Chine Ray and Tim Fleischer present the original artwork of James Blair during the live auction. The painting was reproduced on T-shirts and posters promoting the "Texas 100" art show. Blair donated the piece to help raise funds for upgrading Pace Park facilities. This single piece raised $2,700. Rick Naber of Lake Travis was the winning bidder.

Texas 100 successful 1st year

Texas 100 Art Show Chairman Tim Fleischer told Salado Chamber of Commerce Directors May 10 that the first-year art show was successful on many fronts.

He informed directors that the show will net as much as $24,000 with some income and expenses still outstanding.

"A great deal of the success of the show was due to three things," Fleischer said, "the quality of the artists showing, the tremendous party beforehand and the 5K Fun Run/Walk."

"We had a great group of top-quality Texas artists working in a variety of media," Fleischer said. "Even though traffic was slow at the gate, many artists told me they had a very profitable weekend."

"Much of the quality of the show was due to the work of our poster artist, James Blair. James and his partner Jackie spent many hours making sure we had a first class poster and T-

"It was a fun weekend, as well for the artists, who enjoyed the party Friday night at Jack's Barn," Fleischer said. "The Preview Party generated over $12,000 in revenues for the

Salado Masons Fry Fish May 15 to benefit local fire department

If you haven't bought your tickets for the May 15 Fish Fry, hurry to do so.

Salado Masons are sponsoring a Fish Fry 2-6 p.m. May 15 at the Salado school cafeteria to benefit the Salado Volunteer Fire Department. All proceeds from the Fish Fry will benefit the SVFD.

Tickets are available for $5 per person through Thursday at First State Bank, Compass Bank, Brookshire Brothers, the Salado Civic Center, Village Pharmacy and the Salado Village Voice.

The Masonic Lodge is hoping to raise enough money, $2,500, so that the SVFD can place in service a breathing air compressor and cascade system.

The compressor/cascade system will give the SVFD "the ability to recharge the air bottles for the self-contained breathing apparatus that must be worn at all fires," according to Fire Chief Wayne Rutherford stated. "With this will come the ability of this department to ensure the quality of air that the lives of our firefighters depend on, without relying on any other outside department."

The cost to fully implement the system is $2,500, which is the fund-raising goal of the Salado Masons.

There will be a Silent Auction held during the Fish Fry.

Gregory's an American Craft Gallery has donated a beautiful wooden fire truck.

A Bob Lilly autographed football will also be sold during the silent auction.

Houston Astros baseball player Jeff Bagwell has signed a baseball to be sold during the auction as well.

For more information, or to order tickets, call the Salado Village Voice newspaper at 947-5321.

School safety meeting May 17

Dr. Robin Battershell, Superintendent of Schools, is hosting a Town Meeting 6-7 p.m. May 17 at Thomas Arnold Cafeteria to discuss safety issues in the schools.

Specific issues which Dr. Battershell is requesting input are closed campuses, discipline, dress code, preventative programs, and security devices i.e. metal detectors, video cameras.

Dr. Battershell said the town meeting is in response to a meeting last month with parents concerned about school safety.

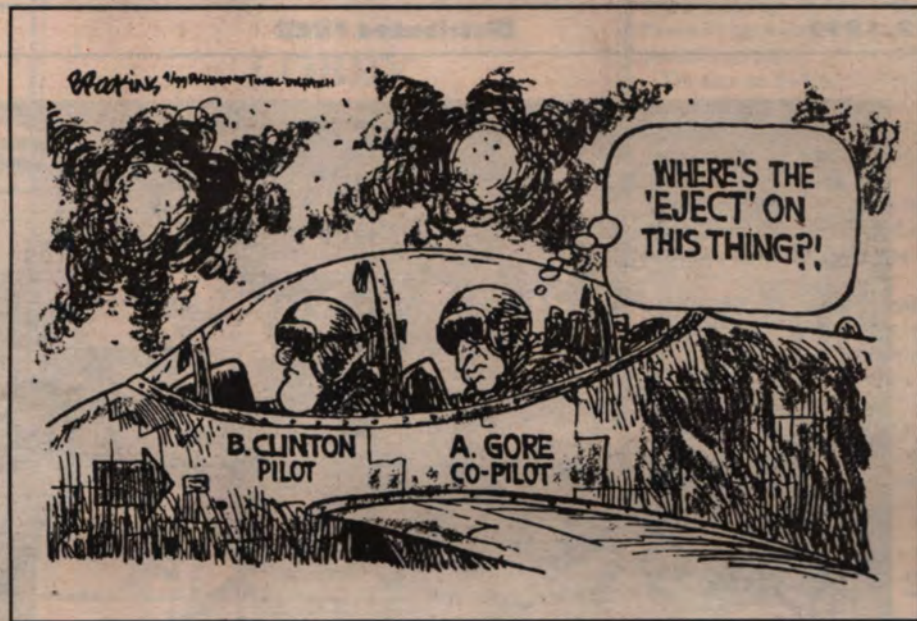

In response to their concerns, Dr. Battershell had Salado resident Mike Gentry, chief of police in Harker Heights, conduct a risk evaluation of the school campuses. Those results will be discussed during the town hall meeting.

Dr. Battershell said she hopes the meeting will be proactive.

Governor threatening special session if surplus is not divided "his way"

The 76th Session of the Texas Legislature is entering its final few days (19 to be exact), with some important unfinished business at hand. As mentioned two weeks ago in this column the matter of parceling out surplus state dollars between taxpayers and school teachers is a big deal down in Austin.

Since it remains front burner news, we return to the scene for an updated look at a traditional political problem - resolving the stalemate concerning what group will receive the lion's share of the unincumbered money currently left on the legislative table.

On top of this Christmas tree of high hopes is how to divvy up the state's surplus money in a manner that will allow Governor Bush, as well as his merry band of lawmaking cohorts, a chance to gain maximum favor (and votes) while providing tax relief for property owners, commercial interests and teacher pay raises.

The problem is the Governor is demanding to have his way on the split so he can wander around the nation later this year bragging how he controlled the Texas Legislature, which to the unwashed and unwary carpetbagger would appear to be a free ride to the White House.

The Guv wants $2 billion in tax reductions for school property owners along with a business and sales tax cut while assigning the balance to teacher pay hikes to the lesser tune of something over $1 billion.

