Gathering of the Clans in village Nov. 12-14

Salado will come alive this fall weekend with the color and sounds of the 38th Annual Scottish Games and the Gathering of the Clans Nov. 12-14.

Friday: All-day registration begins at 9 a.m. Nov. 12 at the registration desk in front of the Central Texas Area Museum on Main Street, across from the Stagecoach Inn Restaurant. From 9 a.m.-4 p.m. that day, Scottish vendors will be stationed at Scots Hall of the Clans and College Hill, ready to greet visitors. A genealogy workshop will be held 10 a.m.-3 p.m. in the Longhorn Room of Stagecoach Inn.

As the day progresses, pipers, drummers and dancers will gather at the Village Green along Salado Creek near the Main Street bridge. Capping the day's festivities will be a Fingertip Supper in the Longhorn Room beginning at 6 p.m.

Saturday: From 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Nov. 13, separate piping and drumming contests will be held at College Hill, while the Highland Dance Contest will be held at the Village Green. The Wee Scots Shop and Scottish vendors will be operating out of the Scots Hall of the Clans as well as College Hill. Those whose souls are stirred by the sounds of bagpipes and drums will want to attend the Ceilidh at 3 p.m. at the Salado High gymnasium. At around dusk at 5:30 p.m. on College Hill begins the Tattoo, which features a battle of the (pipe and drum) bands, along with dancers and individual singers. Following the Tattoo, the Tartan Ball will be held that evening in the Longhorn Room, a more formal occasion featuring dining and dancing that ends at midnight.

Sunday: Activities Nov. 14 begin with a church service 9-10 a.m. in the Longhorn Room. It will feature the "Flowers of the Forest," a memorial service for friends and family who have passed away during the past year. Following the services, the various competitions begin, including the pipe band contest, the drumming contest (both at the Village Green), as well as the "Over 18" Athletic Games at Robertson Ranch. Continuing this day will be the Wee Scots Games on the Village Green and Scottish vendors at the Scots Hall of the Clans and at College Hill. Following the Pipe Band Contest will be the Parade of Bands and Tartans starting between 2 and 3 p.m. This stirring and colorful parade down main street, with bagpipes and drums playing, wraps up the three-day event.

The Annual Scottish Games and Gathering of the Clan benefit the Central Texas Area Museum.

Grounds fees for the three-day event are $2 on Friday, $6 on Saturday and $5 Sunday for adults. Children 10-16 are $2 Friday and $3 Saturday and Sunday. Those under 10 are free.

For more information, call the Central Texas Area Museum at 254/947-5232.

Finnegan talks about young poor

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

William Finnegan told the Institute for the Humanities at Salado Nov. 7 that until parents mobilize politically, that the growing trend of downward mobility and poverty among the nation's young will continue.

"The poor are powerless," said Finnegan, a journalist who writes for The New Yorker magazine. "Advocates of children and young people are traditionally their parents. Government policy is not child friendly or family friendly today."

Finnegan predicted a hard road for the young working poor in America, "until parents do a better job of organizing politically."

Finnegan compared the political power of the aging population to the younger population. According to Finnegan, the Children's Defense Fund has approximately $15 million while the AARP (Association of American Retired Persons) has an annual lobbying budget of $449 million.

As the AARP has lobbied the government to protect and promote programs benefiting the elderly, the U.S. has seen the rate of poverty among Americans over age 65 decline by 50 percent since 1973. At the same time, the number of children living in poverty has risen 37 percent.

Finnegan pointed to the American "devotion to unfettered markets," which he says has led to the idea that the "free market" is natural.

He argued that the government plays a substantial role in the free market economy. "The government decides whether it will accommodate capital or labor. The government can move money from one group to another group."

Finnegan pointed out government programs, such as social security, FHA home loans, the GI bill, Medicare and Medicaid, highway projects and public education funding, which helped to develop a burgeoning middle class.

He even pointed to defense spending during the Cold War, which he likened to government subsidies for business, as helping to develop wealth in the country.

Yet, in the last generation, there has been a withdrawal of support for programs geared toward children and opportunity. In California, for example, 19 new prisons have been built between 1986 and 1996 while only one new public university has been built during the same time period. Additionally, half over the public library branches have been closed in the same time period.

The inability of the government to react to the deindustrialization of America has resulted in what Finnegan calls an impoverishment of young Americans.

He told the Institute that his economic argument is "derived from reporting on the ground for the past 10 years."

In his book, Cold New World: Growing Up in a Harder Country, Finnegan interviewed and lived with families in four American communities: New Haven, Connecticut,

We must remember our past, or be condemned to repeat it

Editorial Opinion

The time was eleven o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918. The first World War was over. The guns were silenced and the men fighting in the trenches on the western front in Europe were told that an armistice had been signed between the last remaining central power - Germany and the allied winners United States, Britain and France.

The signing took place at 5 a.m., in a railroad car at a place called Rethondes in the forest of Compiegne, with word that the fighting was to cease six hours later.

Starting in 1919, Americans have celebrated Armistice Day, known since 1954 as Veterans Day, as a full holiday dedicated at first to honor those who fought in the "War To End War", as this first modern world holocaust was termed by the allies. We now honor all military veterans as we pray on this special day for peace.

