

BoA approves concept plan, variance request for 54-acre subdivision

By ROYCE WIGGIN
and TIM FLEISCHER

Village of Salado aldermen approved proposed concept plan and variance request for lot sizes for a 54-acre, three phase subdivision located at the northeast corner of the intersection of Royal St. and Smith Branch Rd.

The variance request will allow the developer to build on lot sizes of just under a quarter-acre, with the smallest lot size being about 9,200 sq. ft. The current ordinance requires lots to be sized to at least half an acre in order to meet state standards for on-site septic service. The subdivision will voluntarily annex into the Village of Salado in order to tie into the Village sewer system which goes online in April.

Because he owns property adjacent to the proposed subdivision, alderman Frank Coachman stepped down from the dais to recuse himself from discussion and vote on the matter.

Prior to the board discussion of the matter, four citizens spoke on the subject with a mixed bag of responses both in favor and opposed.

Pete Stebbins told aldermen that the development is "kind of exciting for me. We have one of those really big lots and after seven hip surgeries it is getting more and more difficult to maintain that so I'm kind of looking for something a little bit smaller and I would like to stay in Salado."

"We spent a whole bunch of money building a sewer system and I can't imagine why we don't want to start getting some money back, letting somebody use it," he added.

Steven Kirkpatrick said that there is an explosion of growth in the school district, but added that the Village Administrator reported that in 2018 there were only three new building permits.

"This gives us an opportunity to get some of our money back on the sewer and also help with just the money we can get as part of property taxes," he added.

Former mayor Merle Stalcup said he opposed the variance request because "If you set the lot limit now, it's going to here there forever. Other builders and developers are going to make that request. Sun City is just barely 0.2 acres and you see the closeness of those homes."

Stalcup also expressed concerns over the gravel road portion that he said has been "an implied easement since 1983 when Bell County had it on their records."

Local real estate agent Larry Sands recalled a presentation a year ago showing all of the potential developments around Salado.

"I remember how he explained how very important it was for these developments to be voluntarily annexed into our village for the purpose of some control of the growth with an input of restrictive codes and to increase our tax base and hopefully these new residents would shop locally to not only pay property taxes but increase sale taxes in the village."

"These new residences will pay the $3,750 impact on each home built and will help generate over $600,000 in funds to pay for the new sewer plant," Sands added.

Sarah Whitis said that "a Salado developer that has his family here. I go a lot on trust and I like everything that he said. and as far as lot size goes, if you really just want to compare like I would, .2 acre compared to a quarter acre is 20 cents compared to a quarter."

Village administrator Don Ferguson told aldermen that the developer would pay the cost of connecting the subdivision to the Village wastewater system.

"It will be sized to handle this development in addition to development along the way," Ferguson said. "I say development along the way because there is some interest among property areas between that subdivision and where our line terminates now. As far as any oversizing we don't have anyone down stream asking for service at this point."

Alderman Michael McDougal asked Ferguson if the Village had requirement "to not have more than 35 percent" impervious cover.

Ferguson replied that the various residential zoning districts have different requirements for coverage.

Aldermen also discussed the capacity of the sewer plant for the future growth.

"We have discussions about other developers coming in and concept plans are on the books to be looked at in the near future," said aldermen Michael Coggin. "If we look at all those including Sanctuary and whatever that's going to be out there how does that all stack up with capacity of our plant?"

"The concept plan that you're going to be getting off FM 2268 is actually coming in under septic," Ferguson replied. "They attempted to work out an arrangement from what I understand with Sanctuary and that was not successful in those discussions They're not going to wait."

Ferguson added that "Some others will have interest in wastewater, on the west side."

"Right now you have capacity," Ferguson said. "The thing to keep in mind and that people have to understand and we continue to hear this... this city is not going to live on one wastewater plant and it's just one of those situations that we're going to need to have a wastewater facility on the West Side of town to handle the west side growth and that will hopefully allow for capacity on the east side for the future."

"What happens with Sanctuary is anyone's guess at this stage of the game," Ferguson added. "They've told us for some time they're coming and then we haven't seen anything at this point. We have a development agreement with them in place that says that we need to be able to provide service to them... Sanctuary is obligated to pay the same impact fees that Mr. Rosamond's going to pay if this gets through and the Carothers will pay if they get their subdivisions through and the other guys that come into town and the other gals that come into town will have to pay. So there's not a free ride on the impact fee world for them. They're paying the same upfront substantial cost that everybody that is tying into the system will pay."