The Republican controlled Senate has k'd the exact reverse of this plan with teachers getting $4000 pay increases ($2 billion) and the rest of the surplus for tax assistance.

Bush's hope rests in the conference committee when the House gets through passing with the division of the spoils unless the main man gets his way may veto the entire matter and call a special session!

The rest of the nation's GOPers like their candidates at all levels to cut taxes - first and foremost. And if their current "mero uno" can't do this without a special session or fails to get all he wants in the short love affair could be over before it really gets started.

On the other hand - if Bush prevails in a special session he can say he "stayed the course" and prevailed over a recalcitrant bunch of Demos tied loosely together by a small band of independent Repubs who want to be reelected.

Always a problem having a Governor who dreams of being president all day - every day. He wants things to go his way for national reasons with the state being the vehicle rather than the driver.

Best bet right now is that the Comptroller will come up with a new estimate of revenue for the next two years that will allow both sides to win with no special session.

And nothing saved for a "rainy day" that is on the way!

CORPORATE WELFARE ALIVE AND WELL

Still on the subject of the Texas Legislature, it is important to note that while our State's public welfare rolls have dropped a dramatic 44 percent, (largest decline in the nation), corporate welfare in Texas is alive and kicking, at least according to a study from the Center for Public Policy Priorities.

The first bit of related bad news this session is Senate Bill 5, which would, if passed, grant tax credits to corporations

Off the Record
by Ken Clapp

for certain investments in research and development. Something that is normally an in-house expense in most well run companies.

Loss in tax dollars for this idea, based on information from the state comptroller's office, is $613 million over five years.

What is the eventual tax recovery from this giveaway program? A total of about $500 million in tax revenue at state and local levels. Net loss: $113 million dollars!

Next item on the commercial giveaway agenda is a bill, promoted by Bob Hunter (R-Abilene), to have the state guarantee loans to filmmakers for up to 60 percent of the cost of films made in Texas.

Question immediately pops up - what happens if the film is a bust and the loan cannot be repaid? The banks will turn to the state and the state to the unwary taxpayer and away we go!

Cities, school districts, counties also have a bad habit of granting tax breaks, which is an insidious form of private welfare, to companies who deign to move their operation to a new site, including such financial goodies as a moratorium on payment of property taxes for a number of years, free utility connections and roads leading to the new business operation.

Gambling that the new commercial entity will provide jobs which in turn will create new taxes, elected officials appear willing to do almost anything to enter such poorly devised and non-guaranteed adventures.

This is not good public policy to spend tax dollars to support business interests whose only goal is to make a profit. Profit making is good and sound but should stand on its own two feet and not on the backs of the taxpaying public.

Conservatives wept crocodile tears when they were told of the abuses of the public welfare program, i.e. welfare moms driving Cadillacs or having babies just to get more "aid to dependent children" dollars. All of which is nearly a thing of the past thanks to new laws and a startlingly strong economy.

Why then keep on with welfare to corporate America? It may be time for the rest of us to weep and wail about this very poor stewardship by politicians at all levels, when handing out the other guy's hard earned tax dollars!

That's -30-

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

I am so proud of all the Salado voters who took the time from their busy lives and exercised their right to vote for their choice. I understand Salado's turnout was exceptional for this part of the state. Folks, this is the American Way. May God bless America and Salado, too.

Readers write letters to editor

Dear Editor:
I just want to thank all the people who supported me in my campaign for school board. Although I was not elected, the experience was a blessing. I also want to congratulate our two new school board and incumbent members on their election and reelection. I look forward to supporting them in any way possible and pray for wisdom and courage in their important role in the district's future.

Sincerely,
Miriam Ervi

Dear Editor:
I think it is wonderful that a teacher from Salado High School was awarded the Golden Apple Award for this year. Only five teachers were selected from the entire area. This is indeed an honor.

I feel that people of Salado should read the letter that Sommer Wilson, a senior, wrote about her teacher, Marilyn Salisbury, that gave her this award.
"You deserve a Gold Award for not only teaching us but for the respect you show us. We thank you for teaching us what's in the books but also for the life values you have instilled in our hearts. You have taught us that in life, to be respected, you must respect others. Thank you.

Being a retired teacher, I feel that this letter is meaningful and beautiful.
Sincerely,

Andy Phair chaired the Preview Party and had a terrific group of volunteers on hand. "Andy spent countless hours in preparation for the party, as well as her husband Brad," Fleischer said. "Without her work and that of her volunteers, the party would not have been possible, or profitable."

"Jack's Barn was the perfect place for the party and auction," Fleischer added. "Thanks to the Herringtons for setting it up for us so nicely."

"Bill Hall took time off from organizing his own huge equipment auction to gavel the evening. With just 13 items in the live auction, Hall dropped the gavel on about $7,000 in sales."

Another profitable aspect of the weekend was the 5K Fun Run early May 8.

"Susan Richmond pulled together a huge undertaking," Fleischer said, "with over 220 anxious runners."

"The Fun Run not only brought in money to the Chamber coffers, but it also brought people into the show," Fleischer said.

"Susan, her husband Steven, and her group of volunteers did a great job," he said.

"The Village Artists added to the show with their own showing of the talent here in Salado," Fleischer said. "It was a classy touch."

Another classy touch, he Even while awaiting a baby, Jim and Cindy Dale at Salado Pottery, sponsored the Children's tent.

"Adelle Johnson made sure that both gates were manned by volunteers," Fleischer said, "something at which she is uniquely capable."

"Chamber President Luther Brewer, Marilyn Brewer, Diana Zulauf, Hulda Horton and Shorty Kelley are people you can always count on during crunch times," Fleischer said.

"Thanks to our newspaper employees Judy Shumate and Schuyler Kuykendall for helping out during the weekend," he said.

"I would like to thank my family, Maryann

Fleischer, Marion and Lois Click and Mark and Tena Simmons, who showed up to work the weekend."

"Finally, a special thank you to my wife and partner in everything, Marilyn. She was by my side filling in the whole time."

Turner is instructor for Village Artists Workshop June 23-25

The Salado Village Artists will feature Texas watercolorist Dee Fabrizio Turner in a watercolor workshop June 23-25 at the Village Art Center, 601 N. Main Street. The three-day workshop will be from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. daily. The total cost to non-members is $120. A $50 deposit received by June 1 will assure a place in the class. The balance is due the first day of the workshop. Confirmation and a list of supplies will be mailed following receipt of deposit.

