A Family Affair

25 families take part in annual Salado Legends

The Gunter family is one of the 25 families who are participating in Salado Legends this summer. Mark plays Douglas McDougal and has a special song to sing. Marissa has the role of Marissa Pace. Mike and Nancy Gunter are in charge of dinner tickets.

Many families use Salado Legends rehearsals and the performances as a family project. The five members of Rolly Correa's family have used Salado Legends as a family outing for the past three years. The Lummus family, five of them, have participated for the past five years, using Tablerock for family outings. The Van Bibber family, Sandy, Charlie and Brandy drive from Killeen to take part in the production and have been associated with the play from its inception.

Chuck Eddy works on sets and the concessions stand while his wife Tracey, daughter Halley and son Travis have speaking roles in the play. The Dunnahoo's, Melinda, Courtney, Kristen, Minda and Ryan make "Legends" a family fun time. Fred Fuller and his family from Belton make the play a summer must. The Richard Schrimsher family in Belton have been part for the past five years. New comers this year are the three members of the Donnie Williams family.

For the past three year Matthew Moose has acted in "Legends." This summer his dad, Perry, his mother, Theresa, and his sister and brother have joined him in being part of the "Legend" family.

Retired couples, like Bob and Arlene Dewhurst, Army families like David and Molly Coombs, as well as mother and daughter teams like Rebekah Mensch and Ida Scofield, all join in the family fun.

Mary McHaney, her daughter Elizabeth and her son Jon, have joined in all of the major Tablerock productions because of the togetherness.

The Denver Mills family have four generations who participate in "Legends." Aunt Bonnie Velten make costumes, Denver builds sets, Jackie wrote the play, daughters Nancy Mackey and Susan Miller Humiston are ticket takers and Erin Miller has acted in Legends for seven years.

Families in plays together...stay together.

Marissa and Mark Gunter are part of the reason Salado Legends is a Family Affair.

Sheriff requests pay increases, additional staff

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Sheriff Dan Smith requested a dozen new personnel and a pay hike for existing personnel during a budget hearing with Bell County Commissioners July 12.

Smith said that he has requested salary increases for commissioned field officers for two years, based on comparisons of salaries of other area field officers.

"The Sheriff's office salaries are lower than our counterparts. I urge you to address this issue," Smith stated.

Over 70 Sheriff's office employees attended the meeting in support of Smith's request.

Smith requested a pay increase of $5,000 per year for field officers last year.

Bell County Judge Jon Burrows told those gathered that a salary study of county employees would look at not just base pay, but compare benefits, retirement, health insurance and vacation time. "Salary issues have been around for some time," he said. "We will address those in a businesslike manner. I want to be fair to all of our county employees and we will do what we can."

In addition to an increase in pay for existing personnel, Smith requested that addition of a dozen positions in the Sheriff's Department. The six positions requested for the Bell County Jail could be absorbed through eliminating overtime, he said.

Five proposed positions would be in a Community Oriented Police Unit (COPS). A grant would be 75 percent of the entry-level salaries for three years. After that, the positions would have to be fully funded by the county. The annual salary cost for the first three years of the COPS program would be $43,433.06. An additional $161,500 would pay for vehicles and equipment.

Smith also requested the addition of a humane officer to the Sheriff's department. The cost (including a $22,000 vehicle) would be $50,819 plus impound facilities which could be contracted for as low as $3,000.

The COPs program is one of three steps Smith recommended to address growing rural crime.

The second step is a Local Law Enforcement Grant of $43,433.06 which would allow additional patrol hours at overtime pay. The cost to the county would be just $4,343.00

The third step would be a helicopter patrol program in which the county would join other local agencies in a lease program with a local company. The cost to the county would be $12,500.

Palmer named to All-State teams

Salado High School's David Palmer was recently elected to the All-State baseball teams. He was chosen as a first team infielder by both the Texas Baseball Coaches Association and the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Palmer who led the Eagles to a third straight Area Championship, was the team's leading hitter and pitcher. David had a .481 batting average with 7 doubles and 6 homeruns. He scored 29 runs on the year and drove in 31.

David also has a 5-2 pitching record for the Eagles. He struck out 64 batters in 52 innings with an earned run average of 2.55. Palmer will be a Senior at Salado next year.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Hillary reverses carpetbagger route by entering senate race

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

Pundits say First Lady could win if she leaves Bill home and moderates her liberal views in upstate New York.

For the first time in our history, a sitting First Lady has signed up to run for an elective public office. Hillary Clinton opened an exploratory committee this past Tuesday which set in motion her ability to raise and spend money in her quest to replace retiring New York Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

In doing this Mrs. Clinton also reversed the traditional carpetbagger route that normally runs north to south. A few anti-Hillary signs along last week's campaign trail were busy pointing out this fact.

Historically only one former first lady was ever approached to run for office - that being Eleanor Roosevelt who by then was out of the White House and living in New York. She was asked to seek a senate seat in that State but declined and went on to represent this nation as a delegate to the fledgling United Nations. That was in 1945.

The current first lady will probably face New York City's Republican Mayor Rudolph Giuliani with the outcome far from assured for either candidate.

Insiders, in the twisting labyrinth of New York's rough and tumble politics, report that the election will be decided in upstate New York which is moderate to conservative in voting habits.

New York City is loaded with 80 percent registered Democratic voters who will be supporting Hillary against any Republican.

Pundits in the Empire State opine that with a big New York city majority plus as few as one third of the votes in the area north of the Big Apple, Hillary can prevail.

After watching the Clintons in action for the past two terms of Wild Bill's administration it would appear that Hillary has one other problem to overcome before she even thinks about winning any section of New York State - that being what to do with her husband during the rigors of the campaign.

If he campaigns with her - all the baggage he carries will be loaded on his wife. The New York press is salivating for a chance to show their hard hitting and often nasty predilection for asking unnecessarily intimate questions - something the first lady deplores and will be hard pressed to answer.

Right now she is the heads-up favorite to win the senate seat. If she can keep her husband in D. C. and the restive press mollified she will have a good shot. It might also be a good idea to deep-six the New York Yankee baseball cap she was wearing in a photo-op session in downtown Manhattan. There are many New Yorkers who still like the Mets and hate the Yankees. Minor gaff but added up can mess up a close race.

At this point - our money is on Ms. Hillary. And if we were advising her TV campaign we would suggest using a picture of Mayor Giuliani, dolled up in drag as he was during a recent Saturday Night Live program - with the sound-over asking: "Do you want your Senator also dressed like this Monday through Friday in D. C.?"

IS NATIONAL HEALTH NEXT?

The term "National Health" is relatively new and refers to the old bugaboo "Socialized Medicine." It is being repeated in nearly every national newscast, newspaper and magazine due in large part to a series of problems taking place in the general field of health care today.

Let's just count these problems. First we have a large number of doctors, members of the American Medical Association, voting to enter into a collective bargaining stance with the Health Maintenance Organizations (this is a nice way of saying the medics are unionizing); then came news that thousands of medicare recipients are in jeopardy of being dropped from their HMO's due to the latter's demand for more funds from the feds for their service; and how about the utter disdain, actually hatred, between doctors and the insurance owned HMO's as each one calls the other "greedy." Both, of course, must share the blame.

Added to this mix are the 43 million Americans who do not even have health insurance of any kind and the 40 million medicare insurance policy holders who fear they will be dropped from a managed care status and you have a worried populace that has no sympathy for the medical profession because of their high incomes nor for run-only-for-profit HMO's owned by insurance companies which citizens also distrust.

Topping this disaster in the making is a pharmaceutical industry that demands high profits and huge growth to satisfy its stock holders while using the research smoke screen which they declare will be curtailed if a single dollar is lost.

All of these early warnings are the pre-rumbblings of an earthquake that could easily cause the public to demand Congress set up a system of "National Health" or more properly termed - "Socialized Medicine."

If this does not mobilize our medical community and its related industries to work with lawmakers and the public to come up with a program of health delivery for everyone that is cost effective and profitable, then nothing will and we shall have what no one really wants - a government controlled health system that has little research, hefty restrictions and an unhappy medical profession. And at a cost that will make today's deficit look minuscule while causing taxpayer grief from day one.

Solutions? Try these on for size. If we have 43 million folks without insurance - why not concentrate on them rather than casting a nationwide net to cover everyone? Just go ahead and insure them either through employer incentives or direct assistance. Even the insurance industry (not noted for its kind heartedness) is willing to bite part of that bullet, naturally with the help of Uncle Sam.

Also, tell the HMO's they cannot drop medicare recipients - period! And finally, get the doctors and the insurance owned HMO's together and tell them it is either work together or work for the government. That ought to get the ball rolling.

This is a solvable problem. So let's solve it!

That's -30-

Unlamented death of the Independent Counsel Act

At midnight on Wednesday, June 30, the Independent Counsel Act, age 21, died with few, if any, mourners. The law was enacted in the wake of Watergate and hailed in 1978 as a way of investigating alleged wrongdoing by high level executive branch officials without fear of pressure, retribution or conflicts of interest.

As time passed it became apparent that the Independent Counsel law was creating a fourth branch of government, not beholding to the spirit of the law of our land. The work of the Special Counsel appeared to take a turn towards the political rather than the independent.