Aldermen spoke with the developer about the size and aesthetics of the houses that will be built in the subdivision.

"We intend for them to be brick, rock, just like pretty much everything else in the area," Bear Rosamond said. "We want to stay with exactly what Salado looks like, the homes and the price tag we're going to be asking for lots and homes are going to start at about $275,000-280,000 range... We intend to work with the village. We're not sure what your ordinance states as far as looks or masonry, but we can impose, a self imposed rule of 80 percent masonry or something like that. We're not interested in really anything less than that."

Rosamond stated his address as 11475 Stinnett Mill, which is located in the Salado Mills subdivision which he is developing through his White River Homes construction company.

He compared the proposed development to Paloma on FM 2484. "Obviously it was popular and sold pretty quickly out there," he said. "Those homes out there are almost 100 percent stone and brick and the price range is pretty similar to what we were offering."

"We're going to build a very nice neighborhood that's going to blend in and look like what Salado looks like," Rosamond said. "I live here. My kids go to school here. We've done a subdivision already on the Northeast side of town. It's a very nice subdivision that I feel like has added to the community or at least blended into it and that's what we plan on continuing to do. I'm not an out of town. I'm not leaving."

Mayor Blancett asked Rosamond if his development would be like the growth seen in Killeen and Harker Heights.

"People want to be here, want to be in the schools," Rosamond said, adding that, "You're in a tough position where you do have to make that call and it's about controlled growth because Salado's going to grow."

"This is probably a good measuring stick from here on out but if you are not malleable to an extent with the developers," he said, "they're just not going to come in and you're going to end up locking yourself in and they'll build right around Salado."

He said that after he begins the development that "I

Village to adopt sewer rates 12 days before it is available

Village of Salado Board of Aldermen will adopt monthly sewer rates on March 21, less than two weeks before sewer service is set to go online.

Aldermen voted unanimously on March 12 to propose the rate structure in the graphic at right. The Village will review rates in two years.

The proposed rates presented by HDR Engineering are based on annual demand growth for the system of three percent per year.

The rates structure is calculated to generate about $243,000 in maintenance and operation expenses.

With 144 initial customers (37 residential, 94 non-residential and 13 high impact non-residential), monthly base charges will total $6,560. Water use fees are based on an initial estimated usage of 34,000 gallons per day or just over 1 million gallons per month. Of that, 185,000 gallons per month will be residential us-

Don Ferguson will meet with property owners at 6 p.m. March 21 at the Village Municipal Building to discuss issues leading up to tying in to the sewer beginning on April 2 with a deadline of July 1 for final tie-in of customers.

Local resident wants to get photo back to owner

The flood of 2010 was devastating for Saladoans, including Steve and Mary Grohoski who live at 2213 Bluff Circle. Their home, which sits on the high side of Salado Creek in Mill Creek, was flooded throughout the lower story. They remember well the rubbish and muck that came with the high waters. "There were so many volunteers who came and helped clean it up," Steve said.

It took the couple three years to get back into their Salado home. Recently, they came across this old photo that was among the rubbish that had washed into their front yard. At the time they were cleaning up, they were of course concerned about their own belongings, but saved the photo because they knew its value. "We knew it belonged to someone and is probably very important to them," Mary said. "This may be the only picture they have of the family member." They are sharing with us to share with our readers and the Salado community in hopes that the photo can be reunited with its rightful owner. Salado Village Voice has the original of this photo. If it is yours, please come get it and share with us the story of the boy with the bow tie. You can call 254-947-5321 or come by the newspaper office at 213 Mill Creek Dr., Suite #125 during weekday hours. We hope the boy in the bow tie is reunited with his kith and kin.

20,000 new jobs in Feb.: Harbinger or glitch? Time will tell

The Markets

The impressive recovery from last year's market swoon that ended on December 31 finally ran out of gas in the week ending March 8. The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) declined 2.16 percent to end the week at 2743.07, taking it down to 1.56 percent below where it was last March and down 6.4 percent from last September's high point. The decline over the week was slow and steady, very much aligned with the dripping of not-so-good economic news that when taken together suggests we are on an economic plateau. The direction from here is manifestly unclear.

The benchmark ten-year U.S. Treasury note yield declined 2/100 of one percent for the week to 2.633 percent but the sag in the yield curve between one and five years became more pronounced, reflecting the bond market's unease about economic growth between one and five years from now. 10-year interest rates are now about 36/100 lower than they were three months ago and almost 23/100 lower than a year ago. Lower interest rates suggest the traders in the bond market are expecting growth to slow in the future.

