

Harvey evacuees land here, village gives to others

About 30 evacuees from Hurricane Harvey are expected to find lodging at the Holiday Inn-Express here in Salado this week.

Meanwhile a family of 10 were here earlier this week, but returned home to Port Lavaca on Aug. 30, according to Amber Preston-Dankert. Before they left, she asked for donations of milk, bread, coolers, gloves, trash bags, bleach and paper goods for the travelers.

First Baptist Church of Salado is housing half a dozen evacuees from the storm. The church family there is stepping up to meet their needs for clothes, personal items and the like.

At the same time, the community is helping those who stayed during the storm. Salado Masonic Lodge this week collected items to be delivered to the Ingleside, Aransas Pass and Port Aransas area early on Aug. 31.

Doug McNeese, a retired Army Colonel and past master of Salado Masonic Lodge, told his Lodge brothers that he was taking a trailer and truck to the coastal area and wanted to fill it with bottled water, diapers, hygiene products and disposable wipes. "I don't want to go down with an empty trailer," he said. He pulls out of Bell County early on Aug. 31, hopefully with a trailer full for those in need.

Salado Village Voice served as a collection location early this week as members of the Lodge were joined by members of the community in donating the much-needed items to those who stayed through the storm.

3C Cowboy Fellowship also collected items on Aug. 29 to take to those affected by the storm.

While Hurricane Harvey caused a great deal of havoc in several counties of the state, he left Salado and Bell County pretty much alone, so far. Rains are still expected this week, but should not cause flooding in the area.

More than 50 counties in Texas were declared disaster areas in the wake of Harvey. Weakening from a Category 4 hurricane to a Tropical Storm, Harvey moved to neighboring Louisiana where he is causing flooding.

But nothing like the 40+ inches of rain that flooded Houston this week and left thousands without homes.

The 30 evacuees coming to Salado midweek are from the Houston area. It may be weeks or even months before they can return to their homes, if they even have homes left.

Bell County Expo Center is serving as an evacuee center as well. Donations for those evacuees should be delivered to Vista Community Church, 7051 Stonehollow in Temple. Vista will sort and deliver items to the emergency shelters that are set up across our community.

Helpful donations at this time include baby diapers, baby wipes, socks (adult and children), shoes (adult and children), new underwear (adult and children), clothing, feminine hygiene products, kids toothpaste, hand sanitizer, Chapstick, Kleenex, paper towels, toilet paper, coloring books/crayons for kids, books for kids, NEW stuffed animals with tags, body lotion, drawstring bags or totes for people to keep items together.

First Day of School

Lawson Cain (pre-K), Carmichael Cain (pre-K) and Benning Rose Cain (first grade) were ready for the rain with galoshes and potted plants for their teacher as they came to Thomas Arnold Elementary for the first day of classes on Aug. 28. They are shown above with their mom Jessica Cain. While there was a drizzle, it wasn't enough to dampen the spirits of the parents who walked their kids into class for the first day of school. Many were first timers and a bit timid, while others were old pros with Kindergarten and First Grade under their belts. Some of the youngest siblings were upset as their families dropped off older kids. One dad told out photographer as his toddler son wept, "He really, really wants to go to big boy school. Next year!" Traffic at the Thomas Arnold Rd. intersection backed up to Main Street as hundreds of parents dropped their children off at the three campuses located there: Thomas Arnold Elementary, Salado Intermediate School and Salado Junior High. Those three campuses have about 1,300 students enrolled. Thomas Arnold is a two-lane road with no turning lanes at the schools. ## Airpark with residences could be developed in Salado

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado could have an Airpark complete with privately-owned hangers and living quarters, if a proposal comes to fruition.

The Village is currently studying the feasibility of a proposal which would ultimately bring the acreage of the Airpark into the Village limits and ownership of the runways, taxi ways and flight operations building to the Village.

The airport will continue as a day-time only airport, unless the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) and Texas Department of Transportation (TXDOT) determine that there is demand for it to serve as a lighted airport.

The flight patterns for the Salado airport will remain the same, running north to south. Coachman said that the current flight pattern for the Skydive Temple is to veer west as soon as possible to mitigate noise over Salado proper.

The discussion of any kind of public-private partnership for the development of the Airpark, which could include more than 120 privately-owned hangers sold by the private developer, are in its infancy, Coachman said.

Aldermen discussed it briefly during an Aug. 17 workshop session.

The Village is currently bringing data together to study the feasibility of the project before further negotiations.

The Village is looking at operations of other small municipal airports in towns such as Lago Vista and Cedar Park to consider whether the Village would someday take over the ownership of the airport operations itself.

