When Christmas in October opens its doors at 9 a.m. on Oct. 12, there will be only 73 days before Christmas. For many, it's never too early to think about Christmas!

One of the best places to view the latest Christmas decorations and styles all on display in a charming setting is at the Salado Chamber of Commerce Ladies Auxiliary Christmas in October.

Christmas in October will be open 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 12-13 at The Venue by Inn on the Creek at College Street. Admission is $3 per adult.

This annual event is a preview to the Christmas season and will feature unique Christmas decorations, fall fashions from local and area merchants, jewelry, children's clothing, food, gifts, and home décor specialty items.

Plus, the Ladies Auxiliary Bake Sale is always a highly-anticipated part of Christmas in October.

For more information, visit www.salado.com/calendar or contact the Salado Chamber of Commerce at 254-947-5040.

The Salado Ladies Auxiliary strives to promote events and activities which enhance, improve and promote the community of Salado. Christmas in October is one of these events in which the money earned is given back to community organizations such as the Salado Volunteer Fire Department, Salado Family Relief, Salado Community Chorus, AWARE Central Texas, Salado Volunteers and the Body of Christ Dental Clinic. Funds also are used to provide annual scholarships for local high school students to attend college or technical school.

Tourism launches marketing effort

BY TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado Tourism recently signed a year-long contract for the lease of two digital billboards, spending uncommitted advertising dollars from the 2018 fiscal year for the $900 per month expense.

Salado Tourism has contracted for southbound billboards in McClennan County and in Williamson County (Jarrell) for $450 each per month.

Tourism director Chadley Hollas told members of the Tourism Advisory Board at their Sept. 27 meeting that the rotating billboard ads could be updated in real time to reflect upcoming events and to partner with local businesses that are producing their own events, such as the upcoming Salado Bourbon Excursion at Alexander's Distillery and Inn on the Creek and the upcoming Barton House Wine & Food Experience.

The Tourism department is developing a process and policy for the advertising partnership for the digital billboards. The Tourism office will work with local businesses in scheduling and planning the partnered ads.

Other billboard ads in the rotation schedule will include branding images to bring Salado as a destination to people's minds.

"The goal is not to get them to pull off the highway right now," he said, but to think about Salado as a weekend or weekday getaway.

The digital billboards each have six slots per minute with 10 seconds each during that minute. The digital ads could be the same each time or combinations, depending upon the advertiser.

"This gives us the opportunity to change the billboards," Hollas said, "whereas static billboards are very costly to change."

"For the first time ever, tourism has the ability to in real time update a variety of billboard campaigns with the strategic purpose of promoting the Salado brand and encouraging overnight stays," said Will Lowery, chairman of the Tourism Advisory board that has met weekly with Tourism Director Chadley Hollas for the past three months to develop a marketing and advertising program.

In addition to the billboard advertising, Salado Tourism will spend $70,000 for marketing and advertising in the 2019 fiscal year, including a $25,000 contract with AJR Media for electronic media work that began in August and continues through August 2019.

The contract with AJR Media is for $8,000 for behavioral, contextual, channel specific, site remarketing (Display website advertising); $10,000 for native website advertising for two articles that include image, copy and logo and $7,000 for Facebook and Instagram advertising.

Tourism is also contracting with Breaking Record Media for updating and posting to its own social media channels.

The Tourism department will launch a Visit Salado smart phone app as well as the launch of a new tourism website visitsaladotexas.com in the coming weeks.

The Visit Salado app will work across Android and iOS systems. It will provide wayfinding via a completely customized map.

All tourism associated business will have the opportunity to be part of the "Visit Salado App" platform, and existing members of the Salado Chamber of Commerce will automatically have their basic business information within the app.

The $70,000 marketing and advertising expense is a third of the total Hotel Occupancy Tax budget of $217,000 approved by aldermen in September. The budget increases occupancy taxes from $160,000 to $210,000.

It anticipates $100,851 in personnel expenses, $24,588 for lease expenses and $70,000 for marketing.

