SISD board set to call $49.4 Mil bond election

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado ISD Trustees are set to call for a $49.4 million bond election during their 6 p.m. Feb. 12 meeting at the Salado Civic Center.

School trustees met in workshop session Feb. 5 to discuss a $51.7 million recommendation by the Long Range Facilities Planning committee.

The board opted to put a $49.4 million measure on the agenda for Feb. 12 in order to call for a bond that is within the projected financial capacity of the district to retire.

Trustees discussed at length whether they should call for the larger $51.7 million bond, which would require a portion of the bond to be issued at a later date, when net taxable values grow to the point that the district can retire the larger debt.

This may have meant putting off some of the items on the list for up to eight years, depending upon the actual bid cost for construction.

WHAT'S PROPOSED

When trustees meet Feb. 12 they will consider calling for a May 5 bond election for $49.4 million for the construction of a new middle school at the Williams Rd. location, the construction of a corridor connecting the addition and gym at Thomas Arnold to the main building and the expansion, improvement and construction of new athletic facilities.

The capacity of the Middle School for sixth through eighth graders is estimated at 584 students with a core capacity of 680+ students to allow for future classroom additions.

The estimated cost is $800,000 for the safety corridor at Thomas Arnold Elementary, bringing the cost for those safety issues and the construction of a new middle school to $42 million.

This will leave an estimated $7.4 million for the construction of new athletic facilities and improvements to the football stadium

Improvements and expansion of the football stadium will include the addition of 1,000 seats, new restrooms and concessions, drainage improvements and a new turf surface at an estimated cost of $3.4 million.

The remaining $4 million will be used for the construction of a new baseball and softball complex on the Williams Rd. location, as well as practice fields for football, soccer and track field events.

Lance Melton with Huckabee, Inc. told trustees that the cost estimate for construction of the new baseball and softball fields with 500 seating capacity at each was $1.45 million. The cost estimate to put turf on the fields was $1.5 million, he said.

Adding other athletic facilities, to include the practice fields, field events facilities brought the cost estimate to $5.125 million. What he termed as soft costs brought the initial estimate to $6 million.

The LRFPP committee recommended construction of athletic facilities at the Williams Rd. location as the first phase in moving all of the athletic facilities there. In a later phase, the football stadium could be built at the Williams Rd. location.

FINANCIAL CAPACITY

The financial capacity of the district is based upon several factors, including the state cap of $0.50 per $100 evaluation for debt service taxes (I&S), taxable property values in the district, interest rate for the bonds and interest earnings from investing the bond money prior to and during the construction phase of the program.

Southwest Securities created a proforma for the district to help it determine its bond financial capacity. Based upon a bond interest rate of 4.25 percent, a 30-year payout and property growth of 4.5 percent over the first 10 years of the bond, Southwest Securities determined that the maximum amount that could be retired at the debt tax rate cap of $0.50 per $100 evaluation is $49.4 million.

The current net taxable property value of Salado ISD is $637,590,852. In 10 years, the net taxable property values are estimated in the proforma to be $990,159,097.

The proforma estimates that the property values will increase by 3 percent per year for years 11-15 and then by 1 percent per year for the remaining 15 years of the bond. Total debt paid on the bond in its lifetime will be $114,188,413.

Heavy work has begun on the Salado Sewer project. A work crew is shown above digging in the seasonal creek bed between Stagecoach Rd. and Church St. The collection pipe connecting the east and west side of the sewer system will go under I-35 and the access roads at this location. Village prohibits parking in residential front yards

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen approved at their Feb. 1 meeting an ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles in front yards of single-family residences and requiring a seven-foot fence to screen vehicles parked in the rear yards of single-family residences.

The ordinance states: "It shall be unlawful for any person to park or to cause, suffer or permit the parking of a vehicle, boat or equipment on any surface that is not an improved surface as defined in this ordinance, within the front or side yard of a single-family residence subject to this section. It is presumed the registered owner of the vehicle or equipment is the person who parked, caused, suffered or permitted the vehicle or equipment to be parked in violation of this ordinance."

