Voting at cafeteria 7 a.m.-7 p.m. May 3

Early voter turnout low in trustee election

With one day left in early voting, 136 Saladoans cast ballots in the Salado Independent School District Board of Trustee Election.

Election day voting will be 7 a.m.-7 p.m. May 3 at the Thomas Arnold Elementary cafeteria.

Five candidates have filed for two three-year terms on the Salado school board.

They will appear in the following manner on the ballot: Mike Gunter, Mike Wiley, Jerry Adams, Carse Williams and Tom Berrier.

The following questions were asked of each candidate and their answers appear here:

1. What do you feel is the single most important issue facing Salado schools? How will you address this as a Trustee?

2. What do you favor as a building program to handle the growth in Salado schools?

3. Is now the time to work for a bond issue? If not, when is the time?

4. How can the school district find, hire and retain a qualified, effective high school principal?

5. What do you feel is the most important quality the school should seek in employing a high school principal? Why?

6. What is the role of the board member in terms of the following relationships?

Students:

Parents:

Teachers:

Principals:

Superintendent:

7. What specific programs do you feel can be improved upon, modified, eliminated or implemented to improve the TAAS, SAT and ACT scores of SHS students?

8. Is there a balance between academics and extra curricular? Have we struck that balance in SISD?

Michael K. Gunter

An investment broker with E.D. Jones in Belton, he and wife Nancy have four children: Michael, an SHS freshman; Matt an eighth grader; Mark, a second grader and Marissa, a kindergartener.

Question #1: "We are facing many important issues right now, but I think the most important issue today is finding the right high school principal. I would like to see the committee that has been appointed diligently search for and attempt to attract applicants that can and will share the vision of top-quality education at SISD."

Question #2: "I feel the program that is currently being worked on, that of a middle school concept with a fifth and sixth grade wing and a seventh and eighth grade wing, is a good one. We need to work to make sure we have as many of the other facilities as we can financially justify, such as a functional library and a functional cafeteria."

Question #3: "NOW IS THE TIME! We need to get this done and be prepared to be dynamic and visionary in our planning."

Question #4: "We look until we find the right chemistry. That individual is out there or could be right here now. It amazes me that we would suggest or consider selling our children short by not searching far and wide. Sometimes you find that right individual in your own backyard, but you have no way of knowing that until you have searched. I do understand that money (salary) is an issue, but the quality of life in Salado is a strong selling point that we can use to attract the right individual. Whoever we hire, though, we need to support them and not immediately start whittling away at them before they get a chance to show what they can do."

Question #5: "That individual needs to have and be willing to share the vision of quality education and be dedicated to seeing that vision come to life. They need to be able to work as a team player with the board, administrators, and teachers and be a role model for our students, teachers and the community."

Question #6: "To Students: role model encourager, sup-

TAAS results

released for exit-level exams

Salado ISD recently received the results of Texas Assessment of Academic Skills exit level test, given to sophomores earlier this year.

The results show that 67 percent of sophomores mastered all three portions of the test. As eighth graders, 59 percent of the class mastered all three portions of the test.

The sophomores scored highest on the writing portion, with 91 percent showing mastery, compared to 89 percent as eight-graders.

In reading, 89 percent showed mastery, compared to 68 percent mastery as eight-graders.

In math 72 percent showed mastery, compared to 61 percent mastery as eight-graders.

Last year's sophomore class showed 96 percent mastery in writing, 90 percent mastery in reading, and 77 percent mastery in math.

"We have again done better than the state average," said Salado ISD Supt. Steven Ervin. "The teachers have worked long and hard this year."

Students in grades three through eight are taking the TAAS test this week, as well as those who failed one or more portions of the exit-level TAAS earlier this year.

Comptroller opens new office in Bell County

by John Eubanks

State Comptroller John Sharp officially opened his new taxpayer service office in Belton April 24 with a ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by various officials from Bell County.

The office is located at 2429 North Main Street, in the Grothway Square Shopping Center, which includes Little Caesar's Pizza.

