Salado Cemetery is one of the oldest community cemeteries in Central Texas, with the earliest known burial taking place circa 1852.

Salado, formerly known as Salado Springs, was a busy stage-stop located on a well-traveled route between Austin and Waco, when a United States Post Office was opened on April 29, 1852, the second oldest in Bell County.

Among the families living in the area was that of William Tandy Bush, frontier Church of Christ preacher, whose first wife, Zilla, was one of the first people to be buried on land donated as a cemetery by Colonel E.S.C. Robertson. W.T. Bush is buried between Zilla and his second wife, Mary.

A review of the gravestones reveals many interesting facts about early Salado history. Other preachers buried here are the Reverend James E. Ferguson, a Methodist circuit-rider and Confederate soldier and the father of the late governor of Texas, James E. Ferguson, The Reverend George Washington Baines, a Baptist, and the great-grandfather of the late President Lyndon Baines Johnson, and John Paine, another Church of Christ preacher, who fought in the Texas War for independence in 1836.

The town of Salado came into being as a result of the founding of Salado College in 1859. A number of pioneer educators are buried here. These include Professor James Smith, head of Salado College for many years, and Dr. Samuel T. Jones, head of Thomas Arnold High School.

Dr. Jones also served on the Board of Regents of the Gary P. Nunn performed at Tablerock May 23 as a benefit for the local performing arts group, Tablerock Festival of Salado. He played old favorites "London Homesick Blues (I Wanna Go Home with the Armadillo)" and new ones. During the concert, Fred Fuller announced plans for a statue of an armadillo on Tablerock's nature trail. Shown above is artist David B. Hart, of Florence.

What sacrifice for 'safety'?

Just a few short days after Salado ISD officials met with concerned parents and community members about school safety, the national news carries another tragic story of a school shooting.

Instead of discussing how we can better prepare our children for their futures as productive, creative, successful adults, we are discussing metal detectors and crisis plans.

Watching the pictures from Colorado over and over again, we react in the most human of ways.

We want to protect our own. And when the "threat" of violence hits closer to home, we want to circle the wagons.

We begin to question whether the right to privacy is so important. We begin to question whether the right of being innocent until proven guilty is so important.

We begin to question whether sacrificing these rights ourselves and demanding that others sacrifice these rights is not too much to ask.

We don't come right out and say, "Hey, let's all give up our right to privacy."

We say, "Perhaps we should have metal detectors at the entrances of our schools."

Or, "Perhaps we should have drug-

by Tim Fleischer

and weapons-sniffing dogs search all of our kids' cars."

Or, at the national level, it comes across as, "perhaps we should censure what the media airs."

Or, "what we really need are tougher gun laws."

What we don't hear too much about is this: Each time we give up a right, whether it be privacy, free speech or innocence, we let the thugs, bullies and terrorists win.

We let them win by changing the way we live as a society. The thugs and terrorists win when they cause us to live in fear. The thugs and terrorists win when they cause us to look at each other and treat each other as criminals, killers and terrorist.

Some kids are criminals. A few are even killers, as has been made abundantly clear by the media.

But the vast majority of kids are good, decent kids. So, let's treat them that way.

No special session! Comptroller finds extra millions to resolve Bush's dilemma

Five days remain in this biennial 76th session of our Texas Legislature and for this bit of good news we can all breathe a little easier - especially when we add the tid-bit that there will be no special session this summer!

That's right - the sly threat by Governor Bush that unless he got his way on divvying up the state's surplus dollars, he would call the lawmakers back into session - has disappeared thus making lawmakers and the public safe and happy.

The threat of a summer session was duly reported in our May 12, column including a prediction that the Comptroller would come in at the last minute with a revised estimate of state revenue that would save the day and Bush's questionable future. All the Guv needed was five hundred million so teachers and taxpayers would receive an equal share of the surplus - $2+ billion each.

And sure enough, a few days later money-counter Carole Rylander - a fellow GOPer, gave the Guv just what he wanted with a few extra million tossed in for good measure. She had "found" some $800 plus million she expects to come dribbling in over the next two years and everyone's problem was solved.

Now that there is enough money for a healthy teacher pay raise, the only item left is how to divide the remaining dollars so that business gets the lions share and the rest of us - a modest sop or two. Some argue that few middle class taxpayers will see much, if anything, in the way of a fair share of the $4 billion bucks being kicked around as "new" money.

The plans for tax relief on the table at this point include a sales tax cut on internet access and data processing services; business research, development and investment tax cuts; tax breaks for companies that provide child care and job creation plans plus exempting certain corporations from the franchise levy. For the consumer, the sales tax on over the counter medicines would be dropped. Cost of all this about $500 million.

Fiddling with school property tax relief has not been detailed but would take another $1.2 billion and sent primarily to poorer schools.

The teacher pay raise of $3000 would cost over $2 billion, with another half billion for new education programs, so all in all the $4-plus billion surplus would be used right down to the last cent!

