What is wrong here?

With cancellation of Art Fair, business closings, some wonder if our best days are behind us

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

After 46 years, the Salado Art Fair has been canceled, less than two months before the date of the show in late October.

The same week, the Public Arts League of Salado (PALS) canceled its fund raiser, A Taste of Salado, planned to take place at the Sculpture Garden the same time that the Cattleman's Ball is held at Tenroc Ranch.

Monthly, the state Comptroller releases news that sales tax revenues are declining for the Village of Salado, while other communities in Bell County and Central Texas see increases in their sales tax revenues.

Within a few weeks of each other, Adelea's on Main St., a popular restaurant in Salado, and Horsefeathers, a very popular destination store in Salado, are shuttered with little or no warning.

Earlier this year, it appeared as if Mill Creek Golf Club might close its doors.

While there are individual, sometimes personal, explanations for most of these occurrences, their coincidence points to unspoken -- unspeakable -- questions.

What is happening to Salado? Are the best days of Salado behind, or before us? Why is this happening? Has Salado done something wrong? How can we fix it?

And then, quickly on the heels of that comes the blame game.

It's the Chamber's fault! No, it's the aldermen's fault! The Mayor, he's to blame for this mess!

It's all TxDOT's fault! If they would just finish the @#% highway!

It's the feds! And the salamanders (or lack thereof)!

Maybe, just maybe, if we could get our hands on all that money that the Library has, things would be great in Salado once again.

Truth is, all of these have some seed of truth to them, which makes them more pervasive than they deserve to be. Salado is less than what it once was because of local issues.

However, a great deal of the financial blues for the Village have fundamental causes about which

Commentary

Salado itself can do absolutely nothing.

First, regardless of the heights the stock market has reached, Main Street has not felt the recovery that Wall Street has felt. Every single day, everyday people make tough decisions about what to do with their money.

Instead of taking a weekend trip to get away from the kids and work, families are staying home in droves. How many of us heard of the word "staycation" before the Great Recession? That word, and its connotation indicate in some way why the streets of Salado seem somewhat empty in recent months and years.

Another cause is cultural as much as economic. When Sir Wigglesworth sat at the corner of Main Street and Rock Creek Dr. and attracted droves of shoppers, Amazon was a river in South America. The shopper has changed and the way he or she shops has changed as well. The traveler has changed as well in the past two decades. Especially here in Texas where small town communities have rallied around their town squares, their narrow streets, their funky little bits of history as a drawing card.

Culinary, cultural, historical, sports, entertainment and activity tourism have replaced shopping weekends, especially for the generation of families now raising children.

As experts from the Texas Travel and Tourism Industry (TTIA) told a large gathering of travel industry professionals at the Stagecoach Inn in a day long conference three years ago, "People do not travel to a destination to shop. They travel to do something. They travel for art, for history, to watch their kids play, to play themselves. When they are done with that activity, then they visit the shops and restaurants and galleries."

Take a look around Salado. Is there much to do here?

Well, you could go jump in a lake. Literally. We have two of the cleanest lakes in Texas within a short drive, both of which offer water sports and fishing to enthusiasts.

You could jump out of a perfectly good plane. Every weekend, dozens of folks do just that. But this is nowhere reflected in Village advertising and promotion.

At the corner of Holland Rd. and I-35 sits one of the premier roping arenas in the state, if not the nation. Gentlemen and gentlewomen ropers haul behind their $60,000 trucks, $100,000+ trailers and typically $25,000 or more on the hoof. For a weekend hobby! And yet the community treats Wildfire Ranch Arena as something other than a potential mine of opportunity (gold).

Salado ranches offer whitetail, turkey and exotic hunting, but again this is absent from our central marketing of the community.

Every single weekend, Salado is home to at least one wedding, if not half a dozen. If more marketing were spent in this niche, how far would those ripples extend?

And then there's golf, one of the fronts where the news is actually getting much better with the new ownership of Mill Creek Country Club. Because of the committed efforts of two handfuls of individuals, Salado may soon reap the benefits of having one of the most beautiful golf courses in the state returned to its former beauty.

However, before this private group stepped in to prevent the possible if not probable closing of the course, there were grumblings about whether the Village should make any kind of financial commitment or loans of any sort to this project.

