

Village withdraws rezoning of Mill Creek, to mull CUP

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

The Village of Salado withdrew its plans to rezone the Mill Creek Country Club after it received an application for a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) to operate the golf course on the property that is currently zoned Single Family Residential.

Village administrator Don Ferguson told Salado Village Voice that the Village received the application for the CUP hours before an executive session meeting with its village attorney to discuss the rezoning proposal.

The CUP will now go through the proper process, which will include notifying adjoining properties and conducting public hearings at the Planning & Zoning Commission and Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen will be the ultimate body to decide whether a CUP will be issued to Mill Creek Country Club and what, if any, conditions will be required under the CUP.

Because the Village is withdrawing its request to rezone the golf course property, the public hearing and vote planned for Feb. 7 will be unnecessary.

The process for the CUP will take about the same amount of time (40 days) as the rezoning request due to requirements for public notice hearings.

No dates are set for the public hearings for the CUP, but will be published in the Salado Village Voice as the newspaper of record.

Aldermen were set to conduct the public hearing on the rezoning of the Mill Creek Country Club at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 7 and then to vote on the proposed rezoning.

The meeting follows the public hearing and vote by the P&Z on Jan. 22 in which commissioners voted 4-1 against the rezoning of the Mill Creek Country Club property. K.D. Hill, Tom McMahan, Susan Terry and Ronnie Tynes were all opposed to the rezoning while Larry Roberson was in favor.

During the P&Z public hearing on the Golf Course rezoning proposal, a dozen people spoke with the majority of speakers opposed to the rezoning.

Following the hearings, aldermen will vote on each of the rezoning proposals brought forth by Village Staff.

Village staff will work to bring the CUP request on the Mill Creek golf course to the P&Z Commission and Board of Aldermen.

The Zoning Map currently designates the golf course property as Single Family Residential, within which golf course is a land use that is permitted by Conditional Use Permit.

Operations of Mill Creek Country Club precede incorporation by more than two decades and its continued operation as a golf course would be considered a pre-existing non-conforming use according to the Zoning Ordinance definitions.

While the BoA will not conduct a hearing on rezoning the golf course, it will conduct public hearings to rezone Pace Park and Sirena Park as Public Facility. The properties are currently zoned as Historic District, which allows Parks as a land use by right.

On Jan. 22, P&Z voting against the rezoning proposal for both park properties.

A handful of speakers, all opposed, addressed the parks rezoning during the P&Z public hearing.

However, how much weight the recommendation of the P&Z Commission will carry with Aldermen remains to be seen. Aldermen voted unanimously to add the Private Recreation zoning district designation to the Zoning Ordinance, even though the P&Z voted 3-2 against adding the new designation.

Discussion of the zoning designations came up last year when the Village of Salado was meeting with ownership group of Mill Creek Country Club to consider the possible purchase of the golf course by the Village of Salado.

Following that meeting, Mill Creek ownership withdrew from any further discussions with the Village about the purchase of the golf course.

The 2019 Show is hosting junior breeding beef exhibitors from across Texas competing for awards and $36,210 in premiums.

Of the 33,000 entries at the nation's longest-running livestock show, the livestock exhibited by the more than 11,500 junior exhibitors are among the best market animals in the country. While the livestock are impressive, one of the Show's main objectives is to support the professional and leadership development efforts offered by the 4-H and FFA programs in Texas. Bonuses for the livestock show total $18,750 while the Agricultural Development Fund has committed more than $79,000 in additional premiums to the barrow, breeding sheep, dairy cattle, wether lambs, wether goats, youth rabbits, youth poultry and youth dairy goats since 2015. An additional $8,000 in premiums has been added in 2019 for barrows, breeding sheep, dairy cattle, wether lambs and wether goats, for a total of $106,150 in support.

"The Stock Show serves as a nurturing point for these future business and civic leaders," said Stock Show President and General Manager Brad Barnes. "This commitment is a founding principle of the Stock Show and we remain humbled with the number of Texas youth who choose to exhibit in the many events at the legendary Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo."

With filing deadline just over week away, ballots not yet full

With just over a week left before the deadline, no new candidates have filed for the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen election.

Three two-year terms on the board will be decided on May 4. However, as of press-time no incumbents have filed for re-election to the Board of Aldermen.

Michael McDougal, who has served three terms on the board, told Salado Village Voice via email that "I haven't decided as yet about filing for another alderman term."

One-term alderman Andy Jackson replied last week that he will likely file for re-election, but "may change my mind before the deadline, but right now I am planning on filing."

John Cole and Rodney Bell have both filed for election to the Board of Aldermen.

Fred Brown resigned last year from the Board of Aldermen and the seat was left vacant by the board.

Salado ISD will have a contested race for two three-year terms on its Board of Directors. Jeff Kelley, who has served terms on the SISD Board of Trustees has filed for re-election.

Darrell Street, who has served five terms on the board, announced that he is not going to run for re-election to the SISD school board.

Amy McLane and Brand Webb have both filed for the school board.

