

As work continues on sewer, aldermen discuss impact fees

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

McLean Construction should be done with the collection system work on Main Street in 45 days. The company will then begin work on the west side of I-35.

Village administrator Don Ferguson gave aldermen an update of progress on the sewer system at their July 5 meeting.

He said that the lift stations for Royal and Church Street have finally arrived. Delays on these have set back work on the collection system, he added.

McLean, however, has made up some of the lost time and anticipates completing the collection system by mid-February 2019.

Work on the wastewater plant itself should be done by mid-January, according to Ferguson.

Ferguson reported that to-date $1.1 million has been spent on the collection system and $890,000 has been spent on the treatment plant.

The cost of the collection system is $3.3 million. The costs of the treatment plant is $4.9 million, built by Matous Construction.

Other project expenditures for the system include these: Construction Contingencies, ($410,000); Project Management, ($339,000); Engineering-Project Management Coordination, ($35,000); Engineering Construction Services, ($496,641); Oncor 3 Phase Overhead Power to Plant, ($69,926); Oncor 3 Phase Overhead Power to Lift Stations, ($7,943.41); CCN Designation, ($18,850); Wastewater Rate Study, ($40,000); Environmental Monitoring, ($25,000);

Archeological Monitoring, ($8,500); Property Connection, ($156,000); Grinder Pumps for 30+ Main Street properties, ($210,000) and Decommissioning Stagecoach Wastewater Treatment Plant, ($160,000).

Total project cost is estimated at $10 million to serve the initial 130 customers. The Village is meeting with prospective additional customers that may tie in to the system.

Initial usage for the system is estimated at 137 connections using an estimated 34,000 gallons per day (based on the 100 gallons per day Living Unit Equivalent determined in the Impact Fee Study), or 17 percent of the total 200,000 gallons per day capacity of the treatment plant. The collection system has a capacity of 1.2 million gallons per day in order to handle peak flow times (page 8 Impact Fee Study).

So far, $8.2 million in bonds have been issued for the project. The Village also has a $1 million Economic Development Agency grant. The Village is also considering issuing at least a portion of the remaining bonds ($2.35 million) late this year or early next year. The impact on the property tax rate could be 10 cents per $100 valuation next year, depending upon property values.

Aldermen are considering setting an impact fee for all new sewer customers. The full impact fee, if approved by aldermen will apply to the initial customers. Current customers on the Village's Stagecoach sewer system will pay a reduced impact fee. Stagecoach Inn, in its development agreement, will not pay a sewer impact fee.

Aldermen will consider at a later date, adoption of a Sewer Impact Fee. The Impact Fee Committee recommends a fee of $3,750. It approved the findings of the study by HDR Engineering which recommends an Impact Fee of $5,152 per Living Unit Equivalent (LUE). Many municipalities that adopt Impact Fees base it on the size of the individual sewer line tying in to the system. The Salado Impact Fee Study stated that adopting this approach could lead to underestimating the impact that an end user could have on the system.

The Salado Impact Fee Study bases its LUE on 100 gallons per day usage. The LUE is the usage that an average residence would use.

Based on the LUE of 100 gpd, the capacity of the 200,000 gallon per day treatment system would generate $10 million in Impact Fees if fully implemented. Applying the Impact Fee to the initial 137 users would generate more than $1.2 million if the Village adopts the $3,750 rate. If applied at the maximum amount recommended in the study itself, the Impact Fee would generate $1.7 million.

Aldermen conducted the second of two public hearings on the Impact Fee Study recommendations on July 5. Tim Fleischer, Charles Dunifer and John Newman spoke.

Fleischer said he was speaking on behalf of Salado Masonic Lodge #296, located at 95 S. Church St.

Fleischer questioned the 100 GPD number for LUEs in the study. "This flies in the face of much of the na-

Rainy July day doesn't dampen fireworks display

Despite rains and the threat of more rains, Saladonians gathered at Sherrill Park on Sat., July 7 for the annual Mill Creek Country Club Fireworks show.

Prior to the show, Salado football coaches cooked up hamburgers for locals, the Chameleon band rocked tunes and family members enjoyed a water slide, games of corn hole and much more.

"This would not have been possible without the tireless work of Salado Volunteers - Joe Oliver, Tommye Prater, Roy Harden, Don Hogue and Mel Williams," Billy Helm said.

Helm also thanked all the people who made donations toward the fireworks show itself. Donations were accepted at the Mill Creek Country Club Pro Shop prior to the event.

Helm said that the Salado Volunteers do "so much in our town to make it look good at all times." He added that the group is in need of a good, reliable, used golf cart to carry landscaping tools to the various locations where they do regular work. "If you have one you would like to donate or would like to donate some money toward that effort, please call me," he said.

You can reach Helm at 254-760-3880 if you would like to donate.

Salado salamander has 'been here forever'

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"These guys have been here forever," Pete Diaz said.