This is only natural. "The party not in control of the executive finds it almost irresistible not to toss the bomb of Independent Counsel at the majority on any pretext that might cause embarrassment or discomfort," noted Common Cause in their written testimony before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee this spring. Common Cause was one of the original proponents of the Act in 1978, but after nearly 20 years of observing the law in action, now reversed their stance and were in full mobilization against renewal.

Other problems brought up at the reauthorization hearings on the Independent Counsel Act centered around method of appointment of the Special Counsel, staff numbers, amounts of money spent by the Counsel, lack of direction and the unlimited time granted for any investigation.

Our Voice

Editorial Opinion

The absence of any criteria or goal other than indictment, impeachment and conviction to prove the law's effectiveness leads to relentless pursuit in order to give the Counsel and staff credibility. This is hardly useful except in partisan battles.

President Clinton gave new life to the Independent Counsel Act in 1994. He may have had severe forebodings because of a statement made just before putting his name on the dotted line: "Do I have to sign this thing?" he sighed.

Today, any investigation of executive branch officials is done by the Justice Department. Some think a special division under the first Assistant Attorney General, with extreme protection of that office against pressure, may be the way to go in future investigations.

It is difficult to prove and most conservatives would adamantly deny - that the best watchdog of behavior of elected and appointed officials in all three branches of government is the public and our free press. With these two groups aroused and in full attack, Congress and the Justice Department would have no option but to straighten out problems arising from misconduct in office.

We believe this to be not only correct but viable!

--K.C.

Strengthening Texas agriculture

by Kay Bailey Hutchison
U.S. Senator

Agriculture is still the backbone of the Texas economy, and a key element of American success in the global marketplace. To ensure that American agriculture prospers in the next century, we need to free it from government policies established in the last century. By strengthening our agricultural competitiveness, we benefit from strong exports while the rest of the world benefits from the availability of high quality, affordable American agricultural products.

In June, I unveiled a comprehensive proposal to boost agricultural competitiveness, designed to stabilize farm income, increase exports and address unfair trade practices. In addition, we need to revisit the way Congress provides farmers and ranchers with emergency relief when weather-related disasters occur.

My proposal has four primary provisions. Taken together, I believe it will address the farm sector's most pressing concerns:

* Tax Relief: I want to create Farm and Ranch Risk Management (FARRM) Accounts. FARRM accounts will allow farmers and ranchers to contribute up to 20 percent of their income to a tax-deferred, IRA-type account from which they could draw during bad years.

Last year Congress permanently restored income averaging for farmers. Combining FARRM accounts with income averaging should help farmers combat the year-to-year fluctuations in income that are a hallmark of the agriculture business. And it would give farmers and ranchers the freedom to manage their own incomes and the opportunity to make their own business decisions with less government intervention.

* Trade Equity: The next provision of my bill would require development of a comprehensive, government-wide strategy to address foreign market-distorting practices that affect U.S. agriculture industry.

Texas' ailing sheep industry offers a textbook example of why this is so badly needed: Over the past five years, lamb imports have doubled. Imported lamb has been priced as much as 60 percent below domestic prices.

In accordance with the requirements of current law, American lamb producers filed an action with the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) in accordance with the 1974 Trade Act. Last February the ITC voted 6-0 to approve a finding that a surge in imports has hurt domestic producers. To date the administration has taken no action on the ITC finding, which would permit appropriate restrictions on imports according to current domestic and international law. I wrote to the president in June urging him to seek action on the finding, but Texas lamb producers and I are still waiting.

* Sanctions Reform: My proposal would prohibit the imposition of agriculture sanctions on any country unless it were listed by the U.S. State Department as one that supports terrorism. It directs the Secretary of State to undertake a comprehensive review of this list of nations and revise it as appropriate.

* Emergency Aid: The bill would create a congressional commission to overhaul the current emergency spending process and develop new procedures for providing federal assistance in the event of natural disasters such as floods, droughts and tornados. Families plan for emergencies, the federal government should, too. The commission would be charged with developing a way to set aside a certain amount each year for true emergencies. Once such a fund is established, it could be tapped without throwing the rest of the federal budget out of balance. We should be able to meet emergency needs without resorting to last-minute, crisis budgeting.

Agriculture is at a turning point. The production of food and fiber by family-owned farms and ranches in America is too valuable an asset - one we can't afford to lose. Tax and trade measures which strengthen agriculture, in the long run, will benefit all of us.

Texas man considers 2000 run for New York Senate seat

Digressions

by Tim Fleischer

To my friends in New York:

At this time, I would like to confirm that I have formed an exploratory committee to consider running for the U.S. Senate seat now filled by Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

That I do not now live -- nor have ever resided -- within the boundaries of the great state I hope to someday represent does not deter me from this unprecedented run for office.

I Love New York, even though I don't even have a T-shirt from there, have never been mugged there, or have a New York State voter's registration card.

In the recent NBA Finals between the New York Knicks and the San Antonio Spurs, I secretly rooted for the Knicks.

I truly believe that when New Yorkers are given a choice between Hillary Rodham Clinton, Rudolph Giuliani and myself, I will be victorious by default. I rest assure that I will sweep the "Hold Your Nose and Cover Your Eyes While You Cast Your Ballot" vote from both parties.

Here are some of our key differences:

I have never appeared in drag on Saturday Night Live, unlike the mayor of New York City, who has done so on more than one occasion. I promise the proud people of New York that I will only dress in drag in the privacy of my home. Actually, I outgrew that whole cross dressing thing in the '80s.

There is no Whitewater lurking in my background. The closest I have come to Whitewater is using Whitewater Fresh Zest on a semi-regular basis. Did anyone else notice that Whitewater Zest used to be Freshwater Zest before the scandal broke? Those ad execs in New York must have wanted to cash in on the infamous name. I probably just lost the support of the New York advertising agencies.

That's alright, though, because I'll have plenty of money to spend on advertising once my campaign staff is up and running.

Once folks learn what I stand for, the money will start flowing in. I will limit the amount of donations I will accept. I'll take no PAC money (even though no PAC has yet sent any money to my campaign). There will be no $1,000-a-plate dinners in my campaign. I will accept no corporation money and no money from labor unions. I will be completely independent of everyone.

So far, I've raised $17.50. My brother Ken loaned me $10 of it and wants to be paid back next week. The other $7.50 came from change I had left after having a cup of coffee with my campaign manager.

By the way, if you'd like to contribute to the Fleischer for Senate Campaign, send a check care-of the newspaper. We'll get you a receipt. Trust me.

Here are the planks of my platform:

- Get the Dodgers back to Brooklyn where they belong. The fact that the Dodgers have been in LA since before I was born doesn't keep me from being an old Brooklyn Dodgers fan. If you have an old Brooklyn Dodgers cap I can borrow, I need it before my Greyhound Bus Trip through New York. Since Greyhound offers buy one ticket and a friend rides for free, my First Lady Marilyn will be able to accompany me. Stole that "bus trip" idea from the Clinton/Gore 1992 campaign.

- A chicken in every pot and a pooper scooper for every pet. For those New Yorkers who don't eat meat, we promise a Garden Burger in place of the chicken. (See how easily I bend to meet the needs of all special interest groups).

- Term limits. Once elected, I will ask the good people of New York to keep sending me back to Capitol Hill so I can vote for term limits. Again and again.

- Influence of the office is not for sale. But you can rent it for awhile. Again, send money to the paper.

The best thing about being the next Senator from the great state of New York is not actually having to live there.

The telephone co. dance

Dear Editor:

Following is a letter I have written to Sprint Telephone Co.

For over a year now, I have attempted to get two ISDN lines installed at my office on Main Street in Salado. Sprint has consistently put me off and told me it would be another six months or next year. This has been a severe hindrance to our business, as we rely heavily on computer and internet communications.

About four months ago, we were quoted a price of $400/month for a Fractional T-1 line, but after we signed a contract, we were told it was "unavailable in our area." We then began to pursue the ISDN solution. We received, word about a month ago, from Sprint that we could get ISDN lines for $199 each, but thought the cost was too high (my wife's business in Belton has a Southwestern Bell ISDN line for $59/month). I was sent a contract for 24-months, which waived the installation charges, and I immediately signed and returned it. No monthly fees were discussed in this contract.

Quite by chance, two weeks ago, we discovered that a "shelf" had been installed at the Salado Sprint facility. This piece of equipment has ports for 20 ISDN lines. The user is required to obtain a Killeen phone number so the lines can be "back-hauled" through the Killeen Sprint operations facility. Excitedly, we phoned Sprint to confirm our order for two of these ISDN lines and find out an installation date. However, it took several calls to reach a Sprint employee who wasn't even aware of the update. After convincing a supervisor to re-search the issue, we eventually received a

Your Voices

Letters to the editor

call back with the good news that we would receive our lines in about three weeks, at a cost of $59 per line per month! Last week my office called Sprint to follow-up and confirm the installation, and to see if any other preparations needed to be made. During this conversation we learned that the ISDN line would cost us $199 per line per month. We spoke to numerous supervisors in multiple states, but received the same reply.

Then - again, quite by chance - we learned that an ISDN line is installed and operating in the office of another Salado business. Only one so far. We contacted this individual to hear of his trials and tribulations, and his monthly rate of $59. Upon calling Sprint once more, to find out why the disparity, we were once again dissatisfied with the response.

We are told that applications are "priced individually," and that perhaps the other ISDN line user was misquoted and his rate may increase to $199.