Like the fellow said when they were putting together the budget: "A few billion here, a few billion there and before long you are talking big bucks!"

Taxpayers in general can be thankful for one thing - there will be no new or additional taxes added this session. This will come later when we have an economic downturn and no rainy day savings fund to draw from - then the stuff will hit the fan and fingers will be pointing in all directions.

The constitutional requirement that half the surplus be set aside as a reserve fund (Rainy Day amendment) is being purposely overlooked in a most illegal manner. How the legislature and Governor get away with this is a mystery, when all it would take is to have one of the so called consumer watchdog groups blow the whistle in court.

Of course that would hardly be "de rigueur" when we are trying to get our top man elected president - right?

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

Teachers and tax relief to share surplus equally.

Bush plan holds firm.

Every penny to be spent.

Nothing for "Rainy Day Fund" as required by Constitution!

TERM LIMITS TOO LIMITING?

The Republican revolution of 1994 brought a large contingent of firebrands to the House of Representatives in Washington, each one out-shouting the other to call attention to their strong fealty to newly crowned king Newt Gingrich and the Contract with America; a strong belief in term limits; tax reductions at all levels of government and absolute hostility towards all giveaway programs (not including corporate welfare) plus a genuine dislike of gummint in general and in particular - all those career lawmakers who, like the hateful liberal Democrats, made life so miserable for so many GOPers, so many years.

Among this group one young man stood out loud and clear thanks in part to his ability to convince Tacoma, Washington voters in 1994 that it was time to turn House Speaker Tom Foley out to pasture and elect a young man who would guarantee he would limit his sojourn in the nation's capitol to three terms (six years).

That was George Nethercutt and he immediately made all the talk shows including several sessions on PBS's Newshour during which he blasted away at the Democrats and hewed to the party line.

All this brought him to the in-crowd attention of Gingrich that allowed the young man to wallow in the fun and friendship of social Washington.

Only problem with all this is that his six year self-imposed term limit ends next year and we are beginning to hear a slightly revised tune.

Rumors out of Washington (both State and D. C.) indicate young George is not so sure he wants to give up his job with the majority party. He reportedly admitted he had underestimated the power of seniority in Congress.

Later there was the paraphrased comment heard around the rotunda that folks back home in Tacoma would be so desolated and inconsolable if he failed to run again, despite his term limiting pledge, there is no telling what they would do.

This past week the young congressman made the Doonesbury cartoon with all this baggage trailing behind him so you can soon expect some sort of retaliatory spin-type explanation for his change of heart, if in fact he goes for reelection.

Bet old Tom Foley is having a good chuckle as are many other Democrats who had to listen to Nethercutt blather about his high ideals of less government and the almost daily conservative political catechism by those who claim to be non-professional lawmakers who go to Congress, stay for a season and then go home.

Only problem is - no one has voluntarily gone home thus far in the game! That's -30-

MEMORIAL DAY A TIME TO REMEMBER THE BRAVE AND HONOR THE FALLEN

For more than 130 years Americans have set aside the last Monday in May — Memorial Day — to remember and honor the men and women who fought for our freedoms and liberties.

On this sacred day, the country will remember the selfless sacrifice that so many have shown many times in defense of our country. Their stories may have been forgotten and their faces lost to time, but the legacy they left for all Americans is enjoyed every day.

The observance of Memorial Day began in May 1868, three years after the final shot was fired in the Civil War. A weary nation had just fought a brutal war that pitted father against son, brother against brother, and friend against friend. America desperately needed a way to recognize the great sacrifice and mourn the terrible loss.

Through the decades the sharp pain of the Civil War began to fade. Americans continued to observe Memorial Day as the country honored other sons and daughters lost in battle. They fought in world wars and police actions, in jungles and in deserts, in the air and on the sea. Hundreds of thousands made the ultimate sacrifice defending our great nation.

Every day the men and women who served our country and returned home safely are now passing on into the night. They will also be remembered on this important day.

In 1915 a timeless poem was composed on a Belgian battlefield during World War I. The stirring words "In Flanders Fields" remind us of our obligations to those who served and sacrificed.

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow

*Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky*

The larks, still bravely singing, fly

Scarce heard amid the guns below.

*"We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,*

Loved and were loved, and now we lie

In Flanders fields.

*"Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw*

The torch; be yours to hold it high.

*If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow*

In Flanders fields."

The day is done for many who served bravely, but they leave us with a great gift — a future that is limited only by the imagination of its people and their willingness to defend liberty and fight for freedom.

University of Texas at Austin. Major A. J. Rose, who once served as chairman of the Board of Regents of Texas A & M University, is also buried here.

A number of pioneer physicians are buried in the cemetery, including Dr. Welborn Barton, Dr. Welborn Barton, Jr., Dr. J. E. Guthrie, Dr. W. A. Davis, Dr. F. G. Kimbrough, and Dr. B. D. McKie who served in two wars and as an early-day Texas Ranger.

