BoA approves first readings of Impact Fee, mandatory connection ordinances

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen at their Oct. 17 meeting approved the first reading of an ordinance amending Ordinance 2018-12 regarding impact fees and further amended the first reading of an Ordinance 2018-13 regarding mandatory connection to the Salado sewer system. The second reading of the ordinances will be Nov. 7, unless aldermen should call a special meeting before that date.

On Nov. 7, aldermen will also hold a public hearing on the annexation of approximately 54 acres Royal Street, which will be developed into a three-phase subdivision with lots of approximately one-quarter acre in size. Aldermen earlier this year approved waivers from the Zoning Ordinance regarding minimum lot sizes for the subdivision.

Aldermen unanimously approved the first reading of the ordinance regarding Impact Fees which eliminates impact fees for existing structures in the initial service area of the sewer system. Alderman John Cole asked what the projected repayment amount will be for those property owners that have already paid impact fees. "That will be $160,000 to $170,000," village administrator Don Ferguson said, adding "nowhere near the $900,000 you were on schedule to collect. If you do away with them, we will go through the refunding pro-

Michael Coggin asked how eliminating the impact fees will do to the current budget. Ferguson explained that the Board, in adopting the budget and setting the tax rate, lowered the debt service portion of the tax rate because it planned on using approximately $71,000 in impact fees to pay toward the bond debt. "You will either have to go into fund balance to maintain the commitment (to paying off the debt)," Ferguson said, "or have a combination of budget cuts in the general budget."

The impact fee payment on the sewer debt, Ferguson said, "was going to be the first of a regular habit of getting the debt service tax rate down."

Ferguson warned aldermen about using future impact fees from new development to pay down the current sewer debt. "It will depend on the impact that they have on the system," he said, adding that new development impact fees may be used to pay down future debt for future expansion of the system.

Coggin asked about what would happen if the board did not amend the ordinance and lost in court. "If you hit a judge that says you should not be doing this (collecting from existing properties that were defined in the impact fee study as 'new development'), you will have to refund the impact fees and also face the cost of legal fees. You could be out a significant chunk of legal fees."

Rodney Bell gave the motion to approve the first reading, receiving a second from Amber Preston-Dankert. It passed unanimously.

Aldermen approved the first reading of an ordinance that amends the 2018-13 Ordinance regarding mandatory connection to the sewer system, after making further changes to it.

"If you don't have a penalty, you shouldn't have an ordinance," Ferguson said.

"Either have an ordinance or not," alderman Coggin said. "Let them know we have a sewer system and here are the costs. If you want to connect, fine. If not, that is fine, too."

Coggin then gave a motion to rescind the entire Ordinance 2018-13, receiving a second from alderman Bell. After discussion, it was defeated 1-4 with Bell and Preston-Dankert joining Frank Coachman and John Cole voting against.

"If I had my druthers, I would go in and reinstate the civil penalty and reduce the cap of that to something much less than $5,000 per day, but build in a fine," Ferguson said, "You can get rid of injunctive relief, get rid of going on property and connecting your property and filing a lien."

Preston-Dankert said that mandatory connections were always part of the numbers on the system. "It was always part of the deal," she said, adding that without mandatory connection, "we are going to have to charge these people (ones who connect) more on the other end to make it back."

Ferguson said that people connected under a mandatory requirement. "What do I tell the person who connected and says they were forced to do so if we remove that?" he asked.

Alderman Cole asked "is it more to put the burden on the taxpayer who is not getting any benefit from this system?"

After Coggin's motion failed, Coachman made a motion to "reinstate the entire ordinance" with a maximum criminal fine of $100 per day, and a civil penalty of $50-$100 per day with the total amount of fines capped at the total amount of Impact Fees that would apply for that property if they were to be collected. It received a second from Cole.

Coachman clarified that the Village would continue to keep the portion of the ordinance that allows it to go on the property and install a connection and file a lien, if necessary, for repayment of any and all costs.

"If we have to go in with a lien, I want the ability to do that," he said.

The motion passed 3-2 with Coachman, Preston-Dankert and Cole in favor and Coggin and Bell voting against.