Have you had a glass of Texas wine in Salado lately? You've got three terrific choices, depending upon your palate, to explore.

And just take a look up above your head. Right there in that tree above the old historic walking bridge (which by the way is one of the very few lenticular bridges left in the state and has a great history in and of itself). Right there in that branch is a tree elf sawing away at it, placed in the middle of the night by Troy Kelley.

Leadership students learn the ropes at Peaceable Kingdom

Variety's Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children welcomed 20 Salado High School students for a high-adventure leadership retreat Sept. 25.

As part of the Youth Leadership Program at Salado High School, students challenged themselves on the 40-foot rock wall, 175-foot zipline, low-ropes obstacle course and other activities.

The Environmental Education Program at Peaceable Kingdom provides adaptive curriculum and confidence-building activities for both mainstream and special education students enrolled in 1st-12th grade, at 12 Texas public school districts including Salado ISD, Killeen ISD, Temple ISD, Belton ISD and Texas School for Deaf. The program incorporates hands-on educational lessons and high-impact recreational adventures that help students develop communication and teamwork skills, as well as self-confidence and critical-thinking skills. The educational and character building activities are magnified against a backdrop of beautiful and serene outdoor retreat.

profit retreat celebrates 15th anniversary of its Environmental Education Program, an award-winning youth development program. Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children, a program of Variety The Children's Charity of Texas, offers field-trip opportunities throughout the school year, as a collaborative venture with schools, students and their families.

Schools partner with Peaceable Kingdom to incorporate hands-on educational activities that complement classroom curriculum in the study of: archaeology, paleontology, meteorology, geology, water, plants, animals, habitats, conservation, climates, history and culture, as well as focusing on social and emotional development through each activity. The Environmental Education Program also incorporates a therapeutic recreation component, which engages students with special needs in fun, safe, age- and ability-appropriate activities such as: hiking, archery, fishing, sports, high and low ropes challenge course, miniature golf, art, crafts, drama, dance and games. All the activities at Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children are adapted to accommodate every grade and ability level of the students.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

The Impossibility of Gun Control

The Navy Yard massacre won't revive the gun debate in Congress for a simple reason: There is no gun-control agenda this side of a total ban and confiscation that would have stopped Aaron Alexis.

The Toomey-Manchin bill could have passed Congress unanimously. The assault-weapons ban could still be in place. Gun-controllers could have achieved their long-ago goal of barring the private purchase of handguns. And every step of his mayhem at the Washington Navy Yard would have been unimpeded.

The media rushed, based on erroneous reports from law enforcement, to place in his hands an AR-15, the popular rifle that has been used in mass shootings before and that an assault-weapons ban would prohibit.

The front page of the New York Daily News blared "Same gun, different slay." The newspaper's columnist Mike Lupica worked himself into lathers of dudgeon over the offending gun. "They call semiautomatics like this sports rifles," he fumed. "You bet. Mostly for the sport of killing innocent people, and killing them fast."

But according to law enforcement, Alexis used a shotgun, a weapon, as it happens, that has been endorsed and promoted by the vice president of the United States. At a Facebook town hall earlier in the year, Joe Biden urged a mother concerned about safety: "Buy a shotgun, buy a shotgun."

This may be fine advice, but there should be no mistake: Shotguns are dangerous. When it comes to "the sport of killing innocent people," almost any gun will do, especially if it is in a permissive environment where no one else is likely to be armed. This makes a hash of the conceit that the government can ban a few select guns and make shooting rampages less likely.

Other common panaceas would have had no effect, either. Alexis bought his shotgun from a duly-licensed dealer, not at a gun show. He passed a federal background check with no problem. He didn't have a high-capacity magazine. He reportedly got the handgun or handguns he also may have used in the attack after shooting a security officer.

So the Navy Yard rampage demonstrates the essential sterility of the gun-control debate. It is true that James Holmes and Adam Lanza used AR-15s. But Seung-Hui Cho and Jared Loughner used 9 mm semiautomatic pistols. And Aaron Alexis used a shotgun. The common theme is that they were all deeply disturbed young men whose acts of murder had a sickening aspect of utter senselessness. The Daily News got it backward. Its headline should have read "Different gun, same slay."