The ages of persons buried in the cemetery reveal something of the hardships endured by the early settlers. There are many infants, small children, and young women buried here. A large number of men and women who served in eight wars and in peacetime in all branches of the armed forces are found to be buried here.

The middle section of the cemetery, known as "The Old Original Cemetery," the "1906 Addition," and the "East Addition" provided for approximately 3,000 graves, many of which are lost. The vacant areas in this part of the cemetery are the sites of lost graves.

There are five other sections of the cemetery: Rose Addition, East Addition, East Extension (1976), South Extension (1950 Addition), and the Hodge Addition which was opened in 1992.

For 15 decades, loved ones have been buried here in this quiet, peaceful cemetery: grandparents, parents, children, siblings, cousins, aunts, uncles, friends. Each has played a part in the history of our community and our country.

An historical marker can be seen near the flagpole at the main entrance. Securing and dedicating of the marker was a project of the Salado Chamber of Commerce in 1969. At the dedication ceremony the marker was unveiled by Mrs. Virginia Kinnison Matthews, the great granddaughter of the Reverend George Washington Baines.

Maintenance and upkeep of the cemetery and sale of lots is the responsibility of the Salado Cemetery Association and the Friends of Salado Cemetery Association.

Rev. Mike Bergman gets Doctor of Ministry May 15

Rev. Mike Bergman, former pastor of First Baptist Church Salado, received the Doctor of Ministry degree from Grace (Brethren) Theological Seminary, Winona, IN. May 15.

Dr. Mike Bergman

Dr. Bergman began his pursuit of this doctoral degree in 1994. The program included intensive reading and writing assignments for each of eight seminars conducted at the Seminary. Each seminar was lead by a nationally known leader in the particular field of study for that seminar. The seminars were followed by a two-year project of his choosing that related to ongoing ministry in a local church. His project addressed the issue of how to effectively decrease the number of inactive church members.

Dr. and Mrs. (Nancy) Bergman continue to reside in the Salado area. He now pastors the Keys Valley Baptist Church near Belton. Mrs. Bergman teaches the dyslexia program at Thomas Arnold Elementary in Salado.

"Be strong, and let your heart take courage, all you who wait for the Lord!"

-Psalms 31:24

It was said during World War II that there were no atheists in foxholes. We can take comfort from that thought as we once again memorialize those who have fallen in the nation's conflicts. The men and women who made the supreme sacrifice were no different from you and I, but the dangers they faced were far greater than the average person encounters. Yet, no matter the degree of peril any of us faces, we all in times of trail look to God for strength to endure our troubles. Fear is a great motivator of prayer, but we should not forget that there are also prayers of thankfulness and love when nothing endangers us. Take heart in his care.

Weimar eliminates Eagles from baseball playoffs

by Melvin Bates
SHS Baseball Coach

The Weimar Wildcats bounced the Salado Eagles from the state playoffs by sweeping their best of three series 6-1 and 11-1 last week. This is the third year in a row that the Eagles have finished the year as Area Champs. The end of the season is always difficult, but the Eagles had a great year.

In the first game of the series, Salado had trouble both offensively and defensively. The Eagles did not swing the bat on Friday as they struck out 10 times, seven of which they went down looking. On defense, the Eagles committed an uncharacteristic six errors that accounted for three unearned runs.

David Palmer, Chris Michna and Kevin Keller collected Salado's only hits on the night.

Michna suffered his first defeat of the year on the mound for Salado. He pitched a good game, even without his best stuff.

On Saturday, you could tell early on it wasn't meant to be Salado's day. The ball seemed to take the strangest of hops against the Eagles and Weimar always made the big play when it looked as if Salado would get back into the game.

Weimar scored four runs in the first inning and never looked back. Salado's only run came in the third, although the Eagles had several other chances. Salado left eight runners on base including the bases loaded in the fourth inning.

Beau Wallace, Shaun Drake, Palmer, Michna and Keller collected Salado's only hits on the day.

Salado finished their miraculous season at 16-8. In early April, after the first round of district saw the Eagles sitting at 3-3 and tied for fourth, the playoffs didn't seem possible.

The young, inexperienced Eagles went back to the basics, worked harder, gelled as a unit and became a different team. They defeated league-leading Academy 12-2 and eventually district champ Troy 4-3. Both games were on the road.

The team showed a lot of pride, character and determination during the year. Although Salado graduates four Seniors who contributed greatly to the team's success, with seven starters and 14 lettermen returning, the future looks bright.

Jewel

color capabilities available for advertisers to view at our newspaper office," Fleischer added.

The Jewel will be printed on a 50# white offset paper. "The heavier paper stock gives the magazine a longer shelf-life, as well as making it much more attractive," Fleischer said.

The Jewel is distributed in every store, shop, restaurant advertising in the magazine. Hotels and bed and breakfast inns in the village put the magazine in their rooms for visitors to read and take home.

