

Gathering of Clans, Highland Games in Salado this weekend

The 58th annual Scottish Gathering of the Clans and Highland Games (www.saladoscottishfestival.com) are coming to the grounds of the Salado Civic Center, Nov. 8-10.

This family-friendly event is the oldest Scottish festival in Texas and has been sponsored continuously by the Salado Museum since 1961.

Young and old alike will enjoy hearing the bagpipes play, seeing the Tossing of the Caber, watching the famous Sword Dance, listening to Celtic singers and musicians, visiting the Clan Village, the largest gathering of Scottish Clans in Texas where Clan members share information on Scottish history and genealogy, and, of course, all those men in kilts!

The Calling of the Clans is held at 6 p.m. Nov. 8 on the banks of Salado Creek just north of the museum, a solemn torchlight ceremony recreating the gathering of Scottish clans in 1314 to fight for Scotland's freedom.

The Civic Center grounds open at 9 a.m. on Nov. 9 with a full slate of activities that include sanctioned competitions in Scottish athletics, bagpiping, drumming and Highland dancing.

Official opening ceremonies are held at noon Nov. 9 with the Bands and Clans Parade on Main Street followed by presentations and massed bands on the grounds.

The parade starts at North Pace Park Road and moves north on Main Street to the Civic Center.

People are encouraged to bring lawn chairs for viewing along the route.

Activities continue with the hilarious Bonniest Knees Contest, a large Celtic marketplace, food court and live Celtic music. Featured entertainers are Scottish singers Ed Miller and Carl Peterson, renowned guitarist Rich Brotherton, and Celtic band Murder the Stout.

Grounds open at 9 a.m. Nov. 10 with the Kirkin' o' the Tartan devotional service, bagpipe bands, Clan tents, dog parade and costume contest, children's games, music, food, and shopping.

The Wee Scots Gift Shop is open all three days at the Salado Museum on South Main Street.

Salado school alumni and Henry T. Waskow Post 4008 will host a Veterans Day Ceremony at 2 p.m. Nov. 11 on the grounds of the Civic Center near the memorial dedicated to the six Salado young men killed in World War II.

Veterans Day ceremony at Civic Center

The Salado School Alumni Association and the VFW Henry T. Waskow Post 4008 of Belton cordially invites veterans, their families, current and former students and teachers of Salado Schools and the public to the dedication ceremony of the Salado Veterans Memorial. The ceremony will be held on Veterans Day, 2 p.m. Nov. 11 on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center.

The guest speaker will be Dan West, Executive Director of the Texas VFW Foundation.

West was elected as State Quartermaster at the 99th Annual State Convention in Houston in June 2019. He was appointed as State Adjutant by State Commander Keith King in June 2019. West was also elected as National Council Member for the 2018-2022 term at the 98th Annual State Convention in Dallas in 2018. West served in the United States Marine Corps from 1983 to 1994 as an Infantryman, Platoon Sergeant and Marine Drill Instructor. His overseas service and his eligibility comes from service in Lebanon during the TWA Hijacking, the Korean Peninsula, and in Southwest Asia in Operation Desert Shield/Storm where he served with 1st Battalion, 1st Marines as a member of "Task Force Papa Bear" in the Al Buquan & Al Wafra oil fields during the ground invasion.

This Memorial was originally inspired by six Salado students who gave their lives in service to their country in World War II: Jessie Cecil Knight, Charles Edward Evans, John Wallace Porter, Curtis Edward Reue, Dallas Allen Bayer and Bill Morris.

Salado's first published yearbook, the 1947 Eagle, was dedicated to them. Their fellow students erected a Memorial in their memory in the late 1940s.

The memorial was a circle of rocks on the South end of the school campus. Inside the circle, they planted six crepe myrtles, one for each of their fallen classmates. Over the years, the reason why the rocks and the crepe myrtles were there was forgotten. Over time, the Memorial was removed. "No one knows how or when, it was just gone," said Salado alum Nancy Carter.

Please join the Salado alumni, as once again the new Memorial takes its place in front of the flagpole at the building where these young men attended school.