The Comptroller's new office will serve Central Texas taxpayers, providing quicker, more convenient access to tax information, applications for business tax permits, and assistance in filing state tax returns.

Introduced as someone who has "saved taxpayers over eight billion dollars" during his six-year tenure as state comptroller, Sharp said it makes sense to have an office in an area that created 2,300 jobs between February 1996 and the same month this year.

He said "a heck of a lot of people from Bell County" were having to go to Austin to do business with the State Comptroller's office.

The office will also be the headquarters for Nancy Felix, the Comptroller's Local Government Assistance Representative for a 14-county regional stretching from Belton to San Angelo.

The Comptroller's office once had a Belton field office, but it was closed in 1986 to cut costs.

The phone number for the Belton office is (817) 933-9484. Taxpayers may also call the Comptroller's toll-free tax assistance line at 1-800-252-5555.

Institute of Humanities elects new directors

The board of trustees of the Institute for the Humanities at Salado convened April 20 to elect new trustees. The two new members of the board are Robert Berdahl, President of the University of Texas at Austin; and Doug Foard, Executive Secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, Washington, D.C.

The following officers of the executive committee are in place: Pete Jennings, Vice-President; Renee Fuller, Secretary; and Luther Brewer, Vice-President and Treasurer.

Honored for completing their term of service on the board of trustees were Dianne Delisi and Carolyn Howard, Temple; William Goetzmann and James Shultz, Austin; S.R. Greenwood, Salado; and Richard Eason, Georgetown.

Ronald A. Carson, Director of the Institute for the Medical Humanities in Galveston is a new member of the International Council of Advisors of the Institute for the Humanities at Salado.

CAPITOL COMMENT
U.S. SENATOR
KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

Agony on April 15

By now most of you have endured April 15, Tax Day. This is an appropriate time to cite a few statistics which illustrate what makes Tax Day possible:

- * 136,000 — The number of employees at the IRS and elsewhere in the government responsible for administering the tax laws.
- * $13.7 billion — The amount of tax dollars spent by the IRS to enforce the tax code.
- * 8 billion — The number of pages of forms and instructions sent out by the IRS every year.

Congress is trying to find ways to let Americans keep more of their hard-earned income. We want to stop penalizing young couples for getting married by increasing the standard deduction for married couples filing jointly. In 1993, 40 percent of married couples in the United States paid higher taxes than their unmarried friends ... just because they are married. Our tax code is biased against marriages and should be changed.

A lower capital gains tax rate is the key to America's ability to save, invest, create new jobs and generate cutting-edge technology. Yet our current tax code punishes men and women who save and invest. Lowering the capital gains rate would bring immediate relief to homeowners, small investors, small businesses, workers, farmers, homeowners, and the elderly. It would entice billions of dollars of tied-up capital back into the productive economy.

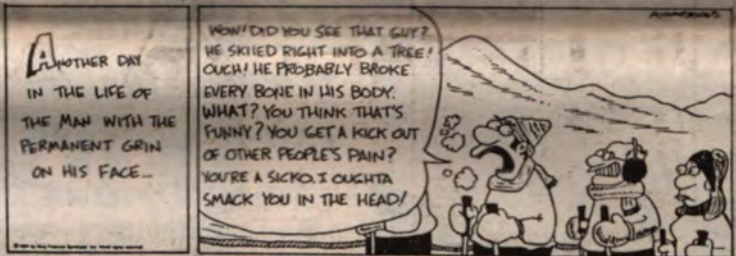

We want to cut estate taxes so the rewards of a lifetime of hard work and striving are no longer wiped out by a death in the family. Anyone who has had to struggle to save the family farm or family-owned business after an untimely death knows this is perhaps the cruelest tax the government imposes, exacted at a time of sorrow and distress.

I don't think most Americans object to taxes in principle; we all know some taxes must be paid to provide for a national defense, for infrastructure, for police and schools and for other services. But what bothers us is how much we pay compared to what we're getting in return that we didn't ask for — regulatory overkill, government intrusion into our private lives, the usurpation of property rights.

