Help others cool off, score free tickets to Legends

By JACKIE MILLS
PLAYWRIGHT

Andy Andersen, weatherman for KCEN TV, is spearheading the drive for electric fans to be donated to the elderly or people in need during these hot "dog days" of summer.

You have heard Andy announcing the need for electric fans during Channel 6 news and weather.

Now Salado Legends is joining Andy's drive with "Electric fans for Salado Legends tickets" for the Aug. 5 performance. Attendees are encouraged to bring one new electric box fan and receive show tickets for two people. Tickets normally cost $20 each.

Andersen has had Guest Star roles in Salado Legends for the past 13 years. He has been a surveyor who opens the show, a courier bringing home the names of the dead and wounded from the Civil War battlefield, a cow boy, Mr. Pace (a real person in the history of Salado whose family gave the land for Pace Park where the Salado Art Fair is held every summer), and Andy also leads his horse who is carrying a wounded soldier home from the war. During intermission on August 5th, the last evening of the Salado Legends, Andy also assists in handing out scholarships to the college age cast and crew. This year $12,900.00 from scholarship donors and Tablerock will be given to approximately fifteen deserving college students and high school students who are taking college courses. These students are from all over Central Texas and major in the degree of their choice.

For the past 19 years Andy has been the full-time weatherman for KCEN TV and a part time movie actor. He has appeared in a three-part PBS documentary named Texas Before the Alamo. In this documentary Andy plays one of the Tennessee Volunteers. It was filmed at the old set in Brackettville, TX that was built for John Wayne's

The Alamo. The December premier will be at the same San Antonio Theater that premiered John Wayne's movie. A partial list of Andy's credits include: Behold a Pale Horse as Juan Seguin; in a trailer for They Rode On; as a Captain in a Ranger Company for Dawn of the Crescent Moon that premiered at a Houston film festival and won two top awards. Andy was cast as a sheriff in Retail Hell: Do you Work Here and he has been asked to head up a creative team and play the lead as a Sheriff in the movie A Good Man's Decision, a modern day story concerning the 2nd Amendment. Andy, also a horse trainer, and a good windmill fixer, dutifully volunteers to ring a bell around a Salvation Army kettle every Christmas.

Bring your new electric box fan to the Ticket Gate on August 5th in exchange for 2 Salado Legends tickets to the show. Call 254-947-9205 for information. Help Andy, KCEN and Salado Legends keep their "fans" cool.

Salado Family Relief provides school supplies to local kids

Salado Family Relief Fund will be assisting families in need with a school supply package (Pre-K-8th) or a gift card (9th-12th).

The SFRF will distribute the packages and gift cards, as well as backpacks provided by Salado United Methodist Church and Grace Church of Salado 4-6 p.m. Aug. 8 and 5-7 p.m. Aug. 10 at the Presbyterian Church of Salado, 101 Salado Plaza Dr.

Recipients will need to bring the following items to show eligibility for school supplies or gift card:

- 1) Proof of enrollment in Salado ISD
- 2) One of the following: Medicaid letter/SSI disability card, Texas Lone Star Card, CHIP or WIC card
- 3) Photo Identification.

Last year, Salado Family Relief Fund provided back to school supplies to more than 150 students in the Salado school district. At an estimated $50 per student, the back to school program costs SFRF about $7,500 per year.

The gift card comes at the best time for local families as they receive them before the Tax Free Holiday for school supplies and clothes.

SFRF provides temporary help to qualified residents for rent, utilities and medicines on a case-by-case basis.

SFRF also serves the Salado community by collecting Christmas gifts for more than 150 children in Salado each year.

SFRF was formed as a 501(c)3 organization 20 years ago with Marilyn Fleischer as its first President. Since then, the organization has had three other leaders: Leigh Ihrie (Drake), Mary Catherine Ervin and now Renee Oas.

"We cannot do this without the generosity of our community," said Oas. That support comes from local churches, civic groups and individuals

In addition to the backpack collection by Salado United Methodist Church and Grace Church of Salado, the Salado Masonic Lodge #296 chose to adopt the second grade for this year's back to school program. The Lodge committed $1,000 for 20 kits of back to school supplies. Lodge members also bring in bicycles and tricycles in November and December to give to children for Christmas through the annual SFRF Christmas drive.

The Salado Food Pantry will help local families with clothing needs. The Food Pantry recently moved to its permanent home in the Salado Plaza Shopping Center. It is open on the second and fourth Saturdays of the month.

Contributions are accepted year round, send to: Salado Family Relief Fund, P.O. Box 461, Salado, TX 76571.

The Empty Bowl Project held in November benefits the SFRF. It is the only fundraising event held by the SFRF. Titia Arledge Califano leads the Empty Bowl Project, collecting and handmaking pottery bowls throughout the year leading up to the event. Local restaurants and bed and breakfast inns participate by donating soup to the event each year. Many people use the event to stock up on new bowls for their homes or to give as gifts at Christmas time.

