Sprinkler requirement puts motel renovations at Stagecoach on hold

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

With the recent news that the Village of Salado will require installation of an automatic sprinkler system for the renovation of 48 motel rooms and a mixed use lobby and retail space at the Stagecoach Inn, future plans for the project are now on hold, according to the developer.

Aldermen will consider at their 6:30 p.m. Nov. 2 meeting the recommendation of Village staff to require the automatic sprinkler system for the property.

"While the proposed renovations to the Stagecoach Inn do not trigger the requirement for the installation of an automatic sprinkler system, the Village, under the 2009 Fire Code, does have the authority to mandate the installation of an automatic sprinkler system, underground water mains and fire hydrants if their absence represents a hazard to public safety and welfare," Village administrator Don Ferguson stated in a brief to aldermen for the meeting.

Fire Protection Consulting Group conducted a review for automatic fire sprinklers and site fire protection on behalf of the Stagecoach Inn.

In that review, Temple R. Kennedy stated that "There are not any retroactive code provisions mandating the installation of an automatic sprinkler system within an existing Group R-1 occupancy (Transit Residential - hotel/motel) building or mixed Group M (retail in same building as motel lobby) and Group B occupancy building."

Kennedy stated in the review that "There are no retroactive code provisions mandating the installation of new underground water mains and fire hydrants to serve these existing buildings."

"While our research indicates that sprinkler systems, underground water mains, and fire hydrants are not mandated by the reviewed/referenced codes," Kennedy stated, "the fire code official is granted authority to mandate these systems/components at any time if he determines that their absence represents a distinct hazard to life or public welfare."

"While I understand the costs associated with the installation of the required sprinkler system are significant, it is the position of the Village that the failure to install an automatic sprinkler system will pose a significant hazard to public safety," Ferguson stated in an Oct. 26 e-mail to Clark Lyda, principal developer of Stagecoach Inn.

"The Salado Fire Chief and the Belton Fire Marshal's office concur with this decision," Ferguson stated.

Party with the Scots in Salado Nov. 10-12

The 56th Scottish Gathering and Highland Games will be held on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center, Nov. 10-12.

Heralding all things Scottish, this landmark event is the oldest Scottish festival in Texas and has been sponsored continuously by the Salado Museum and College Park (formerly Central Texas Area Museum) since 1961.

The three-day event includes the skirl of bagpipes, wearing of the tartan, tossing the caber, Highland dancing, Celtic entertainers, shopping, food and fun. One of the event's main features is the Clan Village, the largest gathering of Scottish Clan tents in Texas where members from 40 Scottish clans and societies will share information about Scottish history and genealogy.

The weekend begins on Friday evening Nov. 10 with the Calling of the Clans at 6 p.m. on the banks of Salado Creek off Royal Street just north of the museum building. This is a solemn torch-light ceremony that recreates the coming together of the ancient Scottish clans to fight with Robert the Bruce for Scotland's freedom in 1314 at Bannockburn. The ceremony is followed by a Welcome Social at the Museum.

The Civic Center grounds are open Saturday Nov. 11 at 9 a.m.-5 p.m. The official opening ceremonies begin at noon with the Bands and Clans Parade on Main Street followed by presentations and massed bagpipe bands on the grounds. The parade will start at North Pace Park Road and move north on Main Street to the Civic Center grounds.

The day's activities include Scottish athletics competition, Highland Dancing competition, bagpiping and drumming competitions, Bonniest Knees Contest, live Celtic music, a Celtic marketplace, local and Scottish food vendors and more. The day closes with the Texas Tattoo at 5 p.m. on the grounds at the entertainment tent.

The Tattoo includes performances by bagpipe bands, Highland dancers, and Celtic musicians. Entertainers for this year's Gathering are Scottish singer Ed Miller, Celtic band Lonestar Stout, Scottish button accordionist Hugh Morrison with singer Jed Marum, singing trio The DramBeauties, and singer Joe Romeo playing Scottish small pipes and Irish bou-

Sunday events (9 a.m.-3 p.m. Nov. 12) begin with the Kirkin' o' the Tartan, a traditional devotional service in which family groups carry banners of their family tartans and ask blessings on the families. The day's activities include bagpipe band competition, Clan tents, pet parade and contest, music, food, and shopping.

The Wee Scots Gift Shop will be open all three days in the Salado Museum building, located on South Main Street across from the historic

Consumer spending drives growth

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) rose a less than impressive 0.23 percent last week, closing on Friday at 2581.07 after dipping to 2544 mid-week. The one-month view looks better at 2.45 percent, but the impressive numbers are year-to-date at 15.29 percent and one year at 21.38 percent. Those numbers look exciting, but the other side of the market, bonds, where much of the new individual investor money has gone this year, is a different story. For one year, the Bloomberg-Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index total return is up 0.28 percent, with all interest re-invested.