Lions Club refurbishes Gazebo at Civic Center

Many have no doubt already noticed this, but just in case there are any who have not, the gazebo on the Civic Center grounds recently received a much needed face lift.

The Salado Lions Club designated money raised by last year's Salado Lion's 12 Gifts of Christmas Fundraiser to go toward hiring Sandor Construction Company to work on the project.

The Lions repaired some damaged boards and railings, re-painted the entire structure, repaired some damages in the steps and re-painted them, installed new LED lighting, did some work on the stone picnic tables and benches located near the gazebo, and did some landscaping work around the gazebo as well.

"This was all due to the efforts of Past Lion President, Justin Gaidusek, the committee members who volunteered to assist with the planning of the project, the blessing of the school district and their participation in the planning of the project as the gazebo sits on their property, the committee who worked so hard on the 12 Gifts of Christmas Fundraiser, the local businesses who graciously sponsored that fundraiser, and the participation of all who purchased tickets for the fundraiser," said current Lions Club President Ray Don McIntosh.

He also said that he "believes and certainly hopes that the beautification of this gazebo and the surrounding area will be of great benefit and great enjoyment for many future events held in that area and he encourages everyone to come by and take a closer look if they haven't already. He also was reminded of a post on the Salado Facebook page awhile back in which someone posted a picture of a beautiful gazebo that was all decked out in wonderful Christmas decorations. The person who posted it asked if we could do something like that with our gazebo. President McIntosh proudly says now, "yes we can and I sure wish some creative person would; it would be such a sight to see!"

There will be a ribbon cutting on 5:30 p.m. Nov. 13.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Fed cuts interest rates signalling easy money is here to stay

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) started off November with a bang. At the close of the market on Thursday, October 31, it had a slight loss for the week but as news came out that the Federal Reserve Board had cut rates another quarter percent, it jumped upward almost instantly. That jump constituted most of the week's gain, 1.47%, and resulted in the SPX finishing the week at 3066.91, a new record high. To put this record high close in perspective, in late July, the Index stood at 3025, thus it is now at a record level that is only 1.36% higher than it was four months ago and 6.7% better than it was nearly two years ago in January 2018. In short, despite the headlines, not much has changed. The good news is we are holding our own with a slight gain.

The bond market failed to join in the celebration as the yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note fell 3.7 basis points for the week to close at 1.714%. In a bit of bond-related good news, the reduction in short-term rates by the Fed did bring those short-term rates down to about the same as the five-year note, thus making the yield curve essentially flat out to five years and from there on an upward slope. West Texas Intermediate crude oil surged upward 3.51% on Friday's good jobs report but still finished out the week down 1.01% at $56.10.

The Economy

The Federal Reserve cut its target short-term interest rate for the third time, bringing the benchmark down to a range between 1.5% and 1.75%. In its statement and in speeches by members of the board, it was clear that the Fed is not expecting to reduce rates any further unless there is a clear need to do so. This three-cut move is historically favorable in that for the past several decades, when the Fed has cut three times and then stopped, the market has been significantly higher six months later. More cuts than that are a sign that a recession is at hand and the markets have generally declined.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

At the same time as it cut interest rates, the Fed also announced it was injecting about $105 billion in short term liquidity into the money markets to cover the weekend. That sudden injection was on top of the planned weekly $60 billion funding it had announced earlier. The infusion was reportedly needed to partially offset the approximately $193 billion the Treasury is borrowing weekly on the short-term cash market as we work our way to a $1 trillion federal deficit this calendar year.

Nonfarm payrolls rose by 128,000 in October, better than the consensus estimate. Despite the increase in new hiring, the unemployment rate rose from 3.5% to 3.6%. Good, or at least, not-so-bad news was the order of the day as the ISM manufacturing survey for October rose from 47.8 to 48.3. While anything below 50 still indicates contraction, the good news is that the contraction rate appears to have decreased.