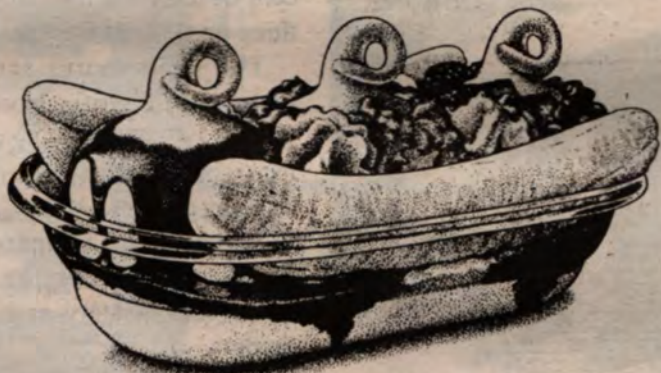

Long ago, the authors of the Federalist Papers warned, "It will be of little avail to the people that the laws are made by men of their own choice if the laws be so voluminous that they cannot be read, or so incoherent that they cannot be understood."

In contrast to this goal of simplicity, our current tax code is excessively expensive to comply with and nearly impossible to understand. It is time to simplify the tax code and give hard-working Americans more of their money back:

Early voter turnout shows apathy in local school board election

Saladoans are three days away from the annual school board election. At this point in time there appears to be every indication of a light to moderate turnout. At press time Monday a total of less than 4 percent of the eligible voters in the district had cast absentee ballots - a normally reliable predictor of what will take place on election day.

Voters stayed away in droves from the "Meet The Candidates" forum last week. Fewer than 40 villagers attended the one pre-election opportunity they had to become acquainted with the candidates who have offered their time and effort to serve on the school board.

Just another potential sign of disinterest and apathy which is almost oxymoronic, considering that within the past six months the number of registered voters in the Salado ISD has grown from 2600 to 2906.

This 10-plus percent jump in registration highlights the rapid growth in the district's population and should also indicate a growing interest in village politics.

Unfortunately the latter does not appear to be the case at the present time.

By 7 o'clock this Saturday evening, when the two winners from a field of five candidates are announced, the total number of citizens taking time to vote will give us a more objective picture of just how interested we are in the one election held each year that is closest, in terms of distance and importance, to the residents of this community.

It would be a shame, almost a disgrace, if the total votes cast represents less than a fourth of the registered voters in the school district.

Some of our more cynical observers of village elections

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

have quipped that the only thing that brings out voters in large numbers in Salado is a ballot dealing with the possible assessment of tax dollars.

They use, as proof of their pessimistic opinions, the large number of voters taking part in the most recent school bond election and incorporation vote.

Both reportedly failed by high percentages thanks, in large part, to the anticipated costs successfully denounced by "penny-wise and pound-foolish" ad valorem taxpayers. At least that is what many voters noted in post election interviews.

APATHY OR WHAT?

Another area that should be of concern to Villagers, in addition to the somewhat lackadaisical attitude towards the upcoming school board election, is the general let-down in support of the one major organization that serves both as a quasi-governmental and business support group - the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

At the end of the first four months of the current chamber year, a total of only 229 members had paid their dues as compared to 340 last year. This unusual 33 percent drop not only cuts into the budgetary needs of the chamber but also points out what appears to be an apathetic feeling towards a group that is dedicated to serving both the commercial and residential citizens within the village.

The chamber serves as a coordinating agent within the community as well as a sounding board for various voices either seeking redress or promoting new ideas for a better way of life in the village.

No other group over the years has worked harder to do as much good as the local chamber. Without these good people who make up the chamber, there would be no one to operate Pace Park; no Art Fair; no forum for those wishing to improve the community from within or without.

There would be no business committee thus leaving merchants to their own devices. Not to mention major funding for the youth programs and support of the village's main meeting place - the civic center. The list is almost endless up to and including lighting Main Street.

The local fledgling COPs program is also suffering from lack of financial support due in part to the chamber's current budget problem which in turn goes back to the lack of support that comes from a large dues paying membership.