Gold continued its slow decline, down about 6/10 of one percent for the week and minus about 1.61 percent for the year. Oil prices rose about 2 percent and the oil rig count rose a bit as well. As would be expected with good news rampant, the yield on the ten-year U.S. Treasury note rose about 14/100 of one percent to 2.415 percent, from 1.85 percent at this point last year causing losses in bond portfolio values.

The Economy

One of our favorite government agencies, the Bureau of Economic Analysis, that their estimate of Gross Domestic Product, grew at an annualized rate of 3 percent in the third quarter. Economists surveyed by the Wall Street Journal expected the number to be 2.7 percent. The biggest growth components were in fixed investments by businesses and consumer spending. Consumer spending is up by about 2.9 percent from last year, while long-term business investment is up 4.8 percent.

Of course, this is only the

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

first estimate out of three that will come over the next quarter, but even though third quarters have recently been high, our overcoming of several hurricane hits in the quarter is impressive. The real test will come over the next two quarters. If we can sustain improved growth through the first quarter of 2018, we will truly be out of recovery mode and into a healthy expansion.

In other positive news, U.S. durable goods orders for factory goods that are expected to last for several years rose 2.2 percent in September from a month earlier. As durable goods orders are one of the major leading economic indicators, this is a big deal. Caterpillar and Boeing reported unexpectedly large earnings gains and both raised their one-year earnings and revenue forecasts.

New home sales rose 18.7 percent in September to 667,000, the highest level in 25 years. That, like the GDP numbers, was a surprise to most economists, who collectively believed new home sales would slump in the wake of the hurricanes. Instead, new home sales in the south, where the storm damage was the greatest, rose almost 26 percent. Nationally, new home sales are up 8.6 percent from this time last year.

The University of Michigan reported that consumer sentiment rose to 100.7 from 95.1 in September. Consumers surveyed were optimistic about job opportunities and economic conditions. At least part of that optimism came from the rising stock market. The University also reported that most respondents believed the economic expansion will continue over the next five years or more.

While the data we are seeing are relatively short-term, it does seem that we may have turned the corner from looking back at "The Great Recession" of 2007-2009 and are looking forward to bettering times in the years to come. Historically, this turn tends to mark the half-way point to the next downturn. We appear to have left the safe zone of "another recession could happen at any time." The mood is still sufficiently cautious that we do not believe we are in danger yet, but the tide does appear to be turning. Bear markets and major recessions tend to come when most people believe that the good times are here to stay and could go on forever. Bull markets and economic growth is the most likely outcome when people believe that the bad times could go on forever and the stock market is a scary place where people lose money.

The primary portfolio risk at this point is either betting to heavily on growth or plunging into bonds. Maintaining a careful balance of shorter-term bonds and cash and value-oriented stock positions is historically the prudent approach.

The Facebook Farce

The Kremlin knows a bargain when it sees it.

We are supposed to believe that it bought the American presidential election last year with $100,000 in Facebook ads and some other digital activity. Frankly, if American democracy can be purchased this cheap -- a tiny fraction of the $7.2 million William Seward paid to buy Alaska from the Russians back in 1867 -- it's probably not worth having. The latest obsession in the Russian collusion story, the Kremlin's digital activity has generated headlines and put Facebook and all of Silicon Valley on the defensive, although this looks to be one of the most overhyped stories of the year.

The Russians, as far as we know, bought more than $100,000 in Facebook ads between June 2015 and May 2017. A little more than half was spent after last November, when, obviously, Donald Trump had already won.

The scale here is singularly unimpressive. A serious House campaign might spend $100,000 on digital. In a presidential campaign, the amount is a rounding error. The Trump campaign spent around $90 million on digital in 2016. Hillary Clinton employed a considerable digital staff, and announced she was spending $30 million on digital the last month of the campaign alone.

If tens of thousands of dollars was decisive amid this tsunami of tens of millions, the Russian trolls working somewhere in St. Petersburg should strike out on their own and start a political consultancy or an internet publishing company. They are geniuses.

It doesn't appear that much of the Russian material was explicitly advocating for Trump's election, and some of it wasn't even right wing. One Russian Facebook page highlighted discrimination against Muslims. Another promoted anti-police videos for a Black Lives Matter audience. A pro-gay-rights page was called LGBT United.