Yet another headline-grabbing announcement was that the U.S. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) grew by an annualized rate of 1.9% in the third quarter. That rate was a bit of a surprise as most estimates were that we would see something between 1.5% and 1.8%. While 1.9% is a good growth rate, it represents a substantial decline from the over 3% rate in the first quarter and is down from the second quarter's 2.0%. Evidence from October suggests that the slowing rate of growth will continue into the fourth quarter.

Digging a bit into the GDP report it appears that consumer purchases and government spending are about all that are keeping things going. While our economy is indeed based on consumer spending, credit card balances have been rising at an annualized rate of between 5% and 8% this year. It doesn't take much math to realize that both the sources of economic growth that are driving our economy are doing so largely from an ever-increasing debt load. Unless we can get the productive parts of our economy back online, this party will at some point come to an end.

The bottom line is that the three interest rate cuts by the Federal Reserve seem to have done the job of convincing investors and employers that easy money is here to stay. While consumer spending has leveled off, the personal consumption expenditures price index, a good measure of real inflation, fell 0.01% in September and is only up 1.33% from a year ago. That very muted increase in prices effectively gives a boost to the economy as wages are rising, on average about 2.9% per year, effectively leaving more money for the consumer to spend.

SISD success is because of our dedicated teachers

We are having a great school year so far. Our students have done very well in academics, agriculture, athletics, and fine arts. The following are just a few examples of their many achievements.

Our high school students competed in our first UIL Academic competition in Pflugerville this past Saturday and many of our students placed in the top five. Our FFA students have competed in various shows and LDE competitions this fall and have enjoyed a lot of success.

All three of our fall sports are having outstanding seasons. Our football and volleyball teams have both qualified for the playoffs. Our boys' and girls' cross country teams both qualified for the regional meet, and our girls' team and one of our boys have qualified for the state meet.

Our marching band is having another fantastic season, finishing in the top ten in three competitions and earning an excellent rating at the UIL marching contest as well as performing their outstanding halftime performance each week during halftime at our football games. Our choir is also having another excellent year of competitions and performances. Our theatre program will present their fall play this month on November 14 and 21 and then start preparing to defend their 2019 State Championship in One Act Play.

All of this is possible because we have dedicated and caring teachers and employees that work very hard to enable our students to reach their full potential. What is particularly impressive regarding the success of our students and school district is that we do all of this with one of the lowest amounts of funding in the state. Here is a comparison of the state and local funding per student of the school districts in our area and how much more funding we would receive per year if we were funded at the levels of those other school districts.

The differences in funding are due to the demographic differences of our student enrollments and also inequities in the state funding formulas. Thanks to our outstanding teachers and employees we will continue to provide a top notch education to our students on a very limited budget. Thanks also to our parents and community members for your support of our students and our school district.

California can't keep the lights on

Rich Lowry

California is staying true to its reputation as the land of innovation -- it is making blackouts, heretofore the signature of impoverished and war-torn lands, a routine feature of 21st-century American life.

More than 2 million people are going without power in Northern and Central California, in the latest and biggest of the intentional blackouts that are, astonishingly, California's best answer to the risk of runaway wildfires.

Power -- and all the goods it makes possible -- is synonymous with modern civilization. It shouldn't be a negotiable for anyone living in a well-functioning society, or even in California, which, despite its stupendous wealth and natural splendor, has blighted itself over the decades with mis-governance and misplaced priorities.

The same California that has been the seedbed of world-famous companies that make it possible for people to send widely viewed short missives of 280 characters or less, and share and like images of grumpy cats, isn't doing so well at keeping the lights on.

The same California that has boldly committed to transitioning to 50 percent renewable energy by 2025 -- and 100 percent renewable energy by 2045 -- can't manage its existing energy infrastructure.

The same California that has pushed its electricity rates to the highest in the contiguous United States through its mandates and regulations doesn't provide continuous access to that overpriced electricity.

California could have, if it wanted, pushed the utilities to focus on the resilience and safety of its current infrastructure -- implicated in some of the state's most fearsome recent fires -- as a top priority. Instead, its public utilities commission forced costly renewable energy initiatives on the utilities. Who cares about something as mundane as properly maintained power lines if something as supposedly epically important -- and politically fashionable -- as saving the planet is at stake?

