SISD trustees discuss technology, construction

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Salado ISD Trustees discussed technology and construction within the district during their regular meeting Oct. 19.

The board approved joining EdLink from Region 12 Service Center to implement internet access in the district. Startup cost of the switch-over includes $12,000 for a router, which will come from the district's $69,000 TIF grant.

After the startup costs, the annual cost of EdLink is $4,900. The annual cost of Bell NET is $9,200 for the first year, $14,200 for the second and $19,200 for the third. "It's not just a question of cost, but of technical service," said technology director Betty Gregurek. The 7-0 vote came on a motion from Rita Brown, which received a second from Sarah Mackie.

During discussion of technology, board member Carse

Williams asked Gregurek when she expected the Accelerated Reader program to be running again. "Within two weeks," Gregurek replied, explaining that many of the AR files were corrupted or deleted when the hard drive on the school's six-year-old file server crashed.

Mike Gunter reported on the progress of the construction project. He said that the construction manager, Way-Juston CMS, and architect, Claycomb Associates, were working with individual contractors to address problems with drainage, paving and a waterline. The construction manager will report to the district on progress made addressing those problems.

Another area of concern for the district, Gunter said, is the amount of money budgeted for contingency and general conditions. Approximately $100,00 of the construction budget falls under contingency and general conditions.

Salado Creek sweeps car from road

A College Station couple was rescued from the raging waters of Salado Creek Oct. 17. Their vehicle was washed off the low-water bridge leading to Mill Creek Inn when a wall of water came down the creek at approximately 9 p.m.

Kelly and Terri Parker's car was swept off the low-water bridge and area firefighters responded to the emergency call. No one was injured in the rescue attempt, when Salado firefighters and First Responders arrived.

Before First Responders could arrive, Pat Oborski, manager of Creekside Restaurant, braved the raging waters to rescue one of the people who had gotten out of the car.

According to Salado Fire Chief Wayne Rutherford, this is the first time during his tenure that Salado firefighters have had to rescue people from a vehicle taken off a road.

"We've had to rescue people who have gotten stuck on the middle of the bridge," Rutherford said, "but this is the first time where the car has actually been floating down the creek."

As of presstime Oct. 19, the vehicle had not been retrieved from the stream. The car was lodged under the golf cart bridge spanning Salado Creek at hole number nine.

Rutherford asks local citizens and visitors to take extra precautions during rainy weather. "If water is on the road, please do not attempt to cross it," he said. "Underestimating Salado Creek could prove fatal."

Rains of over 8 inches in Salado Oct. 16 and 17 resulted in Salado Creek spilling over the Main St. bridge during the night of Oct. 17.

The creek also washed out both golf cart bridges in Mill Creek.

Early voting continues through Oct. 30 in Belton

The site for early voting will be at the Bell County temporary courthouse at 550 E. Second Ave. in Belton.

The main courthouse is closed for renovations.

Early voting for the Nov. 3 election will be Oct. 19-30. The early voting schedule is as follows: 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 19-23, 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Oct. 24, noon-5 p.m. Oct. 25 and 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Oct. 26-30.

Temporary pump station may be built east of village

Local water board researches solutions

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

The Salado Water Supply Corporation (SWSC) board of directors discussed a water-purchase arrangement with Central Texas Water Supply during the directors' monthly meeting Oct. 15.

Pending the results of a survey, the Central Texas Water Supply Corporation (CTWSC) may build a temporary pump station east of Salado in the Belfalls area.

CTWSC is considering the temporary pump station to supply its wholesale customers in the area, including Holland and Armstrong Water Supply. If the pump station is built, a water-purchase arrangement with CTWSC would give SWSC access to 300,000 to 400,000 gallons of water per day coming from Lake Stillhouse. This would be the first time for SWSC to have access to surface water. Presently, all SWSC water comes from wells in the area.

The pump station may provide a solution to SWSC's growing water supply needs until CTWSC builds a water treatment plant on the east side of Lake Stillhouse. Once the water treatment plant is built by CTWSC, SWSC will have purchase treated surface water pumped from Lake Stillhouse, which is the long-range goal of SWSC directors.

Presently, SWSC purchases 1600-acre feet of surface water from Lake Stillhouse per year, even though the water supply does not have the means to treat the water. This is done to preserve access to that water for future use. According to Preston, 1600 acre feet of surface water would provide over 500 million gallons of water per year.

Preston told directors that once the water treatment plant is on-line, CTWSC could move the pumping station to another area of need.

While discussing the future water treatment plant, Preston informed directors that the Brazos River Authority had been denied easement to Lake Stillhouse, which would mean that BRA would probably have to purchase water from the CTWSC water treatment plant. This means that the possible start date for construction of the water treatment plant could move up.

CTWSC has put off the start-up date for construction of the water treatment plant for two reasons: having enough customers to justify the expense of the plant and its pending lawsuit with Kempner Water Supply.

In the meantime, SWSC is researching the possibility of buying water from Belton city water supply. Preston told directors that he did not have firm figures on the amount or price of available water from Belton.

Following the meeting, Preston told the Salado Village Voice that SWSC sold 23,749,250 of metered water in September, billing out $67,378 to customers. He added that six new meters were added in September and four have been added so far this month.

Since September of 97, 81 new meters have been added to bring SWSC to over 1,500 members.

Preston told the Salado Village Voice that the SWSC will provide one meter per five acres of land in its rural service areas.

We've come to this, Salado?

Is this what we've come to in Salado? Yard sales and open air markets lining our historic Main Street?

Driving up Main Street during Christmas in October earlier this month, I counted four yard sales on Main Street alone. Not to mention the man selling puppies at the corner of Main and Thomas Arnold.

I couldn't help but think that our image is tarnished, to say the least, when we line our streets with yard sales, garage sales and open air markets. In the long run, I think we may kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

Here's how and why:

Salado has built a cottage industry based on historic, quiet, sophisticated character of the village. Tourism, whether it is the bed and breakfasts housing small groups and reunions or retreats at our famous golf course, is very much the economic basis of Salado.

We all feel the economic impact of this industry: whether it be the self-employed contractor fixing pipes at a bed and breakfast, the newspaper selling advertising to shops and restaurants, the insurance salesman insuring the merchandise in a shop or the Realtor selling property along Main Street at a premium.

The tourism industry in Salado is based on offering top-quality retail items not easily found at the malls and wholesale clubs in every other town in the state. Folks come to shop in Salado from Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Austin, Waco, etc. because of the quiet class of our village.