The other part missing in the financial support of the COPs program, that serves the business and residential sections of the village, is lack of financial interest from a few businesses and nearly all of the main residential district - Mill Creek!

PROBLEM NEEDS SOLVING

All this lack of attention to the needs of the community, from non-voting in a school board election.... to diminished support of the chamber of commerce and the local Citizens on Patrol.... to an indifferent attitude on the part of newcomers willing to join the weary, always faithful veteran volunteers.... and finally to the lack of appreciation given to those who accept leadership roles in the organizations that serve this growing village..... all these shortcomings, if left unchecked, will lead us down the path to disaster if we are not careful.

Salado is right in the middle of what is predictably one of the hottest economic and population growth areas of the State.

If we are not prudent and farsighted and do not take an active part in what will be taking place in and around the village in the months and years ahead, we could easily wind up with an area surrounded by junk - both residentially and commercially - at which time the values of our lovely homes and businesses will decline and we will wonder what hit us!

Worrying about slight increases in taxes; neglecting our responsibilities as voters and taking little or no interest in the future of the village as well as showing an unwillingness to join our volunteer friends and neighbors who contribute so much to the viable organizations within the village..... will create a dismal combination that can produce nothing but a one way ticket to nowhere.

NEXT WEEK

Next week we will review the House version of the school property tax reform legislation that passed and is now being considered by the Senate. At last sighting, lawmakers had once again allowed certain businesses to escape the tax collector thanks to the heavy hand of the lobby.

This in turn is decreasing the amount of savings taxpayers were hoping would come their way as a result of the reform movement.

What was once a modest plan to help property owners has now turned into pure slight-of-hand nonsense. It would be best to shelve the entire disaster before citizens end up with a tax bill double or triple the property tax savings. As predicted! And as expected!

Galveston Historical Foundation Tour of Homes set May 3-4, 10-11

For almost a quarter of a century, Galveston Historical Foundation has opened the doors of some of the island's finest privately-owned, restored houses during the Galveston Historic Homes Tour.

On May 3, 4, 10 and 11, springtime visitors will enjoy guided tours of ten historic homes showcasing Galveston's 19th- and early 20th-century architecture.

"Each of the homes on tour has a unique history. Some have survived devastating fires, Galveston's 1900 hurricane, and, in many cases, years of abandonment and neglect; yet they remain vital parts of our community," said Gina Spagnola, the event's director. "We're proud to have played a role in their preservation and very pleased to share these homes with our visitors."

The 1887 Alexander A. Allen Home, 1110 Sealy, is one of the highlights of this year's tour. The turreted house sits in a lush cottage garden. Inside, the influence of English designer William Morris is evident in the romantic mix of antique and contemporary furnishings.

Among the other nine houses on tour is the Powhatan S. Wren Home, 1402 Broadway. Originally built in 1873, this colorful cottage was enlarged in 1885 and now features exceptional Victorian interiors. The 1907 Morris Wansker Home, 1817 Sealy, features collections of Oriental and French antiques, heirloom cut-glass and hand-painted china.

Each home will be open for continuous guided tours throughout all four days of the event. Tour hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays, May 3 and 10, and noon to 6 p.m., Sundays, May 4 and 11. Tickets may be used during both weekends of the Homes Tour. Each ticket provides one admission to each home on tour.