The Village is also in contact with TXDOT and FAA about funding sources for future improvements and expanded use of the airport property.

Data on the cost of operating a small municipal airport, the facility costs associated with an airport and the impact of improved property and the taxes they will generate has not been formulated in any way as of this time.

Coachman said that the feasibility study to be compiled by the Village should take 90 days to complete.

Guest house fire

Salado Volunteer Fire Department responded to a structure fire at a guest house of a home owned by Rachel and Stephan Poe at 737 McKay Lane which was engulfed in flames Aug. 22. Salado VFD responded to the call just after 7 p.m. Aug. 22. Seventeen personnel and eight trucks responded from Salado VFD. No one was at home at the time of the blaze, according to fire fighters on the scene. (PHOTO BY MARILYN FLEISCHER)

Fish Fry benefits SVFD

You can support the Salado Volunteer Fire Department during its annual Fish Fry 5-7 p.m. Sept. 9 at the Salado Intermediate School. Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for children.

The Fish Fry is one of three annual fund raises the SVFD has each year. The Department also has a successful Smokin' Spokes in the spring and a Smokin Sneakers in the fall.

SVFD has one of the larger service areas in the County at more than 100 square miles. It also has more than 10 miles of Interstate in its service area.

The Salado Volunteer Fire Department was established in the mid 1960's and was one of the first volunteer fire departments organized in Bell County.

The department began operations with one 1950 pumper truck located by Salado Creek in a two-door garage type building. At that time, the 911 Emergency System did not exist. Salado fire and emergency calls were telephoned to the local hotel, Stagecoach Inn. Firemen were telephoned at their homes or work to respond to calls for help. Some years later a siren was installed close to the fire station. When a call for help was made to the fire station, the entering call would activate the siren. When the volunteers heard the siren, they would respond to the emergency. Today Bell County has established a state of the art communication center that dispatches all fire, police, sheriff, and ambulance services.

In the mid-1980s, Station 1 was built along the north-bound access road.

In 2015, Station 2 was built on FM 2484 giving the SVFD quick access to north-bound and southbound I-35.

The SVFD is headed by Fire Chief Shane Berrier.

Jeff Booker, Nathan Houston, AJ Lopez, Rich Neagle and Sid Spindor are Lieutenants. Firefighters are Shawn Biolding, Brad Broussard, Juan Castillo, Mark Churchwell, Robert Cloud, Anthony Combs, William Dankert, Dacen Depoy, Kris Dyess, Chris Fowler, Dylan George, Christoffe Gieck, Jeremy Hamilton, Bert Henry, Brandon Hollas, James Lavertu, Reed O'Rear, Elizabeth Poole, Sid Post, James Puckett, Jerad Rogers, Nicole Stairs, Mark Tubbs, Ty Tubbs, Tim Watkin and Bobby Whiston. Lifetime members are Al Califano, Mark Depoy, Alan Goodnight, Steven Puckett, Ted Morris, Steven Puckett, Ty Tumey, and Kenny Wigley. Reserve are Sean McEandree and Alan Dillon. Auxiliary members are Jenna Berrier, Tammy Goodnight, Crystal Henry and Patti Wigley

Yes, Work for Trump

Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin took the highly unusual step recently of publicly explaining why he won't resign.

He responded to Yale classmates who had written an impassioned open letter urging him to quit in protest over what they called (ridiculously overstating their case) President Donald Trump's "support of Nazism and white supremacy." There was no reason for Mnuchin -- a busy man and one of the most important economic officials on the planet -- to bother replying unless he feels a little defensive.

After Charlottesville, the question of the propriety of serving in the Trump administration gained new salience. Rumors swirled that economic adviser Gary Cohn was on the verge of quitting in disgust, and liberal journalists called for all good men and women to jump ship. This is wrong-headed. It's much better for the country that as many responsible, talented people serve the Trump administration as possible.

Even if it isn't easy. Working for Trump means being willing to put up with the possibility of humiliation of the sort that loyalist Attorney General Jeff Sessions suffered at the president's hands. It means dancing around his outrageous statements and pretending to work for a more normal president. And it means courting social disapproval.

Rich Lowry

This can't be what a high-flying financier and movie producer like Steve Mnuchin signed up for. But any Trump official who doesn't think he is being forced to violate his personal conscience should stick it out.

The presidency is an important institution, and whatever fantasies his enemies may have of a rapid ending to his tenure, Trump is president. He needs good advice and competent help. There are obviously limits to how much he can be controlled, but he is susceptible to advice. It's no accident that Trump hasn't withdrawn from NAFTA, pursued a trade war with China or kneecapped NATO.