New building construction permits fall 9.4% from Aug.

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) again turned in a positive week despite the mostly bad economic news closing at 2986.20, up 0.54% for the week. The positives were clustered around tweets that the U.S. and China had a substantial agreement to end the trade war and a Brexit deal might be reached while the negatives were that the trade agreement looks more and more like the status quo and the economy appears to be headed for a stall. The Index has only risen by 0.32% over the past three months but is up nearly 8% from this time last year.

The ten-year U.S. Treasury note closed at 1.749%, up 21.9 basis points from last week and higher than the 1.674% of the 90-day T-bill, thus continuing to technically avoid a negative yield curve. That relationship is cold comfort as the five-year note is yielding 1.576%. Historically, following an extended period of yield curve inversion at the ten-year point, while still staying inverted at shorter maturities, it has simply meant that the predicted recession is drawing closer but that better times may come on the other side. As always, only time will tell. Crude oil futures, another reliable predictor of the economy's direction, declined 2.26% for WTI to $53.68, leaving the price down about 23% from a year ago.

The Economy

The lead story this week is that the Census Bureau announced on October 16 that September sales for retail and food service businesses declined 0.3% from the previous month but were, in a flash of lagging good news, up 4% from a year ago. August's retail sales were adjusted to be up 0.6% but the plus was drivin the whole domestic eco-

to be what stands between us and a recession. In another dose of worrying news, new building construction permits fell 9.4% from August. Building completions showed a similar decline of 9.7% and were 0.1% below those a year ago. The longer-term view suggests that building peaked in early 2018 shortly after the tax cuts went into effect and have been in a slow decline since.

Longer-term readers will tend to think this is old news, but The Federal Reserve reported on the 17th that U.S. manufacturing output, which makes up about 11% of our economy, fell more than expected in September, down 0.5% for the month and down 0.9% from this time last year. Reflecting on the Retail Sales Report, even excluding the sharp decline in auto sales, manufacturing output still fell by 0.2%. That Federal Reserve report tends to confirm the Institute for Supply Management's report last week that manufacturing production future growth estimates fell to a ten-year low in September. Respondents to the various surveys indicated that the trade war with China, skilled labor shortages, a slowdown in demand, and the GM strike were the major factors.

It was hard to find good economic news for the week ending on October 18 and the gloom was topped off by Friday's release of the Index of Leading Economic Indicators (LEI) from the Conference Board. For September the LEI declined 0.1% following a 0.2% decline in August. The faint echo of some not-so-bad news could be detected in the coincident economic indicator, which was flat, and the lagging indicator which was a positive 0.1%. Those two indicators suggest why, despite the fall in manufacturing, building, exports, and retail sales, things don't seem so bad. The six-month LEI is still up 0.2%, so the jury is still out, but considering the six-month LEI was up a full 7% about a year ago, the trend is worry-

The bottom line remains the same as in recent weeks. The underlying foundations for near-term economic growth are decaying but the current situation is good as the economy continues to run on momentum and high employment. Unchanged as well is the major role tariffs are playing. Were the President to suddenly declare victory and remove the tariffs we could see a major relief rally in both the economy and the markets. If further tariff increases happen, it could easily tip us into a recession and bear market. If things remain unchanged, the odds of a recession in 2020 are high.

The foolhardy campaign against 'Endless Wars'

Barack Obama and Donald Trump are diametrically opposed figures, representing the categorical rejection of the other for his supporters, yet they share significant foreign-policy DNA.

They both defined themselves in opposition to George W. Bush's foreign policy. Obama probably wouldn't have defeated Hillary Clinton for the 2008 Democratic nomination if she hadn't voted for the Iraq War and if he didn't speak out against it at the time. Likewise, Trump outpaced all his 2016 GOP rivals in denouncing our Middle East commitments.

Obama represented the internationalist left, while Trump is the champion of the populist right, and there are important policy differences between the two (Obama cut the Iran nuclear deal; Trump withdrew from it). Yet, in his pullback from the Syrian border, exposing our Kurdish allies to a Turkish invasion, Trump now has his own version of Obama's foolhardy pullout from Iraq that created the opening for the rise of ISIS.

