The speed limit on Main Street has been lowered to 30 miles per hour from one end of the road to the other. Texas Department of Transportation did a traffic survey before changing the speed limits. New speed limit signs were posted last week. The new, lower speed limit will allow golf carts to travel on the streets. Salado aldermen voted earlier this year to make Salado a "golf cart friendly" community. (PHOTO BY MARILYN FLEISCHER)

For government, the good times roll

For most Americans, the Great Recession has been an occasion to hold on for dear life. For public employees, it's been an occasion to let the good times roll.

The percentage of federal civil servants making more than $100,000 a year jumped from 14 percent to 19 percent during the first year and a half of the recession, according to USA Today. At the beginning of the downturn, the Transportation Department had one person making $170,000 or more a year; now it has 1,690 making more than that.

The New York Times reports that state and local governments have added a net 110,000 jobs since the beginning of the recession, while the private sector has lost 6.9 million. The gap between total compensation of public and private workers has only widened during the downturn, according to USA Today. In 2008, benefits for public employees grew at a rate three times that of private employees.

Public employees have developed an inverse relationship to the rest of the economy -- as it shrinks, shedding jobs and cutting salaries, they draw on a never-ending taxpayer bounty. It used to be said that the Great Depression wasn't so bad, if you had a job. The Great Recession has practically been a boom, if you have a government job.

Public employees can thank the union label. In 2009, for the first time ever, a majority of union members worked in the public sector. Unionism has been a long, secular decline in the private sector (down to 7.2 percent of all workers), but increasing in government (up to 37.4 percent of all workers).

These public-sector unions are flush with cash, politically connected and unabashedly self-interested. They are an active and growing conspiracy against the public fisc. The states where they are most powerful -- California and New York

Rich Lowry

-- lumber toward insolvency. The federal government follows not far behind, on the kind of diet geese enjoy prior to becoming foie gras.

In the Golden State, the California Teachers Association has all but become a branch of state government. Its exertions have given the state some of the worst schools in the country -- and the highest-paid teachers. California's prison guards have a powerful union -- and also the highest salaries in the nation. It's not a coincidence that California was reduced to issuing IOUs to cover its obligations for a time last year.

Government by and for the public-employees unions is bankrupting, both fiscally and ethically. In his post-Massachusetts explanations of why health-care reform stalled, President Barack Obama vaguely acknowledged a few lapses in transparency. But he never mentioned the grossness inherent in inviting union bosses to the White House so they can exempt their members from a tax. That would cut too close to the bone, since it's hard to tell where the unions end and the Democratic Party begins.

"You must first enable the government to control the governed," James Madison wrote, "and in the next place oblige it to control itself." That's impossible if government employees use public funds to muster themselves into a political machine devoted to their own interests and expansion.

Congress goes home; Nation relaxes; Obama's local Kudos; Other "stuff" worth repeating Headlines out of Washington these days could properly proclaim that "All's Quiet Along The Potomac" which would also be a great book title, except most Americans would probably avoid it as just another account of partisan lawmaking gone underground.

However, the "quiet" part is correct since Congress left town for a lengthy restorative: No, not for good! But for "Spring Break" i.e. raising money and votes for November, along with some vigorous verbal sparring against the "forces of evil" (be they Demos or Repubs) so as to keep the natives silently-satisfied and hopefully-happy.

NEWT GINGRICH

Newt Gingrich, left to his own devices in the now "placid" Capital Hill environs - remains on the prowl and according to the righteous-right scribbler Cal Thomas, "The Newt" is planning to announce for President in February 2011!

A matter that excited the self-aggrandizing Cal who trumpeted: "Because the country needs his intellectual stimulation." The preceding "his" being Newt's, and not Thomas-the-pontificator's who was undoubtedly behind the door when that quality was handed out.

* * * *

ON A SANER LEVEL

On a saner level, David Browder reported from Washington last week that Republicans and Democrats are legislatively stalemated, with both sides spending their time bad-mouthing each other and wondering why the public holds them in such low esteem (14 percent).

Browder also noted that the nation's unorganized "Independents" are not only angry at both Demo-Rep bunglers, but have now become the largest (self-styled) bloc of voters (42 percent) and with prudent leadership could evolve into a political force, to be reckoned with in the future.

