Salado will continue growth, planners say

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Even without benefit of a crystal ball, it is evident that Salado will continue to grow. This future growth, Salado school trustees discussed with planners from the Central Texas Council of Governments (CTCOG) Oct. 18, as the board prepares for a February bond election.

CTCOG Executive Director Jim Reid and Director of Planning Shannon Mattingly presented the board with a map of Salado ISD showing at least 20 new subdivisions. "These are the ones that have been platted," Reid cautioned, "that we know about." The map does not include any subdivisions that are in the planning stages, but have not yet been platted.

Reid told school trustees that they should consider these facts when planning for growth in Salado schools.

- Texas is one of the fastest growing states in the nation.

- The central Texas region represented by CTCOG is among the top five fastest growing regions in the state, exceeding only by the urban areas of Dallas, San Antonio and Austin and the border region.

- Bell County, along with Lampasas County, leads CTCOG in population growth at 22 percent for the 1990-2000 period, which is about five percent more than the state average.

- Bell County is bordered by two counties (Williamson and McLennan) that are both exceeding the state average for population growth.

"We're in a high growth corridor, in a high-growth state," Reid said. "There is no doubt that Salado is going to continue to grow."

While the census numbers for "Salado" show an astronomical percentage of growth of 185.8 percent for the 1990-2000 period, the boundaries for the counts were very different. Because Salado had not incorporated in 2000, the boundaries for the count were arbitrary and much larger in 2000 than in 1990, which explains some of the difference between the 1,216 population in 1990 and the 3,475 population in 2000.

While the 3,475 count is more representative of the school district population than the Village population, it does not fully encompass the whole school district, which stretches 100 square miles.

In discussing the growth patterns in Bell County and Salado, Reid and Mattingly told school trustees that transportation could have a real impact on growth.

Reid mentioned the proposed Trans Texas Corridor, which in its second phase will continue to parallel I-35 some five to 25 miles to the east of the interstate. Funding for that corridor may come at the same time that funding for widening of I-35 finally reaches the Salado area. In essence, two major transportation projects with local implications could happen simultaneously. Reid said that the funding for Trans Texas Corridor may happen quickly because of private sector investment.

These projects, and the proposed Loop 201 in Killeen, are years, if not decades away, Reid said. The City of Killeen has been given notice that it will be awarded $7 million to study a new loop to the

An Open Exchange of Ideas

The MoveOn Democrats

John Kerry might yet come back and win. If not, it's possible to pinpoint the moment he and the Democrats put themselves on a glide path toward defeat. It didn't have anything to do with Kerry per se, but it affected contemporary Democratic politics in an irrevocable way. Last June, Howard Dean went on "Meet the Press" and had, by any reasonable standard, a disastrous performance. Among other things, he didn't know how big the U.S. military is.

If the traditional rules of presidential politics had applied, Dean probably would have been laughed out of serious contention. Instead, contributions poured into his Web site, helping create that famous Dean Surge. Donating to Dean despite his obvious shortcomings was a way to stick it to the establishment: "Sure our candidate is a walking embarrassment, but we like him anyway -- so take that!"

Dean eventually got his comeuppance in a Kerry comeback widely interpreted as a return to Democratic rationality. But the massive apparatus of outside Democratic money and activism that fueled Dean didn't go anywhere. It hated President Bush, and it would do as much this year, with its financial might, to define the Democratic message as the Kerry campaign would do.

Just one such outside group, MoveOn.org, has spent roughly $17 million. To what effect? A recent MoveOn.org ad was typical. It slammed Bush for getting us into a quagmire in Iraq, depicting a U.S. soldier slowly sinking into quicksand until he raises his rifle in a surrender-like gesture.

This ad must have been emotionally satisfying to produce, but the over-the-top image of a helpless U.S. soldier was radioactive and provided an opening to the Bush campaign to excoriate Democratic defeatism. Like the Dean candidacy itself, much of the advocacy of anti-Bush lefties this year has been an expression of purposeless fury.

Rich Lowry

The way a slave used to whisper in a conquering Roman general's ear, "You are a mere mortal," Democrats have been whispering in Kerry's ear, "You must be angrier." So he responded to the Swift Boat ads with an attack on Dick Cheney's draft deferments and Bush's Guard service, emphasizing Vietnam just when it was clear Vietnam was the wrong subject for him. Kerry has been advised at every turn to make the race about George Bush, natural advice from people who are motivated above all by their animus toward Bush.

What they are missing is that a challenger must offer his own compelling and substantive vision. Bill Clinton didn't just bash the first President Bush in 1992, he sold his own detailed budget and economic plan. As Kerry has spent more and more time criticizing Bush, unfavorable impressions of his candidacy have steadily increased. He has been driving his own campaign into the ground.

St. Augustine said the wages of sin are sin. Similarly, the wages of the left's impotent rage this year just might be the occasion for yet more impotent rage: a Bush re-election, even after he looked so beatable for so long. Come on, everyone, all together now for a good Dean screech: YAAAAAARGHHH!

Question: How much longer will Congress allow drugmakers to put profits ahead of America's health?

It is difficult to find the right words to properly condemn what the pharmaceutical industry and the government have done to those of us - young and old - who depend on lifesaving vaccines and drugs to prevent and/or survive the ravages of illness and aging.

The absolute greed, and lack of concern, that drug manufacturers have for their customers is shocking, and has been for years. And now we add to this criminal behavior the disgraceful willingness by our elected officials in Washington, from the Administration to Congress, and on to the appropriate regulators - who let drug makers call the shots when it comes to legislating this vital industry.

Fact is, these giant corporations are so overwhelmingly in control of the lawmaking process dealing with their industry, that they are (many times) included in the creation of new laws that affect them, thus naturally perpetuating a "laissez-faire" system that allows staggering shortages and/or mark-ups of their products.

These super-wealthy companies, through their lobbyists (who number more than the membership of both House and Senate), have succeeded over the years in creating a monstrous money making machine, complete with federally approved patent rights, and tied tightly to a fiscal attitude that comes close to creating an illegal monopoly, (without actually crossing that Rubicon), that has hurt the American health system - already reeling from uncontrolled costs that will never be resolved from within the system.

PUBLIC DOCILITY - HOW LONG?

One of the most critical question facing our nation today concerns life itself and how to prolong it with proper health care and medication - and so we ask: How long will citizens be willing to docilely put up with the deadly avarice of the pharmaceutical industry before we demand that our elected representatives stop selling out to those who peddle their live-sustaining pills for profits that exceed what even robber-barons of the past did, through their railroad and oil monopolies?

Some have opined that we don't have to worry about terrorists and their biological bombs, because we're doing their dirty work to ourselves. All because we can't (for example) get the greedy pharmaceutical industry to put together enough Flu Vaccines to keep that dreaded epidemic from killing thousands of our citizens - because the profits are relatively small!

FLU VACCINE CUT IN HALF

Don't think of this as idle or scare chatter - it's true and on the record. Early on - we were told by the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that most of the pharmaceutical houses won't produce the annual flu vaccines needed because it takes too long to make them and more importantly, the dollar return is minimal!

Later we learned there are only two American pharmaceutical houses currently making the flu vaccine (just two of the nearly hundred such profitable conglomerates) and that one of the two vaccine makers fouled up production and had to destroy their entire 2004-5 production!

That's right - 48 million flu vaccine doses destroyed due to contamination, which means carelessness and lack of quality control (in this instance) by the Chiron Corporation at its British factory. Incidentally - it was the British Health Ministry that discovered the vaccine contamination and halted distribution.

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

Not the company itself. Why? A question that begs an investigative answer!

That leaves 52 million doses of the vaccine out of the hundred million normally produced. Distributing the remaining shots to those most in need will cause great pain, consternation and anger. Outrageous price gouging has already begun. Millions will have to do without - in part due to our governmental failure to demand an adequate supply of vaccine be made available. And, of course, because drug companies who could - but will not - produce the life-saving vaccine.