Maybe this time we can have a real debate about mental illness. When Aaron Alexis called the Rhode Island police a month ago to tell them that enemies were harassing him with a microwave machine, it was clear that he was suffering paranoid delusions and needed help. But the authorities let him go his merry way, evidently to sink deeper into the madness he mistook for reality. It needs to be easier to compel treatment for the mentally ill. There will be another Aaron Alexis. If we can't predict what gun he'll use, we already know his mental state.

Colorado's Fracking Disaster

In Colorado's flood-struck areas, a tsunami of floodwater and destructive debris swamped fracking infrastructure.

As the people of Colorado are presently learning, it's horrendous enough to suffer the ravages of a natural disaster, but it's doubly horrific to then be faced with a more devastating unnatural disaster.

First came the epic floods that recently ripped through the front range, tearing up towns, roads, waterways, mountain homes and businesses, farms, and lives. Just awful.

But now comes the added horror of unknown levels of poisonous contaminants pouring out of many of the thousands of fracking sites that pock this area.

Big Oil frackers were already notorious in Boulder and Weld Counties for the environmental, health, and economic damage being done by this ravaging method of forcing gas out of the rock deep under Earth's surface. Now, though, the corporate wells, tanks, ponds, and other fracking infrastructure have been swamped by a tsunami of floodwater and destructive debris.

Even in the chaos of people scrambling to get out of the flood's way and to secure their property, many residents were so alarmed by seeing this mess of flooded wells, overturned tanks of highly toxic chemicals and wastewater, and ruptured lines that they paused to take pictures and videos.

They then posted these on websites and Facebook pages to document this unexpected threat of widespread, long-term damage from fracking contaminants and to alert neighbors to the dangers.

After all, the frackers themselves weren't telling the public about this unfolding disaster, the big media outlets were curiously incurious about it, and regulators were also silent. So, like the pamphleteers of old, the people formed their own network of communication — and they've now turned it into a citizens' action network. Elsewhere you will find his mermaid, his big cat, his little boy.

Elsewhere, you will find giant blocks of limestone carved into works of art. Those unique and beautiful carvings dot our landscape.

On the south end of town is Wells Gallery, owned by Ronnie Wells who has become a wildlife sculpture of the nation, if not world, renown.

Tucked away in a hot metal building is a working artist where you can actually watch the beautiful glass vessels being made by hand by Gail Allard. Sometimes -- like right now! -- you can reserve a time to blow your own glass ornaments for Christmas.

Jim Benton has been crafting gold jewelry for three decades in Salado. His gallery sits at the corner of Main and Royal. Across the street is a gallery dedicated to the works of the late Thomas Kinkadee.

A little further north is Michael Pritchett, whose Sirril Gallery lives up to its name. His paintings evoke many emotions, which is what art is intended to do.

Further north is Prellop Gallery where Larry Prellop paints beautiful land and seascapes. Who knew we had a Keep Texas Beautiful artist in our town?

Soon, there will be another collection of artists to be shown in the old Tyler House, which is undergoing renovations after sitting empty for about five years.

Keep walking north and discover photographic art by Rusty Schramm in the newly opened 21 Main Street.

Across the street are Mud Pies, where Titia has hardly spent a day without getting her hands dirty making vessels. Kiki's features beautiful handmade jewelry of Creta Ferrin.

And there on the grounds of The Range at the Barton House is Aaron Gist's The Lovers, a curve of steel that evokes the Biblical passage of two becoming one.

And the stuff of nightmares... the Troll and Billy Goat Gruff speak of the fairy tales that keep little ones awake at night.

Just north of the walking bridge, a work of art in and of itself, is Griffith Fine Art. Kay Griffith has become so well-known as an abstract artist that she has been a featured artist in New York City galleries and at a worldwide show of artists in Las Vegas. She paints right there in her gallery.

And the painter of Delight, B. Herd with this signature red cardinal dotting his gorgeously detailed Texas landscapes that -- when you look at the love in each stroke and touch -- make you love being a Texan that much more. Here is the impact of B. Herd: my brother has not lived in Texas for more than three decades, but he has collected Herd's blue-bonnet paintings for his house "up North" in Pennsylvania and they serve as a touching reminder to him of the state he still loves a lifetime after having left home.