The Chamber of Commerce and real estate agents give the Jewel to potential customers. It provides valuable information to people who may be staying a few hours, a few weeks or a lifetime in the village.

The Jewel will also be distributed at tourist information centers at the borders and in Waco and Austin. "This will give the magazine more bang for the buck," said Tim Fleischer. "We want to make the Jewel the best advertising buy for our customers."

Included in the Jewel magazine is a shopping map of the village. To be listed on the shopping map, a business must have an ad in the Jewel.

"While making these improvements to the magazine," Fleischer said, "we are keeping the cost the same as it has been for 11 years."

To reserve your ad, please call 254/947-5321.

Editor's Letters

Dear Editor:

As this school year comes to a close, as an educator I have a lot to be thankful for while teaching here in Salado. First and foremost, I am thankful that we have not experienced such a terrible tragedy as the one, which occurred in Colorado.

I am also blessed by the amount of help that I receive with the Spanish Program here at Salado High School from Minta Landrum. Ms. "Orange" so graciously gives her time and shares her tremendous knowledge of the Hispanic culture not only with us here at school, but also in the community where the Spanish Program may not reach. Because of her unselfish work, our community now has a Hispanic Folkloric Dance Troupe that consist of six very beautiful and talented Hispanic young ladies from here at Salado High.

These girls have performed at many civic functions held here in Salado. They are a great source of pride not only for Ms. Landrum, but also their family, peers and myself. I feel extremely close to each and every one of these young ladies and am so proud to have been part of their educational experience. I have had the opportunity to watch each one of them grow and become such a wonderful example not only for their culture, but also for our community. I feel that it is very important that this community knows and understands how culturally diverse it has become and with community members such as Ms. Landrum this important information is finally being relayed to the community.

I want to express my sincere gratitude to Ms. Landrum for her assistance. To the mothers of the six very talented young ladies for their help and support. To Mr. Agnew for allowing the students to perform during school hours and Dr. Battershell for her support and assistance in our endeavor to promote cultural awareness within our communities.

Dear Editor:

We want to thank a special fireman that came to help us when our car "pooped out" right in the middle of everything at The Mason's Fish Fry. He quickly helped us on our way.

Great Fire Department!

Literary Fest Finalists chosen

The Living Room Theatre of Salado recently announced six finalists in the Judy and A.C. Greene Literary Festival to be held June 8-12. Each finalist was chosen for their excellence in writing an original, unpublished work that would lend itself to dramatic performance. Submitted works had to be written by Texas writers, writers trained and/or employed in Texas or writers who write about Texas.

"We had entries for the Festival from all over the nation," explains festival chairman, Dr. Raymond Carver. "We narrowed the selection to six finalists and presented each author with a $250 cash prize for being selected to participate. On July 12 at the Salado Civic Center, we will award a grand prize of $1,500 and an originally designed trophy made specifically for the Festival by renowned sculptor Troy Kelley, of Salado, to the winner."

Critic Adjudicator, Marshall Terry, author and professor of English and Creative Writing at Southern Methodist University, will judge all the performances and select the grand prize winner.

The finalists include Fort Worth native, Phyllis Allen, who has had publications in Kente Cloth - The Disapora; Texas Short Stories and Texas Short Stories II. Her piece, "After Love" was chosen for performance in the Festival.

Retired teacher and currently an actress/writer living in Belton, Lilla Barnes will feature her original work entitled "The Stonelifter." Barnes is an active member of the Temple Civic Theatre, having volunteered in almost every capacity for 30 years at TCT.

Tom Doyal is a fifth generation Texan who has had work published in The Austin Chronicle, New Texas '95 and Texas Bound: Audiobook I & II. Two short stories from Doyal have been chosen for the Festival, "Hello Mother" and "Aunt Eudie."

Lianne Mercer of Fredricksburg, is a psychiatric nurse, writer and freelance editor. Her short stories have appeared in Common Bonds: Stories By and About Modern Texas Women; Tales of Magic Realism by Women - Dreams in a Minor Key and New Texas 93. "Addie's War" is Ms. Mercer's entry in the Festival.

National Endowment for the Arts winner Jan Epton

Seale has been chosen as a Festival finalist for her work "Love Until Friday." Seale's short stories and scripts have been performed in various settings such as the Couplet Theatre in Boston, Texas Women's Political Caucus in Austin and with the "Arts and Letters Live" series at the Dallas Museum of Art.

A writer and registered nurse in Allen, Ann McVay has written for various publications in Texas and Louisiana including Dallas Magazine, River Cities Magazine and the Dallas

Morning News. The 1995 winner of first place in prose at the University of Houston-Clear Lake Literary Festival, "How To Tell You're A Father" is the title of her festival submission.