Three two-year terms on the Salado Public Library District Board of Directors will be decided in May as well. Those positions are currently filled by Joycelyn Miller, Bobbette Bell and Patricia Rehm. Last time we checked, Miller is the only candidate to have filed for election. Bell announced to the Library board that she would not file for re-election.

Filing in the three local races will continue until 5 p.m. Feb. 15. The deadline to file as a write-in candidate is 5 p.m. Feb. 19.

CORRECTION:

Last week, we incorrectly printed that Feb. 29 is the deadline to file as a write-in candidate. The deadline is Feb. 19.

PALS Tastes of Salado set Feb. 26 at Stagecoach

Public Arts League of Salado (P.A.L.S) will offer a live auction at their annual "Tastes of Salado" fund raiser 6-9 p.m. Feb. 26 at the Stagecoach Inn in Salado.

Village took right step in withdrawing rezoning

Salado Board of Aldermen have taken the right step in withdrawing its request to rezone the 135+ acres of Mill Creek Country Club within its own boundaries, but there is more to do.

Just hours before an executive session with its lawyer, the Village received an application for a Conditional Use Permit to operate the property as a golf course, one of the Land Uses allowed within Single Family Residential zoning districts by CUP.

The Village should never have gone into the process of rezoning the property in an effort to make the Future Land Use Map (FLUP) and Zoning Map match each other. By this flawed logic, the Village would then have to pursue dozens of rezoning issues, particularly within the Historic District where there are so many different land uses operating in harmony.

The FLUP is a blueprint for the future, not something to be used to beat existing properties over the head. It should guide the P&Z Commissioners and Aldermen on what we want our Village to look like in 20 years, or 30 years.

Wanting more green space through parks and recreational spaces like a golf course is a laudable pursuit. We commend the Village for wanting this.

However, its heavy handed approach was short sighted and will end up being costly as it now has to go through a process of conducting P&Z and Aldermen public hearings for a CUP for the course.

The Zoning Ordinance and original Zoning Map are products of a 14-year-old Comprehensive Plan prepared by Dunkin-Sefko Associates. During the process, Dunkin-Sefko defined two special zoning districts and allowed many uses within them: the Historic District and Local Retail.

All of the Zoning Districts were defined in the most recent amended (2013)

Our Voice

version of the Zoning Ordinance as the following: A Agriculture; SF-21 Single Family Estate Residential; SF-7 Single Family Residential; SF-PH Single Family Patio Home; SFA Single Family Attached, MF-1 Multi-Family Residential, O Office, LR Local Retail, RR Regional Retail, MU Mixed Use, BP Business Park, C Commercial, HD Historic District, PD Planned Development, WS West Side Overlay and the regulations of CUP Conditional Use Permit.

In addition, the Zoning Ordinance has eight pages of single line Land Uses categorized by Agriculture, Residential, Office, Personal & Business Services, Retail, Transportation Services, Amusement and Recreation, Institutional and Governmental, Commercial & Wholesale and Light Manufacturing.

Aldermen created a brand new Zoning District that doesn't make much sense at all: Private Recreation. The Land Uses allowed within that newly created zoning district are already addressed within every other Zoning District on the books.

If the Village had stuck to its guns and over-ruled the P&Z advice and voted to rezone the property, it would have allowed land uses on that property that are incompatible for property that is in the heart of and surrounded by Single Family Residential district.

Wanting to keep the golf course a golf course is the right position for the Village to take. It will keep property values higher than they would be otherwise.

However, we think there are other measures the Village could -- and should-- pursue to support the golf course.

If they really want to help insure that the property will remain a golf course, they can do some of the following:

- Get out of the way. Private business always does better without the interference of government at any level.

- Show support. Through the use of Hotel Motel taxes, the Village of Salado could support the golf course by offering to partner with it in promotion of Salado as a golf destination. We mean more than just the lip service it gets now. Years ago, Mill Creek was advertised in regional, state and national golf magazines. Stay and play packages were a key part of Mill Creek's marketing campaign. But this was done when the ownership of Mill Creek also owned and operated dozens of the old guest houses for weekend stay and when Stay and play packages included dinners at the now-defunct restaurant. With some innovative marketing, stay and play packages could be developed and advertised in niche golf publications and websites that would partner Mill Creek to local lodging, restaurants and other activities (i.e. shopping, arts, history, etc.).

- Update the Village website to include information on Mill Creek that can be used by local businesses and real estate professionals to promote the value of this asset.

Certainly, if the Village does these things, Mill Creek will benefit more than some other specific businesses. However, the identity of Salado has been so closely linked with that of Mill Creek that if the Village will help raise the tide of this ship, all others stand a chance of following suit.

Reinvigorating, reinvesting, re-marketing and re-partnering are part of the solution. Let's try that.

If you have the flu, stay away from Salado schools!

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that between October 1, 2018 through January 19, 2019 there have been 9.8 to 11.4 million flu illnesses, 4.6 to 5.4 million flu medical visits, and 113,000 to 136,000 flu hospitalizations.

How do you prevent the flu? The best way is to get vaccinated. Have you heard of herd immunity? In this case it's relying on everyone else to get the vaccine so you don't have to. Do not rely on herd immunity!