A noble sentiment but as it turned out the treaty ending the first conflagration led immediately to an even greater world war. And since 1945, our country has become involved in Korea's "police action" and later in Vietnam while the rest of the world keeps the killing going in Africa, the Balkans and more recently, the Caucasus.

Tomorrow, some will take a moment to remember those who have served our nation in time of conflict and danger. A handful will hold ceremonies and give speeches as to the reason for taking note of our veterans who have served in harm's way.

Humankind is an apparent slow learner who fails to grasp the full meaning of the American philosopher George Santayana's warning: "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it".

This last year of the current millennium is a good time to pledge that starting in 2000, we will not only honor those who have served during times of war, but to seek out alternate ways of dealing with our troubled, overpopulated world that is so full of hate - both religious and political.

Unless there is some prohibition, a prayer for our great nation would certainly also be in order. ---KC

Lottery preferred as best retirement bet by aging "boomer" generation!

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

Has "Me First" group lost sight of the value of saving? Strange philosophy ingrained in this middle American group includes spending more than earning while waiting for inheritance or gambling to strike it rich!

For those of us who grew up during the great depression and second world war, it is difficult to fathom the thinking of a majority of today's hard working middle class Americans who believe they have a better chance of winning the lottery than of saving money as a retirement supplement to social security!

These same folks - our grown children for the most part - are saving less than any generation in history; have less than a thousand dollars in net worth and are currently spending more than they make each month thanks to credit card misuse and the over extension of purchases including large homes, expensive cars, boats and non essential goods and services.

Some analysts say that somehow these hard working Americans have lost sight of the value of putting money aside and watching it grow and compound. One example offered by the Consumer Federation of America and the financial firm Primerica, who made the study of non-saving, noted that if a family of four, with an average income of $35,000, were to save the money spent on unneeded consumption - from $25 to $50 per week, the result over a 40 year span at modest interest, would produce from a quarter to a half million dollar stash that could easily draw from $15 to $30 thousand annually in tax free income for life. A real boost to one's social security in the post 65 retirement years.

Much better than waiting for the old folks to die and pass on their saved wealth or gambling on the lottery. Neither of which are wise alternatives to saving - both realistically and morally.

Of course the "me first" mind set would have to be disciplined until saving became a habit but the young can do anything they set their minds to - if they see a need.

A TAD OF HYPOCRISY?

We are all too familiar with Senator Mitch McConnell (R-Kentucky) and his constant harangues in favor of soft money, hard money or any money at all to be funneled towards individual candidates (particularly incumbent GOPers), Political Action Committees, "Political Information (soft) Funds" or any other fund that might help the conservative cause.

McConnell has been on every radio talk show, TV interview and person to person sidewalk jawboning to get his point across that we don't need campaign finance reform - we need unlimited contributions from anyone and everyone, all reported daily of course, of course.

Now we discover from official records that McConnell, as chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Campaign, has received over a quarter million in donations this year alone, from Fruit of the Loom company's chairman Bill Farley.

Farley is trying to get the Senate to allow companies such as Fruit of the Loom, to have a free tariff ride by eliminating the import duties on clothing produced cheaply in the Caribbean by Farley's company. A loss to American taxpayers that will run up to a billion bucks over the next five years as well as the loss of jobs - particularly in Kentucky where Fruit was one of the largest employers. Kentucky you will remember is the home state of Senator McConnell.

So there you have it. McConnell accepts contributions from a company that has taken thousands of jobs away from the Senator's very own state. Explain that if you can other than the old saw - "Politics as usual" or "Public be damned" or whatever comes to mind in the Machiavellian labyrinth we call Washington that dotes on money, influence, contributions and reelection.

A combo that spells bad news for the rest of us!

HEALTH CARE NOT FOR ALL

The U. S. Census Bureau reported late last month that a total of 44.3 million Americans, in 1998, did not have health insurance of any kind - a whopping 16.3 percent of our citizens and a hike of some 833,000 over the previous year. Highest in a decade according to records.

This fact alone will present candidates for President a chance to speak to this growing problem that is besetting our nation and one that must be addressed before we completely ruin our health care system.

Bringing the problem closer to home, we are told that Texas leads the nation in having the most uninsured residents - 14.5 percent of our population. A staggering number to care for in emergencies that must be attended to at public expense.

In a nation wallowing in wealth and good times, this lack of basic health care for a large portion of our population is disgraceful and if not solved soon - will lead to an uprising in favor of a national health program that no one wants.

Our elected officials, as well as the wannabees, need to tell us what they plan to do about this immediate health problem - and not in the namby-pamby, evasive, soft soap, fence straddling manner they are mouthing thus far in these early days of the 2000 campaign

SALADO'S VOTE TOTAL BEATS STATE & COUNTY

Saladoans should be moderately pleased to learn that they not only voted in larger numbers percentage-wise than the rest of Bell County and the State as a whole in last Tuesday's general election.

Statewide the voter turnout was a dismal 8.3 percent. That number dropped in Bell County to a 4.5 percent participation. Salado's main precinct (203) plus two closely aligned groups (205 and 403) joined for the off-year election and turned in a relatively "large" number - 299 voters out of a possible 3328 or 8.98%!

This outpouring of disinterest in certain quarters brings home the point made in recent editorials in the Salado Village Voice, decrying the lack of voter participation and pointing out the power that one person has when voter participation is low.