From down here in Central Texas, it's hard to decipher exactly what will come of that political tripartition, but it certainly smells like something's brewing that will probably not be real tasty to the entrenched partisans (GOPers and Dem-libs) who can't seem to offer each other a pleasant "good morning" without sticking out their tongues and spewing either positive or negative "Obamagrams."

OBAMA WINS KUDOS LOCALLY

The sub-head (above) is not another April Fool's report, folks. President Obama has received a number of local "kudos" in recent days - including several from strong super-conservative Villagers.

Reasons: The President opened up new offshore areas along the east coast and Gulf of Mexico to future oil and gas drilling. Also included was a portion of the Alaskan frontier - although not within the protected ANWR area.

The President also got high GOP-marks for telling President Hamid Karzai to clean up his act in Afghanistan: (A) Stop the corruption that has

by Ken Clapp

squandered billions of our tax dollars - including the creation of an inept national police force that can't even shoot straight; and (B) Scolding the top Afghan with a "get off the pot" warning: A somewhat bawdy way of ordering Karzai to destroy the "poppy" fields and start growing food for his people instead of providing a cash crop for criminals and Taliban terrorists.

WORTH REPEATING (HOPEFULLY)

*Question of the Week: What two things does Texas and Alaska have in common? For starters - Rick Perry and Sarah Palin! What with the former head of our 49th State trying to keep her pal "The Rickster" in office and sharing the same "anti-gummint" feelings although both want to prolong their own government services: Puzzling? Not for a Republican!

The second commonality is that Texas and Alaska were the only two States that refused to accept "Race for the Top" grants handed out by Education Secretary Arne Duncan and designed to improve the "No Child Left Behind" program: "Too many strings attached" wailed Perry.

That's another shared belief (albeit incorrect in this instance) held by GOPers when they don't like something "federal." Pro-secessionists tend to embrace all of the above.

*Quote of the Week: Leonard Pitts Jr., political writer for the Miami Herald recently denounced Glenn Beck, after the Fox News' "blatherskite" advised his radio audience that "If your church preaches a gospel of social and economic justice - you should run (away) as fast as you can."

Beck continued lecturing his righteous-rightist listeners: "Social and Economic justice are code words for communism and Nazism."

Writer Pitts reported Beck's nonsense accurately. Added comments from several ministers. And concluded with what we have borrowed as our "quote" of the week from the Florida columnist: "Beck thinks we should flee the church that preaches social and economic justice? I think we should flee one that does not!"

This column's commentary on Pitts' quote: "Amen."

*Borrowed - circa 1990: H. Jackson Brown, Jr., writer from Fernvale, Tennessee, compiled a list of "insights" from an expansive group of folks (age 5 to 95) and together with his own thoughts, put out a booklet entitled "Live and Learn and Pass It On."

From Brown's 500+ "learned" comments - we've selected several "grabbers" that hopefully will produce a smile and even a nod of agreement:

"I've learned that nothing really bad happens when you tear those little 'do not remove' tags from pillows."

"I've learned that there's no friend like an old friend, no dog like an old dog, and no money like old money."

And this column's favorite: "I've learned that there are two things essential to a happy marriage - separate checking accounts and separate bathrooms."

Don't mess with Georgia's brown thrasher

Let's talk chicken. I don't mean clucking and cock-a-doodle-doing, but the power of the bird. Most people hear the word "chicken" and immediately think: "Dinner!" Some commercial interests in Georgia, however, think: "Money!" So, they've launched a campaign to put the common fryer on the top roost of the bird kingdom by having it declared the state bird of Georgia.

But, wait, there's already a state bird: the brown thrasher. No problem, says Chris Cunningham, the champion of the chicken campaign, we'll just get the legislature to dethrone that little thrasher and enthrone our money bird. Chris, who owns a chain of restaurants specializing in (what else?) fried chicken, says that the thrasher is inedible, lazy, and migratory. Besides being pretty, he asks, "What's it ever done for the state of Georgia?"

Yeah, if you can't pluck a profit from a feathered creature, who needs it?

In contrast, Cunningham points out that the chicken is Georgia's cash cow (so to speak), with millions of the cooped-up cluckers generating some $18 billion a year for the state economy and providing about 47,000 poultry industry jobs. It's time for chickens to "get a little respect," Cunningham crows.