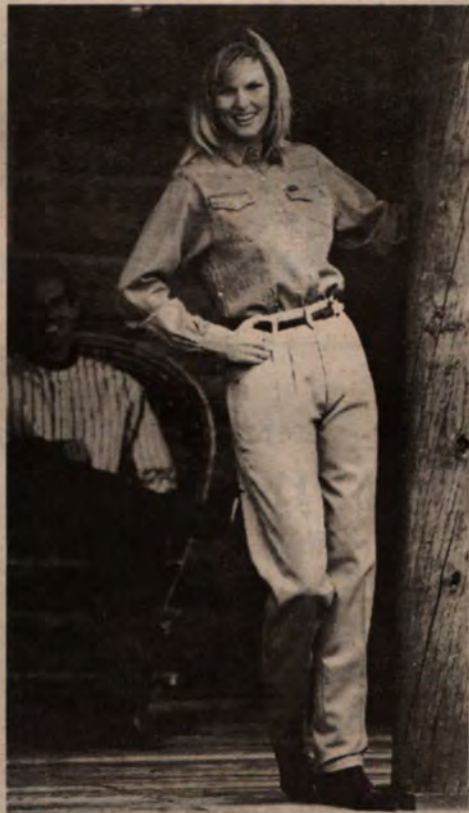

Visitors will receive an illustrated Homes Tour catalogue with a map and descriptions of each home; guests set their own pace and route. Complimentary shuttle service connects each home on tour as well as 1859 Ashton Villa, 2328 Broadway, and The Strand Visitors Center, 2016 Strand.

Advance purchase discount tickets are available for $13 per person through Friday, May 2, only. After May 2, all tickets will be on sale for $15 per person at each home on tour, The Strand Visitors Center and 1859 Ashton Villa.

Living Room Theatre sets May 17 play

Dr. Raymond Carver says that the Living Room Theatre of Salado, a new theatre production company, will produce a new play, Sentimental Journey, by Texas author Mike Boren, 7 p.m. May 17 in the Salado Civic Center, Meadows Auditorium.

Tickets will be available at the door, and the performance is open to everyone.

Carver, Secretary of the group, reports that the Living Room Theatre has been incorporated and established as yet another Salado arts venture.

Carolyn Britt, President of the Living Room Theatre, says the new organization has been experimenting during the past three months to develop policies and procedures for presenting shows in private living rooms and public places. She says annual subscriptions will be available (to cover costs of mailing and printing) for $5 per mailing address. Subscribers will be notified of four shows which will be produced beginning in the fall of this year and presented every other month, and reservations for attendance will be taken on a first-come-first-served basis. Cost for each show is an additional $5 per person.

According to Judy Greene, Vice President, response to programs which were presented in January and March exceeded expectations. A. C. Greene's The Highland Park Woman, followed by Dr. Carver's Profiles of Texans. All programs featured local

Water safety

It is the recreation season and park rangers at Belton and Stillhouse Hollow Lake are at it again! They are among the 85 park rangers at the Fort Worth District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' 25 lakes who have been stressing the importance of water safety to lake visitors over the years.

The efforts of park rangers at Belton and Stillhouse Hollow include programs at local schools in surrounding areas reaching as far away as Cameron, Bartlett, and Copperas Cove. Even though the target ages are fourth and fifth graders, school children of all ages have participated in the programs.

The two lakes have other ways of spreading their water safety message. In 1996, during Labor Day weekend, a water safety banner bearing the Corps' castle logo and the message "Play It Safe, Wear Your Life Jackets" was flown by airplane over both lakes, an idea of Ranger Becky Brock. The banner will be used again during the 1997 peak holiday weekends: Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

actors and were performed in homes in Temple and Salado.

"It's a chance for Saladoans to hear people perform some good shows by good authors in the comfort of their living rooms," says Pete Jennings, Treasurer of the group. "And when things get slow, I do rope tricks," he said. "No, I don't, but if they ever really need me to, I would."

The May 17 performance is the last of three events scheduled without fanfare under the auspices of the new group. Subscriptions for the 1997-98 season will be available at that date. For further information, call Dr. Carver at 947-3104.

Gallery Announces Print Release

Temple Gallery announces the release of G. Harvey's "Texas Independence - Austin" for early Fall. Bill Strain, owner of the Gallery, states that this is the first time in the past 11 years that G. Harvey has published an image of The State Capitol in Austin with an early century setting.

G. Harvey's previous two Capitol releases are very hard to find and very expensive to acquire if found. The publisher expects a very early sellout. Mr. Strain, one of the state's largest G. Harvey dealers, cautions Harvey enthusiasts not to procrastinate and to call Temple Gallery if they wish to reserve a print (773-3535.)