Diaz, who is an Aquatic Biologist and Invertebrate Specialist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, spoke to a group of people at Barrow Brewing Co. gathered for one of the Summer Lecture Series on Sun. July 8.

He was speaking of the Eurycea chisholmensis, commonly known as the Salado salamander, a species that the US FWS listed in 2014 as Threatened. The species was under consideration to be listed as Endangered, which would have brought about federal regulation of land use and other activities.

"You have been living in harmony forever," he added.

"We see Pete about once a month wearing galoshes in Big Bubbly and Li'l Bubbly springs looking for the elusive salamanders," K.D. Hill said in introducing him to the audience.

The Salado salamander is part of a group of Central Texas salamanders that are located in the northern part of the Edwards Aquifer.

About 15 million years ago, there was a major split in the original ancestor species with the group of salamanders located north of the Colorado River taking on very different characteristics than the southern group of salamanders.

The northern group of salamanders live in the springs of the Edwards aquifer and during periods of extreme drought move down into the interstitial areas between the surface springs and the deep, fresh water of the aquifer itself.

Diaz explained that when he first began coming to Salado in 2015 to search for the Salado salamander (which at that time had not been spotted by anyone for a few years), he came at a time that the major drought had broken and the area had been having a good amount of rains to fill the aquifer.

He described his first visit to Salado with County Commissioner Tim Brown and Clearwater Underground Water Conservation District Manager Dirk Aaron. Diaz reached down and grabbed one. It was almost enough to "make them cry," he said with a laugh.

The reappearance of the Salado salamander in the surface springs reaffirmed what locals have been saying about the Salado salamander: that it goes into the interstitial spaces during drought conditions.

Since then, the range of the Salado salamander has been expanded due in part to new genetic analysis by biologists. According to recent work by Diaz that is in review before it is officially published, there are now six locations that the Salado salamander has been confirmed, including springs in northern Williamson County.

In 2015, it was confirmed in the Big Bubbly, Li'l Bubbly, Robertson Springs and a spring formation on the Solana Ranch.

"The Anderson spring is a new locality for us," Diaz said.

The Salado salamander was first described in 1961.

"It is distinctly different than Georgetown, Barton Springs and Jollyville salamanders," Diaz said. "It has larger eyes and a bigger tail."

It is also distinct in its genetic structure. "These are narrow splits (genetic differences)," Diaz said.

The Salado salamander was designated as a distinct species in 2000 in a Status Report of Central Texas Salamanders by principle investigators David M. Hillis and Paul T. Chippindale.

In that status report, Chippindale et al stated: "Salamanders from these springs are very distinctive morphologically, with elongated bodies, large rectangular heads, uniform brown to gray-brown coloration, and very reduced eyes. Discriminant morphometric analyses (Chippindale et al 1991) readily separate individuals from this population from those from other surface populations. The Salado salamanders also share a peptidase D allele with animals from the Georgetown group, an allele that otherwise appears to be very rare in the northern region. Based on the available information (primarily morphology and distribution), we regard the Salado group as a distinct species and plan to describe it as such."

Since the Salado salamander was listed as Threatened, Diaz has regularly come to Salado to observe the species and study it further. Texas FWS also tests the water quality at Salado springs quarterly. Meanwhile, Clearwater UWCD tests the water of Salado creek and Salado springs regularly and particularly after major events such as heavy rains and contact of large numbers of people in the springs/creek.

This work, Diaz said, "has validated that they are here and are well and abundant."

What does that mean for Salado? A great deal, according to Diaz. "It means there is a healthy community in the aquifer. The big benefit is that this is an indicator of the water quality here. It means that the water is clean and fresh," he said.

It also means that Salado can "maintain autonomy. This is not just important for

S&P 500 bounces back

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) turned in an impressive gain of 1.52 percent for the week at 2759.82 and is now up 3.22 percent so far in 2018 and 13.80 percent from a year ago. The prime driver in the gain appeared to be the jobs report from the Labor Department as we have now completed a record 93 consecutive months of employment gains in the U.S. Despite the overall gains, industrial stocks sagged on the escalation of the trade war. Several larger manufacturing companies reported delays in their supply-chains due to transportation and infrastructure limitations and tariff-related issues.

The ten-year U.S. Treasury yield continued its slide to finish the week at 2.82 percent, down from 3.11 percent just over a month ago as the bond market frets about slowing growth in the years ahead. U.S. Oil declined just under half a percent to $73.90, but remains up over 20 percent in the last 90 days and 53 percent from a year ago. That price increase has filtered through to the gas pump and there may be more to come as U.S. sanctions on Iranian oil come into play. Gold and the dollar largely held steady with gold at $1,256 down about 6.5 percent since the first quarter.