In the case of Salado - each voter was granted nearly the "power of ten" when it came to deciding what was added to the highest law of the State.

Family Relief collects toys for Christmas

The newly incorporated Salado Family Relief Fund, Inc. is once again gearing up to provide Christmas for at least 50 families and 150 children. There are a number of ways to participate in this season of gift giving.

The Salado Village Voice office has opened its doors as the drop off location for new toys, boxes of wrapping paper, ribbon, bows and tape. This year, the families will be wrapping their own gifts. Baseball bats and baseballs, basketballs, soccer balls and other athletic equipment, board games, anything that is Pokemon-related will be in demand. New clothing is also being accepted. The earlier these donations begin to accumulate the easier it is to fill the Christmas sacks.

To make a cash donation, First State Bank and Compass Bank have Salado Family Relief Fund accounts to which you can make a direct deposit or you may mail checks to Salado Family Relief Fund Inc. P.O. Box 461, Salado, TX 76571

If you would like to adopt a family or just one child call the Salado Village Voice office at 947-5321 to get your name on the list. When gift buying information is available, you will be called. When you adopt a family, you do the shopping at your expense.

For those unable to cover the expense personally, you can still participate by purchasing the gifts and turning in receipts for reimbursement from the Salado Family Relief Fund.

Families requiring assistance at Christmas need to fill out the form that will appear in the Salado Village Voice for the next few weeks and mail it to Salado Family Relief Fund P.O. Box 461, Salado, TX 76571. Families must be Salado residents. Deadline for the form to be postmarked is Dec. 1. Christmas Gifts will be available for pick up 9 -11 a.m. Dec. 18 at the Food Pantry located at the First Baptist Church. Food baskets for the holidays will also be ready at that time. "As soon as your gifts are ready you will get a call to pick up so the earlier you get your form in the earlier we can give you a call. It is very important that we have a valid phone number to reach you.," says Fleischer.

The earlier toys and clothes donations collect at the Salado Village Voice office, the easier it is for organizers to fill the needs.

If you need assistance to provide Christmas for your children, the Salado Family Relief, Inc. is here to help. Fill out this form. Mail to P.O. Box 461 Salado, TX 76571 by Dec. 1. Gifts can be picked up 9-11 a.m. Dec. 18 at the local food pantry located at the First Baptist Church. Food baskets are also available at this location. You must be a Salado resident.

Eagles win district in final 30 seconds of Troy game

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Salado quarterback Michael Schoepf threaded the ball between two Troy defenders into Rory Oldham's arms in the end zone with half a minute remaining in the Eagle's last home game to give Salado a 21-14 win and the district 26AA championship.

Oldham's 17-yard touchdown catch was setup by another immaculate reception by Tigger Day with less than a minute left in the 14-14 tied ball game. Day caught the ball which had been tipped by a Troy lineman even though the receiver was covered-up by another Troy defender. The 37-yard reception brought the Eagles' ball to the troy 17 yard line, setting up the winning score.

Troy, favored to win the game and the district championship, had difficulty with the Eagles' freewheeling offensive attack.

In fact, the Trojans gave up the run in the first quarter to defend against Schoepf's favorite receivers: Paul Lucas, Day and Oldham.

So, the Eagles took the run, pushing the ball 80 yards in their opening drive on 15 plays, eating up half of the first quarter.

Schoepf passed to Lucas for 27 yards to give the Eagles a first and goal at the Troy 7 yard line.

Pushed back to the Troy 19 yard line, Salado drew first blood when Day leapt and reached out to snag a pass in the back of the endzone. Lucas added the extra point to give Salado a 7-0 lead.

Troy tied the game in the second quarter when Landy Setzer dove in from the Salado 1 with 5:05 left in the half. Troy drove 93 yards on 17 plays, taking 7 minutes off the clock.

Salado took the lead again late in the third quarter, after down lineman Justin Marshall intercepted Grant Lambert's pass at the Salado 36 yard line with six minutes left in the third quarter.

Schoepf scrambled out of the pocket and found Oldham waiting in the endzone for a 13-yard touchdown pass on third and 11 with 2:45. The play was intended to go across the field, but Schoepf and Oldham took advantage of the Troy defender's blitzing the quarterback. Lucas' kick gave the Eagles a 14-7 lead going into the final quarter.

After a 78-yard touchdown by Schoepf was called back for holding, Troy took advantage of the swing in momentum to keep the Eagles with their back to the wall.

Lambert found Setzer for a 30-yard pass and run to give the Trojans an opportunity to tie the score at 14 with 4:13 left in the game.

The Salado coaching staff evidently took advantage of an apparent "act of God" when one of the lightpoles lost power, stopping the game with 1:31 left to play and a tie score of 14-14.

The Eagles defense shutdown the Troy offense , forcing a fourth and 8 at the Salado 42 yard line.

The Eagles defense swarmed the Troy punter, Gary Lopez, before he could kick the ball and Caleb Thompson and Derek Ward tackled Lopez at the Salado 46 yard line.

With 1:05 left on the clock, it looked like the game would go into overtime, but the Eagles pulled one more trick out of the bag on two immaculate receptions: first from Schoepf to Day and then from Schoepf to Oldham in the endzone for the win.

Chris Ray made sure that Troy didn't pull anything out of the hat when intercepted a Trojan pass with 28 seconds left to play, securing the win.