The Salado Mermaid Parade was a FIN-tastic gathering of families for the second annual event as hundreds lined Main Street in downtown Salado on Oct. 6. Following the parade down Main Street from the northern end of Pace Park Dr. to Royal Street, folks enjoyed the displays, stories, games and fun along the banks of Salado Creek for the Sirena Fest, honoring Salado's own famous mermaid brought to Salado more than 30 years ago by Troy Kelley. ## P&Z approves requests in HD

Salado Planning & Zoning Commission took less than 15 minutes to approve two requests by property owners in the Historic District on Oct. 3.

The commission approved a request by Tyler Fletcher at 945 N. Main St. to add on to the residential portion of his building. The addition will be cedar with a metal roof to match the existing structure. Windows and doors will be selected from the applicant's supply of "antique" doors and windows. The commission also approved a request by Barrow Brewing Co. to place an auxiliary building on the northeast portion of their property.

Barrow Brewing Co. is asking to place an auxiliary building on the northeast portion of their property. The owners, Graydon and KD Hill, provided specifications of the pre-built building from the manufacturer.

Permission for any new construction, signs, additions to buildings, auxiliary buildings or demolitions in the Historic District must be given by the P&Z Commission before building or sign permits can be issued.

P&Z alternate GeorgeAnn Valentine resigned her position before the Sept. 25 meeting and no new alternate has been appointed to the board.

The P&Z commission also heard a short announcement from village administrator on zoning of recreational properties in the Village to reflect the recommendations set forth in the Village Comprehensive Plan. The P&Z Commission will hold a public hearing 4 p.m. Oct. 23 for a conditional use permit to allow for the use of metal siding on a residential building on property zoned Single Family Residential (SF-7) located at 2919 Chisholm Trail in Salado.

Upon recommendation of the P&Z Commission, the Village Board of Aldermen will also hold a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Municipal Building.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Irrational exuberance?

The Markets

The stock market, as represented by the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX), nosed down to 2885.57 closing the first week of the fourth quarter down 0.97 percent. It has struggled to rise to the record it set in mid-September or to do much better than where it was in late January but seems to hit a wall each time. To provide some context, the record high SPX close on January 26 was 2872.87, meaning that last week the SPX was only 0.44 percent higher than it was in the first month of the year. It is easy to read or hear the news that the market is at or near a record high level and miss the fact that it hasn't risen much at all this year. The Index remains up a very respectable 13 percent from this time last year.

There is a factor in the market rise over the last year that may merit some serious attention. Fundamentally, stocks fall into categories measured by two characteristics. The first is size. There are large companies, mid-sized companies, and small companies represented in the U.S. stock markets, otherwise known as, "large-cap", "mid-cap", and "small-cap". The second characteristic is based on whether the price of the stock of a company is based on the underlying value of its assets or alternatively, based on the anticipated future growth of the company's profits or "earnings." Over the long-term, value stocks have outperformed growth stocks, and small-cap value stocks have done the best of all.

Historically, at the tail end of a bull market, growth stocks tend to take off and

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

value stocks get left behind. That appears to be happening now. Unfortunately, those "growth" stocks have a historic tendency to come crashing back to reality with little or no notice while the value stocks tend to better hold on to their gains. To illustrate how upside down this market is, so far this year, the Dow Jones large-cap growth index is up 13.5 percent while the historically best performing domestic stock index, the Dow Small Cap Value Index, is down 0.9 percent.

The last time this size and value inversion was this severe was in the late 1990s, described famously by Fed Chairman Greenspan as a time of "irrational exuberance." Two years later the bear market of 2000-2002 was in full swing as growth stocks gave up their gains, declining as much as 80 percent in two years. Is this a repeat of that? Only time will tell, but the similarities are worth watching.

The 10-year U.S. Treasury note closed on Friday yielding 3.230 percent, a dramatic rise in the past few weeks. Gold rose 0.88 percent to $1,206.70 but is still down about 9 percent this year. Oil rose 0.99 percent to $74.29 and is now up 42 percent from a year ago.