For information regarding the Festival or The Living Room Theatre of Salado, write to The Living Room Theatre of Salado at P.O. Box 1023, Salado, Tx. 76571 or e-mail lrts@vvm.com. Tickets to the five performances will be available after June 1 at the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

Viva Les Arts Theatre presents

"The Immigrant"

Mark Harlik's heart-warming comedy, The Immigrant will be presented at the Viva Les Arts Theatre on June 4-5 and 11-12.

The Immigrant is about the clash of cultures that takes place when Haskell Harlik, a Russian Jew, immigrates to Texas in 1909. The Immigrant follows Haskell's assimilation into life in Hamilton through his growth from a banana peddler to the owner of a grocery store. Based on the actual life of the playwright's grandfather, The Immigrant will, at times, make you want to laugh and cry. The play combines monologues with slides and letters from the time period. It is a humorous but accurate account of one of the greatest stories - how we became neighbors and Americans.

Tickets for the play are $10 for adults and $8 for children. Tickets can be picked up at the Theatre box office. Hours of operation are 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Tues.-Fri. For more information, please call (254) 526-9090.

Sticks and burro poop save stranded hunters

by Tumbleweed Smith

Thurman Yancey of Laredo and three other men went elk hunting on Thurman's Wyoming ranch last year. They rode up there in Thurman's new Chrysler. It had just come from the dealership and hadn't been fully serviced. The men took the car to the camp site and went off on burros to hunt.

The first day of the hunt was great: perfect weather and everybody except Thurman got an elk.

The next morning the thermometer showed 31 degrees below zero. The new Chrysler was there, gleaming in all its glory. The hunters knew that when they wanted to leave, the new car would get them back to Laredo, the hottest spot in Texas. Practically no one in Laredo ever thinks about anti-freeze. People in Wyoming think about anti-freeze nearly all the time.

Two days later the campsite was completely snowed in. The hunters decided they had about all the fun they could stand, so they packed up everything and got in the Chrysler, ready to head home. It wouldn't start.

No anti-freeze. The radiator and engine froze in the extreme cold. The engine has freeze plugs which act as safety valves in case something like this should happen. The freeze plugs had popped out and couldn't be found.

While the men considered their plight, Thurman recalled that when he was younger, men put Prince Albert tobacco in the radiator to stop leaks. In fact Thurman had even put horse manure in the radiator on some occasions. Since the horses had eaten hay, their manure had much the same texture as tobacco.

Thurman and his fellow hunters drove small branches into the places on the engine where freeze plugs usually go. They melted snow and poured a little bit of water into the radiator. They then filled it with burro droppings. The car started.

Thurman carried a five gallon can of water as a precaution. They decided to leave the car at the nearest town and have the motor replaced. After driving 10 miles, they stopped and put about a gallon of water in the radiator. They drove another 10 miles and stopped to check. No water needed. Same thing when they stopped in town. They decided they could make it back to Laredo, a 1,000 miles away. They arrived home in 24 hours, with the tree branches protruding from the engine and a radiator filled with burro poop.

Thurman took the car back to the dealer, who couldn't believe the engine was running with the wooden stubs sticking out of it. He jerked the motor out and put in a new one.

Thurman swears what happens next is the truth. He was driving the car home from the dealership when the engine began making a knocking sound and finally stopped running. Seems the dealer forgot to put oil in the car. Thurman called the dealer, who put in a third engine. This time he checked the oil and the anti-freeze.

Thurman Yancey has become a proponent of burro manure. He thinks every car owner should carry some in the trunk.

Farmers Market opens May 28 at Civic Center

A Salado Farmer's Produce Market will go into operation May 28, 8-11 a.m., on the Civic Center parking lot, according to an announcement from the Civic Center's Board of Directors.

Each Friday morning, through the growing season, Saladoans will be able to purchase fresh vegetables and fruit from a number of local and area farmers, according to Hulda Horton, manager of the Civic Center.

Local farmer, Bob Dunnahoo, will be in charge of the local market. No fees will be charged to the vendors although the items to be sold will include only farm produce. No arts, crafts or plants will be put on sale.

The area to be used for the farmers market will be the northwest corner of the parking lot just to the left of the Main Street entrance to the Civic Center.

According to Ken Clapp, chairman of the Civic Center Foundation, the idea of having a local farmers market came from local citizens to the board of directors who approved the plan as a service to the community.

Donate a car for clean air month

Help Texans breathe easy this Clean Air Month and receive a tax break for yourself. By donating used cars, trucks, recreational vehicles and watercrafts, donors can deduct the fair-market value of their vehicle as a charitable contribution on their federal tax returns, as well as help Texans who suffer from lung disease. In many cases, deducting the fair-market value of a vehicle is worth more than selling it or trading it, and it's 100 percent tax deductible.

Donating eliminates the time and cost involved in selling an old car. Jim Manning, Chairman of the Board, American Lung Association of Texas says, "We make it easy to donate by picking up the vehicles within a couple of days, free of charge; and, we handle all of the paperwork."