Other pages were on the right and supportive of Trump. But much of the Russian Facebook activity was peddling online tripe indistinguishable from indigenous American online tripe -- in fact, it was ripped off from content produced by Americans. If the Russians are going to decide our elections on social media, one assumes it will require at least a little originality.

One suspicion has been that the Trump campaign helped direct the Russian online effort. What we know about the Russian activity so far makes that doubtful. Why, if the Trump campaign was running its own digital campaign that was magnitudes larger, would it bother with a tiny Russian effort that wasn't always focused on Trump or his message?

It is outrageous that Russians meddled in our democracy at all, and if there are ways to lock them out of our social media going forward, we should do it. Let's not pretend, though, that the Russian online activity was the key to the election. This is classic conspiracy thinking -- that some small secret cabal is responsible for a world-historical outcome that had much more obvious causes (Hillary Clinton's poor campaign, for one).

There may yet be truly damaging Russia revelations, and the Trump family's business dealings could always produce a nasty surprise. But all the focus on Facebook serves, for now, as a substitute for a smoking gun in the absence of a real one.

Pre-bid conference has 20+

The Sewer and Waste Water Pre-Bid Conference was held last week with over 20 contractors attending. Most of the contractors were from the local area. That is excellent as the bids should be competitive and the work of high standards.

October has been a busy month with activities every week. Next week, we should receive a report on the Sales Tax. Like the month of September, expectations are for a significant increase over the past years.

Bids are being received for cutting low hanging tree limbs over streets. DeGrummond, Old Mill Creek, Indian Trail, and Chisholm Trail are the first.

November has arrived quickly. Veteran's Day is next week. Please take the time to write a note of appreciation to a Veteran; perhaps a personal Village Voice ad; or a telephone call. A Veteran this week reminisced: "When we came back from Vietnam they mocked us, spit on us, and called us names. How good it is that Veterans today are appreciated, respected, and honored for serving our country."

Mayor Skip Blancett

As you prepare for Thanksgiving, please give thanks for our wonderful Village; this year's Village progress; and the wholesome spirit of our citizens. It is seen and felt everywhere: the "hello" waves from car and cart drivers; courtesies extended from crossing the single-lane, low-water bridges; the smiles and greetings in stores and neighborhood gatherings; and the peaceful environment in which we live and work. The Village had its moments but has come through better-than-ever.

Soon, it will be time for Christmas/Hanukah decorations. Salado is known for its majesty and beauty during the Holidays. Let's really make it special this year. Many lights, much joy, and an abundance of memory-making gatherings. In our planning, may we remember those who are house-bound; ill; or alone.

These next two months will be special.

School finance is inadequate, inequitable

The Texas school finance system is both inadequate and inequitable. Funding in Texas is $2,550 per student below the national average each year. An additional $2,550 per student would equate to over an additional $4.7 million per year for our district based on our current enrollment of 1,856 students. Texas is ranked #47 out of the 50 states in per student funding.

One of the major misconceptions regarding school finance is that increases in local property values provide additional funding to school districts. Higher local property values will increase the amount of local taxes collected by the school district. However, that additional revenue is negated because as the amount of local taxes collected increases, the amount of state funding the district receives is reduced.

School districts receive funding based on their Weighted Average Daily Attendance (WADA). The school finance system is inequitable because each district receives a different amount of funding per WADA (and thus, a different amount of funding per student). Below is a comparison of per WADA funding for 25 school districts in our area. These 25 districts were selected based on the following two criteria: all of the school districts in Bell

Superintendent's Corner

by Dr. Michael Novotny

County (regardless of size) and all of the school districts in our University Interscholastic League (UIL) districts for academics, athletics, and fine arts:

Bartlett	$8,486
Fairfield	$8,211
Taylor	$8,069
Jarrell	$7,983
Llano	$7,824
Holland	$7,805
Burnet	$7,734
Temple	$7,587
Killeen	$7,572
Copperas Cove	$7,547
Connally	$7,464
STATE AVERAGE	$7,419
Mexia	$7,403
Lampasas	$7,401
Robinson	$7,315
Belton	$7,201
Lorena	$7,172
Leander	$7,122
Liberty Hill	$7,089
Buckholtz	$7,042
Rogers	$6,787
Academy	$6,758
Troy	$6,662
Cameron	$6,632
Rosebud Lott	$6,476
Salado	$6,450

Our school district receives the lowest per WADA funding out of all 25 districts. Thus, our school district receives significantly less funding each year for each of our students than if the same student attended any of the other 24 school districts. The Texas Legislature has the authority and responsibility for these school finance formulas. There was a bill (House Bill 21) during the legislative sessions earlier this year that would have provided all school districts (including Salado) with additional funding. The Texas House passed House Bill 21 during both the regular legislative session and the special legislative session. However, the Texas Senate amended the bill both times so that most school districts (including Salado) will not receive any additional funding these next two years.