Keep going, you're not done yet. There at the Library is a collection of art both inside and out that should be a destination in and of itself.

And tucked away off of Main Street is Salado's Sculpture Garden, the cooperative effort of PALS and Keep Salado Beautiful. There you will find more than a dozen works of art tucked away in a beautifully wooded area.

It is unfortunate that the Salado Art Fair was canceled. Some say it was canceled because the Village turned down a request to sell alcohol in Pace Park, but this is not true. It was canceled because it was allowed to wither. Not just in the past few years, but over decades it was allowed to sit on the vine without much care or tending by the community or by the Chamber.

The good news is this: Salado is itself an art show, every day and every weekend.

And so much more than that. Every Saturday night you can find live music in half a dozen places.

Yet, there are those who screamed to the rooftops about that very thing: music. Live music at The Outback has been one of the biggest controversies to sweep Salado in years. This really made us look like the imaginary small town in Footloose. You know, the town where dancing was illegal.

And to be honest, that fight is not over yet. John Jennings, who lives on Salado Creek Rd. near Johnny's Outback, has called for the ouster of Mayor Danney McCort. He has gone so far as to accuse Mayor McCort of "corruption" and "illegal acts." In his comments submitted for the record to the Board of Aldermen recently, Jennings said that McCort had worked with the owners of Johnny's and The Shed to "cheat" the village out of money through building permit fees.

These comments made on September 19 are untrue. More than that, they are misleading and besmirch the reputations of all the parties involved.

Those comments are allowed to stand, without being refuted because the board of aldermen cannot reply to statements made under Public Comment and because the business owners involved were not given equal time.

We refute those comments as being untrue. The owners of The Shed had proper permits in place, including Bell County Health Department licensing which Jennings insinuated was not done.

The businesses that Jennings accuses as being part of some nefarious corruption have been longtime supporters of this community in ways that their accuser has not.

One little example (when there are many more): instead of cheating the Village of income, when Larry and Elaine Wolfe owned Fairway Golf Carts they volunteered to be brought into the Village limits so that every time a golf cart was sold the Village would reap sales taxes from it.

Furthermore, the addition of Johnny's Outback has brought in far more tax dollars to the Village than taxes paid by the surrounding homeowners. Not just from the dozen or so concerts held there (which end at 11 p.m.), but from reunions and othering gatherings.

We need more of this. Not less.

The Village government needs to make it easier for businesses to develop in Salado, not harder.

When businesses like The Shed and Johnny's thrive, all of us do a little better. Yet, they have faced harassment by some of the residents who have benefited financially from their very being.

What is that benefit? For example, the Fleischers paid just over $200 this year in city property taxes for our home. In Belton, that would be more than $1,200.

The Village should find ways of celebrating these individuals who bring art and music and life to Salado, not punishing them and not slandering them.

Otherwise, they, too, may make the choice of not being here.

And what will we have then?

Longtime Salado Masons honored

Salado Masons gathered to honor longtime Masons with service pins from the Grand Lodge of Texas. District Deputy Grand Master Thomas R. Dees, Jr., was on-hand to make the presentation during an open meeting of the Lodge. Family and friends traveled from as far as Tyler to attend the ceremony. Pins were presented for 65, 60 and 50 year pins. Top left, DDGM Dees reads the transcript of the 65-year award for Ralph Powell, while his wife Marcelle waits to attach the pin on her husband. Ralph was raised as a Master Mason on March 20, 1948 at Blazing Star Lodge #413 in Marble Falls. He affiliated with Salado Lodge in 1992. Powell's children attended the ceremony. Top right, Robert Dewhurst was presented with his 60-year pin by Conrad Hinkel, Master of Salado Lodge. Dewhurst was raised as a Master Mason on May 15, 1953 in John D. Spreckles Lodge #657 in San Diego, California. Dewhurst affiliated with Salado Lodge in 2000 and was awarded the Golden Trowel by Salado Masonic Lodge. Bottom left photo, J. Brooks Bradley was awarded a 50-year pin by the Grand Lodge of Texas. Hinkel puts the pin on his collar. Bradley was raised as a Master Mason in East Dallas Lodge #1200 on Sept. 21, 1961. He affiliated with Salado Lodge #296 in 2011. Bottom right photo: Gayle Leonard pins a 50-year pin on her husband. Billy Leonard was raised as a Master Mason on May 9, 1964 at Knob Creek Lodge 401 in Temple. He is an Endowed Member of Salado Masonic Lodge, of which he became affiliated in 1982. He is a Past Master of Salado Lodge #296 and was District Deputy Grand Master of District 48 in 1992-93. The Leonards traveled from Tyler and were joined by their children for the ceremony. Following the ceremony, those attending gathered at Johnny's Steaks & Bar-Be-Que for a Dutch treat lunch with friends and family of the Salado Lodge. The brothers plan to travel to Austin in the future to honor William W. Scales, who was raised as a Master Master on March 8 1947 at Jackson Lodge #464 in Indiana. Derek Wales and Corbin Mescher cut the ribbon on the First Baptist Church Youth Ministry Building on Sept. 25. The Baptist Church recently purchased the property where the Salado United Methodist Church chapel once sat and converted the buildings on the property. The Baptist church rented the building for more than a year before being able to purchase the property. Dr. Travis Burleson greeted congregants and led them in prayer. Minister of Students Tim Stary addressed the audience before the ribbon was cut to officially open the building. (PHOTO BY TIM FLEISCHER)