Well, chickens themselves probably don't think that a daily mass slaughter of their kin and kind is a show of much respect. And before we weep with gratitude about those chicken-plucking jobs, let's note that the overwhelming number of them are non-union, no-benefit, short-term, nasty, and dangerous "jobettes" that don't come near providing a family wage or a middle-class opportunity for workers. Where's the respect in that?

Actually, I'm with Chris in seeing the nobility in common chickens. He points out that they are the "closest living relative to the Tyrannosaurus Rex." But their nobility stems from their overall birdness--not from them being chopped up parts to feed Big Chicken's corporate profits.

Drug test our kids? Drug test our politicians!

To the Editor:

If what is reported in the latest version of your journal is correct, "SISD trustees to mull random drug testing," perhaps, some additional voter/taxpayer/citizen illumination on this subject might be offered.

I'm reminded of the recent, national "health care" controversy, where an elected body of "public leaders," the U.S. Congress, concocted a health plan for the rest of US citizens. Even after legislation was introduced to require those members voting for the imposition of their national health care plan to live within their own "creation," the members of the U.S. Congress quickly buried said proposed requirement and elected to stay with their lucrative, expensive, elitist health care plan. Now, only the rest of US dwell within their imposed legislation. Real "leadership by example" would have had all of US, including the members of Congress, all "in the same boat," as I see it!

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

Thus, I see a similarity here with the elected "leadership" of the SISD School Board and their often capricious, yet mandatory decisions on others... If, students and teachers within the SISD school system are forced to be randomly drug tested, why not require some "leadership by example" and proactively offer the superintendent and school board members to be drug and alcohol tested, as well. Who knows what might be turned up in that venue?... often times we really do not know these folks (who may have just been here for a few months or a few years before elected/appointed) and/or their habits and lifestyles, except when given a name to vote for/against on a periodic ballot...yet, they're the ones making major decisions about children's futures and/or teacher's livelihoods...maybe, as is said, "what's good for the goose is good for the gander!"

I know as a SISD voter/taxpayer/citizen, I would like to see that type of leadership by example for a change... not the present self-serving, elitist, self-insulated, elected class of politicians, which continues ad nauseum at all levels of our elected representative democracy. Routinely drug/alcohol test ALL elected officials...might be further surprised at what might be found in those proposing the insane legislation we, US, have to live under!

ObamaCare: Advancing destruction of America

By LAWRENCE R. HUNTOON, M.D.,
 Ph.D.

On March 21, 2010, our country witnessed a Bolshevik moment, whereby our U.S. Constitution was trampled and utterly violated by those for whom the ends justified the means. If Obamacare is allowed to stand, the American way of life will be changed forever, and not in a good way.

As lawsuits emerge from the states, insisting that our leaders in government comply with our Constitution, the president who promised bipartisanship and bringing America together has created the greatest division in our country since the civil war.

It is an ideological division between those who believe that government's role is to confiscate wealth from the productive, and redistribute that wealth as the socialists see fit versus those who look to government to protect them from tyranny.

Common sense, basic economics, and history have been abused and ignored for the purpose of advancing a socialist agenda. Those who favor socialism, and government controlling 1/6th of our nation's economy, argue that ObamaCare isn't socialism because people will obtain medical insurance from private insurers.

While it is true, that for now, the federal government will not own the "means of production," the federal government will control private insurers via regulations and price controls (corporate socialism). As more people are insured and utilization of services increase, the cost of providing private insurance, and hence the cost of medical insurance premiums will increase dramatically.

A newly empowered federal bureaucracy under ObamaCare will implement price controls on insurance premiums to control unsustainable increases in premiums. Ultimately, private insurers will be driven out of business by ObamaCare when they are unable to provide medical insurance at a financial loss due to government-imposed mandates and price controls. The inevitable result will be a "public option" (fully socialized medicine) as the only option available.

The history of government involvement in medicine is a history replete with deception and gross underestimation of the costs. When Medicare was passed, people were told if they liked the private insurance they had, they could keep it ($ 1803 of SSA). The result: government destroyed the private insurance market for those 65 and older. Government also promised not to interfere in the practice of medicine or to engage in price-fixing for medical services ($ 1801 SSA). However, government now interferes in nearly every aspect of the practice of medicine for Medicare patients, and government has engaged in price-fixing to a degree that the fees sometimes do not cover the cost of providing medical care. And, the current cost of Medicare is nothing close to what was estimated in 1965. Medicare is going broke.

