarity. He compounded the sin by saying Hagan’s “math just doesn’t add up,” a hoary cliché in politics for decades.

Hagan pronounced her-

self (what else?) “insulted,” while a spokeswoman for the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, Regan Page, fired off double-barreled complaints. She accused Tillis of “ugly condescension,” “outrageous mansplaining” and “condescending patronization,” which is always to be distinguished from “patronizing condescension.” This is all so silly that it is especially off-key in current circumstances. The implied Democrat message is that, yes, the president is broadly unpopular, the economy is middling and the world is falling apart -- but someone called me “ma’am”!

To the extent that the war on women has any substance, it centers on minor but flawed pieces of federal legislation like the Violence Against Women Act and the Equal Pay Act. And contraception. Always contraception.

The Democrats deserve credit for managing to portray a position supported by no one serious in public life -- that women should be denied birth control -- as the default position of the Republican Party.

The Colorado Senate race has been so focused on abortion and contraception, it could be mistaken for a leadership election of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Playing defense, Republican Cory Gardner is one of a handful of GOP candidates who have come out in favor of over-the-counter birth control. Yet this innocuous proposal to provide more ready access to birth control is itself taken as a dastardly plot against women.

The wonder of the war of women is that it works, or at least it has. Republicans have a better chance of deflecting it this year. They have more deft candidates, and while the over-the-counter contraception proposal is small beer, it is a compelling way to demonstrate comfort with the very access to contraception that Democrats allege Republicans want to take away.

More importantly, the Republican Party should realize that its fate with all voters depends on having a concrete agenda to address the nation’s challenges here and abroad. That is the ultimate insulation from the insipid politics of the ever-more-tenuous war on women.

Moral of human tales

Lord Byron wrote in “Childe Harold,”

“There is the moral of all human tales; ‘Tis but the same rehearsal of the past, First Freedom, and then Glory -- when that fails, Wealth, vice, corruption -- barbarism at last.”

Salado is a most special, caring Village. What each citizen does is awe-inspiring. Our community activities may not be earth-shaking compared to the events of the world; but they are magnificently crafted to bring hope and joy.

Several Sundays ago, in a small room, 6-Salado children individually played in a piano recital. Two sang beautifully while playing. Like rays of sunshine, family and friends filled a room with radiant love and pride.

This is Salado.
On the banks of Salado

Mayor Skip Blancett

Creek, a Village Picnic sponsored by Mill Creek was held. No-waiting for 600-free-hot dogs and hamburgers, -- people laughed, visited, and enjoyed a picture-perfect-Saturday.

This is Salado.
Under a protective-Episcopal-tree, families presented their beloved pets for a Saturday blessing. As each pet received a blessing and a Certificate of Blessing, all life, great and small, became meaningful.

This is Salado.
This Sabbath, Jewish

citizens celebrated their High Holy Day, Yom Kippur, a time of cleansing mistakes (both individually and collectively) and going forward with a cleansed heart. A spiritual time of remembrance and renewal became central in their lives.

This is Salado.
Sunday, Texas A&M and Texas students led a Church of Christ worship service and received heartfelt thanks for their work in Pace Park and College Hill. Two parks felt the care of students who freely gave their weekend for the care of a community.

This is Salado.
We may not make the cover page of TIME, but we are special. Celebrate this ... but keep in mind Byron’s epic poem, the decisions before us today determine our tomorrows.

Conflicting views on bond

To the Editor:

I have done a simplified comparative analysis of Salados’ and Jarrell Waste-water Sewer Systems.

1) Waste-water collection system; Salado, short on facts long on suppositions. Jarrell; Organized MUD, only users pay.

2) Salado; conflicted on accepting cost free gifts of real assets that equal power growth; questioned best use of “gifted” sewer plant. Jarrell, Constructive growth, all facts known.