If you get sick with the flu, or any other illness, do not come to school or work! No one at your school or office wants what you have. Do not come back to school or work until 24 hours after your fever is gone, and that means gone without the use of fever-reducing medicine.

Flu vaccines are not perfect. They don't cover every possible flu virus, just the top three or four that research suggests will be the most prevalent this season.

There are ways to protect yourself from those relying on herd immunity and those who come to work sick. Wash your hands frequently and use hand sanitizers. Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth, especially after contact with someone that may be sick.

U.S. economy adds jobs for 100 straight months

Our dear old Standard and Poor's 500 Stock Index (SPX) turned in a respectable week, rising 1.57 percent to 2706.53. More impressive was the 7.87 percent rise for the month of January, the best first month of the year since 1987, and the biggest monthly rise since 2015. In December the SPX fell 9.18 percent, and for the 4th quarter was down 14 percent, so January's impressive rise doesn't get us back to even but is still welcome. The Index and the broad market are still down over 2 percent from this time last year and down 7.75 percent from their peak values last September.

The drivers behind this slow but impressive recovery have been a gradual backing off by the Federal Reserve on future interest rate guidance and a steady stream of optimism from the President on his expectations for ending the trade war with China. The headlines that have so far prevented a full recovery are the same President's earlier threats to wage the trade war and a growing fear that Europe and Asia may not be doing well economically.

Amid all the good news from the stock market, little attention was paid to the benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note. It closed out the week at 2.68 percent, having risen from 2.63 percent mid-day Friday, but the 5-year note has sagged. The interest yield curve is now nearly flat out to five years at 2.44 percent. You may remember that in early November the 10-year note was yielding 3.24 percent and was predicting large-scale future economic growth. The nearly 1/3 decline in yield since then is a warning that the bond market is not so optimistic for the economy two or three years from now.

West Texas Intermediate Crude Oil put in a good

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

showing for the week, rising 3.38 percent to $55.35, up nearly 14 percent for one month but still down 12.5 percent for three months and down 6.47 percent from a year ago. Gold rose 1.06 percent in sync with the stock market to $1,322.60 and is now up over 6 percent for 90 days but down 3.25 percent from a year ago. The dollar (WSJ Index) declined 0.15 percent on Fed's interest rate announcement but remains up 6.32 percent from a year ago.

The Economy

The headline news was that the U.S. economy has been adding jobs now for 100 consecutive months, the longest such period on record. According to the Labor Department, non-farm payrolls rose a seasonally adjusted 304,000 in January. Perhaps more importantly, average wages were up 3 percent from a year ago, marking six-months of wage increases significantly above inflation. The unemployment rate rose to 4 percent but that appears to be a quirk of the government shutdown. The biggest gains were in education, health, and construction. The construction gains were another anomaly as they were mainly in home improvement, not new construction.

Some major companies, previously in the lead of the bull market, including Apple and Caterpillar, reported declining earnings for the 4th quarter of 2018 while others such as Facebook and Amazon turned in record profits. In another indication of a maturing bull market, smaller companies were where the earnings growth appears to be concentrated for the quarter and for the full 2018 year, while the larger, more familiar companies reported spotty gains. The big picture is that overseas economies are exhibiting slowing growth but that was more than offset by the quarter's rise in U.S. domestic consumer spending. Employers are continuing to report a critical shortage of qualified workers available to be hired as the most significant obstacle to more growth. With 45 percent of SPX companies reporting, Index earnings are up about 12.5 percent from a year ago, about half the 25.5 percent gain the Index has averaged over the past three quarters.

Members of the Federal Reserve Board suggested in speeches that further short-term interest rate increases were likely on hold until mid-summer. Keys to that decision are the uncertainties associated with Brexit and trade policy. A "hard Brexit" in which the United Kingdom exits the European Union with no negotiated agreement would seriously reduce trade with the U.S. because our trade agreements are with the E.U. and not the U.K. As we have written before, there is a consensus among economists that imposing a 25 percent tariff on Chinese imports could trigger a recession. Coupling tariffs with a hard Brexit could make that recession more severe. With the European Union teetering on the edge of recession, China's growth rate slowing, and the political risks piling up, it makes sense that the Fed would hesitate to hit the brakes on the U.S. economy.

No rezoning for golf course; athlete thanks coaches

Dear Editor:

It is my opinion that Mill Creek Golf Course should not be rezoned. It has been zoned residential since its inception and the Planning and Zoning Committee has twice recently recommended the BOA leave it be. The BOA has led the public to believe that rezoning will automatically mean that there will always be a golf course at Mill Creek. The ONLY thing that will insure the course remains open is participation and support from the public. So many people who have all the answers are individuals that have never even been to the Club ... much less support it. Yet the course "must stay a golf course". "It's the only reason we moved to Mill Creek". Nothing can remain the same without support. How many businesses do you know that can operate and thrive and keep their doors open without the support of the public?