JV and 7th grade take district

JV wins district by beating Troy

The Salado Junior Varsity Eagles traveled to Troy Nov. 3 for their final football game of the season. They went into the game with a district record of 3-1 against Troy's 4-1 district record. The Troy team was much bigger than Salado's JV, but not their hearts. The score was tied 0-0 at the end of the lst quarter but Troy's tailback broke several tackles outrunning the Salado defense for a 91 yard touchdown. Their extra point run failed making it a 6-0 lead. Later in the 2nd quarter, they scored another touchdown on a miscue by the defense and the lst half ended with Troy leading 12-0.

On the opening series of the 2nd half, Stephen Fewell outran the Troy defense around left end for a 70 yard touchdown run. The extra point attempt for two failed. The score was 12-6 at the end of the 3rd quarter.

Late in the 4th quarter, Salado drove the ball down to the Troy 18 yard line with 3 minutes left to go in the game. Fewell sprinted right and hit Jarrod Whitfield in the end zone for a 18 yard touchdown reception. Fewell kicked the extra point with Isaac Berumen holding and Dan Watson snapping. The ball floated slowly over the goalpost putting the Eagles ahead 13-12. After changing possession of the ball a couple of times, theTrojans made one last attempt from their own 5 yard line. The screen pass was fumbled and the ball went into their endzone when Alex Torres fell on the ball for a touchdown as the final buzzer went off. The Eagles won 19-12.

This left Salado and Troy JV's with a 4-1 record each in district play and 7-3 for the season. With Salado beating Troy in head to head play, the Salado Junior Varsity Eagles won the district championship. Congratulations to the Salado JV Eagles!

8th graders finish season

With a share of the district championship on the line in their game with Troy, the Eagles started slowly falling behind 14-0 in the first quarter. A tenative defense allowed Troy to march 50 yards on their first drive for a touchdown. A fumbled punt by Salado set Troy up at the 12 for their second score.

Late in the second quarter, the Eagles mounted a sixty yard drive. Scott Bates finished the drive with a fourteen yard run for the touchdown.

Troy ran back the second half kickoff to increase their lead to 20-6.

Early in the fourth quarter, Salado again drove over sixty yards for a score. Matt Trolinger caught a 10 yard pass from Chase Simpson resulting in a final score of 20-12. The Eagles finished the year with a 5-3-1 record. Congratulations 8th Graders on your hard fought season!

7th grade takes district championship

The 7th Grade Eagles traveled to Troy on November 4 and came away with a 38-14 win over the Trojans. The first quarter saw Deven Dunn scamper in from 20 yard out to put the first six points of the game. Bell tacked on the extra 2.

In both the 2nd and 3rd quarters, Garrison Henning had touchdown receptions. One was a 60 yard pass and the other a 70 yard pass, both from Dunn. In both instances, Dunn tacted on the extra 2. Along with Henning's touchdown reception in the 3rd, Austin Rogers ran 60 yards stiff arming Trojans right and left to put up another 6 for Salado. Troy put up their first seven points in the 3rd. At the end of the third the score was 32-7 in favor of Salado.

The fourth saw another 7 put on the board for Troy but the highlight of the fourth was Rogers. He ran 80 yards for his second touchdown of the night. He even had enough breath left in him to run in the extra 2.

With this 38 to 14 win for Salado, it made their record 8-1. This fabulous record gives them the right to call themselves District Champs. Congratulations 7th Graders!

SALADO CHIROPRACTIC

Q: Does everyone get subluxations?

Yes. Spinal malfunction is a common health problem due to stress, long periods of sitting and many activities we consider normal. Fortunately the body can correct many of these spinal problems on its own. Yet, often the only way to eliminate the Vertebral Subluxation Complex is by specific spinal adjustments to restore more normal function and remove nervous system interference.

The Boles-Aiken Cabin

Boles-Aiken Cabin

"A much publicized event happened in Salado in-late March, 1986," writes Charles Abbitt in h is History of Boles-Aiken Cabin: "A local real estate developer, Bill Bartlett, while clearing a tract of land on the east side of Center Circle, was having a mediumsized frame house of unknown origin demolished by a construction contractor. As the house was being destroyed the definite form of a large and aged log cabin was discovered. The cabin, consisting of two adjacent rooms and a leanto shed, running the length of the two rooms, had been entirely enclosed by outside siding and indoor plaster. Its existence was not known to Bartlett nor the current generation in Salado."

Mr. Abbitt continues to write that "Robert Denman, a well-known Salado citizen and prominent in the Salado Historical Society, hearing of the cabin's discovery, immediately confirmed the finding and alerted the Society. Society President, Lynn Calvert, quickly put in motion a plan to save the cabin and to have all archeological excavation accomplished As plans for the land development were firm, with no chance of leaving the cabin in its original location, the Society chose to temporarily halt the demolition. Mrs. Calvert called on all hands to help in tile dismantling and storage of the cabin."

"Bill Shaw was placed in charge of the dismantling and a large number of members of the Historical Society enthusiastically participated during the short period of time permitted," Abbitt writes. "Thankfully, detailed records and photographs made by Pat Barton proved decisive during the restoration. Lynn Calvert provided profess I onal photographs and a short video recording of the operation."