The ordinance further states, "It shall be unlawful for any person to park or cause, suffer or permit the parking of a vehicle, boat or equipment on or within the rear yard of a lot with a single-family residence unless the vehicle, boat or equipment is located behind a seven (7) foot tall wooden fence. Temporary parking of a recreational vehicle, boat or equipment for the purpose of loading or unloading is permitted but shall not exceed a period of twenty-four (24) consecutive hours."

"A vehicle, boat or equipment parked on the roadway shall not impede the flow of traffic or block the view of intersections, crosswalks, or traffic control signs," the ordinance states.

The ordinance defines "improved surface" as "An area, excluding a driveway, the surface of which is comprised of selected materials constructed to a depth sufficient to distribute the weight of a vehicle or equipment over such area to preclude deterioration and deflection of the area due to vehicle or equipment load, adverse weather, or other conditions. Examples of materials with which an improved surface might be constructed include asphalt, concrete, permeable pavement or other materials approved by the Village Administrator or his designee."

Violators of the ordinance shall be guilty of a "Class C misdemeanor and, upon conviction, will be subject to a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars {$500.00} per offense.... Each day that a violation continues shall constitute a separate offense."

"We will try to gain compliance before issuing tickets" Village administrator Don Ferguson said. The motion was approved on a motion by alderman Fred Brown receiving a second from Frank Coachman. It takes effect 10 days after official publication in this edition of the Salado Village Voice.

Community garden may get planted

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

A Community Garden may be planted on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center after both the Salado ISD Board of Trustees and Village of Salado Board of Aldermen approved an interlocal agreement for the development of the garden.

The idea was proposed by Salado residents Jerry and Elaine Herrick. Herrick said that they decided to pursue the establishment of a community garden after realizing that with their own personal garden: "We probably gave away more tomatoes than we kept.... As we thought about our own bounty, it occurred to us how many people did not have enough food."

The Herricks visited with Pat Scarborough, manager

Former alderman David Williams has filed as a candidate for Mayor of the Village of Salado.

He is the only candidate as of presstime to have filed for election in the Village of Salado May 5 general election. A two-year term for Mayor and two two-year terms for the Board of Aldermen will be decided in the May 5 election.

Frank Coachman has not announced whether he will file for re-election to the

New Tourism Director starts Feb. 20

The Village of Salado has named Chadley Hollas as the new Director of Tourism. Village Administrator Don Ferguson announced the hiring of Hollas Feb. 2.

"The Village is very fortunate to have the opportunity to hire a person with the background and experience that Hollas brings," Ferguson said.

Hollas has management experience in hotel marketing and operations, as well as event management.

Hollas was senior sales manager with White Lodging Services in Austin from Sept. 2013 to Oct. 2014. While there, he managed hotel inventory, rates, and revenue, while improving hotel's standing within the competitive set.

He was an account manager for national events for More in Sports, Inc. from Jan. 2013 to August 2016.

He then served as the estate manager for a C-level executive where he served as director for household, to include overseeing the estate, travel, personnel, and business affairs.

Hollas received a Bachelor of Science in Tourism Management from Texas A&M University along with a Master of Science in Tourism Resource Development.

As Salado's Tourism Director, Hollas will be responsible for the development and implementation of a marketing strategy to increase overnight visitation.

In addition, he will oversee Visitors Center operations and be involved in the development and management of special events designed to enhance tourism.

Hollas will begin his new role with the Village on Feb. 20. His office will be in the Visitors Center at 423 S. Main Street.

Markets move downward

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) along with the rest of the equity indices proved as February began that they can move downward as well as up. The SPX ended the week down 3.85 percent to close at 2762.13. The Index remains up over 20 percent for the last 12 months and is up 3.31 percent year-to-date and those are still impressive numbers.

Bonds did very much the same thing. You may remember that just over a month ago, the yield on the benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note was about 2.4 percent. It closed out the week yielding 2.838 percent. In practical terms, the total return of the Bloomberg-Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index has dropped 1.42 percent in the last month. Considering that its three-year average total annual return was only 1.05 percent, that is a big hit. Gold, not wanting to be left out, dropped 1.43 percent to $1,334 with most of that decline hitting on late Friday.