3) Wastewater Bond Issue; Salado 10.4 million bond issue with few of tax paying home owners ever being connected. Jarrell you consume you pay on bonded debt $8,780,000. plus monthly service fee.

4) Salado, Projected growth corridor West of I-35, processing plant located 1 to 2 miles East of I-35 obviously add to cost. Jarrell Master plan inures controlled growth.

5) Population; Salado approximately 2,300. Jarrell approximately 9,000.

6) Gross comparative cost per population; Salado $4,565.00. Jarrell $965.55. 7) Comparative cost over run Salado over Jarrell is $2,599.45 or 4.7279 times more per person. Do we have your attention yet?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

My Vision of Salado: Salado’s unique history and the natural beauty of its spring-fed Salado Creek are a focal point for the Village.

Unique shopping and a wide variety of restaurants fill Main Street. Main Street with its sidewalks and streetlights becomes a favorite stop along I35.

Unique festivals, activities, and events turn Salado into a top “destination Village” for Texas.

Bed and Breakfasts have high occupancy rates which allow for continuous upgrades, improvements, and distinctive breakfasts.

The pleasantness, history, food, shopping, lodging, and pedestrian friendly nature of the town encourages visitors to come back.

High quality education and life-long learning opportunities are available to all age groups in conjunction with the exceptional Salado ISD.

Continued safety of the population is critical with strong police, fire, ambulance and hospital services being provided.

A healthy lifestyle is encouraged with various sports, recreation, parks, and pathways in addition to a highly regarded golf course.

The town encourages friendly interaction and involvement with a strong volunteer program, local events and gathering places.

Residential growth around Salado will be guided to insure a consistency with the Village.

Strong maintenance of existing properties protects overall valuations.

Salado provides all this and continues to be a “good value” to the residents.

My Vision can happen! I’ve seen it happen as other villages plan and make the infrastructure investments that are required. In our case, the big issue is the Sewer System. We have the exceptional school district, history, spring-fed creek, I35, the foundation of a strong business community, unique B&B’s, and Main Street.

We are at a cross-road. We can move forward as a Strong Salado and pass the Sewer Bond or we might as well get annexed by Belton (or Killen)!

The Nouveau Sodbusters

Wall Street’s fake farmers are harvesting sweet profits.

We know from the childhood song that Old MacDonald had a farm. But e-i-e-i-o -- look who’s got his farm now. It’s outfits like American Farmland, Farmland Partners, and BlackRock.

These aren’t dirt farmers wearing overalls and muddy boots. They’re Wall Street hucksters in Armani suits and Gucci loafers.

The latest fast-buck fad for high-roller investment trusts, hedge funds, and venture capital speculators is “farming.” Not that these dude ranch dandies are actually plowing and planting.

No, no -- these are soft-hands people, buying up farmland with billions of rich investors’ dollars, then tilling the tax laws and threshing the farmers who do the real cultivation.

Jim Hightower

For example, American Farmland Company -- which owns 16 farms -- is a combine of the largest real estate empire in New York City, two Florida sugar barons, a wealth management outfit, and the real estate brokerage arm of insurance giant Prudential.

None of these nouveau sodbusters has a speck of dirt under their fingernails, but they’ve figured out how to work the land without touching it and still harvest a sweet profit. The founder of this scheme says “It’s like gold, but better, because there is this cash flow.”

Cash flow? Yes, farmers are charged rent to till the Wall Streeters’ land. Then the financiers get a prime cut of any profits from the crops that the farmers produce. Also, the combine is set up as a Real Estate Investment Trust, providing an enormous tax break for the Wall Street plowboys.

And, of course, there’s the mega-pay the moneyed elites will reap when they convert their scheme into securities for sale on the stock exchange.

A few rich speculators get richer, farmers are turned into sharecrop laborers, and farms are switched to high-profit crops that require heavy pesticide dosages and soak up scarce water resources. Other than that, this is one hell of a deal.

CONSEQUENCES

Salado's future?