The BOA offering to buy the Golf Course at a very reduced price is an insult to the group of investors who stepped up to help bring the golf course back to its present condition. I can't imagine anyone owning a business (or a home for that matter) who buys a depressed property, invests mega money and time to restore, then want to sell and would be willing to sell for half the value.... And, by the way, throw in two pieces of property that the prospective buyer says are worth nothing. BOA, if they have no value, why do you want them?

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

As a property owner of several properties in the Village and on the golf course, I also hope and pray that the Golf Course remains. However, if ever shutting it down is ever the answer, I would rather see some nice homes built in the areas that are not in the flood plain than to see weeds growing 2 feet tall and having the grounds become a dump ground for everyone's tree limbs like it did after our 2010 flood. Just remember that it will still be private property and not a public park or walking trails!

It has been public knowledge from the onset that the owner wasn't interested in being a long time owner but more interested in getting the course back to a beautiful playing condition and preserving the property values of our Village.

Our Village is so torn apart by many BOA actions. It almost seems that their agenda is to try to tear us apart. We are all bigger than this and it needs to be realized sooner than later.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter as a part of a communications requirement, an Eagle merit badge. I want to bring up a group of people that have guided me and countless others towards not only success on the field, but in life. These are the football coaches of Salado high school.

This coaching staff not only works on the skillset and athleticism of the team but puts an emphasis on having good character so players can be better prepared for life's obstacles.

These coaches stay later than they have to to give players more opportunity to improve themselves and will not hesitate to come up to the school on weekends or late in the day to open up the weight room for those who want to go. Without these men I certainly would not be of the same mindset in life and the value of hard work, serving others, and persevering through challenging obstacles that arise along the way.

Sincerely,
Connor Cook

Newly appointed Bell County Historical Commissioners hold meeting Feb. 25 in Belton

The Bell County Historical Commission kicked off 2019 with a business meeting in the historic first-floor courtroom at the County Courthouse in downtown Belton, January 28.

The group, currently made up of 16 members, works to preserve and promote the county's historical heritage in accordance with Texas state laws and under the direction of the Bell County Commissioners Court. Projects set for 2019 include assisting in obtaining historical designation for various county cemeteries, locating little-known cemeteries, compiling detailed directions to those hard-to-locate cemeteries, and being available to assist residents and visitors with directions to county facilities, cemeteries and other places of interest. The BCHC also pairs with other organizations on historical projects. Most recently, it has partnered with the Bell County Sheriff's Work Release Program to clean and maintain neglected cemeteries.

"This most satisfaction I've gotten during my almost ten years of working with the Commission has been to locate, identify, and maintain the neglected cemeteries in our county ... and we've still got more to do!" smiled Chairperson Nancy Kelsey, who lives in Belton and has been part of the commission for about ten years. Kelsey has also authored and co-authored several books on Bell County history.

"I have tremendous appreciation for history," explained Assistant Chairperson Judy Tyler, who hails from Killeen. "I love learning all aspects of history – the good, the bad, and the ugly. As a sixth generation Texan, I joined the Commission to do whatever I can to promote and protect Bell County's rich history." The February meeting, 7 p.m., February 25, in the Courthouse first-floor courtroom, will feature a program presented by Carol Wilson, author of "The Stage Stops Here: The Stagecoach Inn Salado, Texas."

Persons interested in more information or becoming a member many contact the BCHC office on the first floor of the courthouse in Belton. The office is staffed by volunteers most days Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The telephone number for the office is 254-933-5917.

Jim Messina a talented guitarist and music legend comes to Temple

Temple, TX--The Cultural Activities Center opens the 2019 Texas Music Series Feb. 9, with Jim Messina. Messina is widely known from Loggins & Messina, Poco and Buffalo Springfield. Messina's band was inducted in the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, and is credited with creating Country Rock. The Concert begins at 7:30pm in the Frank W. Mayborn Auditorium and is sponsored Purifoy & Company Insurance. Also the night of the concert, BBQ Chips Smokin' BBQ will be out front on the CAC porch for dinner option.

Jim Messina began working with the legendary band Buffalo Springfield in 1966 as a recording engineer on their second album Buffalo Springfield Again. In 1967, at the request of the group and Atlantic Records founder and president Ahmet Ertegun, Messina was asked to produce the band's third and final album. Shortly thereafter, he replaced Bruce Palmer, the bass player, touring and recording with the band up until completion and release of their album Last Time Around.

After the disbandment of Buffalo Springfield, Messina signed a contract with Epic Records and formed Poco along with fellow Buffalo Springfield member Richie Furay. On the band's, self-titled second album, Poco (also released in 1969), Messina both produced and penned the band's first hit single "You Better Think Twice" which has endured as one of the group's signature songs. A copy of the Poco album now hangs in the Country Music Hall Of Fame in Nashville. After producing three albums for the band, Pickin' Up The Pieces, Poco and Deliverin' (recorded live in 1970 and released in 1971) - Messina departed and signed on as an independent producer with Columbia Records.