Meanwhile, California has had a decadeslong aversion to properly clearing forests. The state's leaders have long been in thrall to the belief that cutting down trees is somehow an offense against nature, even though thinning helps create healthier forests. Biomass has been allowed to build up, and it becomes the kindling for catastrophic fires.

As Chuck DeVore of the Texas Public Policy Foundation points out, a report of the Western Governors' Association warned of this effect more than a decade ago, noting that "over time the fire-prone forests that were not thinned, burn in uncharacteristically destructive wildfires."

In 2016, then-Gov. Jerry Brown actually vetoed a bill that unanimously passed the state Legislature to promote the clearing of trees dangerously close to power lines.

There shouldn't be any doubt that California, susceptible to drought through its history and whipped by fierce, dry winds this time of year, is always going to have a fire problem. But there also shouldn't be any doubt that dealing with it this poorly is the result of a series of foolish, unrealistic policy choices.

California's overriding goal should have been safe, cheap and reliable power, a public good so basic that it's easy to take for granted. The state's focus on ideological fantasies has instead ensured it has none of the above.

Bell County Precinct 2 Constable Rolly Correa announced that he will seek re-election to the office in 2020.

"Since taking office in January 2013, I have enjoyed meeting many of the residents in this precinct and have served the duties of Pct. 2 Constable with due diligence and professionalism," Correa said. "The area of my service includes the communities of Salado, Holland, Bartlett and surrounding outlying areas of the precinct. Community Life

Solana Ranch recognized by Texas Forest Service for 15 years as Firewise Site

Solana Ranch, a 9,000-acre ranch that spreads across portions of Bell and Williamson County, was recently honored by the Texas Forest Service for 15 years of being a Firewise site.

According to the Texas Forest Service, people and their activities cause more than 90 percent of all wildfires in Texas. The largest number of human-caused wildfires is a result of careless debris burning. Other causes of wildfires include sparks from welding and grinding equipment, carelessly discarded smoking materials, vehicles' exhaust systems and arson.

The Texas Forest Service recommends that custodians of wildland areas take some of the following steps to reduce the possibility of wildfires and the intensity of those fires that do flame up.

Reducing vegetation on your property—or on a larger scale to protect a subdivision or community—can dramatically decrease the spread and intensity of wildfire and increase the chances for firefighters to control the fire. Help stop or slow down the spread of wildfire by thinning, trimming trees and removing ladder fuels including immature trees, shrubs and dead or downed branches which can carry a fire into the tops of trees.

Firewise Site

The steps to becoming a Firewise site are several and include organization, planning and implementation.

Organization
Form a board/committee that's comprised of residents and other applicable wildfire stakeholders. Consider inviting the local fire department, state forestry agency, elected officials, emergency manager, and if applicable the property management company to participate. This group will collaborate on identifying the site's boundary and size.

Firewise sites need to have a minimum of 8 individual single family dwelling units and are limited to a maximum of 2,500. Multiple sites can be located within a single large master-planned community/HOA.

Planning
Obtain a written wildfire risk assessment from your state forestry agency or fire department. The assessment should be a community-wide view that identifies areas of successful wildfire risk reduction and areas where improvements could be made. Emphasis should be on the general conditions of homes and related home ignition zones. The assessment is a living document and needs to be updated every five years.

Implementation
Host an outreach event and work with neighbors on addressing items in the action plan. These efforts will go towards your site's annual wildfire risk reduction investment.

Collect information from residents in your community on volunteer hours per dwelling in the community. At a minimum, each site is required to annually invest the equivalent of one volunteer hour per dwelling unit in wildfire risk reduction actions. If your site has identified 100 homes within its boundary, then 100 hours of work or the monetary equivalent, based on the independent sector value of volunteer time, need to be completed for that year.

Senior Activites for Nov.

The Belton Senior Activities Center, located at Belton Senior Activity Center 842 S. Mitchell Street, has the following events planned.