The awards our students and school district receive year in and year out are evidence of the great job we are doing educating our students in spite of our very limited school funding. If we were able to receive additional funding, we would be able to offer more curricular and extracurricular programs to our students, maintain lower class sizes, increase teacher salaries, and improve the condition of our facilities and school bus fleet. I hope when the Texas Legislature meets again in January 2019 that they will revise the school finance formulas so our funding system is more adequate and equitable.

Dr. Robert & Linda Mastin were presented the 2017 Senior Servant Award by pastor Travis Burleson during the First Baptist Church Salado Senior Servant Banquet.

Mastins honored with Senior Servant Award by First Baptist Church Salado

This past week nearly 100 senior adults from First Baptist Church Salado gathered at Tenroc Ranch event center for the church's annual Senior Servant Banquet. Dating back to 1997, the event honors a special recipient for outstanding service-work in the church and community over the previous year.

Recognized and nominated by their peers, along with the leadership of the church, the results are kept secret until the night of the event. With a full program of eating and entertainment, attendees are able to enjoy a great evening together as they relive and remember past recipients. A somber moment involves the reading of past award winners, many of whom are no longer present as each year rolls by.

The evening as a whole however, is designed to be lively, fun, and encouraging. Following a performance by a choral Men's Quartet, this year's banquet hosted former First Baptist Church pastor and Salado resident

Billy Johnson, who in joking about how he and everyone else had "changed" since he was away, also challenged the crowd through the 'Cross in his pocket.' "I'm sure in a crowd like this one, everyone of us have a thing or two we'd hope no one would ever find out," said Rev Johnson, "mistakes we made and so forth. But I'm here to tell you that this Cross in my pocket reminds me, as it should remind you, that nothing you've ever done or said no matter how far or bad—can keep your Jesus from loving you!"

The highlight of the evening came as the 2017 Senior Servant Award was presented to Dr. Robert & Linda Mastin. Now longtime Salado residents, the former Corpus Christi couple serve FBC Salado in a variety of behind-the-scenes capacities.

The Mastins care for bed-babies every week, oversee the needs of College students, frequently host guest-missionaries in their home, and have housed teenagers during the church's annual youth discipleship weekend. Coincidentally, the Mastins have known Dr. Burleson and wife Terri since before their marriage or ministry, decades before the two families both settled in Salado.

Said Dr. Burleson, "You know when the Psalmist says that 'One generation will commend the Lord's great works to another and tell of His mighty acts?' When it says that, it certainly embodies our 2017 Senior Servants. Our Recipients not only tend to the next Generation as they 'come into' the World, but they also stay in touch with the next Generation as they 'go out' into the World. And our Recipients have been keeping up with me in my Generation for nearly three decades in the World!" When asked by Pastor Travis, Dr. Mastin (a retired obstetrician) humbly admitted to having delivered more than 9,000 babies in his professional career.

The Mastins have been married 57 years, have 4 children, 11 grandchildren and 1 great-grand child.

In addition, Kerri will provide a holiday earring kit for each attendee. Auxiliary members and guests are encouraged to attend this intriguing and fun program.

The past few years the Ladies Auxiliary has donated items to the AWARE Central Texas annual Fundraiser, Christmas on the Farm, and will continue this worthy cause again this year. Ladies are asked to bring donated items to the Nov. 9 meeting. The donated items will be used in a booth where children can purchase gifts for their parents, grandparents, or other family and friends. A list of requested donated items includes small bottles

Eagles cruise past Black Cats 28-7

By LARNCE BARKER
SPORTS WRITER

The weather was cold at Eagle field Friday night but the wind chill in the upper 30 degrees did not affect the Salado Eagles on either side of the ball. Salado beat the Mexia Black Cats 28-7 in a district contest.

The Eagles offense exploded on the first play from scrimmage with a 65 yard touchdown run by Cade Depoy and a Jake Walrath kick with 11:42 left in the 1st quarter to take the early 7-0. The Black Cats would answer on the second series of a nine play drive when Josh Beachum received a 23 yard pass from QB Travion Carter for a Black Cat touchdown and a Lalo Ortiz kick with 2:55 left in the 1st quarter to tie the game 7-7.