These reversals are linked and appear to be largely driven by a Treasury announcement that it would substantially increase the total value of bonds it would be selling each quarter to cover the revenue reduction associated with the tax cuts that just went into effect. Comments by investors suggested that the realization is hitting home that the government will be needing to borrow a couple of trillion dollars more than was previously anticipated. Higher bond sales (borrowing) tend to drive interest rates up.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

You may remember that Bitcoin was trading just short of $20,000 in late December as we predicted a hard fall would come, probably sooner rather than later. On Friday the price dropped to about $7,700 before bouncing back into the $8,000 range. Any way you look at it, the price is now down around 60 percent in a month.

The Economy

The Labor Department announced that the U.S. economy created 200,000 net new jobs in January. At the same time average wages clocked in 2.9 percent higher than they were last January. As might be expected with a lot of new hiring going on, productivity slipped a bit. Core inflation, the way the Federal Reserve views it, came in at about 1.9 percent per year based on the trailing three months' data, very close to the Fed's 2 percent target. That leaves the Fed room to continue to raise short term rates this year and continue to liquidate their bond holdings, putting more upward pressure on rates. While we won't likely see it soon, rising rates combined with limits on tax breaks for houses has the potential to reduce future home values.

The drop in the stock market and relatively sudden spike in interest rates had some analysts on edge, but the ECRI Weekly Leading Index, a set of leading economic indicators that warn of impending recessions at least six months before the fact, continued to rise at a 7.3 percent annualized average rate. In bad news for exporting companies, the dollar rose 6/10 of one percent during the week. It is still down about 7.5 percent against a basket of world currencies for one year.

One of the mysteries of this expansion has been why wages (and inflation) have not risen more. Some economists are suggesting that the number to look at is not the unemployment rate, but rather the labor-force participation rate. The argument states that there are a lot of people who are not reporting that they are actively looking for work, but would work if the right job with the right conditions came along. If that is true, it would explain why wages are only now beginning to rise as well as the lagging productivity numbers. If the supply pool for hiring is larger than we thought and many in that pool would be willing to work for lower wages if the job was convenient and close to home, then employers would not need to offer higher wages. If that is so, then when the pool begins to run low, wages will need to rise as employers compete for scarce workers. Higher wages can lead to higher prices and thereby higher inflation. Higher inflation leads to higher interest rates.

The problem with higher interest rates is that the additional $2 trillion or so the Treasury is planning to borrow to cover the tax cuts may be a lot more expensive than Congress assumed. If so, we may be looking at a real problem with federal debt in about seven years.

Salado schools work on expanding CATE

Over the past few years we have been working on expanding our Career and Technology Education (CATE) program offerings for our high school students. In addition to our existing agriculture science, business, technology, and family consumer science programs, we have added computer science, welding, and health/medical science programs. I will feature all of these programs in my column during upcoming weeks. This week I will focus on our computer science program.

Software developer is the top rated job in the 2018 U.S. News and World Report 100 Best Jobs Ranking. This ranking is based on the number of projected jobs, median salary, and unemployment rate. Software developer is projected to have an additional 253,400 positions in the next ten years. The median salary is $100,080 and the unemployment rate is only 1.6%. We added our computer science program this past (2016-2017) school year. Computer science enables students to "learn a new way to think" about computers while improving their problem-solving skills. We hired Clint Brown as the teacher for this program. Mr. Brown has a Bachelor of Arts in Computer Science and a Master of Science in Information Systems.

Computer Science I Pre-AP (Advanced Placement) introduces students to the exciting world of computer science. In the first semester, students are introduced to important concepts in computer science with a fun and innovative approach using Scratch and Alice software. During the second semester students are introduced to the Java programming language.

The second course in this program is Computer Science 2 Pre-AP. The major emphasis is on large GUI projects using data structures, such as linked lists, stacks, queues, hash tables and binary trees. An introduction to robotics programming, iPhone and Adroid development, and graphical games is included. The course is designed for students interested in careers in computer programming, engineering, mathematics, or science related fields. JAVA, C and Objective C are the main programming languages that are used.