Friends, we are losing that class and with it, we will lose the clientele seeking it out. That clientele will turn to other small towns and villages in their quest for that inestimable quality of class. When they leave, they take their pocketbooks, checkbooks and money with them.

Digressions

Tim Fleischer

"But what does that matter to me in Mill Creek? I don't work here. I retired here from fill-in-the-blank," you may be asking about the impact of the business district. I am glad you asked that question.

When the property values on Main Street begin to decline because they cannot be maintained with a declining clientele and little traffic, the property values in Mill Creek will certainly follow. Salado is a multifaceted gem. When one of the facets is damaged, the others are dimmed and the gem as a whole loses its beauty.

What can we do? First, we chase off those who plop down in the right-of-ways selling puppies (or anything else for that matter). It is against the law to sell from a right-of-way and property owners have the right to chase off those who set up in front of their property.

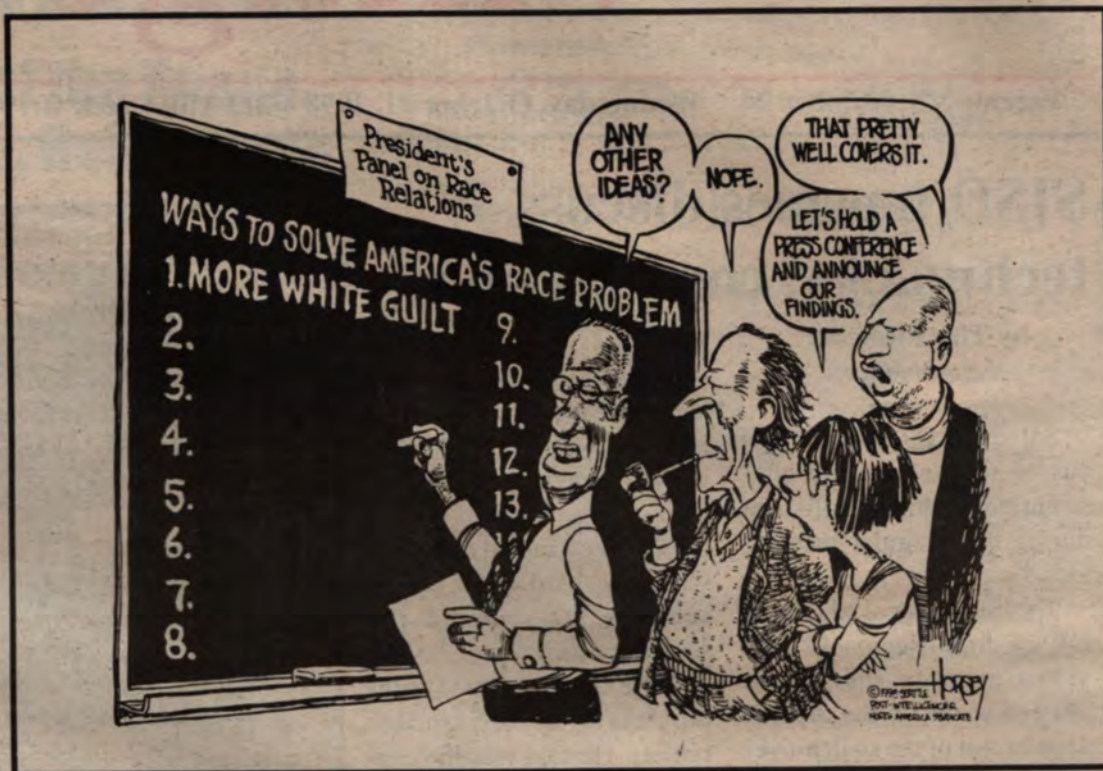

Second, we ask property owners not to have garage sales during Salado's special events. We do this for two reasons: first, so that we can put our best foot forward when the most people see our village and second, so that we do not distract from the events which raise money that goes directly into the village.

Since we do not have a city government to tax all of us at an equal rate, we rely on the special events to raise money for various services. Organizations such as the Chamber of County to consider animal control

Sometime early next year, those among us who love animals will give a sigh of relief, when the 1999 version of the Bell County Commissioner's Court begins thinking about creating a statute that will, for the first time in the county's history, set in motion a humane plan to control animals, large and small, that up to now has been a matter that either was too expensive or too politically explosive to contend with at the commissioner's level.

Tim Brown, Precinct Two Commissioner, reported that for some time the court has been aware of the discontent among citizens concerning animals, particularly dogs, that roam both rural and urban areas with no restraint from uncaring owners.

The court is investigating the newly invigorated Texas Rabies Control Act that may give county commissioners the authority to enact local laws that would force animal owners to keep their pets confined within the boundary of the owner's property lines.

This means that if you have a pet dog or cat, you must keep it within your property or face paying a steep fine. If you are a farmer or rancher and have a thousand acres - then that is your property and your animals can roam freely up to the property line and no further!

Also thanks to the public outcry about abandoned animals that are dumped throughout the county, the court may be interested in adding another position to the Sheriff's Department that would in effect be devoted to corralling ownerless dogs and cats and, as is the current practice, horses and cattle.

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

We commend the commissioner's for what is hoped will be a humane approach to the matter of animal mistreatment that is so prevalent in Bell County - thanks in some measure to the transient nature of our population, but even more unnerving is what appears to be an unusually large number of despicable people who cruelly treat animals as a matter of course.

We live in a strange world where mean spirited men and women are allowed to own gentle animals whose only sin is the giving of unfettered love.

And for this many animals are punished by being thrown away as one would casually dump garbage, while the owners are allowed to roam free.

GOP COURT IN OFFING?

While on the subject of the Bell County Commissioner's Court, it would appear that 1999 may see a historic change in the complexion of this honorable court. Unless a last minute swing by Democratic voters takes place, the entire commissioner's court is expected to be totally Republican for the first time ever!

With current county judge John Garth opting for early retirement, that race was thrown wide open. At this reading, it would appear that Temple GOP barrister John Burrows has the jump on Democrat Pete Gilbert who hails from over Killeen way.

Tim Brown, the Republican incumbent, precinct two, has no opponent in the general election so he can relax this time around, while over in precinct four, two newcomers are battling it out for a seat on the court - Goper John Stevenson and Demo Horace Grace.

Both hail from Killeen and are retired military.

With two weeks remaining it looks like Stevenson is a tad ahead thus giving the potential of a conservative sweep at the county court level.

STATE RACES SHAPING UP

Across the state, Republicans are also licking their chops as they prepare for a George Bush runaway on November 3. The popular governor, who is seeking a second four year term, is expected to gather up to 70 percent of the general election vote which would be an all time high, if it happens.