Vote Yes = Controlled Growth

Vote No = Out of control decline

Vote Yes = Increase Sales Tax

Vote No = More property-tax burden

Vote Yes = Promote New Businesses

Vote No = Lose more Old Businesses

Vote Yes = See Salado Excel

Vote No = Watch Jarrell Excel

Vote Yes = Experience a Vibrant Salado

Vote No = Drive to another town

The single most fundamental necessity for a prosperous Salado is a sewer system for the business district. No desirable path can be projected without it. We should do it now in conjunction with the I - 35 Expansion, and position ourselves for the future.

Or, we could wait and play catch-up at higher costs. Or we could wait and watch Salado continue its current path of decline.

The choice is ours.

We the undersigned choose to vote Yes for Salado's Future. We vote Yes on the Sewer System Bond.

Obituaries

KENT DAN RITTER

Kent Dan Ritter, 45, died Saturday September 27, 2014 at his residence. A memorial service was held at Grace Baptist Church, Salado on Saturday October 4, 2014. Officiating Pastor was Dr. Steven Waechter. Family and friends will gathered after the service in the church hall.

Kent was born on Saturday, July 19, 1969 in a military hospital on Mountain Home AFB, Idaho. The family moved several times before he was enrolled in Martin High School in Arlington, TX. Kent's dad was in the US Air Force.

He was a Merit Scholar finalist during his senior year and accepted a full academic scholarship to Texas A & M University. He studied engineering and computer science. While at A & M, he joined the Corps as a freshman and became active in establishing a fraternity on campus.

Kent worked at setting up new business ventures, with cutting-edge vibration diagnostics and even with explosive technology. He was the go-to person for solving computer problems, and when asked how he did it, he simply said "I sprinkled pixie-dust over it" to avoid intricate explanations that would not be understood. He was loved and admired by his teachers, employers and often, even strangers.

He was currently working on his MBA.

He was a born again Christian and a member of Grace Baptist Church.

Kent is preceded in death by his 4 grandparents.

Kent is survived by his mother and father and one sister, Vicki Scott and her husband and 2 nieces.

In lieu of flowers, the family wishes donations be made in his honor to the Grace Baptist Church, 5798 FM 2484, Salado, Texas, 76571

Aldermen approve new subdivision

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen approve the Final Plat for Creekside Meadows Subdivision at their Oct. 2 meeting after discussion of the number of lots in the subdivision on Van Bibber Lane that are in the flood plain.

City Manager Kim Foutz told aldermen that the only changes in the Final Plat were name changes: the subdivision will be known as Creekside Meadow rather than Tuscany on the Creek; the name of the street leading into the subdivision will change from Easy Street to Creekside Dr. and finally the name of the ownership group will be Watkins Creek, LLC even though the principals remain the same.

Despite these nominal changes, aldermen discussed the numbers of lots that are in the flood plain, the proposed drainage plan, the 3 acres that may be dedicated in the future as park land and what would happen if aldermen took no action on the Final Plat.

Foutz told aldermen that the design plans were signed off by the Village Engineer months ago, including the drainage plans, and that the Village Subdivision Ordinance contains a stipulation that if the Board of Aldermen do not act on the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission within 30 days that it is by default considered approved. The P&Z voted 4-0 to approve the Final Plat.

Aldermen voted 5-0 on a motion by Michael McDougal to approve the Final Plat as recommended by the P&Z and village staff. Fred Brown gave a second to the motion.

In other business, aldermen approved a contract with Stewart Construction to maintain the septic system for the Municipal Building for two years for $400.

dinances do not establish the rates of those fees. Aldermen also approved the requirement that services fees for the sewer system end users "cover the cost of the system operation," Reed said. Aldermen also authorized a rate study, if voters approve the bond election on Nov. 4.

Reed told the audience that the impact of tie-in fees could not be considered in the potential tax rate that was published because those fees had not been set at the time of publication.