Each day will begin with a short demonstration of the instructor's approach to watercolor painting including subject, composition, design, and application of pigments. Further, she will demonstrate how to enhance the design of a painting through the use of pastels. Then students will apply the lesson to their own painting with the help of short individual critiques by the instructor. A painting completed prior to the class may be submitted for suggestion for improvement.

Mrs. Turner, an accomplished and award winning artist, grew up in Albuquerque, N.M. and lives in picturesque Somerville. She teaches watercolor classes at the Brenham Fine Arts League in Brenham and served as president of the Brenham Fine Arts League in 1997 and 1998. She is a member of the Brazos Valley Art League, the Lone Star Art Guild, and the Watercolor Society of Houston.

She uses a variety of subjects in her paintings: people, still lives, landscapes and structures. An engaging freshness and verve characterizes her paintings. These can be seen at the Page II Gallery in College Station and the Brenham Fine Arts League Gallery.

The mailing address is: The Salado Village Artists, PO Box 363, Salado, TX 76571. For additional information contact Sharon McGlasson, 254-947-4545.

The late Patricia Barrett was recently honored with the planting of a Bradford Pear tree in front of the new Salado Intermediate School by members of Chisholm Trail Republican Women. Pat Barrett was a charter member of the Republican Women's Organization in Salado. She chaired several committees prior to her illness. Pat's husband, Jap, was present for the tree-planting. Jean Westerberg serves as president of the organization.

Auxiliary Lunch May 13

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce will meet 11 a.m. May 13 for a salad luncheon at the Civic Center catered by Cathy's Boardwalk Cafe.

Chapanecas, performed by six Salado High School girls. They are Laura Jimenez, Rosa Jimenez, Bonnie Martinez, Martha Soto, Elena Thomason and Alberta Urquiza.

Minta Landrum, the Orange Lady, will accompany them on the piano.

Mary Hill of Salado was the honoree in a "Women of History" segment of the meeting of the Chisholm Trail Republican Women during "Women in History" month in Texas. Mary, who will be 88 years old, told the story of her life, including her life-long affiliation with the Republican Party, beginning with her voting for Herbert Hoover.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
Following God's Law
"Blessed are those whose way is blameless, who walk in the law of the Lord"
 -Psalm 119:1

God gave man the freedom of conscience, but few use the gift wisely. We are all subject to temptation of one kind or another. Not everyone has the moral stamina to walk the path of the saintly or lead the righteous life of the truly religious. Yet, ours is a forgiving God, one inclined to overlook the indiscretions of His children. That doesn't mean that His tolerance is unlimited. For ours is also a wrathful God when disobedience or heresy try His patience. How much better it is to walk in the law of the lord than risk His condemnation by our lack of faith or outright rejection of His love and teachings.

Bridge Tourney at CAC

Three special Sectional Tournament at Clubs duplicate bridge games will be held May 17, 19 and 21 at the Cultural Activities Center. All games begin at 1 pm in Wendland Hall. Entry fees are $5 per person and silver master points will be awarded to the winners.

The first game on May 17 is open to players who have less than 300 masterpoints. The second and third games May 19 and May 21, will be stratified into three categories depending on the number of player entries.

"Playing in a STAC game is similar to going to a big tournament except you get to stay home," explains Dale Allen, DV of the Rolling Hills Bridge Club. "Every club in Texas that plays will be scored as a different section. Computer generated hand will be sent to club managers so all players entered that day in Texas will be playing the same hands."

Players in Temple with a high score can place overall in 10-20 sections, depending on how many clubs enter. "Players from several Central Texas cities are expected," Allen continued. "We are anticipating an excellent tournament."

Tired Of Being Tired?

(NAPS)—Here's some encouraging news for anyone who's ever felt tired of being tired. A new book has been published with ten simple strategies to soar past fatigue, boost energy, shed stress and reclaim your enthusiasm for life. The book, The Energy Edge (LifeLine Press $19.95), is written by Pamela Smith, R.D., the author of the bestselling Eat Well—Live Well.

According to Smith, millions of Americans unknowingly allow fatigue to control their lives. You can recognize the warning signs by asking yourself these questions:

- Am I always tired, even after a full night's rest?
- Am I irritable at certain times of the day?
- Do I have trouble thinking clearly and remembering things?

- Do I have difficulty staying consistent with an exercise routine?
- Do I crave sweets much of the time?

According to the author, energy has become a most precious and rare commodity. We're up earlier and work later. We're so busy scheduling what we have to do, there's no energy left for what we want to do. However, statistics have shown that one out of five people suffers from extreme fatigue. In her book, Pam Smith reports that life doesn't have to be that way.

In The Energy Edge, readers learn how to:

- Energize their bodies without dieting

- Get the most out of sleep without pills
- Activate their bodies for peak performance
- Banish stress
- Beat the 3 p.m. energy slump

Avoid dangerous herbal energy frauds

Correct installation of car seat a must to get maximum safety

The wide-eyed toddler stared back, without even a scratch.

Fortunately, just days earlier, staff from the Safe Riders Program had reinstalled his safety seat securely and correctly in the family auto.

"People hear about our check-up clinics and drive up to have us check their car safety seats," said Susan Warren, director of Safe Riders, a statewide traffic safety program at the Texas Department of Health (TDH). "Manufacturer instructions often are so difficult to understand that most people don't install child safety seats properly. It can take our trained staff up to a half hour to wrestle them into place."

When correctly secured in the back seat, safety seats reduce the risk of death from traffic crashes by 71 percent for infants and by 54 percent for toddlers. "We know this program can protect children from serious injury or death," Warren said. "Many people tell us about children surviving car crashes just a few days after we install their seats correctly."

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for children, taking more than 2,658 lives of children under age 15 nationally and seriously injuring another 300,000 children each year. In 1997 in Texas, 250 children under age 15 died in crashes. Warren said that research shows 87 percent of child safety seats in Texas are not installed correctly, placing children at risk in auto accidents.

"With some 300 different car models and at least 75 different styles of car safety seats, it's no wonder that so many are not installed as they should be," she said. From four to six Safe Riders car seat clinics are held each month around the state.