The ultimate goal of ObamaCare is to destroy the private sector in medicine and make people dependent on the federal government. The sales pitch that government can take from others to pay for everything one needs or desires is, in reality, a cruel assault on the middle class which will never get ahead because of the oppressive taxation that will be required to pay for the socialist redistribution of wealth. It's hard to overcome the greed of those who believe they are entitled to something for nothing.

And, those who believe that government will not ultimately ration medical care, should take note that the brother of Obama's chief of staff has already published principles for allocation of scarce medical interventions (Lancet 2009;373:423-432). Those principles for rationing care include "promoting and rewarding social usefulness." The rationing system that it promotes, known as the "Complete Lives System," includes an age-based priority for receiving medical intervention. The curve drops off rather precipitously past the age of 50. "Distributive justice" is said to be the appropriate focus of the Complete Lives System.

If our Republic is to survive, Americans must reject the socialist fantasy and economic impossibility of everyone living at the expense of everyone else, and we must return to individual freedom and responsibility. And, we must insist that our U.S. Constitution not be violated.

After first round, Eagles in third in district baseball

The Salado Eagles baseball team won both of their district games last week. The victories give the Eagles a 4-2 district record through the first round of play. Salado is in third by themselves with Jarrell and Rogers tied for first at 5-1.

On March 30, Salado used a nine run first inning to coast by Jarrell. The Eagles collected eight hits in the inning and Jarrell committed three errors to aid the Eagles. Tyler Laughland, Taylor Rudduck, and Paul Warren each had rbi's. Clint Scarborough drove in two runs in the inning while Cole Calder had three on a homerun.

Jarrell closed to 9-4 after three innings. The Eagles struck back with three runs in the fourth. Colton Norman singled and scored on Hunter Ward's triple. After Calder walked and stole second. Bubba Luna doubled to drive in both runners.

Salado added a run in the sixth and seventh innings. Calder hit his second homer of the game in the sixth and Luna reached on an error and eventually scored on a passed ball. In the seventh Norman walked and stole second. Bubba Luna doubled to drive in both runners.

Salado added a run in the fifth on a Norman homerun. Two more runs added in the sixth and seventh innings. Calder hit his second homer of the game in the sixth and Luna reached on an error and eventually scored on a passed ball. In the seventh Norman walked and Ward singled in front of a Calder double that scored both.

The final score was 17-7 as Salado collected 17 hits in the game. Calder was 4 of 4 with six rbi's in the game. Luna and Norman both had three hits and Scarborough and Ward had two each.

Trent Wagnon was the winning pitcher. He went four innings allowing six runs on six hits. Taylor Rudduck pitched the last three and struck out seven.

Against Lexington on April 1, the Eagles used a similar strategy for another win. Salado again jumped out quick with five runs in the top of the first. Bubba Luna, Paul Warren and Joey Davila had the only hits in the inning but three walks and a Lexington error helped the Eagles.

Taylor Rudduck gave Salado another run in the fourth with a homerun. It was his third of the season.

Salado increased their lead to 9-1 with three runs in the top of the sixth. Norman and Warren both had rbi singles in the inning.

Lexington added two runs in the sixth and seventh for the 9-5 final score.

Paul Warren led the offense going 3 of 3 with 2 rbi's. Norman was 2 of 3 in the game. Luna was the winning pitcher. He went six and two thirds innings striking out ten. Rudduck relieved and faced one batter in recording the final out.

Museum plans trip to Gault site

The Bell County Museum has about 20 spaces left for the tour to the Gault Site on Saturday, April 24, 2010, at 8:30 a.m. Cost for the tour is $10.00, with proceeds going to the Gault School for Archaeological Research.

The Gault site has been home to human beings for over 13,000 years. Strategically located streamside in the Balcones Ecotone (the boundary zone of the Edwards Plateau and the Black Prairie and Coastal Plain Ecozone), the Gault Site provided abundant food resources for early peoples. This rich ecotone enabled early peoples to forage the uplands for the plants and animals found there as well as the stream valley where different kinds of plants and animals were found.

Participants for the April 24 tour must register by calling Kristen Reichert, Program Coordinator, at 254.933.5243. Attendees will gather in the north parking lot of the museum at 8:30 a.m. and will carpool to the site. The tour lasts approximately 2 hours. Stephanie Turnham, museum director, said, "This is an opportunity to learn about one of the most fascinating and compelling stories about human habitation in North America."