This upcoming (2018-2019) school year we will add the third year of the program's sequence with AP Computer Science. The students will use the Object Oriented programming language JAVA to write interactive programs to solve problems. Topics covered are data types, selection statements, looping, files, arrays, searching and sorting algorithms, graphics, inheritance, interfaces and classes. The students will be eligible to take the AP Computer Science A exam and earn college credit. Interested and qualified students may take Computer Science Independent Study the following year.

We strive to prepare our students for college and careers and our computer science program is one way that we are providing new learning opportunities for our students.

Donald Trump's impure thoughts

Rich Lowry

President Donald Trump has had impure thoughts about special counsel Robert Mueller.

That much, we know. The New York Times reported that Trump asked White House counsel Don McGahn to fire the special counsel. When McGahn resisted, Trump backed off and left Mueller in place.

Talking their clients out of bad ideas -- especially impulsive clients likely to blunder into gross mistakes -- is what lawyers are supposed to do.

The Trump-Mueller episode is like the "Saturday Night Massacre" if Richard Nixon had merely thought about firing Archibald Cox, then got dissuaded by his advisers and, under advice of counsel, began cooperating with the Watergate special counsel.

Is it more meaningful that Trump wanted to fire Mueller, or that the special counsel's work has continued apace for the past six months, with indictments, guilty pleas and extensive interviews of White House officials? Surely it is the latter, but Trump's critics argue that his withdrawn directive establishes motive in a prospective obstruction-of-justice case.

What it establishes is what we already knew: Trump hates the investigation and everyone associated with it. He considers the able obstruction-of-justice case against him.

Absent collusion (or some other sinister secret), Trump is guilty of raging against an investigation that, at the end of the day, really is built on sand. In which case, it'd be better if Trump, secure in his ultimate vindication, lowered the temperature around the investigation. But the scorpion is going to sting the frog -- especially if the frog is getting round-the-clock cable coverage.

It is certainly true that Trump has not, if he ever will, made the transition from thinking like the owner of a family business to thinking like a president entrusted with the care of our institutions.

If Trump had his druthers, he'd probably appoint his personal fixer Michael Cohen his attorney general and run the Department of Justice like an arm of The Trump Organization. But there are all sorts of political and institutional constraints to acting on these impulses, including a White House counsel willing to say "No."

SCAMalado author replies to suggestion he move away

Dear Editor:

On Jan. 26 2018, the Temple Daily Telegram (TDT) printed my Letter to the Editor, which I had originally written and submitted to the TDT and the Killeen Daily Herald (KDH) in early May of 2017. It was printed in the KDH in "original" form on May 6, the TDT chose to print a much, 'edited' form of the same Letter to the Editor on Jan 26--a whopping, 9 months later! I do not recall ever re-issuing the said missive. That said, the TDT chose to print a response on Jan. 29, which was irresponsible 'journalism', in allowing a person to attack me, a private citizen, both personally and slanderously, for having an opinion--that is tactless, malicious 'journalism'!

Why-- because I use clever, amusing, colorful vernacular to question graft and corruption and secrecy by unidentified/unnamed, publicly, elected politicians, collectively. All done here in what has become, transparent, "SCAMalado", literally, the cesspool of political manipulation in Central Texas? I do not know, never met this Marinik woman who the TDT chose to let attack me in a personal, slanderous manner. I'm not sure of her motivations by disguising her identity, either. It appears Linda Marinik, upon further research, slithers around Salado as Linda Marinik-Blevins, CPA., but signs her blather as Marinik. Her continued, somewhat similar response to my TDT Letter to the Editor, as unprofessionally, "borrowed" by another third rate, local rag, The Village Idiots' Voice on Feb. 1, was certainly somewhat, less slanderous as Marinik attempted to not be as personal. "What kind of editor of one paper allows a response to a letter to the editor of a competing and neighboring paper be printed"? What's up with that intentional deception...collusion to discredit, perhaps?