He will make sure excellent people are hired. He will let them to do their jobs but he will hold them accountable when they don't. He is very independent and he will stick to his principles. Plus he takes my little brother and me fishing a lot.

porter and advocate. To Parents: A listening, understanding and sympathetic ear, encouraging them to use proper channels. To Teachers: A listening, understanding and supportive relationship with use of proper channels. To Principals:

A supportive, open relationship with a clear understanding of goals and objectives. To Superintendent: Direct, open and frank communication with a clear understanding of goals and objectives, on both parts."

Question #7: "We have begun to implement more college preparatory classes through the math, science and English honors programs and need to implement more honors level programs, perhaps in history and social studies that encourage focus on higher level thinking skills which prepare our college bound students to take the SAT and ACT tests. We need to encourage more participation in UIL competition, which has a proven track record for helping students achieve higher scores. As far as TAAS scores are concerned, we already have some remedial and extra-help programs in place, which we need to continue. According to Dr. Mike Moses, Texas Commissioner of Education, 'we need to teach reading writing and computing, the basics, and teach them well! I think having our teachers and administrators complete a Mission Statement each year might be helpful to encourage focus on the 'task at hand.'"

Mike Wiley

A financial advisor for the Texas Methodist Foundation, Wiley is the husband of Julie and father of Mark, a student at Oklahoma University and Brook, a Salado High School junior.

Question #1: "I think building a new school for our students is the most important issue. I would offer a common sense financial plan to build that new facility, one which will have the least possible impact on our taxpayers."

Question #2: "I favor building on the present campus. My preference probably would be to build a new high school, although I am not dead-set on that as the only option."

Question #3: "I would work hard toward that happening now."

Question #4: "Hopefully, through the interview process, we can identify the person who is a good match for our district. I favor interviewing as many applicants as we can. We should use our best resources to get the best person we can for the job."

Question #5: "A willingness to be part of the team, so that we can bring together our community, our students, and our faculty through unity and teamwork."

Question #6: "The board should set a good example in terms of open communication, fairness and integrity. It would not be right to ask any of those people to do anything that the board member would not be willing to do."

Question #7: "I am not aware of any programs which need to be eliminated. As far as improving our TAAS scores, our faculty can review the curriculum to be sure that it is appropriate. I am not in favor of implementing programs only to improve TAAS score. I favor curriculum and programs for improving our students, not just scores. Improved TAAS test scores are okay, so long as they are by-products of what we are teaching."

Question #8: "There is a balance and I'm not sure we're not there. It is something I would find out more about once in office. I would not want extra-curricular to have a negative effect on quality classroom time."

Jerry Adams

A rancher, he and wife Debbie have two children, Rose Reidmiller, who works at Scott & White Hospital, and Clayton, who works at WilsonArt, and a granddaughter, Robin Reidmiller.

Question #1: "Our school facility needs and renovation of our existing buildings. We are in the process of hiring an architect at this time."

Question #2: "at this time, I favor building a middle school because the community and building committee support this plan."

Question #3: "Yes, because it will take at least two years to complete."

Question #4: "We have begun the process of accepting applications and the committee will interview several before making recommendations to the superintendent. The superintendent will recommend three top applicants for the board to interview. Once we hire a new principal, the board and superintendent must support the decisions of the principal 100 percent, or they can't and won't be effective."

Question #5: "The most important quality must be the ability to recognize a problem and make good recommendations and decisions. The principal will be only as effective as the board and superintendent allow them to be."

Question #6: "In all these relationships, the board member only has authority in a convened board meeting. The board member must refer all calls back to the chain of command: teacher, principal, superintendent, board. The board should be the last step in the process, not the first."

Question #7: "The Superintendent and principals have to recognize the areas that need to be targeted and implement programs to bring up these scores. This year, TEKS, Humanities and CEI Reading Labs were all put in place for math and reading.

Question #8: "I think there is a balance at SISD. We need extra curricular activities in addition to academics for a well-rounded program."

Carse Williams

A semi-retired consultant, he and wife Bobbie have two grown sons, both of whom are school administrators (outside of Salado ISD), two grandsons and a granddaughter.