Surely, many of those around Trump enjoy the thrill of notoriety and proximity to power, as is true in any White House, but a sense of duty weighs as well. "There are people inside the administration," Anthony Scaramucci said during his turn as White House communications director, "that think it is their job to save America from this president." This puts it starkly and derisively, but no doubt accurately -- especially when it comes to the generals.

The portfolios of Secretary of Defense James Mattis and national security adviser H.R. McMaster include the most consequential matters of state, and John Kelly is now running the White House as chief of staff. The administration's credibility depends in large part on the service of these men. It's comparable to the moral power that David Petraeus assumed in 2007 when George W. Bush subcontracted making the public case for the Iraq War to him. If any of the generals, particularly John Kelly, were to quit and lambaste Trump on the way out the door, it might have a debilitating effect on his presidency. That sounds alluring to Trump's critics. But crippled presidencies aren't good for the country, and Trump was duly elected. So the generals are right to stay and serve their country in this capacity. Someone has to do it.

Bull market is one of longest running since records kept

Here is a glimpse of the markets and economy as of August 28, 2017.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

The Markets

This bull market in equities (stocks) is now one of the longest running since records have been kept on such things. Some appear to be in fear that simply because it has run so long, it must be headed for a fall. At least historically, markets don't collapse just because they are a certain age. Rather, some element of the market or the economy has consistently been dramatically overpriced before the stock market takes a plunge. We see the broad market as fairly priced and having risen to where it is because of good earnings.

The U.S. Economy

With nearly all the companies in the S&P 500 now having reported second quarter earnings, it appears that those companies' profits are up about 12 percent from last year. Significantly, much, if not most, of that very pleasant gain in earnings, has come from the overseas subsidiaries of U.S. corporations. That rise reflects the ongoing recovery in the European Union and developing market countries around the world.

A very significant corner has finally been turned in the recovery from the "great recession." It appears that for the first time since 2007, all 45 countries tracked by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OCED) have turned in a positive growth rate for the last twelve months. More, 33 of them appear to be accelerating and are likely to produce an even better rate a year from now.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) is now estimating that global economic output will grow this year at 3.5% and notch up to 3.6% for 2018. It appears that we may finally be moving from recovery to expansion on a global scale. At the same time, outside the U.S. most major economies have a long way to go before they come close to fulfilling their potential for growth. Unemployment in the EU, for example, still is running in the double digits. The good news is that American corporations own a big piece of that new growth and U.S. investors are well positioned to continue to see good portfolio gains even if the U.S. economy is reaching capacity.

If you enjoy worrying about things, there are some things that could legitimately concern you, but maybe not.

Housing sales, both existing and new, fell 1.2% last month after falling in June. The problem appears to be that there are just not enough houses available for sale. Again, the reason appears to be that we need more workers than we have available. U.S. durable orders to manufacturers in the U.S. fell 6.8% from last month, but if you look beyond the bottom line, the purchasing managers' index was up, and once we exclude aircraft from the numbers, orders were up half a percent from last month.

There does continue to be a concern that either Congress or the President will trigger a government shutdown and a failure to pay all the bills due at the end of this month. Fitch has warned that if a shutdown is triggered, it will lower the U.S. credit rating, not a good thing.

Oil

The calmness in the oil markets as a hurricane clawed its way through the Gulf of Mexico is remarkable unless one understands the economic forces at work. A decade ago, a hurricane in the Gulf would have caused an oil price surge that could have disrupted the economy. Back then, U.S. oil production was concentrated in the Gulf and imports, which made up a much bigger portion of the market, had to mainly come into the Gulf of Mexico to reach us.

Today most U.S. oil comes from far inland as fracking has changed the economic landscape. Yes, refineries will need to shut down, and that may cause a temporary spike in petroleum product prices, and there may need to be some damage repair after the storm passes, but the days of a major wipe-out of U.S. oil production as offshore rigs were wrecked is behind us.

The fact that American ingenuity and investors' money has made us far more secure than we were in the past may not make the evening news, but, at least in our opinion, it should!

Lessons learned from Katrina

Harvey was a lesson in preparing, watching, and waiting. You did very well. The City Manager, Police and Fire Departments, and emergency services ensured our safety and welfare. First Baptist Church opened their doors to 10 evacuees who had nothing but the clothes they were wearing and little money. The Village is commended for your efforts and actions.