The Economy

The trade war has begun as the U.S. and China imposed tariffs on $34 billion of each other's exports for a combined tariff of $68 billion on each other's exports. $16 billion more (times two) is scheduled to go into effect in August. All that is on top of the steel and aluminum tariffs already in place. President Trump has promised another $200 billion, likely in early fall with the Chinese already set to match that. Don't look for an immediate effect on either economy. If the war continues to escalate it stands to reduce U.S. GDP by about half a percent in 2019 but with the full impact not hitting until 2020. One of our strengths is that the majority of our economy is in consumer purchases rather than exports. Trade wars may accelerate inflation as prices rise, but are not as dangerous to the U.S. economy as they are to export-focused countries. The issues for us are the retaliatory actions that other parties in this war may take. We in the U.S. are import-dependent, and a disruption in our supply of those imports could hurt.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

Meanwhile, the U.S. economy, as we have predicted, is accelerating with a full head of steam. Even though the Labor Department reported unemployment rising to 4 percent of the labor force, the net number of new hires rose to 213,000 and the number of unemployed stood at 6.6 million compared with 7 million this time last year. The rise in unemployment even as hiring was also high was because the civilian workforce grew by 601,000 as new graduates and workforce returnees entered the job market.

Wages, again, were up 2.7 percent from a year ago, suggesting that competition for workers has not yet heated up. We currently have a workforce participation rate of 62.9 percent, meaning that if we tallied everyone between 15 and 64 who was not a full-time student, in an institution, or otherwise unable to be employed, about 63 percent have paying jobs or are looking for work. That rate is considerably lower than the 67 percent rate we had in the late 1990s and the 66 percent rate of 2008. One of the reasons we have trouble getting the US GDP to stay at high numbers is that we have had about a 4 percent participation rate decline over the last decade.

A lot of thought and study by economists has gone into that issue recently. One of the big factors is the number of people who have retired early. Another part of the dropout rate has been because skills have changed and older workers have given up. Yet another identified reason, and perhaps the largest, is the opioid epidemic in which people with chronic pain became addicted to opioid medications and then turned to black-market drugs as an increasing number of jobs require drug-testing. A related reason is that we have the largest percentage of convicted felons of any nation in the world. An arrest and conviction record makes it more than a little difficult to find employment. Clearly, though, people not previously considered to be in the workforce are returning, as evidenced by the 601,000 who entered last month.

The transportation, skilled workers, and general infrastructure limitation issues continue to grow, suggesting that the current high growth rate in the U.S. economy may not be sustainable over the long-run. The Federal Reserve minutes were released and show that the Fed too is concerned about the potential for a recession in or around 2020 as the economy grows faster than can be sustained. The debate appeared to be on how fast to raise rates and sell bonds in order to slow the growth rate now without causing a crash while at the same time leaving themselves room to maneuver to cushion the fall when the next recession does finally appear.

Salado ranks in top 10 in 4A Lone Star Cup

The UIL Lone Star Cup is awarded annually to six high schools in Texas. One high school from each of the six UIL classifications (1A, 2A, 3A, 4A, 5A, and 6A) earn this award based on their team performance in district and state championships in academics, athletics, and music.

Salado High School won the Lone Star Cups award in 2008, 2013, and 2014. Out of the 1,317 high schools in Texas, we are one of only 42 high schools that have ever won a Lone Star Cup award. There are only ten high schools in Texas that have won more Lone Star Cup awards than the three Salado High School has won.

The three times we won the Lone Star Cup we were competing as one of the largest high schools at the 2A size classification. We have since moved up two size classifications – one because of our enrollment growth and one because the UIL changed the alignments from five classifications to six classifications.

The competition is tougher at the 4A level, especially considering that we are one of the smallest 4A high schools in the state. Our

by Dr. Michael Novotny

enrollment as of the 2016-2018 realignment ranked us 181st out of the 191 high schools at the 4A level. In spite of this significant size disadvantage, our students and coaches did extremely well and earned 10th place out of the 191 high schools at the 4A level in the 2018 Lone Star Cup rankings.

Congratulations to our students and coaches that earned Lone Star Cup points in the following activities this past (2017-2018) school year:

Volleyball = 2 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs)

Football = 10 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs, 2 points for winning the district championship, and 6 points for winning three rounds of playoffs)

Girls soccer = 6 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs, 2 points for winning the district championship, and 2 points for winning one round of playoffs) Boys soccer = 8 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs, 2 points for winning the district championship, and 2 points for winning one round of playoffs) Softball = 6 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs, 2 points for winning the district championship, and 2 points for winning one round of playoffs)

Baseball = 12 points (2 points for qualifying for playoffs, 2 points for winning the district championship, and 8 points for winning four rounds of playoffs)

Academics = 12 points (4 points for winning the regional championship and 8 points for earning second place in the state)

Total = 56 points (10th place out of 191 high schools at the 4A level in Texas)

Roe is a travesty

The prospect of overturning Roe v. Wade will be at the foreground of the battle over Justice Anthony Kennedy's replacement, and it should be.

Roe is judicially wrought social legislation pretending to the status of constitutional law. It is more adventurous than Miranda and Griswold, other watchwords of judicial activism from its era. It is as much a highhanded attempt to impose a settlement on a hotly contested political question as the abhorrent Dred Scott decision denying the rights of blacks. It is, in short, a travesty that a constitutionalist Supreme Court should excise from its body of work with all due haste.