Bush's opponent, Land Commissioner Gary Mauro is much like Sisyphus, from Greek mythology, who legend tells us is the guy with the job of eternally rolling a huge stone uphill in Hades, only to have it roll back down as it nears the top.

Question immediately comes to mind: "Will Bush's coattails extend far enough down-ballot to take in all state-wide elected offices"? If so - we would have history made at the state level as well as here in Bell County.

The only candidate who right now appears to have a chance to break this GOP-chain is "Gentleman" Jim

Veritable cornucopia of letters written to the editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to express my thanks to the Salado Fire Department for their prompt response to a "It's a rattler and it's big and I'm not kidding!" call on Oct. 1.

Shane Berrier, Adam Wigley and Chris Young, warriors all, effectively dispatched Mr. Rattler on his way to the Elysian Fields. Charles Young provided a backup as did Mary and Oscar Mendez of Belton.

Thanks to all of you (and I'm not kidding!)

Dear Editor,

I hope the people of Salado are aware of how much our local merchants contribute to our town. When planning an event or fund-raiser, the first thought in most any organizer's mind seems to be, "go to the merchants." And how very fortunate we are that they always come through for us -- always!

Bless their hearts, we couldn't do it without them. Let's all remember that, when we do our shopping.

Their generosity, and that of other kind and caring citizens of the area, allowed the Salado Humane Society to raise $7,500 at our 3rd annual Benefit Dinner and Auction held at The Mansion. This lets us pay our long suffering veterinarians, lay in a large supply of pet food and continue to care for the many, many strays that come our way.

While we are thanking people, Steve Scarborough and his staff of The Salado Mansion once again served a delicious and plentiful dinner for us and cheerfully stayed late to clean up because our "Best in Texas" auctioneer Bill Hall made it all so much fun, people couldn't tear themselves away until every last item was bought!

If you weren't there you missed a lot of fun and wonderful food. We members of the Salado Humane Society are so grateful to you all for your donated items, your encouragement and your continuing support. May God Bless you all.

Leah Buzzard
President, Salado Humane Society.

P.S. -- Lois Shepperd, once again, your homemade plum jelly brought $80 for us.

Dear Editor,

I am writing to share with the community of Salado the Good News from one of our last year's graduating seniors.

Many of us were privileged to hear Brady Johnston give his first sermon at the Salado Methodist Church 9 a.m. service last Sunday. When I say many of us, I mean many of us. We were packed in like sardines, chairs were added and still more came. Brady, filled with the spirit of the Lord, gave his awesome testimony of his love of God and answering his call to ministry. He is the son of Terry and Sandy Johnston and is a religion major at the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor. Brady already seems at home in the pulpit, delivering his message with love, trust and humor.

During the worship service, Brady assisted Rev. Skip Blancett in baptizing his nephew Austin Terrell Wolff. This was the most meaningful infant baptism I have witnessed. Austin is a very lucky boy to have Brady as his uncle and a pastor who has the wisdom to guide those responsible for his spiritual growth in taking an active part in the ritual of infant baptism.

After attending last year's graduation, I got the feeling the members of that class would do great things. Although I don't know Brady as well as many of you reading this letter, I see a young man filled with the spirit and nurtured by wonderful parents, teachers, church and community. I am so proud of Brady and of being a part of a community that nurtures the growth of young people like him.

Dear Editor:

I came to the Christmas in October and it was fantastic! I have never seen a building so beautifully decorated. The trees were so unusual and pretty. They certainly did depict Salado's legacies. The refreshments were delicious, and the entertainment was wonderful.

I especially liked the bazaar items since they were all homemade. I bought a Sirena T-shirt, a Salado T-shirt, two coffee mugs with Salado's Legacy written on them, a hand-painted patio bell and some notes with Sirena on them.

My friend brought several desserts from the bake Sale. We are looking forward to returning next year.

Sincerely,
Minnie Murphy

Commerce, Ladies Auxiliary and Business Association and Historical Society provide a vital service and source of income to the village when they sponsor the Art Fair, Christmas in October or Christmas Stroll and Tour of Homes.

We should all support these events in whatever way possible, rather than detracting from them. The moneys raised are pumped back into the village through maintenance of Pace Park and the Civic Center, and support of the other volunteer groups in the village.

Third, let's clean up our streets and our creek. The amount of garbage along Main Street, Royal and Old Mill Rd. is unacceptable. The Creek belongs to all of us, whether it runs through our property or not. Keeping it clean is our responsibility, not just our neighbors.

Finally, let's be decent, kind folk, resisting the urge to honk at or run over the car in front of us poking along at 5 mph. Remember, that driver admiring our village at a snail's pace was once us.

I guess we should try to be what the tourists who come to Salado think we are: a class act.

Mattox (an oxymoron if there ever was one) who is currently holding a slight lead over Republican John Cornyn in the race for State Attorney General.

Election night will keep us up late to see how things are going locally, statewide and the all important national house and senate races that will directly impact the future of Democrats in general and President Clinton in particular.

CHET EDWARDS TO REPORT

Our man in Washington, Congressman Chet Edwards (D-Waco), gave us a call a few nights ago to talk politics and discuss his reasons for voting for a limited impeachment inquiry as opposed to the unlimited variety that eventually passed under the tutelage of Speaker Newt Gingrich.

Edwards told us he was deeply ashamed of what the President has done and that the leader hurt not only the nation but his own party, particularly those who had remained loyal to the bitter end.

Edwards is interested in holding a Town Hall meeting early next year, after the election, at the Civic Center so he can visit with Saladoans on this very subject and allow him to explain his desire "not to rush to judgement in a matter that is of far reaching consequence", namely the impeachment and subsequent trial of the President of the United States.

Warned that his vote could garner an opponent in the next election, Edwards spoke in terms of a personal principal and vowed he would vote for impeachment should there be constitutional reasons for doing so when the Judiciary Committee reports to Congress.

We look forward to having Chet back for a village meeting to discuss what will be the number one topic of conversation in and out of town for most of 1999.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
Jesus' Sheep Among the Wolves

"Behold, I send you out as sheep among the wolves."
 - Matthew 10:16

When Jesus sent forth His disciples to preach His doctrine, He realized that He was sending them into a hostile world. The later testaments give evidence of the travails the twelve had among the doubtful and unbelieving before the truths of Jesus' words began to draw converts and the ranks of the faithful swelled. Even today those who profess their faith share the lot of the disciples as sheep among the wolves. There are those who still deny the saving grace offered by God's Son. Christians face the taunts of the naysayers and the wiles of the evil who would tear them and their faith down as would a ravenous wolf among a flock of defenseless sheep. Hold fast, for as Jesus further said to the twelve, "...he who endures to the end will be saved."