West Texas Intermediate Oil held steady for the week rising a mere 0.45 percent despite ongoing production cuts at OPEC as OPEC forecasts warned of an oil glut in a slowing global economy. WTI Oil is now down 2.83 percent from a year ago but up over 20 percent this year. Gold dropped below $1,300 for a nearly 5 percent loss from one year ago.

The Economy

The headline economic news this week was that the U.S. economy only added 20,000 new jobs in the month of February. Notably, we created 311,000

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

new hires in January and have averaged 185,000 new employees over the past six months. So, what happened? The short answer is, "Nobody really knows." The unemployment rate dropped from the previous 4 percent to 3.8 percent but that was probably a result of the end to the government shutdown. Wages rose slightly, 0.4 percent, putting them up 3.4 percent from last February but the rises were concentrated in services like health-care where there is a critical shortage of qualified workers.

So, is this a harbinger of doom or a short-term, first-quarter glitch? Frankly, we won't know for a month. If this time next month we get a low reading, then the probabilities are that this economic expansion has peaked. If we get a blow-out high number, then it was a glitch.

There was other economic news overshadowed by the jobs report that may be more significant. The 2018 trade deficit hit a record annual $621 billion as U.S. exports declined and imports rose for the third month in a row. The primary underlying reason appears to be the tariffs. U.S. goods are generally at least partly made from imported materials. With, for example, steel 40 percent more expensive in the U.S. than elsewhere, U.S. manufactured goods tend to be more expensive. Add to that the rise in the dollar last year, again at least partially attributable to tariffs, and we are being priced out of the global market. Meanwhile the high dollar and overstimulated U.S. economy is producing more buying power than we can handle, so we are forced to buy elsewhere, outside the U.S.

A parallel to the record trade deficit issue is the fact that for the first four months of fiscal 2019 the federal budget deficit rose 77 percent from the same four months last year. From October through January the Treasury expended $310 billion more than it took in compared with a $176 billion shortfall under the old tax law. Government spending was up 9 percent. The theory was that increased government spending combined with a large tax-cut would stimulate the economy and generate more tax revenue, but for all of 2018, federal revenue declined 1.5 percent. It was, as we have written, a grand experiment to see if the "laws" of economics would yield to a large-scale stimulus. For a couple of quarters, it seemed to be working and then we hit the capacity utilization wall as our infrastructure and labor constraints slowed things down.

It will be educational, and for us economists, interesting, to watch this experiment continue. The game is definitely not over, and it is conceivable that we could remain on the peak of the wave for some time to come, but history argues against it. Meanwhile, let's enjoy the good times and look forward to more. We believe a complete resolution of the trade war could still give us a second wind.

Don't Root for a Trump Primary Challenge

Rich Lowry

The race for 2020 is taking shape, although there are still significant unknowns, including whether Donald Trump will get a serious primary challenge.

His fiercest Republican critics say, "Yes -- please, please, yes."

They are probably wrong, and it's certainly nothing to root for.

Trump's dominance of the party begins with his lockdown support of the right, forcing any primary challenger to the left. This isn't fertile territory. Self-identified moderates and liberals are only a fraction of the party, and it is grass-roots conservative activists who have fueled the most potent Republican primary challenges (Ronald Reagan in 1976, Pat Buchanan in 1992).

Because a primary challenge would naturally come from the left and is unlikely to succeed, it will tend to attract people who don't have a future in GOP national politics and lack conservative bona fides -- the wayward former Massachusetts governor Bill Weld; the centrist governor of Maryland Larry Hogan; the former Ohio governor John Kasich, who convincingly demonstrated his lack of national electoral appeal in 2016.

Trump is in a stronger position in the party now. He's been a rock on judges, abortion and religious liberty. Last time, many Republicans told themselves, "Well, at least compared to Hillary, we don't know what we're getting with Trump." Now, they are grateful for what they've gotten.

Could all of this change? It would require a torpedo to the bow from some enormous scandal and a significant ideological betrayal on something extremely important, like a Supreme Court nominee.

The promoters of a Trump primary challenge still haven't come to grips with how intertwined Trump's fate is with the party's.

If Trump becomes seriously vulnerable to a primary challenge, it's a sign that something very bad has happened that won't be constrained to him. Say it's proof of a criminal conspiracy with the Russians. Is the rest of the party that has defended Trump so vociferously in the Mueller probe going to emerge unscathed? Say it's a sudden economic downturn. What's the case that such an event wouldn't tank the GOP generally?