The Economy

The U.S. economy is on a tear, and from the market reaction this week, one that may be a bit over the top. The Labor Department announced on Friday that the U.S. unemployment rate fell to 3.7 percent in September, the lowest rate since December of 1969. Wages are up 2.8 percent from last September and net employment has grown now for 96 months, the longest period since records have been kept. Ironically, it was the unemployment and labor reports that were given credit for the market declines.

Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell in a speech noted that we are seeing a "Remarkably positive set of economic circumstances." When asked how long this economic good news could continue, he replied, "...effectively indefinitely." Upon reading that quote, our alarm flags went up. One of the more reliable hallmarks of the late stages of an economic expansion or a bull market is when one hears or reads "this could go on forever" or words to that effect.

In a bit of news that illustrates to us why the trade balance is really a non-issue, the Chinese government announced it would be selling $3 billion worth of dollar-denominated Chinese bonds. Note that this is not a sale of U.S. Treasury bonds, but new bonds (borrowing) by the Chinese government on which they are asking investors to purchase Chinese bonds using U.S. dollars and promises to pay the interest in dollars and then return the principal in dollars at maturity. The backing for the Chinese currency is primarily its dollar holdings.

Thanks for National Night Out, Chamber golf tournament

Dear Editor:

A huge thank you and high praise to Dave Swarthout and his team for an incredible golf tournament benefiting The Salado Chamber of Commerce this past Thursday. This was by far the best Salado Chamber tournament in the last decade. It was very well attended with local resident golfers and folks that traveled in for the tournament, and lots of local sponsorship signs and banners on display. It was well organized with easy and efficient check in and an impressive group of dedicated volunteers. Thank you!

Please thank Dave for his tireless and selfless effort with pulling this off, this is a significant fundraiser for the Chamber and helps bring our Central Texas community closer together.

I had an enjoyable golfing experience and my guests felt warm Salado hospitality.

Dear Editor:

Thank you, Chief Ash and other law enforcement workers, for organizing the Salado Neighbors Night Out event.

It was a time of fun, music, food and entertainment that was enjoyable for all, old and young alike. Most importantly, it was an opportunity for fellowship.

Atticus Finch Was on the Wrong Side

Rich Lowry

It's time for "To Kill a Mockingbird" to give up its treasured place in American culture.

The 1960 novel by Harper Lee was published to instant acclaim, has sold more than 30 million copies and is ubiquitous in high school curricula. The 1962 movie version, starring Gregory Peck, is a classic in itself and won three Academy Awards.

But nothing is forever, even for a book commonly called "timeless." Lee's novel is deeply out of sympathy with a moment when on college campuses, and in the culture more broadly, due process isn't what it used to be, when it is often thought to be a hateful act to insist that allegations of sexual misconduct be proven.

A refresher on the story: The setting is Depression-era Alabama. Small-town lawyer Atticus Finch (played by Peck in the movie) is unpopular in town because he has decided to take on the defense of a black man named Tom Robinson who is accused of rape by a young white woman.

And this is where the story, in contemporary terms, goes off the rails. Atticus Finch didn't #BelieveAllWomen. He didn't take an accusation at face value. He defended an alleged rapist, vigorously and unremittingly, making use of every opportunity provided to him by the norms of the Anglo-American system of justice. He did it despite considerable social pressure to simply believe the accuser.

In a gripping courtroom scene, Finch cross-examines Mayella Ewell, the 19-year-old daughter of an abusive drunk from a dirt-poor family who is Robinson's accuser. With all the vehemence and emotion she can muster, Ewell insists that Robinson attacked her at her house.

Without mercy, Finch takes apart her account. In contemporary internet argot, he "destroys" her. He brushes right by her tears. He doesn't care about her feelings, only the facts. He exposes contradictions in her story and shreds her credibility, especially with the dramatic revelation that Robinson doesn't have use of his left arm when he stands up at the defense table (he is alleged to have hit her with his left hand).