CONGRESS MUST ACT

Our politicians in Washington need to overcome their depressive ways of doing business and immediately sit down with the CDC, the American Medical Association, and all the pharmaceutical chiefs and lay it on the line. Tell the pill peddlers they can forget all special favors they have been promised (thanks to their contributions) and force them to listen to the new health "rules of engagement!"

If they want any further federal grants for research or tax breaks or corporate welfare - they must agree to produce (between them) sufficient flu vaccine each year to inoculate each and every citizen in the Unites States!

That's right - even if they have to eventually throw away a large percentage of their production because of non use - these vaccines must always be made available and kept on hand.

THE ULTIMATE WEAPONS

What are Congress' other "Ultimate Weapons" so desperately feared by the drug industry? Quite simply - price controls and/or a federal takeover.

Those two big guns would keep the profiteers in line. And if the pharmaceutical cartel refuses to do what the government requires (enough flu shots - for starters) just slap immediate price controls on their products. And if that won't work, have the CDC take over production of flu vaccines and distribute them through the health provider systems throughout the nation.

Sure - it's a tough way to solve a problem. But so would thousands of deaths be tough to explain, whether you're in the White House or Congress, or hiding behind the scandalous belief that uncontrolled business activities and obscene profits are the only ways to go - and to blazes with the public.

Socializing our entire health care system is the wrong thing to do - because it won't work. Controlling costs and distribution of essential medications is the right thing to do - and it will work!

WARNING

Not so gentle reminder to our political class: "An aroused public can curtail your future political plans quicker than lawmakers can pocket a friendly unreported contribution!" So be warned and be careful - perhaps for the first time in your career, because this matter of providing properly priced medicines is important to the health and well being of all Americans.

And the public is getting restless!

It all happened kinda like this (maybe).

One Sunday while Elvis was living in Killeen due to being stationed at Ft. Hood, his beloved Momma said that the kitchen where they were living was too small and she would like to have a bigger kitchen. There were a lot of hangers-on there and so Elvis and his Grace fell in love with the village. She asked Elvis to buy her a house with a big kitchen. After driving around for a short time, Grace saw the perfect house and asked Elvis to buy it. Elvis decided they would make an offer on her dream house, the Tyler House. The next week, though, Elvis got orders for Germany, so those fried peanut butter and banana sandwiches were really never cooked in our kitchen. But think how close we may have come. Well, the time has come. Let's celebrate.

One battle does not a war make

By DELL GIBSON

The press, the pundits, the politicians keep calling it the "War in Iraq". That basic terminology is flawed. That is like equating the Battle of Belleau to World War I. Observing the situation from a strategic point of view; we are fighting the Battle of Iraq and waging the Worldwide War on Terror.

Critics of the warfare in Iraq are stuck in a tactical (short term) mind set, and they do not grasp - or they choose to ignore - the strategic (long term) significance. We are clearly in a worldwide war against terrorism committed by a network of islamofacist fanatics (lower case intentional) and Saddam Hussein was clearly an enthusiastic supporter. The term terrorist includes not only the bomber, but the one who harbors the bomber, encourages bombing, or pays for the bomb.

Consider: Iraq is located in the middle of the hothouse of terror incubation and was, before the USA intervened, the most powerful military in the region. That fact alone (never mind Hussein's fondness and aspiration for bigger and better weapons) is sufficient justification for military intervention of the most decisive nature by the freedom loving nations of the world (or at least those who were not doing big business under the table with Hussein).

The aftermath of the decisive defeat of Hussein's military and our demonstrated determination to see it through to the end has seen two significant, if not totally predictable results.

The first is the acceleration of the employment of the types of warfare the terrorists had been planning to wage down the road. These activities are being previewed on the streets of Iraq instead of springing up as unpleasant surprises in peace-loving nations worldwide.

The second (and fully intended) result is the reduction of enthusiasm for similar behavior by countries neighboring Iraq; witness Libya. Kaddaffi, clearly not wanting to go the way of Hussein, wisely decided to abandon his nuclear ambitions and make nice.

On another border, the youth of Iran are considering that assistance may be available should they decide to overthrow the dangerous oppression of the Ayatollahs. The fact that there are US Troops on both borders is clearly an encouragement.

Iraq is the second wake-up call for the planet and the USA set the alarm. We declared the Worldwide War on Terror with the ousting of the Taliban in the Battle of Afghanistan. The Taliban military was defeated and the regime removed, but some terrorists remain. Iraq is the second battleground. Hussein's military was defeated and the regime removed, but the terrorist resistance remains.

In both instances, it is just a matter of time and persistence, but if the remnants are allowed to remain unchallenged before a stable government is established, the terrorist regimes may again gain dominance. The strategies of terror depend heavily on stealth and patience, working behind the scenes and in the shadows. The pressure applied by the US and our allies, including the modern elements of Iraqi society, has forced the terrorists to employ the tactics they were saving for future adventures.

Tactics such as attacking local police to discourage opposition, intimidating voters from casting ballots thus discouraging the spread of democratic ideas and ideals, and massive attacks just prior to national elections abroad in order to panic voters toward appeasement (a temporary respite at best and always an encouragement for future attacks).

It is wise to remember that the behavior you reward is the behavior you encourage. This is true at all levels of society, from the Class Room to the Board Room; from the Court House to the White House, actions have consequences, sometimes unintended. Inaction also has consequences. Failure to react when action is called for is encourages repetition. That is why action must be considered for its strategic value.

A worldwide army of terrorists cannot be drafted or supported by taxes. It cannot be openly equipped and maintained by a cooperative national economy. It functions more like a crime family than a military unit, but instead of enriching itself for personal gain, it is intent on bringing down legitimate governments and replacing them with brutal theocratic dictatorships. It is structured like a crime family but it cannot be eliminated by cops and courts, it must be fought by warriors. You don't go to a gun fight armed with a warrant and wearing a protective subpoena.

Only a coalition of free nations dedicated to maintaining their freedom can win the Worldwide War on Terror. Terrorists are enemy combatants; they have no civil rights. Terrorists have forfeited all protection afforded military personnel under the Geneva Convention. Their actions demonstrate no respect for civilized conduct or the rules of war.

That is not to say that terror organizations are not heavily involved in ordinary profitable crime. They are heavily into robbery, drug trafficking, kidnapping, financial scams, and the illegal arms trade with additional funding coming from phony charities and secret sympathizers.

The cult of terror thrives best in societies still locked into a tribal cultural context: the interlocking cells are contained and controlled

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It is something to watch Salado volunteers in actions, whether it's helping include many people into our ETJ or putting together three days of a spectacular "Christmas in October."

This has grown from a one day affair to three days of an evening preview party and two full days of merchants selling their beautiful wares. This is my 27th year to have a part and as always, grateful for the many who come together like a concert to pull together such an event.

The weather was cool and perfect. The Bake Sale would every delicious item provided by the great cooks of Salado and sales were good for the vendors, and thanks to those who helped in promoting the whole "Christmas in October."

Our co-chairmen, Pat Wanzor and Cathy Sands worked for months to cover every part of the plans. This is the main money maker for the Ladies Auxiliary, which in turn gives scholarships and grants to many needs in the Village.

I want to also thank every man who helped from hauling, climbing ladders, fixing electric needs, putting out signs, decorations, and just listening to women's orders and smiling through it all! I wish I could mention everyone who had a part but most of Salado would be on the list. As an "old timer" at this I just want to thank everyone who helped "The Village."

Doris Denman,
Salado

To the Bakers, Workers and Donators of Salado:

The Salado Chamber of Commerce Ladies Auxiliary would like to thank each and every one of you for contributing to the success of the "Christmas in October" Bake Sale.

The talented Salado bakers and candy makers supplied a dazzling array of delicious homemade goodies that awed the visitors to the event. Their time and effort is greatly appreciated.