The cost of Trump's decision is a betrayal of the Kurds, a worsening relationship with Turkey, a possible lifeline for ISIS and a boost to the influence of Russia, which should be able to leverage it for continued strategic gains in the region.

The pullback has managed, astonishingly enough, to alienate both the Kurds and Turkey from the United States. Usually, given the historic enmity between the two, it's possible to alienate only one at a time. After we dumped them, the Kurds have fallen into the arms of the Assad regime in Syria, while Turkey will be as hostile to the U.S. as ever once Congress gets done trying to punish it for its invasion. Just like Obama's withdrawal from Iraq, Trump's pullback in Syria is a belated reaction to the Iraq War. Obviously, there is no political support on the right or left for invading and occupying a Middle Eastern country again. But there's a vast distance between the height of the occupation of Iraq, when we had 150,000 troops fighting a war of counterinsurgency, and our minimal commitment in Syria aimed at creating and supporting a proxy force to do the hard fighting against

To throw both the Syria and Iraq interventions together under the rubric of "endless war" is to fail to make distinctions. It's senseless to oppose a relatively cost-free action in Syria that has succeeded in its own terms (the ISIS caliphate has been defeated) because the Iraq War was fought for years at a high cost with dubious results. It'd be like opposing the invasion of Grenada because the invasion of Normandy required so much blood and treasure.

long-standing The American military reflex is to win and go home, but it's rare that even the most clear-cut victory is so neat. We won a decisive conventional military victory in World War II in Europe, and we still have troops in Germany. The first Gulf War is supposed to be the model of a rigorously limited commitment, but it still resulted in a no-fly zone over Iraq, the creation of an autonomous region for the Kurds in the north and a constant effort to enforce U.N. sanctions.

Nor is getting out as clean as advertised. Obama triumphantly exited Iraq, only to have to go back in when things spun out of control. If Trump wants to be done with Syria, it might not be done with him.

Control the clock, control the game Eagles' ground game punishes Leopards

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Control the clock and you control the game.

A simple philosophy and one that Salado Eagles have stuck to throughout the sea-

They did so again in their 35-21 road win against the Lorena Leopards Oct. 18 as the Eagles held onto the ball for 32:05 of the 48 minutes of play.

Despite having the ball for less than 16 minutes, the Leopards scored three times, thanks to Bradley Lina's arm and legs. The Lorena quarterback threw 28 times with 22 completions, 190 yards and a touchdown.

He also threw for an interception on a long downfield attempt. Latrell Jenkins has proven to be a defensive back that it is unwise to throw deep against as he grabbed his sixth interception of the season.

The Eagles started the game as they usually do with a methodical drive, this one for 98 yards over the span of more than nine minutes and 18 plays. The Eagles converted two fourth downs with a sneak by Hutton Haire and a run by Hunter Turk, who would cap the drive with an 18yard run at 2:45 in the first. Wrook Brown booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

The teams swapped possessions and after giving the Leopards a short field, the Eagles stopped Lorena on a fourth-and-two to take over at their own with 8:35 left in the half.

Nine plays later, Haire hit Reid Vincent for a touchdown on a third-andgoal from the 19-yard line. Brown made it 14-0 with his kick with 2:53 left in the Lorena answered quickly, driving 66 yards in five plays as Lina hit AJ Brem for two quick passes and McCray Lewis for another to get the ball to the Salado 34-yard line. After running for 12 yards for a first down, Lina took a QB draw through the middle for a 27yard TD. The kick made it 14-7 at the half.

The Leopards scored on the opening possession of the second half. They took 14 plays to go 60 yards, converting one fourth-and-nine to get in the red zone. Lina called his own number to score from the 3-yard line with 7:08 left in the third. The kick tied the game at 14-14.

After Salado was forced to punt, Jenkins intercepted a deep pass at the Salado 30-yard line but the Eagles could not convert the turnover and ended up punting to the Lorena 20-yard line.