Chamber of Commerce has record turnout of players for golf tourney

Salado Chamber of Commerce had a record turnout for its annual Golf Tournament at Mill Creek Country Club on Sept. 27.

The Chamber reported that almost 100 golfers teed off in a shotgun scramble at 1 p.m., following a Ball Drop in which $1,000 was won by Debbie Shepperd. About 20 soldiers were treated by sponsors to play golf in the tournament.

The Chamber also held its drawing for the $2,500 Shopping Spree at the end of the Golf Tournament. Janet Gravette won the top Shopping Spree.

Organizers report that almost twice as many players signed up for this year's tournament as last and that total proceeds will exceed last year.

David Matthews tees off.

Salado Lady Eagles beat the Cameron Lady Yoe in three straight sets, battling back and forth in the first two and running away in the third set.

In the first set, the Lady Eagles came from a six point deficit 17-23 to win 26-24 with Cheyenne Vaca scoring two kills on a five-point service by Taylor Atwood that included two aces. Vaca also killed the Lady Yoe's chances to put the game away, forcing a 24-24 tie before Meagan Hill scored the final two points on her serve, including a final ace to end the set.

The squads tied seven times in the first set before it looked as if the Lady Yoe would pull away, but Taylor Atwood had back-to-back aces, followed by Jaylee Sebek blocking a shot and Cheyenne Vaca back-to-back kills to knot the score at 23-23.

Vaca got another kill to tie the game again at 24-24 and give Hill the serve. Sebek and Sydney Wright combined on a block and Hill aced the game with her serve, 26-24.

Set 2

Back to back aces by Vaca gave Salado a come from behind win in the second set against Cameron, secured by a smart kill by Shyenne Hicks for the final point as the Lady Eagles came from a three-point deficit of 19-22 to win 25-23.

Cameron rattled off four quick service points at the start of the second set before Salado was able to force the first tie at 8-8. Hill had two straight aces to give Salado a 9-13 lead, but the Lady Yoe refused to go away, tying the score at 16-16 and taking a 22-19 lead. Salado fought back to tie the game at 23-23 and Vaca scored back to back aces and a third service point on a kill by Shyenne Hicks for the 25-23 win.

David cannot slay 'Goliath' Yoe

By TIM FLEISCHER

Jake Bloomer (#25) prepares to meet Cameron Yoe's Traion Smith as Smith runs through a Salado tackler.

It looked as if it could happen.

The daunting top-ranked Cameron Yoe might be undone by the underdog Salado Eagles as fans held their breath when the hosting Eagles took a 21-19 lead in the first quarter.

But, as big and imposing as the Yoemen were, they were not Goliath and despite McLane Carter's arm, the Eagles did not have a secret shot to take the giant out in one fell swoop.

On this Friday night, the Yoe continued to do what they do, grind away at their opponents, overpowering them with strength and wearing them out with a one-two combination of strength in power back Traion Smith and quickness and moves in the diminutive Aaron Sims. Cameron Yoe pounded out a 57-28 win over Salado.