I would also like to thank Rick Strong of Brookshire Bros., H.E.B. in Temple and the Salado Village Artists for contributing so much to the project. And a special thanks to the volunteers who gave so generously of their time to make the event so successful. With their support the Auxiliary can continue to give grants back to the community.

Sincerely,
Helen Clayton
Bake Sale Chairman

Terrorism

in a family, clan, or sect with an ascending order of charismatic leaders. This makes the cells very difficult to penetrate, but the leaders are easier to identify. They are the ones receiving the funding. Follow the money. The international money trail will eventually spotlight the leaders and the most effective tactic is to take them out. That is to say, capture and/or kill them.

Drastic, yes, but the benefit is two fold. First, the organizations activities are interrupted. Secondly, the believers down the line become increasingly less enthusiastic about assuming a leadership position as they observe the liabilities attendant to such a promotion. Remember, actions have consequences. The consequence of terrorist leadership is early retirement... from life.

Now is not the time in the history of civilization to be confused about the objectives or the most expeditious means to achieve them.

Terrorists must be identified and destroyed. The only reason to take a terrorist alive is to squeeze information from him to identify others and deter the next attack on innocent victims.

The notion that if we just join a dialog and try to understand why they dislike us is utterly absurd. They hate us because we are not them. There is no record of a reformed terrorist. The next generation of terrorists is now being selected, groomed, and programmed for recruitment. They are five and six years old. By the time they are 10 or 12, they are irretrievable.

This war will not be over soon and there will be many battles. By the time these new recruits are issued an AK47, an RPG, or a bomb vest, they are well beyond conversion to civilized behavior. We must interrupt the cycle of violence by shutting down the terror academies, and eliminating the teachers and preachers of hate, death and destruction. We need to start now and never falter for as long as it takes.

For those who naively believe the UN will help, let me point out that 60 percent of UN members are essentially dictatorships under the control of royal families, warlords, theocracies, or communist regimes, and with France and Germany selling their veto to protect markets instead of lives, the UN is impotent to be anything but a Red Cross surrogate.

Perhaps it's time to consider forming an Alliance of Democratic Republics based on shared political and ideological fundamentals to cooperate in defeating and eliminating terrorism from the planet forever.

Just a thought.

Schleedes celebrate 60 years of marriage

William and Ramah Schleede will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary with a 2-5 p.m. reception at the Halley House, in Salado.

The event is hosted by the couple's family: Janis Allen, of Temple; Cindy and Will Clifton, of Salado; and grandchildren Heather Marshall, of Temple, and Ryon Clifton, of Stephenville.

Bill and the former Ramah Lorraine McGuyer met while attending Salado High School. The couple was married at Barksdale Air Force Base in Shreveport, LA, on Oct. 26, 1944. They have lived in the Bell County area since Bill left the Air Force in 1946.

Family and friends of the Schleede's are invited to the reception to celebrate the occasion.

Woodfill speaks at fundraiser for Lone Star Lions Eye Bank

Lions Eye Bank of Central Texas, the eye donor and sight restoration program serving 36 area counties will commemorate three decades of service 6 p.m. Oct. 30, at Mill Creek Inn and Golf Club in Salado. The Thirtieth Anniversary Celebration will feature NASA Warning Systems Engineer, Jerry Woodfill, as keynote speaker.

"Houston, we've had a problem," were the words Jerry Woodfill heard in his headset that Monday evening, April 13, 1970, shortly after 9 p.m. It was the first indication of a grave situation that threatened the lives of Jim Lovell, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert, the Apollo 13 crew. Woodfill's presentation is an insider's account adding another dimension to the story.

Since 1974, the Eye Bank has managed the Central Texas eye donor and sight restoration program, thus making it possible for more than 20,000 individuals to regain their sight through corneal transplantation.

Texas Lions Club members in Districts 2-S3, 2-S5 and 2-X3 help sponsor the program and promote donation and transplantation awareness throughout the area.

This celebration serves as a reminder of all that has been given to make this community service possible; and, it serves as a platform from which the Eye Bank launches another decade of dedication to sight restoration. And, the Eye Bank will begin this new decade of service with a new name - Lone Star Lions Eye Bank.

The Sight Restoration Celebration will include a silent auction, dinner and Woodfill's presentation, "What Really Happened on Apollo 13." All proceeds benefit the eye donation and sight restoration programs of the Lions Eye Bank.

Tickets for this event are $25 per person and are available only through advance sales. Sponsorship and or donations of items for the Silent Auction for this event are welcome.

Military invited to pony-up to CTBRA finals

The Central Texas Barrel Racers Association will be putting a decidedly patriotic spin on their upcoming finals, set to take place Oct. 24 at Salado's Wildfire Ranch.

As a way to honor U.S. soldiers, particularly those serving overseas in Iraq and Afghanistan, the cowgirls have planned a variety of demonstrations to show their support.

The idea came from Jo Alexander, who has served as president of the 18-year old organization for the past two years. When she's not competing in barrel racing, Alexander works as a civilian on Fort Hood with DENTAC (Dental Activity). It was when her office was treating a soldier recently returned from Iraq, who had also attended one of the CTBRA's rodeos, that the thought struck Alexander that something should be done to honor the troops - even though most CTBRA members have no military ties.

So now the 200-to-250-strong CTBRA contingent will do what they can to show their support in a fashion unique to the rodeo way of life.

The finals will begin with the presentation of a color guard and the singing of the national anthem. Each competitor will ride in honor of a soldier, with the announcer stating the soldier's name and rank prior to the ride. A placard bearing the soldier's name will be worn on the rider's back.

Additionally, CTBRA members will draw names of soldiers currently deployed in Iraq. A photographer will take an action shot of the competitors, which will then be made into a poster - designed by the rider - and mailed to the respective soldier whose name was drawn.

Alexander is encouraging all active duty military personnel to attend. She plans to present any soldiers in attendance with a small gift of a leather cross key chain.

Following the opening ceremonies at 1:30 p.m., riding will commence and continue until Macy Ashford (left) and Ross Ashford (right) will participate in the upcoming CTBRA finals at Wildfire Ranch. The finals will honor U.S. military personnel. Macy and Ross are the daughter and son of Troy and Mandy Ashford, of Salado.

approximately 5 p.m. Trailers will be awarded to winners in the Open and Novice divisions, and saddles and buckles will also be part of the prize pot - totaling in excess of $40,000.

Members competing range in age from four to

70. Admission to the event is free and open to the public.

Eagles knock out Salado, 41-21

By TIM FLEISCHER
 EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Football, a game typically measured in yards and drives, sometimes comes down to inches and a play or two.

The box score is sometimes incomplete in its storytelling, as is the case in the 41-21 loss Salado Eagles suffered at the hands of the Lexington Eagles, who are second place in district. The loss has all but eliminated the Salado Eagles' play-off chances as Salado now sits at 3-3 for the year and 1-2 in district play.

Lexington took a commanding 34-14 lead into the lockers at half-time, but it was almost not the case as Salado saw a chance to close Lexington's lead to a touchdown with two minutes until the whistle.

After Salado tied the score with a touchdown on a four yard pass from Wesley Ruth to Tucker Wilhite, Lexington added two unanswered touchdowns. Lexington drove from midfield to score on a one yard dive by Kendrick Robinson. The Eagles then drove 88 yards in nine plays to push the score to 21-7 with 5:35 left in the half.

Salado drove from their own 43 yard line to the Lexington 17 yard line in six plays, including a 25 yard pass from Ruth to Devon Dunn, to set up a first down. Ruth ran the ball to the Lexington nine yard line. Josh Jacobsen pushed it up the middle to the eight yard line. Ruth tried to sneak it across for a first down, but was stopped four inches short at the Lexington 7 yard line, forcing a fourth down. Salado ran the ball again and Ruth was caught in the backfield by a blitzing Jordan Peterson, who created havoc for Salado on both sides of the ball.

Instead of threatening to close the gap to one touchdown, Salado found themselves on their heels as Lexington pushed the ball 90 yards in 50 seconds to score on a 9 yard pass from Peterson to E.J.