Collectors have enjoyed Pritchett's collection of artists in the historical building in downtown Salado.

Senate approves bills restricting authority of municipalities

By RICHARD LEE
SENATE NEWS SERVICE

With only one exception, the Senate approved the last of the bills relating to the special session agenda remaining on its calendar last week.

Many of these measures are aimed at restricting city authority in favor of the state. This gave the House 20 days to consider Senate legislation relating to these issues.

First, the Senate gave approval to a bill that would require women to purchase supplemental insurance plans if they want coverage for elective abortion procedures. SB 8, by Conroe Senator Brandon Creighton, would prohibit the inclusion of elective abortion coverage in employer-offered, government or ACA exchange insurance plans. Plans could still offer coverage for medically-necessary abortions.

Also, the Senate passed a measure intended to combat mail-in voter fraud. Texas permits people older than 65, people with a disability, or people who won't be home during early voting or on election day to vote by mail ballot. North Richland Hills Senator Kelly Hancock says that this alternate system is ripe for mail-in voter fraud, and pointed to a number of on-going investigations into questionable mail ballots, including 700 suspicious ballots in Dallas County.

His bill, SB 5, would enhance penalties for mail-in ballot fraud, enhances protections for elderly and disabled voters, and would strengthen signature verification procedures to detect potential fraudulent ballots. It also requires prompt reporting of mail ballots rejected under fraud suspicion to the state Attorney General.

The rest of the bills considered and passed last week dealt with restrictions on municipal authority. First, SB 6 by New Braunfels Senator Donna Campbell, would curb cities' ability to annex areas by requiring input from citizens in the area to be annexed. Before a city can annex an area, the bill would require that it receive the approval of a majority of the registered voters there; by petition in a small area with less than 200 residents, and by election in more populous areas. The city would have to pay for the petition or election and would have to hold public hearings beforehand to permit public input.

Next, the Senate approved a bill that would end cities' authority to regulate the use of handheld devices while driving. Under SB 15 by Dallas Senator Don Huffines, only the state could place limits on the use of handheld wireless communications devices while behind the wheel. The bill would end existing ordinances prohibiting use of a cell phone without a hands-free accessory in more than 40 Texas cities. State law already bans cell phone use in school zones and for drivers younger than 18. A statewide ban on texting and driving, passed during the regular session, is set to go into effect on September 1.

City and county permitting processes would be governed by a uniform and expedited state-wide standard under a bill passed by Fort Worth Senator Konni Burton. Her bill, SB 13, would require all municipal permitting processes to follow the same rules. The intent of the bill is to reduce the time from application to approval to about 30 days.

Finally Wednesday, the Senate passed a bill that would end city protections for trees on private property.

SB 14, by Senator Bob Hall of Edgewood, would override existing ordinances that prevent people from cutting down trees or vegetation on their own land without municipal approval. This bill would not apply to some safety ordinances, such as those intended to prevent tree disease or wildfires.

The only item on the Senate agenda not passed over the last three days is SB 18, by Wichita Falls Senator Craig Estes. This measure, which seeks to put a cap on the growth of local government spending, is set to be taken up next week.

FORUM

An Open Exchange of Ideas

The Stupid Party

The ascension of Donald Trump was supposed to change everything in the GOP. As it happens, perhaps one very important thing hasn't: The Republicans may well still be The Stupid Party.

That Obamacare repeal has one or maybe two feet in the grave, depending on how you're counting, is testament to jaw-dropping disarray and bad faith.

On the cusp of a historic failure, the party has begun the finger-pointing, and it's hard to argue with any of it. The establishment is right that Trump is incapable of true legislative leadership. The Trumpists are right that the establishment is ineffectual. Conservatives are right that moderates don't really want to repeal Obamacare. And pragmatists are right that a few conservatives are beholden to a self-defeating purity.

The Republican members of the world's greatest deliberative body aren't covering themselves in glory. Susan Collins of Maine and Rand Paul of Kentucky have always been noes, leaving no margin for error. Mike Lee of Utah and Jerry Moran of Kansas are additional noes on the current repeal-and-replace bill, while Shelley Moore Capito of West Virginia and Lisa Murkowski of Alaska have joined Collins as noes on repeal-only.

Rich Lowry

Then there is another tranche of Republicans, like Rob Portman, who are nervous fence-sitters. The Ohio senator doesn't have to appear on a ballot again until 2022, yet gives every indication of quailing at taking a tough vote.

For Rand Paul, clearly, a perhaps once-in-a-generation opportunity to significantly reform two entitlement programs isn't as important as scoring cheap points against his colleagues in the cause of getting as many cable hits as possible.