The Leopards punted from their own 16-yard line and a defender hit Wrook Brown after he waved for a fair catch, setting up the Eagles at the Leopard 44-yard line. On second down, Turk took a hand off 42 yards for the touchdown with 10:59 left in the game. Brown kicked the extra point for a

Eagles on-target for playoff spot

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado Eagles will host the Madisonville Mustangs for a District 8-4A contest with kickoff at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 25.

The Eagles are coming off a spectacular 35-21 road win over the Lorena Leopards. Salado is tied with Mexia Blackcats and Fairfield Eagles at 2-1 in District 8-4A.

Connally Cadets are ranked No. 2 in 4A Div. 2 with an 8-0 record, 4-0 in District 8-4A. The Cadets dropped back to No. 2 behind the 7-1 Texarkana Pleasant Grove Hawks after the Hawks beat Gilmer 37-24 last week. Connally beat Mexia 42-26 last week.

Salado's only losses have come against state-ranked teams. The Eagles lost to the Troy Trojans, who broke into the rankings this week by beating the former No. 5 Rockdale Tigers in a District 10-3A, Div. 1 game. Troy's single loss was to Robinson (63-35) in a non-district contest.

The Eagles beat Robinson 31-28 in the second week of district, after Salado played Connally to a 28-21 loss on their homecoming in week one of district.

The Madisonville Mustangs are 0-4 in District 8-4A and 2-6 on the year. They have lost to Connally, Robinson, Mexia and Fairfield.

The Mustangs primarily run the ball with 1,732 yards on the ground. Tyrese Brown is the lead rusher with 580 yards on 114 carries and 10 TDs. Roderick Holiday also takes a lot of handoffs with 520 yards on 81 carries.

Madisonville has 726 yards passing, with 6 TDs in the air.

Look for the game to end before 10 o'clock as both teams stick to the ground game. It is unlikely that Salado's offense will be stopped by Madisonville.

It will be up to Salado's Greg Washington, Peyton Miller, Lucas Morvant, Caleb Self and Travis Carter to clog the running lanes as Latrell Jenkins and Ethan Scott will be defending the pass.

Salado is up 12 in terms of takeaways-to-giveaways with 10 fumbles recovered and 7 interceptions. The offense has four fumbles lost (two in the first game) and one interception for the sea-

If this pattern continues, the Eagles could be looking at a playoff run in which they could face the Cadets in the Region II bracket finals if the two teams finish first and second. To do that, Salado will first have to beat Madisonville, followed by wins over Mexia and Fairfield. Fairfield was briefly in the top 10 in state after beating Lorena.

Four teams in District 8-4A have been ranked in the top 10 in state this season: Connally, Robinson, Lorena and Fairfield.

Two of those teams -- Lorena at 1-3 and Robinson at 1-2 -- are hanging by their fingernails to make the playoffs. Another loss by Lorena will put the playoffs out of reach for the Leopards. The Rockets must beat Mexia, Fairfield and Connally to keep their playoff hopes alive.

To get to the playoffs, Salado needs to win at least one of the next three games against Madisonville, Mexia and Fairfield.

This writer's prediction is that the Eagles will win out the next three weeks with their control of the clock and steady hands on the offense.

The Eagles defense has proven much better than teams have anticipated. Salado has allowed 287.7 yards per game total offense. Robinson hit the Eagles for the most yards with 415 yard total offense in their contest, 242 yards in the air.

The Eagles secondary has improved since that game and could give Salado the takeaways it needs in the final weeks and in the playoffs to advance.

What was thought to be a building year for Salado has the potential to be a memorable one.

It has been so far.

Scottish Folklorist at Salado Museum Nov 8

lorist, Ed Miller, will present a one-hour lecture in word and song at 1 p.m. on Nov. 8 in the Lucile A. Robertson Center (formerly the Hall of Clans) at the Salado Museum, 423 South Main Street. The lecture, The Scottish Borders: The Story of a Different Side of Scotland, is sponsored by the Salado Public Library in partnership with the Salado Museum and College Park. Suggested donation at the door is $10.

Ed Miller is a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, who came to Texas as a young man and has made Austin his home. He holds a graduate degree in Folklore and Geography from the University of Texas at Austin. In addition to having recorded nine CDs of Scottish songs, he is a teacher, speaker, lecturer, radio host and leader of historical tours of Scotland.