With leg fully healed, Everett wins Academy Invit., Ervi also takes first as Lady Eagles take team gold

Defending state cross country champion Nick Everett bested the field at the Oct. 14 Academy Invitational by nearly a minute, while sophomore Chelsea Ervi took home the gold on the girl's side in an impressive showing for both cross country squads.

Competing in a field of almost 100 runners, Everett finished with a time of 16:32.7, which was well ahead of Bruceville-Eddy's Homero Gutierrez, who came in at 17:27.1. Everett's time propelled the boys to a third place team title, with 72 points. That put them just behind Rogers (66 points) and Bruceville-Eddy (71 points).

Individually, senior Travis Clark placed fifth with a time of 17:30.7 and Jon Kendall came in 10th at 18:01.9. Other individual runners included Ryan Clark (21st, 18:51.3) and Greg Faber (50th, 20:54.2).

For their part, the Lady Eagles placed three runners amongst the top four finishers on the way to an 11-point rout of the rest of the field. Salado totaled 33 points, while second place Academy trailed behind with 42. Third place Waco Connally was far behind, with 99 points.

Ervi's first place effort was clocked at 12:57.

Volleyballers close out

season Oct. 22 at home

Playing better week-to-week but still unable to pick up a win, the Lady Eagles volleyballers dropped a match to Lexington Oct. 15 in three close games: 25-23, 25-23 and 25-23.

Winless in district, Salado will close out the season Oct. 22 at home versus Florence.

Tamra Stanish finished third with a time of 13:41 and Leigh Martin came in fifth at 13:51. Rachel Hargrove finished just out of the top 10, with her 14:14 time good enough for 12th. Other individual runners were Valerie Clark (19th, 14:40), Rachel Blodgett (23rd, 14:51), Brittani Goodnight (41st, 15:29) and Jenny Goode (42nd, 15:31.2).

The cross country team will next run in the District 25AA meet, Oct. 25 at Tenroc Ranch.

Both Everett and Ervi,

THE CLEARWATER UNDERGROUND WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT

DISTRICT INFORMATION

The Clearwater Underground Water Conservation District (CUWCD or District) manages Bell County's groundwater. There are two major aquifers within the District-the Edwards (Balcones Fault Zone-BFZ) and the Trinity. The Edwards (BFZ) is located in the southern portion of the county and the Trinity underlies all of Bell County.

Water levels in the Edwards (BFZ) aquifer have remained fairly constant with discharge equal to recharge. However, water levels may start to decline as production from wells increases, unless recharge is augmented through methods such as brush control and dams. Water levels in the Trinity have been declining over the years and are expected to continue declining because of limited recharge in Bell County.

Water quality of the Edwards (BFZ) is generally good in the outcrop portion of the aquifer, with levels of total dissolved solids (TDS) less than 500 milligrams per liter (mg/l). In contrast, water quality of the Trinity is generally not good, with TDS levels generally high (between 1,000 and 3,000 mg/l).

Production figures for permitted wells-generally wells producing more than 25,000 gallons per day-are reported to the District on a monthly basis. The chart below compares production from permitted wells for 2003 and 2004 (through August). During 2003, production figures were recorded for 43 permitted wells and totaled 849.7 million gallons, or 2,608 acre-feet of groundwater. During 2004, production has been recorded for 52 permitted wells and totals 520.9 million gallons, or 1,599 acre-feet through August. The charts below show the groundwater source for this production.

BELL COUNTY AQUIFERS

Outcrop: The part of a water bearing rock layer that appears at the land surface.
Downdip: The part of a water-bearing rock layer that dips below other rock layers.

CUWCD News/Upcoming Events

- Bell County Water Symposium October 27, 2004, Bell County Expo Center. This event is open to the public free of charge. Hear about the water issues facing Texas and whether they will impact you. Topics include the rule of capture; water marketing; rainwater harvesting; brush control; water quality protection; and water demand and availability in Bell County. Please RSVP.
- Well Plugging Demonstration coming this fall.
- Free Water Quality Testing for registered well owners-contact the District office for details.
- Additional aquifer monitoring sites needed - please contact the District office.

One acre-foot is the amount of water needed to cover one acre of land a depth of one foot.

The District measures water levels from selected wells twice annually. This data supplements water level measurements taken annually by the Texas Water Development Board. Water levels for five monitor wells are shown in the table below.

A Summary of the Hydrologic Cycle Bringing All the Pieces Together

The hydrologic cycle begins with the evaporation of water from the surface of the ocean. As moist air is lifted, it cools and water vapor condenses to form clouds. Moisture is transported around the globe until it returns to the surface as precipitation. Once the water reaches the ground, one of two processes may occur; 1) some of the water may evaporate back into the atmosphere; or 2) the water may penetrate the surface and become groundwater. Groundwater either seeps its way to the oceans, rivers, and streams, or is released back into the atmosphere through transpiration. The balance of water that remains on the earth's surface is runoff, which empties into lakes, rivers and streams and is carried back to the oceans, where the cycle begins again.

The Salado JV kept rolling with a 28-6 home victory over Lexington Oct. 14. The win improved the JV to a perfect 7-0 on the season. Lexington came into the contest with only one loss, that coming against Rogers.

Salado received the ball first, moving the ball down the field to the Lexington 25, where the drive stalled on a failed fourth down attempt. Lexington took over, but was forced by Salado's stingy defense into a three-and-out punting situation.

The Eagle offense again moved the ball, but for the second consecutive possession failed to convert on fourth down, this time on a fourth and six.

Lexington took over again, managing to pick up a first down before being stuffed by Salado's defense.

Kevin Goodman returned the ensuing punt 16 yards to set up Salado at their own 42-yard line. Having a difficult time finding a rhythm, the Eagle offense was unable to capitalize on the good field position, as they punted the ball back to Lexington.

The see-saw defensive battle continued well into the second quarter until Leo Galvan's strong running ignited the Salado offense. On a big third down and 10 from the Lexington 35, Justin Whitfield hauled in a 30-yard pass from Stephen Quick to set up the Eagles at the Lexington five yard line. On the very next play, Galvan punched it in to put Salado up by a touchdown, breaking the scoreless tie. The two-point attempt was unsuccessful.

After kicking off to Lexington with less than two minutes to go in the half, Salado's defense pushed Lexington back, highlighted by a big third down stop by Justin Powell. Taking their second timeout, the Eagles forced Lexington into a punting situation with 20 seconds to play.

Following a short run on first down, Salado used their final timeout with five seconds remaining on the clock. Using a bit of razzle-dazzle, on the half's final play Salado executed a double-reverse pass, hitting a wide open Chad Tumey for the score.

A successful two-point conversion run by Galvan gave Salado a 14-point lead and all the momentum going into halftime.

The third quarter began with another big stop from Salado's defense. Picking up where they left off, the Eagle offense - and Galvan and Joe Clinard in particular - advanced the ball down the field. The drive culminated with Galvan's second five-yard touchdown run of the game. The PAT was no good, putting the score at 20-0.

Lexington tried to claw their way back into the game, scoring on their next possession. That would be all the Eagle defense would surrender, however. On the next offensive possession, Salado marched down to the Lexington five, when, confronted with yet another fourth down, the Eagles scored on a play action pass from Quick to Josh Bush. Whitfield caught the two-point pass, giving Salado a hard-earned 28-6 lead late in the game.

"The defense played another physical game and the offense got rolling in the second quarter," commented Coach Jerod Womack. "This team continues to play the game at a high level of intensity. It is enjoyable for all of us coaches to be around a hard-working group of kids that plays the game the way it is supposed to be played." The JV Eagles will take their undefeated record into Florence Oct. 21, with kickoff set for 7 p.m.

Freshmen

After scrambling to try to find an opponent for last week, Coach Tom Long might have been better off taking a bye.