Country Western Dance is 6:30-9:30 p.m. Nov. 7 with Good Ol' Boys performing. Cost is $5 per person. Attendees are encouraged to bring a snack dish to share.

New Legacy Project presenting free local concert in Jarrell

Nashville, Tenn - Cutting edge Christian artists, New Legacy Project, will be in concert on Wednesday, November 13, 7 p.m., at New Hope Baptist Church in Jarrell. Formerly known as the Blackwood Legacy, the Nashville-based recording artists are on tour throughout Texas this November.

Early this year Daywind Records released NLP's newest breakout song "I'll Stand," to radio. I'll Stand was written by tenor singer, Paul Secord, and was inspired by the growing number of US Veterans and their families who aren't able to find support as they struggle through illnesses and mental health issues as a result of their service. The group's single "I'll Stand" is being placed in the hands of our Veterans, along with a letter of thanks, a bible, and other valuable resource information. NLP is working with churches across the US to deliver these "thank you" packages into Veterans Hospitals and care homes.

NLP owner, Rick Price, says "We just want to express our love and appreciation for the men and women who have defended us without thought of their own comfort or safety. They are the ones who give us the freedom to do what we do every day -- worship with complete freedom in our great Nation. You can't give enough to out give their sacrifice."

New Hope Baptist Church is located at 1700 County Road 305. For more information, you can visit the group website at <http://www.NewLegacyProject.com> or visit them on Facebook. You may also contact the church at 512-746-2828.

Lady Eagles fall in 4 sets to Canyon Lake

With a block by Eden Farley, the Salado Lady Eagles volleyball season came to an end in Georgetown in a four set loss to the Canyon Lake Lady Hawks.

Salado lost the first set in overtime 27-25, after leading by as much as eight -- 22-14 -- needing just three points to put the Hawks away. On the strength of Caty Moore's serve, the Lady Hawks closed to within four. They tied Salado at 24-24 on Kayla Wunderlich's serve. The girls tied again at 25-25 but a missed kill by Lainey Taylor and a kill by Caroline Kullberg gave Canyon Lake the win.

Salado bounced back from the overtime loss by wiping out the Lady Hawks in the second set 25-11. The Lady Hawks could not handle Breigh Oliver's serve as Salado jumped out to a 7-0 lead. Oliver had two aces in her service while Landry Rogers and Taylor both had kills.

Salado went on another tear, scoring four points on Megan Manibusan's service, including an ace, to lead 12-2. Salado maintained its lead, stretching it to a 13-point difference during a five-point run on Oliver's second service. Rogers had back-to-back kills in the run and then scored the final service point for Salado in the 25-11 second set win.

But that same team didn't seem to stay on the court as Canyon Lake ran up a 12-4 lead in the third set, going on to win it 25-12.

Salado stayed close in the fourth set until Canyon ripped off a six-point run to lead 21-9, followed by another four-point run for the 25-10 final score.

Rogers led Salado with 16 kills and an ace. Oliver led Salado in serving with five aces. Manibusan had two aces for Salado. Amy Manning had seven kills, while Taylor had four, Haleigh Wilk, three and Reese Preston, Taylor Rich and Katie Law all had one.

Salado Lady Eagles ended the season with a 23-19 record as the second place team in District 27-4A volleyball, behind Liberty Hill.

Canyon Lake will play the winner of the Bellville-El Campo match.

Eagles' run game grounded by Mexia in 2nd district loss

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado Eagles struggled to gain ground against the stacked Mexia Black Cat defense, producing their lowest offensive numbers of the season in a 21-6 District 8-4A loss.

The loss drops Salado to a tie for third place with the Fairfield Eagles, who they will face Nov. 8 at Salado Eagle Field with kickoff at 7:30 p.m.

The Eagles managed just 189 yards on the ground and when Salado attempted the pass, it turned out horribly as Hutton Haire was picked off twice on five attempts. The Eagles had just 4 yards passing.

After the Eagles forced Mexia to a three-and-out series, the Black Cats nipped a drive when Prince Banks intercepted a Haire pass near midfield

Nine plays later, Trey Holdman scored on a 12 yard run 5:09 in the first. Gustavo Martinez toed the point-after for a 7-0 lead.