Miller's one-hour presentation showcases the history and beauty of The Scottish Borders, an enthralling landscape between Scotland and England that is very different from the "Highland" image of Scotland so familiar to the American public. From rolling hills valleys and a picturesque coast line, the Borders is a distinct part of the country with its own unique history and a subject of many of Scotland's greatest ballads, including those collected by Sir Walter Scott which Miller will sing during his presentation.

Miller is the featured en-tish Gathering and Highland Games, November 9-10, at the Salado Civic Center.

The Scottish event is the major annual fundraiser for the Salado Museum and College Park, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

This year, the Salado Family Relief Annual Fundraiser, "The Empty Bowl" Project, will be held 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at the Salado High School Cafeteria.

Local restaurants make the soup and the "empty bowls" are made by local artisans and students. For the first time, the fundraiser will be at the Salado High School cafeteria which will provide easier access and increased parking space.

Salado Family Relief (SFR) helps families in Salado who are in temporary need of assistance with rental payments or utility bills. Additionally, SFR's Back-to-School program provides school supplies and backpacks to kids from Pre-K through High School. Qualified families can also participate in the Christmas Project and receive toys and/ or clothing items for children from birth through 6th grade. The Empty Bowl is the only annual fundraiser organized by Salado Family Relief, however, donations are welcome anytime. All funds benefit qualified applicants because the SFR board members serve on a volunteer basis. Checks can be mailed to Juli Bergstrom, Treasurer, Salado Family Relief, P.O. Learn how to carve a better pumpkin

Toothy grins and a mesmerizing orange glow help make jack-o'-lanterns captivating sights come Halloween. Pumpkin carving is an autumn tradition and runs the gamut of simple designs to more intricate artwork worthy of any medium. Although anyone can grab a pumpkin and get started, when done correctly, jacko'-lantern designs can last for several days.

- Start with a fresh pumpkin. Look for pumpkins that have a thick, green stem. These usually are fresh and haven't been handled much. A thick stem also may indicate fleshier pumpkin walls that can be carved more easily. Avoid pumpkins that are soft or full of blemishes, or those that have dried, shriveled stems.
- Cut a hole in the back. Rather than impeding the structural integrity of the pumpkin by cutting off the top and the stem for interior access, cut a hole in the back of the pumpkin. This will still make it easy to reach inside and clean out the pumpkin.
- Scoop out the pulp and seeds. Be sure to thoroughly clean the inside of the pumpkin. Leaving the pulpy, stringy matter and seeds inside can cause the pumpkin to rot that much faster and produce a foul odor. Scoopers, spoons and

- even hand shovels can help.
- Keep it cool. Heat can adversely affect carved pumpkins, so work in a cool area and store the pumpkin in a cold garage or refrigerator if you need a few extra days before displaying it. Also, carving experts suggest using an electric light inside rather than a candle; by using a candle, you're essentially cooking the pumpkin from the inside.
- Work in your lap. When carving faces or intricate designs, looking down onto the pumpkin provides more control.
- Don't cut all the way through. Many pumpkin designers end up shaving or scraping off the outer rind of the pumpkin, but leave a delicate orange film underneath. Light can still shine through, but the design will not collapse on itself as easily if you were to cut straight through the pumpkin wall. Experiment with different tools to achieve the desired look.
- Maintain the freshness. Rubbing exposed areas of the pumpkin flesh with petroleum jelly may help keep the pumpkin moist. Some designs will last for a few days. However, since pumpkins are highly perishable, it's wise to wait to carve until a day or two before putting a pumpkin on display.

How to talk to kids about Halloween safety

Come Halloween, youngsters' attentions are understandably focused on costumes and candy. Their parents, however, are likely more concerned with their kids' safety.

Trick-or-treating kids might not pay much mind to safety. As a result, it can be hard for parents to get kids to grasp the importance of being safe on Halloween. The following strategies might make that task easier.