Our businesses suffered from the weather. If at all possible, please help them by shopping in Salado. For some businesses, a bad weekend is difficult to overcome.

In talking with the Chamber Chair, Dave Swarthout, the annual Chamber Membership Meeting was very positive with much excitement. That is a good sign that Salado is going in the right direction.

Now that school started and people are settling

Mayor Skip Blancett

in for the fall, two "think tank" groups will be invited to meet. The purpose: offer suggestions, exchange ideas, and consider ways to go forward. The first group will be citizens of all ages, new residents, and tenured residents, and vocal and quiet. The second group consists of influential and committed organizations -- leaders of churches, service organizations, cultural institutions, and schools. It is time we come together for Salado's future. Later, will be a Town Hall to hear each group's suggestions and recommendations. If you desire to be a part of one of the groups, email blancettskip@yahoo.com.

A personal note not intended for sympathy, cards, or anything. During the storm, my sister fell, hit her head, and died.

Traveling I-35 Monday, there were three white electricity repair trucks going south. Later, there were 2 orange electricity repair trucks Houston bound. By Amity, there was a convoy, 10 trucks -- Fire Department, Urban Search and Rescue, and Water Search and Rescue pulling boats -- all from Tulsa, Oklahoma. The traffic yielded for their passing. Tuesday, Fred Brown borrowed a boat and traveled to Houston. Last Saturday, Amber Dankert worked, Bell County Coliseum. Churches and organizations are helping. Forget national politics, we are Americans and Texans first.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend Susan Jackson for her untiring efforts to help the students at Salado High School

She is very pleasant, helpful, and was always able to answer any questions I had during the years in which my four children were students at Salado High School.

Thank you Susan for all you do for the kids and parents here.

Dear Editor:

A banner year enters the record books for Salado Legends! Inasmuch as this year was our 25th anniversary, we treated the season with a little more pizzazz than usual. The funds saved for sound improvements were well worth the six thousand dollars spent on the new body mics this year. The season was like a gigantic family reunion. Previous actors and crew members were invited back to attend one or more of our three performances and to be honored for their contributions to Salado Legends. More than 100 people who had previously participated in the drama returned to see the many changes that have occurred over the past twenty-five years. Mayor Skip Blancett welcomed over 839 show attendees (I say OVER to include the kids that sneak into the show each year). Mayor Blancett expertly led previous cast and crew in relating tales about their experiences in Legends and read the gracious letter from Texas Governor Greg Abbott congratulating Salado Legends on our 25th season. Additionally, Nancy Mackey and Susan Humiston presented the theater with an artfully constructed wagon wheel (Tablerock's Logo) that was placed on the concession building to commemorate the show's 25th anniversary.

As we have learned over time, folks come to the show from all over the state. The major cities are well-represented with Central Texas providing the lion's share of the attendance. This year a resident of Georgetown won the drawing of a gift certificate graciously provided by the Inn at Salado on Main Street. We always ask our attendees to complete a survey, and this year's response rate was approximately 25 percent or 210 folks. From their responses we learned that 12 rooms were rented in Salado during the three performances. Had 100% of the attendees responded, we estimate that 48 rooms may have been rented during the season. An extrapolation of the total economic impact from this year's attendance, using the Institute of Outdoor Theater's algorithm, computes to $249,852.

At intermission of the final show, scholarships were awarded to the 16 actor/crew members in the total amount of $13,200. Some donors presented their awards personally; other awards were presented by Andy Anderson, Donnie Williams and Tablerock Board members. The students were happy for the college assistance, and the presenters were pleased to help. And to think that the scholarship program started in 1993 with a $250 grant. The scholarship program has certainly grown, and over the years has amounted to a total of $171,379 dollars in scholarships presented. This year we joined Andy Anderson's and Ace Hardware's plea for fans to give to the elderly. Twelve fans donated at Aug. 5 performance were exchanged for 24 tickets to Legends. The fans were delivered to Salado's Ace Hardware for distribution.

We are grateful for the help of the many Tablerock volunteers who took tickets, cleaned the grounds after each performance, replaced arm rests on the 422 stadium seats, toiled at the concession stand, loaned golf carts to carry the elderly, and graciously greeted our many visitors. The continued participation and support of Salado's finest is truly a blessing, and with your help we look forward to growing Tablerock's 501c3 non-profit outdoor theater to even greater heights. Please join us in making this Village event better than ever in 2018!

ABWA speaker introduces Montessori program to Salado

Alissa McClure will discuss the plans for Salado's Montessori School at the Sept. 7, meeting of the Chisholm Trail Chapter of American Business Women's Association. Social time starts at 5:45 p.m. with the business meeting starting at 6:15 p.m. at LoneStar eBikes on Main Street. Visitors are welcome.