After a ten play drive

and Salado's 4th series of the game, Aaron Torczynski would take a Hayden Haire handoff and score on a 5 yard run and a Walrath kick with 5:56 left in the 2nd quarter to take the lead back 14-7. Wyatt Bagley, filling in for FB Trey Sheppard on offense, would score on a 7 play drive mid-way through the 3rd quarter with a 2 yard run and a Walrath kick with 6:52 in the 3rd to increase the lead to 21-7. Bagley would sniff the end zone once more on a 10 play drive with another 2 yard run with 21 seconds left in the 3rd quarter to make the lead 28-7.

Salado's Coach Alan Haire stated the Eagles Slot-T explosive success in the football game was the Eagles Offensive line led by Center Willy Whigham, Guards Connor Cook and Bobby Cunningham, Tackles Robert Soto and Bryce Wales and tight end Ashten Sniggs. The Offensive line opened holes in the Black Cat defense for 373 yards rushing with DePoy 16-160, Torczynski 23-112, Bagley 18-93 and Zach Adams 1-10 yards

The player who pulled double-duty in the win was Wyatt Bagley who played his linebacker position on defense and also fullback on offense. Bagley would have a great second half of rushing with 84 yards rushing and two touchdowns. Bagley stated the success to the team's endurance was due from 2 a-days in August and the practices preparation each week by the Salado Coaching Staff.

The Salado Eagles defense would show the Mexia Black Cats why they are one of the top defenses in the area. The Eagles did not let the Black Cats inside the Eagles 43 yard line after their only score early in the 1st quarter. Salado's defense would hold Mexia to 105 yards of total offense and a mere 34 plays of offense the whole game. The Eagles Swarming Defense held the Black Cats to only 13 yards the second half. The Eagle defensive standouts Tate Harvey, Zach Adams, Wyatt Bagley all with 16 tackles, Rustin Hale 13, Cutter Hudgens 12, Mac Miller 11, Andrew Sniggs 9, Kaden Smien and Quade Brown 7 each, Tommie Barker 6, Jacob Wilk 4, Willy Whigham 2.

The win brings the Salado Eagles to 2-1 in District 9-4A D2 and 7-1 overall on the season. The Eagles will take on the Robinson Rockets Nov. 3 at 7:30 p.m. kickoff at Eagle Field.

Salado Eagles were shut out by the Mexia Black Cats ninth graders 14-0 on Oct. 26.

Outside linebacker Reid Vincent led the team in tackles. Defensive end Peyton Miller was a constant disruption in the backfield. Linebacker Kory Walker was everywhere on defense.

The Salado defense collected three turnovers.

"The athletes fought hard tonight," Coach Ramiro Mojica said. "The game did not go in our favor and we will work as a team to make sure we right the ship before Robinson. These young men are tough, but instances like these are important to keep hard work in perspective."

The offense was led by fullback Noah Mescher, quarterback Kole Maedgen and halfback Peyton Miller.

The ninth graders are 5-3 and will face the Robinson Rockets this week.

8th Grade

Artists' hideaway will be part of Tour of Homes

By KNOX TYSON
SALADO HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The spectacular home at 432 O.W. Lowrey owned by Barbara and Barry Starcher will be part of the Salado Historical Society Tour of Homes Dec. 1-3.

Utilizing the contractors, subcontractors, carpenters, electricians, and plumbers from Salado, the home was rebuilt upon the ruins of a home destroyed in the great flood of Salado.

Some of the tile and frame is from the old home. The rest is brand new construction that incorporates a large amount of antiques brought from Dallas, East Texas, New England, and Salado.

Walk through the front door and the home is laid out before you from right to left. The kitchen to the right incorporates antique French cabinets that are a feast to the eye. Ahead you will see the pool area. It is built with a beach to walk into the pool. The landscaping creates a tropical oasis.

There are two master bedrooms. The master on your right includes a sauna. The king size bed was rebuilt by Barry to an immaculate condition. The antique French cabinets and furniture are all refinished by Barry. There is a private garden in the back that was landscaped by Barbara. It overlooks Smith Bluff Creek.

Further down the walk is a guest bedroom that is also used as an office. The king size bed and French cabinet were rebuilt and refinished by Barry. The antique Swedish Cow Bell and art deco lamps are a part of the decor. The closet in this room stores extensive cooking utensils that are used by Barbara, who enjoys the art of cooking.

Out in back, you will see the beach and to the left you will see a landscaped green garden. Past the small greenhouse is Barry's shop. In his woodworking shop he refinishes and repairs furniture. He specializes in making guitars, mandolins banjos, and zithers. The shop building houses his office and was, at one time, an RV garage. There is plenty of room here to repair large furniture. One wall was built using the old doors in the damaged home and displays some of the instruments he has built. There is a small recording studio that contains more hand-crafted stringed instruments.

Barry's drafting desk is from Vermont.