I write this letter to you as a cry for help on behalf of my fellow business owners. We are a small Sprint "island" in a sea of Southwestern Bell facilities, and we are treated as a nuisance by your organization.

Perhaps if we approached Sprint as a community we might receive more immediate action and favorable response.

Thanks for your immediate attention to this issue.

Sincerely,
Richard Paul Thomas

Choir from Northern Ireland sings at Tablerock July 16

The Glengormley Methodist Choir, from Northern Ireland, will perform at Tablerock Amphitheatre in Salado 7 p.m. July 16. The concert is sponsored by First Baptist Church of Salado and Salado United Methodist Church.

The Glengormley Methodist Choir is traveling the Lone Star State for the third time, building on their tours of 1993 and 1996. This will be their first visit to Salado.

"Being Real and Relevant in a Changing World" is the theme for the trip by the Irish singers. Leader Jack Audley points out that the Message of God's Love in the Lord Jesus Christ is the difference between the many demands and evil pitfalls of the world and a life or reality and peace.

Peace is something that the 60 strong group of Irish visitors has pondered on and wrestled with on many occasions. However, there is no political agenda for the Glengormley Choir, as it presents its gospel message in song, drama, soloists, instrumentalists, testimony and speaking.

"The Highest Call" is the title of a CD which has been especially cut for the Texas 99 Tour. It will be on sale at all Texas Concerts. Central Texas is the center of activity for the tour July 10-25 with hospitality being provided in homes.

Glengormley is a suburb of Belfast, Ireland. Jack Audley started this group some years ago to give young people a place to go and a different life-style. He gathered up young people from all walks of life.

People continue to stay with the choir into their 20s. They travel all over Europe doing concerts.

Other concerts planned for the Central Texas area are these:

July 18: Morning Service at Grace United Methodist Church in Copperas Cove. Evening Service at Trinity Lutheran Church in Copperas Cove.

July 20: Immanuel Lutheran in Temple.

July 21: First United Methodist in Killeen.

July 22: First Baptist Church in Copperas Cove.

"Rounding Up the Chisholm Trail" Bell County Museum exhibit receives award

The Bell County Museum received an award for Outstanding Interpretive Exhibit from the Texas Historical Commission on July 7. The award was presented for the museum's recent exhibit, Rounding Up the Chisholm Trail.

The exhibit, curated by Jodi Wright-Gidley, explored the development of the cattle trail industry, offered a glimpse of life on the trail, and examined the contributions of the Chisholm Trail to American history and culture. Photographs, three-dimensional artifacts, text, maps, and interactive stations were part of the exhibit. The exhibit also included a round-up chuckwagon complete with a chuck box and authentic cooking utensils.

By the end of the Civil War, over five million wild longhorn cattle roamed Texas. First brought to the New World by Spanish explorers in the 16th century, the cattle had no real economic value; a practical means of transportation to the more populated, beef-hungry Eastern United States did not exist. In the 1840s, however, railroads spread into Missouri, and then further west into Kansas. Texans recognized the profit to be made if cattle could reach buyers at the railheads. From 1867-1887, the Chisholm Trail directed Texas cattle into newly-formed Kansas cities such as Abilene and Ellsworth. The trail consisted of several tributaries throughout Texas, including Central Texas, which joined in Indian Territory (Oklahoma) and ended in Kansas.

Funding for Rounding

Up the Chisholm Trail was generously provided by the museum's Friends of the Museum Association. Major contributors of artifacts and services to the exhibit were Sophia Vickrey Ard, Cavender's Boot City, Betty Ann Barge, the City of Belton, LaRue Diddle, Joe Dorn, C.B. and Mary Hodge, Krissie Lastovica, Wayne McMinn, Maurice and Joan Northen, Royce Oliver, Vada Sutton, A.C. and Edna Earle Wetzel, Kenneth Williams, Carl H. Wright, Jr., and Joy A. Wright.

The Texas Historical Commission committee which reviewed the exhibit expressed appreciation for the hands-on areas, the videotape of the first episode of Rawhide as a way to visually understand the logistics of a cattle drive, and the method of uniting the topic to the community through the use of local people who went up the trail.

Northern marries Conn

Ronda Lorraine Northern of Austin became the bride of James Martin Conn, III of San Antonio in a double ring ceremony, July 10 at the First Baptist Church, Temple.

The bride is the daughter of Roy and JoAnn Northern of Belton. The bridegroom is the son of Joy Conn of Petersburg, IN and James and Lana Conn of Elkhart, IN. Grandmother of the bride is Leora Stoneham of Belton and grandmother of the groom is Lillis Conn of Elkhart, IN.

Dr. J. Tom Shelton of Weatherford and Rev. Theiss L. Jones of Temple officiated. Soloists were Rebecca Northern and Theiss L. Jones. Musicians were Donna Christian, organist; Susan Montgomery, pianist and Gretchen Williams, harpist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Lazarro design of silk. The off shoulder gown was festooned with roses on the sleeves and cascading into the train.

Maid of Honor was

Mrs. James Martin Conn, III

Daniella Villarreal of Austin. Matron of Honor was Dorothy Heffernan of Austin. Bridesmaids were Janet Hromadka of Port Jervis, NY and Shannon Ripple of Austin.

Groomsmen were Russell Banner and Bradford Werner of San Antonio; Joseph Rosengarten of New York, NY; and Michael Statler of Dallas.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church in Temple.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and works as an account executive with Brinks, Inc.

The groom attended Ball State University of Indiana and is employed as a Sales Manager of Metal Services, Inc.

The parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at Mill Creek Country Club in Salado.

Following a honeymoon to the New England states, the couple will reside in San Antonio.

Funraisers travel to Bush Library at Texas A&M College Station

The Salado United Methodist Fun-raisers will visit the Bush Library at Texas A&M in College Station, July 15. Following the library visit they will have lunch at the Dixie Chicken and return to the church about 2 p.m.

The Fun-raisers are a part of the Senior Adult ministry of the church. Each month they plan a special event to see and experience.

In August, the Fun-raisers will have lunch at Green Pastures in Austin. In September, they will go to the Paramount, and in October, their pastor will take them on a mystery trip.

Work Together in His Spirit

"Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit; and there are varieties of service, but the same Lord; and there are varieties of working, but it is the same God who inspires them in all of us."

-Corinthians 12:4-6

What the Apostle Paul tried to impart in his letter to the Corinthians was that we are all different in nature and capabilities, yet those differences derived from the Spirit of God further the common good. God has granted each of us certain skills and talents that contribute to the well-being of all. Consider, for instance, if we were all created shoemakers. We would certainly be well shod but without clothing, food, or shelter. Just as we are dependent on God's bounty for the diverse gifts He has given us, so are we dependent on one another for the utilization of those gifts for all. No individual survives without the manifestation of the Lord's spirit and aid of his fellow man.

News of Health and Medicine

Texas' Poison Control Centers offer Emergency Assistance and Information

The insistent jangle of the telephone calls a sudden halt to the kitchen disinfectant cleaning. Or the front door's chime means the bathroom medicine cabinet overhaul currently in progress will have to wait just a few more minutes.

Just a few minutes.

That's really all it takes a mobile, inquisitive child to investigate a bucket of bleach or an open bottle of medicine.

Just a few minutes.

That's about the time it takes a parent or babysitter to begin to panic, trying to see if the child is injured and figuring out what to do.

"Call 1-800-POISON-1," said Dennis Perrotta, chief of the Bureau of Epidemiology at Texas Department of Health (TDH). That toll-free number will link a caller anywhere in Texas to a regional Poison Control Center. At the answering end will be a nurse or pharmacist - a person specially trained in poison information - to help 24 hours a day, any day of the year.

For more than five years, the centers - set up by the Texas Legislature at sites in Amarillo, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, San Antonio and Temple - have been supplying assistance and information to people whose poison problems include everything from over-the-counter and prescription drugs to paints, pesticides, chemicals, plants, snake and insect bites.

Callers do not even need to know where their regional office is, Perrotta said. "The system automatically routes the caller to the closest center. But if that center is busy, the call is rolled to another. Callers just need to hang on. They will not get a busy signal."

That's good news to the more than 350,000 callers the system serves yearly, more than half of whom have poison exposure problems. There were 717 poisoning deaths in Texas in 1997, the last year for which complete statistics are available. The question sometimes arises, then, of whether to call the poison control hotline and or dial 9-1-1 for emergency services.

"Both will work,"

Perrotta said.

"If the person is unconscious," Perrotta said, "get emergency help right now." Otherwise, he said, phone 1-800-POISON-1 (1-800-764-7661). "These are the poison experts. They will know if someone needs to go to a hospital." For the best help, be able to tell the age and weight of the victim, the substance involved, how much was taken, when the exposure occurred, symptoms, any existing health conditions and your name, telephone number and location.

"The poison specialist can refer the caller to the nearest hospital, if needed, and then call that hospital with the necessary information," Perrotta said. "If the person is treated at home, the center specialist calls back, often as many as three times, to check on the patient."

The main drug exposure calls are about pain relievers such as aspirin, cold and cough preparations, ointments, sedatives and vitamins. Household cleansers, cosmetics, bites, plants and foreign objects bring the most calls about general poison concerns. Other problems arise from common household items such as perfume and after shave, cosmetics, eye drops, furniture polish, laundry soap, alcoholic beverages and broken plaster.