Indeed, a winning primary campaign against Trump would almost certainly be a catastrophic success. How would the winner put the party back together again for the general election?

Perhaps the hardcore Trump base and media will enthusiastically back whoever slays their champion. But why would they? Besides the inevitable hurt feelings and ideological disagreements, they will surely consider recent precedent -- Never Trump would be the analogue to Never Hogan.

There is obviously a character case to be made against Trump, although Republican voters are already aware of his flaws and strongly support him nonetheless.

The contradiction in the case for a primary challenge is this: If it's a bad thing that Trump is potentially a weak general-election candidate, as Trump's critics say, then why make him potentially weaker with a primary challenge? What many of Trump's GOP detractors won't say out loud is that when they talk of defeating Trump, they don't mean only in a nomination battle; they mean seeing him lose in a general election.

That Republican voters would sense this, and understandably recoil, is another reason a primary challenge is probably a box canyon.

New subdivision is disappointment to those escaping high density

To the Editor:

The new subdivision being considered by the Board of Aldermen is a disappointment to those of us who moved to Salado to escape density and the repercussions thereof. Density is great for a developer, not necessarily so for the village. Squeezing 171 lots into an area zoned for 108 half acre lots definitely maximizes his profit, particularly if there is no requirement for green space. (It also changes the whole complexion of a "new community" originally intended for spacious properties). Paying for the costs of density (everyone knows the long list of expenses associated) will not be offset by property taxes or revenue from water and sewer fees. Sales tax revenue generated is not even a consideration. Increased demand on our water supplier, our trash service providers, and expanded demands on village employees to provide their various services is more than significant. The traffic on Indian Trail and Royal, when the bridges are flooded, will be overwhelming to residents who live on those exit streets from the village to I-35. Speaking of bridges, new ones will be required to accommodate an additional 350 vehicles at some point, based on at least two per new household, at a sizable cost. We simply do not currently have the infrastructure to support this plan. Certain areas to the east of the village already suffer electrical outages from too many demands on Oncor to deliver increased service that has not yet been installed. Hopefully our aldermen will consider that Salado is a "final destination" home for many of us (we bought an existing home three years ago). We do not want to have to "escape" again from the congestion, crime, noise, and marginal maintenance that exists in the communities so very near to us. You can already see the beginning of our being surrounded by observing the intensive rate of "efficient" home construction on FM 2484 and FM1680. Had I seen this coming I would have filed for one of the vacant alderman seats. Hindsight is 20/20.

Dear Editor:

It was good to have the news and image of Pat Barton's honor bestowed by Charlene Carson for community service by Pat as President and active member of the 1979-Chartered Salado Historical Society. After Herbert Fletcher's earlier appointment of Lucile Armstrong Robertson leading to the establishment of the Central Texas Area Museum and the 1961 Scot Clan Gathering and the 1973 Trust initiated by Alice Robertson West and Paine Bush for College Hill Public Park.

Pat served at a challenging time as these various entities and unofficial citizen volunteers often clashed over roles they wished to assume. Pat, assisted by husband John and scholarly daughter, with the supporting advice of Texas Historical Commission, secured more than 20 of Salado's first Texas Historical Markers. At the invitation of the 2011 Robertson Colony Salado College Foundation, a new THC staff member visited to review the Barton report leading to the 1984 awarding of the Texas Archaeological site offering at that time a Texas Landmark award which would transfer from the local community, authority for projects to the State. Attorneys during lifetime of the Robertsons who made first decisions about the Robertson Colony land grants to individuals and businesses had led the practice of local control preventing delay of projects as well as inclusion of uncounted suggestions.

In early days, criticism of local leaders could have been warranted, surely the interested residents today have progressed to the enjoyment of freedom to act in their own interests for a community public park and accompanying amenities. In fact increasingly, Salado attracts the best like Pat Lawshe Barton and Tim and Marilyn Fleischer for this unique weekly newspaper and the quarterly Jewel Magazine.

Local star party will look up to see Great Orion Nebula

The Central Texas Astronomical Society (CTAS) will host public star parties on Saturday, March 16, from 7:30 p.m.- 10 p.m. These free events will be held at Overlook Park near the Stillhouse Hollow Lake dam outside Belton, and at the Hubbard City Lakes Park in Hubbard. CTAS members will provide telescopes for public viewing. Guests are also welcome to bring their own telescopes or binoculars. CTAS will also have a Sidewalk Star Party at Heritage Square, 3rd St., and Austin Ave. in Waco.