Book review to benefit Republican Women Scholarship Fund

The Scholarship Endowment Foundation of the Central Texas Republican Women is holding a book review and fundraiser on The Freedom Writers Diary 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 21.

This year the fundraiser will support three scholarships for the Bell County area. The first scholarship will be awarded to a female to honor Kitty Pope; the second will be awarded to either a qualified male or female. The third award, added this year is the DeLoach Science Scholarship and will be awarded to a science major. Last year Morgan Kelly, a Salado High School graduate, was one of the two recipients.

The fundraiser will be held at Wildflower Country Club in Temple with Diana Stock reviewing the book by Erin Gruwell. Stock tells of Gruwell's experience as an idealistic first-year English teacher at a high school in Long Beach, California, who was confronted with a room of "unteachable kids". Gruwell took on the challenge and used writing to change the students lives and the world around them. The Book includes thoughts of the students as they progressed through the high school years as well as writings from the teacher's standpoint. She went on to form a foundation and to instruct teachers about her teaching method. Currently there are 150 trained teachers and the book reviewer, Diana Stock, from Harker Heights, is one of the teachers. Copies of the book will be available for purchase at the meeting. Tickets are $30 each with $15 being tax-deductible. Tickets may be purchased by contacting Barclay McCort at 254 947-3617.

Q: My husband just died. His daughter planned the funeral. When I showed up at the funeral home and expressed what I wanted, they told me I would have to talk to his daughter. Is this legal?

A: Yes. The party who signs the contract is the one who decides what can or cannot be granted. The funeral home works for one party and cannot willfully operate outside the contract.

Grace BAPTIST

Be Amazed by Grace

Of all the wonderful qualities which God has, certainly one of the most comforting and reassuring is his faithfulness. Even when his people basically tell him to "get lost," he remains faithful. Because he is the King of Kings, he will see his plan through to the end. One of the most vivid examples of this great truth can be found in the events described in 1 Samuel 9-12. We'll talk about it this Sunday morning at Grace.

Salado Eagle Band captures 3rd Straight Sweeps

The 66-member strong Salado Eagle Band captured their third straight sweepstakes on March 5. "Sweepstakes is an award given by UIL to those bands who receive a 1st division in marching, concert, and sight-reading." Band Director Tom Bremer explained. "Sight-reading is a competition where a director has seven minutes to teach a new piece of music to the ensemble and is restricted on what can be said. It is the most difficult of the three in my opinion."

Salado was only one of four out of 27 AA bands in UIL Music Region VIII to receive this award (Clifton, McGregor and Rose-Bud Lott the other three). "What a great way to say good-bye to class AA then to leave with one of its top honors. It goes without saying how proud I am of these students. The Eagle Band is ready for the next level of competition," commented Mr. Bremer. The Salado Eagle Band program included "Tahoka Galop" by Owens, "The Red Balloon" by McGinty, and "Barbarosa" by Himes. The performance can be heard by searching for "Salado Eagle Band" on Youtube.com or going to the Eagle Band website. The band is also celebrating sending four students to Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest in May: Helena Carroll and Courtnie Taylor, twirling, Jacob Cahoon, clarinet solo, and Dale Clement, piano solo.

The band is currently selling tickets to the April 16, Salado Masonic Lodge Fish Fry to raise funds for the band trip to Disney World. Tickets are $7 each. The Fish Fry will be held at the Salado Intermediate School. Tickets may also be purchased at the Salado Village Voice newspaper or First State Bank.

In the drink: Cars end up in Lake

By DALE GORE
SALADO ROTARY CLUB

A car occasionally driven into Stillhouse Lake is no "big deal", but eight cars discovered at one time beneath the water is "something else", Todd Spivey, an employee of U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, remarked to Salado's Rotarians meeting March 30.

Spivey, who works both Stillhouse and Belton Lakes, was referring to that recent incident. The abandoned and drowned vehicles were in the one area of the lake, Cedar Gap Park, which is the only one opened 24/7.

"Who sent the cars to a watery grave?" a Rotarian asked. Spivey posed some possible reasons, including joy-riding teenagers, owners behind in car payments abandoning the cars and claiming they were stolen to their insurance providers, or stolen by professionals who salvaged as many parts as possible to sell.