In the next few years, a series of albums would follow in rapid order: 1972's Loggins & Messina, 1973's Full Sail, 1974's double-live On Stage, the same year's Mother Lode, 1975's cover song set So Fine and 1976's Native Sons. The Best of Friends greatest hits collection followed later that year and in 1977 another live album fittingly called Finale. When the dust had settled, Loggins & Messina had sold sixteen million albums, become one of rock's biggest live draws, and cemented their legacy as one of the most successful recording duos ever.

Following the split with Loggins, Messina recorded four critically acclaimed solo albums: 1979's sublime Latin rock with a touch of jazz album Oasis; 1981's eponymous Messina featuring guest performances by Jeff Pocaro, Joe Pocaro and Victor Feldman; 1983's One More Mile; and 1996's re-imagined retrospective of concert favorites Watching The River Run Revisited.

Messina reunited with Poco for the 1989 album Legacy, and established the Songwriters' Performance Workshop whose purpose, explains Messina, "is to empower the amateur to let go of the fear and embrace the joy of writing and performing their original music."

Tickets to this concert are $45 for CAC Members and $50 for non CAC Members. The box-office will open; 1 hour prior to this event as well as concessions, and the food truck. Tickets in advance can be purchased at cacARTS.org.

The Cultural Activities Center, located at 3011 North Third Street in Temple, TX, offers music and onstage entertainment, classes, and programs for all ages throughout the year. The CAC is a nonprofit arts organization in Temple which strives to promote understanding of and participation in the arts.

The CAC facility includes a 421 seat theatre with handicap accessible seating, four gallery spaces, is home to over 100 visual and performing arts events including classes and workshops each year. Becoming a member of your art center is $50 for a family membership for the year and is an investment in your community. Visit the CAC website at www.cacARTS.org to learn more or call 254-773-9926.

State Senate, House roll out property tax reform bills

By Richard Lee
Senate News Service

(Austin) After promising meaningful property tax reform throughout the first weeks of session, state leadership unveiled a plan to slow the growth of property taxes on Jan. 31.

“People desperately need property tax reform, our businesses need property tax reform, and we have set out, on this date, early in session...with a major piece of legislation,” said Lt. Governor Dan Patrick. “We are setting the tone for the rest of the session on this issue.”

He was joined by Governor Greg Abbott, House Speaker Dennis Bonnen, as well as two key lawmakers, Houston Senator Paul Bettencourt and Lubbock Representative Dustin Burrows, who will carry the bills in their respective chambers.

Both bills, designated SB 2 and HB 2, are identical and would put a 2.5 percent cap on annual property tax growth absent voter approval.

The current property tax “rollback rate” is 8 percent per year. If a taxing entity other than a school district approves a rate increase beyond that, under current law, citizens can trigger a rollback election if they can collect the signatures of seven percent of the registered voters in that taxing jurisdiction. Rollback elections for local school property tax rate increases are triggered automatically if they exceed the rate, and SB 2 would make that the law for all taxing entities. The 2.5 percent rollback rate would also apply to all taxing en-ties, excluding those that collect less than $15 million annually. “The vexing problem facing taxpayers is that tax bills are going up at least two or three times faster than they can handle,” said Bettencourt. “I think that the concept of having a two and a half percent rollback rate across the board means there’s a universal solution.” In addition to authoring SB 2, Bettencourt chairs the Senate Property Tax Committee, which will begin hearings on the bill next week.

Also last week, the Finance Committee continued work on crafting the Senate version of the state budget, hearing testimony from a number of different agencies. Monday, as the Department of Public Safety appeared before the panel for its usual budget presentation, frustration at the agency’s handling of the issuance of drivers licenses came to the forefront, with multiple members demanding to know how the DPS was going to fix the problem. The Sunset Advisory Commission found during the interim that wait times at DPS license offices are getting longer despite more and more money being added to the agency’s budget for that purpose. “This is one of the few places where everyone in Texas of drivers license age and above interacts with their state government,” said Friendswood Senator Larry Taylor at Monday’s hearing. “When it’s this dysfunctional, it doesn’t look good on the whole state.”

DPS Director Steve McCraw said his agency is seeking $420 million in additional funds to hire 1900 more staff and open 15 more license offices to finally address this issue. “I’m convinced it would be a shining example of state services if we had those resources,” he told lawmakers. As it stands now, the Sunset recommendations for DPS would move license services to the Department of Motor Vehicles, a relatively young agency only carved out of the Department of Transportation to handle car title and registration services in 2009. Texas is one of only eight states that doesn’t issue licenses through a DMV, but that would change in 2021. Sunset Commission Chair Senator Brian Birdwell, who will carry the DPS Sunset bill this session, said that the Legislature can decide whether that’s soon enough. “This is not a ‘study whether we should transfer this or not,’” he said. “It’s going to move. If this committee wants to move it faster, we can do that.”

Ladies beat Jarrell 4-0

Goals were scored by Aubrey Heffner (2), Mackenzie Miller, and Madisyn Maddux. Sam Vargas and Hannah Reavis each recorded an assist. Avery Wright and Emma Grant earned the shutout in goal for the Lady Eagles.