A few of the heavenly objects visible this month include M42, the Great Orion Nebula, M45, the Pleiades aka The Seven Sisters, an open star cluster in Taurus, and the Hyades, another open star cluster in Taurus. The Pleiades and the Hyades are excellent objects for binocular viewing. Also visible is M1, the Crab Nebula which is the remnant of a supernova that appeared in the skies in the year 1054 AD. At the time it was reported to be as bright as the full moon in the daytime. Now it is a faint fuzzy patch in Taurus visible in small to medium telescopes. The Rosette Nebula (NGC 2237-9 & NGC 2244) is an emission nebula and an associated open star cluster in the constellation Monoceros.

There are loads of open star clusters visible this time of year including a rather indistinct open cluster, NGC 1502 in the constellation Camelopardalis (the Giraffe). But NGC 1502 is brought to prominence by an asterism called "Kemble's Cascade". Named after its discoverer Fr. Lucian Kemble, a Canadian amateur astronomer and Franciscan friar, the cascade is "a beautiful cascade of faint stars tumbling from the northwest down to the open cluster NGC 1502." It is a wonderful sight for binocular viewing.

In the evening skies, Mars is still visible in the west. Mercury has disappeared into the bright glare of the sun. The other bright planets, Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn are all visible as morning objects.

Participants may want to bring a small flashlight (preferably with a red filter) to get around the parking lot and viewing area and a lawn chair to make viewing more comfortable. You will most likely want a light jacket/hoodie or even a heavy coat. With the possibility of wind coming off the lake, always dress for colder weather than you expect it to be.

Be careful of letters offering cash for land

It wasn't too long after her husband Hans died that the letters started coming.

Out of town realty investments companies offered her cash settlements and fast for the lot next to her home in Salado. They even offered to pay for all of the closing costs on the transaction.

"The letterhead and language looks very official and professional," Field said. The offers include paying for all of the closing costs including "title insurance, recording fees, document fees, document courier charges, notary fees, etc."

The latest came in the mail on March 4 offering $1,270.57 for the 0.77620 acre lot in Mill Creek subdivision. A quick glance at lots in Mill Creek shows a 0.76 acre on Mackie Dr. with sale pending for $85,000 and 0.85 acre lots on Ambrose Dr. for $80,000.

"When you just lost your husband," Fields said, "$1,200 may seem like a lot at the time. I just want others who are in the same situation as I was to be careful if they get these types of solicitation.

ing to be concerned about it. They are going to wonder what their concerns were because this is going to be a nice place, a beautiful place."

"I've only been here four years but this is our home," he added. "I told Merle last night, I'm here. When I see somebody out at a restaurant or walking down Main Street, I'm not going to duck and hide and be ashamed of something that I've done in this town. I've only done things that people like here, I promise you that."

Aldermen approved the concept plan and variance request for lot size on a vote of 2-1, with Jackon and McDougal for, and Coggin against.

Aldermen also approved the formation of a task force committee of five people from the Planning & Zoning Commission and Board of Aldermen to come forward with recommendations for changes in minimum lot sizes for residentially zoned properties.

The board unanimously approved a variance for property at 501 Van Bibber Rd. from regulation that prohibits fences in the front yard of any single-family residential lot.

The board unanimously approve variances for property at 506 San Pedro St. from regulations that prohibit detached accessory buildings in front of the main building and that requires minimum 25 foot front yard setback for a detached garage for a single-family residential lot.

MARCH 18 24th Annual Denver Mills Golf Tournament

The 24th Annual Denver Mills-Tablerock Golf Tournament on Monday, March 18, at Mill Creek Country Club will tee off a busy charity tournament season. The annual event has raised approximately $82,000 since 1996 for Tablerock Festival of Salado, Inc.

This year players will vie for a chance to win a one-year lease of a 2018 Ford EcoSport donated by Johnson Brothers Ford of Temple and $10,000 to be split with Tablerock, said tournament co-chair Letta Meinen. More than 10 teams are expected to play, she added.

Typically, more than 40 Central Texas businesses and individuals support the tournament, said Denver Mills, a Tablerock board member and volunteer as well as tournament name-sake.

To register to play or sponsor, email tablerock1@aol.com or phone (254) 913-3890. Sponsorships are $450 for a team/hole combo, $400 for a team of four players, $150 for a company banner, and $100 per hole sponsorship or player entry.