Alissa McClure
 Salado Montessori School

Alissa and her husband, Jake, a financial planner, planned to send their daughter, Iona, to a Montessori in Austin. Upon moving to the village after Iona's first birthday, they found that the closest Montessori would require a long commute. Rather than leave Salado each day, they decided to build a school. McClure will discuss the plans for starting Salado's first Montessori school. McClure is currently enrolled in a Montessori Administrator's course and will be earning her Montessori teacher credential over the next two years. She will intern under Salado Montessori's teacher as an assistant. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in International Relations from Agnes Scott College. She has a wide variety of professional experience, including coordinating an Olympics Training Center in Atlanta, serving the greater Austin community in the role of Community Involvement Coordinator for Capital Metropolitan Transportation Authority, and playing cello for a nationally-touring indie-pop band. These skills combined have given her an intimate understanding of community development, management of educational programs, and fostering creativity.

The McClures' initial goal of creating an excellent school for their daughter has grown into a commitment to improve the community. The McClures look forward to making a positive impact in the community they call home.

22nd Annual Fall Festival held at Saint Stephen

Admission and parking is free and everyone is welcome to attend Sunday, 10:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. Oct.15.

David Matthews celebrates big 6-0

Things were a little somber at First State Bank in Salado last week. David Matthews, President of the First State Bank Central Texas, Salado bank, turned 60 on Aug. 24 and was greeted by a staff dressed in all black. Black balloons decorated the bank and the crew took a quick break for lunch with their elder leader. (Photo by Tim Fleischer)

Lewy Body Dementia Education Forum held in Cedar Park, Sept. 8

DEMENTIA CAREGIVER ADVOCATE AND SUPPORT GROUP LEADER PARTNERS WITH AREA NEUROLOGIST FOR FREE CLASS

Alzheimer's Texas will host a free educational event

11:30 a.m.- 1:30 p.m. Sept. 8 at Silverado Memory Care in Cedar Park to spread awareness of a disease that touches the lives of many. Lewy Body Dementia, a progressive neurodegenerative illness, is actually the second most common form of dementia, but despite its prevalence, LBD is often overlooked and misdiagnosed.

In order to promote greater awareness of Lewy Body Dementia's unique symptoms and progression, Alzheimer's Texas will host an LBD Education Forum at Silverado Memory Care in Cedar Park. The program will be led by Tom Clark, a former caregiver who lost his wife to LBD in 2011. Clark now leads support groups with those caring for a loved one with LBD and is a passionate educator and advocate. Clark will be accompanied by Dr. John Bertelson, Chief of Neurology at Seton Brain & Spine Institute, who will be on hand to answer specific questions from attendees.

"People with Lewy Body Dementia can experience many bizarre, fluctuating symptoms, which can be frightening for the caregiver and family," says Clark. An even more frightening reality for many LBD caregivers is that their loved ones are often misdiagnosed as having Alzheimer's disease or Parkinson's, and are thus treated incorrectly and without results. Some medications used to treat Alzheimer's disease may even make LBD symptoms worse.

This educational event will present valuable information for anyone caring for a loved one diagnosed with dementia, or those concerned about the cognitive health of a family member. Attendees will not only receive a comprehensive overview of Lewy Body Dementia, but they will learn about resources available for dementia caregivers in their community.

The Lewy Body Dementia Education Forum will be held Sept. 8 from 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. at the Silverado Memory Care (800 C-bar Ranch Trail, Cedar Park, TX). This event is free and open to the public, and lunch will be provided. To learn more about the classes, visit www.txalz.org, and contact vcardenas@txalz.org or 512-241-0420 to register.

Finderburk gospel comes to Cedar Valley Baptist

Danny Funderburk will perform a gospel music concert 7 p.m. Sept. 8 at Cedar Valley Baptist Church, 12237 FM 2843, eight miles southwest of Salado.

Light meal and fellowship follows the concert.

Funderburk has been singing for more than 40 years.

According to an article in the Singing News, Funderburk was raised in the rural town of Hemby Bridge, North Carolina. He was born April 13, 1954, the second of four children born to William (Bill) and Betty Jo Funderburk. There was always music around the Funderburk household, as Bill and Betty Jo and all four of their children were talented singers.

As a teenager in 1972, Danny had a desire to be involved in his father's ministry. Danny's father, Bill, sang with a quartet called The Revelaires. The quartet sang locally on the weekends for various events. Nobody knew that young Danny could sing, so his father allowed him play drums with the quartet.