Here are some suggestions from Safe Riders for checking your child's safety seat:

- * Make sure the auto's safety belt holds the car seat securely. If you can rock the child's seat forward or from side to side more than one inch, the seat is not installed correctly.

- * Most seats need a harness clip, which should rest on the child's chest, even with his or her underarms. Make sure harness straps are not torn or frayed.

- * The straps should fit snugly, allowing no more than one finger between the straps and the child's body.

* Read your car owner's manual for special installation instructions.

* If you don't have your car seat instructions or have questions, call the TDH Safe Riders Program toll free at 1-800-252-8255 for a copy. You also may call the car seat maker for advice.

Besides ensuring proper installation at check-up clinics, Safe Riders staff members also collect hazardous seats that have been in a car crash, are more than five to seven years old or have been recalled by manufacturers. "Drivers get a new seat right there," Warren said. "We replace about 25 seats at each clinic." These car seats are funded by the National SAFE KIDS Campaign, a non-profit injury prevention organization.

U.S. SENATOR
KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

AMERICA'S ROLE IN THE WORLD

NATO military action in Yugoslavia has, so far, raised more questions than it has answered. We should confront these questions in a forthright manner, and use the answers to develop a set of principles and guidelines for America's role in the world with just one superpower. The following are a few questions that I've been considering:

Where and when should the United States intervene militarily?

First, when should we not intervene? Well, I think we should avoid getting involved in someone else's civil war.

When should we be ready to fight? Obviously, if the United States is attacked, as in World War II, we should use military force to repel the attack and defeat the enemy.

The United States should also use military force to protect American lives or American property. This is a principle that goes back as far as Thomas Jefferson's use of the navy to protect merchant ships from the Barbary Coast pirates. More recently, President Reagan sent troops to the island of Grenada to evacuate American students caught in a bloody civil war.

I believe the United States should also be prepared to use military force to defend vital national security interests.

What is a vital national security interest?

I define a vital national security interest as one whose loss would threaten our country or our freedom.

That is why I also am concerned about our operation in Yugoslavia. There is no doubt that President Slobodan Milosevic is a ruthless leader. But not even President Clinton has said he believes Milosevic is in danger of dominating all of Europe in such a way as to harm our vital interests. Indeed, Europe has never been more prosperous, more democratic or free.

I am concerned that our military actions in Yugoslavia could actually harm our national interests because the operation has encouraged hard-line nationalists in Russia who were already skeptical of the thaw in U.S.-Russian relationship.

What is the proper U.S. role in places such as the Balkans?

We have always been trusted as a mediator and a diplomatic broker in hot spots around the globe, and we should try to reclaim that role in the Balkans. Taking sides in civil and ethnic conflicts diminishes our capacity to act as an honest and respected broker.

My preference is for the United States to take the lead in negotiating a solution that goes beyond Kosovo and gives self-determination greater significance throughout the region. This could lead to the formation of majority Albanian, Serbian, Croatian and secular Muslim states in which ethnic and religious division would be much less a factor than they are today. Inevitably, there would be regions where clean divisions along such lines are not possible. International peacekeepers, from NATO and Russia, could guarantee free passage through such regions. This is the type of low-risk, limited-force peacekeeping mission that the American people could support.

For now, the United States is involved in a military conflict and we owe our military troops our support and prayers. At the same time, though, elected officials owe the public clearly defined policies with achievable objectives.

What do you think America's role in the post-Cold War world should be? I would be interested to learn of your opinions on this very basic question.

Production techniques learned at wheat and pecan field day

James M. Davis
Co. Ext. Agent

A wheat field day and a pecan field day being held this week will give Central Texas growers an opportunity to learn about production techniques as well as pick up CEU's for their applicator license.

The wheat field day will be held 9 a.m. May 12 at the corner of Blackland Road and Old Highway 95 south of Temple. W.C. Evans planted this plot of eleven wheat varieties for us this year.

Dr. Travis Miller, Extension Small Grain Specialist from College Station will discuss the differences in the eleven varieties and how the wheat crops look around the state of Texas. Dr. Miller has many wheat plots scattered across the entire state this year.

Dr. Chip Lee, Extension Plant Pathologist from Stephenville will be with us to discuss the rust problems we saw in wheat earlier this year. We put in 19 treatments of fungicide across the eleven varieties and replicated them 3 times earlier this spring. This gave us a total of 627 small plots to evaluate the rust control we received with the treatments. Dr. Lee will discuss the various fungicides available for rust control in wheat. Fungicide trials in 1997 gave us up to 90 percent plus increase in yields. In 1998 the fungicide treatment gave us a 10-20 percent increase in yield even though rust was not a severe problem late in the growing season.

If wheat prices ever get back to $4 per bushel, farmers can make some good money treating with some of the new generation of fungicides.

The wheat program will last from 9-11:00 a.m. and two hours of IPM credits will be given to those who attend.

The pecan field day will be May 15 at the Ed and Ann Little orchard on Old Highway 95 south of the FM 93 junction. The Little's orchard is on the east side of old 95 going toward Little River from Temple.

The pecan field day will begin at 9 a.m. and will last until lunch at noon. There will be three hours of CEU credits given at the field day (all IPM).

The main part of the program will be a discussion on pecan crop load. A paper Dr. Larry Stein wrote on crop load and its relationship to insects and pecan quality will be presented at the field day. Also, scouting for pecan casebearers will make up the balance of the program.

The Bell County Pecan and Fruit Growers Association is putting on the program. This year the growers are charging $11 registration fee for the program, lunch and a subscription to the pecan newsletter. Several handouts will be given at the field day.

Be sure to join up at either or both of the field days this week.

Extension programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.

Manton rides his motorcycle standing up because he could

Miller's Pharmacy in Cooper, Texas is a landmark. The store is famous for its malted milk shakes. Everything is made from scratch, including the ice cream. The store is like the community center in Cooper. Everybody in town goes there to see and be seen and catch up on the latest news.

The sidewalk by the side of the drug store is Cooper's walk of fame. There are names of Cooper's characters carved in concrete. It is a select group. Manton Miller, who ran Miller Pharmacy for years, and his son Marion were the instigators of the walk. "We had just got back from California and saw that walk out there with all the Hollywood stars' names in it," says Manton. They chose only town characters who had animal nicknames.