In response, I am not out to 'catch flies', just swat dishonorable, deplorable, politicians with a verbal sledgehammer.... my opinion. Upon re-reading my Letter to the Editor, Marinik dishonestly, misrepresented, my being 'unhappy and mean-spirited'; she does not know me nor I her. All SCAMalado residents were not labeled, mouth-breathing, sycophants; just those "self-serving panderers to the local, corrupting influence of the political pulpit", aka the incestuous mob of Village government-Chamber of Commerce-Tourism bureau-SISD, here in SCAMalado. An illustration...a $10+ million dollar, SCAMalado 'sewer for the few' bond, paid for by all SCAMalado taxpayers but only to be used by Main St. businesses and one, taxpayer subsidized, developer. That's not crooked enough for the Telegram? We don't have the time nor the space for the rest of the questionable dealings in SCAMalado. As Winston Churchill, so aptly said, "I'd rather argue with 100 Idiots, than have one agree with me"!

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

Then, to further, personally malign me, Marinik thinks I should leave SCAMalado-I don't think that's your call, woman. My house is paid for and my taxes paid and current...yours, Marinik-Blevins, or whomever you are today? Obviously, I'm victim to the crazed meanderings of a rabid, homogeneous, 'my way or the highway', cretin. I'll be here as a contrarian, voter, taxpayer, citizen, veteran, as long as I desire with my opinion!

As for a Marinik call to run for office, if I do indeed express my outrage as to what is going on as a contrarian, voter, taxpayer, citizen, veteran--what elected office have you ever held Marinik and under what name? I thought so....

In conclusion, I was completely, impressed Marinik could take time from what has to be her huge, impressive CPA business, during the frenzied, delirious, advent of the annual tax season to personally attack me...It would be a good bet both of her ignored clients were also being well served. SCAMalado is a village, well-populated with political bootlickers, galore, with lots of idle time! Marinik, "I am perfectly happy but can't imagine how miserable it must be to give up any, critical thought and blindly go along with everybody else" in SCAMalado--for those who do know me..... not my style!

As a good friend and fellow SCAMalado contrarian said to me to appeal to my 40+ years as a military aviator and major, US airline Captain....

"They (the sycophants) only shoot back at you when you are over their target"! INDEED!

Submitted to be printed AS WRITTEN or not at all, in a fairly reasonable amount time...!

T R (Tom) Pappas Salado

Dear Editor:

A Positive Village Voice

I love Salado! I enjoy Tom Pappas's wit and fun signs at Board of Alderman meetings and I REALLY wish people who claim Salado as their home to STOP telling others to move out! Since I lost the 3 little ones across the street, and the 3 little ones next door when the Sewer Bond passed, I am very sensitive to anyone telling another Saladoan to leave as Ms. Marinik did in Monday's Temple paper and Thursday's Village Voice.

If I look at 2018 voter roles, I see that she doesn't vote in Salado and probably doesn't live in the village or pay taxes to the village.

My young neighbor's were going to bear the burden of the sewer costs and get NOTHING in return. Actually my entire neighborhood of young families will have to pay for sewer to the North, South, East and West of our neighborhood while we manage individual septic systems for our homes.

I love Salado, but I am over 65. When young families have to pay for developer's sewer systems AND pay for athletic fields and gyms for students whose parents pay no school tax in Salado, how many more young families will hear the... "JUST MOVE IF YOU DON'T LIKE IT!" and do it? Expressing your opinion when you see injustice is as American as apple pie...and Ms. Marinik had other solutions for Mr. Pappas...but move somewhere else is not even an option for most retired individuals. We need to keep all of the 2,300 people in Salado to maintain all the services the village offers...PLEASE STOP TELLING PEOPLE TO MOVE AWAY!

Sybil Ludington rides again at SAR

The Heart of Texas Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) Chapter of Salado, the Betty Martin Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Chapter of Temple, and the Ensign Thomas Huling DAR Chapter of Killeen gathered Feb. 3, for the 30th Annual George Washington's Birthday Luncheon.

Betty Martin DAR members, Evelyn Lane and Jerry Harrison of Salado, in colonial dress, greeted guests. Members of the Heart of Texas SAR dressed in Revolutionary War uniforms formed a color guard to present the colors prior to lunch.

Following lunch, Ned LaRowe, SAR member from Plano, gave a presentation on "Another Midnight Ride: The Story of Sybil Ludington." The 16-year old Sybil rode through the night of April 26, 1777, summoning members of her father's militia regiment to assemble the next morning to pursue the invading British force that had destroyed Danbury, Connecticut. Some compare Sybil's ride to the far better known one of Paul Revere.

of Hearts and Hands Ministry food bank in Salado. "I asked her if she could take and distribute fresh vegetables," Herrick stated. "She said she could. That is when I told her my wife and I were planning a community garden."