"Could we have paid for a comprehensive study so that we would have answers to all of these questions? Yes," he said, adding that "it was the opinion of the aldermen that this issue has been studied and studied so more and that it was time for the voters to decide."

If voters approve a $10.55 million bond for the construction of a central sewer system that will principally serve the downtown business district, it will be at least three years before the system is on-line.

Reed outlined a possible time-line for the project: Year one would be design and engineering, a rate study, permitting and licensing and retaining bond counsel; year two would be issuing construction contracts, right-of-way condemnation proceedings and property acquisition; year three would have construction begin at the end of which the first limited service would begin; year four would be the completion of construction with full service underway.

He told the audience that, if approved by voters, money would not be borrowed until it was needed and that the taxes to retire the debt would be "ramped up over the next few years as we borrow the money to build the project." He likened it to a construction loan for building a house.

If voters turn down the proposed bond, the Village of Salado will have to regroup and make plans for how it will continue to serve the 16 users of the Stagecoach Inn sewer system that the Village accepted earlier this year.

Llano beats Salado 34-13

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Llano Yellowjackets scored on their first two possessions combining a pounding ground game with well-timed passes to beat Salado 34-13 at Eagle stadium Oct. 3 for their second win of the year.

The Eagles could not score until the second half, when Llano had the game well in hand, leading 20-0 at the end of the first half.

The Yellowjackets drove from their own 25 yard line to score in 12 plays on an 11 yard pass from Holden Simpson to Tommy Yelvington with 7:08 left in the first. David Forrister kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

After forcing the Eagles to a three-and-out series, Llano then drove the length of the field in 11 plays with Yelvington grabbing a six yard touchdown pass from Simpson with 59 second left in the first. Jacob Quick blocked the extra point and the Yellowjackets led 13-0.

A penalty proved to be very costly to Salado as a roughing the kicker call negated a 92 yard return by Preston Payne in the second quarter, giving the Yellowjackets a fresh set of downs and taking six points off the scoreboard for the Eagles.

The Llano defense took advantage of a missed snap to quarterback Jacob Little in the end zone with Dorian Green falling on the loose ball for a touchdown with 2:13 left in the first half. Forrister toed the point after for a 20-0 halftime lead.

The Yellowjackets went up 27-0 midway through the third quarter when Lance Reven pushed the ball in from the Eagles' seven to cap a 58-yard scoring drive. An interception by Yelvington set up the drive. Forrister's kick made it 27-0.

Salado answered on the next drive after Preston Payne returned the kick off 30 yards to give the Eagles the ball near midfield. Jacob Little carried the ball four times on the drive, including the scoring run of five yards. He connected with Jacob Quick for a 23 yard pass to move the ball to the five yard line. Cameron Markham kicked the extra point to bring the score to 27-7.

Salado scored again in the fourth quarter on a 17 yard pass from Little to Ty Stewart on a third-and-10 with 8:57 left to play.

Llano added a final touchdown with 54 second left in the game on a 20 yard touchdown pass from Simpson to Airon Layton.

Llano had 378 yards total offense, including 143 yards passing. The Eagles managed 222 yards of offense, 187 in the air.

Little threw 11-of-22 with an interception and a TD pass. Quick was his favorite target, grabbing six passes for 112 yards, including a long of 42 yards. The Eagles scattered 35 yards rushing among a handful of players.

Salado hosts Caldwell 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10 in a district game.

The Eagle defense kept the Yellow Jackets inside the 20 and Volk intercepted a pass to return possession to the Eagles. Allen Sirois gained 10 on two successive runs but the first quarter ended without a score.

Stoney LaRue returns to Johnny's Outback for an Oct. 11 performance. Tickets for the 7 p.m. show are available at johnnysoutback.com or at Johnny's Steaks and Bar-Be-Cue on Thomas Arnold Road for $15.