Mr. Abbitt continues in his report, "The completeness of items preserved approached 100%, and included the rock wall I on which the cabin rested, sills, flooring, ceiling, floor joists, roof trusts and laths, wall logs and the east chimney and fireplace. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Whistler graciously volunteered to provide a place in back of Twelve Oaks to store and preserve these items."'

Thus began the restoration of the Boles-Aiken Cabin undertaken by the Salado Historical Society-a project that would not be completed for nearly 4 1/2 years and cost the Society $18,000. Charles Abbitt and his team of Lonnie Edwards, James Poppel and Bob Stewart restored the cabin to its original form so that "present and later generations can be knowledgeable of their ancestors' environment and hence better appreciate their heritage" Mr. Abbitt states.

An archeological service was retained by tile Historical Society to perform an archeological excavation of the cabin area so that the original function of the structure might be discovered.

Many, many persons in our village were involved in some way with the restoration of the Boles-Aiken Cabin To learn more about the cabin, its history and its restoration, come visit it during the Christmas Home Tour.

The Denman Cabin
by Doris Denman

I love to tell what I can member of what has happened through the years. You know when you get my age (some say 1845 - some say 1867) you can't remember everything.

I know that loving hands put me together with logs and chinking of mortar, rags and whatever was handy to keep out the wind and cold. Only one room with a fireplace made of rock pickup nearby.

Moses Denman and his family were my people. Moses had 25 children through the years and lost 2 wives and 2 babies earlier. Later in life, he married

Cabins

Laura McMinn (19 years old) there were happy times in these walls with 5 children in and out.

I do remember a frightening time when my owners were told a lake Would be built on the "Cowhouse Creek" and would cover Sparta. What would become of me? A lady in Belton, Madie Smith, a writer for the Temple Telegram rescued me and moved me to Pearl Street in Belton. She wrote homespun news of the area - I can remember the typewriter clicking as she met her deadlines sitting in front of my fireplace. When Madie died, I was moved to a place near Tro~ and was there for a few years.

One day two men and two 'ladies came to my owner in Troy and said this was the older man's great grandfathers log cabin. The older man was O.H. Denman, Robert's Dad.

They just came to visit because they had just learned I had not been destroyed. Mr. Denman remembered Sparta, well and 3 of his brothers and sisters had been born in the cabin.

In 1982,I was moved to the grounds of the old historic Barton House on Main Street in Salado. My Texas historical marker (1867) was moved and I proudly wore it in my front yard there for 15 year.

Lots of relatives of the Denman's came to visit me and I was very happy in my home I was opened for tours, many times for people to see how I was made.

When the great, great grandson, (Robert Denman) sold the Barton House, I wondered once more what would happen in my life. But, I didn't have to worry - they had a plan. Tile Denmans gave me to the Salado Historical Society and I was moved once more - what an exciting day!

I now live next to the Boles-Aiken log cabin near the Aiken Cemetery on Van Bibber Lane. My same stones were moved and put back to make the fireplace.

I am really at home because I have family here in Salado. Robert and Doris, daughter Cathy Sands and her two sons, Monty and Zachary Sands are 6th and 7th generation Texans.

"Family History" says that Robert's grandfather, Jackson Harvey Denman, Jr. was a friend of Jim "Pa" Ferguson and attended some classes here at Salado College. He and Laura Simpson were married in 1882 at the college where the 5th Sunday church meetings were held for the Primitive Baptist Congregation.

I noticed another of my "kin," Pinkney Denman's name is on the bridge marker on the south end of the Main Street bridge.

Thanks to the Salado Historical Society for giving me a good home and caring for my needs. A really nice man named Charley Abbitt tends my grounds and keeps me looking good.

It's time again for the people of Salado and surrounding places to visit me during the Salado Historical Society's Home Tour Dec. 3-5.

My fireplace will be going (if its cold) and there will be nice people to welcome you.

Salado is so special and I truly feel at home here.

Come to see me!

Tonkawa's on Salado Creek

by Patricia Merrill

(The following is the third in a series of excerpts from a book in preparation. It focuses on the relationship between Native Americans and early white settlers along the creek.)

Although the Tonkawas in the Salado area were peaceful, their culture was very different from that of the white settlers. Different ideas about personal ownership of goods led to major misunderstandings. If a Tonkawa was attracted by something left unguarded, he simply took it as his right, and the white settlers were naturally enraged by what they considered theft of their valuable tools and animals.

The concept of time was another major difference. According to their reckoning, the Native Americans, who told time by the moon and the sun, were always "on time" for appointments with settlers who might spend an hour or two impatiently pulling out their watches.

Land ownership was inconceivable to the Native Americans. You used the land you needed, but it was not yours. Essentially hunter/gatherers, the Tonkawas lived in crude small squat tepees and used, brush arbors as auxiliary dwellings. They were baffled by the white men's insistence that pieces of paper proved ownership of land.

Matrilineal clans were the basic unit of the Tonkawa society, so the children of a married couple always belonged to the mother's clan - never to the father's. The practice of brotherhood among clan members was vital, and within this kinship structure orphans and widows were automatically cared for.

On occasion the Tonkawas ritualistically consumed the flesh of their dead enemies. Today, thanks to a better understanding of Native American culture, we can speculate as to why they performed these gruesome ceremonies which so horrified the early white immigrants who observed them. Given their strong belief in the power of spirits, they may have felt this was a way to acquire the courage or bravery of the enemy, and, too, it was a dramatic way to revile the spirit of the enemy, and perhaps to destroy it.