Going head-to-head with Thorndale's JV squad, the hard-luck Salado freshmen were blanked by a score of 33-0 Oct. 14.

The Bulldogs, said Long, "were big, fast and very well coached. That was easily the best team we've played all season, and we were overmatched."

Eighth Grade

In a fairly odd coincidence, for the second straight week both the seventh and eighth grade teams failed to score a point, and both were defeated by the exact same score. Two weeks ago, it was dual 28-0 losses to Academy. Last week, it was both squads falling 20-0 to Lexington's junior high teams.

Salado's eighth grade team was done in by turnovers and surrendering big plays on defense. The play of the offensive line and the blocking of fullback Jacob Peschel, did stand out as offensive bright spots, however.

Tyler Wright had a 22-yard run, while Logan Foster and Josh Rodriguez both ran the ball well.

"The defense as a whole was much improved, we just have to stop giving up big plays," said Coach Bobby Peschel. "We really played better than the score indicates. Our turnovers kept us from making a game out of it."

The eighth graders will take a 2-4 record into Florence Oct. 21.

Seventh Grade

Although his seventh grade squad didn't come away winners against Lexington, Coach Joe Mullins did state that his team showed a lot of improvement from a week ago, and they played hard the entire game - a 20-0 defeat.

Offensively, Colby Montgomery, Ethan Mitchell, Boomer Wells, Jace Peralta and Brandon Heller played well. Defensively, it was C.J. Goodman, Reed Farr, Danny Mitchell and Caleb Little leading the way.

The loss dropped the seventh graders to 1-3-1 on the season. They will travel to Florence Oct. 21 with the game kicking off at 5 p.m.

Rusty Garrett on the Hazards of being a TV weatherman

By CHRIS MCGREGOR
STAFF WRITER

By the very nature of their work, one would think weather forecasters would flame-out pretty quickly. What with all the unpredictability of the weather - especially here in Texas - it seems a profession tailor made for a breakdown.

Not so for KWTX's Rusty Garrett, the man who has stood in front of the blue screen for Central Texas' Channel 10 news for the past 15 years.

A Victoria native, it was in his hometown that he got his first break in television. Other assignments took him to east Texas, but in 1989 he came on board as weather anchor for Waco-based KWTX, and he's been a fixture ever since.

"It's been an amazing run of years here in Central Texas," Garrett said in his Oct. 13 address to the Salado Lions Club. "I believe that I have the greatest job in the world."

That job that suits him so well began as most things do - as an irrepressible childhood interest. In Garrett's case, he can actually point to a specific event that triggered it all. In 1961, a good bit of Texas in and around the coastal region was hit hard by Hurricane Carla. Victoria was not spared the fury.

Seeing trees uprooted, street signs buckled and roofs ripped from their frames, Garrett says he was awed by sheer power of the storm, but was not just attracted to the visceral impact of catastrophic weather, but also to the basic questions of "how" and "why."

"That experience planted a seed of interest that always stayed with me," he explained.

Combine that with Garrett's self-professed penchant for being a "ham," and you've hit upon the formula for creating a television weatherman.

"With what I do, there is no gray," he said. "It's black or white. People either love you or despise you. I happen to have contingents of both."

Garrett said it didn't take long to realize how quickly he could get on a viewers' bad side. Take, for example, interrupting a broadcast to air an emergency weather announcement.

"We desperately try to inform our viewership while at the same time staying sensitive to those people who just want to watch TV," says Garrett.

Rarely can both camps be satisfied, though. In an incident that stamped itself into Garrett's memory, he was once forced to break into one of those made-for-TV murder mysteries - the type that run for two hours but nothing really important happens until the final 10 minutes.

It was precisely those action-filled final moments that Garrett interrupted. "I was on in 30-seconds, and off in 30-seconds," he remembers. "But you can imagine what the switchboard was like after that. For the next 45 minutes they were re-directing phone calls to me. However, over 20-plus years in the business, I've grown to have a lizard-like skin."

His on-screen work has also helped to serve as a springboard for other things Garrett feels strongly about - namely, children and education.

He helped to link Central Texas schools into the School Watch Network, and now over 70 area schools, including Thomas Arnold Elementary, are equipped with real time weather equipment and materiel that they access through the internet. In other words, by logging-on in the classroom students can witness weather events as they happen, just as the professionals do.

"We're glad to be able to offer that program to the community," Garrett said.

After several more anecdotes, Garrett found himself fielding the requisite weatherman question: How's the weather going to be this winter?

Rusty Garrett

"The official forecast," he stated, "suggests that Texas and the southern United States will have a mild winter with above average rainfall. Don't look for any snow storms this winter."

Avoid putting too much company stock into your 401(k) retirement

Here's a scary statistic: Nearly 58 percent of Enron employees' 401(k) assets was invested in Enron stock as it fell 98.8 percent in value during 2001, according to the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD). And here's a still more frightening piece of informa-

Financial Focus

by Allen Mantanona

tion: Even after the fall of Enron, many employees have even larger percentages of their 401(k) assets in their company stock than Enron employees did.

Of course, Enron was an extreme example; most companies don't flame out in that fashion. Yet, almost all companies go through ups and downs — and, if you're overloaded on company stock, these "downs" can take a pretty good whack at your 401(k) balance.

To complicate matters, your employer may use various methods to encourage you to make company stock a significant part of your 401(k). For one thing, you may be able to buy the stock for less than the current market price — and it's hard to resist the temptation of a "good deal." Also, you may be able to defer a higher percentage of your salary to your 401(k) if you're buying company stock. And your employer may even choose to make matching contributions in stock, rather than cash.

You need to be aware of this potential institutional "bias" toward using your employer's stock in your 401(k). Even if your company truly is worth investing in, you'll be doing yourself a favor by limiting your exposure to company stock. In fact, many experts recommend that you limit company stock to no more than 10 percent of your 401(k) portfolio.

To avoid getting "bogged down" with company stock, you'll need to make a conscious effort to spread your 401(k) dollars among the various investment options in your plan. Diversification is the key to investment success outside your 401(k) — and it's just as important within your plan, too.

Fortunately, most 401(k) plans have expanded their investment choices in the past decade or so. Depending on your plan, you could easily have a dozen or more options, including pooled investments containing stocks or bonds, money market accounts and guaranteed investment contracts (a type of investment that offers preservation of principal and a fixed rate of return).

With all these choices, how can you know the proper way to diversify your 401(k)? Actually, there's no one "right" answer for everyone. To effectively allocate your assets inside your 401(k), you need to take into account your tolerance for risk and your time horizon. So, for example, if you are by nature an aggressive investor, you'll probably want to weight your 401(k) more heavily toward the stock accounts. Also, if you're just starting out in your career, you have a lot of time to overcome any "down" periods in the market, so you might want to invest more aggressively than you would if you were nearing retirement. It's a good idea to review your 401(k) asset allocation at least once a year to see if it still fits your needs and goals.

Get the most from your 401(k)

By looking beyond your company's stock, and by allocating your assets across a range of investments, you can help ensure that your 401(k) will pay off for you when it counts — during your retirement.

Diversify, diversify,

The magic of buying a home!

Buying and Selling

by Ryan Hodge

You walk into the darkened conference room of a real estate office and see a crystal ball on the table. The agent's hands pass over the sphere. Like magic, it lights up and there, in plain sight, is the home of your dreams!

Time for a reality check! There is no magic to finding your next home. It takes lots of work and time by a dedicated agent to locate just the right home.

Begin by pouring out your heart, sharing every aspect of the home you want - location, style, size, price, and more. This helps the agent begin a comprehensive search among the many available homes, eliminating those that don't match your needs. The result is a great selection from which to choose.

Wait, there's more - it's called feedback. As you look at homes, share your impressions with the agent so that the process of elimination begins.

Continue to narrow the search by making a decision as you visit each home. Compare it with the one just before it, and choose one. When you visit the next home, compare it with your previous choice. This way, you are comparing only two homes at a time.