Stoney LaRue makes real-life, thinking man's music.

Seriously, how many other singer-songwriters would say this kind of thing about their own output: "You have to be careful about what you put out there and what you sing about, because it's a little like the Laws of Attraction," LaRue says. "You've either lived it or written about it, or you're writing about it and you're gonna."

So much country music today chases inexact images of imaginary roads leading to nowhere, allegedly ambling a pickup truck down dusty roads to some idealized, non-existent party.

The Texas native-turned-longtime Oklahoma resident has been chasing his own dream down many roads for a long time. He's hit the occasional pothole that sidelined him for awhile, never veering from his internal call to chronicle life's ups and downs.

"I've always been motivated by and came up under the style of old Woody Guthrie songs," LaRue says. "It's always been about talking to the people."

Hence you have the laid-back, conversational style found on Stoney LaRue's newest album project, AVIATOR, his debut for eOne Entertainment.

"The theme is, essentially, following direction, trusting in yourself, and new beginnings," LaRue says. "A lot of it is spurred from divorce and open-eyed ways of looking at things, be it relationships or just the world as a whole."

and a lean-to or detached kitchen when he sold it to John A. Clark on October 15, 1877. The Clarks then added the second and third rooms to the west side and the back porch was extended along that wing. On June 2, 1879 the house was sold to Dr. Rezin S. Farr.

Dr. Farr and his family lived in the house until his two surviving daughters were forced to leave the home in Belton due to declining health in 1968. As the house stood unoccupied, vandalism, time, weather and emptiness ultimately took their toll, culminating with the Farr home being condemned by the Belton Fire Marshall in 1982. Thankfully, George Kolb purchased the house in 1991 and moved it to its permanent site in Salado Texas. From 1991 to 2005, the Farr house has gone through many renovations; each renovation was meticulously performed in keeping with the original style: Greek Revival with touches of early Victorian design in both the exterior and interior of the home. The Kocians have gone to great efforts to keep the Farr Legacy going.

Entering through original iron fence, guests are welcomed to a spacious front porch that features beautifully restored and converted electric kerosene lamps, original cedar shutters and windows. Once inside the home, guests can view framed pictures of Dr. Farr and his family along with Dr. Farr's medical license dated 1867. A narrative by Dr. Farr dated 1879 and a certificate granted to "Miss Mary Horn", (later Mrs. Rezin Farr) from "Andrew Female College," dated 1867, also adorn the entry foyer hall.

George and Laura Kocian have enjoyed learning about the home's history. The couple did extensive research to make sure period-appropriate pieces were purchased when furnishing the house. For instance, to the left of the foyer is the first of 3 bedrooms. The bedroom features a high back oak panel bed with matching dresser. The drawer assembly is called "peg and scallop" which dates both pieces to circa 1860 to 1880. Also in the bedroom is one of the 3 original fireplaces, framed period pieces of the "Cries of London" and a restored Seth Thomas mantle clock circa 1880.

A bath adjoining the bedroom features the home's original pedestal sink and claw foot tub. The bathroom walls are covered in a vintage wall paper in colors to compliment the bedroom. The bathroom linens and toiletries are cleverly stored in an 1800's pie safe that was purchased in 1985. It seems that even in 1985 the Kocian's knew they were destined to own a historical home.

Across the hallway to the right is the parlor room. The room features the second original fire place and mantel. The mantel features a Seth Thomas clock with the original dial face. The Kocian's discovered that the 15 foot ceilings in this room were dictated by the building conventions of the 1880's: the length of the available lumber determined the height of each room. Also, the wall color of the living room and front bed room are the original colors. Laura Kocian explains, in the 1880's, colored paint was considered a sign of wealth. The more color displayed outside and inside the home showcased a person's wealth. The current owners are convinced that Dr. Farr orchestrated the vibrant colors he chose for his home.