Lee is a thoughtful, public-interested conservative who isn't a showboater. He has an outside influence on the prospects of the bill because he is one of the few Republicans willing to be the decisive vote against it.

It's not just senators who are falling down. President Trump has very little idea what is in the health care bill, and doesn't particularly care. This prevents him from helpfully engaging in detailed negotiations, and he hasn't made a public case for the bill except in tweets and at the highest level of generality. Repealing Obamacare was never going to be easy. The law has created facts on the ground that are inherently difficult to undo. Mitch McConnell has 52 Republican senators, whereas Harry Reid had 60 senators. But Reid held all his members.

At the end of the day, the most important difference between the parties on health care may be that the Democrats had a vision that they were thoroughly committed to and were astonishingly courageous in effecting. No one had more to lose on Obamacare than Nancy Pelosi, and yet no one was as devoted to the cause. If she becomes speaker again in 2019 after Republicans -- disunited, selfish and fearful -- have whiffed on repealing her handiwork, it will be the sweetest revenge.

Like the Democrats in 2009, Republicans have a historic opportunity that will quickly vanish unless it is seized. A majority is a terrible thing to waste. Six months in, Republicans are giving every indication that is exactly what they might do, to their everlasting disgrace.

Revolution of transformation of character

"The transformation of character is more Revolution than transformation. It is forged from battles fought far more than by beliefs held. It emerges out of crisis, not out of classroom. Character is like a hero asleep with-in waiting to be awakened. And, when the hero awakens, it comes to the realization that with each challenged faced, with each victory won that running against the wind changes it forever." McManus, "Stand Against the Wind."

Such it is with Salado. The past few years have been more of a revolution than a transformation. Most prefer transformation over revolution because it is slower, more compatible with our thinking. However, events, circumstances, and time dictate whether it is a revolution or a transformation or both.

Mayor Skip Blancett

Since incorporation, Salado has been evolving through transformation. With the growth of Texas and the city, towns, and villages on the I-35 Corridor, transformation became a fast moving revolution caused by construction, self-centeredness, and frustration. Salado's character has developed more from battles fought than beliefs held. It has emerged out of crisis, not out of classroom. Like it or not, Salado is a different Village with new players, thinking, and ideas. These new players are respectful but not shy in taking the lead. They do not tolerate waddling chaos hunters.

Through hardships, Salado has developed a character that is strong, resilient, and self-confident. Few municipalities have gone through the trials and disappointments that Salado has endured. Salado survived through courage and determination will not recognize or accept defeat.

Be proud of your accomplishments, Salado, and look forward to what is and will be happening in the next few months. You have set the example for every small community in Texas. You have proven, Salado, that with will-power and courage, a community can emerge that manages the historical and contemporary successfully with unmatched class and rock solid character.

Americans: Optimistic No More?

"The present is getting better. The future, not at all."

So begins a recent New York Times article about a Pew study that shows the public adopting a rather dim outlook. "Even as more Americans say the economy is improving, a clear majority remain fearful about their children's financial prospects," it continues.

The Pew study isn't exactly bucking a trend, though. Other surveys indicate a similar level of pessimism, and not just about the economy. You have to wonder what happened to the optimism that once helped define the United States.

We were settled, after all, by the ultimate optimists. These were people willing to risk their lives during a dangerous three-month sea voyage in the hope of a better life in a land they had never laid eyes on. These new immigrants and pioneers had to be incredible optimists, just to overcome the inertia and resistance of leaving everything behind.

For generations, native-born and immigrant Americans alike have believed that they could create a better way of life and fashion a better future for themselves and their descendants. And they've been proven correct time and again.

Later immigrants came packed into third-class berths on steamships. Most understood they were making a one-way trip. They'd never see their homelands or their families again. Yet they were willing to take that risk and endure a dangerous trip because they optimistically believed a better life awaited them.

Their basic premise was that a transcendent and eter-

Heritage Forum

by Edwin Feulner

nal God, not capricious political government, gave them their freedom. Under this providential dispensation, it was possible, by willingly undertaking incredible risks, to create a new life in a new world.

No matter how many problems they endured after arriving, they never lost sight of the idea of America's greatness. This land afforded them and their children a multitude of opportunities if they were willing to work -- and they were. This optimistic spirit, and the confidence in the future that characterized the men and women who built America, is central to our national heritage.

Yet now, in times of economic difficulty, many look to government for solutions. But history has shown that government lacks the ability to do much more than maintain the status quo. Indeed, government intervention often makes matters worse.

The pessimist in American society believes the reason some people are poor is that others are rich. He refuses to see any cause-and-effect relationship between behavior and result. This is the same as saying, "The reason some people are sick is that others are well."

Because they blame others for their problems, pessimists seek solutions outside themselves for those problems. If you have no belief in yourself or your abilities, you'll have no faith in your capacity to solve your problems. A pessimist is always demanding help, regardless of whether that help is effective.