The adjacent laundry room utilizes antique cabinets and a convection oven. You may walk into the three car garage. The collection of antique furniture, drafting tables, old clocks, art by Barbara is all stored here waiting for their repair. Barbara collects and repairs old French clocks that you will see throughout the house. You may exit the home through the front door or the open garage.

Tickets for the Homes tour can be purchased at the Visitors Center at the Salado Museum before Nov. 23 for $18 per person. Tickets purchased after Nov. 23 will be $20.

Tour of Homes will be open 5-8 p.m. Dec. 1, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Dec. 2 and 1-4 p.m. Dec. 3.

Other stops on the tour this year will be the the Lively home, the Seiler Home, the Starcher Home, the Baines House Museum, Salado Masonic Lodge, Salado United Methodist Church historic chapel and St. Joseph's Episcopal Church.

Scottish Folklorist at Salado Public Library

Scottish singer and folklorist, Ed Miller, will present Edinburgh and Glasgow in Song, Literature and Humor, 1 p.m. Nov. 10 at the Salado Public Library on North Main Street.

The free event is sponsored by the library in partnership with the Salado Museum and

Folklorist Ed Miller

College Park.

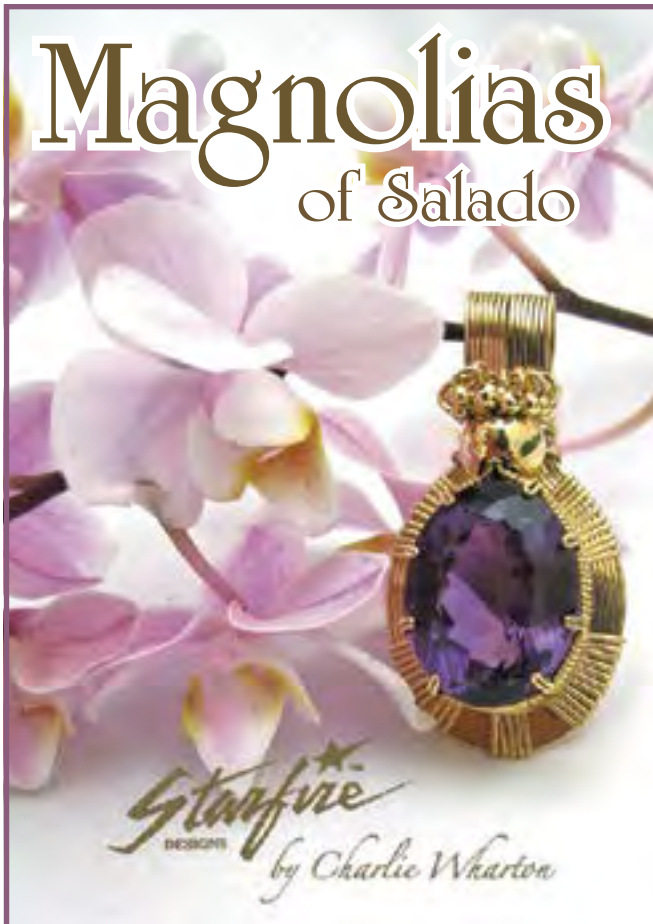

Ed Miller is a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, who came to Texas as a young man and has made Austin his home. He holds a graduate degree in Folklore and Geography from the University of Texas at Austin. In addition to having recorded nine CD's of Scottish songs, he is a teacher, speaker, lecturer, radio host and leader of historical tours of Scotland.

Miller's one-hour presentation explores the juxtaposition of Scotland's two largest cities. Though only 48 miles apart, their respective images and histories could hardly be more different. Using songs, quotations from writers as varied as Robert Louis Stevenson and Ian Rankin, and jokes heard over the years, Miller provides an entertaining take on the two cities that comprise over half of the Scottish population.

Miller is the featured entertainer for the 56th Scottish Gathering and Highland Games, sponsored by the museum, November 10-12, at the Salado Civic Center.

Mote Smith Mill was last on Salado Creek

By CHARLENE CARSON
LOCAL HISTORIAN

"Just a little further," our guide said as he coaxed us on. "It should be around the next bend."

The four of us, which included my husband and myself and two friends, pushed through heavy underbrush, crawled under a barbed wire fence, and thrust onward in the direction of our guide's triumphant, "Here it is!"