When you have seen them all, your choice will be clear. There is no magic involved, just a sincere effort by the agent to turn your dreams into reality!

Don't settle for any ordinary

A.J. Turnbo Cemetery recently designated as Historic Texas Cemetery by state historians

Youngsfort - The Texas Historical Commission (THC) has designated the Andrew Jackson Turnbo Cemetery as a Historic Texas Cemetery.

Located approximately one mile north of Live Oak Cemetery near Youngsfort, this cemetery has two identifiable graves, one a fenced grave belonging to Andrew Jackson Turnbo, born Feb. 15, 1828, died June 20, 1876. Also buried nearby is one B.T. Moore, a child born Nov. 20, 1872, died Feb. 26, 1876. Field stones mark the graves of several unknown individuals buried nearby.

"The historic Texas cemetery designation is a tool that will increase public awareness of these important cultural resources. Such awareness and education are among the best ways to guarantee the preservation of a cemetery," said Larry Oaks, Executive Director of THC.

"Cemeteries hold valuable historical information. They are often the last reminders of early settlements' historical events, religious beliefs, lifestyles and genealogy."

Charlie Turnbo, a great grandson of Andrew Jackson Turnbo, requested the designation and was assisted by area residents and employees of the THC who helped document this location. Chris Dyer, who has been surveying and recording cemeteries throughout Central Texas, helped map the site with GPS coordinates.

"The cemetery area is hundreds of yards from the nearest road and would have likely been lost to obscurity, except for the interest of several family members and help from the Texas Historical Commission," said Turnbo. The A.J. Turnbo gravesite is fenced and well preserved in spite of its age of over 125 years. The original grave headstone was relocated by other relatives to nearby Live Oak Cemetery and now sits next to the gravesite of A.J.'s wife, Louisa Turnbo. But, his remains are still at the original grave site, now marked with a new granite foot marker.

A.J. Turnbo - also spelled Turnbow - migrated from Tennessee in the 1850's. He and his family eventually settled on the Lampasas River - between Rock and Onion Creeks - near the present day village of Youngsfort. His log cabin was built next to a large Comanche Indian campsite. Over the next decade, a number of Indian raids took place on this property with livestock and horses being taken. In 1870, the last recorded Indian raid in Bell County took place on the Turnbo ranch. This raid would later be detailed in an Indian Depredation Hearing before the U.S. Court of Claims (Case No. 7568, Louisa Turnbo vs. the United States et al.).

During the Civil War, Turnbo served in the Seventeenth Texas Infantry, C.S.A., organized by Col. R.T.P. Allen of the Bastrop Military Academy. After the War, Turnbo resumed his role as a farmer and rancher, raising thoroughbred horses. He and his wife lived with their four children in the cabin on the Lampasas River.

Recognizing living trust scams is best defense against them

By CHRIS MCGREGOR
STAFF WRITER

What are the chances that, after working for a lifetime, you could find yourself the victim of an unscrupulous living trust scam?

For unsuspecting seniors, the risk is there, and only becoming more so, according to Temple attorney Randy Harrell, of Jones and Harrell, P.C.

"Specifically, as far as scams in living trusts are concerned, we're seeing more and more of those," he said.

Harrell speaks from experience. Specializing in estate law and also a CPA, Harrell devotes a great deal of his practice to helping people and their heirs keep more of what they've earned through wills and living trusts. He's witnessed scams go from isolated incidents to increasing prevalence - often masked as a legitimate enterprise.

"Unfortunately, as our senior population increases, we do have certain people that will take advantage of that," he continued. In response to the growing problem, Harrell helped author an information pamphlet for the Texas Young Lawyers Association and the State Bar of Texas.

"We wanted to give people knowledge of what a living trust scam is, and the awareness of how to avoid it," he said.

Consisting of a series of either outright false, or misleading tactics employed by conmen, the pamphlet, titled "Living Trust Scams and the Senior Consumer," counters such accusations as "Living trusts will help you qualify for public assistance benefits," and "Attorneys charge from three percent to 10 percent or more to probate your estate."

Harrell was especially dismissive of the latter point. "The State Bar would probably frown upon that. I've never met an attorney that charges that. A legitimate attorney will charge one-third to one-half of what the scam-artists will."

As a general description, living trusts (which comprise about 80 percent of all estate planning in Texas, as opposed to 20 percent for wills) are created during a grantor's lifetime, and basically serve warehouses for a grantor's assets. Some or all of an individual's assets, whether they be stocks, real estate, bank accounts, etc., can be transferred into the trust and thereby be protected from taxation and, possibly, probate court.

"Being able to avoid probate is one of the reasons living trusts are so popular," he said. "They do have a lot of valid purposes, but they (living trusts) are not the cure for everything."

For example, Harrell said that some people choose living trusts over wills under the mistaken impression that living trusts possess certain benefits that wills do not. "You don't gain any advantage having a trust over a will," he said.

Although wills are open to challenge in probate court, Harrell pointed out that those instances are "very, very rare, and there's usually something suspicious about it." Additionally, Harrell said the fact that wills, upon certification, become a matter of public record should not be a deterrent. "It's not like there's a gang of newspaper reporters going through wills. Usually, it's only attorneys that see these things."

But if an individual does opt for a living trust, some things to look out for are salesmen coming door-to-door, phone and mail solicitations and various advertisements for "free" seminars and workshops.

"The important thing to remember is that if you're dealing with someone that doesn't have a presence here, and you can't check their record, you ought to be very suspicious," he warned. "Those are the people that are the scam-artists."

Growth

south of Killeen. That proposed loop has had some controversy as Harker Heights has expressed its opposition to the loop running through its single remaining growth corridor. If the loop were to go further south, it would likely come south of Stillhouse Hollow Lake, in which case FM 2484 may be the extension of the loop.

The possibility of the loop extending to Salado is one that will not be realized for many years to come, Reid said.

Since the project has not even been mapped yet, "you're not looking at driving on the road for another 20 years."

Even at that, access to FM 2484 (or Loop 201 if it becomes that) is not likely to be restricted, at least for the school district.

Reid recommended that trustees and their architect work with planners from CTCOG on access management when planning the new school.

Masons' chili supper set for Oct. 22

The Salado Masonic Lodge will hold its annual fundraising Chili Supper 5-7 p.m. Oct. 22 at the Salado Intermediate School Cafeteria. The Chili Supper will take place prior to that evening's home football game, when Salado will take the field against district rival Florence at 7:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the event benefit Salado ISD school programs, to which the Masons make annual contributions. Salado Masons have raised funds for Salado school libraries, Salado music programs, and Salado Volunteer Fire Department, donating over $20,000 since sponsoring their annual Fish Fry in the Spring and Chili Supper in the Fall.

Tickets are priced at $5, and can be purchased at Village Pharmacy or at the Salado Village Voice office, both located in Salado Plaza, down from Brookshire Brothers. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

Jon Porter, Democratic candidate for U.S. Representative in the newly-drawn District 31, spoke to a group of about 30 Salado Democrats gathered at the Salado Civic Center Oct. 14 for an ice cream social. Porter and Republican John Carter, a one-term Congressman from Williamson County, are vying for the new seat. (PHOTO BY TIM FLEISCHER)

One of Turnbo's horses was particularly well known around these parts. The horse, named Yalgo – an Indian word for yellow – was a large yellow-colored stallion. This horse is mentioned in several stories about times in early Central Texas.

One story involves Mrs. Turnbo and a friend returning home after a trip to Florence. Mrs. Turnbo was riding Yalgo and her friend Amy was on a smaller horse. On the way to the Turnbo home place they encountered an Indian raiding party who gave chase to the women. Mrs. Turnbo was able to outrun the Indians, but her friend was captured and never seen again.

Another story involving Yalgo involved a young man stealing the race horse. Shortly after taking the horse, the boy was captured by A.J. Turnbo and some other men and taken into custody. The young man – named Fisher – was only 13 years old at the time. On the way to turn Fisher over to the Sheriff, Turnbo decided to cut the ropes and free the young thief who quickly disappeared. The boy - John King Fisher - became a well known gunfighter. He was known both as a feared outlaw and at other times as a respected lawman.