He visited other community gardens in Bell county. The Herricks propose that the Community Garden would have room for 39, 4 foot by 8 foot plots, a shed, rainwater harvesting, a trailer parking spot and buffer zones.

"My wife and I would pay all costs associated with the planning and building of the garden" he stated, estimating those costs at $20,000.

He proposed that the Salado Community Garden be modeled after community gardens in Harker Heights, Temple and Belton, which rent plots for about $25 per year. The Salado garden would be overseen by an advisory board that he proposed could include local Master Gardeners as members.

points in the final period, Dani McDaniel had a strong finish for Salado.

Also chipping in for Salado were Amanda Cantu (3 points), AC Pryor (3 points, 3 rebounds, 1 steal), Katelyn Seymour (2 points, 2 rebounds), and Kaia Philen (2 points, 3 rebounds, 2 blocks).

Salado finished the game with 20 rebounds (7 offensive / 13 defensive), three blocks and eight steals.

Rembert and Maddie Wade each had 6 points and Reese Preston and Emily Stuckly had 5. The girls played well as a team and stepped up their defense to stop Liberty Hill. The 4th quarter came down to Free throws with a combined 31 free throws being shot. "The girls have been working hard for this game, ever since the last time we played them and they lost. Liberty Hill has always been a rival to us and this they got them. We always tell them to protect your 'house' and they did just that. Their defense and shooting was on point. It was a fun game to watch" said Coach Konarik.

Salado Junior High girls A teams defeated Llano last week with the B teams split.

Coach Konarik says "I was very proud of how the girls played tonight. Our defense was very aggressive and they were going for the loose balls. We have been focusing on our shooting a lot this week - breaking it down fundamentally. I told the girls we had to start being more of an offense threat kind of team and not just rely on one or two girls to lead us. 8 of the 11 girls had points on the board last night which makes a huge difference in the game."

for Justice of the Peace Precinct 2 Bell County
Did You Know?
The Justice of the Peace Precinct 2 Bell County is also the Truancy Magistrate for the entire county.

During my many years as a juvenile investigator I have worked closely with youth, parents, and schools. I have developed a working knowledge of the Education Code and the Texas Family Code. I have taught college classes on youth related issues and have provided input on the state and local levels concerning the development of youth related statutes.

This is an extremely important function which touches the lives of a lot of people. I feel it is vital that we have someone with the experience, knowledge and expertise needed to effectively serve our youth, parents and schools.

not take this trick, in which case he could next discard his heart loser on dummy's king of diamonds. After that, the most he could lose would be two club tricks.

This, of course, was nothing more than wishful thinking, and West would have no part in it. When the spade was led, West rose with the ace, cashed the jack of hearts and played a third heart, ruffed by declarer. South still had to lose two club tricks, and so went down one.

Declarer had the right idea about trying to get to dummy to discard a heart, but he chose the wrong approach. Had he tried leading a low club toward dummy at trick three rather than a low spade, he would have gotten home safely. This may look like the same play, but there is a huge difference. If West has the ace of clubs -- basically a 50 percent proposition -- he finds himself in a hopeless position.

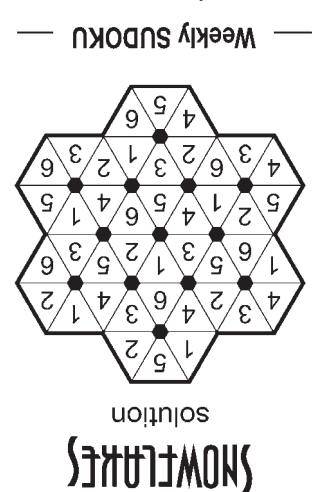

What can West do? If he plays low, declarer wins with dummy's queen, discards his heart loser and eventually loses two club tricks and the trump ace. And if West rises with the club ace and takes his heart trick, South winds up losing only one club instead of two.

The recommended play offers declarer essentially a 50-50 chance to make the contract. In anybody's book, that's a lot better than no chance at all.