Danny sat behind the drum kit and sang the tenor part to himself. In 1974, The Revelaires' tenor, Bob Sims, decided to leave the group. Bob suggested to Bill that he give his young son, Danny, a chance singing tenor.

Although The Revelaires stayed rather busy, they couldn't afford to pay Danny a salary. On weekdays, when the quartet wasn't singing, Danny drove a candy truck and worked for a telephone company to provide for his family, according to the article in Singing News.

In the spring of 1980, Danny drove to Maiden for an audition for The Singing Americans. He climbed on the old GM 4104 tour bus belonging to The Singing Americans, and thus, began his professional career.

During his tenure with The Singing Americans, Danny recorded the first of his many signature songs, "Whiter Than Snow." While with the Cathedrals, Danny rose to prominence with the songs I've Just Started Living and Somebody Touched Me.

Danny left the Cathedrals in 1989 to join Perfect Heart. He was later with Silent Power and the Royals before forming the group Mercy's Way. He left Mercy's Way in 2006 to embark on a solo career and continues to write Southern Gospel songs.

In 1995, Danny rejoined the Cathedrals for their Reunion project, once again thrilling the audience with his renditions of the songs listed above. In 2007, he joined other former Cathedrals members now with Legacy Five, Greater Vision, and the Mark Trammell Trio for a Cathedral Reunion Quartet tour. "I know God has touched my body. He's not finished with me yet," said Danny in the interview with Singing News. Funderburk still travels extensively as a soloist.

Funderburk is father of three children, Dana, Jason, and Derek. Danny credits their mother, Joy, with their godly upbringing. "I was gone so much. People just don't realize what a sacrifice our families make when we are on the road full-time."

Baylor University Theatre begins its 2017-2018 season

Baylor University Theatre begins its 2017-2018 season with a special guest production of The Fertile River, running Sept. 16 - 17 in the Mabee Theatre at Baylor University.

THE FERTILE RIVER, a play set in 1958, brilliantly and emotionally humanizes the journey of a family that finds themselves at the mercy of The Eugenics Board of North Carolina which seeks to erase the lineage and legacy of their family as a matter of public policy.

The Baylor Theatre Department is excited to host this production of THE FERTILE RIVER because it opens a discussion with which most of our students and patrons are unfamiliar. In the telling of just one story, THE FERTILE RIVER looks unflinchingly at the sins of a racist and classist America where people are valued or devalued by the color of their skin, the place of their birth, or the score of their IQ. It tells a hurtful story of our collective past which must be retold in order to prevent repeating it—People should not be accepted or rejected based upon their "usefulness" or perceived value in society. "Otherness" should not connote worthlessness.

The Fertile River will run Sept. 16 at 7:30 p.m. and Sept. 17 at 2 p.m.. The play will be presented in the Mabee Theatre of the Hooper-Schaefer Fine Arts Center.

Tickets for The Fertile River go on sale starting at 9am on Sept. 7 at $5 per person.

Eagles open up against Troy

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Look for Salado Eagles to eliminate many of the problems that haunted Alan Haire's debut last year at the helm of his alma mater when Salado and Troy kick off the football season Sept. 1 at University of Mary Hardin Baylor Crusader Stadium.

Salado put the ball on the ground eight times against the Trojans last year as the offense struggled to get the ball from the center to the quarterback. Salado lost to Troy 15-3 in a contest that was marked by turnovers and penalties by a young offense.

Those drive-killing mistakes have been addressed in recent scrimmages as Salado began two-a-days early this month with a year of experience under their belt with the slot T offense.

The slot T -- when it hits -- can be a devastating offense that takes advantage of timing and misdirection to keep defenses on their heels. But when it goes badly because of missed snaps, bobbled handoffs and jumpy linemen, it can get off the rails.

Salado has three starters returning to their backfield positions, including the All-District fullback Trey Sheppard, who carried the ball for 1,210 yards on 214 carries and 11 touchdowns. Aaron Torczynski had 1,066 yards on 151 carries and seven touchdowns.

The quarterback and center duo of Hayden Haire and Willy Whigham (named first team All-District at center) will also bring experience to the slot T offense.

Overcoming the woes of its first game last year, Salado went on to a 7-5 winning season and a first round win in the playoffs, something that had not happened since Jeff Cheatham coached here.