Christian writer, dramatist speaks area ladies Oct. 24

LaTayne C. Scott, one of the nation's most prolific Christian writers, dramatists and public speakers, will be the featured attraction at the annual Salado Church of Christ's "Ladies Day" program Oct. 24, according to an announcement from the steering committee for the special event.

Scott, who is a resident of Albuquerque, New Mexico, has had nine of her books published with sales of well over 100,000. Additionally, she has written hundreds of articles and poems for regional and national publications including "Texas Business", "Byline", "Vista", "Writer's Digest", "Albuquerque Journal", "Power for Today", "Teenage Christian" plus a number of other Christian magazines and periodicals.

Scott was awarded the "Distinguished Christian Service Award for Creative Christian Writing" from Pepperdine University in 1990 and the following year a first place in a national humor contest sponsored by the Southwest Writers Workshop.

In addition to writing and editing, Mrs. Scott has written and produced a number of plays for the theater and radio. She is a noted poet and has served as President of the New Mexico State Poetry Society; chaired the national poetry society's national convention as well as doing script and video writing for such popular programs as "America's Most Wanted".

She is a well traveled and popular speaker on the Christian radio and television circuit and is a bilingual speaker in both this country as well as Mexico and Cuba.

The guest speaker and facilitator for the Salado Ladies Day program received her Bachelor's Degree from the University of New Mexico in 1980; Masters Degree with honors from Trinity Theological Seminary in 1994 and is currently a Doctoral candidate and teacher at Trinity University.

The Oct. 24 Ladies Day program at the Salado Church of Christ, will open with a coffee-registration at 9 a.m. and be followed with a series of workshop type presentations.

The group will break for a catered luncheon and conclude at 3p.m. with all activities to be held at the church building located on Stagecoach and Blacksmith Road.

Salado ladies who are interested in attending the all-day workshop should call in a reservation, no later than noon Oct. 23, to one of three numbers: Helen Clayton, 947-3533; Beverly Stripling, 947-9175 or Becky McAulay, 947-9009.

There is no registration fee for the special ladies day event nor for the luncheon that is to be provided, but reservations are necessary.

Church of Christ monthly fellowship set for Oct. 25

The last monthly Church of Christ fellowship gathering for this year will take place Oct. 25, immediately following the evening service.

In charge of this enjoyable event will be James and Jo Griffitt together with Louis and Fanny Hill.

There will be no fellowship in November as we gather momentum for our annual Christmas party on a date to be determined. That event will be chaired by the Svadlenaks and Allens.

A Brief Visit With Pastor J. Floyd Franks

"...lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal" (Matthew 6:20).

Chuck Swindoll shared something that happened to one of his preacher friends who traveled across the country for a series of meetings, but his luggage did not arrive. Knowing that he needed some suits quickly and economically, he went to a local thrift shop. He was pleased to find exactly what he wanted. The salesman informed him that these particular suits had been cleaned and pressed, but some people did not want them because they came from a funeral home. That didn't bother this minister, so he bought a couple of them for $25.00 each. When he returned to his hotel room to dress for the meeting, he discovered there were no pockets in these suits. It then dawned on him that dead men don't need any pockets because they can't carry a single thing with them.

If we are going to possess our treasures after we leave this life, we must lay them up while we are in this life. What are you sending on before you? Then you'd better get started.

Poet dives into lecture on exploring our inner selves

by Tim Fleischer
 Editor-in-Chief

As the waters of Salado Creek raged outside, members of the Institute for the Humanities at Salado explored the waters of inner selves and outer selves with Southwest native Pat Mora during her lecture Oct. 18.

Mora's lecture on Aqua Santa, or sacred water, dove into the depths of our life journeys as individuals and as communities of family, ethnicity and faith.

"I have the advantage of looking out on the Salado Creek, which you do not without appearing rude to the speaker," Mora said, discussing the name of the creek. "Salado means salty in my native tongue."

"Water is a source of refreshment," she said. "Salt adds flavor to our lives. Hopefully, today we will do a little of both."

Mora read from her books of poetry, including Aqua Santa and Sister Carmen's Practical Book of Saints. Her poems are about people's struggle to discover their inner selves and outer selves and the common journey of life we all take.

Her poem "Elena" tells the story of a 40-year-old Mexican-American woman who struggles to learn English, as her children laugh and tell jokes in the kitchen. The language, foreign to her, is spiny and difficult, but she must continue to try to learn from books, or "I will be deaf when my children need my help."

Mora also read poems about the community of family and faith in our individual journeys to discover our inner selves. In her poem about her younger sister's patron saint, Rafael, Mora explored faith and expectations, life and love of family. The young girl prays to St. Rafael, or St. Rafe, as she calls him, for a phone call from a boy in class or to stay home, rather than moving across the country. When her prayers are unanswered, she gets angry at St. Rafe, punishing the statue with its $3.50 price tag still on the bottom of the base by breaking off his arm and nose. Finally, she banishes St. Rafe to the bottom of the closet, thinking he will remain there after the family moves to California. But upon arriving in California, she explores the foreign country of her new home and her new room, where, in the bottom of the closet, sits St. Rafe, broken nose and all.

In her poem "Sissy and Her Bonnet," the reader learns of Mora's daughter Sissy, who at age four wears her prayer bonnet backwards, with the yellow ties framing her face. At 14, Sissy is embarrassed that her parents kept photos of her in her bonnet, "you mean you let me dress that way?" But as an adult, Sissy turns to the photos of her younger self, finding the bonnet her mother has saved over the years for her and even wearing it backwards in an effort to search for the girl who could laugh at herself.

"We can rediscover the rare spirits we house only by listening hard in the busy, noisy, crowded world," Mora said.

We can also discover the spirit of humanity when we "listen to the experiences of the oppressed," Mora said "We have a responsibility to listen to these stories, but more importantly, we have a responsibility to act upon what we hear."

Mora equated minorities, whether racial, sexual or economic, to Shadow Selves. "If we ignore Jung's advice about listening to the Shadow Selves," Mora said, "we are in peril." To hear the minorities, we must be willing to see them as "peers and equals. We must be willing to look past the accents, the language, the color of skin."

Quoting Gandhi, Mora said, "We must be the change we wish to see in the world." Once we find the ability to be that change, Mora said, "becomes the ultimate source of refreshment for our lives."