The first couple of minutes looked as if the Yoe would run away with the game as Smith took a hand-off on the first play from scrimmage and ran for 59 yards. All-state quarterback Jason Kopriva then hit Smith for a 5 yard touchdown just 32 seconds into the contest.

The Yoe scored on their next possession at 8:52, but the point-after attempt failed giving the visitors a 13-0 lead.

Salado answered just as explosively as McLane Carter hit Davis Little in stride at the Eagle 39 yard line and Little ran past the Yoe secondary for 75 yard touchdown with 8:08 in the first. Chase Crenwelge booted the point-after to get the Eagles within 6 points.

Salado drove 47 yards on their next possession, scoring on a 21 yard pass from Carter to Jacob Little with 4:32 left in the quarter. Crenwelge gave the Eagles a 14-13 lead.

Both teams would score again. Smith pushed his way into the end-zone from the Salado 5 to cap a 95-yard drive that took just six plays. The Yoemen went for two, but came up short and held a 19-13 lead.

The Eagles answered immediately as Carter found Kase Spears at the 41 yard line and Spears turned the catch into a 67 yard touchdown with 2:11 left in the quarter. Crenwelge booted the PAT for a 21-19 lead at the end of the first.

Cameron added three touchdowns in the first seven minutes of the second quarter for a 39-21 lead with 5:22 left in the first half.

The Eagles narrowed the lead on a 32 yard touchdown pass to Davis Little with 3:33 left in the half. Crenwelge's kick brought the score to 39-28, which Cameron took to the lockers.

Though the Eagles received the ensuing second half kick, Salado could not convert it into points and Cameron began to wear down the Eagles on both sides of the ball.

Kopriva ran in a short 1 yard touchdown to cap a 52 yard drive, followed by a 36 yard field goal by Michael Evan for a 49-28 lead with Cameron added a touchdown midway through the fourth quarter and a safety after they buried Salado at its 9 yard line and an errant snap to the quarterback ended up in the end-zone for the final score of 57-28.

The Yoe had 537 total yards, 317 on the ground. The Eagles had 362 yards, 308 of it in the air. Carter threw 26 times, completing 15 passes for 301 yards and four TDs and an interception.

WATCH D.O.G.S.® is the safe schools initiative of the National Center for Fathering (www.fathers.com). The program was created in response to the as Jonesboro, AR school shooting in 1998. Since then, the program has spread to more than 2000 schools in 46 states.

Hundreds of male role models have already participated right here in Salado.

Eagles get best chance for win

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"We match up better against them than anyone else we have faced so far," Head Coach Brent Graham said of the road game against the 2-2 Marlin Bulldogs, kicking off at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 3.

Marlin will come into the game with a 45-0 shellacking of Florence Buffaloes while Salado is continuing its search for Graham's first win at the helm of the Eagles.

After leading the top-ranked Cameron Yoe at the end of the first quarter last week, Salado eventually fell to the defending state champions 57-28.

But the Eagles proved they could score against one of the tougher defenses in the state as Salado had 362 yards total offense against the Yoe.

"They're big on the line and rely on their speed and athleticism in the backfield," Coach Graham said of the Bulldogs. Marlin typically runs a spread offense in order to get their speedsters in space where they can convert opportunities into yards and touchdowns.

"They'll also run a two-tight end, three-back set," he said, "so we will have to be able to adjust to that."

Graham said that the Bulldogs rely on defenses overpursuing runners and "not tackling in space," which is something the Eagles have struggled with throughout the early season, giving up more than 567 yard per game to opposing offenses.

On the offensive side of the ball, Salado will face a strong, tenacious 3-4 defense. "They don't give up easily," Graham said.

But, if there has been a bright spot in an 0-4 start to the year, it has been the Eagles offense, which has put up 1,678 yards in four games.

The Eagles average 36 points per game, but have given up 59 points per game to opponents.

Marlin returns seven starters on offense and seven on defense from last year's 4-6, 4-3 team.

Diabolical defense

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

This deal was played many years ago in a national pair championship. Holding the West hand was Harry Merkle, California expert. He found himself faced with the problem of finding the best opening lead against five clubs, which had been reached on the bidding sequence shown. (South's four-club bid was artificial and was equivalent to a takeout double.)