Hoss Chestnut. Bull Bettis. Goat Smith. Rabbit Foster. Foxy Roan. Wolf Lowery. Mule Clark. Bear Raney. Hoot Owl Hatcher. Duck Stevens. Pig Choate. Moose Horchem.

Manton has turned the pharmacy over to his son and is having a ball in retirement. He owns a 1963 Mercury Comet Convertible that leads every parade in Cooper. Usually the queen of the event is sitting on the back of Manton's convertible.

Manton has always liked wheels. When he was about three years old he was asking his father for a tricycle. "You don't need a tricycle. Go out there and get on that horse," his father told him.

Manton had a bicycle when he was a boy, then graduated to a motorcycle. "In 1926 there were four of us that had motorcycles in town," he says. "We formed sort of a club and at night we'd head out for Paris or Commerce."

Manton used to ride his motorcycle standing up. "They had big saddle seats back then. And the throttle, when you gave it the gas and took your hand off of it, it stayed the same and kept the speed up. I'd put my feet on that seat and come right on up. I could throw my weight to the right or left and the motorcycle would go in the direction I leaned. I used to weave back and forth going down the highway at 30 miles an hour. Or I could keep it straight. I rode a motorcycle many a mile standing up."

He and another motorcycle rider used to ride side by side while one of their friends stood on their shoulders to form a pyramid.

Manton couldn't afford whitewall tires for his motorcycle, so he painted four big dots on the wheels to look like he had whitewalls when his motorcycle was in motion.

"One time we had a church bench about ten feet long and we balanced it on the back of my motorcycle. Four guys sat on that bench and I drove around the square with that bench and those guys sitting on it. People all stood around and laughed when they saw that."

They used to block off the intersections around Coopers main street and roar through downtown going as fast as the motorcycle would go.

"Why did we do all that stuff? Just to be doing it, I reckon."

"Learn from my mistakes" urges skin cancer survivor

As a child growing up in New York in the late 1930s, Donald Biederman spent his summers on the beach. At that time, a tan was considered healthy. Biederman used to get a "good burn" the first time out, so he would tan faster. It never occurred to him that his exposure to the sun was a time bomb that would come back to haunt him later in life.

In 1995, Biederman visited his dermatologist after he became concerned about a small red spot that had developed at the end of his nose. "It was very frightening when my dermatologist looked me in the eye and told me that I had a malignancy on my face," remembered Biederman.

Not only did he have a malignancy on his nose, Biederman would soon learn that the squamous cell carcinoma was far more extensive than it appeared. Although the initial red spot was removed, the cancer was attacking a nerve in his cheek which ran from his cheekbone back to his brain. Not only did it take more than 30 skin cancer surgeries to remove the whole tumor, but Biederman also lost his nose and the left side of his face in the process.

"Today, my collection of prosthetic noses is a reminder of my near-fatal battle with skin cancer," states Biederman. "I am now having my nose rebuilt. By the time this process is finished, my whole odyssey will have consumed more than five years since I initially saw the little red spot on my nose. Prior to this experience, I did not realize that skin cancer could kill me and was not aware of how disfiguring it could be. I was extremely fortunate to lose only my nose. Life is very precious—almost losing it makes that very, very clear."

While Biederman enjoys the same lifestyle as he did prior to his diagnosis, he has made some changes in his daily routine to protect himself from future skin cancers. For example, he wears a wide-brimmed hat and a long-sleeved shirt when he plays golf. In addition, he applies a broad-spectrum sunscreen prior to tee-off and then reapplies on the ninth hole. He also visits his dermatologist twice a year.

Each year, 1 million new cases of skin cancer are diagnosed in the United States. In addition, 9,200 people die of skin cancer annually. Fortunately, most skin cancer can be cured if detected early.

To prevent skin cancer, the American Academy of Dermatology recommends that everyone follow these sun safety precautions year-round:

- Avoid "peak" sunlight hours - between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. - when the sun's rays are the strongest.
- Apply a broad-spectrum sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15, apply 15 - 30 minutes before going outdoors, and reapply every two hours, especially when playing sports, swimming, gardening, or doing any other outdoor activities. Cloudy days are no exception. Sunscreens should not be used to increase the time spent in intense sunlight.
- Wear protective, tightly woven clothing, such as a long-sleeved shirt and pants during prolonged periods of sun exposure. And don't forget to wear a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses when outdoors.
- Avoid reflective surfaces, which can reflect up to 85 percent of the sun's damaging rays.
- No shadow...seek the shade! If your shadow is shorter than you are, the damaging rays of the sun are at their strongest and you're likely to sunburn.

"Don't make the same mistakes I did," Biederman said. "Be smart about the sun. Cover up. Use sunscreen. Get yourself checked out by a dermatologist regularly. If you see something new or different on your skin, go see your dermatologist immediately."

Deadline May 31 for Jewel in the Crown; 20,000 copies to be distributed

The advertising deadline for the next publication of Salado: A Jewel in the Crown of Texas is May 31 for the summer edition. The street date is June 21.

The Salado: A Jewel in the Crown of Texas magazine is published four times a year by the Salado Village Voice newspaper. The next edition will have 20,000 copies.

The Jewel will continue to have four-color process printing on the cover and on interior pages.

"Ronnie Wells' watercolors will come alive with the color printing," said Marilyn Fleischer. "We know our advertisers will be excited about the chance to show their merchandise in color. The price for the color advertising includes scanning and other pre-press work."

"This is very competitive pricing for four-color process advertising," said Tim Fleischer. "Our deadline to reserve full page ads with color is May 25 due to the time it takes to create the separations."

"We have a great example of our four color capabilities available for advertisers to view at our newspaper office," Fleischer added.

The Jewel will be printed on a 50# white offset paper.

"The heavier paper stock gives the magazine a longer shelf-life, as well as making it much more attractive," Fleischer said.

The Jewel is distributed in every store, shop, restaurant advertising in the magazine. Hotels and bed and breakfast inns in the village put the magazine in their rooms for visitors to read and take home.

The Chamber of Commerce and real estate agents give the Jewel to potential customers. It provides valuable information to people who may be staying a few hours, a few weeks or a lifetime in the village.