Vehicles donated to the American Lung Association of Texas Vehicle Donation program are sold at auction or for salvage. Proper IRS documentation is provided for each donation. In addition to saving money, the proceeds help more than 2 million Texans with lung disease, including over one million who suffer from asthma. "It's a great opportunity for people who want to give something to the Lung Association, but feel they can't make a monetary contribution," says Manning.

The American Lung Association is dedicated to the prevention, control and cure of lung disease, the third leading cause of death in Texas. The Lung Association fights lung disease and promotes lung health through statewide programs of research, health education, advocacy and community service. Its life-saving programs are made possible by public contributions and community volunteers. For more information please call 1-800-LUNG-USA.

Students who are parents get reality check

by John Cornyn
Attorney General of Texas

Q: I have had difficulty scheduling an appointment with the local child support office. What are you doing to solve this problem?

A: I am well aware of the frustrations that child support clients face when they try to schedule an appointment with a local child support office. As part of my plan to improve the performance of the Child Support Division, I intend to put more workers in the field offices to respond to the needs of our customers - the children and parents of Texas.

Currently, the Child Support Division of the Attorney General's office has approximately 2,400 employees - 1,800 in field offices and 600 in the State Office in Austin. In an effort to put more workers in the field, I plan to reduce the number of employees in Austin to around 450 and send about 150 positions to field offices.

In addition to reducing State Office staff, I have asked the Legislature to fund 114 Customer Service positions to answer phone calls in local offices. This will enable Child Support Officers to spend more time meeting with parents instead of answering the phones.

By shifting positions from the State Office to the field and by adding 114 Customer Service Representatives, we will increase the number of field staff by approximately 10 percent. This will improve customer service and make scheduling an appointment much easier.

Q: If the father of a child is still in school and has no money, can he still be required to pay child support?

A: Unless the child is given up for adoption, both parents are responsible for support, even if they are both still minors or still in school. The judge handling the case will look at the absent parents income and decide how much child support must be paid.

The absent parent's income can be reviewed again after he or she graduates from school and begins working. The judge will then decide what changes need to be made in the court-ordered child support.

We believe that it is vitally important to teach young people, before they have become parents, that the law will hold them responsible for supporting their children.

For this reason, we have introduced the Paternity and Parenthood (PAPA) curriculum for high school students. Through PAPA, students learn that we can identify a baby's father through a blood test. We teach them that being young of whether the parents stay together.

The PAPA curriculum is available on the Attorney General's Web site at www.oag.state.tx.us. Staff members also give PAPA presentations around the state. For a hard copy of the PAPA curriculum, write to the Public Information and Assistance Division, Attn: Brochure Distribution, Office of the Attorney General, PO Box 12548, Austin, TX, 78711.

Lawn & Garden Weekly Tip

Mowing Your Way To A Great Lawn

There's nothing like the smell of fresh mown grass to tell you that spring is here and summer is on the way. But will you be ready for the mowing season?

One of the keys to a great summer lawn is mowing. A sharp mower blade and trimming to the right length for your lawn can do more for your yard than pounds of fertilizer and an in-ground watering system. While the second two are important in an overall lawn care program, mowing sets the scene for your lawn's health.

Just as you wouldn't plan a driving vacation without having your car serviced, it's wise not to start mowing season without a tune-up on your mower. In addition to sharpening your blade, make sure your mowing deck is balanced and aligned so that sharp blades are cutting the right way.

The shorter the better - some homebuyers live by that rule, but turf experts believe that many home landscaping problems are caused by cutting lawns too short. What length should you trim the grass? According to the professionals, each type of grass has an optimum height, but the rule of thumb is never to cut off more than one third of the leaf at any one time. When you cut the grass short, there is less leaf to bring sunlight and water to the roots. You should let the grass grow a little longer in shaded areas or in a drought period.

To bag or not to bag - the best kept lawn in the neighborhood isn't necessarily one that's "bagged" weekly. If you mow at the right height, grass clippings can be your yard's best source of "food". Just remember to convert your mower to bagging when grass is very wet or rake wet clumps off the lawn. If you feel you must bag, return those clippings to good use by composting them or using them as garden mulch. A great yard provides mulch. A great yard provides hours of pleasure, strengthens the environment and makes a great place to enjoy those warm summer months.

Dept. of Public Health offers advise for hot summer season

Texans who suffered through 1998's deadly heat wave may be dreading the long, bright days of spring, summer and fall. According to the Texas Department of Health (TDH), last year was a scorcher with more than 140 heat related deaths recorded in Texas through October.

Most often, the elderly, the very young, people with other illnesses or those without access to air conditioning are the victims of intense, prolonged heat. The combination of high temperatures and high humidity can cause a person's natural cooling system, or perspiration, to work overtime. Dehydration and heat illness can result if a person does not replace fluids and salt lost during perspiration.