The friendly Tonkawas were recruited by the Texas Rangers as scouts against hostile tribes which made frequent raids on settlements in Bell County. On May 26,1839, the Bird's Creek Indian Fight occurred near the future site of Temple. Thirty-four rangers under the command of Capt. John Bird fought with more than 200 Caddo, Kickapoo, and Comanche Indians. Both Captain Bird and a Comanche chief were killed. In the early spring of 1843 three men who had been buffalo hunting were killed by hostile Indians at a place now named Bone Hollow on the creek. And the Riggs and Taylor (for whom Taylor's Valley is named) families suffered terrible attacks by marauding tribes.

The Comanches continued sending raiding parties into Bell County until. 1870. But after the Civil War with the establishment of forts and when many tribes were forced onto reservations, Central Texas became inviting to settlers.

Real character of John Wesley Hardin portrayed Hut Brown

Tumbleweed Smith

Hut Brown of El Paso portrays one of the state's most famous gunfighters, John Wesley Hardin. Hut, a former educator, goes to schools around El Paso and tells youngsters about the legendary outlaw.

John Wesley Hardin was born at Bonham in 1853, named for the founder of Methodism. He spent his early years in Trinity and Polk counties. His father was a Methodist preacher. John Wesley killed his first man when he was 15. He added six victims to his list before he was 17. He killed about 30 more during his career as a gunman.

In May of 1874 Hardin shot and killed a Brown County deputy sheriff, Charles Webb, while visiting in Comanche. Lawmen pursued him all over Texas, Alabama and Florida. He was apprehended by Texas Rangers in Pensacola, FL and brought back to Comanche for trial. He was sentenced to 25 years in Huntsville. While in prison, Hardin read theological books, was superintendent of the prison Sunday school and studied law. He was pardoned after serving 17 years. Upon his release in 1894 he was admitted to the bar to practice law. He was shot to death a year later by Constable John Selman. The shooting took place at the Acme Bar in El Paso. Selman put three slugs from a 45 into Hardin's head.

One of the bullets from Selman's gun landed on the bar. The owner of the establishment kept that bullet in an apothecary jar so customers could see it. Selman was acquitted of the crime. The story is that Hardin was hired to defend a cattle rustler, Martin Morose, who was hiding in Juarez. He sent his wife to find an attorney. She found Hardin and liked him so much she didn't want to return to her husband. The situation deteriorated to the point that Hardin hired Selman and some others to kill Morose.

Hardin is buried in Concordia cemetery in El Paso. His grave is a popular visiting place for tourists. Someone regularly puts flowers by the headstone. Nearby are the graves of Selman and Morose.

Hardin was a handsome, gentle, manly man who considered himself a pillar of society. He maintained he never killed anyone who didn't need killing and that he always shot to save his own life.

One of John Wesley's guns, a Colt Model 1877 Lightning, recently sold at an auction for $189,500. His business card, reading "John Wesley Hardin Esq., Attorney at Law," two cardboard poker chips and a pair of dice brought $3,450. A picture of Hardin with his business card sold for $16,100.

Another of Hardin's guns, a 41 caliber Colt Thunderer, sold for $112,500. That gun was used by Hardin shortly before his death in 1895. He was gambling at the Gem Saloon in El Paso and losing badly. When the dealer called Hardin a "jail rat" Hardin pulled out his revolver and reclaimed the $95 he had lost. The dealer calmly counted out the $95 and Hardin left, saying "that is all I want, just my money and no more."

Hut Brown says the kids are fascinated by the antics of John Wesley Hardin. I always tell them "he died at an early age and never knew much peace."

Dakota Copeland took his first deer Youth Opening morning, Oct. 30 in Salado.

Dakota, six years old, is the son of Larry and Melony Copeland of Salado.

He had been getting ready for Youth Opening weekend and his first official hunt by learning gun safety and target practicing with his dad.

He was using a Ruger 223 deer rifle when, at daylight, he spotted the deer and took aim. It was a clean shot, and without assistance from dad, he had a 10 point buck with a 16 inch spread.

LaVonia Reeves named Artist of the Month

LaVonia Reeves of Belton has been named Village Artist of the Month. Her work will be displayed at Compass Bank and First State Bank in Salado during the months of November and December.

Reeves has a 25-year history of painting using oils and acrylics. In the last seven years or so she has begun to use watercolors. She paints a broad range of subjects, some favorites are landscapes, seascapes, and snow scenes. Her work hangs in a number of private collections. She has chosen a southwestern landscape using oils to display at First State Bank and several watercolor paintings, including one of bluebonnets, to display at Compass Bank.

Predominately self-taught, she has also studied with local artists, Laura Reinowski at the Cultural Activities Center, Alice Mitchell of Templé and Margie Hobday of Belton. She is a member of the Salado Village Artists and a former member of the Bell Fine Arts Association of Belton.

A Bell County resident for 65 years, she moved to Belton 20 years ago. Reeves worked as an insurance consultant at the Scott and White Clinic and Hospital before retiring in 1977.

In addition to painting, she enjoys traveling, sewing, gardening, and photography.