Although the notion that government can solve, for example, the problem of poverty has been disproved in the United States and throughout Europe, this concept persists in the minds of many people. It seems that the one thing pessimists are optimistic about is that the failures of government will somehow correct themselves if they are allowed to continue indefinitely.

If we want to improve people's attitudes -- and, more importantly, their prospects -- we need to increase their freedom, particularly through tax and regulatory reform. Individuals in the private sector will always be the key to economic success. Optimism is the fuel that feeds our dreams. It provides us with the hope necessary to innovate, invent and aspire, and the willingness to take the risks essential for achievement.

Robbed of optimism, people will languish and wallow in self-pity. Their lives, and the lives of their children, will stagnate.

While not everyone can reach the highest levels of success, everyone can aspire and achieve things that will improve their lot in life and aid their children so they can do better still -- provided that government stays out of the way.

The Importance of Protecting Our Water Sources

“NATIONAL WATER QUALITY MONTH” HIGHLIGHTS THE IMPACT OUR WATER SYSTEMS HAVE ON THE COMMUNITY

By GARY ROSE

Water is the prime element responsible for life on earth—two thirds of the earth’s surface is covered by water, and the human body consists of 75 percent water. Water is the world’s most precious resource, and it must be safe and clean for consumption.

August is National Water Quality Month, a month designated to emphasize how interlinked our water systems are, as well as the dangers of runoff from agriculture, forestry, construction and personal yards. Water pollution is both an environmental concern and a public health issue.

The Environmental Protection Agency reports that 40 percent of the nation’s waterways suffer water quality issues. The most common reasons waterways fail to meet the standards include high levels of pathogens, mercury, heavy metals, nutrients and sediment—many of these pollutants are the result of upstream activities and airborne contaminants.

SouthWest Water Company, an investor-owned utility, provides water and wastewater services to more than 500,000 customers in six states, and offers the following tips to prevent water pollution:

- Do not use antibacterial soaps or cleaning products; use detergents that are phosphate-free—Antibacterial chemicals in soap can not be completely removed by wastewater treatment facilities

- Do not flush unwanted medications down the toilet or drain—Flushing drugs down the toilet sends them directly into the water supply, harming the environment—most medicines are not removed by wastewater treatment processes or septic systems

- Do not put anything but water down storm drains—Water that flows into storm drains is not piped to a water treatment facility and cleaned before it is returned to streams and rivers

- Fix leaks on cars and put liners in driveway to collect oil and other materials—These leaks and drips contribute to storm water pollution

- Avoid using pesticides or chemical fertilizers—Pesticides and chemical fertilizers pose a threat to human health and pollute both ground and surface water

- Choose nontoxic household products, when possible—Many cleaning products are harmful to aquatic life, water quality and the overall ecosystem

- Pick up after pets—pet waste can run down the storm drains and spread bacteria

- Sweep your driveway to keep it clean, rather than hosing it off— The polluted water flows down the street and into the storm drain

- Wash your car at a commercial car wash—Cleaning your car at home flushes dangerous chemicals down the storm drain and directly into lakes and streams

- To ensure the safety and quality of your water, join in local waterway cleanups and make a conscious effort to minimize your personal impact on the environment and water systems.

- In order to make sure you’re getting the best quality water, it’s important to educate yourself about what’s in your water. Get involved in water education and talk with your neighbors about how they can help, too.

Happy National Water Quality Month!

NOT ENOUGH

I asked my boss (Col USA) if he would help me write a very important thank you note. "Sure, write like you would say it without the cuss words, that's what I do."

THANK YOU ALL AND GOD BLESS YOU.

To friends up the street, down the street, across, on the corner, around the corner, across town, next town, few blocks away, on the farm, across states and the ocean. To the 911 voice, first responders, EMS crew, ER team, recovery staff, all technicians and the young lady who fastened my seat belt.

While you are recovering, it is a lot easier when you have the comfort of knowing all is well at home. Daily chores, spouse, living, meals, animal care, frequent check-in's, many other tasks.

Hospital stay was excellent, being monitored from the sky over Austin and Temple makes you feel like a very special person. There are not enough thank yous in THANK YOU to express all.

Come in sit a spell, PA fixed the porch and the apple pie a coolin'. Salado livin'

I had to add this: While drafting this letter I was admitted to the hospital with emergency blood issues. My special thanks goes to AL who transported me to and from the hospital and stayed with me from 1900-0430.

We don't use ammonia or alcohol-based solutions that can affect flooring or fabrics." All Ladies Auxiliary members and guests are invited to attend.