Symptoms of a heat illness include profuse sweating, muscle cramps, weakness, dizziness, nausea, weak but rapid pulse and headaches. People with these symptoms should find shade and ventilation and drink water. If fluids are not replaced quickly, heat stroke can follow causing extremely high body temperature, red and dry skin, rapid pulse, confusion, brain damage, loss of consciousness and, eventually, death. For severe symptoms get medical help immediately.

People can take precautions against heat illness, said Joe Stone, director of the TDH Emergency Preparedness Division. "Using common sense to stay cool is the most important protection you have," he said. "Staying in an air-conditioned area, either at home or in a public place, is the most efficient way to combat heat. If air conditioning is not available, pull the shades over the windows and use cross-ventilation and fans to cool rooms. But in high temperatures and humidity, turn off the fans or aim them through a window to blow the hot air out." Children especially can quickly become dehydrated. They need to drink fluids frequently, especially water, and wear light, loose clothes. Check on children often, especially if they are playing outside in high temperatures.

Other heat precautions include:

- * Never leave anyone in a closed, parked vehicle during hot weather.
- * Drink plenty of fluids, but avoid drinks with alcohol, caffeine or a lot of sugar.
- * Plan strenuous outdoor activity for early morning or late in the day.
- * Take frequent breaks when working outside.
- * Wear sun block, hats and light, loose-fitting clothes.
- * Stay indoors and in air conditioning as much as possible.
- * Eat more frequently but be sure meals are well balanced and light.
- * Avoid dressing babies in heavy clothing or wrapping them in warm blankets.
- * Check frequently on people who are elderly, ill or may need help.
- * Check with a doctor about the effects of the sun and heat exposure when taking prescription drugs, especially diuretics or antihistamines.
- * At first signs of heat illness - dizziness, nausea, headaches, muscle cramps - move to a cooler place, rest a few minutes, then slowly drink a cool beverage. Seek medical attention immediately if conditions do not improve.

* Pay attention to pets also. Be sure they have plenty of water and do not close them up in parked cars or hot buildings.

TDH's Division of Emergency Preparedness has a packet of heat wave-related publications available that includes a bilingual flier on heat precautions; a brochure explaining heat illness; instructions for school activity directors and coaches; and special reminders for nursing home and medical facility administrators.

"We urge the public to use and share these publications in any way they can to ensure that the high death and illness count of 1998 is not repeated," Stone said.

The information also is available on the TDH Web site at www.tdh.state.tx.us. Click on Emergency Preparedness in the Healthy Community directory, then click on the Texas Heat Wave logo. People also may get the information from their local EMS, local health department or from TDH by calling 512-834-6700, ext. 2322, or taxing 512-834-6736.

Salado Country

Cooking

Green Chili and Cheese Pie

Freda Greenwood

This recipe is in the Salado Country Cooking cookbook sponsored by the Salado United Methodist Church

1 baked pie crust

Filling:

- 1-1/2 cups shredded Jack cheese
- 1 cup mild cheese
- 1 can green chilies, chopped
- 1 cup half & half cream
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cumin

Sprinkle all of Jack cheese and 1/2 cup of the Cheddar cheese over bottom of pie crust. Distribute chopped chilies over cheeses. Beat half & half with eggs, salt and cumin until blended. Pour into crust. Sprinkle remaining 1/2 cup Cheddar cheese over filling. Bake at 325 degrees for 40 minutes or until center is set. Let stand about 1 minutes before cutting. Serve hot or cold.

Q: I still have a single-shot cap gun that my uncle gave me when I was 9 or 10. Now I am 60. The gun is heavy metal, dark silver in color. The word "Zip" and a red star in a circle are just above the metal handle. Can you tell me when the gun was made, and what it's made of and what it's worth?

A: Your cap gun is cast iron. It was made around 1935 by the Hubley Manufacturing Company of Lancaster, Pa. Hubley was founded in 1894. The company made cast-iron toys of all kinds, including fire engines, circus trains, cars and cap guns. Hubley stopped making toys during World War II. If your cap gun works, it would sell for about $50.

Q: My lamp looks like a woman in a flowing robe. She is surrounded by vines and flowers. There is a light bulb in the center of each flower. The lamp is about 24 inches high. When were figure lamps popular?

A: Your lamp is in a very popular art nouveau style. The earliest examples were made in France in the 1890's. They were soon sold in many stores in America. The Frankelite Company of Cleveland is still in business. They offered several such women lamps in 1910 catalog. Most of them were made of a bronze-coated white metal.

Q: I have a string of small bells to which is attached a little booklet titled "Bells of Sarna." How old are the bells? Is Sarna a person?

A: Sajjan Singh Sarna was a bell marketing genius. Sarna was born in India about 100 years ago. He immigrated to the United States when he was a young man but returned to India in the 1930's to buy a supply of Indian bells. He returned to the States and started selling single bells and sets of bells.

He sold the bells with booklets that named the different bells and explained how they were used in India. Sarna later acknowledged that he invented many of the bells' names.