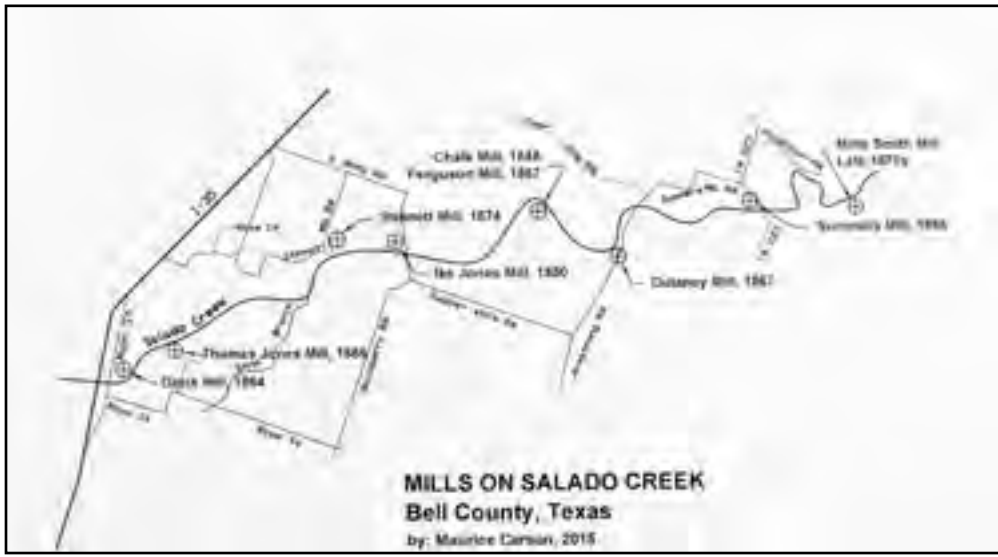

"It" was the site of the Mote Smith Mill. We stood in silence as we took in the scenery around us. Even though it was a hot August afternoon, the tall majestic trees along the creek bank provided a comfortable shade. We could hear the rushing of the water as we peered over the bank and looked into the creek below us. There we saw the twisted metal of a part of the dam that had once held the water of the Mote Smith mill pond.

At the time the Mote Smith Mill was built in the late 1870s, the Salado River was providing power for six other mills. The Chalk/Ferguson Mill had been sawing lumber, grinding corn, and ginning cotton for over 20 years when Jeremiah Morton "Mote" Smith built a gristmill and cotton gin about a mile downstream from Summers Mill. It was the last of the eight mills located along the banks of Salado Creek and was built in a pasture owned by the Garrison family of Salado, accessible only through their property off of Campbell Hill Rd.

The Mote Smith Mill was run by three brothers, Jack, Bob, and Bill Holmes. The mill was completely destroyed in 1900 when, during the Galveston Hurricane, heavy rains and floods prevailed throughout the State of Texas. After the flood the only item remaining from the mill was the mill stones. A miller by the name of J. A. Dice salvaged the stones and installed them in a small gasoline mill he operated on the Lampasas River.

Even though the Salado was a fast-flowing stream prone to flooding, there was something about the area that enticed people to make their homes along the banks of the creek. Perhaps it was the tall, stately trees that lined the river bank or perhaps it was the river itself that provided an abundant source of cool, fresh water.

Nevertheless, by 1849 there were enough people in the area to employ a teacher and start a school. The first school in the Salado area was in a cabin located on the bank of the Salado across from the Mote Smith Mill and gin. The cabin had been occupied by a Mr. Kuykendall. When he moved, the people living along the lower Salado employed Mr. E.N. Goode as the first teacher for the new school.

The millwright of the Mote Smith Mill, Jeremiah Morton Smith, was born in Orange County, Virginia on April 20, 1848. His parents were George Andrew Smith and Julia Somerville Smith, both of Virginia. The Smith family came to Bell County in 1867. Jeremiah Morton married Cora Lee Fowler, daughter of Josiah and Rebecca McCamey Yett Fowler, on March 1, 1877. The marriage took place in Salado, Texas, perhaps at the Fowler home, one of Salado's historic homes. The couple had three children, George

A. Smith, Fowler Smith, and Murray Mayrant Smith, all born at Salado. Their second son, Fowler, died at the age of 14 months.

Cora Lee Smith Fowler was born June 23, 1854 at Marble Hill, Burnet County, Texas. She came to Salado as young girl with her parents when her father, Capt. Josiah Fowler, was employed as a mathematics professor at Salado College. Cora Lee was a student at the college and a member of the Am-savourian Society, a literary society for young women.

At the time of his death on June 1, 1923, Smith was living in Rosharon, Texas. Cora had preceded him in death some 20 years earlier. Some years later, Smith married Jessie Adams of Wichita, Kansas, and the couple was living on their cotton plantation in Brazoria County. Smith had been active in cotton buying, ginning, and milling for several years.