Eagles beat Jarrell in District soccer

The Eagles Varsity boys soccer team defeated the Jarrell Cougars 2-0 Feb. 1 to remain undefeated in District play.

The first goal came midway through the first half and was scored by Freshman Toby Rios on an assist by Sophomore Nicholas Lemus. The second goal was scored by Nicholas Lemus assisted by Junior Brian Chavez midway through the second half.

The shutout was credited to Sophomore Lucas Morvant but the defensive work rate from all players won the game.

The Junior Varsity defeated the JV Cougars 5-3.

The JV boys were down 2-1 at halftime but surged back to take the victory out scoring Jarrell 4-1 in the second half.

John Thompson Flint

Have Salado historians inadvertently slighted him?

BY CAROL WILSON
LOCAL HISTORIAN

Saturday, November 13, 1869, was a day of merriment in Waco, Texas. A large crowd, including dignitaries and members of the press, swarmed the banks of the Brazos River in anticipation of the first official crossing of the town's newly completed, massive suspension bridge. Among the notables attending the festivities that day was Salado founder E. S. C. Robertson, a close friend of the man at the center of the celebration.

The bridge was a marvel. The landmark structure, three years in the making, was the longest single-span suspension bridge west of the Mississippi. The 475-foot expanse stood eight feet above the river's high water mark and was supported by cables weighing two tons each, attached to towers that rose over 90 feet above. The materials used included a staggering 2.7 million bricks. (Today the bridge is the oldest suspension bridge still standing in Texas and remains open to foot traffic.)

Waco's Silver Cornet Band played as the procession stepped forth, led by the founder and president of the Bridge Company, John T. Flint, the chief engineer, Thomas M. Griffith, and Colonel Robertson. With spectators following behind them, the men walked to the center of the bridge where they paused long enough for Mr. Griffith to present Mr. Flint's fourteen-year-old daughter Mary, with a commemorative ring. The crowds roared, ALL HONOR TO PRESIDENT FLINT. A Houston newspaper, reporting on the celebration the following day, lightheartedly stated that the structure had passed public testing without a quiver.

John Flint deserved the praise. He had organized the Bridge Company, gone to great length and distance to locate the best bridge-building firm, and raised the substantial capital necessary to complete

Opening lead — three of hearts.

On most hands, declarer's best line of play is determined by comparing the merits of two or more different approaches. He then selects the one that offers the highest probability of success.

Take this case where South started with eight sure tricks and several possibilities of developing a ninth. He knew that the chance of a 3-3 division of six missing cards was about 36 percent, and that the chance of winning either of two finesses was about 75 percent. For that reason, he decided to try two club finesses rather than depend on the spades or diamonds splitting 3-3.

So he took the heart lead with dummy's queen and led a club to the jack. West won with the queen and returned a heart to South's ace. Declarer crossed to the spade king, led a club and finessed again. After the ten lost to West's king, South could not recover, and he finished down one.

While it's true that South ran into some bad luck, the fact remains that he should have played the hand differently. The best plan is to win the first heart with the king, lead a low spade and play low from dummy!

Let's assume a heart return by East, taken by South with the ace. Declarer next cashes the A-K of spades and plays a fourth spade, establishing dummy's eight of spades as his ninth trick. The queen of hearts serves as South's entry to the game-going trick.

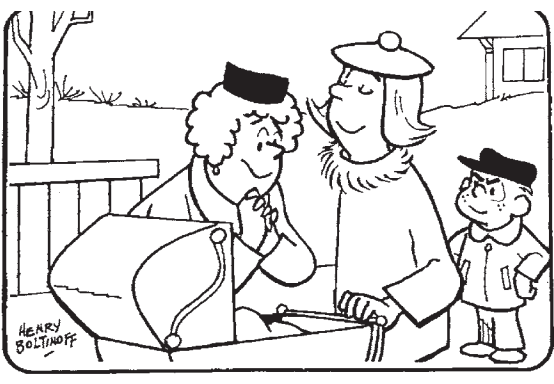

The advantage of this approach is that it allows declarer to make the contract not only when the opposing spades divide 3-3, but also when they are divided 4-2 (48 percent), yielding a combined chance of success of 84 percent. This is obviously much better than a 75 percent chance, and that is a good reason for declarer to choose this line of play.

the project, taking no remuneration for his services. The bridge stimulated commerce and created growth but it was not Flint's first major undertaking toward that goal in Waco. He had performed a similar feat in bringing the first railroad line to town. In later years he operated a large dairy. The list of Flint's accomplishments was long and impressive, so much so that the Dallas Morning News described him as one of the most remarkable men in Texas.

John Thompson Flint was born in Schoharie County, New York in 1827. He moved to Ohio about 1850 where he taught school, studied law and married. In 1852 he moved to Austin where he worked for a short time as a journalist before his aptitude for writing shorthand earned him an elected position as reporter in the State Senate. In 1853 John and his wife Lavina relocated to Bell County where Flint set up a private law practice in Belton. In 1855 Lavina gave birth to daughter Mary, the first of three children that would later complete the Flint family.