The organization also offers programs and activities that are educational and inspirational as well as social. Carpenter Joseph Lewis builds new playscape for St. Joseph's Chapel

If you haven't already noticed, there is a new Playscape between St. Joseph's Chapel and their Parish Hall. Members of the Vestry wanted to replace the old dilapidated Playscape, but they didn't have the funds for a large school yard quality Playscape. Two pillars of the church, Sara and Joe Lewis, approached their son, Joseph Lewis who does small carpentry projects on the side. They asked if he would be willing to lend his tools, talent, and time to building a Playscape for the church. Joseph had brought his two daughters to the summer Cathedral Camp that St. Joseph hosted.

During the camp, the children would design and build a cardboard cathedral.

So Joseph designed the Cathedral Playscape based off the Kylemore Abbey in Ireland, and submitted the drawings to the Vestry. The Vestry approved a budget to cover the cost of materials, and several church members also donated money designated for the Playscape. Lewis Construction and Renovation commenced to building the Cathedral Playscape, which was completed by Easter Sunday 2017. The Lewis Family, Ben Beasley, plus several other Church members provided the labor.

Children are the cornerstone of St. Joseph's of Salado. The stone wall garden area between the Church and Parish Hall is a natural place for kids to gather after service while parents continue on to have refreshments in the Parish Hall. Having the "Little Free Library", there also promotes reading while playing. Please feel free to stop by and visit St. Joseph's Chapel and Grounds and see the new Cathedral Playscape.

Manning gets perfect score!

Kayla Manning, daughter of Kristina and Will Manning and a rising senior at Salado High School, earned the highest possible ACT composite score of 36.

On average, less than one-tenth of 1 percent of students who take the ACT earn a top score.

In the U.S. high school graduating class of 2016, only 2,235 out of nearly 2.1 million graduates who took the ACT earned a composite score of 36.

The ACT consists of tests in English, mathematics, reading and science, each scored on a scale of 1-36. A student's composite score is the average of the four test scores. Some students also take the optional ACT writing test, but the score for that test is reported separately and is not included within the ACT composite score.

In a letter to the student recognizing this exceptional achievement, ACT Chief Executive Officer Marten Roor-

da stated, "Your achievement on the ACT is significant and rare. While test scores are just one of multiple criteria that most colleges consider when making admission decisions, your exceptional ACT composite score should prove helpful as you pursue your education and career goals."

ACT test scores are accepted by all major U.S. colleges. Exceptional scores of 36 provide colleges with evidence of student readiness for the academic rigors that lie ahead.

Start of school will mean new teachers, staff at Salado ISD, Thomas Arnold

Salado students return to school later this month, where they will be greeted by several new faces at all four campuses.

Jenny Jones

Among the new teachers at Salado ISD is Jenny Jones, who will be a new teacher at Thomas Arnold Elementary. Jones holds a BS in Speech Communications from Howard Payne University in Brownwood. She has an MA in Christian Education with an emphasis in Communications from Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth.

She is certified in Elementary education.

"In previous years, I have excelled as a third grade teacher, assisted in the Content Mastery classroom as well as fulfilling the role as a grant-funded tutor for K-fifth grade," she says.

She will be a Kindergarten teacher in Salado.

"My father was an elementary school principal and as he mentored me, I learned how vital excellent leadership was in promoting a positive climate to teach in and even more so, learn in," she said. "I have had vast experience in working with students from Pre-K up to the university level. Yet, my passion is stirred when given the opportunity to guide the early childhood student."

"I desire to nurture students and assist them in finding their niche, as well as, providing a community where they feel safe and belong," she said. "I find great value in helping students catch on to being independent thinkers and see that learning is a lifelong process to never give up on. There is nothing more satisfying and exciting when students know that in themselves they have all they need to be successful. When given the responsibility of their learning the sky is the limit on what they can hope, dream and accomplish."

Jones is married with a seven year old daughter. "We are involved in our church and enjoy connecting with the community of Salado. I love cooking and hosting others in our home and am thrilled at the opportunity in creating organizational processes. I also find joy serving on an Advisory Board for Foster Love Bell County."

Other new staff members include these:

Ashleigh Grams

Ashleigh Grams will work in food service. She comes to Salado after working in various restaurants in and around Salado. She is a 2011 graduate of Salado High School.

She says she "enjoys hanging out with my son and spending time with family."

Larry Moore

Larry Moore, facilities custodial supervisor for all four campuses. Moore comes to Salado from Temple ISD, where he worked in the general maintenance department for five years. He was director of maintenance for 24 years at Will Properties in Killeen. He also worked as a general contractor.

Moore holds a certificate in air conditioning and refrigeration from Texas State Technical Institute.

He will oversee a staff of 13 at Salado ISD.

He and wife Beth have been married for 29 years. They have three sons, Josh, a graduate of Baylor, Trevor, who will graduate from University of North Texas this December and Ty, who is a Cameron Yoeman.

Moore has lived in Central Texas all of his life, graduating from Cameron Yoe in 1983.