Poison-proofing a home can begin with locking away potentially harmful products and medications. Store products only in their original containers. Never transfer contents to other containers, especially cups, bottles or dishes. Use child-resistant caps on medications and never give or take medications in the dark. Always put products away immediately after use. And never leave children alone with household products - even for just a few minutes.

Although many calls concern children, others come from people who may have been bitten or come in contact with a poison themselves or are calling about an elderly person. Information also is available in several languages and for the hearing impaired.

Poison Control Centers from 8A

tol Network, a joint effort by TDH and the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications (also known as the 9-1-1 Commission), is funded through a surcharge on long-distance telephone calls within Texas. The specially trained team at each site includes, along with nurses and pharmacists, paramedics and medical toxicologists on call to provide up-to-date information and education.

About 80 percent of the time the victim does not need to go to the emergency room, saving time and money for the family and the health system. Perrotta said that "estimates show that for every $1 spent on the poison control center, about $7 in treatment cost is saved."

Immediate emergency action for poisoning

Inhaled poison

Immediately get the person to fresh air. Avoid breathing fumes. Open all doors and windows. If victim is not breathing, start CPR.

Poison on the skin

Remove contaminated clothing and flood the skin with water for 10 minutes.

Then wash gently with soap and water and rinse.

Poison in the eye

Flood the eye with lukewarm (not hot) water poured from a large glass held about three inches from the eye. Repeat for 15 minutes. Have the person blink as much as possible while flooding the eye. Do not force the eyelid open.

Swallowed poison

Medicines: Do not give anything by mouth until you have called for professional advice.

Chemicals or household products: Unless the person is unconscious, having convulsions or cannot swallow, give a glass of water immediately. Then call for professional advice about whether the person should vomit. Have the label ready when you call.

Syrup of ipecac

Always keep a one-ounce bottle of syrup of ipecac on hand for each child in the house. Use only on advice of the poison control center, emergency medical service or physician.

Call 1-800-POISON-1 (1-800-764-7661) after these steps.

Health Hints: What Bugs Are Eating You?

Learning more about how to avoid bug bites may help you avoid going buggy. Here are a few ways to avoid being bugged:

- Apply insect repellent with 30 percent DEET.

- Because insects operate by odor, don't use perfumes or heavily scented soaps and shampoos.

- Insects can see your silhouette in dark clothing, so wear light, solid colors.

Loose clothing is more difficult for them to penetrate.

- Wear shoes and socks when hiking or playing in fields.

- Sit on a blanket instead of directly on the ground.

- Keep food covered when eating outdoors.

If you are bitten, wash the area with soap and water, dry with a soft towel and apply anti-itch medications.

Find Out Why More People Choose The Meridian Retirement Lifestyle

Each year, The Temple Meridian Retirement Community serves over 300 residents and their families in Central Texas. That's more than any other retirement living provider.

Why do so many people choose Meridian?

Perhaps it's because with more than two decades of experience we've developed the unique programs and services people really want and value. And we deliver these programs and services with the Meridian commitment to excellence.

Perhaps it's because of the choices residents get at Meridian. From our flexible dining program to our multi-level health services, Meridian provides the choices and flexibility people want.

And perhaps it's because of the convenience of the Meridian lifestyle. Freed from the responsibilities of home maintenance, residents can enjoy their Meridian community's extensive amenities – the library, exercise room, game and hobby rooms, hair salon, meeting rooms, spacious lounges, elegant restaurant-style dining room and beautifully landscaped grounds.

The Temple Meridian is located in a residential neighborhood, close to shopping, banks and restaurants. And we offer a full calendar of activities and events, both on and off campus, with our scheduled transportation program making participation even easier.

Learn for yourself why more people choose Meridian.

Mail the coupon below or visit or call today. Talk with our staff. Visit with our residents. Find out for yourself why Meridian is the name to trust in retirement living.

Osteoporosis
 gene linked to calcium absorption

Identifying genetic factors that influence calcium absorption and bone density today might help tomorrow's children avoid the pain of osteoporosis.

Scientists at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine have found that genetic variation in the FokI site of the vitamin D receptor gene predicts differences in dietary calcium absorption and bone density in healthy children. A FokI variation called the ff genotype has been associated with lower bone mass in adults and children.

"No one study can identify what causes osteoporosis, but this study provides further evidence that genetic factors can lead to identifiable changes in the way the body uses calcium," said Dr. Steven Abrams, an associate professor of pediatrics at Baylor. "But, further studies are needed to determine whether these gene-related changes lead to an increased risk of osteoporosis."

Abrams studied the relationship between the three genetic variations of FokI, known as FF, Ff and ff, and markers of calcium status in 72 healthy Caucasian, African-American and Mexican-American children between 7 and 12 years of age. The children were tested for calcium absorption, bone mineralization and bone density.

"We found that children who had certain genotypes had lower bone density and a lower ability to absorb dietary calcium," Abrams said. Results showed that children with the FF genotype absorbed over 40 percent more calcium from their diet than those with the ff genotype, and 17 percent more than those with the Ff genotype. The FF genotype children also had significantly greater bone density measurements. "Peak bone mass occurs in early adulthood and is considered an important determinant of osteoporosis risk later in life," he said.

Many factors, including diet and exercise, can affect bone density. But, knowing that children with certain genotypes absorb calcium less efficiently is a step towards understanding why some groups appear more likely to develop osteoporosis. "Learning how genetics affects calcium metabolism can help lay the groundwork for future studies designed to identify specific risk factors for osteoporosis and develop intervention strategies," Abrams said.

Quick Quiz

Test Your Knowledge of Long-Term Care

Failure to discuss long-term care is causing American families to make unplanned sacrifices such as using children's college funds or foregoing job advancement, according to a national survey on long-term care released by the National Council of the Aging.

The survey showed that families are not addressing long-term, care planning together, fewer than one in three (28 percent) parents of adult children reported they had discussed it with their kids. In addition, only 12 percent of respondents feel they have adequately prepared for their own long-term care needs.

Quiz

The answers to this brief quiz on long-term care may give you time to discover the numerous options you have in providing that care for loved ones.

1. Most long-term care is provided in a nursing home.

(a) true (b) false

Retirement Planning Ideas

If you are like most American adults you've heard of the Roth IRA retirement savings vehicle. However, a recent poll showed that only a small percent of Americans actually opened one in 1998.

Roth IRAs are a great way to save for retirement. Although contributions to a Roth IRA are made on an after-tax basis, qualified distributions are tax-free. That is, Roth IRA holders don't pay taxes on the earnings which accumulate in their account, leading to increased savings at retirement.

Those with Modified

2. Nearly 40 percent of the long-term care population is under the age of 65.

(a) true (b) false

3. People 55-64 pay more than $1,500 per year, on average, for a long-term care policy.

(a) true (b) false

4. Medicare is not the primary funding source for most older persons' long-term care costs.

(a) true (b) false

5. The average length of stay in a nursing home is more than four years.

(a) true (b) false

6. On average, a one year stay in a nursing home costs about $25,000.

(a) true (b) false

7. The average lifetime chance of needing long-term care for an individual 65 years or older is more than 40 percent.

(a) true (b) false

Answers

1. (b) False. Most long-term care is not provided in a nursing home. 80 percent of older adults who receive long-term care in their own homes or community settings.

2. (a) True.

3. (b) False. The average annual long-term care insurance premium paid by people age 55 to 64 was $919.

4. (a) True. Medicare paid for only 13 percent of the elderly nursing home spending in 1995.

5. (b) False. Only one in ten will stay three or more years.

6. False. The average one year stay costs about $41,000.

7. True. It is estimated that approximately 49 percent of elderly turning 65 will be admitted to a nursing home at some point in their lives.

Hospice Training Sessions in July and Aug.

Volunteer training sessions for the Scott & White Hospice will be held July 15, 22, 29 and Aug. 5 and 12.

The program consist of five sessions to run 6:30-9:30 p.m. each day. The classes will be held in the Scott & White Conference Center, behind the Special Treatment Center and across from the helicopter pad.

Hospice training is available to those who are interested in giving direct care and indirect support to the terminally ill and their families. Volunteers undergo an extensive 30-hour training course in family dynamics, bereavement and family structure. Volunteers are generally asked to commit for a year. Times and locations are arranged to suit the volunteer and the family.

These unselfish persons perform tasks such as shopping, handling household chores and sitting with the patient for a few hours while the regular care-giver takes a needed break.

The Scott & White Hospice is a comprehensive, medically directed, team-oriented, not-for-profit program of care that seeks to treat and comfort patients and their families at home or in a homelike setting.

"The Hospice philosophy accepts death a natural part of life and seeks neither to hasten nor prolong the dying process. Volunteers play a major role and work closely with the hospice team which includes the physician medical director, registered nurses, social workers, chaplains, home health aides, pharmacist and the patient's attending physician," said Pat Jackson, Scott & White Hospice volunteer coordinator.

To learn more, call Pat Jackson at 254/724-4090 or toll-free 800/299-2033.

Lee Roy Kinsey passed away May 29, 1999

Lee Roy Kinsey, 78, of Salado died May 29 in Temple. Services were held May 31 at the First Baptist Church in Salado, with the Rev. Billy Johnson, the Rev. Darrell Dugger and the Rev. Brian Dunks officiating. Burial was in Salado Cemetery.