• Discuss costumes well

- in advance of Halloween. Many kids are so enthusiastic about Halloween that they know which costumes they hope to wear long before October 31. Parents can discuss potential costumes well in advance of Halloween before kids even know what they want to wear. Doing so gives parents a chance to encourage kids to choose bright costumes that will make them more visible to drivers on Halloween night. Waiting to discuss costumes increases the likelihood that kids will already have an outfit in mind, making it harder for parents to convince them to choose something safe.
- Explain that some tailoring might be necessary to make gathering all that candy a lot easier. Superman doesn't trip on his cape in the movies, and youngsters dressed up as the Man of Steel shouldn't trip on their capes, either. When kids pick costumes, explain to them that you might need to do some tailoring before they go trick-or-treating. Explain to kids that costumes should be trip-proof so they can seamlessly go from house to house in search of their favorite goodies.

- Create a bag or bucket design day. Depending on what kids will use to carry the candy they accumulate this Halloween, parents can plan a bag or bucket design day a few days in advance. Kids will enjoy this chance to get in the Halloween spirit, and parents can encourage youngsters to decorate their bags and buckets with reflective tape that will make them more visible to drivers.
- Talk up trick-or-treating with friends. As Halloween approaches, parents can discuss how much fun kids will have going doorto-door with many of their friends. This is a good way to ensure kids trick-or-treat in large groups, making them more visible to drivers. In addition, kids trickor-treating in large groups might be too busy joking with their friends to notice when one or two parents tag along as chaperones.

Parents can discuss Halloween safety with their children in ways that make it fun to be safe while trickor-treating.

Roasted Pumpkin Seeds

STEPHANIE HOOD

SALADO VILLAGE VOICE

Once you have scooped your pumpkins, save the seeds for a delicious treat.

Remove most of the stringy parts from your bowl of pumpkin insides. (We call them guts because we have just been carving Jack-o-lanterns after all)

Place in a colander and rinse thoroughly to remove any leftover pumpkin goop. Spread evenly on a paper towels to dry thoroughly. Dryer seeds crisp up better.

Place the dry seeds in a single layer on a cookie sheet. You can line with parchment paper or a baking mat if you like.

Drizzle a bit of olive oil on the seeds and sprinkle with the seasoning of your choice.

Sweet and spicy seasoning is our favorite topping. Mix together:

- 1 tablespoon brown sugar 1/2 teaspoon sea salt
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon black pep-Roast at 325 degrees F for 20 minutes. Stir every 5 minutes. You can buy raw pumpkin seeds in bulk and make these in party sized batches.

Pass Opening lead — king of diamonds.

There are many deals where declarer is virtually in the dark as to which opponent to finesse for a missing honor card. In such a situation, anything the defenders can do to help steer declarer in the wrong direction is certainly in their best interests.

Take this case from a team game where both Souths ended up in four spades. Both declarers recognized that the only real threat to the contract was a 4-1 trump division, and both realized that if they knew which defender had started with the J-x-x-x of spades, a simple finesse would bring home the contract.

The play at both tables began the ame way, West cashing the K-Q of diamonds and shifting to a heart, taken by dummy's king. Both declarers then led the three of spades to the king. It was on this trick that the play diverged.

At the first table, East, who had carefully studied the spade position after the dummy was exposed, tried to improve on his chance of getting a spade trick by playing the seven on the first spade lead. This subtle falsecard was intended to convince declarer that if any defender held four spades, it was West.

South took the spade king and noted, just as East intended him to do, that the seven was the highest missing spade aside from the jack. With only this clue to go on, he next laid down the spade queen, and when West showed out, declarer knew he had been had. He later lost a spade and a heart and went down one.

At the other table, East mechanically played the deuce on the first spade, leaving declarer to his own devices. South stewed for a while and then guessed correctly by leading a spade to dummy's ace. After that it was a simple matter to pick up East's jack, and he lost a heart at the end to make his game.

We don't know exactly how the second South found the winning play in the trump suit, but we do know that he didn't have to contend with the red herring his counterpart faced at the other table.