Over the dozen years that followed, John Flint seemed to have one foot in Belton and the other in Salado. He invested in land in both towns and invested in Bell County via civic participation. In addition to operating a law practice that specialized in land transactions and estate settlement, Flint partnered with David Chamberlin in establishing one of Belton's early banks. John Flint was also among the men who deserve credit for establishing Salado College. He signed the articles of association for the school and drew up the lengthy bill that sought (and secured) a charter for the school. Flint was a member of the Bell County Rovers, minutemen who offered their services as local scouts against Indian depredations. He was also an overseer of roads and a charter member of the Bell County Agricultural Club.

In November of 1860, when tensions rose over Lincoln's election, a group of Bell County men came together to denounce the election, plan their resistance, and to make their objections known to the governor of Texas. John Flint led the group; even the popular E. S. C. Robertson was subordinate to Flint in that endeavor.⁴ Although Flint was born in New York, he proclaimed that he was a northerner by birth only—a southerner by choice. When the war broke out, Flint served both as a soldier in the Twentieth Texas Confederate Infantry, and as a member of a support group for other units.

Mary Harrison Hodge and Charlene Ochsner Carson named Flint in their 2014 book titled Salado, as one of the men who built a grand home near the center of town.² George Tyler's book on the history of Bell County also lists John T. Flint among the first families that moved into the (then) new town and put up homes after the celebrated college tent meeting.³

Despite his many accomplishments, John Flint has received little recognition relative to other Salado pioneers. The oversight is somewhat understandable. We have no photo of Mr. Flint and he is not buried in Salado Cemetery. Even though Flint had impressive homes in both Belton and Salado, the record is cloudy as to the number of years and the dates the family actually lived in Salado. This excerpt from George Tyler's book, History of Bell County, tells us that Flint owned considerable property in Belton, but offers no dates.

His residence stood on the west side of present north Pearl Street at the intersection of Seventh Avenue. He had something like 72 acres enclosed and this included all of the present Baylor College grounds and Santa Fe Railway track was of Main Street.⁴

The 1860 census confirms that the Flint family, then consisting of three, resided in Belton. The report was compiled in June.

The imposing house that John Flint built in Salado still stands but it is known as the Tyler House. This misnomer was certainly an unintended error made by locals long ago when they named the house for O. T. Tyler alone. A historical marker on the premises does not mention John Flint.

Empresario's Son: E. S. C. Robertson of Salado, a new book by the late Michael Kelsey, Nancy Graff Kelsey and Ginny Guinn Parsons, furnished a new clue about the Flint house that helps to partially bridge the gap between the time that John Flint and O. T. Tyler lived there. E. S. C. Robertson's diary contained these entries dated late Jan-

"Judge O. T. Tyler came down to hunt a place to move to where he can send his children to school...

and: "He [Tyler] has leased Major Flint's house and premises for one year and boards the family of Flint. Tyler will move down in April.⁵

It is curious that the Flint family needed to board with anyone and not clear whether that arrangement took place in Belton or Salado. It leaves open the question of who lived in the Salado house between 1860—when we know the Flints lived in Belton—and 1864, when we know the Tyler's took up residence there under a lease.

O. T. Tyler eventually purchased the house and lived there for twenty years before he sold the home to Marion Robertson and returned to Belton. According to the deed, Tyler sold the house, including lot, yard, orchard, garden, outbuildings and grass pasture, to Robertson for $3,500 in 1884. The association between the house and Tyler is certainly not inappropriate but it is unfortunate that a footnote was not added to the state marker that included Flint's name. He was a key player in Bell County during a dozen of its formative years and proved his historical significance to Texas further after he moved to Waco.

A marker similar to the one that stands at the Flint/Tyler house today, if erected to honor Flint, might read:

John Thompson Flint (1827-1897) — teacher, journalist, State Senate stenographer, pioneer, lawyer, land agent, banker, Indian scout, Confederate leader and soldier, Baylor University trustee, bridge builder, railroad developer, dairyman, founding member of Salado Masonic Lodge #296 and long-time friend to E. S. C. Robertson.

John Thompson Flint, once touted as one of the most remarkable men in Texas...perhaps we can do more to honor him.

Belted Kingfisher

Belted Kingfisher nests in a shoreline burrow

As humans, if we do an activity long enough, we become creatures of habit. Take for example the routes in which one drives to work on a daily basis. During this habitual trek there can be multiple living or non-living things observed that can become almost familiar. One such thing for me is a specimen of a particular species of bird known as the Belted Kingfisher.

Belted Kingfishers (Ceryle alcyon) inhabit bodies of standing freshwater throughout much of North America, with the inhospitable northern rim of Canada being the exception. Throughout the eastern two-thirds of Texas, this species can be observed year-round, while in the Trans-Pecos it is seen only during the winter months of November through February. This lack of permanency in the Chihuahuan Desert is undoubtedly due to the lack of areas of consistent freshwater areas.