It is revealed that Ewell is lying. She had made an advance on Robinson and gotten caught by her vicious, racist father. The charge of rape against Robinson was a cover story, although the bigoted jury convicts him anyway.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" stands firmly for the proposition that an accusation can be false, that unpopular defendants presumed guilty must and should be defended, and that it is admirable and brave to withstand the crowd when it wants to cast aside the normal protections of justice.

Exactly what has made Atticus Finch such an honored figure in our culture would make him a very inconvenient man at many college campuses today, where charges of sexual misconduct are adjudicated without the accused being allowed to confront the accuser or make use of other key features of our system of justice. He didn't believe that someone being accused of something is enough to establish his wrongdoing.

Atticus Finch is not the man for this moment, but we need him, and his reasoned yet unshakable commitment to fairness and justice, more than ever.

I'm Not a Job Creator

By JACKIE BOBERG

Last year, Republicans unilaterally passed tax cuts that disproportionately benefited the wealthy and corporations. By giving tax cuts to wealthy Americans, particularly investors, Republicans claimed their tax bill would lead to substantial job and wage growth. Unsurprisingly, this has not happened. As an investor myself, I can tell you why: it's because I'm not a job creator.

For decades, conservatives have credited the investor class with job growth, but the truth is that they've done so simply to justify giving the wealthy a tax cut. The truth is that even though I am an investor, I'm no more a job creator than any other consumer. Our economy is 70% consumer driven, meaning that the vast majority of American jobs only exist because regular people go out and spend their money on things that they want and need, not because rich investors like me put our money in the stock market. When, as a consumer, I get in line to buy my iPhone I am as much a job creator as the person in front of me, regardless of the many millions I may have invested in Apple stock.

Some may argue that large employers like Apple could not exist, or employ anyone, without investments from people like me, but that's not really true either. Companies like Apple only exist if consumers buy their goods and services. For example, if the next five iPhones models were terrible and everyone stopped buying Apple products, there is nothing investors could do to save it. The best they could do would be propping it up with more funds to hold off the inevitable collapse.

Despite what some might think about the stock market, an increase in Apple share prices does not mean more jobs have been created at the company, or that Apple has more working capital. Apple shares, like shares for any other company, becomes more valuable because the actual business (sales of iPhones, iPods, etc.) has grown. Apple's growing stock prices isn't the cause of its success, rather, it's the result. The consistent influx of cash from consumers is what has enabled it to grow to the size it is now. The same can be said for all companies.

Customers, empowered by a healthy economy in which they have the funds to consume products and services, create jobs. Regardless of what investors do or do not do, if customers do not buy their products a business will collapse and its workers will be out of a job. If all I do is invest money (albeit, strategically) in different funds, and company shares, hoping to see some return from it, I am not hiring anyone, and I am certainly not raising wages. I am but one part of our economic system, and not nearly the most important. I am simply trading investments with other investors, not building companies or creating jobs.

Despite this, Trump's administration is looking into giving investors like myself another tax cut, this time by indexing to inflation the cost basis used to calculate the capital gains rate. Doing so, along with pushing Tax Cuts 2.0, would be an economic disaster for the working class. Not only will it cost $600 billion to make last year's tax cuts permanent, but indexing the capital gains rate to inflation is estimated to be another $100 billion added to the deficit. None of these changes are in the working class's favor.

Polls have already proven last year's Tax Cuts and Jobs Act is more unpopular than it's ever been. This is because the truth that it was just a giveaway to the wealthy has been made clear by study after study. We cannot allow Republicans to campaign on the lie that the middle class is better off than they were last year, and we should not allow them to pass further tax cuts that go straight to the top 1%. I didn't need a tax cut last year, and I won't create jobs if I'm given another one. If Congress wants to reward job creators, it should stop giving investors like me preferential treatment and start helping the real job creators in this country: the American people.