The dining room behind the front parlor was, and is, a favorite of the Kocian's when decorating. It features a Duncan Phyfe table, an exquisite Victorian étagère, and an antique curved glass curio cabinet that houses the Kocian Baccart champagne glasses and wedding china. This room also features the original mid-19th century exposed structural bars that were common to houses of that period and the third original fire place.

The doors from the dining room lead back into the hallway. Just to the end of the hallway is the breakfast nook. The nook features a Hoosier cabinet that still has the original flour bin and spice rack. Also located in the nook is a kitchen cabinet that houses the owners' collection of "Memory Lane" dinner ware. The kitchen itself features a Elmira stove that is a replica of a wood-burning stove and oven. The recessed kitchen shelves hold crocks, an antique crate from Walter Baker & Co and an old trunk. Also on the walls of the kitchen are George's copper cooking ware finds.

The most recent home additions are the two master suites located in the back of the house. The first master features an on-suite with period appropriate wall-paper and two Carrier & Ives prints "Season of Bloom" and "Skating Scene - Moonlight." The bedroom features an Edwardian high back bed covered with quilts made by Mrs. Nidya Balleza (Laura's mother) a set of true left and right antique French side tables with marble tops and a set of Victorian parlor chairs.

Further down the hallway is the second master bedroom. The room is painted in a soft green and features a stunning antique half-tester bed flanked by a pair of true left and right French side tables. The headboard of the tester bed was carved out of a single piece of wood. Also in the bedroom is a Marstall Furniture American Oak wardrobe circa 1900. The wardrobe features the original key and mirrors.

Enhancing the odds

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Whenever declarer is missing the Q-x-x of a suit, he faces the question of whether to cash the A-K, hoping to drop the queen, or first cash the ace or king and then finesse the jack.

This situation arises with disturbing frequency, and the standard practice is to cash the A-K rather than rely on the finesse. This is because the odds very slightly favor the drop of the queen under the A-K. But this is a mathematical concept only, and declarer should not allow it to override any tactical considerations that might arise during the play of a particular hand.

Here is a typical case. West leads the K-A and another heart against four spades. Let's say declarer ruffs, plays the ace of trumps, crosses to dummy with a diamond and leads the jack of trumps, on which East follows low. South's correct play is to finesse the jack. If he does, he makes the contract; if he doesn't, he goes down one. Declarer should reason that if he plays the king and the queen does not fall, he is likely to fail in his mission unless the opposing diamonds are divided 3-3.