Salado, after the ensuing kickoff, drove seven plays and set up for a fourth-and-3 field goal at the Mexia 18. Wrook Brown missed the 35-yard field goal, the first kick he has missed this year. Mexia took advantage of the missed field goal and drove 80 yards in 12 plays, capped by a 1-yard dive in the middle by Jarrell Wiley. Martinez kicked the extra point for a 14-0 lead with 7:42 left in the first half

Salado took the second half kick off and drove to the Black Cat 27-yard line when the wheels came off. A personal foul moved the ball to the 41 yard line. After a short run on second, Haire was sacked for an 8-yard loss to move the ball to midfield for a fourth-and-forver. Salado punted to the Mexia 15-yard line midway through the third.

Nine plays later, Proctor ran through the Eagles defense for a 24-yard touchdown with 2:15 left in the third. Martinez kicked the point-after for a 21-0 lead.

Salado scored on the next drive, 58 yards in 15 plays, capped by a 10 yard run by Hunter Turk. Brown missed the extra point, the first he has missed this year to make the score 21-6 with 7:29 left in the game.

Even though Brown recovered his own onside kick, the Eagles were not able to convert the opportunity into a score, giving the ball back to Mexia at the Black Cat 9-yard line with just over four minutes left.

Kofi Stoglin sacked Proctor at the 5 on third down, forcing Mexia to punt out of its end zone.

The Eagles got the ball at the Mexia 39-yard line with 1:33 left in the game but Mexia sealed the score with an interception by Lemarion Miller.

JV Red wins

Salado JV Red Eagles shut out Mexia 30-0 on Oct. 31 to improve to 5-4.

Aydin Keating and Aidan Wilson both had two rushing touchdowns in the game. Bo Sandor had four point after kicks and a team safety.

Outstanding offensive players were Aydin Keating, Aidan Wilson and Cooper Scott.

The defense was led by Nic Bates, Beau Hill, Cooper Carroll, Derek Alvarado.

SHS Theatre Fall Show Nov. 14, 21

Swallows and Amazons on stage

Salado High School's annual fall play will dip into immersive theatre with rolling pirate ships, clappers and kazoos, and actors speaking directly to the audience in Swallows and Amazons on Nov. 14 and 21 at 7 p.m. in the SHS cafeteria.

This family-friendly show will offer a hamburger/hot dog dinner on the cafeteria patio before the show, starting at 5:30 p.m.

The public may purchase special meal deals with chips and a drink for $5.

Arthur Ransome's famous and much-loved children's classic is brought to life in Helen Edmundson's theatrical adaptation.

When John, Susan, Itty and Roger are granted their wish to set sail on their beloved boat Swallow, they know it will be the summer holiday of a lifetime. But their adventure truly begins when they encounter Nancy and Peggy, the self-proclaimed Amazon Pirates, and the dastardly Captain Flint.

This adaptation was first performed at the Bristol Old Vic in 2010. It had its London West End premiere in 2011.

Tickets at Salado's performance are $5 per person and will help fund the state champion one-act play team (SOAP) in their pursuit of a fourth state championship.

Newly formed Girl Scout Troop now accepting members

Newly formed Girl Scout Troop 21206 is now accepting members from the Salado community. Founded in 1912, the Girl Scout Leadership Experience is a one-of-a-kind leadership development program for girls, with proven results. It is based on time-tested methods and research-backed programming that help girls take the lead—in their own lives and in the world. Research shows that girls learn best in an all-girl, girl-led, and girl-friendly environment. Girl Scouts is a place where she'll practice different skills, take on leadership positions, and discover ways she wants to make a difference in her community.

At Girl Scouts, guided by supportive adults and peers, girls develop their leadership potential through age appropriate activities that enable them to discover their values, skills, and the world around them; connect with others in a multicultural environment; and take action to make a difference in their world. These activities are designed to be girl led, cooperative, and hands-on—processes that create high-quality experiences conducive to learning. Everything a Girl Scout does centers around STEM, the outdoors, development of life skills, and entrepreneurship, and is designed to meet her where she is now and to grow along with her.

