Manning will study either applied math or statistics at Harvard. She says she hasn't decided yet on a career path.

She would like to continue to play intramural or club basketball in college and will join some pre-professional clubs "so that I can figure out what I want to do with my life."

Growing up in Salado since first grade has taught Manning "the value of living in a tight-knit community."

Kyra Mann has coached Manning for four years in Spelling. "She was my bus driver before that," Manning said. "She has watched me grow as both a person and student, and she has always encouraged me to pursue my interests.

Dennis Cabaniss has taught Manning AP Math for the past two years and was her coach in UIL Math. "He has taught me to never settle and has taught me that with a little hard work, anything is possible," she said.

Coach Diane Konarik worked with Maning as her basketball coach. "She has watched me struggle and encouraged me to push through both physical and mental challenges."

Her biggest challenge now she says will be to "Find a job to help pay for college!"

Investors looking at long-term effect of looming trade tariff war

The Markets

The stock market continued to drift, this time to the downside, as the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) lost 0.54 percentage for the week, ending on the 18th at 2712.97. It does remain up a meager 1.54 percentage year-to-date, and a substantial 13.91 percentage for one year but so far in 2018 equities both here and abroad have been in the doldrums. The Euro Stoxx 600, the EU's parallel to the SPX, is up only 1.41 percentage so far this year but has the misfortune of only being up 0.81 percentage for twelve months.

The ten-year U.S. Treasury note yield rose to 3.125 percentage, the highest in 11 years, before settling down to 3.058 percentage to end the week. It is now clear that the benchmark is likely to remain above the psychologically important 3 percentage level. Gold dropped 2.03 percentage in value, closing at $1,291.70 while U.S. crude oil continued its relentless rise by 1.19 percentage to close at $71.35. As U.S. interest rates rose, the dollar followed suit with the WSJ Dollar Index appreciating 1.08 percentage for the week putting it up 1.38 percentage for 2018 and only down 1.72 percentage for one year. Mortgage rates, moving with the Treasury note are also at an 11 year high.

The Economy

Oil prices are up, not only from reduced supply as Venezuela's production system collapses and the threat of an economic blockade of Iranian oil but also from increased demand as the world economy continues to build a head of steam. The obvious question is, "If the U.S. economy is running hot and the world is as well, why are stocks not rising?" The reported culprit on all fronts is the threat and actuality of trade wars. The United States is the center of world commerce and the traditional champion of free trade. In the assumption that we would remain in that role, companies both U.S. and foreign, have globalized both sales and supply. Europe and Asia are even more dependent on international trade than the U.S., but corporations in all three areas have increased efficiencies by diversifying supply and sales locations across the globe. Many, and likely most large, publicly traded corporations are dependent on the free flow of goods and services across international boundaries. If tariffs are imposed, those tariffs are, in effect, an internal tax on corporate imported steel, the price of steel, as indicated by the NYSE Steel Index, is up 39.28 percentage for one year. In the U.S. hot-rolledsteel is now priced at $972 per metric ton, while the same metric ton of steel averages $671 in Europe and $612 across the rest of the world. That increase in steel costs in the U.S. creates a necessity for products made from steel by U.S. manufacturers to either be priced higher than those made elsewhere in the world or to be sold at a reduced profit or even a loss if made domestically.

The very justified fear is that if the tariffs persist, U.S. manufacturers will be forced to either move overseas or go out of business. We simply don't have the workers to make everything we use domestically, and when domestically made products are forced to be more expensive, the longterm effect does not look good.

Two more issues are worrying the markets. One is the increasingly evident labor shortage. We simply do not have enough workers to do manual labor and the administration has effectively limited legal immigration by not staffing the department that issues work visas. Other areas in the economy are also running up against worker shortages as the tax cuts spur more domestic commerce and the people needed to move goods around in warehouses and drive the trucks are already fully employed.

The last issue that is causing investors to fear To give some idea of the future profits will decline effect of just the tariff on is a combination of inflation and interest rates. The tax cuts in effect this year are adding to economic growth, but with workers in short supply and interest rates rising to head off inflation, corporations are encountering resistance. The surging U.S. economy, widely forecast to rise to a 3 percentage annualized GDP growth in the second quarter, may well push the profits from this expansion overseas while driving up costs at home. The looming threat is something we haven't seen since Jimmy Carter, "stagflation."