Question #1: "Unifying the community so that everyone is only concerned with quality education for the kids. I would address this by being open and honest with all patrons."

Question #2: "We must get started on building a middle school right away to house the impending growth."

Question #3: "YES."
Question #4: "We must recruit and be able to make a commitment to stability and academic excellence."

Question #5: "High moral character, academic success at previous locations, ability to motivate faculty, students and work well with parents."

Question 6: "To students: provide strong curriculum, funding to make sure monies available is spent in the classroom. To parents: Be responsive to their realistic concerns and complaints. To teachers: Treat them as professionals and allow them to do their job. Principals: Answers to the Superintendent. Superintendent: "Be supportive when they are right. They are responsible for

Team captures Regional Title

Golfers qualify for state!!

The Salado High boys golf team earned a trip to the Class 2A state tournament in Austin May 5 by capturing the regional tournament earlier this month at Quail Creek Country Club in San Marcos.

Salado shot a 678, 14 strokes ahead of second-place Weimar's 692. Tidehaven was third with a 718.

Salado's Ryan Morris and Blake Cameron finished as third and fourth medalists, respectively. They shot 164s in regulation play along with Ganado's Philip Williams, but finished behind Williams after a sudden-death playoff hole.

Brad Besler of Tidehaven was the regional medalist, shooting a reported 156.

Rounding out Salado's scores were Shawn Mitchell (172), Neal Holtzclaw (178) and Kurt Salisbury (179).

Salado had a 13-stroke lead after the first day, as freshman Cameron led the charge with a 78. That was followed by sophomore Morris' 79, junior Mitchell's 83, senior Holtzclaw's 87 and senior Salisbury's 92.

The state tournament will be held at Lions Municipal Golf Course in Austin. The boys are scheduled to play a practice round there on May 1.

My name is Mike Gunter, and I would like to ask for your vote on May 3rd for Salado School Board

My wife Nancy and I have four children in the Salado schools. Our son Michael is a freshman; his brother Matt is in the eighth grade; our youngest son Mark is a second grader; and our daughter Marissa is in kindergarten. I feel that having children in the Salado ISD gives me a very personal interest in making the Salado schools the very best they can be.

I believe my background as an experienced businessman will be a great asset to our school board. I deal with financial matters on a daily basis, and routinely work to help resolve problems, sometimes private and confidential in nature. I have served on numerous civic boards and committees, including a term as Chairman of the Bell County Tax Appraisal Review Board.

I am a taxpayer in several different school districts, and I understand the importance of prudent money management, and the impact it can have on the taxpayer, as well as the district. I am a proponent of strong fiscal responsibility, and I will work to see that every dollar spent by your school board is spent wisely.

If you will place your confidence in me by voting for me on May 3rd, I will spend the time, energy, and effort necessary to help move Salado ISD to a higher level of excellence academically, vocationally, athletically, and socially.

Thank You For Your Support,

Michael Gunter

Women's Chorale perform May 5

The Salado Women's Chorale will present what is known as a "song-play," incorporating stories with music from four decades in the first half of this century, during a program at 8 p.m. May 5 at the Civic Center.

The 1920s, '30s, '40s and '50s will be depicted by stage scenes during the show. The singers will return to the "flapper" era, the Depression years, World War II and the prosperous period following the war.

Dialogue and songs portray the attitudes and emotions of Americans during these times. Guest artist Doug Bolin will be featured as a G.I. in two familiar selections.

The Andrews Sisters appear in a return engagement. Bloody Mary steps back into her role in South Pacific. Other interesting parts are Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, a bit of burlesque and Carolyn Britt dancing Ballin' the Jack.

Tickets are $5 each and available from Chorale members and the Civic Center. Half of the proceeds from all Chorale concerts go to Salado

Civic Center.

Garage sale set

The Miller Heights Baptist Church in Belton will hold its annual garage sale 8 a.m.-5 p.m. May 2-3.