Registration is from 11:30 a.m. until 12:50 p.m. on Mar. 18, with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. Prizes will be presented from 5:30 to 6 p.m. They include $400 for the first place team, $200 for second place, and Salado Legends tickets for third place.

Proceeds of the tournament support Tablerock, which provides performing arts, such as Salado Legends and A Christmas Carol. Proceeds also helped provide $13,300 in college scholarships to 14 Central Texas students serving on the Legends cast or crew. Tablerock has given more than $184,000 in scholarships to date.

Legends, an outdoor musical drama about Salado's history, features more than 100 community actors and has been presented for 26 consecutive summers at Tablerock's Goodnight Amphitheater. Both Legends and its author, Jackie Mills, have received national recognition from the Library of Congress and the Institute of Outdoor Drama.

SHS takes champion, third in state filmmakers contest

Salado Film Squad participated in the state finals of the UIL Young Filmmakers Festival on March 5 at the historic Paramount Theater in Austin and had champion film and a third place film.

This year, Pencil by Rayne Polkowski captured the state championship in the narrative division. The film follows the life and love of two people through the metaphor of a pencil.

The film can be found at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8LbY31D2haQ&t>

In the documentary category, Voiceless by Roxi Thrasher placed third in State. The film tells the journey of a human trafficking survivor in Texas and how we can prevent it from spreading. The film can be found at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8TEachpH8Qc> makers Festival began in 2014. In the creation of these films, students have an opportunity to share their stories, ideas, and experiences, all through the craft of filmmaking. This year over 700 films were submitted. Since the program's inception, Salado has had 15 films reach the state finals and has won four state championships. Salado Film Squad is under the direction of Tim Cook.

Lander performs with All-State band

Daniel Lander, a member of the Salado High School Band, performed with the Texas All-State ATSSB Symphonic Band in San Antonio at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center as part of the 2019 Texas Music Educators Association Clinic/Convention last month.

Lander was chosen for this prestigious honor through a competitive process held this year across the state at District, Region, and Area levels. Daniel is a student of Charla Kelley and plays the Alto Clarinet at school under her direction. Kelley is a member of the Texas Music Educators Association, a 19,000+ member organization headquartered in Austin. This is Daniel's second time to perform as a member of a TMEA All-State organization. Daniel is the son of Jeff and Jodi Lander.

High school students selected to perform in the All-State concerts have competed through auditions to qualify at the state level. All-State is the highest honor a Texas music student can receive. Just 1,780 students are selected through a process that begins with over 70,000 students from around the state vying for this honor to perform in one of 15 ensembles (bands, orchestras, and choirs).

Ladies beat Liberty Hill, hold down second in soccer

Salado Lady Eagles handed the Lady Panthers a shoot out loss last week. The girls are in second place in district because Liberty Hill beat Salado earlier in the season. Salado and Liberty Hill ended regulation March 8 tied at 1-1. In the shoot out, Salado defeated Liberty Hill 3-1 for the win. The two teams played for 80 minutes with the score tied 0-0. In the first overtime period Mackenzie Miller scored for the Lady Eagles off an assist from Holly Wright. Liberty Hill would tie the game in the second overtime period with a goal off a free kick. In the shootout Liberty Hill missed two of their first three shots and Avery Wright saved their fourth shot on goal. Grace Graham, Allison Carnahan, and Sam Vargas scored for the Lady Eagles in the shoot out to give Salado the win. "The girls fought hard tonight and had great support in the stands to get this win," Coach Michael Goos said. Salado followed the win over Liberty Hill with a 6-0 victory over Lampasas on March 11. Goals were scored by Holly Wright, Hannah Reavis, Madisyn Maddux, Anna Lesley, Avery Wright, and Allison Carnahan.

Holly Wright (2) and Presley Maddux had assists. Salado wraps up district play against Burnet on March 19. JV Lady Eagles The JV Lady Eagles defeated the Lampasas Lady Badgers by a score of 5-0 on March 11. Goals were scored by Caley Aycock, Charlie Thomas, Sydney King, Caelan Teer, and Kaitlyn Casper. Players who assisted with the goals include Caelan Teer, Sydney King, and Savvy Oyler. The shutout was earned by goalies Emma Grant and Preslee Webb.