> The economy continues to run strongly and is likely to stay on that track for another year or more, but stock investors looking at the longer term are questioning the future value of corporate America if the trade-tariff trend continues.

Thanks for your confidence in me

To the Editor and my Salado Friends:

I have been honored to serve as one of your Alderman for four years. As many of you know, I decided not to run for office again so that I could focus on my family. During my time in office, I have had the opportunity to learn so much. I can assure you that I have never been co-erced into making a decision that I didn't whole-heartedly agree with, no matter the personal consequences. I have never agreed with, or disagreed with, a person or subject simply because it was the easy decision to make. Being an Alderman means that you cannot always be popular, and you cannot always make people happy. But, the experience has made me stronger, more confident, and more knowledgeable about our community and our people. That said, I feel that I have always kept Salado's best interest at heart.

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

Our village is a special place, and it is with the best of intentions that sometimes we cannot see past our own opinions and ideas. It is difficult to hear an opinion different than your own, and not hold the person with the opinion in a lesser regard, and ostracize them for their opinions. Regardless of their differing viewpoints, we should embrace these people. They are the ones that think outside the box. After all, it was George S. Patton that said, "If everyone is thinking alike, then somebody isn't thinking."

As we move forward, try to understand one another. Try to trust one another, but when your gut tells you something doesn't sound just right, investigate. Try to be a part of the village, despite your busy schedule. Just try.

I have confidence that those elected to the board will continue making the decisions that they feel are in the best interest of our Village. It is now up to US to continue sharing information with our elected officials, so they can continue to make decisions based on the opinions of the majority. Thank you for voting for me, and trusting me to make decisions essential to the well-being and growth of our sweet Village for the last 4 years. It is with great confidence that you will see my name on the ballot again soon, when my family is ready for me to return. I look forward to the opportunity to serve you again.

Warmest regards, Amber Preston Dankert,

Salado Board of Aldermen, 2014-2018

Donald Trump's Jerusalem Triumph

In the second century A.D., Jewish rebels who had stunned the Romans and liberated a portion of Judea overstruck imperial coins with images and a message of their own, "Year One of the Redemption of Jerusalem."

The leader of the Jewish rebellion, Bar Kokhba, was fired by a vision of a united Israel with Jerusalem as its capital, which had been the exception during the prior millennium, thanks to the depredations of the Assyrians and Babylonians, among others. But such was the power of the national idea -- and his messianic zeal -- that Bar Kokhba ventured all on regaining it.

And lost. Not for nearly another 2,000 years would the vision come to fruition. At a ceremony in 1982 burying bones of some of those long-ago rebels with military honors, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin declared: "Israel and Judea are reborn. We have redeemed Jerusalem."

King David conquered the city in 1000 B.C. and made it the capital of the kingdom of Israel. His son Solomon built the First Temple. But Jerusalem would repeatedly be captured and the Temple destroyed (first by the Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar and then by the Roman Emperor Titus).

The Jewish people never forgot. In one of the miracles of our age, after long centuries of exile punctuated by genocide at the hands of the Nazis, they re-established Israel in 1948, and then gained control of all of Jerusalem in 1967 (prior to that, when Jordan held East Jerusalem, Jews couldn't visit the Western Wall).

The notion that the City of David isn't the capital of Israel was an impolite fiction, honored by the U.S. and the West for fear of provoking Arabs hostile to the very idea of the Jewish state. Its prime minister, parliament and highest court are based there, and it's unimaginable that Israel would ever agree to any peace deal that didn't recognize it as the capital.

The tired, conventional arguments against it haven't held up well in the wake of President Donald Trump's decision to move our embassy. The Arab street hasn't exploded. The West Bank has been relatively quiet. Arab capitals haven't erupted in outrage. The flashpoint has been in Gaza, the terror statelet ruled by Hamas. Israel pulled out of Gaza more than a decade ago and has been rewarded with constant attacks emanating from a territory where the infrastructure of mayhem and destruction -rockets, tunnels and the like -- is the only growth indus-

Hamas has goaded rioters to storm the Israeli border, defended by Israeli soldiers who fire on them if necessary to protect local communities (more than 50 were killed on a recent Monday). This isn't "the caravan" that arrived at the U.S. border with peaceful migrants seeking asylum, but a violent provocation that is a function of Hamas' commitment to Israel's destruction.