Probably most players would have automatically led the ace and another spade and hoped for the best. But Merkle had not earned his reputation as a fine cardplayer by making automatic leads. He was too experienced for that.

Instead, he decided that there was very little hope of scoring two spade tricks, and that his best chance to defeat the contract was to assume that his partner had either a singleton heart or a singleton diamond and would later be able to ruff the second round of one of these suits.

But not knowing which red suit to lead, Merkle came up with a unique solution. With malice aforethought, he led the eight of spades!

Everything worked out exactly as Merkle had planned. East won the spade with the ten and returned his singleton nine of diamonds. Declarer took the diamond with dummy's ace and led a trump to his king.

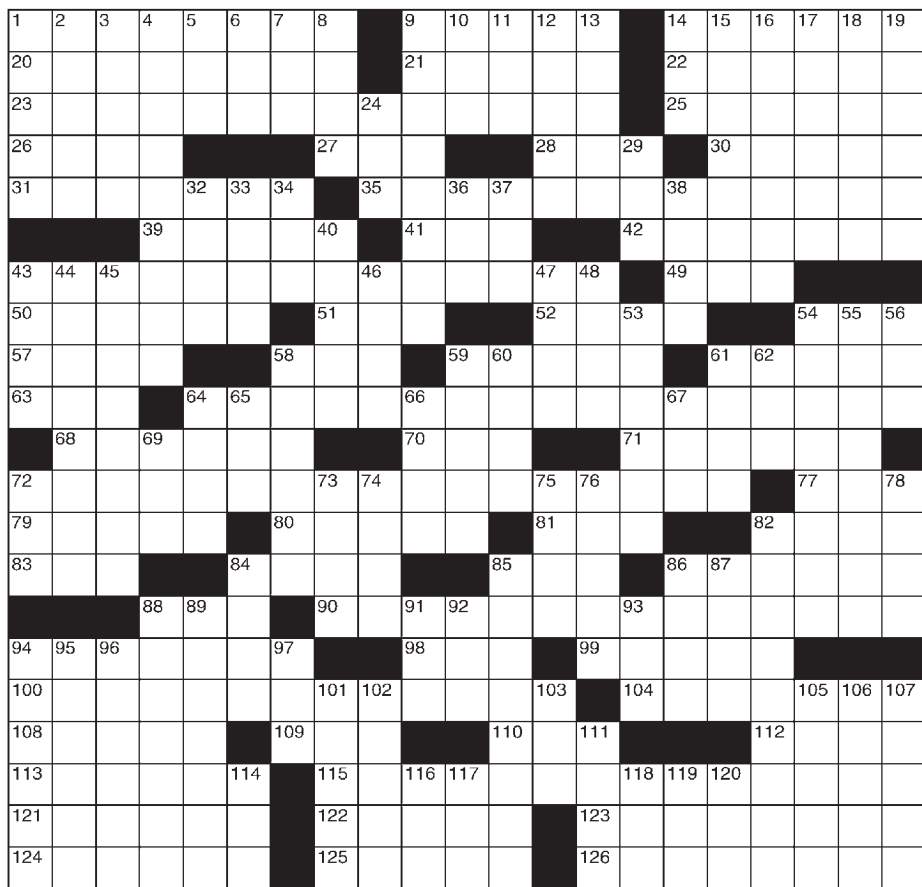

Merkle won with the ace and, consistent with his plan, returned a diamond. East ruffed to score the defenders' third trick, and the contract was down one, thanks to Merkle's brilliantly conceived defense.

Birding BITS BY Cindy Brook

Birds With Red
Red is a wonderful, wild color. My dad used to say, "red goes with everything." So here are some popular backyard birds that go with everything: downy, red-bellied and pileated woodpeckers, cardinals, red-winged blackbirds, painted buntings, summer and scarlet tanagers, ruby-throated hummingbirds, common redpolls. Can you add to the list?

Meaty main dishes satisfy hearty appetites

BAKED SPINACH AND BEEF STUFFED SHELLS

A mixture of ricotta, spinach and ground beef makes this classic baked pasta dish particularly satisfying. Grass-fed beef is rich and flavorful, so cooking with even a small amount makes a big impact.