Robinson thwarts Eagles' run-game

By LARNCE BARKER
SALADO SPORTS

The Robinson Rockets found the answer to Salado's slot-T offense, holding the Eagles to 209 yards and no Eagle managed more than 100 yards on the ground as the Rockets won 27-7 to drop the Eagles to 3-3 and 1-1 in district on Oct. 5.

The Eagles won the coin toss to defer to the second half. The Rockets spread the Eagles defense out and used a variety of pass and run plays to get down the field. After a seven-play drive Robinson's Jordan Rogers scored up the middle from 10 yards out with 9:28 left in the 1st quarter. The Rocket missed the PAT to take a 6-0 lead.

The Eagles first series from offense started with a delay of game and started the game 1st & 15 from their own 37 yard line. Salado would go 3 and out and Wrook Brown would punt the ball 41 yards to Robinson's 16 yard line.

The Eagle's defense rose up on the Rocket's next series and forced a punt to give Salado the ball back. Salado had trouble on their next series and all night offensively to get their groove with the slot-T offense and were forced to punt again. Brown shanked the Eagles punt for a net of 15 yards to give the Rockets great field position.

Salado's defensive front played tough to force the Rocket's into a punting situation after the illegal forward pass and a loss of down. On the punt attempt, Salado linebacker Rustin Hale rushed and blocked the Rockets' punt and lineman Tommie Barker recovered the blocked kick.

The Eagles could not capitalize on the good field position, fumbling on the seventh play of the drive to Robinson.

Robinson pulled out the 'double pass' and Jake Walker connected with Noah Richardson for a 63 yard TD pass. The PAT was good and with 45 seconds left in the 1st quarter Robinson lead 13-0.

Brown sparked the Salado Offense with a 33 yard run and an Eagle first down. On the ninth play of the drive Hutton Haire took the 4th and eight snap and pitched the football to Brown and Brown passed to swing-man Tyler Oglesby who was interfered with in the end-zone. The 15 yard Robinson interference penalty gave the Eagles first and goal at the 8 yard line.

Connor Cook would carry the 4 yards but was held for no gain on second down at the 4 yard line. On third and goal from the Robinson 4 yard line, Haire's pass to Brown would fall incomplete. Hunter Turk took a fourth down hand off and was stopped at the one yard line.

The Rockets drove the length of the field, scoring on a 21 yard TD run from Brandon Pritchett on the seventh play of the drive. The PAT was good and with 5:45 left in the second quarter Robinson increased their lead to 20-0 over the Salado Eagles.

Salado went three-and-out on their first possession of the second half.

After a scoreless third quarter, Rockets QB Rogers would score again on a 10 yard TD run to bring the score to 27-0 with 9:50 left in the fourth quarter.

The Eagles would spoil the Rocket's shut out on the second play on the next series when Reid Vincent would run 68 yards for the Salado touchdown. Brown would tack on the PAT to bring the score to 27-7 with 9:01 left in the 4th quarter.

With the loss, Salado drops to 1-1 along with Waco Connally and Lorena. Madisonville is on top of district at 2-0. Robinson is 1-0 and Fairfield is in the cellar at 0-2 in 4A-DII District 8 play.

This seven team district is a tough district. The parity is also seen in the rest of 4A-DII Region 2 also.

Salado (3-3 & 1-1) gets the week off to prepare for the Lorena Leopards (1-1) Oct. 19 with 7:30 p.m. kick-off at Eagle Field.

Sub-V split with Rockets

JV Eagles 22
Robinson 6

Salado Eagles JV scored touchdowns in the third and fourth quarter to beat the Robinson Rockets 22-6 on Oct. 4, improving to 3-2 on the year.

Noah Mescher returned a third quarter kick for 80 yards for a touchdown. He added the two-point conversion.

Mescher also scored later in the third on a 20 yard run. The PAT failed. Robinson scored its only TD in the third and Salado led 14-6 going into the fourth quarter.

In the fourth, Chris Bates scored on a 31 yard run. Preston Culp ran in the two-point conversion.