For now, that poisonous ambition looks more fantastical than ever. Trump's move is an acknowledgment of reality. It is also a symbolic statement of permanence, that Menachem Begin was correct when he said at the ceremony for the Bar Kokhba rebels 36 years ago, "Glorious fathers, we are back and we will not budge from here."

Belton Native Supports the "Silent Service"

By Mass Communication Specialist 2nd Class Jackson Brown, Navy Office of Community Outreach Public Affairs

GROTON, Conn. - A 2003 Belton High School graduate and Belton, Texas, native is serving in the U.S. Navy supporting nuclear-powered, fast-attack submarines homeported in and visiting the Groton, Conn. area.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Christopher Paulson is an aviation ordnanceman, who currently assists the chaplain.

"The best part about my job is being able to help out other people here," said Paulson.

"Being from Texas, we have a strong military pride, and I brought that into the military," said Paulson.

A key element of the Navy the nation needs is tied to the fact that America is a maritime nation, according to Navy officials, and that the nation's prosperity is tied to the ability to operate freely on the world's oceans. More than 70 percent of the Earth's surface is covered by water; 80 percent of the world's population lives close to a coast; and 90 percent of all global trade by volume travels by sea.

Naval Submarine Support Center, New London (NSSCNLON) provides administrative and support functions to approximately 20 submarines. The command provides support in the fields of: administration, medical, legal, chaplain, supply, combat systems, engineering, communications, and operations to improve readiness of submarines in the Groton area.

Attack submarines are designed to hunt down and destroy enemy submarines and surface ships; strike targets ashore with cruise missiles; carry and deliver Navy SEALs; carry out intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance missions; and engage in mine warfare. Their primary tactical advantage is stealth, operating undetected under the sea for long periods of time.

"The U.S. Navy submarine force has one of the highest operational tempos in the U.S. Navy and Naval Submarine Support Center, New London plays a vital role in helping Grotonbased submarines maintain their excellent readiness," said CDR. Brian J. Nowak, Commanding Officer, Naval Submarine Support Center, New London. "The warfighters operating the submarines at the tip of the spear, and those who are building the Navy's newest nuclear powered submarines can only do so because of the vast network of support they receive from the shore side. The professional Sailors and civilians at Naval Submarine Support Center, New London serve a key role in that network. I am honored that I get to serve every day with outstanding Sailors like Paulson."

According to Navy officials, because of the demanding environment aboard submarines, personnel are accepted only after rigorous testing and observation.

The submarine community is an all-volunteer force, which has some of the most highly trained and skilled people in the Navy.

Becoming a submariner is an accomplishment in itself. Paulson is also proud of His three deployments to Iraq

"My favorite part about the command is the people," said Paulson. "They take the time to look out for the people they are in charge of."

Supporting the high operational tempo and unique challenges of the submarine force build strong fellowship and a strong sense of mission, according to Navy officials.

"Serving in the Navy is a great chance to use my prior experience in the military to improve the service," added Paulson.

singled to center with one out. Smedshammer flew out to left for the second out. Braden Smith was hit by the pitcher to put runners at first and second. Pitcher Jacob Wilk caught Ustanik on the base path between second and third for the third out, ending the game.

The Eagles took an early lead in the game by scoring three runs in the bottom of the first. Ryan Oakes walked. Wilk singled and Rustin Hale homered over the left field fence to make the score 3-0.

Lorena bounced back with two runs in the second. Jett Forest reached on a fielder's choice that put Bryce Strahan out at second. He advanced on a passed ball and scored on a single down to left field by Hayden Shrader. Shrader advanced when Caleb Williams was hit by the pitcher, scoring on a single to left by Livingston. Williams was left stranded on second as Alec Brem hit the ball to pitcher Konnor Baird who turned to second; Wilk took the throw and turned it into a double play getting the runner at first.