The Jewel will also be distributed at tourist information centers at the borders and in Waco and Austin. "This will give the magazine more bang for the buck," said Tim Fleischer. "We want to make the Jewel the best advertising buy for our customers."

This edition of the Jewel will be distributed during the 33rd Annual Salado Art Fair Aug. 7-8. "It will reach thousands of visitors in just one weekend," Fleischer said.

Included in the Jewel magazine is a shopping map of the village. To be listed on the shopping map, a business must have an ad in the Jewel.

"Those customers who have placed their ads for the calendar year do not have to worry," Fleischer said. "We will begin contacting those advertisers who change their Jewel ads with each edition for the latest copy this week. If you do not hear from us soon, please call."

"While making these improvements to the magazine," Fleischer said, "we are keeping the cost the same as it has been for 11 years."

Land scarred with memories bring solemn tears to many

by James V. Lee

People can always tell you exactly where they were when momentous events happened, such as when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, when President Kennedy was assassinated, or when the first man walked on the moon.

However, I think there are ordinary events that are momentous to each of us that others would scarcely notice. Take the simple act of crying. The last time I cried was July 7, 1989, when my wife and I visited Verdun, France, a city that probably is not a high-priority vacation spot for most people. But this wasn't just any trip. For my wife Nita, it was a pilgrimage to the battlefield where her father was gassed while driving an ammunition truck in World War I. Here's how I recorded the event in my journal.

Verdun isn't just a place. It is an experience. Neither words nor pictures can adequately express the spirit of the place and the overwhelming emotions that torment the visitor. Verdun is a beautiful city, but it somehow still seems to reek with horror and death. The hills, once denuded by endless shellfire, are reforested. Yet, trees and grass cannot hide the ugly pockmarks of explosions nor the outlines of abandoned trenches.

We took a taxi to the American sector to see the endless crosses and the huge monument containing the names of the soldiers killed in action from the Fifth Army of the Red Diamond Division. The day was overcast, and just as we stepped out of the taxi to approach the monument, which houses a chapel, rain began to fall. How symbolic! In the fall of 1918, much of this area was a quagmire. Because of the constant shelling and rain, mud was more than ten meters deep in some places. The United States committed a million men to the war in Europe and 122,000 became casualties, including Nita's father whose lungs, scarred by mustard gas, made his relatively short life a living hell. More than a dozen villages near Verdun and thousands of men were pulverized out of existence, their final resting-place, according to a monument inscription, "known only to God." Three gaping craters mark the former town of Fleury. The very air seems to be the breath of a million ghosts.

The hardships of the men who fought there were complete. The rain, the mud, the stench of dead bodies, the stench of human waste, the vermin—these alone were sufficient for perfect misery. But added to that were the terror of poison gas, hand-to-hand fighting, and the constant shelling of heavy artillery which gave a new description to survivors—shell shocked. Yet they fought, bled, died—and won. Neither Nita nor I are prone to tears, but neither of us could contain them. Her final gesture was to pick a bouquet of poppies by the roadside.

This generation of citizen soldiers who tried to "make the world safe for democracy" has all but written its final chapter and taken its place alongside those revolutionaries who gave us our country. But selfless heroism quietly thrives among us as other younger veterans of more recent conflicts have their own tales of hardships endured for the same noble cause. In his story, Okinawa: The Bloodiest Battle of All, William Manchester credits the U. S. Marines taking of Sugar Loaf Hill as the central experience of my youth.

The same appraisal could be claimed by countless other citizen warriors whose lives were forever changed at places such as Midway Island, Normandy, Ploesti, Chosin Reservoir, Saigon, or the Persian Gulf. Nita and I were the only visitors to spill our tears that day in France. But millions have consecrated other monuments with their tears, simultaneously expressing our gratitude, loss, and care for one another as American people. Not since my visit to Verdun has anything brought me to tears. However, I sometimes come close when the bugler plays "Taps."

Women's Stories On Life, Love And More

(NAPS)—Many voices, many lessons, many lives. That's what's behind a new book, Every Woman Has A Story, true tales compiled by Daryl Ott Underhill ($20 hardcover, Warner Books).

The book features a series of short stories on everything from turning gray to being single to fulfilling dreams to losing parents.

As president of her own marketing consulting firm specializing in women's programs, Underhill had a hunch that many women had a story to tell. Sticking with her gut feeling, she placed advertisements in a variety of papers requesting stories written by women about their lives. She heard from more than 500 women and ultimately combined more than 70 stories into the collection.

Publishers Weekly maintains that Every Woman Has A Story "will resonate with many women."

Most women can relate to losing a friend, following a dream, or coming of age. Within the book's chapters, readers can select from a variety of inspiring stories. Among the issues discussed are:

- Women and friendship
- Men and love
- A time for healing
- From one generation to another
- Follow your dream
- Simple pleasures
- The empty nest

A self-published edition of Underhill's book sold out of its 4,000-copy first printing. Now the book is published by Warner Books. It is also available as a Time Warner Audiobook.

Underhill is one of the writers who contributed to the bestselling Chicken Soup for the Mother's Soul book. The book is available at bookstores everywhere. You can get more information about the book online at www.warnerbooks.com.

Garden checklist to keep color blooming in for months to come

Hlene C. Miller
Co. Ext. Agent

Here is a garden checklist from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to keep your landscape colorful land blooming for the summer months ahead.

1. Cut off old blossoms on spring flowering annuals such as pansies, snap dragons, stock and calendulas to prolong the flowering season.

2. Continue to fertilize roses every four to six weeks with small amounts of high nitrogen fertilizer. Do not forget to spray susceptible roses for black spot control. Use fungicides recommended for black spot at 7-day intervals.

3. Set out plants by hybrid portulaca (Purslane) in sunny areas. Root cuttings of your favorite colors by placing three to four inch stems in moist, sandy soils.

4. It is not too late to sow directly into the soil seeds of sunflowers, zinnia, morning glory, portulaca, marigold, cosmos, periwinkle and gourds. Achimenes, cannas, dahlias and other summer flowering bulbs can also be planted in May.

5. Pinch back the terminal growth on newly planted annuals and perennial plants. This will result in shorter, more compact, better branching plants with more flowers.