Eagles come from behind to beat Lampasas 2-1

After conceding a penalty kick to the Lampasas Badgers with one minute left in the half, Salado found themselves down 1-0 on March 11. Salado scored two goals in the last 15 minutes to win the game 2-1. The first goal came from Senior Captain Caleb Chambliss assisted by Senior Matthew Maladonado. The game winner was a goal from Freshman Toby Rios assisted by Junior Javier Chavez. Salado lost to Liberty Hill 4-1 on March 5. Caleb Chambliss scored the lone goal for Salado. The Eagles' record is now 9-2 in district play. Salado sits in second place. They will face Burnet March 19.

Barrow hosts Northbound and Down Music Fest

Barrow Brewing Company in Salado, Texas is hosting the Northbound and Down Music Festival March 16 - 17. This two day music festival will feature an eclectic mix of international and Texas artists.

Chastity, an Ontario-based punk band, will open the festival at 12 p.m. on Saturday. Channeling the feeling of youth on the fringe, Chastity focuses on the earnest connections found amongst the pent up suburban blue-collar. Living in Whitby Ontario, Brandon Williams creates music in a space of urgency, melody and chaos - an artifact of youth culture that bridges isolation and collectivity. Chastity is a stand out temperament in punk, in recent history sharing the stage with Chelsea Wolfe and Metz and others.

Living Hour will perform beginning at 1:30 p.m. Everything about Winnipeg's Living Hour has been expanding since their humble basement beginnings in 2015. What started with dreamy love songs inspired by the cinematic sky of their hometown has transformed into even more sprawling and expansive expressions on their latest effort, Softer Faces. The album was released on March 1, 2019. Living Hour is currently touring the United States (March 2019).

Yawners perform at 3 p.m. Yawners are a Spain-based group with big riffs, big feelings, big tunes. Yawners high energy indie rock feels like a crush.

Landon Bullard Landon Bullard & The Mostly Sober is a Country Western / Americana group based in Austin. They have provided direct support/co-billed with some of the highest charting Texas Country / Americana/Red-dirt acts such as Randy Rogers, Reckless Kelly, Josh Abbott, Cody Johnson and many more. As of late September of 2017, they have independently released and marketed their first radio single, "Patron & Lime" successfully to Texas Radio and all digital platforms. Be on the look out for the much anticipated self-titled EP, "Landon Bullard & The Mostly Sober," which hit the market last spring.

Lilly and the Implements perform at 6 p.m. Lilly Milford, backed by Wes Perryman on guitar, Jon Napier on bass and Evan Shepperd on drums, delivers her original music with power and soulful voice.

The Tyler Stuckey Band, performs at 7:30 p.m. The Tyler Stuckey Band plays honky tonk music. They've played festivals, dive bars, campgrounds, country clubs, night clubs and living rooms. Tyler says, "I have a long story that includes living in teepees, RV's, my truck, in a tent, Alaska, Texas, Montana, love lost, love found, a lot of late nights, early mornings, building mansions and living in hovels. But all of that probably deserves more than a line in a bio. It's all in the songs anyway."

Sunday performances kick off at 1 p.m. March 17 with Austin singer-songwriter Dustin Brown at 1 p.m. followed by local soulful favorite, Haley Cole. Tallies, a Toronto based indie-pop band and Los Antonio's Frios, a national touring psychedelic rock band based out of San Marcos, close out the day. Needless to say, there is going to be something for everyone.

Tickets to the festival are just $5 per person for the entire weekend and children 12 and under are free. Tickets can be purchased online at <https://barrowbrewing.com/northbound-and-down> or at the gate. The festival will happen rain or shine. The brewery's neighbors, the Rosanky family, will offer children's activities next to Salado Creek. There will be food and drink on site for purchase and no outside food or drink will be allowed. Off-site parking will be available at the Salado Civic Center at 601 N. Main Street with shuttle service running all weekend.

The soulful Haley Cole performs at 2:30 p.m. A bio by Jamie Madden says of the song "Jaded" on her album Illusions: "It is at once an impassioned lament to lost love and a testimony to Haley's ascension as a songwriter and vocalist. Her voice soars like a firebird from the ashes of sorrow, hardened against further harm... It's a hauntingly beautiful invitation inside the intimate architecture of loss and resurrection. Like the finest songs borne of very private experiences it has a spellbinding authenticity."

Toronto based indie-pop band Tallies performs at 4 p.m. March 19. Combining up-beat drum beats, melodic bass riffs, jingly guitar leads, and fluttery lighter-than-air vocals, Tallies gives out a soft, yet bouncy ray of sunshine not unlike The Sundays' debut album 'Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic'. Tallies bridges that long lost sound with yet a new and youthful take on something all their own.