The Leopards tied the game in the fourth. Strahan led off with a single to right. He went to second when Forest was hit by the pitcher. Shrader laid down a sacrifice bunt to advance the runners and Strahan scored on a sacrifice fly to center by Williams.

The Leopards took the lead in the fifth. With one out, Ustanik reached on a third strike passed ball. He went to third on a ground out by Smedshammer and scored on a passed ball for a 4-3 lead.

The Eagles defense gave up a run in the bottom of the eighth but Caleb Self and Ryan Oakes caught fly balls to the outfield and Jacob Wilk struck out a batter to secure the extra inning win for Salado 7-5 on May 18.

The win gave Salado its first win over Lorena in the best-of-three series.

Salado took an early lead, scoring two runs in the first. With one out in the inning, Dalton Hawes walked, followed by a walk to Wilk. Rustin Hale singled to load the bases before the second out was recorded. Kade Maedgen walked to push across the first run Brandon Ryder headlines the Lone Star Legends Music Fest, June 1 at Johnny's Outback.

Lone Star Legends Music Fest at Johnny's Outback June 1

Kick off summer at the Lone Star Legends Music Fest beginning at noon June 1 at Johnny's Outback.

This will be a fun family friendly event that will feature live music with headliner Brandon Rhyder. There will be activities for kids, pictures with mermaids, art vendors and food trucks.

The Lonestar Legends Music Fest will benefit an all-abilities playground project for Salado in partnership with Variety's Peaceable Kingdom for Kids.

From noon to 3 p.m. will be an end-of-school bash with activities, food and more for kids. Admission for 18 and under is free.

Brandon Rhyder will take the stage at Johnny's Outback that evening for a concert and dance. Tickets are $20 each and can be purchased at eventbrite.com keyword Lone Star Legends Music.

Brandon Rhyder

The first single from the self-titled release Brandon Rhyder explores the complexities of relationships and the push and pull that somehow seems to make it all work. "The Way They Need Each Other," a collaboration written and performed with singer-songwriter Lori McKenna, sets the tone for the new release, four years in the making for Rhyder.

The collection of songs is both reminiscent of the man that fans have come to love, while providing a new depth of emotion garnered from trials and tribulations felt in recent years.

"When you ponder the deeper questions: who am I as a husband, father, songwriter and musician? It both humbles and inspires. And you can't answer those questions in a rush..."

Almost apologetically, hyder addresses the fouryear hiatus from studio activity. "I had to step back and rethink who I was and what I was doing. I needed to clear my mind and take a break from the day-to-day business for a while. And it was the best thing I could have ever done," he explains. "In that time, I feel I've evolved, grown and realized it's not just about me, or even about my wife Kelli and I. It's about family, relationship, legacy. The big things."

There's no doubt that this record is Rhyder's line in the sand. A fresh resolve from a 15-year veteran of the road. "If I'm completely honest, I had to decide, for myself and my family, if this line of work is where I'm spending the rest of my working days. This collection of songs is my answer."

The 10-track album is receiving positive early reviews, professing this as Brandon's best work and drawing comparison to the critically acclaimed Conviction.

"Conviction was the one that was either going to work or not. This new record comes from the same place"

Brandon Rhyder is slated for July 14 release, and was produced by industry stalwart, mentor and friend Walt Wilkins. It is the third installment from the pair who also worked in tandem on 2006's Conviction and 2010's Head Above Water.

The new CD includes four co-writes with revered songsmiths including Keith Gattis, Michael Hearne, Bri Bagwell and multiple Grammy-winner Lori McK-

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

This remarkable deal occurred in a match between Italy and the United States in 1983. What happened at the two tables might seem incredible, but the plain, unvarnished truth is that everything took place precisely as described

At the first table, with Italy North-South, the bidding went as shown, and the U.S. West led the king of clubs. East overtook with the ace and returned his singleton heart.

The Italian declarer won with the ace and led a trump to the ace, on which West unexpectedly showed out. This development apparently caused something to go wrong with declarer's think tank, since his next play was a low diamond to the king.