"Girl Scouts was founded over 100 years ago to provide girls with opportunities to lead in areas typically reserved for boys: the outdoors, sports, or trades. Times have certainly changed, yet Girl Scouts is as important today as it was in 1912. Confidence is a 21st century skill," said Paula Bookidis, Girl Scouts of Central Texas CEO. "In fact, I fell in love with Girl Scouts four years ago, after witnessing the impact it had on my own daughter. I cannot wait to watch how Troop 21206 will learn and grow as they begin this exciting journey!"

Troop 21206 grades k-6 is excited to begin their Girl Scout Journey. This year, the girls plan to complete a journey exploring engineering; visiting hospitals, police station, Bell County jail, local museums; learning first aid; camping; hiking; keeping Salado beautiful by participating in community clean-up days, and much much more!

"We are so proud and excited to establish the very first Girl Scouts troop here in our wonderful village of Salado. The girls are thrilled and ready to learn, grow, and help our community!" Troop Leader Jenny Cade said.

If you would like to support the troop or get your daughter involved in the fun, please contact Jenny (js_cade@yahoo.com) If you are interested in volunteering with Girl Scouts, learning more information about the organization, or starting your own troop, please visit www.gsctx.org or contact Girl Scouts of Central Texas at customer-care@gsctx.org.

Traditional Highland Games are a highlight at Salado Scottish Festival

Salado Highland Games are the oldest in the state of Texas, but Highland Games trace their origin as far back -- some claim -- as 2000 BC.

According to the website, scotland.com, Highland Games are "a unique mix of the sporting, the cultural and the social. They usually comprise a program of field and track events, piping and Highland dancing competitions and 'heavy events' like the tug-o-war, the hammer throw and tossing the caber."

The website asserts that "It's said the Highland Games originate from Ireland in 2000 BC and that they crossed the water to Scotland with the fourth and fifth century migrations of the Scotti into Dalriada (Argyll) and beyond."

Highland Games suffered a mortal blow with the Act of Proscription in 1746 following the crushing of the Jacobite Rebellion, according to the website. "The act outlawed Scottish dress, customs and gatherings and was in force for almost 40 years."

"After its repeal the Games started to revive and the fortunes of the national customs were given a tremendous boost with the visit to Scotland in 1822 of George IV," the website states.

The Highland Games in Salado include the following traditional events:

Tossing the Caber: The origin of this most traditional of all Scottish athletic events is obscure, even though records of its existence ("ye tossing of ye bar") date back to the 16th Century and may have begun as a military discipline to breach fortifications. The object is to toss the 100 to 200 pound, 18-19 foot long caber, end-over-end so that it lands with the bottom of the small end pointing away from the contestant. The athlete with the straightest toss is the winner. Distance has no bearing. Contestants have 3 tries.

Weight Toss & Weight Throw: These events involve rounds using two metal weights, one of 28 pounds and the other 56 pounds thrown for distance, with the 56 lb weight also thrown for height. The weights are traditionally block or bell-shaped with a curved or angular grip on a short chain.

Hammer Throw: The hammer throw became popular in the Scottish Highlands as a pastime among strong, young men who gathered in the late afternoon at the local blacksmith shop. There, the smith's long-handled 22-pound hammer was thrown to prove one's strength and agility. The official weight of the present day hammer is 22 pounds. The contestant is given three throws and is scored on the greatest distance achieved.

Tossing the Sheaf: In this contest, a 16-pound sheaf of hay, enclosed in a burlap bag, is tossed by pitch fork over a free swinging, horizontal bar. The athletes have three opportunities to toss the sheaf at each height of the bar, which is raised at 6-inch intervals until all contestants, but one are eliminated.

Putting the Stone or Stone Toss: The event, known in Gaelic as "Clachneart," is another test of strength and coordination common to Scottish games. Thought to be related to if not derived from the ancient, "stone of strength," the manly art has a history as old as Scotland itself. The stone weighs about 16 pounds and is 7 3/4 inches in diameter. It is thrown much like the modern shot put. Judging is on the longest of the three throws only.