6. Plant caladium tubers, Impatiens and begonias.

7. Replace or replenish mulch materials in flower beds and shrub borders to conserve moisture and reduce weak growth.

8. Allow foliage of spring flowering bulbs to mature and yellow before removing.

Universities provide tours, financial aid and applications electronically

Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas, including University of Mary Hardin-Baylor, have provided a new way for students to plan for and apply to college. A new and free internet-based information system will help prospective students prepare for college admission, seek information about independent higher education opportunities in Texas, and find the best college choice for them among the 40 member institutions of Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas, Inc. (ICUT).

The new web site, www.texasmentor.org, takes prospective students on multimedia virtual campus tours, helps them match their needs and interests with specific institutions, establishes direct E-mail communication with campus representatives, performs scholarship searches, and provides a host of other features, including a comprehensive section on financial aid to help students and their families understand their financial aid opportunities and eligibility. Once students have narrowed their campus choices and decided to apply for admission, TEXASmentor provides online admissions and financial aid applications for them to quickly and easily complete and submit over the Internet. This innovative Internet information system is designed and operated by XAP Corporation and is made available in cooperation with the Student Loan Corporation, a Citibank subsidiary and The Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation.

TEXASmentor is an Internet-based information management system patterned after the highly successful CSUmentor system (www.csumentor.edu) designed for the California State University (CSU) which received more than 600,000 visitors in its first year of operation. Mentor Systems in the United States are linked by a common database. By merely "pointing and clicking," students may use their private and secure databases to fill out and electronically transmit a variety of admissions information, financial aid forms and applications to universities and colleges across the United States.

The Salado Walkpath Bridge

A Pedestrian Safety Project by The Texas Department of Transportation

Lenticular Truss -- Patented 1878

Designer: William O. Douglass

Manufacturer: East Berlin Iron Bridge Company, East Berlin, Connecticut

Constructed in 1889 across Cowhouse Creek in Coryell County. Coryell County later moved the bridge to a crossing of Dodd's Creek. In 1995, the bridge was declared functionally obsolete for vehicular traffic. In the search for a pedestrian bridge to cross Campbell's Branch in Salado, the Texas Department of Transportation decided to renovate and utilize this structure. It was moved to this location on July 29, 1997, as part of the Salado Walkpath Project. It was dedicated May 13, 1999.

This structure is one of eight remaining lenticular bridge west of the Mississippi River and one of 24 surviving in America. The name for this type of truss is derived from the geometric figure made when the longitudinal upper and lower parabolic chords intersect, forming the shape of a lens. The lenticular truss combines the properties of an arch type bridge and a suspension type bridge into a single design, requiring less steel than similar bridges.

The Salado Walkpath was a joint effort between the Salado Chamber of Commerce and the Texas Department of Transportation. The Salado Walkpath and Lenticular Bridge Restoration project was awarded TxDOT's State Environmental Achievement Award in 1998.

Contractor: Ellis-McGinnis Construction Company

Photographer Amy Hall exhibits at CAC

Temple artist Amy Hall Smith will be exhibiting her unique and exciting photographic collages in the Saulsbury Gallery at the Cultural Activities Center through June 30. Inspired by the cubist style of pop painter and photographer David Hockney, Smith transforms her own art from a single photograph into a larger, more dimensional presentation that expands on some of photography's traditional limitations.

"There is a Cubist touch here and there in my collages, but my real interest was to record a sense of place and our sensation of being there," Ms. Smith explained. An artist-craftsman in clay, Smith has taught clay classes at the CAC as well as ceramic programs at

St. Mary's Catholic School and Temple College. It was while on a graduate studies trip to Holland that she first became interested in photography. "While away, I wanted to work creatively, but clay, my usual medium was impractical." She remembered an Art Appreciation class at TC that featured a photo-collage in the style of Hockney and the possibilities of photography.

In addition to the "An Expanded View" exhibition, the McCreary Gallery will host folk images and art work from private collections while the Porcelain Art Guild will hold their annual exhibition in the Carabasi Gallery.

Americans promote freedom of religion

(NAPS)—Go forth and bear witness, advises the Bible.

That's just what many Americans are doing today. They feel a need to bear witness in support of freedom of religion and other rights in the U.S. and around the world.

For example, a growing number of Americans are writing letters to help prevent China's occupation of Tibet from interfering with the practice of Christianity and of the Tibetan religion.

Tibet, a peaceful nation situated in the Himalayas, sits on the highest plateau in the world, at an altitude of 12,000 feet. An independent nation for many centuries, Tibet has its own culture, with its own spoken and written language and its own style of Buddhism, costume and architecture.

The flag of Tibet, a place in Asia many Americans believe should enjoy freedom of religion, as we do here.

The official position of the U.S. government supports a dialogue between the government of China and the Dalai Lama, the respected world religious leader considered by Congress to be the head of the Tibetan government in exile. Our government is also concerned about the "preservation and development of Tibet's unique religious, cultural and linguistic heritage and protection of its people's fundamental human rights."

To that end, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright recently appointed Julia Taft, considered a very capable and senior diplomat, as Special Coordinator on Tibetan issues. One of her main duties is to promote the start of talks between Beijing and the Dalai Lama.

Many Americans who are interested in encouraging religious and other freedoms around the world are writing to our own government and the government of China about this situation.

Anyone can express an opinion on either side of this or any issue to legislators at the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 and the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

What could do a lot of good for freedom of religion would be letters—appeals, not threats—to the Chinese Mission to the U.N., 350 East 35th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016 or the Embassy of the People's Republic of China, 2300 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20008.

Great Gardening Tip of the Week

How Does Your Garden Safety Rate?

It may take only a seed of common sense to ensure safer gardening.

Why not sow some safety tips from experts into your gardening practices:

- When using gardening tools, wear safety goggles. There is always the possibility of flying fragments after striking objects in the ground.

- Wear protective gardening shoes. Safeguard toes and feet by wearing sturdy shoes.

- Wear garden gloves - not only as protection from blisters, dirt and scratches, but also for its length and weight to provide a firmer grip on your tools.

- Select the right tool - not only for its function but also for its length and weight to fit you and the job.

- Keep tools in top condition. Make sure handles fit tight and that they are not cracked or split. Discard any tool with a chipped or battered tool head.

- Check the ground to avoid hitting hard objects that could damage the tool and hurt you.