He was born at Beehouse, in Coryell County to Henry and Mary Nancy Katherine (Medart) Kinsey. He was a veteran of World War II and worked at Fort Hood for 28 years as Chief of Quality Control in the aircraft section. He lived in Salado for 47 years, where he farmed and ranched, before moving to Temple in January. He was a member of First Baptist Church in Salado, where he was Sunday School superintendent and a teacher. He also served as a deacon for 48 years.

He is survived by his wife, Lorretta Kinsey of Temple; three sons, Dr. Nolan Kinsey of Salado, Travis Kinsey of Moody, and Dr. Winston Kinsey of Boone, N.C.; a sister, Madeline Cogburn of De Leon; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Annual Tapestry gathering July 17

Tapestry, an interdenominational gathering of women will present its 10th Annual event, 9:15 a.m.-2:30 p.m. July 17 at the First Baptist Church of Belton.

Participants in the program include Valerie Bolton, Kay Coulter, Kandy Kirkley, Janet Crews, Shelly Wood, and Anna o Scott, who will lead the group singing. Special music will be performed by te Tapestry Ensemble, Robin Temple, and Shelly Wood.

Guest speaker Lana Bateman, founder and president of Philippian Ministries, is recognized as an outstanding speaker and is th author of God's Crippled Children. Freed from the scars of an emotionally troubled childhood through a process of inner healing, Lana has become a healing instrument for others.

Her ministry of mercy is built upon her deep commitment to seeing Christians both spiritually secure and emotionally free. She serves on the advisory board of Children of Love International, which is a ministry to Romanian orphans. Additionally, she has served on the board of directors of C.H.I.L.D.'s Keystone Academy for Christian Children with learning disabilities, and serves as a staff member of Women of Faith.

Lana speaks to the heart in her presentation of "Broken Vessels," the morning program, and "Priceless Treasures," the afternoon program.

Each year hundreds of Texas women gather for Tapestry.

Free childcare and planned activities are available by reservation only by calling 254/778-6490.

The registration fee is $15 which includes lunch. Christian bookstore will be provided. Registration forms are available at local Christian bookstores or call 254/778-6490 or 254/939-1770.

Jean Ray is Artist of the Month

Who says you can't go home again. Jean Ray was born and raised in Bell County. She and her husband Jack lived in Houston for 20 years before retiring in Rockport. They lived on Key Allegro the last eight years and enjoyed cruising the Texas coast in their 30 foot carver named "Salty Dawg."

Last year, they started retirement all over again in Salado. LaVora Stewart, a former member of the Village Artists, now living in Rockport, suggested that Jean join the club. She did, and she has enjoyed getting to know the members and participating in all the art events.

She enjoys being creative in her paintings as well as in her craft projects. Her most recent creative idea has been to make floral arrangements from discarded magazines and boxes. As Salado Village Artist of the Month, her work will be displayed at Compass Bank and First State Bank during July and August.

Public Library Book Mobile picks up July 22

The Salado Public Library and Salado Independent School District joined together to provide a bookmobile to two neighborhoods outside Salado. The bookmobile went to Ridgewood Mobile Home Park and Cedar Knob Mobile Home Park on four mornings in June and July.

The school van took books from the Public Library to the children in those neighborhoods. Student volunteers (Sara Culver, Nicole Martinez, Echo Jacobsen, Deanna VonGonten and LeAnn Whitt) assisted Susan Shobe with the project. This is the second year for the Bookmobile.

Pick up of all the books will be on the morning of July 22.

Gen. Stewart Meyer speaks at TROA July 16

M/Gen Stewart Meyer, USA Retired and Past Commander of MASSTER (now TEXCOM), will speak to the Central Texas Chapter of The Retired Officers Association, 11:30 a.m. July 16. He visited Bosnia recently, but we understand he may also review the capability of our armed forces to cover the tasks laid upon them. Many TROA members believe we are spreading ourselves too thin and do not have a magic hat that we can pull more men, tanks and airplanes out of? And they wonder, are we to selectively pick who and where we are to engage our forces, or just bring them home?? The public is asking about our ever increasing commitments with ever decreasing forces. And what about our moral commitment?

Gen Meyer knows the feeling of the American public having run for and been the Mayor of Harker Heights...and he knows our military capability from the ground up. Gen Meyer graduated from West Point in 1943, served in Europe in WWII and was wounded, served in many command positions to include Viet-Gatesville and works for a law firm in Waco.

Grant is the grandson of Loretta Kinsey and the late Lee Roy Kinsey of Salado.

Officers from our retired community are invited to come and listen to an excellent program by Gen Meyer and enjoy lunch with fellow retired officers at the Fort Hood Officers Club.

Popeye Jackson (Stephanie Smith) takes measurements for Carnelle Scott's (Robin Benson costume in Southwestern University's Summer Stage production of Beth Henley's the Miss Firecracker Contest directed by Dr. Kathleen Juhl, to be presented on the campus of Georgetown's Southwestern University July 15-17 and 22-24 at 8 p.m. and July 18 at 2 p.m. All performances are in the Jesse H. and Mary Gibbs Jones Theater.

The Miss Fire Cracker Contest on stage at Southwestern

The Miss Firecracker Contest, an alternately hilarious and poignant comedy by Beth Henley is being presented as a part of the Southwestern Summer Stage season by the Southwestern University School of Fine Arts and the Department of Theatre. Performances are 8 p.m. July 15-17 and 22-24 and 2 p.m. July 18 in the Jesse H. and Mary Gibbs Jones Theater on the Georgetown campus.

The fourth of July is fast approaching in Brookhave, MS, and Carnelle Scott longs to be named "Miss Firecracker." This is her last chance. Next year, she will have passed the age limit. Carnelle can't sing, can't dance, and doesn't have the wholesome reputation the judges are looking for, but she has determination, a passion for her goal and the sometimes enthusiastic, sometimes reluctant support of her friends and family. Holly Hunter originated this funny and poignant role on Broadway and in the film version of this comedy written by the playwright who also penned the Pulitzer Prize winning Crime of the Heart.

You'll laugh. You'll feel a tug at your heartstrings. You'll enjoy.

Director Kathleen Juhl is the Artistic Director for the Southwestern Summer Stage Program this year and Acting Chair of the Department of Theatre at Southwestern University. She previously directed Henley's Crimes of the Heart and The Wake of Jamey Foster and is happy to be working on her third Beth Henley play - "always a side-splitting experience." Cast members include multi-talented Southwestern Alumna Stephanie Smith (1999), Franceanna Campagna, Lawrence Kern, Mariko Buser and Niall McGinty. Robin Benson, also a 1999 SU alumna, is playing beauty pageant contestant Carnelle Scott, a role she has longed to play since she first saw The Miss Firecracker Contest when she was seven years old.

Tickets are $12 for individuals and $10 for students and senior citizens. For more information please call the Box Office at 512/863-1378 from 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Panhandle Plains

July 1- August 21 - "TEXAS 99 A Musical Drama, Canyon. Come see the colorful show of song and dance that has entertained over 2 million people since 1966. Against the majestic backdrop of the Palo Duro Canyon, watch as a cast of 80 singers and dancers reveal the past of the Texas Panhandle, recounting the struggles, hardships, strengths and victories of settlers, cowboys and Native Americans. Nature's elements are recreated with dazzling lighting and sound effects as you witness the struggles of pioneers trying to tame the wilderness. Horsemen bearing flags appear atop the 600-foot canyon wall to open the show in Texas style. Before the show, enjoy a barbecue dinner that is served before every performance. Enjoy a grand, Texas-style show that brings back that old-time feeling, before the West was won. For more information, contact "TEXAS," P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or phone (806) 655-2181.

July 1- September 12 - "In Shongo's Shadow: West African Art," Abilene. The Grace Museum is proud to exhibit this survey of West African art from the private collection of Pete Renick, who spent several years traveling through Africa and observing the rituals central to the religious ceremonies of different tribes. Songs and dances are an important part of the religious ceremonies of many African groups, and the artistic creations that accompany these rituals include head-dresses, dance masks and jewelry. These items as well as textiles, divination and altar items and other forms of art will be displayed and their meanings interpreted. The name of the exhibit comes from the deity Shongo, the thunder god, who is represented in the exhibition. African art and culture has the power to offer a glimpse into a culture so unlike our own, it is worth a look. For more information, contact The Fossil Rim Wildlife Center, 2155 County Road 2008, Glen Rose, Texas 76043 or phone (254) 897-2960, ext.0.

Prairies and Lakes

July 1-25 -Shakespeare Festival of Dallas, Dallas. Since its debut in 1972, the Shakespeare Festival of Dallas has allowed more than one million people to get a little, culture while sitting in a lawn chair and wearing shorts. This award-winning troupe is pleased to offer another season of free performances at Samuell-Grand Park. Presenting different plays on different days, the shows are guaranteed to please everyone, from the biggest Shakespeare fans to literary novices. Leave the suit at home, bring the entire family and a picnic basket, and watch classic theater in a tank top. For more information, contact the Sammons Center for the Arts, 3630 Harry Hines Blvd., Dallas, Texas 75219 or phone (214) 559-2778.