The offense was led by Logan Pitts, Josue Loza, Blake Elliott and Preston Culp.

The JV defense was led by Lucas Morvant with an interception, Ryder Haas, Nic Sibbitt and Daniel Frisby.

Ninth Eagles 8
Robinson 12

Toby Rios ran for more than 200 yards, including a 73 yard touchdown in the third quarter of the Salado

Freshman Toby Rios ran for more than 200 yards against Robinson.

Eagles ninth grade 12-8 loss to the Robinson Rockets on Oct. 4.

Tailback Aiden Wilson converted the two-point try for Salado, giving Salado its only lead of the game, 8-6. However, Robinson added another TD in the fourth quarter for the win, dropping the Eagles' record to 2-3.

They will face Austin Travis next.

Rios, Blake Volk and

Gavin Keyser led the offense.

Chase Joiner, Aaron Tubbs and Nolan Williams led the Eagles defense.

"This was another hard fought district game that we were a play or two away from victory," said Coach Ramiro Mojica. "The athletes played their hearts out and we are proud of the work they put into this game. We will move forward."

After Taylor win, ladies fall to Burnet

Salado fell in three close sets to the Burnet Lady Bulldogs on Oct. 5, pushing the home team to extra points in the second set: 25-22, 27-25 and 25-21.

The Lady Eagles put together four straight points in the second set to take their biggest lead, 13-8 as the teams fought back and forth. Burnet had back-to-back three-point runs to knot the game at 15-15. The teams tied again at 23-23. Facing the loss, Landry Rogers got a kill to tie the game at 24-24. Reagan Thrasher followed with a kill to give Salado a 25-24 lead. Salado missed putting the set away by missing the next serve and then made an error at the net before Burnet scored the game-winner with a kill at the net.

In the first set, Burnet jumped out to a five-point lead, 7-2 and stretched it to 14-7 midway through. The Lady Dogs held on to the lead, even though Salado closed with back-to-back kills by Rogers to get within one, 22-21.

Salado took an early third set lead, 8-4, but Burnet ran up seven straight points to go up 16-10, a lead that the Lady Eagles could not overcome.

Amy Manning and Fasje led the girls with two service aces each. Landry led the girls with 18 kills.

The Salado Eagles

clashed with the Taylor Lady Ducks in a pivotal district match up Oct. 1. Home team Salado would have control from the start and never let up to take the first two sets 25-22 and 25-20, but a resilient Taylor opponent would not roll over and accept defeat. The Lady Ducks found some momentum and would tie the match at 2 apiece taking sets 3 and 4 (22-25, 15-25). With a playoff-like atmosphere, both teams would exchange points all the way up to 13-13. Taylor would miss a crucial serve into the net giving the Lady Eagles match point and the serve. Sophomore Amy Manning made sure it was last ending the game with an ace. Eagle captain, Landry Rogers, would step up in a big way dominating the net on offense and defense. Heart and hustle by DS, Breigh Oliver, was relentless leading all players in digs. Senior Sydney Hill made several outstanding digs to keep the Eagles in the game.

The Junior Varsity cruised to victory in straight sets (25-15, 25-12). Taylor Rich and Janiah Del Rio proved to be too athletic for the Ducks.

The Lady Eagle freshmen started off hot, but slipped and never found their footing losing in two sets (25-15, 25-11).

Lady Eagles place fourth in Lampasas

The Lady Eagles Cross Country competed in the Lampasas Invitational on Friday, October 5th.

The Varsity girls team was 4th place out of 12 teams and the three teams that beat the Lady Eagles were St. Michael's Catholic (a large private school), Liberty Hill (one of the largest 4A schools in the state and more than double our size), and San Saba (the #1 ranked 2A team in the state). Sophomore Jaci McGregor ran her best ever time of 11:46.4. She won the race by over 30 seconds. Her time is 7 seconds faster than her school record of 11:53.2.