8 ounces (about 30) jumbo pasta shells
3/4 pound ground grass-fed beef
1 1/4 cup reduced-fat ricotta cheese
1/2 (16 ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed dry
1 (15 ounce) jar marinara sauce
1 1/4 cup shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

Drain and cool under cold running water. Drain again.

Meanwhile, preheat the oven to 350°F. Heat a large, heavy skillet over medium-high heat. Add beef and cook, stirring and breaking up chunks, until browned, about 7 minutes. Drain off any excess fat. In a large bowl, combine beef, ricotta cheese and spinach.

Spread half the marinara sauce over the bottom of a 9x13-inch baking dish. Spoon a heaping tablespoon of filling into each shell and place them open side up into the dish; fit them together snugly and you should be able to get them all in a single layer. Pour remaining marinara evenly over top, sprinkle with mozzarella cheese and bake until cheese is melted and sauce is bubbling, 30 to 35 minutes.

Cook shells in salted boiling water until just barely tender, about 12 minutes.

CAJUN GRASS-FED BEEF SKILLET SUPPER

If your love for spicy things knows no bounds, feel free to up the amount of Cajun seasoning in this comforting supper. Should your beef stick to the skillet along the way, add a splash of low-sodium vegetable broth and scrape up any delicious browned bits to flavor the dish.

3/4 pound lean ground grass-fed beef
4 teaspoons salt-free Cajun or Creole seasoning, divided
1 cup chopped yellow onion
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 red bell pepper, cored, seeded and thinly sliced
1 jalapeño, seeded and finely chopped
1/2 cup low-sodium vegetable broth
1 (15 ounce) can no-salt-added kidney beans, rinsed and drained

1 (20 ounce) bag frozen 365 Everyday Value Organic Whole Grain Brown Rice, prepared according to package directions
1/4 cup roughly chopped parsley

In a large skillet, cook beef with 1 1/2 teaspoons Cajun seasoning over medium-high heat until browned, about 10 minutes. Add onion, celery, pepper, jalapeño and 1 1/2 teaspoons Cajun seasoning and cook until tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Add broth, stir to scrape up any browned bits and cook until thickened, 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in beans and cook until heated through. Meanwhile, toss warmed rice with remaining 1 teaspoon Cajun seasoning. Stir parsley into beef and bean mixture and spoon over rice.

CHEESEBURGER PIE

Create a simple yet comforting dinner by lining a pie dish with unbaked crescent roll dough to encase a savory mixture of onions, tomatoes and ground beef and turkey. Each bite is truly reminiscent of a juicy cheeseburger. Serve with a salad of crisp greens.

1/2 pound ground turkey or chicken breast
1 (8 ounce) package crescent roll dough
Olive or canola spray oil
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
Pinch freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
1/2 pound lean ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1/8 teaspoon fine sea salt
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1 cup grape tomatoes, each cut in half
1 cup shredded Parrano cheese or Parmigiano Reggiano

Preheat the oven to 375°F. Prepare a 9- or 9 1/2-inch pie dish with spray oil. Unroll crescent roll dough and press it into the pie dish, piecing together to form a crust. Brush with mustard and set aside.

In a large skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add onion and cook 8 minutes, stirring occasionally, until soft and golden. Reduce heat to medium and stir in tomato paste. Cook 1 minute. Add beef, turkey salt and pepper, and cook 5 minutes, until beef is browned and cooked through, using a spatula to break up meat as it cooks. Stir in grape tomatoes and cook 5 minutes longer.

Spoon meat mixture into the prepared pie crust and top with cheese. Bake on the bottom rack of the oven 20 minutes or until crust is golden brown and cheese is melted.

SLIDERS

The secret to the "perfect" burger isn't in the seasoning; it's in the beef!

1 1/2 pound ground round
Salt and pepper to taste
8 small buns
Extra virgin olive oil
4 leaves romaine or green leaf lettuce
1 large tomato, sliced
1/4 small red onion, thinly sliced

doneness, about 4 minutes per side over a medium hot fire.

Preheat the grill. Divide and gently shape the meat into 8 small patties. Season liberally with salt and pepper. Grill meat to desired

If you're a cheeseburger fan, add the cheese as soon as you flip to the second side. Meanwhile, brush buns with olive oil and grill just until lightly toasted. Dress burgers with lettuce, tomatoes and onions and serve.