Lakes are developed for three basic reasons, recreation, public water supply and protection of wildlife, Spivey said, adding the impact on the area's economy.

In addition to his numerous duties, Spivey said the most difficult one is mediation between angry fishermen and carefree boaters.

The core of Spivey's talk was the floods suffered the past several years, requiring many repairs and in some cases total re-building. After two years most of the repairs and renovations are seeing completion, he said.

Grainger Esch and Kevin Carr cut-up in a send-up of yet another Shakespeare play in the revival of "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged)" at the Salado Silver Spur Theater finale this weekend.

The Bard's final performances at the Spur this weekend

"The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged)" completes its 2010 run at the Salado Silver Spur Theater this weekend with performances April 9-10.

Adam Long, Daniel Singer and Jess Winfield may be the playwrights for "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged)," but veteran actors Grainger Esch, Tony Blackman and Aaron Tucker are the rowdy trio which will revive the comedic send-up of the Bard's many works this spring to open the "Season of Laughter" at the Silver Spur Theater in Salado.

"TCWOWS," which had healthy runs in recent years at the Silver Spur, (108 Royal Street, in downtown Salado, blocks of IH 35), is a bit like ice cream: Sometimes a second or third helping is even more enjoyable. The fast-paced, laugh-filled show is being revived at 7:30 p.m. on April 9 and 10 and with 2 p.m. matinee April 10.

Evening shows are $15 for adults; $12 for senior citizens, military personnel and students with ID; and $8 for children aged 12 and under. Matinee admission is $12, $10 and $8, respectively. Group rates also are available. For reservations, call, 254-947-3456. For more info or directions, visit www.saladosilverspur.com.

"It doesn't matter whether you're a Shake-pearean scholar or don't know your Capulet from your Coriolanus," said Grainger Esch, co-founder of the Spur. "If you love the Bard's great works, you will really like this play. On the other hand, if you hate Shakespeare, perhaps because of some iambic pentameter incident in your childhood, you will love this play."

The trio of script writers, as the Reduced Shakespeare Company, first performed the work at the 1987 Edinburgh Fringe Festival. After a decade at England's Criterion Theatre, it became London's longest-running comedy, and has since conquered the entire globe, becoming a cult classic in the process.

Salado Silver Spur originally presented "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged)" to audiences in 2008.

Wildly Funny Cast . . . Playful Relevance

The three-member, all-male cast makes way for the historically correct - and hysterically wrong "drag" appearances - in the female roles, largely portrayed by newcomer Aaron Tucker of Atlanta. The hard-working trio, which includes Grainger and Tony of Salado, are all seasoned veterans of stage, screen and circus.

Tony Blackman, the long-time Technical Director of the Spur, has appeared in more than 50 productions. Favorites include roles in this show, "The Foreigner," "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "H.M.S. Pinafore," and as Nicky in the recent "Bell, Book & Candle." He's also directed such plays as "Steel Magnolias," "Love Letters," "LUV" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Esch and Tucker, a Baltimore native, are both veterans of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, having graduated from Clown College in 1988 and traveled on the road together. Aaron is fresh from three years with the Kinoshita Circus, one of Japan's oldest, but reminds CenTexans:

"I was a guest artist in 'Tracers' at St. Edwards University, worked with Austin's Rude Mechanicals in 'Don B's Snow White,' and spent ten of my lost years playing rock and roll with many Austin bands."

Each performer romps through costume, prop and dialect changes that leave little room for error. That's all the more reason to frame the more-or-less quoted text within an anything-goes improvisational style, where the audience can never be sure if the missed cue or late entrance is an actual boo-boo or another chance to

Great expectations
Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

There are players who see every hand through rose-colored glasses. Optimism certainly has its place in bridge and usually will pay handsome dividends when there is a sound basis for it, but the fact remains that an ace is an ace and a deuce is a deuce, regardless of who holds them.

It is clear that South in this deal was a full-fledged member of the Optimists Club. He had an excellent hand, to be sure, but he obviously looked upon his three spade losers as something the good Lord would surely take care of -- and he even carried this conviction to the point of redoubling East's double of six hearts!

One thing that can be said about the habitual overbidder is that he is usually a pretty good card-player. He gets so much more practice playing contracts that are seemingly out of reach that he becomes highly proficient at getting the most out of his cards. Our declarer in this deal was no exception.