The rest of the Varsity Lady Eagles ran a strong race as well. Freshman Anna Lesley placed 7th turning in a time of 12:54. ## Student Council raises funds for medical needs in community

Student Council will be sporting Pink Week shirts next week and will be selling cotton candy on Oct. 16 to raise funds for Kathi Walrath in her battle against breast cancer. Student Council will also have a fund raiser at the Oct. 19 home game against Lorena Leopards.

"Our students have been overwhelmed and touched by the outpouring of support for our Pink Week shirts," said sponsor Courtnie Bagley.

"However, in Salado, we have another Eagle who needs us now," Bagley said.

Contribute to the Nov. 2 Coin Raid at SHS.

SHS student Ryan White was in an accident recently and is fighting his way back from it in the ICU at Scott and White, according to Bagley.

SHS will sponsor a change raid during both lunches and advisory period through Nov. 2.

Students, teachers and community members are asked to bring their change to school those days to raise funds for White.

"We will also have a change raid at the home football game on Nov. 2," Bagley said.

"There will be a bucket in the front office of the high school for anyone in the community who has a jar of pennies, nickels, and quarters they would like to donate," she added.

These funds will be given to Ryan's family to help pay for his medical care.

Jr. High Football results

8th A 0 8 0 6 14
 Rob 6 7 0 0 13

Salado Eagles eighth grade A got past their counterparts by the result of a point-after kick on Oct. 4, winning 14-13.

"This was as good a game as you will see at this level, with both teams battling the whole game to try to prevail," Coach Michael Gunter said. The Eagles are the only team to have scored on the Rockets eighth graders.

The Rockets jumped out to a quick lead with a long TD pass and TD run by the quarterback to lead 13-0.

After that, the defense was able to clamp down, with a lot of help from the ball control offense.

Caden Strickland led an offensive attack that was able to wear down the Rockets at the end and threw the first TD pass of the game to Drew Bird to get the Eagles on the board. Bird kicked the PAT for two points and Salado trailed 8-13 at the half.

After halftime, the Eagles got the ball and controlled the ball for the entire third quarter and first part of the fourth quarter. They finally punched it in with a run by Adam Benavides.

The defense was given a scare, but Bird came up big for the Eagles when the Rockets tried to go over the top with another pass. He flew in to intercept the pass and return it about 30 yards.

A block in the back brought the ball back, so the Eagles had to grind the ball out from their own end of the field.

Strickland was able to run around the left side on 3rd and 1 for a big first down that looked to be the game clincher. However, the Eagles were not able to get another first down, and they had to punt with about 25 seconds left. The snap was muffed by the punter, and the Rockets recovered at the Eagles 40 with 17 seconds left. The defense was able to cause a few throws out of bounds before the quarterback dropped back for a hail Mary with three seconds left, which was caught at the seven yard line and nearly run in for the winning touchdown. However, Bird flew in once again to make an outstanding tackle to seal the win for the Eagles and give the Rockets their first loss of the season.

Outstanding Offensive Players: Seth Reavis, Adam Benavides, Caden Strickland, and Drew Bird.

Outstanding Defensive Players: Jackson Leiskau, Adam Benavides, Aidan McCann, Drew Bird, Seth Reavis, Noah Self, Jesse Maskunas, and Dray McLane.

Rebels and Ramblers roll into Salado

You may see some Rebels, Ramblers and Ambassadors. You might even see a Gremlin, too!

The 2018 Lone Star Regional American Motors Owners will converge on Salado Oct. 12-13, gathering at the Holiday Inn-Express. The meeting was rescheduled due to severe weather.

The classic American cars will line up at 9 a.m. Oct. 13 at the Holiday Inn-Express. They will be escorted by police for a parade down Main Street to Pace Park, where they will be on display from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., prizes will be awarded to the displayed cars.