Brandi Moore

Brandi Moore will also work in the food service department.

Brandi Moore has a Bachelor's in Complementary and Alternative Health

"I am excited to be working for Salado ISD, and am looking forward to meeting all of the students and staff," she says.

Steve Campbell

Steve Campbell is a new bus driver in Salado.

He will be driving an afternoon route in the fall.

Dallas sculptor, collage artist Jay Bass moves studio to Springhouse of Salado on Royal Sculptor Jay Bass has moved his studio from Dallas to Salado, locating at Springhouse of Salado recently. His works are now on display at Springhouse on Royal St.

Born in Paris, Texas in 1956, Bass began working in materials such as granite, steel and stainless steel in 1988. He has completed large installations in both private and corporate locations.

"As a sculptor I like the term "Modern Day Minimalist" to describe my work," he says.

Jay's collage work is often categorized with such labels as nonobjective constructivism and synthetic cubism. "I owe fundamental allegiances to old guys like Malevich and Puni, but as a contemporary I was taught by the best. I grew up on guys like James Surls," he said. "To this day, I still hold my design instructor Dan Rizzie in the highest of regards. He taught me the idea of developing your own visual language. Everything flows from that. Back in my youth I even had David Bates teach me how to equip and set up my studio."

In 1984, Bass was selected by the City of Dallas's "Artpicks Program" to represent the city as a visual artist. "It was the early days of the Office of Cultural Affairs back when the Public Arts Projects were just getting started."

"I've been to work at the quarries in Carrara, Italy and had works exhibited there," he says.

He is quick to add, "I feel as though I'm just getting started really. I still have so many design ideas to get produced."

"I've been to many a crossroad and I'm in a good place," he said. "Every day brings inspiration."

In recent years, he has been involved in the development stages of a project called "Crestworks."

"It is a highly decorative line of fine art pieces, that are mechanical in design," he explains. "They will be wall mounted display fixtures, low tech content platforms, each containing pictures which will play as a story that is revealed when the viewer manipulates it."

"I like to think of them as housings, hands on contraptions. Beautiful, as art objects go, that can be personalized," he says.

"As a start up, we are still wrestling with the funding. But this thing has good legs and will come to play in many markets," he said.

Crestworks, he says is something that is "Definitely worth watching out for."

John T. Dulaney Mill and Community (1867-1912)

By CHARLENE CARSON
HISTORIAN

In 1867 the southern states, including Texas, were still undergoing a period of reconstruction following the Civil War. It was in this same year that Salado incorporated for the purpose of issuing bonds to build a wire cable suspension foot-bridge across Salado Creek. Also, during this year, Rev. James E. Ferguson acquired the Chalk Mill, built in 1848, and the mill became known as the Ferguson Mill.

It was also around this time that John Thornton Dulaney built a new mill on the Salado River. When Dulaney built his mill, only three other mills, the Davis Mill, located near Main Street; Summers Mill, located near present day Belton and Holland roads; and Chalk/Ferguson Mill, located about mid-point between Davis and Summers mills were operating on the Salado.

John Thornton Dulaney, a millwright, writer, and adventurer, moved to Bell County in 1865 and bought acreage along Salado Creek on which to build a mill. John Thornton Dulaney was born on February 23, 1825 in Culpepper County, Virginia. He learned the value of hard work at an early age. His first job was 12 months of intense labor working in a flour mill at 11 cents per day. If he quit before 12 months he would only receive half pay.

After serving his 12 months, Dulaney, at the age of 17, realized that if he was going to make a living, he needed to find other work. He, therefore, started westward meeting up with a party of Mormons on their way to Nauvoo, Illinois. Finding no work in Nauvoo, he moved on to Burlington looking for employment. He found plenty of work, but no money. All trade was carried on in produce barter. Dulaney, with his earnings fast dwindling, retraced his steps back to Missouri where he was fortunate in getting employment at the high price wage of $8.00 per month working at millwrighting.

Like other young men of his time seeking adventure and fortune, in 1849 Dulaney left Independence, Missouri, driving an ox-wagon team pulling an overland wagon train bound for the gold fields of California. About five months later he arrived in Sacramento, a small town of three frame houses. His company consisted of 64 men. The miners had to form into companies for protection against hostile Indians, with whom they had several fights with two or three Indians killed each time there was a battle.

Dulaney was in California about two years before returning to Virginia. Upon his arrival in Virginia, he immediately left for Texas and while passing through Washington County, he met a young lady by the name of

John T. Dulaney Mill, 1867-1912. (ROBERTSON PLANTATION ARCHIVES.)

Mary Jane Gates. The couple married on June 21, 1855, and settled in Washington County, the county of Mary Jane's birth. When the Civil War broke out in 1861 Dulaney volunteered in Hood's Washington County Volunteers, Company I. After the war, he moved his family to Bell County and settled on the Salado River at Dulaney's Crossing, which later became the Armstrong Community.