Salado allowed just four first downs in their scrimmage with Jarrell last week. (PHOTO BY RON LEQUIN)

Look for the defense to improve this year as well, as nine of the 11 starters return to the field. Look for Cutter Hudgens, a 6'1", 170 lb. defensive back who had 42 tackles, two interceptions, a caused fumble and nine pass defenses. Hudgens, who has 4.6 speed, was named to the second team All-District defensive squad.

Mermaid Ambassador Brunch raises funds for Sirena Fest and Mermaid Parade

Salado's first Mermaid Ambassador Brunch will be held 11 a.m. on Sept. 7 at the newly renovated Stagecoach Inn. Tickets are still available. The elegant brunch is the largest fundraiser among efforts of the Sirena Fest and Mermaid Parade committee to raise funds for a local non-profit.

This year's recipient is Keep Salado Beautiful (KSB), whose current endeavors include shifting the beach area of Pace Park to a more accessible area for residents and visitors as well as a butterfly and pollinator garden.

The brunch will be held at and catered by the Stagecoach Inn. Guests will be treated to entertainment from some of Salado's littlest mermaids-in-training as well as have an opportunity to win raffle prizes, including a 19" hand blown glass platter from Salado Glassworks, an original painting by Maria Rios and a Kendra Scott jewelry set valued at $500.

Most importantly though, as Mermaid Ambassadors, you will be contributing to sharing the Legend of Sirena and helping to ignite the imaginations of generations to come. Many Central Texans have grown up with the Legend of Sirena but growth in and around Salado has led to many coming to know this legend for the first time.

The Sirena Festival and Mermaid Parade, to be held Oct. 7, will spread the legend near and far. Educational aspects will include Texas Fish and Wildlife information and biology professors from UMHB conducting hands-on learning activities.

Tickets to the brunch are $100 with only 100 seats available. Tickets can be purchased through eventbrite.com by searching for "mermaid ambassador". Proceeds from the Mermaid Ambassador Brunch will help fund the festival happening on Oct. 7, go towards Keep Salado Beautiful's projects around Salado Creek and Pace Park, and endow the next year's festival.

Wade Bowen headlines Johnny's Outback

Waco native Wade Bowen returns to Johnny's Outback for a Sept. 9 concert. Tickets are now on sale online at johnnyssteaksandbbq.com. Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 at the gate.

Bowen started his career in Texas music in the band West 84. In 2002, he released a debut album Try Not to Listen and began playing up to 250 gigs per year. The relentless schedule resulted in the title song making it into the Top Ten on the Texas Music charts.

Wade Bowen, American Texas Country / Red Dirt singer from Waco, will return to Johnny's Outback on Sept. 9

According to the biography by James Christopher Monger, Bowen followed the success with Live at the Blue Light. Lost Hotel was also released in 2006 on the Sustain label. He teamed up with Pat Green, Ray Wylie Hubbard, Randy Rogers and Cody Canada of Cross Canadian Ragweed. His album If We Ever Make It Home was released in 2008 and made it to 29 on Billboard County album charts.

Live at Billy Bob's Texas followed in 2010.

Bowen signed with BNA Records for The Given, which reached #9 on the Country album charters. The single from that album "Saturday Night" reached #39 on the singles chart.

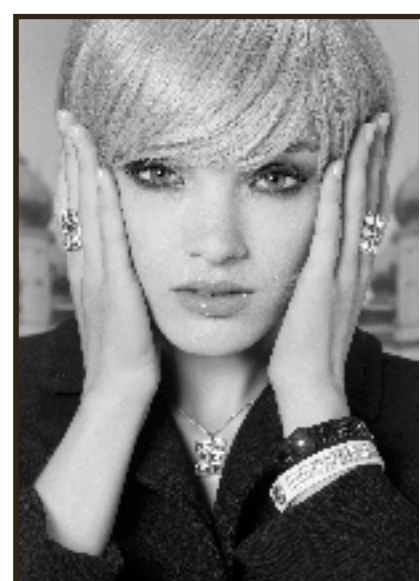

He and Randy Rogers collaborated for Hold My Beer, Vol. 1, giving him his greatest success at #4 on the country album charts.

That was followed up with the release of the gospel-driven Then Sings My Soul: Songs for My Mother in 2016.

Later that year, he and Randy Rogers released their live album "Watch This" with standards from their careers in the Texas music scene.