Prairie Ring-necked Snake

Prairie Ring-necked Snakes have a flashy belly

Most naturalists prefer to use the Latin name when discussing an animal because sometimes, the common name makes no sense. Groundsnakes, Nightsnakes and Earth snakes (just to name a few) all have common names that can actually be applicable to other snakes as well. But for one species, the common name actually describes what the appearance of the snake is, and that species is the Prairie ring-necked Snake.

The Prairie Ring-necked Snake (Diadophis punctatus arnyi) is a small non-venomous serpent, with most adults reaching sexual maturity somewhere between ten and fourteen inches in total length. However, the largest specimen recorded was just over sixteen and one half inches, placing this variety in the middle of the three subspecies found in Texas.

Like other members of the ring-necked snake genus, this variety is rather drab in appearance, at least superficially. The entire dorsal coloration is a varying shade of gray, ranging from gun-metal to almost blue. The top of the head, which is not much wider than the neck, is generally a much darker shade than that of the body; occasionally being solid black. These two dark tones are separated by the only hint of color on the snake's topside, that being a bright golden ring that encircles the neck region, hence the name, ring-necked snake.

Wild About Texas

To say that this species' coloration is drab would be accurate, until one observes the underside of this animal. The belly of this serpent is quite stunning, being bright yellow for the first half of the body. Moving from the belly to the tail region, the underside begins to gradually change to an orangeish coloration and from there the color gradually changes to a scarlet red underneath the tail. The entire underside is littered with small, random black spots that are obviously more noticeable towards the front end of the snake's belly.

Prairie Ring-necked Snakes have a large distribution in the United States, ranging from southern Nebraska southward to Texas. In Texas, it can be quite common in the Panhandle eco-region, as well as the Cross-Timbers area of the Red River valley north of the Metroplex. Although it does occur in the Edwards Plateau eco-region, it is not a common observation for reptile enthusiasts. As such a large range signifies, this species is a habitat generalist, living in many different types of soils types and plant associations. The primary requirement that this species has, as with most fossorial animals, is to have access to areas that have adequate moisture content. It thrives in hilly grasslands that are adorned with numerous large, flat rocks under which it may obtain heat without having to expose itself to large predators on the surface. Another important niche that this animal has successfully adapted to is its utilization of the numerous "cow-pies" in many grazed fields; oftentimes this species will use the patties to take refuge under.

As with almost all other reptiles that reside in temperate climates, they undergo a period of inactivity during the coldest months of the year, allowing sexually mature adults to generate the sperm and eggs necessary for successful reproduction in the spring. Like most other harmless snakes found in Texas, Ring-necked snakes are egg-laying creatures. Mating occurs primarily during the months of April and May with egg deposition happening in late June or early July. Egg clutches vary in size from one to ten, although the average is between three and four. The eggs are disproportionately large, about one inch in length, and are buried beneath debris to hold the humidity levels at a premium to avoid desiccation.

The neonates hatch from the eggs roughly two months after deposition and average a mere five inches at hatching. The young are carbon copies of the adults in appearance, and like other snake species, they require no assistance from the parents as they are capable of fending for themselves at birth.

This species forages for food during the morning and evening hours during the spring and fall, becoming nocturnal during the heat of the summer months. Ring-necked snakes feed primarily on arthropods such as earthworms (up to ninety percent of its diet), but other vertebrate animals such as salamanders, frogs, lizards, and smaller snakes are also consumed.

Ring-necked snakes possess a salivary toxin that it uses to immobilize its prey, although it does not possess fangs, or even hollow teeth. Without an adequate delivery system, and due to its diminutive size, this serpents' toxic saliva is completely harmless to humans and other large mammals.

Being such a small animal, this species puts on quite a display when threatened. When it feels in danger, it will raise and coil its tail in a tight looping spiral, exposing the bright red colors to the perceived threat. Whether this display is to startle the predator, or to make the predator focus its attention on the tail and not the head, or to draw the assailant in to smell the foul-smelling contents that is often discharged when the snake is frightened, no one knows for sure. What is known is that the subspecies of ring-necked snakes that have a yellow colored undertail do not employ this tail-curling display.