July 17 - Starwatch, Glen Rose. Learn more about the huge Texas sky in this evening of fun and fascination. Dr. Michael Hibbs, professor of natural sciences and avid astronomer, will lead you through the Texas sky and deliver a slide presentation. On hand will be several high-powered telescopes, allowing everyone to get a even closer look at the heavens. Pack a blanket and some binoculars and you are all set for a night of Texas skywatching. Accommodations and Safari Tours can be added to make the trip to Fossil Rim unforgettable. For more information, contact The Fossil Rim Wildlife Center, 2155 County Road 2008, Glen Rose, Texas 76043 or phone (254) 897-2960, ext.0.

Piney Woods

July 4 - October 1999 - "Our Faith as it Stands", Texarkana. This photography exhibit documents historical churches in Texarkana, Texas and Texarkana, Arkansas. It includes a regional history and provides information on the churches in the area from the 1880s to the 1920s; those that have long since been torn down; and those that still stand today. For more information, contact the Ace of Clubs Carriage House, 420 Pine Street, Texarkana, Texas 75501 or phone (903) 793-4831.

South Texas Plains

July 1-August 8 - "Singing to the Ancestors: Black Seminoles on the Border," San Antonio. Learn more about the different cultures found in the state of Texas while visiting San Antonio and the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures. The exhibit "Singing to the Ancestors: Black Seminoles on the Border" is the culmination of five years of research by Shirley Mock, Ph.D. in the Black Seminole communities of Texas and Mexico. One component of the exhibit is a 42-inch plasma screen using video taken in Texas and Mexico. Accompanying this exhibit on the floor is the Smithsonian's traveling exhibit, "Creativity and Resistance: Maroon Cultures in the Americas." While in San Antonio, learn a little more about Texas and its cultural heritage. For more information, contact the Institute of Texan Cultures, 801 S. Bowie St., San Antonio, Texas 78205-3296 or phone (210)458-2300.

July 17 - Texas Ranching Today, Goliad. In celebrating its 250th anniversary this year, this event in Goliad allows city slickers to see how a ranch really works. Held at Albrecht Ranch and featuring a real chuck wagon lunch, this glimpse of how ranches have operated for more than a century will provide an in-depth look at how the history of Texas has developed. The day promises roping demonstrations and other aspects of real ranch cowboy life. The day also will provide a cultural history, telling the story of Native Americans, Mexicans, Tejanos, African-Americans, and Anglos, while sometimes in conflict, developing a ranching heritage that lasts until today. While in Goliad, one of the

Alfred Lee accepted to show his paper, shell sculptures at Art Fair

Houston artist Alfred Lee has been accepted to show his paper and shell sculptures at the 33rd Annual Salado Art Fair Aug. 7-8 in Pace Park.

A native of Galveston, Lee attended the University of Houston, where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Commercial Art and English, a Bachelor of Science degree in Art Education and a Master of Education degree in Art and Special Education.

Formerly the Chairman of the Art Department at Ebbert L. Furr Junior/Senior High School, he was also on the faculty of the Art League of Houston and the Houston Jewish Community Center, where he taught painting, commercial art and printmaking.

He was the owner and director of The Alfred Lee Gallery of Houston from 1969 to 1978, when he closed to devote full time to his art work.

Lee has works in over 3,500 public, private, corporate and museum collections in the United States, Central and South American, Canada, Mexico and Europe. His works were selected to be placed in the Houston Home Builders Computer Home, which was built especially for the National Home Builders' Convention in 1970 and seen in House Beautiful in February 1971.

He has also done commercial work for the University of Houston publications The Fly's Eye and Harvest, and was the 1965 recipient of the Catherine Loudon Memorial Award.

In 1992, Lee was commissioned by the president of the University of Texas

Medical branch at Galveston to design two three-dimensional constructions for the north and south sides of the Basic Science Building on the Galveston campus. The two constructions were fabricated of slate from South Africa and marble from England and measure 28 feet in height and 72 feet in width. The weight of each piece is approximately 41,000 pounds.

Lee describes the process of making his paper and shell sculptures: "I begin the process by soaking old papers in a solution of bleach and water until the fibers of the paper separate. The liquid is then drained out and a glue binder is added to form a papery paste."

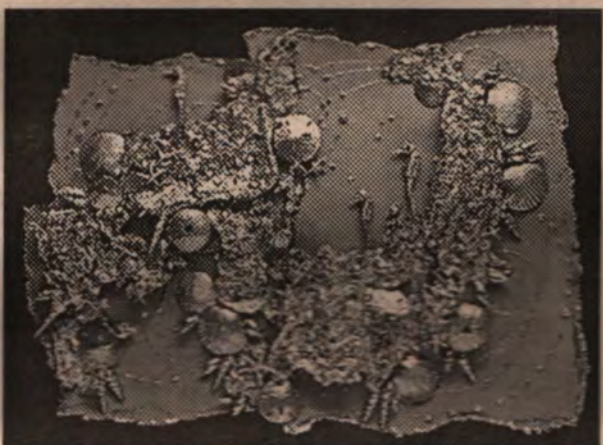

He continues: "Using a rubber squeegee, I spread the paste to form the flat background; as the paste begins to dry. Depending on the size and thickness of the sculpted paper, drying can take from several days to several weeks. The next step is to add all of the natural shells, sand dollars, stars, urchins, seahorses and other sea creatures."

Each piece is then airbrushed in five or six layers of enamel to add colors to the work. When the enamel is dried and hardened, gold or silver leaf is added to the sculpture.

"Each piece is individually hand-crafted only by me and takes from six to eight weeks to complete," Lee said.

THE LEGEND OF SIRENA CAN NOW BE YOURS

Native Texan Troy Kelley created the life-size mermaid sculpture of "Sirena" and placed it in Salado Creek in 1986. The inspiration of Sirena came from an Indian legend told to him by his grandmother.

For the Year 2000, Troy, who lives and sculpts in Salado, has created two smaller version of "Sirena" for purchase. These limited edition bronze sculptures can be seen at Prellop Fine Art Gallery on Main Street in Salado (254/947-3930).

Ed Miller featured in concert

The Belton Acoustic Concert Series will present its Fifth Anniversary Concert, featuring Scotland-born singer, songwriter and folklorist Ed Miller, July 17. Austin-based folksinger Jackie Kemmy will perform an opening set.

A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, Ed Miller moved to Austin in 1968, to complete his graduate work at the University of Texas in Geography and, later, Folklore. Already a veteran of folk clubs and pubs in his native land, Ed Miller was naturally drawn into the Austin folk and singer-songwriter community. He has since performed at folk and Celtic festivals all across North America, and also appeared at folk clubs and coffeehouses, Highland Games and cultural programs from coast to coast. He performed at the very first Belton Acoustic Concert Series show, five years ago this month.

Ed Miller is also known as the host of KUT-FM's popular Folkways program, which the Austin-based station airs on Saturday mornings. He has released six albums, including 1997's The Edinburgh Rambler, and the light-hearted Live at the Cactus Cafe.

Steve Winick of Dirty Linen calls Ed Miller "one of the best singers to emerge from the Scottish folk revival... (he) wins his audiences over with a sweet but powerful voice." The Austin Chronicle said "Miller's voice is as warm and supple as well-tanned leather, ringing out with deep love and affection for the material."

Folksinger Jackie Kemmy will perform an opening set, accompanied by singer-songwriter Steve Brooks. A native of San Antonio, Jackie Kemmy has appeared at folk venues throughout Texas, including Threadgill's, the Rouse House Concerts, Brenham's Flowers in the Desert Series and the Welcome Home Concerts in Bryan. Her penchant for selecting the best of traditional, Celtic and contemporary songs, and an overwhelming vocal talent, make her crowd-pleasing performer in any setting. Her recordings include Safety In Numbers, Volume One and Steve Brook's Bulletproof. She is currently at work on her first CD.

The concert will be held in the smoke-free, alcohol-free environment of the Fellowship Hall at First United Methodist Church of Belton, located at 205 East Third Avenue in Belton. The doors open at 7 p.m., the music begins at 7:30 p.m. and the $7 admission includes child-care for pre-teens and refreshments during intermission. For additional information, please call 254/778-5440.

Ed Miller

Lawn & Garden Weekly Tip

Tips To A Better Lawn

Does your lawn look tired or worn? Is your lawn too much work? Does it require a lot of watering to keep it green? If you answered yes to any of these questions, try these easy tips from lawn experts.

• Design - A neat edge looks good and helps bring a sense of order to your landscape. Edges not maintained are breeding grounds for weeds, which may eventually invade the lawn itself. Edges can also be made of stone, brick, masonry, wood, metal or plastic. These materials allow you to create flat surface edging, which you can mow over without needing to raise the mower blade.

• Install a Path - There are two reasons for installing a path in your lawn: to show people where you want them to walk and to prevent foot traffic from wearing bare spots in your lawn. When planning your lawn, remember that paths can be edged so you can avoid a lot of trimming and weeding along their borders.

• When to Mow - You can cut out weeds and reduce watering by letting your grass grow a bit longer than most people do. Most cool-season grasses should be cut when they reach heights of 3 to 3-1/2 inches, which is once a week. Cut warm season grasses when they reach 2 to 2-1/2 inches. Cut no more than one third of the grass height at each mowing to avoid damaging the plants. Short cutting will stunt or slow root growth and weaken the grass plants. Mow only when the grass is dry and with a sharp blade.