Los Antonio's Frios (The Cold Tony's) wrap up the weekend when they perform at 5:30 p.m. March 19. The Cold Tony's big bang traces back to the summer of 2014. A greater force brought these individuals together in San Marcos, TX. The Tony's is comprised of passionate, driven musicians with leader Michael Martinez as the creative singer-songwriter on guitar, Dakota Carley laying down the law of the land in rhythm on drums and thick, lyrical bass lines by Andrew Harkey & fluent Keys by Payton White. The dynamic depth the psychedelic fusion group displays a great maturity with transcendental guitar work and receptive, organic musical awareness each member obtains and capitalizes on.

The Cold Tony's released their first EP entitled "Fresh Fruit" in March 2016. As of February 2017, The Tony's released a second album entitled "Bake Love". Both albums are available on all streaming platforms. A second album is due any month now as the mixing and mastering process are completed.

Since then, the group went on two tours stretching from the Pacific Northwest all the way to Southern Florida. The Cold Tony's frequently perform in and around their home city of San Marcos.

Canyon Treefrog

The Canyon Treefrog is well camouflaged

Many outdoor enthusiasts in the southern United States (or a visitor to a zoo or a nature center for us West-Texans) have seen at least one species of treefrog that lives primarily in, you guessed it, arboreal habitats. These amazing frogs have enlarged toe-pads that allow them to climb even the slickest of surfaces, including glass. What most folks don't know, however, is there is a treefrog that inhabits the dry Trans-Pecos mountains right here in their own backyard. That variety is aptly named the Canyon Treefrog.

Canyon Treefrogs (Hyla arenicolor) belong to a genera of frogs that is known taxonomically as the "true" treefrogs. This genera has five representatives here in Texas, although this variety is the only species found in the western half of the state. This particular variety occurs in the high elevation mountains of Brewster, Presidio, and Jeff Davis counties. It is in these mountainous terrains that it resides in rocky canyons and woodlands that have at least a minimal amount of permanent water. Outside of Texas it can be observed throughout the "sky island" mountains in southern New Mexico and Arizona, southward into deep Mexico.

This moderately-sized anuran can be quite variable in appearance, not only in color, but also depending on the time of the day that it is observed. During the day the background color is light gray, off-white, or a very light pink. There tends to be very faint (if at all discernable) dark blotches of random size erratically scattered along the backside. During the evening hours however, this type of frog undergoes a severe transformation in coloration. After hours, the background coloration is dark gray, brown, or olive and the darker blotches along the backside assume a coloration of various hues of green, brown or even black. The dorsal skin is rough and bumpy in appearance, while the white belly is smooth. There are numerous distinctive bars on the long back limbs, and each toe is adorned with a flattened toe-pad that allows this innocuous creature to climb rather easily in its rocky abode. Another distinctive characteristic of this frog is the white spot just underneath the eye.

This moderately-sized amphibian reaches a total body length of just over two inches. There is not much of a difference in the size of the sexes, but it does appear that the females are typically slightly larger. It is also a stout frog, many times appearing almost as wide as it is long.

Like other amphibians, Canyon Treefrogs live a dual life. This variety of frog will breed in either the spring or summer months, all depending on the availability of water from spring rains or summer monsoons. Mature adult males will congregate along the banks of the shallow pools in the canyons that they call home and will call for the attention of females. Their calling voice is a hollow-sounding repetitious melody. Once a receptive female approaches, the male will clasp the female around the waist and externally fertilize up to 1,000 eggs. This activity is known as amplexus. Once the eggs hatch, the fish-like tadpoles are primarily herbivorous, and over the period of just a few weeks, the tadpoles metamorph into small froglets, developing air-breathing lungs rather than gills, absorbing the tail, and developing legs.

Canyon Tree Frogs are alert and shy, and many are overlooked as they tend to rely on their camouflage for protection by remaining motionless as they are approached. Many a hiker in the mountains have walked right past these remarkable little frogs, completely unaware of the amphibian's presence. Although its range in Texas is small, population densities of this species show it to be very stable, due primarily to the fact that the areas that it calls home are relatively unscathed.

Salado residents share histories

A group of Saladoans have formed a Facebook page to share photos, memories and the less known histories of Salado. The above photos show how the old country school houses in the county were re-purposed after the consolidation that created Salado ISD. The building served as a classroom behind the new red brick Salado school on Main Street.

For Saladoans who wish to join the effort preserve tales of Salado's early settlers, community builders and families visit Salado ~ Tales & Treasures on Facebook.