Discussing the change we wish to see in the world, Mora talked about where the humanities fit into the picture and where they are most alive: "The humanities tend to live where economic resources live. This leaves us with the question of how we infuse art and history throughout our society. How can we be satisfied if the humanities are just for people like the people in this room? How do we infuse that hunger not just in the private schools but in the Barrio?"

Holland Hornets sting Eagles 47-14, as SHS drops to 2nd place

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

The Holland Hornets came to Eagle Field Oct. 16 with revenge on their mind, handing the Salado Eagles a 47-14 shellacking in front of shocked and wet fans.

The Hornets, who share first place in district with Troy, immediately set about to shut down the volatile Eagle offense, while pounding the defense for over 400 yards on the ground.

Three first half interceptions set up Holland touchdowns as the Hornets jumped out to a 21-7 lead in the first half. The Hornets built on the lead in the second half with workhorses Rae Holden and Clint Arnold, who both carried for over 170 yards.

The writing was on the wall in the first 4 minutes of play as Holden intercepted Ryan Gillespie's third-down pass and returned it 20 yards to set up the Hornets' first scoring drive. Holland drove from the Eagle 43 to the 1 in just six plays before Holland quarterback Nathan Ivicic found paydirt behind his center. The point-after kick by Keith Zajicek gave Holland a 7-0 lead at 8:44 in the first.

A second Holden interception in the first quarter stopped the Eagles who had driven to the Holland 17. The interception was also a swing in momentum as Holland drove the ball 77 yards in 15 plays, scoring on Clint Arnold's five-yard dive. The PAT was good.

Keith Zajicek picked off Gillespie and returned it 20 yards to the Eagle 29. Three plays later Holden tore around end for a 23 yard TD run with 6:04 left in the half.

Salado finally scored in the final two minutes of the half on a fourth and goal at the Holland 13 yard line. Scampering out of the pocket, Gillespie found McLaughlin alone in the endzone, throwing to the senior running back on the run from Holland defenders. Paul Lucas kicked the extra point, leaving Salado trailing 21-7 at the half.

Holland started the second half as it did the first, scoring on its first drive. After a penalty on the kick-off left Holland deep in their own territory, Holland pushed the ball to their 35 before Holden took a hand-off 62-yards to the Salado 3. Arnold followed with a scoring dive with 10 minutes left in the third. The PAT gave Holland a 28-7 lead.

The Hornets added to it after blocking an Eagle punt, when Arnold ran in from the Eagle 14 with 6:12 left in the third. The PAT failed, one of the few bright spots for Salado fans.

Holland scored again in the waning seconds of the third period on a 13-yard toss from Ivicic to Trey Spinn. The PAT gave Holland a 41-7 lead going into the final period.

Salado capitalized on one of the few Hornet miscues when Taylor Hutton recovered Ivicic's fumble at the Holland 8. A play later, Gillespie dashed in from the 1. Lucas' kick brought the score to 41-14.

Holland added insult to injury on the ensuing series when it drove 47 yards on four straight running plays. Leo Camden then ran in from the Eagle 13 with 5:16 left in the game. The PAT failed.

Salado will try to rebound when they travel to face the Johnson City Eagles 7:30 p.m. Oct. 23.

SHS hopes to bounce back against Eagles

by John Eubanks

The Salado Eagles, fresh off their worst defeat this season, hope to bounce back against a winless team that's been outscored 41-9 in seven losses.

No offense, Johnson City.

The SHS Eagles, 4-3 overall and 1-1 in District 26-2A, will travel Oct. 23 to play the Johnson City Eagles (0-7, 0-2).

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. to allow Eagles fans time to make the 90-mile trip.

Both teams might get defensive after their last performances.

Salado was soundly defeated by Holland, 47-14, at home Oct. 16. Johnson City lost 37-13 to a Academy team that lost 40-0 to Salado the previous Friday.

That should make Salado about a six-touchdown favorite, right?

"It's going to be tough," Salado coach Joe Mullins said Monday, still licking the wounds from Friday's licking. "We've got to regroup and work hard

Volleyball team inching closer to going from worst to first with win over Holland

by John Eubanks

The Salado High volleyball team defeated Holland 15-7, 15-7 at home Oct. 13 while inching closer to the district title.

A win at Rogers Oct. 20 (results were unavailable at press time) would give the Lady Eagles the district title.

Losses to both Rogers and Academy, which Salado hosts in the regular season finale Oct. 24, would give the Lady Eagles no worse than a tie for the title and force a district playoff game. Rogers and Academy were tied for second last week with 2-2 marks.

Last year, Salado was last in district at 1-5 (and 6-19 overall), behind Academy (6-0), Rogers (3-3), Holland (2-4).

The Lady Eagles, 4-0 in district and 12-9 this season, defeated Rogers (15-4, 15-6) and Academy (15-13, 15-12) in first-round play.