Roe has been commonly misunderstood since it was handed down in 1973, in part because its supporters have been so determined to obscure its radicalism. It is commonly thought that Roe only prohibits restrictions on abortion in the first trimester, when it effectively forbids them at any time, imposing a pro-abortion regime as sweeping as anywhere in the advanced world.

Roe struck down 50 state laws and has made it all but impossible to regulate abortion, except in the narrowest circumstances. More to the point, the argument that its particular set of policy preferences is mandated by the Constitution is flatly preposterous.

Over the years, the decision's laughable constitutional inadequacy has been widely recognized. Shortly after it came down, Harvard Law School professor John Hart Ely, a supporter of legalized abortion, wrote that "Roe is bad because it is bad constitutional law, or rather because it is not constitutional law and gives almost no sense of an obligation to try to be."

The court in Roe purported to find the constitutional right to abortion in the 14th Amendment, which says that no state can "deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law."

This passage has no obvious or even subtle connection to legalized abortion (in fact, abortion laws were being tightened in the 19th century when the amendment passed). No matter. According to Blackmun, abortion is so central to liberty that no restriction on it can stand constitutional scrutiny.

He is at pains to deny that unborn children are "persons in the whole sense." As evidence, he points to clauses in the Constitution about persons that don't have "pre-natal application," e.g., the requirement that persons must be 35 or older to run for president. This is too stupid for words. Just because clauses like this refer to adults doesn't mean that minors, or unborn children, don't have rights.

The best case that can be made for Roe is that it is a mistaken decision on the books for nearly 50 years now, so it has to be honored as a precedent. But the court is not, and shouldn't be, in the practice of standing by fundamentally flawed decisions. Brown v. Board of Education overturned Plessy v. Ferguson, which upheld segregated education, almost 60 years later. Just last week, the Court overturned a labor decision from 1977.

Roe is bad law and bad democracy. It has no sound constitutional basis, and deserves to go the way of the court's other embarrassments and misfires.

Salado: Ordinanaced to Death

Dear Editor:

Barrow Brewing Company, as a general policy, normally tries not to meddle in the affairs of the local village government. Recent events however, have demonstrated that some folks at city hall apparently have no intention of reciprocating that policy. The fact that a "Special Event Ordinance" was on the agenda for discussion mere days after our recent event is a fact that would be difficult to ignore. Despite the Village Administrator's protestations to the contrary, it was obvious to us that it was indeed a response to Barrow's recent festival.

The recent quote in this publication from the Village Administrator would seem to indicate that he wants to "help" us with our festivals. The fact of the matter is that we did ask for help from the village, but the actions of the village were anything but helpful. As is customary when a large influx of visitors is expected in the village, we asked the Tourism Director that the tourism trolley be put in service that weekend. The village (via the Tourism Director) agreed to do so weeks in advance. The trolley did not run that day more than once or twice however. The one thing we asked the village for help with and it did not happen. It would have been a wonderful opportunity to show visitors to Salado the other things the village had to offer, instead new visitors to the village had to schlep up and down Main Street in the heat. When asked for a reason for this failure, depending upon whom we spoke to, we got wildly differing accounts, all of which can't be true. A "trolley-gate" has begun if you will, which was discussed at the recent Board of Alderman meeting, by the way.

The food truck ordinance is another example. We are by no means the only business that hosts food trucks, but it is an important aspect of our business. While we appreciate that the aldermen saw fit to reduce the annual fees, overall we felt that it was an attempt to increase the difficulty for food trucks to operate in the village. This obviously is not good for the prospective food truck owners and their hosts, but it also has the effect of limiting dining options for the residents of Salado.

We hosted a tie-dye event at the brewery recently. Given the frequency at which new ordinances that seem to target our business are being considered, it would not surprise us in the least to see a new tie-dye ordinance show up for discussion.

the fabulous fireworks display Saturday night in Salado, here is a bit of information all should know. This is not a Village or County sponsored event but rather a very generous offering by Billy and Vicky Helms. We should all reach out to them and say our thanks for providing the Village and our visitors a fireworks "work of art".

I am proud to be a Saladoan, an American and a friend of these two people. Thank you Billy and Vicky - AGAIN!

Salamander

Salado but for everyone," he said.

The new locations of the Salado salamander also means this: "These aquifers are more connected than we may have hypothesized in the past," Diaz said.

Diaz spoke about the benefits of water monitoring. "This helps meet ecological goals and to be sure that there is a functioning eco-system," he said.

By having management goals in place, sites can be prioritized. "We can identify ideal conditions, minimize the take of species that are threatened and identify triggers for concern," he said.

Diaz shared descriptions of the prey for the Salado salamander, many of which are microscopic in size. "Is it really more like a gumbó?" one citizen asked of the microscopic organisms in what appears to be clear water.

"That's a good term," Diaz replied.