The bidding tells the tale

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Assume you're East, defending against four hearts reached in the manner shown. Partner leads a diamond, which you win with the ace, and you return a diamond to partner's king. Partner continues with the jack, and declarer ruffs. South leads a low heart to dummy's jack, and it is at this point that the outcome hangs in the balance. If you take the ace, declarer makes the contract; if you duck, he goes down one. Let's say you win the jack with the ace, as most players would do. If you return a diamond, declarer ruffs in dummy and scores the rest of the tricks; if you return anything else,

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

West 2♣ Pass 3♣ Pass
North 1♠ Pass 3♥ Pass
East 4♥

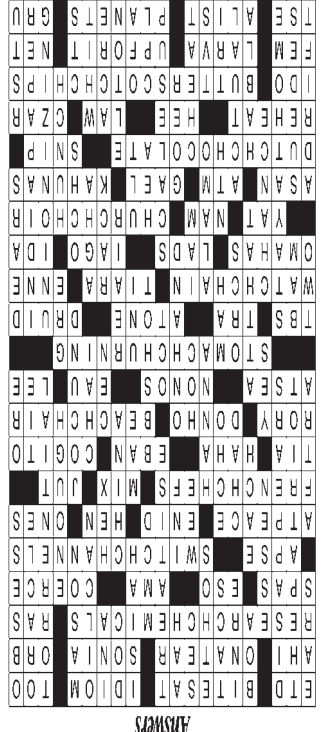

Opening lead — four of diamonds.

declarer likewise takes the rest. Now let's assume you duck the jack of hearts, as you should. What can South then do to make the contract? If he leads another trump, you win with the ace and return your last diamond. If declarer ruffs, he will only have one trump left to West's two and must go down one. If South discards on the fourth diamond, he goes down that much sooner. How can you tell that ducking the jack of hearts is the right play? Well, you can't be certain it will beat the contract, but all the evidence points in that direction. The main clue lies in the bidding. South is unlikely to have six hearts, because he would be more inclined to rebid a six-card major suit at his second turn than name a minor suit. Once you credit South with only five hearts -- which means West has four -- you are sure to beat the contract by refusing to win the first heart. (c) 2017 King Features Syndicate Inc.

8	8	1	3	4	6	8	5	2	1	3	4	6

Blanchard's Cricket Frog

This little frog makes big jumps

Animals utilize many different forms of adaptation to aid in their survival. Some species rely on camouflage for protection, some rely on speed, while others rely on behavior. However, there is a minuscule species that thrives along the shores of most permanent bodies of water that relies primarily on its size, or lack thereof, to aid in its protection. That species is the Cricket Frog.

Blanchard's Cricket Frog (Acris crepitans blanchardi) belongs to a frog family that has three representatives here in Texas, although it is the only one of its genera. This particular variety occurs throughout the eastern three quarters of this state, roughly east of the Pecos River. It inhabits almost any body of permanent water, regardless whether the source is natural or man-made. It prefers to live in the shallow, stagnant pools that often collect near the main body of water. In this habitat, it thrives amongst the lily pads and other plant mats, using these as hiding places. Outside of Texas it can be observed from western Oklahoma northward to the north central states of Nebraska and Iowa.

This small species can be quite variable in appearance. The ground color along the back can vary from different shades of brown and tan to olive-green. The markings along the dorsal area can be just as variably colored, ranging from yellow, brown or green. These markings can be quite dark to almost invisible, and often appear as longitudinal lines. There is a diagnostic dark triangle that appears between the eyes on the top of the head. The back legs are long, and the feet are completely webbed save for the longest of the toes. The skin is warty, but contradictory to the old wives tale, one cannot get warts from touching this amphibian.

As stated already, this species is rather minute. Adult females are slightly the larger sex, with mature individuals approaching one and one half inches in body length. Males are smaller, seldom exceeding one inch. This variety of true frog is one of the smallest, if not THE smallest, species of amphibian that occurs in this state.

Like other amphibians, Cricket Frogs live a dual life. Unlike many frog species that breed in the spring even when temperatures can dip near freezing, this variety prefers to breed in mid summer while the temperatures are almost unbearably hot. Mature adult males will congregate along the banks of the shallow pools that they call home and will call for the attention of females. Their calling voice can be likened to the clicking of the balls of a pendulum, starting slow and climaxing at about three or four per second. Once a receptive female approaches, the male will clasp the female around the waist and externally fertilize up to two hundred eggs. This activity is known as amplexus. Once the eggs hatch, the fish-like tadpoles are primarily herbivorous, and over the period of just a few weeks, the tadpoles metamorph into small froglets, developing air-breathing lungs rather than gills, absorbing the tail, and developing legs.

Cricket frogs are alert and shy, and can be extremely difficult to approach too closely. Many will rely on camouflage for protection, sitting perfectly still along the bank until a perceived predator gets too near. At this point, this tiny frog will scurry away with a series of erratic long jumps.