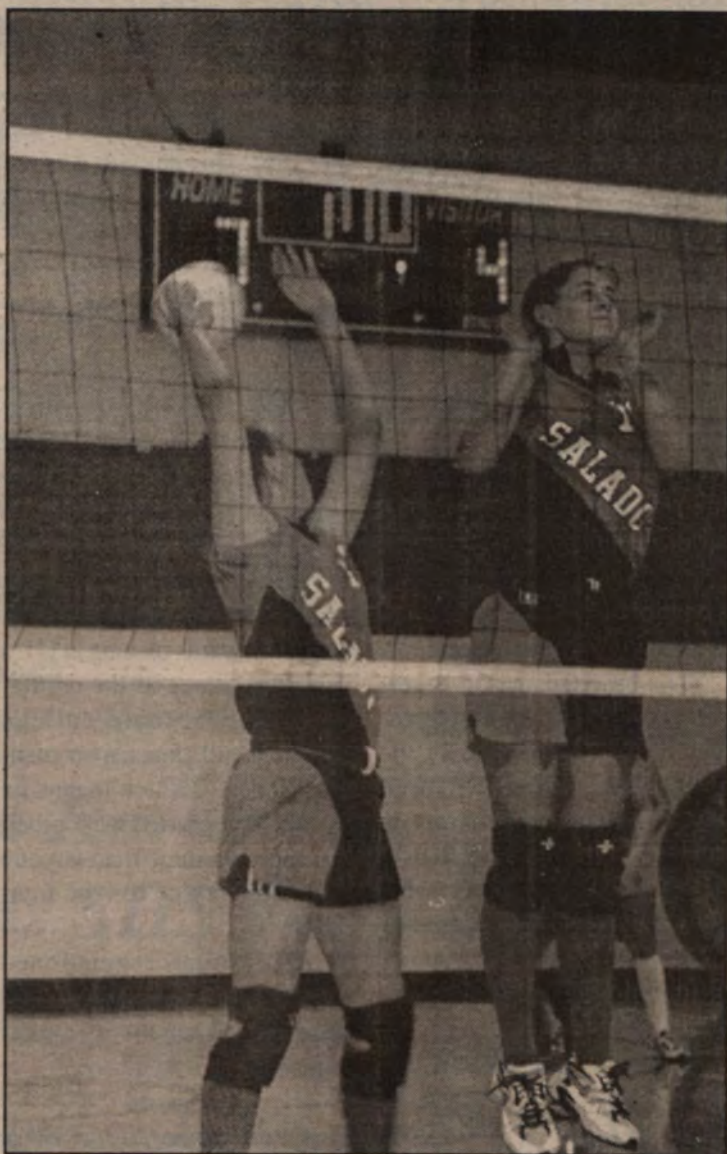

Salado's first-round 15-4, 15-13 win over Holland (0-4 as of Oct. 14) was similar to the rematch, in that the girls played loose.

"They had a good game," Two Lady Eagles (we think Melissa Matthews and Lauren Quick) let a Holland hit go by. (photo by John Eubanks) coach John Black said. "They played relaxed in an important game. We had a very good team effort and stayed together."

The Lady Eagles trailed just once the entire two-game match. Down 4-3 in game one after leading 3-0, the girls reeled off eight unanswered points to lead 11-4. Kills by Lauren Quirk and Sarah Summers highlighted the run.

Salado went up 4-0 in game two, before Holland split the next dozen points. But Katie Punchard got a kill to make it 11-6, and Salado went on to score four of the next five points. Both teams traded serves at 14-7, before Salado served a ball at game-point that Holland couldn't handle.

Katie Punchard finished with 11 service points (including two aces), two kills and nine digs. Summers had seven assists, six kills and three blocks. Melissa Matthews had eight points, two kills, two assists and four digs.

Stacy Krueger had eight assists, one kill and one ace, Kathy Matthews had one block and one kill, Nikki Jackson had one kill and three digs, Sommer Wilson had four digs and Quirk had two kills.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The JV Lady Eagles beat Holland 15-6, 15-4 to even their record at 2-2 against last-place Holland. Academy and Rogers lead the district with 3-1 marks.

Coach Black said the girls "finally got back on track. We had a good team effort from all individuals. Micki Rosanky had a great game on the front line spiking the ball. Also, Hope Buchanan had a good game blocking."

FRESHMEN

The freshmen Lady Eagles beat Holland 15-12, 12-15, 15-2 to even their district mark at 2-2. Academy leads district at 4-0. The win avenged a three-game loss to Holland to open district play.

Coach Marilyn Salisbury said there was "great effort by all. Tiffany Blair had a great game serving (for 18 points). Julie Couchman also played well from the back row. Lindsey Quirk was a force at the net."

NET NOTES: Florence, which beat Salado in a two-game non-district match Oct. 10 for the second time this year, lost to Hutto 15-0, 15-3 Oct. 14. The win gave Hutto (21-7) its ninth straight district title and 67th district win in 68 matches.

THE GRILL CLINIC

World Series champion, Heisman Trophy winner, NBA losers, and other sentiments

The World Series between the New York Yankees and the San Diego Padres doesn't excite me as much as if the Atlanta Braves were playing the Yankees. But you have to give the Padres credit for beating the favored Braves in the National League best-of-seven Championship Series.

Verses and versus John Eubanks

Atlanta's 7-6 victory in game 5 will be one I'll remember for a long time. What a game.

The baseball season is certainly one that fans will remember for years, because of the home run chase between Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa. Let's hope the World Series is a fitting climax to what has become the most memorable baseball season for someone who began following baseball in the 1960s.

Although I'm writing this before the Series begins, at least two games will have been played before you read this. I'm predicting the Yankees will win and I'm hoping the Series goes seven games.

(It's interesting to note that Yankees pitcher David Wells, who pitched game one of the World Series, went to high school in San Diego. Earlier this year, he was the first Yankees pitcher to pitch a perfect game since Don Larsen did it in 1956. Larsen and Wells attended the same San Diego high school.)

Another thing I'm hoping is that Texas Longhorns senior running back Ricky Williams wins the Heisman Trophy as college football's best player. Prior to UT's game with Baylor Oct. 24, Williams needed to average 139 yards rushing in UT's last five games of the regular season to become college football's all-time career rushing leader -- which means he would have carried the football for more yardage than anyone in the history of college football.

Like the aforementioned Yankees pitchers, Williams attended high school in San Diego.

Count me as one of those who doesn't care about the NBA canceling the first two weeks of the season, because of a labor dispute between the league and the pro basketball players who make up the league.

Jeff Ward, who hosts a talk show for KLBJ-AM in Austin, summed up his feelings about the strike when he reminded listeners of a scene in the movie "The Fugitive."

When Harrison Ford's fugitive character, Dr. Kimble, tells the federal agent played by Tommy Lee Jones that he didn't kill his wife, Jones' character replies, "I don't care!" My sentiments indeed.

Monday, Oct. 19, 308 p.m.

Tim, my boss, just informed me that this column needs a few more verses to fill a particular space in the paper. So this last part is being written as the Yankees hold a 2-0 lead over the Padres.

My hopes for a seven-game series are fading fast. A compromise: Yankees in three-and-a-half games. (Just kidding).

How about Yankees in six. That allows the die-hard Padres fans two wins in three home games, teasing them just enough before the Yankees return home to win the Series in front of their fans. Is everyone happy now?

Big plays highlight JV's 38-0 win over Holland; jr. high teams split

Big plays highlighted the Salado junior varsity's 38-0 road win over Holland's JV Oct. 15. Salado is now 4-2-1 overall and 2-0 in district.

After a scoreless first quarter, the JV Eagles scored 24 points in the second quarter and led 24-0 at halftime. They added 14 points in the third quarter.

Chris Ray threw TD passes of 10 yards to Garland Hennig and 15 yards to Derek Cravens. Gordon Smale added scoring runs of 30 and 91 yards.

Ray added a pair of two-point conversions, Hunter Konzen added another, and Jeremy Grimm kicked two extra points.

"Chris Ray had another good game running and throwing the ball," coach Mark Marshall said. "Gordon Smale also ran strong, amassing over 200 yards on the ground. The entire offensive line did a superb job of opening holes for the backs."