Since 2015, with the financial backing of the Clearwater UWCD, Bell County Government and the Village of Salado, the Bell County Coalition has collected a great deal of scientific data on the species, including occupancy surveys, habitat association, collection of the populations genetic material and an examination of how it is moving between site. "We are able to track some individuals over time from their hard patterns and find their movements," he said.

"We have one of the most unique aquifer systems in the world," he said, adding the biologists have found a blind fish that lives 800 feet deep in the aquifer, blind shrimp, blind salamanders, blind leeches and blind rifflebeats. "The first blind rifflebeatle in North America was found in the Edwards Aquifer where we have found three of them," Diaz said. "This is a good indicator of water quality."

He described many of the Spring and Aquifer dwellers to the audience. "These are ancient sorts of creatures," he said.

"You have been living in harmony forever."

tional and state standards research that I have found. According to US Geological Service, estimates vary, but each person uses about 80-100 gallons of water per day. If the average residence is 2.5 people, then at the low end, the LUE would be 200 GPD, the high end would be 250 GPD, not 100 GPD. "The Texas Water Development Board in 2015 Study states the average water use per day for a single family residence is 246 GPD," Fleischer said. "The reason this is important is not to the low-end user such as Salado Masonic Lodge with its 20 gallons per month average, but to the residential users who may fall within the National and State averages but be much higher than the low-ball 100 GPD figure used for LUEs," Fleischer said. "This is also important for every single commercial user because their LUE rate will be based on what I can only assume is their total yearly usage divided by 365," Fleischer said. Fleischer quoted studies that show the average water use for restaurants is 24 GPD per seat. "If a restaurant has 100 seats, that is 2,400 gpd .. or roughly 24 LUEs for an impact fee that could reach $90,000," Fleischer said. The study findings posted on powerhousedynamics.com states that churches use "up to 2 gallons per day per seat," Fleischer said. "Hotels and B&Bs are about half of an LUE from the research I have found," Fleischer said. "A 16-room B&B could be on the hook for eight LUEs, or more than $24,000. At $100 per room per night, that B&B would have to rent 240 room nights to pay for the privilege of tying in." Fleischer added that these costs are in addition to the burden of decommissioning the current operating septic or on-site treatment systems. "For my own selfish interest, Salado Masonic Lodge meets no more than four times a month for meetings and practices. We have about 35 dues paying members at $100 each.... To pay the Impact Fee would cripple our lodge. This Impact Fee is on top of the cost to decommission our septic and dig a line to the road." "Impact Fees are to come from new growth, not already developed properties," Fleischer said. Dunifer said he opposed implementing the Impact Fee on those 130 properties that are "being forced to tie into the sewer system whether we need it or not." "We are being forced to buy into something we do not need," he said of the commercial property he and his wife own at 402 N. Main St. "We incorporated so that Belton could not annex us," he said. "The board of aldermen should try to do as little as possible in Salado." Implementing the impact fee on top of the increased property taxes would have a negative result, he said. "You're going to see more closed doors," he said. John Newman told aldermen that he is working with a developer in the area who is building a system of its own and will offer sewer to other properties. "He will not be charging an Impact Fee," Newman said. He said that the Village system would be under the capacity needed to properly function and would require supplemental water being put into it to make it operate. "It will be two years before a major development will have any impact on the capacity," he said. Alderman Fred Brown said that he was opposed to implementing the Impact Fee for the initial customers. "I have no problem with applying it to new construction," he said.

Modern-day owners of historic Capt. Robert B. Halley House

BY CHARLENE CARSON
LOCAL HISTORIAN

PART 6 of 6:
Recap: Capt. Robert B. Halley and his wife Lydia moved to Texas in 1853, settling near San Antonio. In 1855 they moved to the Salado area, settling in a neighborhood of what is now Prairie Dell. In 1859, Halley bought lots on the south side of Salado Creek, built a log house, and moved his family into the village of Salado. In 1869 they built a beautiful two-story home on the north edge of Salado known as the Halley House. The Halley family was blessed with eight children, two born in Arkansas and six born in Salado, making a total of four girls and four boys. After Capt. Halley's death in 1875, Lydia Halley continued to live in the home so her children could attend Salado College. After the youngest child became a teenager, Lydia left Salado in 1895 and moved to Dallas and made her home with two of her daughters who were teaching school with the Dallas Public Schools. In 1908, Mrs. Halley sold the house and five acres of land to C.W. Blalock and S.T. Berry. Even though both of these families had been living in Houston for several years, it was not until after Blalock's death in 1933, that the house was sold to Paul and Gertie Pirtle. The Pirtles lived in the house for several years before selling to James Walker and Lella Dixon Cain who owned the Halley house for 32 years before selling to Iva Lea Worley Barton.