• Watering Dos and Don'ts - Morning is the best time to water. To avoid losing water to evaporation, avoid watering under windy or hot conditions. Do not water in the evening unless you have no other option because it may cause diseases to grow.

• Fertilization - Grass requires at least 3 primary nutrients and other trace elements to maintain its strength and beauty. Even if you are committed to having a low maintenance lawn, you will need to fertilize it with nitrogen to keep it healthy.

• Use the right equipment - Choose a lawn mower according to the size of your lawn, the terrain, your energy level, and your own feelings about noise and air quality. Gasoline powered rotary mowers are the most popular choice. Walk behind, riding, or tractor designed mowers, with options such as self-propulsion, grass catchers, and electric starters, produce less pollution than they did in former years.

• Manage Lawn Pest - Your first and best line of defense against these pests is to provide optimal growing conditions for your lawn. Your goal is to have a thick, healthy turf that isn't overly attractive to pests as either habitat or food.

Billy Joe Jay returns to show paintings at Salado Art Fair

Billy Joe Jay will return to the 33rd Annual Salado Art Fair to show his watercolor paintings Aug. 7-8.

The Salado Art Fair will be held under the shady oaks of W.A. Pace Memorial Park in Salado.

Sponsored by the Salado Chamber of Commerce, the Art Fair brings more than 100 top artists and craftsmen together working in a variety of media.

With a 32-year history behind it, the Salado Art Fair has the reputation of being one of the best shows in the state.

The Salado Art Fair will be open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Aug. 7 and 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Aug. 8 under the oak trees of Pace Park, nestled along the banks of Salado Creek. Admission is $4 per person, with children under 12 admitted free.

About the Artist

Billy Joe Jay attended

his first watercolor class in 1987. He began painting professionally in 1990. Although he is primarily a watercolorist, he also works in pastel, charcoal and pencil.

He paints a wide variety of subject matter with emphasis on Southwestern realism. "I don't use my art to make political statements," he said, "but I strive to capture peace and serenity with a yearning for a simpler time and place. I greatly respect the Native American culture and many of my works reflect this feeling."

Billy Joe's paintings are part of private and corporate collections and his paintings have been exhibited at McMurry University, the Center for Contemporary Arts, Kendall Art Gallery and the 1991 Algerita Touring Exhibit, among others.

His work is displayed in galleries in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Among the galleries showing his work are these: Cedar Break Gallery, Sweetwater, TX; Taylor Gallery, Santa Fe, NM; Joy's Art Gallery, Lawton, OK; Lakeway Art Gallery, Austin, TX; West Texas

Gallery, San Angelo; Pearl of the Concho Galleria, Gainesville, TX.

Jay paints from his studio in Roscoe, Texas.

For more information, call the Chamber of Commerce at 254/947-5040 or visit www.salado.com.

Marie Jones makes first free fall jump at Salado airport

C.L. "Jack" Jones

and "Be One Of Us."

The recent Memorial Day weekend brought forth one of the most heart-pounding personal experience this ole' WW II fighter jock has endured in a very long time.

All the aerial victories took place in the skies over the tiny grass airstrip that Salado designated "The Salado Airport." Take I-35 south one mile from downtown Salado to reach "the municipal airport." On the east frontage road is the airport owner/operator business sign - Skydive Temple. Be not deterred, it really means Skydive Salado. The owner/operator, Richard Worrall, retired Army Master Sergeant, Airborne/Special Forces, began his commercial skydiving business at the Temple Airport as Skydive Temple; he later moved the business to Salado after purchasing the Salado airstrip.

Inside "Rich" Worrall's office is a very large wall poster of the U.S. Parachute Association which proclaims in very bold letters "Welcome To Our World"

Ballet Renee closes summer reading

Ballet Renee of Killeen presented the closing program for the Salado Public Library's Texas Reading Club, Open a Book--On with the Show.

Ballet Renee, under the direction of Renee Gillenwater, is the official company of the Newcomb School of Ballet. Dancers from the company have been accepted to prestigious summer workshops such as the New York City Ballet, Houston Ballet, Joffrey Ballet, and American Ballet Theater.

The fall semester begins in August. Classes are available in Temple at the Cultural Activities Center, and in Killeen at the studio. For more information or to register please call, 254/634-6368.

Memorial Day weekend, my wife, Joyce, and I reluctantly and apprehensively entered the world of the U.S. Parachute Association; i.e. (that is to say) our 17 year old daughter became one of them - a parachuting skydiver. Marie made her first AFF (Accelerated Free Fall) jump Saturday afternoon and her second AFF jump Sunday afternoon.

As a student jumper, she is accompanied by two professional jumpmasters who stay alongside until her chute deploys and all's well. She received above-average grades from her two jumpmasters; Brett Carroll of Waco with 2604 jumps logged in 10 years, and Ken Boggs of Ft. Hood with 600 jumps logged in three years.

Shortly after Marie's Sunday afternoon jump, the wife and I were sitting on the veranda of the operations building sipping sodas and acting real "cool" about skydiving when the Belton High School Tiger, our daughter, ran up and asked breathlessly, "Dad, can I go for my Level 3 jump this afternoon, too, please!"

What had originated as birthday gift for a talented, brave young athlete had now exhausted the nervous system of an ole' WW II fighter pilot and his interpreter (wife, Joyce). The instant answer was, "No, Marie, your father and mother can't cope with our only daughter jumping out of a perfectly good airplane twice in one afternoon!"

I will conclude this column with a conclusion as defined in my New World Dictionary of the American Language -- as to LAW: the formal closing of a plea or address to the court or a jury. My wife joins me in making this plea or address to you, the reader. We state unequivocally that the skydiving bunch we have gotten to know recently are not "the wild bunch" we sorta expected. Rather, they are serious, focused individuals and groups who have made skydiving a safe and very popular international sport -- to the extent that the sport includes a 75 year old former U.S. President.

Joyce and I are pleased that Marie has taken up skydiving; now, that we have learned that parachutists are safety-conscious, resolute athletes just like Marie's teammates on her Belton High School basketball and track squads.

Young ladies are shown above at the commencement style show held upon completion of the First Impressions modeling and etiquette class sponsored by the Belton Independent School District comprehensive programs. The girls learned fundamental runway skills as well as correspondence, make-up and table etiquette. The course was taught by Jeanne May. Shown above are Kristen Singleton, Iona Traweek, Lauren Hobbs, Brittany Dixon, Jessica Whitmire, Lacey Bartlett and Nicole Weatherly.

Salado Country Cooking

These recipes came from the Salado Country Cooking Cookbook, sponsored by the Monday Club.

Sinful Chocolate Chip Cookies

Susie Epps
 1 cup butter, room temperature
 3/4 cup sugar 2-1/2 cups flour
 3/4 cup packed brown sugar
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 large eggs
 1 tablespoon Hazelnut Liqueur
 1 tablespoon Coffee Liqueur
 2 (12 oz.) package chocolate chips
 1 cup walnuts, chopped
 1/2 cup pecans, chopped
 1 cup macadamia nuts, chopped

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Using electric mixer, beat sugars, butter and liqueurs in large bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Mix flour, baking soda and salt in small bowl. Stir into butter mixture. Mix in chocolate chips and all nuts. Drop by 1/4 cupfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets, spacing 3 inches apart. Bake until cookies are golden brown, about 16 minutes. Transfer to racks to cool. Yields 3 dozen cookies.

Mary's Jalapeno Soup

Mary Hodge
 1/2 lb. hamburger
 1 small onion, chopped
 1 tsp. chopped jalapenos
 1 (16 oz.) can chopped tomatoes
 1 (16 oz.) can mixed vegetables
 1/2 cup macaroni
 1 (8 oz.) can tomato soup
 1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
 1 tablespoon chili powder

Saute hamburger meat, onions and jalapenos until meat is white on all sides. Add salt & pepper, add tomatoes, vegetables, macaroni and tomato sauce. Bring to boil, simmer for 30 minutes. Add tomato paste, stir to thicken, add chili powder and let simmer for 15 minutes. Wonderful when served with a hot pan of cornbread.

"My family loves jalapenos and by chance I decided to add them to soup. It was so good that we continued. Hope you enjoy this as much as we have."

Antiques & Antiques

Sometimes you can't afford the best if you are a collector with a small budget. But you can usually find the "almost best" at a better price. The furniture made in Eastwood, New York from 1900 to 1915 by Gustav Stickley is considered the best of the American arts and crafts style.

Soon after Gustav's furniture became popular, his brothers J. George and Albert started making similar furniture. They were making furniture in Grand Rapids, Mich., but switched to the arts and crafts style. Their pieces were mass-produced and not handmade. Theirs resembled the oak pieces by Gustav.

The Stickley Brothers Company continued working until 1907. J. George and another brother Leopold, started making furniture in Fayetteville, New York in 1902. They also copied the styles of Gustav but often used veneers or laminated woods, not solid oak.

Another brother, Charles, made similar furniture in Binghamton, New York. It was labeled Stickley-Brandt Furniture Company. You can buy a good old piece of arts and crafts furniture by any of these Stickley Companies. The pieces by Gustav could be from two to ten times more expensive.

Lamesa Cowboy is a poet, too

Tom Koger was raised on a ranch near Lamesa. When he was in high school he became interested in reciting poetry. Tom liked being in front of an audience and took some speech courses. That early preparation came in handy for some of the things he's doing today.