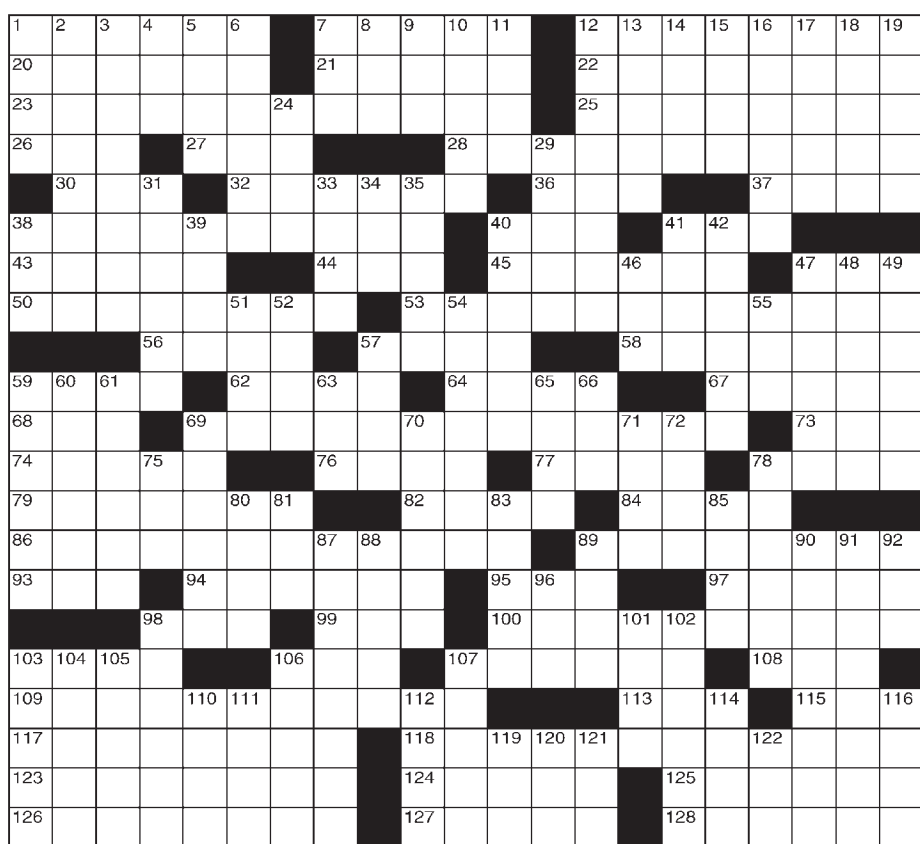

But if he chooses to finesse, he makes the contract not only when East has the queen of trumps, but also when West has the queen and the diamonds are divided 3-3 or 4-2. In the latter case, declarer can establish an extra diamond trick by ruffing one of dummy's low diamonds, eventually using dummy's nine of trumps as an entry to collect the fifth diamond.

SECTION 7:

(a) Pursuant to Section 3.009, Texas Election Code: (i) the proposition language that will appear on the ballot is set forth in Section 2 of this Election Order, (ii) the purposes for which the bonds are to be authorized are set forth in Section 1 of this Election Order, (iii) the principal amount of bonds to be authorized is set forth in Section 1 of this Election Order, (iv) if the issuance of bonds is authorized by voters, taxes sufficient, within the limits prescribed by law, to pay the annual principal of and interest on the bonds and to provide a sinking fund to pay the bonds may be imposed, as set forth in Section 1 of this Election Order, (v) bonds authorized pursuant to this Election Order may be issued to mature over not to exceed 40 years from their date of issuance and bearing interest at the rate or rates (not to exceed 15%), as authorized by law and determined by the Board, and (vi) as of the beginning of the City's current fiscal year, the aggregate amount of outstanding principal of the City's debt obligations was $0.00 and the aggregate amount of outstanding interest on the City's debt obligations was $0.00, and (vii) the City's ad valorem debt service tax rate as of the date of adoption of this ordinance is $0.00 per $100 of taxable property.

If approved by voters, the bonds will be secured by an ad valorem tax that is sufficient, within the limits prescribed by law, to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds and the costs of any credit agreements. Actual tax rates, interest rates, maturity dates, aggregate outstanding indebtedness and interest on such debt, will only be established and known at the time that bonds are issued. In addition, actual tax rates will depend upon, among other factors, the assessed valuation of taxable property, prevailing interest rates, the market for the City's bonds and general market conditions at the time that bonds are issued.

The estimated tax rates and other statements contained in this subsection (b) are (i) based on certain assumptions (including assumptions concerning prevailing market and economic conditions at the time(s) of issuance of the bonds) and derived from projections obtained from the City's financial advisor, (ii) subject to change to the extent that actual facts, circumstances and conditions prevailing at the time that the bonds are issued differ from such assumptions and projections, (iii) provided solely in satisfaction of the requirements of Section 3.009, Texas Election Code, and for no other purpose, without any assurance that such projections will be realized, and (iv) not intended to give rise to a contract with voters or limit the authority of the Board to issue bonds in accordance with the Proposition submitted by this Election Order.

SECTION 8:

(a) A substantial copy of this Ordinance, including a Spanish translation thereof, shall be posted at three (3) public places within the City and at the City Hall not less than twenty-one (21) full days prior to the date on which the Election is to be held.