IVA LEA WORLEY BARTON, FIFTH OWNER

1992-2015, 23 YEARS:
March 17, 1992 was a happy day for the Halley House. After sitting empty and deserted for thirty years, someone saw the potential of the old house. Iva Lea Worley Barton purchased the house and the 27.02-acre tract of land surrounding the house. The house was sold on behalf of the Cain Estate by Dixon H. Cain, Trustee of the J.W. Cain Trust. This transaction is recorded in the Bell County Deed Record, Volume 2817 Pages 560, 561, and 562.

When Iva Lea Barton purchased the Halley House, she gave it a new life and a new purpose by opening it as a bed and breakfast inn known as the Halley House Bed & Breakfast. Mrs. Barton approached local realtor Larry Sands and his wife Cathy to manage the new bed and breakfast inn. With their interest in the preservation of historic homes and their experience in already managing other local bed and breakfast inns, Mrs. Barton was confident that she had chosen the right couple to make her Salado business venture a success.

Iva Lea Worley Barton grew up on a farm near Lamesa, Texas and graduated with a degree in Home Economics from Texas Tech in Lubbock.¹ She married David Worley, Sr., another Texas Tech graduate, in 1947.² Worley was active in the radio business until his death in 1964.³

In 1973, Iva Lea married Fred Barton, former Dean of the graduate school of Abilene Christian University.⁴ Iva Lee encouraged Christian education and supported several Church of Christ schools including the Brentwood Christian School in Austin. In recognition of her encouragement and support, the performing arts building on the Brentwood Campus is named the "Iva Lea Worley Barton Theater."⁵

During their time in Salado, the Bartons, in 1990, built a beautiful two-story Victorian style home at 421 Rose Way in the Victorian Oaks subdivision. They furnished their new home with antiques from The Royal Emporium and other Salado shops. While in Salado, they were members of the local Church of Christ.

One of the biggest challenges that lay ahead for the Halley house was the completion of the renovation which had been begun by the Cain Family. But, Mrs. Barton, who had an eye for design and an interest in preserving old houses, was not deterred by the work that needed to be done.

The exterior of the house and grounds were fairly complete except for one thing. During its farming days, the property was surrounded by a wire fence. Mrs. Barton could hardly wait to take down that wire fence and put up the pretty, white picket fence that stands in front of the house today.

With the new fence up, Mrs. Barton turned her attention to completing the interior of the house.

The plumbing and electrical work were updated. The sheetrock on the walls was painted, and wallpaper was selected and hung. All of the heating and air conditioning units and hot water heaters were re-installed as well as all the plumbing fixtures for the seven bathrooms and the kitchen. There was a place for a kitchen but it was empty with no appliances.

The upstairs rooms of the carriage house were still livable, but the downstairs had become a storage place for old tires and castoffs of days gone by.

After several weeks of hard dirty work, the newly completely renovated house was ready for its first overnight visitors.

The Halley House Bed & Breakfast opened in October of 1992 with Larry and Cathy Sands owning the business and all the furnishings in the house. "Everyone was excited to see lights on after 30 years," said Cathy.⁶ The Sands owned and operated the business for several years before selling to Rick and Shannon Ashe of Salado.

At some point, Mrs. Barton bought all the furnishings and on 1 July 2004, she transferred the Halley House and a 2.62-acre parcel of land to McKay Barton Real Estate LP, which was Mrs. Barton's son, David Worley Jr. This transaction is recorded in the Bell County Deed Record, Volume 5440, Page 735, 737, 738. Mrs. Barton's granddaughter ran the business until 2009.

During their time in Salado, Fred Barton died so Iva Lea bought a home in Austin to be near her son David. Iva Lea Barton left Salado around 2012. Mrs. Barton died on May 2, 2016 at the age of 93. She was buried in Lubbock, Texas.⁷

KATHY MICHAEL OWNER SINCE
NOVEMBER 2015

Meanwhile, on 5 November 2015 McKay Barton Real Estate sold the Halley House and a 2.62-acre tract of land, more or less at Public Auction. It was purchased by Michael Holdings Group as recorded in the Bell County Deed Record, Volume 9459, Page 570.

SEE HALLEY HOUSE, PAGE 4B

At the time of the sale, the house had seven bedrooms and five private bathrooms, two dining rooms and two full kitchens. The property had two outbuildings, including the carriage house and a red barn sitting at the back of the property.

Today the Halley House is owned by prominent educator and publisher Kathy Michael, founder and president of KAMICO Instructional Media.

Michael says that she has long appreciated the Halley House as a vital cultural landmark. "I was drawn to its history, charm, and unique architecture," she said. "When the opportunity came to purchase the property, I jumped at it, eager to restore the house to its former splendor."

"The ongoing renovations have not been easy or simple, as the property had fallen into a state of disrepair," she said.

However, Ms. Michael is committed to the painstaking task of maintaining the home's historical integrity. She continues to oversee the meticulous restoration of the home's exterior, grounds, and beautiful interior.

Keenly aware of the home's value to the Village of Salado and the State of Texas, she says that she looks forward to returning the property to a prominent role in the community once the renovations are complete.