A Champion 69 Rambler Scrambler will be at the show. This car was featured in Muscle Car Magazine November Issue - 2017. It was shown in Carlisle, Pennsylvania at The Hurst

This Champion 69 Rambler Scrambler (above) will be at the 2018 Lone Star Regional American Motors Owners Car Show in Salado. The car show in Pace park welcomes all AMC vehicles, in any shape, driven or towed. Nash, Hudson, Willy and Jeep are welcomed. AMC introduced the Gremlin (right), an American subcompact in 1970.

Invitational 2017.

According to an article by Chad Quella in the all-par.com website: "Through its 34-year existence, AMC created some of the most memorable, inspirational, and exciting cars the world has ever seen.

American Motors was formed in 1954 from the merger of Hudson Motors and Nash-Kelvinator. The deal was the largest corporate merger up to that point - worth $197,793,366 - but was just one phase of a planned megamerger of Hudson, Nash, Studebaker, and Packard.

The combined company would cover all segments of the market, and their size and ability to share engineering would amortize costs nicely; at least, that was the plan of Kelvinator's George Mason, whose company owned Nash.

The name "American Motors" originated with Mason, who started working on the plan just after World War II.

The gregarious Grackle

The natural world around us can, and should amaze us humans on a daily basis. Many of the columns that I write are about animals that the majority of people do not realize live in their own backyards. However, there is a species of bird that thrives in west Texas year-round, and is one that is probably very familiar to most people, and that avian species is the Great-tailed Grackle.

The Great-tailed Grackle (Quiscalus mexicanus) is a distinctive species of bird that can be observed throughout Texas. Outside of this state, it occurs north to Kansas and west to central California. It also occurs south of the border to Central America. Only the most northernmost populations migrate during the colder winter months.

With such a large year-round range, this species could be considered to be a habitat generalist. It apparently prefers areas that have some form of a natural semi-permanent water source, but human habitations with items such as pools and lawn irrigations obviously suffice. Its population densities have risen in arid areas of the southwest due to agricultural irrigation.

At first glance, Great-tailed Grackles appear to be just another variety of black bird. However, upon closer inspection the subtle iridescent purple coloration on the head, neck, back, and underparts region really stand out against the black wings and lower body. The tail on males is quite long (hence the common name) is often described to be diamond-shaped in appearance. Males and females are sexually dimorphic, which means that they differ from each other in several morphological characteristics. Females differ from the males in that they are typically dark brown on the head, neck, back, and underparts rather than being adorned with the iridescence that males possess. Both species have gray legs and beaks. The bright yellow eyes are particularly noticeable on the darker colored males. Great-tailed Grackles are birds of moderate size, with body length of roughly eighteen inches and a wingspan of just over two feet.

This species of grackle is noisy and gregarious, preferring to live in large colonies of up to a hundred individuals or more. This is particularly true during the winter months when several hundred Great-tailed Grackles may congregate in prime feeding areas. This avian species is omnivorous, feeding on a large variety of small invertebrate animals such as snails, insects, and arachnids as well as larger prey that have backbones including lizards, frogs, fish, and even smaller birds and their eggs. It will also feed on various fruits, seeds, and berries, and many times will steal these food items from other species of smaller birds.

Males are quite promiscuous during the spring breeding season. It is not uncommon for one male to mate with ten or more females in just a few days time. Further research now shows that females may just as promiscuous as the males are. Males will put on a tremendous show for the females; this show comprises of a dramatic display of raising the feathers on his back while strutting, vibrating, and singing. Once the female has selected a mate, breeding takes place. In this species of bird, the female does the majority of the reproductive work. She will build the nest out of various sticks, twigs, grasses and leaves, then will lay the three to four inch long oval, gray blue patterned with reddish blotches eggs. Incubation lasts about two weeks, and is done entirely by the female. Upon hatching, the young will remain in the nest for another three weeks, all the while being tended to and cared for by their mother. When it comes to taking flight, the youngsters are taught by, you guessed it, the female.

This species is common, and population studies have shown that its numbers are increasing. It is one of the few birds that many naturalists will consider to be pests, and many states will allow the removal of this species from gardens and other areas if it is determined to be a threat or a nuisance.