The Turnbo Cemetery site area was the original location of a pioneer school, one of Bell County's first. The Baptist Church of Christ also operated out of that early school building having been organized there in the early 1870's. Today there is no sign of the early schoolhouse/church, only the cemetery marks this location.

Additional information about Andrew Jackson Turnbo is available on the internet at: <http://freepage.s.genealogy.rootsweb.com/~turnbo/tx/about.htm>.

The history of Youngsport is currently being researched by Charlie Turnbo. He would like to collaborate with others who have information about the Village of Youngsport. Contact him at caturbo@aol.com.

Hawkins with 1:12 left in the half for a 28-7 lead after a two-point conversion.

Salado's Stephen Fry took the ensuing kick off and needled his way through Lexington defenders for an 8-yard touchdown to bring the score to 14-28 with just 57 seconds left in the half.

The Salado prevent defense collapsed as Hawkins beat the safeties for a 49 yard touchdown pass from Peterson with five seconds left in the half, giving the hometown Eagles a 34-14 lead over Salado.

Lexington drove 85 yards on the opening series of the second half to score with 8:15 left in the third. Peterson ran through the defense from the 7 yard line, following a 36 yard run by Corey Lewis and an incomplete pass attempt.

Salado scored once more midway through the fourth quarter, on the back of workhorse running back Jacobsen. Jacobsen, who carried the ball 20 times for 109 yards on the night, ran the ball six straight times on the scoring drive, moving the ball 41 yards. He found the end-zone on a 10-yard dive up the middle on second and 7 to go.

New home featured in Historical Society tour

"A house with all its landscaping in the back," is how David Pany describes the house he and his wife Cheryl recently built at 2907 Chisholm Trail, just a few doors from their previous residence.

Their home is one of six to be open to the public during the annual Christmas Homes Tour sponsored by the Salado Historical Society Dec. 3-5.

His description is apt in that the front of the house is mostly a curved concrete drive joining house and triple garage, but along the sides and in the back retaining walls - of stone - enclose shrubs and blooming plants and a brief but lush lawn merges with the golf course. This view is enjoyed through floor-to-ceiling windows and French doors that dominate the exterior walls of living room, kitchen and den.

The entry is dramatic with its heavy iron door that separates from a second one of thick art glass that is repeated elsewhere in skylights and cabinet doors. To the left is a formal dining room with burgundy walls and deep moldings framing the door and ceiling.

A large baroque china cabinet with gold leaf embellishments flanks a glass table top on an ornately carved stone pillar. Chairs are Chippendale style in a warm fruitwood finish.

The entry flows straight into the great room, with its large corner fireplace of faux stone. Rich brocade sofas, beaded and tasseled pillows, traditional tables and lamps and a built-in entertainment center with shelves for books and art pieces create a comfortable eclectic setting.

The kitchen, which opens to the great room as well as a small sitting room at the back of the house, has dark cabinetry with glass doors displaying china and an open slotted shelf for storing dinner plates. In the eating area is a yellow marble table and chairs cushioned in yellow and white toile fabric. Chandelier lamp shades over the table echo the toil of the chairs.

From the small seating area off the kitchen, steps lead out to the patio with a fire pit which invites visitors to gather on a chilly evening. Stone walls form a circle around the pit to provide seating.

At the front of the house, right of the foyer, is David's office. Its large desk sports a lamp with a carved wood mallard for its base, a reminder of a mallard family that has nested twice beneath the windows at the back, producing more than a dozen little mallards.

The Pany home, 2907 Chisholm Trail

Cheryl's grandfather's clock has a central spot in the office and shares attention with numerous mementos, including an autographed photo of David with former UT football coach Darrell Royal - David's alma mater.

From the door to the master bedroom, there is a grand sweep through a hallway flanked on either side with clothes closets to a luxurious Romanesque bath/spa. The deep oval Jacuzzi tub behind tall white columns, separate his and her dressers, and an open stone shower offer the ultimate in luxury and comfort.

Art is important in the Pany home. Paintings are seen everywhere, as are treasured art objects, rich floral arrangements and family photographs.

For the holidays the Pany home will be resplendent with candles, sparkling lights, lush greenery and numerous trees, each decorated appropriate to the theme of the room in which each is placed.

In addition to the six private homes, other attractions will be two 19th century log cabins owned and operated by the Historical Society, St. Joseph's Chapel (Episcopal) and the recently opened Salado Silver Spur Theater.

Tickets, presently on sale at Horsefeathers, Charlotte's of Salado, Salado Galleries and the Salado Civic Center, are $12 if purchased before Nov. 30. After Nov. 30, they are $15. Proceeds from ticket sales provide for a variety of local projects by the Historical Society.

OVERNIGHT

Royal Street Provision, situated just a few miles from Salado's Main Street, is a getaway in the truest sense of the word. There are no television sets in the inn's five guestrooms and one telephone, which is located on the first floor. The grounds feature nature trails with plenty of native fauna and wildlife. At left is the second floor Neighbor's Room, which rents for $110 on weekends and holidays and $85 Sun.-Thurs. See their ad below for reservation information.

With two queen size beds, a bath with shower, an alcove with a writing desk and a window overlooking wooded grounds, the Neighbor's Room is one of Royal St. Provision's coziest accommodations. The room can sleep up to five people.

Odessa's 'Stonehenge' monument to community

On the campus of the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa sits a replica of Stonehenge. It's 80 percent the size of the one on the Salisbury Plain in England. The monolithic wonder was built this past summer.

It all came about because a couple of guys, Dick Gillham and Chris Stanley were shooting the bull about unusual monuments around the world and one of them said, "Let's build a Stonehenge."

Chris Stanley teaches art at UTPB and decided the location of the monument should be next to the art building on campus.

The two men really got excited about the project and their enthusiasm spread throughout the area. People started donating things to make it happen. Geologists, historians, heavy equipment operators, architects, astronomers all got behind the effort. They wanted it to be in the exact relation to the sun and moon as the one in England. They wanted the stones to be placed exactly the same distance apart as the original. They wanted it to be correct.

by Tumbleweed Smith

The stones came from a limestone quarry near Garden City owned by Connie Edwards. His philosophy is "If it ain't fun, don't do it." He donated the stones. They were shaped, hoisted onto trucks and hauled to Odessa. Forty trips were required to haul the huge stones, each weighing between 25,000 and 42,000 pounds. They are 16 feet tall. Limestone on the UTPB library and new apartment-style dormitories also came from Connie's quarry.

When Dr. David Watts, President of UTPB, heard about building a replica of Stonehenge, he said, "Boys, we gotta get permission from the Board of Regents of the University of Texas system to build the thing." Dr. Watts was showing regent Robert Estrada around the campus last spring. When they got to the art building, Dr. Watts told the regent, "We're going to build a replica of Stonehenge next to the building."

Regent Estrada is a friend of the university and has visited the Odessa campus more than any other regent. He spoke at a recent commencement. He convinced the regents the Stonehenge replica would be a good thing for Odessa and the UT system. The motion to build it passed with little discussion.

At the dedication ceremony in late September,

Dr. Watts called the event a milestone in the history of the University. Dick Gillham recognized the donors and said, "Many organizations came together for this project because they realize the importance of UTPB to our area." Regent Estrada, in his remarks, praised the people involved for their spirit of adventure in the massive undertaking. He pointed out that Stonehenge was the second monument to England in Odessa, the other being the replica of the Globe Theatre on the campus of Odessa College.

"The UTPB Stonehenge will provide intriguing educational value for art, geology and math students and will also serve as a source of awe and inspiration to us all," said Regent Estrada. "It will become a premier attraction and has already received national media attention."

Odessa Mayor Larry Melton said, "Stonehenge is a welcome addition to our university campus and community."