Peaceable Kingdom hosts Variety's North American regional conference

Variety - the Children's Charity of Texas and the Village of Salado recently hosted Variety's North American Regional Conference. CEO's, Executive Directors, Board Chairs and staff descended upon the Central Texas Village of Salado and Variety's Peaceable Kingdom.

Variety leaders came from as far away as Vancouver, British Columbia and Winnipeg, Manitoba and also included representation from over 20 Variety chapters across the US.

In addition to enjoying a day of learning and play at Variety's Peaceable Kingdom, the group enjoyed lodging at Salado's historic Stagecoach Inn and a night of delicious food and drinks with Barrow's, Happy Pizza and Hecho en Queso. Each leader also took home a beautiful glass-blown from Salado pumpkin Glassworks.

Salado resident and Variety of Texas staff, Tiffany Schreiner welcomed the group to Peaceable Kingdom by passionately sharing the history of Variety's Peaceable Kingdom and the story of her little brother, "Baby Charlie."

This was followed by impactful team/relationship building by Salado resident, Art Ortiz.

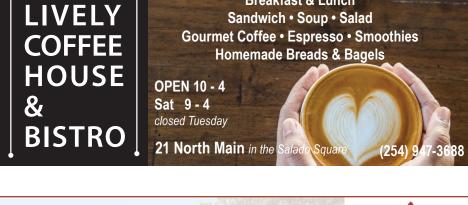

While committed to serving the local Bell County communities through the Texas 501(c)3 non-profit status, Variety - the Children's Charity of Texas is part of the larger, Variety International. Jointly, Variety chapters across the world are committed to funding and delivering effective programs that address the needs of all children locally, nationally and internationally.

Together, Variety chapters across the globe raise nearly $90,000,000 annually to achieve their joint mission.

"What a privilege it is to introduce Variety leaders from across the US and Canada to our communities in Bell County and to Variety's Peaceable Kingdom," said Stacy Bruce, Executive Director of Variety of Texas. "We are so very proud of our work and our impact in these communities. What an honor to share with our esteemed and passionate colleagues."

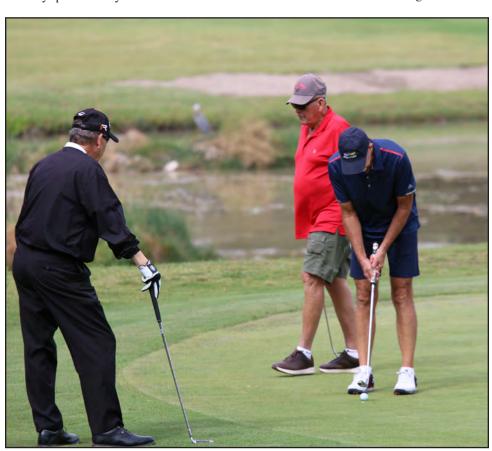

"What a fabulous gathering hosted by Variety - the Children's Charity of Texas. We learned, we played and all for the benefit of the children Variety serves across North America," stated Nancy Klueter, Variety International Board President. "Thank you Texas, for a very warm welcome and productive time in Salado and Variety's Peaceable Kingdom."

Haunted Art House held at J.Genevieve

J.Genevieve is proud to present the 2019 Haunted Art House - a temporary art exhibit celebrating the darker themes of the season, curated by Georgetown, artist Sonia Mathis. Curated by Sonia Colonna-Mathis and presented by J.Genevieve, the Haunted Art House is an annual exhibition dedicated to the darkness of artistic expression. It's not about art that is frightening or gory – just dark.

For many artists, that simply means a more dramatic or mysterious representation of our subject. While, for others, it encompasses a humor that is not easily represented in any other venue. It's a wonderful opportunity to creatively explore villainy as well and to allow art that has a story to tell.

The exhibit will feature various artists and will be on display at J.Genevieve HQ Oct. 24 -31, with a spooky shenanigans celebration on Oct. 26. Full art house experience, Ghoulish treats and beverages, photo booth op (costumes welcome) and tarot readings will begin at 4 p.m.

Costume karaoke run by McKenzie Reeve of Salado Creek Healing begins at 8 p.m. on the porch at J.Genevieve HQ. This event is free but suggested donations are welcome.