Janet Kemp

Susan Shobe

Randy Fewell

by George Huber

Janet Kemp has been teaching at Salado ISD since August. Previously, she taught at Waco High School and McLennan County Challenge Academy. She also taught Mass Communications and Journalism I for six weeks at McLennan Community College. In addition, she spent 15 years as the director of public relations at a hospital in Waco.

She attended Baylor University, where she majored in Journalism and English. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree and secondary certification from there as well. Prior to that, she attended high school at Reicher Catholic in Waco. She is currently married and has two children, ages seven and 11.

In her personal time, she likes to read, exercise, and watch her children playing soccer. She commented, "I never met a food I didn't like. I especially love Italian, seafood and chocolate. "The kids know how to get on my good side by indulging my addiction to chocolate," she stated. As for her view on music, she said, "Music ended in the 70's with the Eagles, Stones and Beatles."

When asked about her teaching philosophy, Kemp said, "I have always loved learning and I'm a professional student myself. My goal is to instill a love of learning in my students so they will be lifelong learners themselves."

Susan Shobe is the school librarian of Salado High School, Intermediate School, and Elementary School. She has been here since 1995. Before she came to Salado, she was in Rogers ISD from 1988-95.

She went to Belton High School. Then she went to the University of Texas-Austin and got her B.S. in Elementary Education and certification in Library Science.

She is married to Mike Shobe and have two sons Chris, who is living in California, and Casey, who is at UT.

As a librarian she likes reading, of course. She belongs to a book discussion group and likes to read fiction, biographies, and magazines. Other hobbies of hers are traveling and walking.

We are very proud to have Mrs. Shobe as one of our staff members at Salado ISD.

One of our teachers at Salado ISD is Coach Randy Fewell. He teaches History and Computer at the Intermediate School. He is also the football, basketball, and track coach. Coach Fewell graduated from West Texas State University with his BS degree. He majored in Health and Physical Education and minored in History. He graduated high school at Spearman High School. He taught at several other schools before coming to Salado: Dalhart for 8 yrs., Olton 4 yrs., Whitewrite 2 yrs., and Pineforest in Fayetteville, N.C. for 3 yrs.

He has a family of four with his wife Maj. Heather L. Fewell, M.D., his daughter Cassie, 17 years old, and his son Stephen, 15 years old.

His favorite school story is when he was teaching in Dalhart in the coach's office when the phone rang. "We were told to answer the phone by stating which department we were in. I answered 'Gymnasium.' The lady on the other end of the line then replied, 'Mr. Nasium, my name is...'" We are very glad to have Coach Randy Fewell teaching at Salado ISD.

an urban community on the decline; San Augustine County, a rural community in east Texas; the Yakima Valley in Washington, where he stayed with a Mexican immigrant family; and the Antelope Valley, a high-growth suburb of Los Angeles where the bottom fell out in the early 1990s.

New Haven
The Morgans

New Haven is a typical, old industrial city, which has been economically ravished by the factory closings and white flight.

New Haven has a large black ghetto, "which has come to collectively represent poverty in the national debate," Finnegan said, "although poverty is not northern, or urban or black."

The Morgan family came north after the Civil War. "There was every reason to believe that the Morgan's social mobility would be upward," Finnegan said. "The family's experience, however, had been with downward mobility."

The first generation lived in a nice home outside New Haven. The second lived in a modest home in New Haven while the third generation lived predominantly in government housing with four of five of the siblings being unemployed.

Terry, now a young man, was raised by his maternal grandparents. He went to work at age 11, first for newspapers downtown and later in restaurants, getting a job by having a fake ID.

"When Terry was 15, a friend offered him the chance to make over $1,000 a week," Finnegan said. "He had few illusions about the drug trade and his future in it," but he was "living large with little supervision."

San Augustine
The Clarks

In deep east Texas, San Augustine County is very much a part of the South, Finnegan said.

There are fewer people in San Augustine County now than in 1900, Finnegan said. The blacks who did not migrate north became sharecroppers. When cotton and farming disappeared, the area was left with timber and chicken as the only remaining industries.

At the same time, the promise of the city had faded for rural poor people as urban areas suffered under violence, disease and social breakdown.

But, the rural poor suffered many of the same afflictions as the urban poor, Finnegan said, including the influx of drugs.

Many of those rural poor people who wanted to cling to wholesome memories of "growing up on the farm," Finnegan said, also had competing memories of sharecropping, hunger and living with Jim Crow.

Yakima Valley: The Guerreros

Juan, the son of union organizers, had less in common with his Mexican parents than with his American friends.

"They hardly speak the same language," Finnegan said of the two generations. "Juan has been so thoroughly Americanized that he has little in common with his parents."

Latin are dominant in the Yakima Valley, but Juan has rejected those gangs to the point that he is called a "preppy" by them.

However, he has still ended up in jail and has been identified as a gang member by police officers. "This is a long, long way from what his parents had envisioned for him," Finnegan said.

Antelope Valley
The Turners

Antelope Valley exploded with growth on the outskirts of the Los Angeles area, but the community imploded under the stress of the unbridled growth.

When the bottom fell out, Antelope became known as the Foreclosure Capital of California. "There you will find house after house boarded up because of foreclosure," Finnegan said.

You also find white supremacy groups who compete for the loyalties of the area's youth.