Defensively, Marshall said, "The entire defense played a great game shutting out the Hornets for four full quarters!"

EIGHTH GRADE

The eighth-grade Eagles defeated Holland 34-14 Oct. 15 to even their season record at 3-3 and improve to 2-0 in district.

Jonathan Bell rushed for over 200 yards and scored three touchdowns on runs of 80, 56 and 35 yards.

Jarrold Whitfield scored on runs of 20 and 11 yards. Bell and Whitfield each added two-point conversions.

Other offensive standouts were Evan Durham and Kyle

Salisbury. Defensive standouts were Whitfield (one interception), Matt Dickenson (one interception) and Cody Quirk (fumble recovery).

SEVENTH GRADE

The seventh-grade Eagles lost 20-0 to Holland Oct. 16. They are now 3-3 overall and 1-1 in district.

this week. None of these games are easy."

If there was anything easy about the Holland game, it was how easy the Hornets ran the ball against a team that was the top Class 2A defense in the area entering the game.

Holland rushed for 421 yards and had 445 yards of total offense against a defense that was allowing an average of 138 yards. It didn't hurt intercepting four Salado passes.

"Holland came ready to play and they took it to us," Mullins said. "I don't want to take anything away from them."

Salado wide receiver Paul Lucas, who caught four passes for 92 yards, was the offensive player of the week. Lineman Justin Marshall was the defensive player of the week.

Holland, which lost to Salado 37-0 last year, is now 6-1 overall and tied atop the district standings at 2-0 with Troy, also 6-1. Troy, which beat Florence 47-13, travels to Holland this week for a first-place showdown.

Florence (2-5) is in the district cellar with Johnson City at 0-2. Salado and Academy are tied for third at 1-1.

Salado Lions Club gets lesson on the kilt, 'which is not a skirt,' kilt wearer explains

by John Eubanks

William Adrin Fletcher, wearing a Scottish kilt mistakenly referred to by some as a skirt, told the Salado Lions Club about the history of the kilt and the bravehearted who wore them.

Fletcher, a long-time board member of the Central Texas Area Museum in Salado, addressed the Lions during their Oct. 14 luncheon at Creekside Restaurant in Mill Creek.

He also reminded them of the 37th Annual Scottish Games and Gathering of the Clans Nov. 13-15 in Salado. Visitors to the lively event will witness their share of kilts being worn by men from various clans.

"It is not a skirt," Fletcher told the Lions. "No Scotsman will allow you to get away with calling it a skirt."

The kilt began as a military uniform. The Celtic warriors who fought the enemy -- "the enemy was always the English," Fletcher noted -- would ambush the English by using their kilts as camouflage.

Laying on the ground under their kilts would force the warriors to fight naked. "It scared the English to death," Fletcher said. The Picts, ancestors to the Scots, would go a step further and paint their bodies blue.

First worn by Egyptians, the kilt worked its way through the Mediterranean to Spain and eventually to Britain.

Fletcher said that during World War I the German soldiers would never retreat from anyone except the Scottish soldiers, clad in Army-issue grey kilts.

"When (the Germans) heard the bagpipes, they said, Here come the grey ladies from hell," he said.

Fletcher, a native Texan and 1970 graduate of Abilene Christian University, moved to Scotland with his wife after graduation to work in a church.

"We really learned to love that country and its people," Fletcher said. "I never wore a kilt while living there, except one time for a photo. It's like an Englishman coming here and wearing cowboy boots and a hat."

Fletcher also told the Lions about the other items he proudly wore, including the tartan tie (whose colors match a particular clan), shoes, socks (called kilt hose in Scotland) and the purse-like pocket attached to the front of the kilt called a sporran.

Scottish soldiers used it to carry the handful of oatmeal for their day's ration of food. Bagpipe players used it for the schilling they would receive for their day's work.

Fletcher's said the pipers were never to go hungry. In return for their food, they would play a tune. It was from those days, Fletcher explained, that we get the saying, "He who pays the piper calls the tune."

Fletcher also displayed knives and a sword worn by the warriors.

"One thing I learned about wearing a sword," Fletcher said. "You can't sit down, certainly not gracefully -- especially wearing a kilt."

LION MANE LINES: Three new members were voted in during the club's Oct. 14 board meeting and will be sworn in at a later date, president Eldon Miller said.

The speaker at the Oct. 28 meeting will be weatherman Rusty Garrett of KWTX-TV Channel 10.

Youth Fair Boosters need you

The Salado Youth Fair Booster Club has begun its membership drive for the 1998-99 school year. All parents of Salado school children involved in 4-H, Jr. FFA, FFA and FHA are encouraged to join the Youth Fair Booster Club.

The goal of the Youth Fair Booster Club is to provide motivation and reward for the youth of Salado to produce high quality vocational projects thus enhancing their knowledge of agriculture and homemaking skills and techniques.

The Club's purpose is to enable parents and community to become better acquainted with the aims and purposes of youth in ag and homemaking organizations and to bring local businesses the opportunity to become better acquainted through attendance and donations of time and other contributions for fund-raisers.

Salado Youth Fair Boosters raise funds to see that each child from Salado who enters into the Bell County Youth Fair in February is rewarded for his efforts. Approximately 150 Salado school children in grades 3-12 enter 400 projects in the Bell County Youth Fair each year.

"This program has proven to help keep our kids off the streets through project work, and helps teach responsibility through exposing them to a variety of worthwhile experiences like no other type of youth activity," Youth Fair Booster President Richard McLaughlin stated in a recent letter. "Some projects take a full year to complete - others are completed in an afternoon. Every project requires thought, planning, responsibility and perseverance, as well as the help and personal attention of caring adults."

Salado Youth Fair Boosters are presently making plans for the Nov. 14 Reverse Raffle Ticket Auction, a major fundraiser for the group.

Youth Fair Boosters meet the second Wednesday of each month. Call an officer or other Youth Fair Booster member to verify meeting place and time. Officers are Richard McLaughlin, President, 947-0707; Mike Fleck, Vice President, 947-8988; Nancy Goodnight, Secretary, 947-5121 and Sue Ricks, Treasurer, 947-0064.

If you would like to join this effort, fill out the adjacent form and mail with payment to Salado Youth Fair Booster Club, P.O. Box 244, Salado, TX 76571.