Dulaney told his own story in an article printed in the November 11, 1895, Dallas Morning News when he wrote the following.

"The [Civil] War left me where I began, at the bottom, and in the fall of 1865 I came to Bell county and with what cash I could command bought eight acres of land on Salado Creek with a dam site on it, built a house, erected a sawmill and went to work. I would haul logs with an ox team in the day time and saw them up of nights. For this dam site and eight acres of land I paid $500 cash down in Mexican gold dollars. I added as could make payments, a few acres of land at a time until at present I have bought and paid for about 2,500 acres. We have five children alive, all grown, three girls and two boys; the oldest boy 30 years old."

"I live thirty steps from the river bank, perpendicular bluff, thirty-five feet high, solid rock. I have a pontoon foot bridge across the mill pond, it being ten feet deep, to our garden on the creek bottom land opposite from my house; steps cut in solid rock to the approach of the bridge. I have two cotton gins and a gristmill run by water power. Timber being scarce I have discontinued sawing. We have waterworks, a continuous stream at our kitchen door; hog and horse lots."

In this same article, Dulaney also wrote, "I have but two fingers on the hand I write with. Can't write with a pen at all. I am no letter writer. I had rather build a mill than to write a letter."

Dulaney built what eventually became one of the largest and most successful of the mills on the Salado. The Dulaney Mill ran as a gristmill, a sawmill, and a cotton gin. Dulaney cleverly built his mill into a small cliff. The necessary mortar was made from limestone burned for that purpose. The mill race was cut out of solid rock. The dam, built of cedar posts, was so well built, that it withstood the ravages of floods for many years.

In addition to the mill, Dulaney built a farm complex consisting of a general store, blacksmith shop, a church, and a school. His gristmill, cotton mill, and store formed a center that was used by those passing to the new frontier of West Texas. Many weary travelers purchased supplies at Dulaney's store before continuing their journey westward. Dulaney provided housing for his workers by building tenant houses along the banks of the creek. At one-time Dulaney's land holdings included over 3,000 acres with 25 other families living on the land he had bought.

Dulaney was a mechanical genius and an inventor. Among his personal papers was a patent that Dulaney perfected for a cotton press. He used his skills and his blacksmith shop to make mill parts and other machinery that could not be purchased in Galveston or Houston. He also built tools and other devices to make life easier and more productive. One of those devices was a pulley system by which he drew household water from the creek. The remains of the pulley system hung in the trees long after the mill ceased to operate.

Dulaney was a colorful character and completely independent in his actions. Occasionally the spirit of wanderlust overtook him and he would simply walk off and "hit the trail." Fortunately, there was always some family member on hand to keep the business going until Dulaney returned with stories of his adventures in Canada, Singapore or the West Indies. There was always a boom of trade when Dulaney returned from one of his adventures because of the interesting tales he had to tell.

The Dulaney Mill stayed in business until about 1912. A Texas Historical Marker, which is currently mounted to a stonewall fence in front of the home located near the original mill site, marks the role that the Dulaney Mill played in the development of the Armstrong Community.

In 1916, Dulaney planned a trip from Temple to California retracing the route he took to the gold rush in 1849, sixty-seven years earlier. He returned via boat through the Panama Canal and from there traveled to Virginia to visit his sister. Dulaney died in Virginia August 29, 1916, near Lexington-Fairfield, where he was buried. Mary Jane Gates Dulaney died April 13, 1925 and is buried in Dulaney Cemetery on Elmer King Rd. near Salado.

The John Thornton and Mary Gates Dulaney children were as follows: 1) Virginia Texas Dulaney Steele married Walter Newton Steele; 2) Emma Ruth Dulaney Brooks married Thomas Sidney Brooks; 3) John A. Dulaney married Mary Elizabeth Stewart; 4) James A. Dulaney married Maud Beatrice Stewart; and 5) Lydia M. Dulaney who was about one-year old when she moved to Bell County with her family.

up with the ace of spades and established his diamonds by forcing out the ace. This would have assured at least nine tricks -- one spade, three hearts, four diamonds and a club -- regardless of how the opposing cards were divided.

What can cause a declarer to make such a careless mistake? Mostly, it's because players tend to play mechanically in certain situations. In this case, they see the made-to-order spade finesse they've encountered so many times before, and they take the finesse without giving the matter any additional thought.

But since -- at least for the time being -- there's no bonus awarded for playing hands quickly, this is not a sensible approach. Anyone who took just a little extra time to consider the play of the hand as a whole before acting would surely find the winning line of play on this deal, as well as many others.

Harvester Ants

Harvester Ants improve soil quality

Well, the season of planting and landscaping is upon us. All about town residents can be seen working diligently in their yards to improve the landscape. Unbeknownst to most people, there is a small animal that actually improves the quality of the soil in the yard, although this animal is known to pack quite a punch with their venomous sting. This animal is the Harvester Ant (Pogonomyrmex sp.).