Millions of Sarna bells were sold so their prices are not high. A string of small Sarna bells sells for $10 to $20.

Antique Tip:

If you clean brass-plated hardware too well and remove some of the plating, try this first aid suggestion. Get gold or brass wax at a craft shop. Rub a little on the bad spot. Then seal with clear lacquer. Don't use brass-colored spray paint!

Tip of the Week

Your Home Security When Moving

Almost one in every five people will move this year, and many will be buying or selling one of the 19 million U.S. homes with a security system. As a result, more homeowners than ever are asking questions about what to do with their systems when they move out...or move in.

For Sellers:

- Review your monitoring contract. You may be required to pay the balance of the contract before you move. Also, many homeowners aren't sure whether they own their system. Check your contract if you're not sure.

- Call your security company two to four weeks before you move and provide a firm moving date. Arrange to have your system monitored through moving day and ask if the company offers any moving programs or incentives.

- Discuss the system with your home's new owners. Ask if they want to keep the system and sign up for service with your security company. If they do, your security company may offer incentives for passing on the names of the new owners.

- Should you have the system removed? Unless you own the system, leave it in place so the new home owners have the option of reestablishing service.

- If you'd like a system in your new home, ask the company if you can reestablish service at your new address. If your new home is vacant, make arrangements to meet with sales consultant and have the system installed before you move. Ask about any incentives for reestablishing service.

For Buyers:

- If your new home has a system, the first step is to find out who provides the service. If there's no information from the previous owner, look for contact information on the system keypad or control panel.

- Call the company and ask to reestablish service under your name, or ask to have the system removed.

- If you reestablish service, make sure family members understand who to use the system. Ask your security company if a technician could visit your home for some basic training.

Home Improvement Tip of the Week

Garden-Fresh Wallcoverings Bloom Throughout The Year

Now that gardening has emerged as one of America's top three leisure activities, it's hardly surprising that the lines between indoor and outdoor decorating have blurred. All over green thumbs and green horns alike are on the hunt for decorative elements that bring the gardening experience inside.

People are putting outdoor sculptures and urns in their living rooms and wallcoverings and fabrics that bring in the outdoors are very popular. It appears that we just love adding the sweet smell of earth...or at least the illusion thereof...to our interiors. We yearn for yesteryear's rural life, so in a way those garden elements are the cows and chickens for those of us living in suburbs and cities.

A garden-themed room doesn't have to be rustic, it can be rustic that's what you want. But just like there are informal and formal gardens, rooms decorated in the garden style can be anything from casual to elegant.

Professional designers say that it makes sense to start a garden themed room with the walls. They are the largest surface in a room, so when you treat them right, you're off to a great start. And the good news is that you can establish a garden look, there are lots of choices. Wallcovering manufacturers have been very responsible to the gardening trend, it becomes obvious that today's garden-themed wallcoverings are enormously creative. Many deserve to be called "art on a roll." They may be as romantic as Monet's garden paintings or as realistic as the botanist's drawings. The range of artistry is remarkable. Whether your garden look is English cottage, Versailles formal, Oriental symbolism or contemporary simplicity, there are wallcoverings that will set the stage.

Most of the explicit garden themes such as elaborate floral wreaths, collections of garden tools and pottery or baskets brimming with fruit, flowers or veggies, are reserved for borders, with the more neutral patterns used on wallcovering. And don't worry about finding the right wallcovering to go with the border. The wallcovering books do it for you. The designs are arranged in pattern and color families to virtually eliminate decorating errors, and that goes for fabrics as well as wallcovering and borders.

Just select the basic border or pattern that will establish the mood of the room and then look through the prematched coordinates for your secondary print or prints. Some people like to include two wallcoverings in a room. Most often, such coordinates are used above and below a chair rail. Borders are usually used at the ceiling line or a chair rail height, but they may also outline windows and doors.

For kitchens, colorful borders with vegetable and fruit motifs, and for the sidewalls, sunny stripes or crisp gingham is very popular.

Baths, too, can benefit from wallcoverings that promote the garden look, especially strong foliage patterns. Since you spend little time in the bath, this is the one room where a bold pattern doesn't tire the eye. This is the place to bask in Hibiscus blooms, French ivy or French lilacs.

For elegant dining and living rooms, faux wallcovering designs accented by borders is highly recommended. These designs mimic marble, faded stone exteriors and other textured looks, and they are superb for adding subtle sophistication to any room. From a distance, they often appear as solid walls functioning as a neutral background, but up close, they add depth and tactile quality as convincing as the real thing or custom painted surfaces. Borders may be swags or friezes with floral or foliage motifs.

For bedrooms, which people consider private domains, anything goes, from a textured grasscloth that creates a restful oasis to a wildly romantic floral that evokes dreams of perfect summer days.

Wallcoverings have come a long way since the days of overwhelming cabbage roses. Today, their artistry and fashion presence make them welcome elements everywhere, and their performance is so much more impressive when one considers how affordable they are.