He won the spade lead with the ace and played a low trump to the jack, revealing the 5-0 trump division. Undaunted, South cashed the A-K-Q of clubs, discarding a spade from dummy.

He then played four rounds of diamonds, disposing of his two spade losers. By this time nine tricks had been played, and declarer had won them all. East and South now each had four trumps, while dummy still had the 10-5.

Declarer next led a spade from dummy, and when East ruffed with the seven, South undertruffed with the three! East's low trump return ran to dummy's ten, and South's A-Q took the last two tricks to make six hearts redoubled!

Volunteer librarian Ruth Howe memorial held

By KAREN KINNISON

Now that we've had our chocolate fix for the year it's time to move into spring mode and enjoy those April showers and May flowers. More than 80 folks stopped by the library last Thursday to taste the chocolate treats and vote for their favorites in our Death by Chocolate competition. Check our website and the Salado Village Voice for the winners and their creations. A recipe compilation may be in the works.

Here is the April schedule for library events:

April 10: This will be the first of the Genealogy Workshops to be held in April and May. Each one covers a different topic. Sign up is necessary. Workshops will be led by members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

April 10: Ruth Howe Memorial Dedication. Join us at 2 p.m. for a ceremony honoring Ruth Howe. An old school bell is being placed in the memorial garden. Ruth was the first volunteer librarian. Family will be present to speak and refreshments will be served in the library.

April 17 and 24: Digital Photography Class. Don't be intimidated by that new teeny tiny new camera your kids gave you for Christmas! Join us on Saturday April 17 for a digital class in the library at 1p.m. led by Dr. Keith Thompson and again on the 24 at 10 a.m. for a fieldtrip.

April 23: NOON Book Review by Michael Donahue and his book – Drawing Battle Lines: The Map Testimony of Custer's Last Fight.

NEW MOVIES:

The Blind Side: A black teen from across the tracks has nowhere to go and is taken in by affluent Memphis couple. Starring Sandra Bullock, winner of Best Actress at Academy Awards.

Up in the Air: This movie is about a man (George Clooney) who flies around the country firing people and is losing the ability to remain aloof from any emotional ties.

Whaledreamers: An award-winning documentary hosted by musician Julian Lennon centers on the Miming of Australia, a tribe whose bond with whales is jeopardized.

NEW BOOKS:

I am currently reading "Wild Horse Annie and the Last of the Mustangs" by David Cruise. Solar by Ian McEwan: McEwan once again employs domestic strife to examine the currents of worldwide change. Despite its somber backdrop of global warming, Solar is actually funny and witty. The physicist Dr. Beard is a repulsive protagonist on his fifth failed marriage who trades on his reputation to get huge fees and fame while heading up a government-backed initiative tackling global warming.

"Keeping the Feast" by Paula Butturini: This is a story of food and love, injury and healing, and a triumphant memoir of one couple's nourishment and restoration in Italy after a period of tragedy. Both blunt and brave it joins Julie and Julia and Eat, Pray, Love in the insight that food can jump-start the path to solace.

"The Executor" by Jesse Kellerman: Perpetual grad student Joe Geist finds himself at loose ends and answers an ad for a "conversationalist" from an elderly woman of Viennese origin. Complications ensue.

"Reading without reflecting is like eating without digesting." Edmund Burke laugh.

 "We actors have some method to our madness," concedes Esch. "The prospect of reducing the works of the greatest English author might seem intimidating, but we will convince patrons that it's the tragedies that are really funny."

"Yes, we do take liberties with the Bard of Avon, but it's with love and admiration for the words themselves," he explained. "This is not the Reader's Digest version of Shakespeare, but rather an ESPN highlight reel of 'Willy's Plays of the Century,' that make these great dramas accessible to a contemporary audience, kids included."

"The job isn't hopeless because the script centers on plays people know best, like 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'Macbeth' and 'Hamlet.' Still, for all its appearance of wildness and abandon, the show is carefully paced and crafted," Esch said.

"The odd thing is, even when you clown them, Shakespeare's lines have the power to grab you one way or another. Even a remarkable scene that uses the 'What a piece of work is a man' speech touches a nerve and reminds us that Shakespeare is relevant today because he really could and still does capture the human condition."