Funeral services were held in Temple, Texas at the residence of his son George at 610 North Third Street. Interment was at the North Belton Cemetery on June 2, 1923. Smith was buried next to his wife, Cora.

and Boris Schapiro got to four spades as shown. Reese made six instead of five as the result of a defensive error.

It was at the second table that the fireworks occurred. There, Michele Giovine and Mario Franco held the North-South cards for Italy. They were playing the highly artificial Marmic system.

Giovine opened the South hand with one diamond, a strong bid that had nothing to do with diamonds. Franco responded with one spade, which had nothing to do with spades. It showed a king and some additional values. Eventually, Franco and Giovine arrived at six spades.

Adam Meredith (West) led the jack of spades and thereby handed declarer the contract. Declarer won with the queen, cashed the A-K of hearts and ruffed a heart, establishing dummy's two remaining hearts. He then crossed to the ten of spades and discarded two losers on the established hearts to make the slam.

It was an unfortunate lead, all right, but it was doubly unfortunate because Meredith had led out of turn! Due to the artificial one-spade bid, the actual declarer was North, so East should have led.

As it was, North accepted Meredith's lead out of turn, which was his privilege, and so made the slam.

This Lizard enjoys grasslands and rocky hillsides

Now that I have children of my own and am privy to the shenanigans they sometimes perform, I have a greater sense of appreciation for the patience that my own parents exhibited when I was a developing young naturalist. Many of the animals that I encountered as a youngster were of course collected, and I have dotting memories of several lizards that resided in my room. One lizard species in particular, known as the Prairie Lizard, would reside on my wooden bed-frame in front of my window and would become familiar enough with my presence to allow me to hand-feed them.

Commonly referred to "Fence Lizards" by antiquated texts, the Prairie Lizard

Wild About Texas

Michael Price

(Sceloporus consobrinus) is one of seven species of "spiny lizards" that reside in Texas, and it considerably has the largest area of distribution. This variety can be observed throughout the entire state, save for the arid regions west of the mighty Pecos River, where it is replaced by a close relative that was only recently found to be taxonomically diverse. Outside of this great state it occurs from western Louisiana northward to Missouri, westward to southwestern Nebraska and southward through extreme eastern New Mexico. Its range in Mexico has yet to be fully ascertained, although I have seen individuals that appear to be Prairie Lizards in the Mexican states of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, and San Luis Potosi. Further investigations are required to fully establish its known range.

This species of spiny lizard is oftentimes far more terrestrial than the majority of its cousins. It thrives in areas of openness such as grasslands, rocky hillsides, and semi-arid scrublands.

The genus to which this species belongs to is known as the "spiny lizards", and as such, this species has dorsal (back) scales that are quite bristly. The most distinguishing characteristics of this species are the presence of three pronounced stripes on the back. The middle stripe is gray and broad, occurs along the midline of the spine and is known as a vertebral stripe. Set on either side of this vertebral stripe are two very distinctive light dorsolateral stripes that run lengthwise down the body of the lizard. In between these light dorsolateral stripes and the vertebral stripe are small black spots that are sometimes in the shape of crescent moons. More often than not, there is also a light stripe that is scarcely visible that runs from front limb to back limb along the side of the belly. Background coloration varies from gray to tan to reddish brown and is largely dependent upon the coloration of the soils where that particular resides.

From above, males and females are not easily discernible from each other. But if one examines the belly of this lizard, then the ability to tell the sexes from one another is quite simple. Mature males have two black-bordered blue patches on either side of the belly, as well as on the throat region; females lack such coloration.

Males are the larger sex, achieving total lengths of up to seven inches, although most attain a length of just under six inches. Females are slightly smaller than the males, topping out at approximately five inches.

"Fence Lizards", like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that they do not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather are dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. They are active throughout the day from early April to October, and unlike many other reptile species, the high metabolism of this lizard enables it to be observed during the hottest part of the summer afternoons.

This species of lizard is an opportunistic carnivore, feeding primarily on small crickets, grasshoppers, flies, and moths that it encounters in its daily diurnal activities.

The Prairie Lizard is oviparous, which is a fancy way of saying that it lays eggs. After emerging from the winter-long brumation period (reptiles do not hibernate in the true sense of the word), males will search out females to mate. After mating, the female will lay a medium-sized clutch of eggs (averaging nine) in moisture retaining soil. Females will lay multiple clutches of eggs per summer. After approximately two months of incubation, the diminutive two inch long young emerge prepared to fend for and care for themselves.

While this variety of spiny lizard is exceedingly alert, it tends to not be tremendously wary. Many will sit motionless when approached, darting off at the seemingly last possible moment. This behavior allows for some spectacular photography of individuals as they go about their business.