This conspicuous species of bird is mid-sized, with the body length approximately twelve inches, while the wingspan can approach two feet. It is primarily blue on the upperparts, and unlike the vast majority of birds in North America, the female is actually more colorful than the male. Both sexes have an elongated, thick black bill, as well as a crest on top of the head that can best be described as "bed-head", for the feathers are quite shaggy-looking and un-kept in appearance. The head is separated from the body by a broad white collar, and there is a blueish gray band across the chest. Males have white underparts, while the more colorful female has a chestnut band across the belly, which is much more noticeable while she is in flight. The legs in both sexes are very short.

Wild About Texas

Kingfishers are very conspicuous while perching on high-wires and trees right along the waterways as they visually scan the water for the small fish that make up their diet. After they see an opportunity to dine, they will often hover in a figure eight motion 20 feet or more above the water, waiting for the right moment to plunge headfirst into the water in an acrobatic dive to obtain their prey. This specialized activity is what the nomenclature of kingfisher alludes to.

During the majority of the year, this species of bird is quite solitary. However, during the breeding season, females will select a mate and they remain in a monogamous relationship throughout that particular time. The pair work together to build the unique nest along the banks of the shoreline in a horizontal burrow that is usually three to seven feet deep. While this nest typically has no lining of which to speak, it can often be observed rather easily by all of the debris of undigested fish scales and bones located at the entrance to the burrow. The white eggs, which number from five to eight, are small (1 inch by linch) and are laid once or twice a year. Both parents incubate the eggs for the 29 days until they hatch. The young stay in the nest and are fed by both parents up to another month before they leave to nest to fend for themselves.

As with many birds that feed on fish, this animal was persecuted because it was believed to have a serious impact on the fishing hobby due to its propensity to eat small game fish. Many times, this species was shot on site at many of the fish hatcheries across this state. However, this myth has been expelled, and now many fisherman have come to appreciate this loud competitor.

NOTICE TO SALADO WATER SUPPLY CUSTOMERS:

On February 18, 2019, Salado Water Supply Corporation will be changing the disinfectant that we use from chlorine to chloramines starting at Salado High School going West to Brewer Lane.

This change is intended to benefit our customers by reducing the levels of disinfection byproducts (DBPs) in the system, while still providing protection from waterborne disease.

However, the change to chloramines can cause problems to person's dependent on dialysis machines. A condition known as hemolytic anemia can occur if the disinfectant is not completely removed from the water that is used for the dialysate. Consequently, the pretreatment scheme used for the dialysis units must include some means, such a charcoal filter, for removing the chloramine prior to this date. Medical facilities should also determine if additional precautions are required for other medical equipment.

In addition, chloraminated water may be toxic to fish. If you have a fish tank, please make sure that the chemicals or filters that you are using are designed for use in water that has been treated with chloramines. You may also need to change the type of filter that you use for the fish tank.

Please contact Salado Water Supply Corporation if you have any questions about this notice or if you need assistance in determining if your water supply will be affected.

Thank you,

Ricky Preston

Mother Earth News fair returns to Bell County Expo Center Feb. 16-17

Living the "simple life" is a notion that speaks to Texans, whether it's saving money on groceries by tending a garden or using herbs and essential oils to stay healthy. That is why Mother Earth News Magazine is proud to bring its flagship event back to Texas for the fourth year.

The Mother Earth News Fair is the nation's largest and longest-running sustainable lifestyle event, and once again they will host its Texas edition on Feb. 16-17 at the Bell County Expo Center, 301 W Loop 121. The Fair runs from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Feb. 16, and from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Feb. 17.

Fairgoers can attend more than 100 workshops that cover food preparation and preservation, small-scale and backyard livestock, organic gardening, natural health, renewable energy, homesteading, and other self-sufficiency-related topics. Local and national experts will lead the sessions.

"We are thrilled to bring this event back to Texas because it is truly one of the best locations in the country with such an engaged community. The attendees' thirst for advice and information, whether it's on keeping chickens or home brewing, is quite impressive," says Andrew Perkins, the Fair's director. "This year attendees can learn homesteading skills firsthand with our new series of hands-on and extended workshops."

In addition, the Fair will host children's activities, heritage-breed livestock, country skills, vendor demonstrations, and hundreds of exhibitors.

Attendees can pre-order a weekend wristband for $20 or single-day passes for $15. Wristbands purchased at the gate will cost $30 and $25 respectively. Children 17 and under get in free. Most workshops are included with the price of the wristband, although some hands-on and extended workshops, which often involve takeaways such as homemade cheese or hand-stitched leather products, require additional cost.

To purchase wristband passes, inquire about exhibiting or check programming, visit www.MotherEarthNewsFair.com or call toll-free 1-800-234-3368. About Mother Earth News Mother Earth News (www.MotherEarthNews.com) is the Original Guide to Living Wisely.

Topics include organic gardening, do-it-yourself projects, cutting energy costs, using renewable energy, green home building and rural living.

Ogden Publications Inc. (www.OgdenPubs.com) is the leading information resource serving the sustainable living, rural lifestyle, farm memorabilia and classic motorcycle communities. Key brands include Mother Earth News, Utne Reader and Grit. Ogden Publications also provides insurance and financial services through its Capper's Insurance Service division.