Ms. Michael said that she is excited about the opportunities that lie ahead. She is certain that when the house is fully restored, all residents of Salado will be able to point to a landmark they are proud of.

During its 150-year history, the Halley House has had eight owners. They were the builders of the home, Robert Halley and wife Lydia Halley who owned the home for 39 years, 1869-1908; the C.W. Blalock and S.T. Berry Families, who owned the home for 26 years, 1908-1934 and Paul Pirtle and wife Gertie Pirtle, who owned the home for 26 years, 1934-1960.

James Walker Cain and wife Lella Dixon Cain owned the Halley House for 32 years, 1960-1992; followed by Iva Lea Worley Barton, owner for 12 years, 1992-2004; McKay Barton Real Estate LP, owner for 9 years, 2004-2015; and now Kathy Michael, an enterprising young lady who purchased the house in 2015.

As the owners changed so did the house. At one-point candle light gave way to battery powered lights and then electric lights. Fireplaces and wood burning stoves gave way to room heaters and then central heat and air. Indoor plumbing allowed bathrooms and modern kitchens to be installed.

Like most old houses, there are stories and rumors that have become legends of the house. One associated with the Halley House is that for a time, the old house was the home of Angelina Dickenson, the "baby of the Alamo." Historians have been unable to verify this claim so the story remains a legend.

In addition to legends associated with an old historic home are the memories of those who lived within its walls. In this home, every room in the house is filled with memories; the dining room where the families ate holiday meals gathered around a table too small for the crowd; the Christmas tree standing next to the fireplace in the front parlor; family, friends, and neighbors huddled around the radio listening to the news of the day; and the many nights mama tucked the children into bed after listening to their bed time prayers.

The Halley House now stands with columns and shutters and a white picket fence, all of it somewhat scarred by the hand of time and neglect; yet now a new owner is making plans to bring new life and purpose to this grand, old, beloved, historical home on the main street of Salado, Texas.

Miller Springs Nature Center reopens

The City of Belton Parks & Recreation Department, the City of Temple Parks & Recreation Department and the United States Army Corps of Engineers will co-host a formal reopening ceremony for the Miller Springs Nature Center on July 14.

Miller Springs Nature Center is a 260 acre scenic natural area located on Highway 2271 north of the Lake Belton Spillway between the cities of Belton and Temple, TX.

The re-opening ceremony will begin promptly at 9 a.m. with city officials from both the City of Belton and City of Temple. Also in attendance will be Texas House Representative, Hugh Shine, representing District 55.

After learning of the Center's closure in 2017 and the community's interest in keeping the area open to the public, the City of Temple entered into a partnership with the City of Belton and the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers to develop a cooperative plan to reopen the area in the summer of 2018.

The reopening of Miller Springs can be attributed to the goodwill of three separate forms of government, the united voice of the people, and the servant hearts of an army of volunteers," stated Mayor of Belton, Marion Grayson.

"We want to take this opportunity to thank the community for their hard work and persistence in helping reopen the Miller Springs Nature Center, said Tim Davis, Mayor of Temple. "We invite everyone to come out and explore everything Miller Springs has to offer. It is truly a remarkable place, right here in our own backyard."

The Miller Springs Nature Center is open from 8 a.m. – dusk each day of the year. The area features scenic overlooks, natural winding trails, water ways and wildlife.

For additional information on the Miller Springs Nature Center, contact the City of Belton Parks & Recreation Department at 254-933-5860 or the City of Temple Parks & Recreation Department at 254-298-5690. For individuals or groups interested in volunteering, contact the City of Belton Parks & Recreation Department.

This is a family friendly workshop, and artists as young as five years old can craft long lasting, meaningful art. "It offers a whole new side of the glass world," Salado Glassworks artist Otto says. "I never had this chance to experience this medium as a kid, and it's exciting to be a part of offering that experience for families now."

Online reservations for fusing are now open. To find out more and grab your reservation slot, visit: <http://saladoglassworks.com/upcoming-events/>.

Dates for the sessions are July 11-14, 18-21, 25-28 and Aug. 1-4 and 8-11.

Georgio Graf as Tonweya in Salado Legends

Salado Legends is privileged to have Georgio Graf to play the role of Tonweya, a Tonkawa Scout, in the 2018 performances at Tablerock's Goodnight Amphitheater July 21, 28 and August 4.

Born in the Philippine Islands, Graf spent his first three years in Australia. His stepfather was a US Army enlisted man and Graf gathered no moss as he grew up in North and South Carolina, California and in the Midwest. Polished to a high gloss, Graf welcomed the last duty station for the family at Fort Hood in Killeen.

Adapting through many moves and multiple schools he ran track, was elected to student councils and discovered poetry along with composing short stories. At Killeen High School Graf excelled in Forensics Speech, winning top honors at district, area, regional and state meets. He graduated from Killeen High School with a full scholarship to Wesleyan College in Fort Worth.

After three semesters of living in one town, the wanderlust caught up with Graf and he was off to the East Coast to follow his acting and dancing dream.