Highland Dancing was once an athletic event. Many were solo dances of the Highland men and are so vigorous that one must be in top physical shape to perform them.

Highland Fling: The oldest of the traditional dances of Scotland is the Highland Fling. This is believed to be a dance of victory in battle. The dancer performed with a Scottish shield, called a "Targe." Since the Targe contained a sharp spike extending out of the center, the dancer had to be very careful in the execution of his steps.

Hornpipe: This is also considered one of the National dances and the competitors wear the dress of the Royal Navy. It depicts the sailors in their daily lives on board ship.

Sword Dance: The Sword Dance (Ghillie Callum) is thought to be the oldest of the Scottish dances. Sword and scabbard were placed on the ground in the form of a cross and if the dancer's feet managed to avoid touching either one, it was believed the clan would be blessed with good fortune in the coming battle. If the sword or scabbard were disarranged, the prediction was defeat. In the modern dance, the top sword is in direct line front to back, with the hilt towards the dance. The slip in footwork, formerly interpreted as an evil omen, now provides one of the principal methods of eliminating contestants.

Seann Triubhas (pronounced Shawn Trues): Many of the steps in this dance are intended to express the Scotsman's displeasure for the old law which at one time forbade the wearing of kilts. Literally translated Seann Triubhas means "old trews," or old trousers. The name is a derisive reference to the law enforced after the unsuccessful Rebellions of 1745 in support of Bonnie Prince Charlie when kilts, were forbidden. Many of the steps of the dance were intended to indicate the Scotsman's efforts to "kick off the trews."

Piping and Drumming contests include these:

Lilt: In recent years, the Lilt has been performed both in this country and in Scotland. The dress is different from the kilt worn in the Highland Games. The girls wear what is called the Aboyne Dress, named for the Aboyne Highland Games in Scotland where it is forbidden for women to wear the kilt. This dance are very graceful in appearance.

The Piobaireachd: The Piobaireachd is the classic music of the great Highland bagpipe. It can be mournful or exultant, but it always has a spirit of grandeur which accords with the wild mountains and dark glens. This is the "Great Music" that is used to welcome the chief's new heir into the world or to mourn the passing of a warrior.

Individual Drumming contests in which the judge is considering the introductory rolls, tone of drum, tempo, execution, rhythm and expression of quality and variety of beatings. Drumming contestants are always accompanied by one or two pipers Individual Piping contests in which the judge is considering the tone and tuning of the bagpipes being played. Timing, expression and execution of the movements required in the tune are most important.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

If you make it a practice to play your cards well — even in relatively unimportant situations — you will in the process increase your chances of playing the cards well when it really matters.

Take this case from a rubber-bridge game where you're in four spades and West leads a diamond. There seems to be nothing to the play; apparently you'll make 11 tricks, neither more nor less. But as the play progresses, making 12 tricks becomes a real possibility. While it is granted that this is not an earthshaking development, you'll have something to talk about if you can accomplish the feat.

After taking the diamond lead with the ace and drawing two rounds of trump, you play the king of diamonds and ruff a diamond. To your surprise, you learn that West started with seven diamonds. Moreover, when you next play the A-K-Q of hearts, discarding a club, West follows suit each time, and when you then lead the four of hearts, East discards a club.

All of this enables you to determine that West started with precisely two spades, four hearts and seven diamonds, so he simply can't have a club!

This knowledge of West's hand would ordinarily be useless — something like knowing that the square root of 998,001 is 999. But here you can take advantage of what you've learned by simply discarding your jack of clubs on the four of hearts!

This leaves West in an untenable position. He wins the heart with the jack, but because all his remaining cards are diamonds, he must lead one. You ruff in dummy, discarding your queen of clubs, and wind up making 12 tricks instead of the 11 you had counted at the start.

At rubber bridge, this extra trick might not matter very much to you, but keeping in practice on hands like this one will serve you well when a more pressing need for such an effort comes along.