After graduating from Texas Tech he taught in public schools for 17 years. He grew up with an interest in cowboy sports and announced rodeos every weekend for about four or five years. "I've just about quit doing that," says Tom, "mainly because won't anybody call me."

Tom ranches near Big Spring. He is also a lay Presbyterian minister, serving congregations in Fort Davis, Sanderson and Marfa. "The main requirement is you hold the congregation long enough that they can pass the collection plate."

Tom's true love is cowboy poetry. "At my appearances, I use some of the things I've written, but I use a lot of that good stuff that other folks have written," says Tom. He attended cowboy poetry events around the country. At one of his performances someone from San Antonio asked Tom to come appear at a big corporate event. Tom was impressed that the man offered to pay him a lot of money and cover all his expenses.

"I'm used to doing poetry just for the fun of it at retirement centers, nursing homes, service clubs and places like that. This will be a real challenge."

He has composed only five poems. "I've got a lot more rattling around in my head, but I haven't got them down on paper yet," he says.

One of his poems is called Cowboys Don't Cry. "That's the first one I wrote because I cry a lot and it's kind of a disclaimer. I cry when I lose good friends and good horses."

Another poem he wrote is called Are You A Cowboy Poet? Tom has so much respect for people who make their living as a true cowboy or a real poet that he wrote these lines:

Are you a cowboy poet?
If push comes to shove,

I guess I'd have to answer none of the above.

Tom once wrote a poem for his daughter, who is working in theater in New York City. "I fought her every step of the way and tried to tell her to grow up, get a real job, but when she started doing well, I wrote a poem and called it Please Pass the Crow."

His latest poem was for the dedication of wind turbines in Big Spring. They are the tallest in the U.S.A. and eventually there will be 50 of them. It was a big deal. People were in suits, the master of ceremonies was a man named Vito Elefante from New York City. Tom closed his part on the program with these words:

"The last things I want to do is offend, but what we're really doing here is breaking wind."

Vito loved it.

Lilly Homes, Inc. introduces new staff in sales, management

You may have seen them around town - or on the golf course - Larry and Linda Lilly, and their daughter Emily are familiar faces in Salado. Lilly Homes, Inc., their custom home construction company, has and is building many homes in our neighborhoods. Triple "L" Log Homes opened this past year on Stagecoach Rd under their ownership. Jeff Aldridge works with Mrs. Lilly at this local business, building upbeat log "cabins," gracious homes as well as smaller weekenders, for the Central Texas area.

Lilly Homes, Inc. based in Temple is well known to Salado residents, many having built their homes with the Lilly's. The company announces recent staff restructuring. Newly appointed to the Sales and Design team are Cory Wheeler and John Morrison, and to the Construction Management Department, is Eddie Watts.

Wheeler has been in sales and marketing for his entire career, most recently at Don Ringler Chevrolet.

He and his family are currently residents in Troy - living in a Lilly Home. Familiar with the department, Cory will be working in a new home sales.

John Morrison completes the sales department for the company. He is an active member of the Belton Chamber of Commerce, a representative for Excel Telecommunications of Dallas, and Sales Representative for Lilly's new home sales department.

Eddie Watts became a

Project Manager with Lilly Homes last fall. He has already managed several projects in our area, on in progress on Indian Trail. He has been in the construction business all of his career. Managing his own subcontracting firm, his framing crews have worked with the company for many years. With his extensive knowledge and experience, he makes a considerable contribution to Lilly Homes as they continue to provide quality housing and small commercial construction for Central Texas.

The Cost of Closing on Your New Home Loan
 When you buy a home you typically pay two kinds of closing or settlement costs: charges for title examinations, document preparation surveys, etc.; additional charges include prepaid interest and escrow deposits for real estate taxes and insurance. You may also pay loan origination fees to the lender. The costs in this chart are approximate. Always feel free to check with mortgage lenders by phone for closing cost estimates.

STANDARD CHARGES TYPICAL ON ALL LOANS	OTHER COSTS DETERMINED BY LOAN SIZE, LOAN TYPE & DATE OF CLOSING
• Appraisal Fee ..... $300.00	• Loan Origination Fee ..... $ _____
• Credit Report ..... $55.00	• Pre-Paid Interest ..... $ _____
• Tax Related Service Fee .... $110.00	• Private Mortgage Insurance ..... $ _____
• Closing or Escrow Fee ..... $100.00	(For loans over 80% of value)
• Attorney Fees ..... $200.00	• 1 Year Hazard Insurance ..... $ _____
• Mortgage Title Insurance . $150.00	(Quoted by insurance agent)
• Recording Fees ..... $40.00	• Escrow Deposit ..... $ _____
• Survey ..... $180.00	(Determined by taxes on new home and month of closing)
• Courier Fees ..... $50.00	SUB-TOTAL ..... $ _____
• Underwriting ..... $175.00
SUB-TOTAL ..... $1360.00

Add these two sub totals for a total estimate on your closing costs.

Real Estate Tip of the Week

Buying A Piece Of The American Dream

Owning a home is still, to many, the epitome of the American Dream. Now, with an increasing number of mortgage options, it's become even easier to buy a home of your own.

See if you can stake your claim in the real estate game with this quiz.

Quiz

- Which of the following will you need to complete a loan application?
  - Employment history, including locations of employers, for the past two years.
  - Social Security number
  - Numbers and locations for your bank accounts
  - all of the above
- What is a credit check?
  - A deposit you leave with the seller to hold the property while you obtain a mortgage.
  - A background check of your previous history of meeting financial obligations.
  - The refund you get upon closing your escrow account.
- What percentage of the cost of a property must you put down to avoid paying private mortgage insurance?
  - 10 percent
  - 20 percent
  - 30 percent
- True or False? With standard loan fees, the amount presented to the borrower at the beginning of the loan process is the same amount that gets paid at closing.

Answers

- d. This information generally covers your income, debt, residence and personal identification. You may also need to provide pay stubs, past tax forms and past addresses.
- b. All lenders are required to obtain at least two credit reports to assess your ability to repay the mortgage loan.
- b. Private mortgage insurance protects a lender in the event that a borrower is unable to pay back the loan. It is generally required when the mortgage is for more than 80 percent of the property's value.
- False. Loan fees are traditionally presented as estimates at loan origination and then confirmed at the close of the loan process, often at a higher amount.

Hanging Wallpaper Borders

Transform any area with imaginative uses of borders, double them up or create a frieze for the kids. Here are a few ideas:

Double The Impact:

Narrow borders can be used to make a strong impression when hung in parallel lines.

- Bright colors and bold patterns look dramatic when one border is placed upside down to mirror the design.
- Muted colors and designs make a stronger impact when they are pasted up in pairs.
- To coordinate the scheme, add a single strip of the same border at baseboard or picture rail level.

Eye Level For Toddlers:

Youngsters love to look at colorful pictures, so choose a wide, bright border and hang it above the baseboard.

- Children who are still crawling or learning to walk will enjoy having something interesting at their eye-level.
- On plain painted walls, the border can be removed and replaced with a more sophisticated design higher up the wall at a later stage.
- Use vinyl wallpaper for quick and easy sponging.

MATERIALS

- Border & Paste
- Pasting Brush
- Pasting Table
- Paperhanger's Brush
- Clean Cloth
- Seam Roller
- Craft Knife & Scissors
- Long Ruler & Pencil
- Level & Plumb Knife

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

Before you begin prepare the surface. Painted walls should be clean and free from grease, cracks filled and sanded, and wallpaper should lie flat. After that, hanging the border is easy.

If there is wallpaper on the wall, be sure it is firmly adhered. Slice through air blisters and push a knife under peeling edged to apply seam adhesive. Wipe off excess glue from the wallpaper with a damp cloth.

For a straight run, mark the position of the border with a pencil. Use a level and ruler for horizontal lines and a plumb line for vertical ones. Use adhesive clay to make sure border is in position before pasting.

Disguise an uneven ceiling by pasting a border a little below ceiling level. Use a spirit level to ensure that border is horizontal and paint the gap between the ceiling and the top of border the same color as the ceiling.

Where room features, such as windows, doors, and mouldings, are not straight, it is better to run a border parallel to the feature's edge rather than try to correct the line, except in the case of ceilings.

Freshly hung wallpaper should be left for at least 48 hours before hanging a border on it.

Heavily textured or embossed wallcoverings are not good bases for borders as their texture shows through.

HANGING A WALLPAPER BORDER

1. Keep the border front clean by aligning it with the edge of the pasting table. With a wide border, paste only the half that lies on the table edge. Move border to other table edge to paste other half.

2. Fold border with pasted side to inside, accordion fashion. Position one end on the wall using the flat of your hand. With the paperhanger's brush, work from the center out to press the border in place, smoothing wrinkles as you go.

3. Continue, opening a loop at a time while working. When a strip is in place, flatten the edges firmly with a seam roller to keep them from curling. Remove any excess paste with a clean, damp cloth.

4. At wall corners, paste the border around it and then trim the end to about 1/2". Begin a new strip on the second wall, starting close to the corner, overlapping the end of the first strip.

Take Note: Avoid saturating the border by adding too much paste. It will be heavy to fold and tear easily. Overpasting may also cause seeping that could stain the border when you try to flatten out lumps of paste.