For over a decade, Graf danced in New York for touring companies on the east coast and on and off Broadway. He appeared in Our Town, Romeo and Juliet, Tale of Chelm, and Grease. He also was cast as "Joey" in an ABC After School Special Production of "The Best of Friends," produced by Joe Palermo.

Graf was also recruited by Tonya Dantzler, a top 40 pop artist, to dance with her renowned dancing troupe, led by Dantzler herself.

Today, as a former Fortune 100 business manager and a Cancer survivor, Graf has settled down to living happily in his home located on several acres in Belton, Texas enhanced by a gentle creek running nearby. He also cares for fifteen unadoptable (to anyone but Graf) older dogs, several cats and a flock of chickens that produce more eggs than he can possibly eat. His mother and sister live close enough for frequent visits.

Georgio Graf to play the role of Tonweya, a Tonkawa Scout, in the 2018 performances of Salado Legends.

His muse not fully satisfied, Graf became a member of Salado Legends cast in 2012 as Mr. Orgain. This year Graf has transformed the Tonkawa dance into a magical moment while adding more meaning to Salado Legends.

 declarer would give himself only a 50-50 shot at making the contract. But the fact is that South can improve on his prospects by adopting an altogether different line of play.

He should ruff a low club at trick two, then cash the K-A of trumps and ruff dummy's eight of clubs. He now makes his stab at fame and fortune by playing the A-K and another diamond.

As the cards lie, West would win the diamond and be forced to return a heart or a club, either of which would allow South to score the rest of the tricks.

It is true that declarer needs a considerable amount of luck to achieve the winning position, but it costs him nothing at all to try. If East winds up on lead after the third diamond, South would still have the heart finesse to fall back on.

This type of situation arises in many deals. Declarer notes at the outset that he has roughly a 50 percent chance for the slam if he relies exclusively on a finesse.

He then seeks a way to improve on this percentage, and once he reaches this point in his thinking, he is only a short step away from finding the winning line of play.

Greater Earless Lizards feed on insects

The Greater Earless Lizard (Cophosaurus texanus) is the only member of its genus that is found in the United States, it is primarily of Texan occurrence. While it can be commonly observed throughout the Big Country, Edwards Plateau, Trans-Pecos, and south Texas thorn-scrub eco-regions it barely occurs in the central portions of the Panhandle, roughly ranging from Amarillo southward. It also occurs westward to central Arizona, and then southward into central Mexico.

The habitat that this relatively conspicuous lizard prefers is arid to semi-arid rocky arroyos, rocky hill-sides, and rocky fields. Basically, if there is an area with abounding rocks, this lizard likely thrives there. The jumbled masses of large rocks strewn along caliche county roads are frequently utilized as basking and hunting sites.

The Greater Earless Lizard is taxonomical-

Wild About Texas

ly divided into two races: the Southwestern Earless Lizard (C.t.scitulus) in the Trans-Pecos area and the Texas Earless Lizard (C.t. texanus) everywhere eastward. These two races are almost identical save for a few color discrepancies. The Texas Earless Lizard is the more dull-colored of the two races, with the background coloration ranging from brown to tan to gray, depending on the soil substrate on which it lives. The darker the soil, the darker the background coloration of the lizard. There are occasionally a double row of faint spots that run lengthwise down the spine, but the most conspicuous markings along the back are the two black lateral bars that occur about midway on the body. These bars are much more apparent on the males than on the females. The Southwestern race is patterned the same as its more easterly cousin except for the background coloration in front of the lateral bars tend to be shades of red, while the back end and back legs are shades of light green. The scales on the back are small and granular in appearance and texture, and as the common name implies, there are no external ear openings.

Males are the larger sex, achieving total lengths of up to seven inches. Just over half of this total length is comprised of the tail. The tail is actually the most conspicuous markings that are noticed on this species. While patterned similar to the dorsum on top, the underside of the tail is marked with large black bars. These bars are eye-catching as this lizard scampers from a potential predator for it curls its tail above its back and waves it back and forth in an almost teasing manner when it comes to rest on the safety of a distant rock.

Greater Earless Lizards, like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that they do not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather are dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. They are active throughout the day from early April to October, and unlike many other reptile species, the high metabolism of this lizard enables it to be observed as they bask on their rocky habitats during the hottest part of the summer afternoons.

This species of lacertian feeds exclusively on insects, particularly ones that fit easily into its small mouth. Moths and flies are apparent favorites, although any small beetles are gobbled up with enthusiasm.

The Greater Earless Lizard is oviparous, which is a fancy way of saying that it lays eggs. After emerging from the winter-long brumation period (reptiles do not hibernate in the true sense of the word), males will search out females to mate. After mating, the female will lay a small clutch of eggs (between two and seven, average five) in moisture retaining soil. After approximately two months of incubation, the two inch long young replicas of their parents emerge prepared to fend for and care for themselves.

These lizards are gregarious baskers and many are observed while holding their heads up high while perched on their rocky fortress.