Saladoans enjoyed the recent dinner-dance Splendor in the Spring, which benefitted the Salado Public Library. (photos courtesy Salado Public Library)

Splendor in the Spring benefits library

An antique chandelier lighted with candles, hundreds of tiny white lights, and candles glowing in antique wrought iron candleabra welcomed guests who attended Splendor in the Spring, a dinner dance sponsored by Salado Public Library April 24 at Jack's Barn.

The dinner, which was prepared by Inn on the Creek, was served from buffet tables draped with silk and decorated with wrought iron, greenery, and candles. Baskets of cut-flowers adorned the stage. After dinner, guests danced to the music of "Nice and Jazzy."

Proceeds from the evening totaled approximately $4,000. Because of the tremendous response, the Board of Trustees of the Salado Public Library hope to make the dinner/dance an annual event.

The Board of Trustees wishes to thank those who attended and those who donated to the effort even though they could not attend.

The board also wishes to thank once again those businesses whose generous contributions made the event possible: Sprint-Texas, Centrovision, Compass Bank, First State Bank, Texas Utilities, Inn on the Creek, Jack's Barn, Simply Salado, Deanna's Floral Creations, Tablerock, Hill Country Cottage Gardens, Salado Public Schools and the Salado Village Voice.

Lynn Epps works at decorating Jack's Barn for the recent Splendor in the Spring.

Tuff Turf: Two grass meetings slated for Bell County May 1

by Ilene C. Miller
Co. Ext. Agents

Homeowners, are you having problems with your lawn this spring? Numerous calls to the Bell County Extension office indicates the problem with disease and weeds in area lawns is wide spread.

Two turf grass meetings will be held in Bell County May 1. The events are free of charge and open to all interested homeowners regardless of age, race, sex, religion, socioeconomic status, color, disability or national origin. The meetings are sponsored by the Bell County Extension Program Council. Speaker for the sessions is Dr. Joe Krausz, Extension Plant Pathologist from Texas A&M will be speaker for both sessions. The program will last approximately one hour and a question and answer will follow.

The first program is scheduled for 3 p.m. at the Central Texas Home Builders Association building at 445 East Central Texas Expressway in Harker Heights. To get to the Home Builders office, take the Indian Trail exit off the expressway (Hwy 190).

The second meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. on May 1 in the Assembly Hall of the Bell County Expo Center, in Belton. It is a repeat of the afternoon program.

If you have lawn grass that is sickly, discolored or dying, then collect a fresh sample of grass and roots from the affected area of the lawn. The grass should be showing symptoms of disease, but not totally dead for proper examination and identification. Bring your sample to one of these two meetings May 1 for Dr. Krausz to examine.

Backyard Stewardship theme of Soil, Water Conservation Week

"Backyard Stewardship," the theme of the 1997 Soil and Water Stewardship Week observance, suggests that one of the best places to practice individual stewardship responsibility over natural resources is right in our own backyards. Organizers of the event say there is great potential good if each of us takes care of the immediate surroundings where we work or live. They note that good backyard stewardship practices extend far beyond the backyard to the neighborhood, region, continent and the world.

To encourage beneficial conservation practices in backyards, the Little River-San Gabriel Soil & Water Conservation District is encouraging interested individuals and organizations to join with the National Association of Conservation Districts in celebrating the annual Soil and Water Stewardship observance, April 27 - May 4.

The conservation district, which works throughout the year to encourage soil and water conservation practices, is providing literature and information assistance to local churches, civic organizations and schools interested in furthering good soil and water conservation practices in homes and communities. Henry Abel, chairman of the Little River-San Gabriel SWCD, said the "Backyard Stewardship" theme will have special appeal to an estimated 78 million adult Americans who are active gardeners. He pointed out that some common gardening practices can be considered sound conservation practices as well. For example, backyard gardeners can terrace or contour their gardens, use drip irrigation, mulch bare soil, add trees and shrubs for windbreaks or protection from the sun, and add a small pond for the benefit of wildlife.

To learn more about conservation practices that can benefit your backyard, just as similar practices benefit farm and ranch land, contact the Little River-San Gabriel Soil and Water Conservation District during business hours at 138 E. Bell St., Bartlett, Texas.