At this point, the hand collapsed. West took his ace and led the queen of hearts. East ruffed dummy's king, returned a low club to his partner, and West administered the final blow by cashing the jack of hearts to put the contract down

At the second table, with a U.S. pair now North-South, the Italian West likewise led the club king against four spades. Here also, East overtook with the ace and shifted to a heart.

The U.S. declarer's play now varied slightly when he played the heart ten at trick two, covered by the jack and king. When South then cashed the ace of trumps and West discarded a heart, he suddenly found the contract could no longer be made regardless of what he did next. Eventually, he lost two clubs, a diamond and a heart for down one.

Considering that four spades was ice-cold from the word "go," the outcome at the two tables was astonishing. All declarer had to do to guarantee 10 tricks was to take his ace of hearts at trick two, draw trumps and lead the king of diamonds. That's all there was to it.

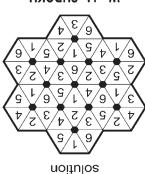

Even more astounding is the fact that both Souths would be voted among the 10 best players in the world! Each apparently suffered a mental block of some sort, proving that in bridge, as in life, it's very human to err.

Yellow Mud Turtles are carnivorous

Over time, the temperature and rainfall fluctuations have been anything but consistent in this area of the country, and this year is a prime example of that. Every living organism that calls west Texas its home has adapted to tolerate and even thrive in such conditions, and one species of turtle in particular has made a habit of disappearing during the brutal times of near intolerable heat and drought conditions. Mud Turtles Yellow (Kinosternon flavescens) are one of three mud turtle species that occur in Texas. Their distribution in this state lies primarily west of the I-35 corridor, and encompasses the entire Panhandle, Edwards Plateau and Trans-Pecos eco-regions. Outside of Texas they can be observed from Nebraska, southwestward to southeastern Arizona, and then southward into northern Mexico.

This species is primarily an aquatic turtle, although many are found far away from water as they wander cross country for a different water source. Habitat favorites include lakes, canals, and irrigation ditches. A favored habitat in the moisture deprived Trans-Pecos and Panhandle regions are cattle stock tanks.

Like most other American members in the mud turtle family, this species is generally dull and rather bland. The carapace, or top shell, of adults and juveniles is olive-tan or olive brown. The only other coloration on the carapace is the darker pigment that borders each one of the scute scales. The scutes along the vertebral area of the carapace are typically flattened a bit, almost to the point that a coffee mug could be balanced on the back. The bottom shell, or plastron, is yellowish and unpatterned save for dark markings on the seams that connect the plastron scales together. The top of the head and neck usually mimic the dull colors of the carapace, while the cheeks and chin are bright yellow, the only colorful area on the body of this species. It is this yellow color that gives this turtle its namesake.

There are also two fleshy barbels on the chin.

Of the three species of the genus that occurs in Texas, this variety is the mid-sized version. Sexually mature adults are usually between four and five inches in carapacial length, although just over six inches is the record size. Males, who can be differentiated from the females in the fact that they have slightly larger heads and tails, are the largest of the two sexes.

Mating in this species occurs in the springtime, and large, healthy females may lay one to two clutches of eggs annually. Females will oftentimes choose a nest site up to one-eighth of a mile away from water, quite a distance for such a diminutive testudine. Once the eggs are laid in the nest, which is dug out with the hind legs of the mother, they incubate for approximately three to four months. Once the ¾ inch young hatch, they must make the long and perilous journey back to the water on their own.

Yellow Mud Turtles are strictly carnivorous in their dietary requirements. Invertebrates such as insects and worms make up the majority of the diets of younger specimens, while older animals can and will occasionally feed on vertebrate animals such as injured or dead fish. However, they do not adversely affect the population of game fish with their

During times of severe drought and heat, this species has adapted to living life out of sight. Studies have shown that this species will bury themselves several inches under ground, and have been known to stay there until substantial moisture arrives, often waiting weeks or even months. This process is known as aestivation, and is very similar to their winter brumation activity. They do not sleep, but rather their metabolism slows almost to a halt, allowing only for minimal oxygen exchange and no more.

A place for weary travelers, thirsty tourist, and hungry neighbors!