Harvester Ants can be found throughout the American Southwest, from California eastward to east Texas. Their natural range happens to coincide with that of the Horned Lizards (also known as "Horny Toads"), and this species of ant is the chief prey item for these lizards. In areas where the Harvester Ants have been exterminated, the Horned Lizards have fared the same fate.

Wild About Texas

Harvester Ants, like all other ant species, are simply nothing more than wingless wasps that live in colonies. This variety of ant is the largest species in west Texas, with workers averaging 3/8 of an inch in total length. The Queen of the colony is slightly larger, averaging nearly 1/2 of an inch. The general coloration of this ant ranges from a dark brick red to almost candy-apple red.

This particular species of ant are insects, and like others of this group, they have three body parts: the head, the thorax, and the abdomen. Each one of these body parts has a specific purpose, with the head being the area where the eyes, antennae, and feeding appendages are, the thorax is where the legs and wings are attached, and the abdomen is where the majority of the internal organs are housed. Also like others in the insect group, the skeletal structure is on the outside of their body. This structure is known as the exoskeleton. They have six legs, and some members of the colony (known as the alates) have two pairs of wings that are utilized for flight.

Like most other species of ants, Harvester Ants live in surprising large colonies. It has been estimated that a particular nest may house over 20,000 individuals! The colony is accessible by only a single nest opening, and all of the plant matter, including the root systems, is cleared away around it. This perimeter is about three feet or so, making the nest easily recognizable. The nest itself can descend for twenty feet below the surface, and there are many times multiple side systems that can extend out for a dozen or more feet. The benefits of a single nest are obvious, the most important being the aeration of the landscape that adds to the welfare of the soil.

Only the females of these colonies are active, at least until the seasonal rains come and the "royal" members of the group ascend to the surface to swarm. Their purpose of doing so is to leave that colony and go begin another.

Harvester Ants are seed gatherers, with many trails from the nest opening to rich food sources can be observed. Although they feed on seeds, this species can and will sting perceived predators with a toxin that can cause as severe a pain as any other insect in this area. The sting from this species is several times as painful as the more common and invasive Fire Ant. Generally, they are content to go about their business casually, but they are very quick to defend their nest from potential threats, with many individuals emerging from the nest at the slightest provocation.

Give this species adequate space and use common sense when near the nest, and allow these native arthropods to improve the welfare of your yard in ways that only nature could design.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) will conduct a public meeting to discuss improvements to FM 2268 (Main Street) in Salado, TX. The improvements would extend from Salado Plaza Drive to College Hill Drive. This project would consist of constructing sidewalks, providing pavement striping for bicycles, installing lighting and replacing the culvert at Campbell Branch Creek. The proposed improvements would also address parking, drainage and driveway access to adjacent properties. No new right of way would be required for this project.

TxDOT will present the project information in a come and go format with a brief overview presentation at the beginning of the meeting. The meeting details are as follows:

Open House 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., Aug. 15, 2017
 Salado Intermediate School Cafeteria
 560 Thomas Arnold Road
 Salado, TX.

The purpose of this meeting is to inform the public of the proposed project and provide an opportunity for interested parties to submit comments on the preliminary design that the department has developed.

This public meeting will be part of TxDOT's consultation process under Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act. TxDOT historians will identify and evaluate all historic properties immediately adjacent to this project to help project planners look for ways to avoid, minimize or mitigate any potential adverse effects to any significant historic resources. The public is encouraged to comment on the proposed sidewalk project regarding its potential to affect significant non-archaeological historic resources.

Exhibits showing aerial photography and schematic plans of the proposed project corridor will be present at the meeting. Representatives from TxDOT and its consultant study team will be available to answer individual questions. Public comments are encouraged.

All interested citizens are invited to attend the meeting and discuss the project. The meeting will be conducted in English. Those interested in attending who have special communication or accommodation needs are encouraged to contact Michael Rhodes, Environmental Coordinator at (254) 867-2739 at least five working days prior to the date of the meeting. TxDOT will make every reasonable effort to accommodate these needs.

Information about the proposed project is on file and available for inspection Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 100 South Loop Drive, Waco, TX. TxDOT offices are open Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., excluding state holidays.

Written comments relevant to the proposed project may be mailed to: Michael Rhodes, Environmental Coordinator at 100 South Loop Drive, Waco, TX 76704-2858. Please submit written comments electronically or by mail by August 30, 2017.

The environmental review, consultation, and other actions required by applicable Federal environmental laws for this project are being, or have been, carried-out by TxDOT pursuant to 23 U.S.C. 327 and a Memorandum of Understanding dated December 16, 2014, and executed by Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and TxDOT.