To help alleviate wrist and arm fatigue and other gardening aches and pains, use the following common sense tool using strategies:

- Avoid repetitive motions over a long period of time.

- Make sure your grasping the tool properly for maximum leverage with minimum strain. A good rule with hammer-swing tools is to "shake hands" when gripping the tool and then, let the tool head do the work.

- Look for user friendly tools with ergonomic features. Lightweight, short handled landscaping tools.

- Select a tool that fits. Special tools are designed for small space gardens and makes it easier to maneuver in water gardens, backyard ponds, waterfalls, rock gardens and some have the ability to dig a trench, plant, till, edge, shape, carve and do fine finishing detailing.

Salado Country Cooking

Beer Boiled Shrimp

Andy Phair

This recipe is in the Salado Country Cooking cookbook sponsored by the Salado United Methodist Church

- 3 lbs. Medium shrimp in the shell
- 3 cans (12 oz.) beer (Lone Star, of course)
- 1 tsp. dried thyme (or 1 tablespoon fresh)
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 2 bay leaves
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled or slivered
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1 tablespoon parsley
- 1 tablespoon chives, minced

Wash and drain shrimp. In large Dutch oven, combine everything but shrimp; bring to boil. Add shrimp and cook just until pink (about 1 minute). Serve warm from pot or from large bowl. Peel, and dip in sauce.

- Sauce:
- 1 stick oleo
  - 2 tablespoons minced parsley
  - 2 tablespoons minced chives
  - Several drop hot pepper sauce
  - 1/4 cup lemon or lime juice

Melt oleo and stir in other ingredients.

Antiques, Antiques, Antiques...

Cows and cow related collectibles were the rage during the 1980's. Some just wanted collectibles that pictures the animal. Others became fascinated with the history and tools of the dairy industry.

Cows have been a popular part of advertising since the mid-19th century. Trade cards and labels for milk based beverages, shortening using butter, condensed milk and cheese used the obvious symbol of a cow.

A few cow trademarks have remained famous. Cow Brand Baking Soda and Elsie, the Borden cow, are the best remembered.

Cow collectors always want more including dairy equipment, milk bottles, ice cream containers and anything else related to the cow and its milk.

Q: I found a barrel shaped 5 inch mug in my parent's attic. It has a handle that looks like a country bumpkin. The mark on the bottom says "Twin Winton." How old is it?

A: Your mug is one of several ceramic pieces in a series called "Hillbilly Humor." The series was created in 1947 by Don Winton's Pasadena, California, Company, Twin Winton Studios. Most pieces have a handle shaped like a hillybilly. The Hillbilly series included not only mugs, cups and steins, but also pitchers, ashtrays, lamps and salt and pepper shakers. The series was enormously popular for a few years. Twin Winton continued to sell Hillbilly pieces until the 1970's. Your mug is worth about $30.

Home Improvement Tip of the Week

From Country To Contemporary - Designing Your New Kitchen or Bathroom With a Theme.

Remodeling or constructing a new kitchen or bathroom takes a great deal of your attention. After all, these are the rooms where you and your family spend a lot of time.

So not only should you design your kitchen and bath around your wants and needs but also the architectural style of your home.

There is a tremendous growth of interest in kitchen and bath designs that keep with the architectural style of the home. A themed kitchen or bathroom enhances the home's architectural character.

Today's various country styles all reflect a basic celebration of the countryside and are based on certain fundamental components - natural materials and colors, functional design, good craftsmanship, home-spun skills and the relationship of the indoors to the outdoors, which is often forgotten in the contemporary urban life.

For example, French Country style includes cabinetry in cherry, oak, pine, walnut or fruitwood finishes, although colored and distressed surfaces work well, too. Cabinet doors may have arched raised panels or carved moldings to imitate the luxurious armories and buffets of the time. Add fanciful handwrought hinges and brass, iron or pewter pulls to cabinetry to complete the look.

Blue gray, pink, peach and teal are popular colors used with this style, accented by mustard yellow, red and green.

Wooden or limestone floors, or ones paved with rough terra cotta quarry tiles, are typical, while tiled, marbled or granite countertops are suitable as well as durable. Add ceramic tiles in patterns inspired by French faience ceramics in blues and white to a backsplash, and you've got a beautifully designed room for all to enjoy.

English country may be recognized by textures stucco walls that surround oak, pine cherry walnut or painted finishes with square raised or recessed panels. Hand-hewn beams may grace the ceiling. Countertops of any surface type work well in these rooms, with brick, wood plank or stone for flooring. Accent the room with copper and brass, lace, linen and flowers galore to fulfill an English country interior scheme.

American Country designs are hand-crafted masterpieces. Schemes stress natural, rugged materials, such a wood plank, flagstone or cork floors, as well as simplicity and practicality. Butted boards or stile and rail cabinets with flats panel doors are the best to use, and may have a pickled or dragged finish to suggest age and many layers of paint.

Wrought iron, pewter or antique brass hardware are generally incorporated.

As for countertops, tile, solid surface and laminates that imitate natural stone textures and colors work, well, while butcher block (the more distressed in finish, the better) is also suitable.

Extensive use of primary colors - red, blue and yellow - can be found, while greens ranging from mint to rich forest are also appropriate. Finish off the room with baskets, copper or iron accessories, an antique hutch, or a pine farm table and pie safe in the kitchen to complete the rustic look for the American Country kitchen or bath.

For a more formal look, classic styles such as Georgian and Federal periods use rich mahogany and cherry finishes with square or arched raised panel doorstyles. Granite or marble tile for flooring (especially in black and white checkerboard patterns) are also appropriate.

Accenting the room with an Oriental motif, such as rugs, rich in silks and deep, jewel tones add priceless atmosphere, as do Queen Anne types tables and chairs ornamented with classical "shell" designs.

Modern or contemporary designs stress very simple and unadorned looks, but can be very bold, bright and vibrant. Oak, ash, teak and birch can be used for cabinetry, with laminate, solid surface and stainless steel countertops. All types of flooring, from brick to stone, to wood and even carpet, can be used with either style. Rooms are generally accented with plenty of glass, chrome, mirrors and steel.

Whatever your style, your new kitchen or bathroom is certain to be filled with all of the grace and beauty that comes from designing the room of your dreams.