Music In Salado incorporates, announces upcoming season beginning with Nov. 14 show

Salado residents, as well as people from surrounding communities, are invited to attend the first of a series of concerts that will be presented by the newly formed Music in Salado, Texas, a non-profit corporation.

The Baylor Woodwind Quintet, featuring bassoon, clarinet, flute, french horn and oboe, will perform 7 p.m. Nov. 14 in the lobby of First State Bank Central Texas, on Main St.

Music in Salado concerts are designed to provide the opportunity for each individual to personally experience music in an intimate setting which uplifts the spirits, as well as enhancing and providing education for the growing cultural arena in Salado.

A special "Songs of the Season" concert featuring holiday music will be presented 6 p.m. Dec. 13 in the home of Barbara and John Robertson. This is the same home where the one-act Christmas opera "Amahl and the Nigh Visitors" was performed last year by Music in Salado. This year's holiday concert will be a fund-raiser for the newly formed non-profit organization, and to raise money to present a one-act opera for the students in Salado ISD in the spring of 2005.

In January, Music in Salado will present "The Old Maid and the Thief," a rollicking one-act musical drama by Gian Carlo Menotti, performed by professional singers Deborah Williamson, Marjorie Owens, Jennifer Mays and Matthew Moore. Date, time and place for this event will be announced at a future date.

Following the January show, the International Piano Duo will perform a program of music for one piano 7 p.m. Feb. 5. The duo is comprised of international performers and concert pianists Krasimira Jordan, of Dallas, and Artist in Residence at Baylor University, with Wolfgang Watzinger from Vienna, Austria, professor of piano at the Vienna Hochschule. The place for this concert will be announced at a later date.

The Music in Salado Opera in Schools spring project has begun through the partial support of a grant received from the Salado Chamber of Commerce Ladies Auxiliary. The goal of this project is to present music and opera in the Salado schools, providing education in the arts through music and drama.

Drs. John and Kim Van Cura are co-founders of the Music in Salado concert series, which began in their home in May of 2001, with the first public performance in the sanctuary of Salado's historic Methodist church.

Since that time concerts of chamber music featuring strings, flute, harp, piano, saxophone and exotic Venezuelan folk music have been featured, as well as one-act musical drama's Tablerock's Goodnight Amphitheater, Salado ISD and the Robertson home in Mill Creek.

Most recently, concerts have taken place in private residences, including the home of Allen and Rita Rice, featuring a return of Venezuelan performers, Folk Loricó, and Metropolitan Opera soprano and international performer Carol Meyer at the residence of Dr. Doug Willingham.

More details will be announced as plans continue, and inquiries about the concert series may be sent to P.O. Box 1235, Salado, TX 76571.

After receiving SEF scholarship, Salado grad eyes engineering

In 1999, the Salado Education Foundation was formed by 15 local residents to help students from Salado schools continue their education. The mission of the Foundation is to improve the quality of life in Salado by providing support to students who wish to pursue a college education or technical training.

Since 2000, 24 students have received more than $42,500 in scholarships. For the school year of 2000-2001 Stacy Blodgett, Amy Carlson, Hope Buchanan, Mathew Stowell, Jon Teer and Ashley Kelley received scholarships. In 2001-2002 Craig Camp, Christine Coe, Mandy Tsosie, Megan Fleck and Adria Raley were recipients. In 2002/2003 Romelia Urquiza, Chelsea Norman, Isaac Berumen, David Faber, Tiffany Young and Sheila Arnold earned scholarships.

This past school year, 2003-2004, Josh Wright, Matt Brown, Paige Cameron, Nathan Grigsby, Leah Lankford, Alicia Raley and Lance Cox were scholarship recipients.

The Salado Education Foundation Board of Directors has grown to 24 members, consisting of: Melanie Kirchmeier, Leland Gersbach, Robin Battershell, Jim Mohler, Steven and Sandra Lastovica, Mike and Shirley Cornett, Jackie Mills, Terri Seaton, Bill Neinast, Debby Aldridge, Ann Faber, Grace Lavadia, Sue Ellen Slagel, Bill Kyle, Chris Alexander, Bill Kinnison, Chuck McCarter, Jennifer Berumen, Jill Bradshaw, Edward Mantanona, Skip Blanchett and M. E. Foster.

Stacy Blodgett, who has received her SEF scholarships from 2000 through 2004, will graduate from Texas A&M in 2005. "I was accepted into the mechanical engineering program at Texas A&M," she said. "The first year was rough. I had to learn to study, organize, and I had to prioritize school to keep my scholarship year after year until I graduate."

This year's "Chisholm Trail Cattlemen's Ball," Salado Education Foundation's chief fund-raiser, will be held 6 p.m.-midnight Oct. 23 at Tenroc Ranch in Salado.

Proceeds from this event will support the Salado Education Foundation in providing student scholarships and grants to teachers for educational programs. If a SEF scholarship recipient wishes to attend Temple College, their scholarship is matched.

Attendees at the "Chisholm Trail Cattlemen's Ball" Oct. 23 are invited to dress in western gear and to enjoy a night of fun under Texas stars. In concert will be Fred Fuller and his band. Dinner will be served by Johnny's Steaks and Bar-Be-Que. Casino gambling, a live auction, a "Funny Money" auction and a "Mercado," (blind bid auction) are planned.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the Salado Education Foundation board members, at Century 21 Bill Bartlett or the SISD office in the Civic Center on Main Street in Salado.

Texas A&M student and SHS graduate Stacy Blodgett. Blodgett was among the first recipients of an SEF scholarship in 2000.

Tablerock to be transformed into Fright Trail Oct. 30 & 31

Salado's Tablerock Walking Trail will be magically transformed into a Fright Trail for Halloween Oct. 30 and 31.

From dusk (7 p.m.) until the approach of the witching hour (about 11 p.m.), goblins will extract a $3 fee from children and a $5 fee from adults for a walk on the spectral side of Tablerock.

A guide will enlighten attendees with facts about respective authors as they lead the way through scenes from Macbeth, The Invisible Man, Dracula, Frankenstein, The Mummy's Curse, Alice in Wonderland, an excerpt from Edgar Allen Poe, and more of America's most treasured classics. Actors will recreate scenes from chosen tales of terror to entertain and educate visitors to the Fright Trail.

Snacks and drinks will be available at the concession stand. Tablerock Trail is located in Salado on Royal Street, three blocks east of down town.

Vernon named artist of the month

Salado resident Jimmie Vernon has been named by Salado Village Artists as artist of the month for October.

Vernon, a native Texan, was born in Keys Valley, which is now at the bottom of Stillhouse Lake. When very young, her family moved and she spent most of her early years in Austin. After returning to Central Texas (by first grade) she lived on her grandfather's farm at Dog Ridge. She attended Killeen Jr. High and High School.

Fifty-four years ago she and Bob Vernon were married. Since he was in the Army, they became well traveled, moving often, including two times in Germany, the Ohio River Valley, as well as Marshal University in W. Virginia and Tulane University, in New Orleans, where Bob taught. He also worked for the Santa Fe Railroad which caused more relocations: Covina, CA, Amarillo, Redlands, CA, and finally back to Central Texas. They have raised six children, have 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

As a little child, Jimmie was always drawing and sketching. Her uncle, a Sunday painter, having noticed her talents, sat her down at the age of 19 with his paints and taught her to draw and paint. From then on, she has used her talents in many media. She says she loves the flow of oil paints and prefers working in oils, but presently works mainly in acrylics or watercolors.

She has studied with many artists and attended many workshops, but in 1974, in California, her art instructors inspired her to buckle down and paint seriously.

Her greatest satisfaction has been when teaching art to students in California and in Amarillo, and sharing her talent and knowledge to help aspiring artists who are in the Salado Village Artists.

Vernon's work has been shown at the San Bernardino Art Museum, CAC in Temple, and she has won ribbons at the Barclay Art Contest in Temple.