In addition to the gangs, Antelope Valley also has had to face the explosion in use of crystal methamphetamines.

Mindy Turner, a 17-year-old girl who had recently left a gang called the Nazi Lowriders, is struggling to find her way. She blames much of her problems on her meth addiction, Finnegan said. But she might also look at her cultural icons: John Lennon and Charles Manson.

Before becoming a Nazi in the 9th grade, Mindy floated from group to group: from the heshers to the hippies before looking into becoming a Jew. "But that took too long, so she became a Mormon for a while," Finnegan said.

The Antelope Valley is full of Mindys who see their chances of rising above the mark left by their parents diminishing.

The Valley is an explosive intersection where "white downward mobility intersects with black and Latino upward mobility."

As entry level wages decline in real dollars, Finnegan asserts that the non-affluent majority of young Americans have seen their opportunity to achieve shrink.

To reverse this slide, Finnegan said, will require the advocacy of older Americans.

"Who is an advocate for a child, but their parents," he said.

Answering the call to duty

by Sgt. Jason Buckner

When I think about duty I think off many things, but most of all I think of doing the right thing. I can remember when I was a child visiting my Grandparents, I would spend hours looking at old photos my grandfather took in Germany during World War II. I remember asking my grandfather if he had been drafted into the Army, and he smiled and replied no. After hearing this I had to know more, so I asked how did you get into the Army? Well like so many things with my grandfather he said it was a long story and began to tell me about 1943. He told me that in 1943 he was a senior in High School and America was in the middle of WWII. Many of his classmates had already been drafted. And I am sure he knew men older than him that had gone to fight and not come home. He said my country needed me so I voluntarily joined, and after pausing for a moment he looked me in the eyes and said it was my duty. My grandfather fought in WWII as a Signal NCO in Germany and in Italy. Although he did not make a career of the military, he learned many core values from it that helped him to succeed in life. I remember feeling proud of what my Grandfather had done for my country.

I was always fascinated with the military as a child, so when I found an old Navy uniform in my father's closet I had to know the story behind it. My father told me the story of his call to duty. In 1968 my father was a Junior in High School and America was in another war. This time it was a small country in Asia called Vietnam. My father told me he had many friends that had been drafted and had already left for Vietnam. I asked my father were you drafted into the Navy. My Father replied no, I dropped out of school and Joined the Navy because it was my duty. I remember thinking why would he drop out of school, later in life I would understand. My father served in the Navy as an NCO on a submarine off the coast of Vietnam. Like my grandfather my dad chose not to make a career of the Military, he did however earn his GED and become a very successful man. My father answered the call to duty.

All people experience calls to duty. Some experience it in marriage while others may find it in parenthood. I answered the call to duty three years ago when I joined the Army. The Army has given me the opportunity to follow in my fathers footsteps, and serve my country. If it were not for the great sense of duty in us all, our country and our Army would not be such a great place to be.

1 1/2 c. milk	1/2 c. sugar
2 tsp. salt	1/4 c. shortening (Puritan oil)
1 egg	5 1/2 c. flour

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and oil to hot milk. Mix well. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups sifted flour and mix thoroughly. Add slightly-beaten egg and softened yeast. Beat well. Add enough more sifted flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly-floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in lightly-greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch down, knead and shape into rolls or loaves. Let rise in a warm place until doubled in size, about 45 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Make 2 1/2 dozen rolls, or 3 small loaves (8 1/2x4 1/2-inch loaf bread pans) or 2 large loaves (5x9-inch loaf bread pans) To refrigerate dough, place in greased bowl after punching it down; grease top surface, cover and refrigerate until needed.

Calvary Singers bring message to Grace Baptist Church Nov. 14

The Calvary Singers

The Calvary Singers, a preaching and singing ministry will appear at Grace Baptist Church 6 p.m. Nov. 14, according to John Warden, Pastor.

The ministry group, consisting of Jerry Oliver, his wife Janice and Lynette Johnson has been described as more than gospel singers. "We are dedicated to a gospel message that shares Jesus Christ," says Oliver.

The Calvary Singers also have a wonderful Christian comedy program that ministers as well. Lynette plays a funny character named LulaBell and she is loved by adults and children alike.

In 1970, Oliver believed he faced a choice of being obedient to God or being taken out of this life. While driving on I-30 in Dallas, he was involved in a near-fatal collision. An automobile careened across the median and hit his van head on. Oliver was trapped for nearly three hours with both legs crushed and pinned under the motor of the van. It was aggravated by hot radiator steam leaking onto his ankle, burning it to the bone.

While rescue crews were removing him from the wreckage, it was discovered that the emergency brake lever had penetrated his thigh, running up the bone and breaking his pelvis. During a four-month stay at the Burn Center at Parkland Hospital, Oliver and his wife, Janice, began to minister to other patients through gospel music. "Even though I was confined to a wheelchair and in leg casts, Janice would push me up to the piano and we would sing," he said.

Jerry and his family began singing gospel music on weekends in the Dallas area following his release. In 1975, the Olivers sold their home and prepared to go on the road full time. They log about 50,000 miles a year and are booked in revivals, concerts and Bible conferences 50 weeks out of the year. Johnson joined the team in 1996. She had been in part-time ministry for more than six years until she had an experience much like Oliver. She was ill for nearly a year until yielding to the call of ministry full time.