Author of 'The Kempner Story' to sign her book at The Paper Merchant Oct. 31

Texas Author Cynthia Rose will be the guest of The Paper Merchant - located in Magnolia's on the Square in Salado, Oct. 31 from 11am-3pm. Ms. Rose will be autographing her newest book "The Kempner Story." This book is a must read for the Texana book enthusiast. The Kempner Story is the compilation of two generations of Texas women a generation apart. Rose has formed a unique fictionalized story using excerpts from writings her mother did in the 1930's, then spinning from her mother's characters a contemporary generation of characters to tell a story that borders on both truth and fiction.

Rose's mother, Myrtice Rushing Higginbotham, was born in Granger in 1910. She attended Temple High School and was awarded many Interscholastic League awards. Myrtice had aspired to continue her studies, but was never able to do so. Myrtice never gave up her hopes of being a writer and for a short time while living in the community of Kempner during the 1930's did engage in her ambition and completed a primitive novelette. Myrtice died in 1962 leaving the original writing to her daughter Cynthia with a See Kempner, Page 15B

The Salado High band earned a 2 rating at the UIL Region 8 Marching Contest Oct. 14 at Midway High in Hewitt.

Salado was among 18 Class 2A bands that competed against a set standard, a 1 being excellent, a 2 being good and a 3 being average. Only one band earned a 1 rating.

Three judges rate each band. They gave Salado scores of 1, 2 and 2, for an average of 2.

Although Salado received 1's the last four years, band director John Stafford said he was "very happy with the kids' performance. Their goal was to have the best performance of the year at this marching contest, and they did. The goal was to perform to the best of their ability and walk off the field and say 'we did the best we can.' "

This is the band's final UIL marching competition of the year. Class 1A, 2A and 4A bands alternate years with Class 3A and 5A bands in advancing to area and state competitions.

Last year, Salado advanced as far as area. The top two bands from each region qualify for area, and the top two bands from area qualify for state. This is the year for 3A and 5A to compete further in UIL contests.

Salado's marching band consists of approximately 60 students in grades 9-12. This is Stafford's fifth year at Salado and his fourth as head band director. The band recently voted for band beau (Tigger Day) and band sweetheart (Lisa Karnes). They were crowned at halftime of the Oct. 16 football game with Holland.

Newly-formed Rue-La-La to sing in Belton Oct. 24

The Belton Acoustic Concert Series will present the newly-formed quartet Rue-La-La, featuring renowned singer-songwriters Jane Gillman and Marce Lacouture Oct. 24.

Jane Gillman began her musical career as a solo performer in Washington, DC, before joining the legendary band Eaglebone Whistle. Her debut album was released on Green Linnet Records in 1986. Her second release, Jane Gillman, launched Green Linnet's Redbird Songwriter Series, and was named one of the top ten albums of 1990 by Folk Roots magazine.

Gillman teamed up with Canadian Darcie Deaville in 1992. As Gillman-Deaville, the duo released a critically-acclaimed album on Flying Fish Records.

Gillman has toured extensively, solo and with other artists, and performed at venues across the United States and Canada, including Kerrville Folk Festival. In addition to songwriting and vocals, Gillman plays guitar, dulcimer and harmonica.

Marce Lacouture is best known as a vocalist, working with songwriter Butch Hancock, with whom she recorded the albums Yella Rose and Cause of the Cactus.

She also performed in an all-women's rock band, an acoustic trio, school and church choirs and several stage musicals.

In the early 80s, Lacouture began researching her Cajun heritage, later receiving grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and Louisiana Commission for the Arts to continue her studies.

She has performed at Kerrville, the New Orleans See Concert, page 14B

Large print books at SPL

Books and other library materials, are generally divided into fiction and nonfiction. A lot of the nonfiction is placed on shelves according to its Dewy Decimal System number. These numbers are assigned according to subject matter, e.g., History (900), Cookbooks (614), Health (640), Gardening (635).

There is an extensive Biography section and a special computer and set of shelves devoted to Genealogy. Videotapes and Books-on-Cassette are shelved separately.

Fiction is shelved alphabetically according to the author's last name. Fiction is divided into sections, such as Easy Reader and Youth, and general Fiction. Within the general Fiction collection there are separate shelves devoted to Large Type books.

Public libraries have long recognized that some patrons are visually impaired. Consequently all public libraries when ordering new books with print like you're used to seeing also buy Large Type books, principally fiction. This is part of the Senior Citizen Program. There are many young people who are also visually impaired and these books are a God-send for them as well. These books cost about 15% more than usual-print books, frequently about $23.

There are about 200 books in this part of the Collection. Listed below are some of the new large type (LT) books the Library has recently purchased:

Sweet Liar by Jude Deveraux
Cold, Cold Heart by James Elliott

St. Valentine's Night by Andrew Greeley

Pinkston Home on Xmas Tour

The Shirley and Bill Pinkston Home is one of nine unique and significant structures to open their doors to the public during the annual Salado Christmas Tour of Homes Dec. 4-6. The Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Salado Historical Society, will have homes that have never before been open to the public, as well as old favorites on tour.

In 1994, Georgetown architect Richard Elsasser designed the Pinkston's retirement home. Steve Richmond built the Mill Creek home in 1995.

The home is a modern version of a Texas Hill Country - Carm house with exterior of native limestone, standing seam metal roof, and custom lone star shaped air vents in the 5 gables. It faces onto a wooded, dry creek bed and is reached from the parking area on Quail Hollow by walking across a wooden foot bridge.

The front door opens into a foyer created by a "floating" limestone wall between the foyer and the living room. Saltillo tile covers the floors of the public areas in the home and the ceilings are covered with pickled cedar. In the living room, there is a 16-foot cathedral ceiling featuring exposed solid cedar beams and opposing limestone walls with eyebrow arches and a fireplace on one end. The middle wall has shadowbox shelving displaying Bill's bird collection, and over the door on the outside wall, there is bluebonnet and lone star stenciling which Bill designed. The living area extends outside onto large porches on both the front and the back of the house.

A large oval yew table in the country kitchen-dining room is a replica of a monk's table from England, and in the corner sits a Norwegian pine cabinet from Spain. Extra seating at the large island accommodates grandchildren at family gatherings, and household records are kept at the built-in desk.

The bedrooms feature antique longleaf pine flooring with ceramic tile floors in the guest and master bath and the utility room. The study has a

The Pinkston Home mesquite floor, and the powder room has a honed slate floor and countertop. The countertop in the master bath is an almond mauve granite from China and the guest bath has a granite countertop from Brazil. Bill painted a rose stencil design over the window in the study.

The home is furnished with an eclectic mix of new, antique, and custom-built furniture, oriental rugs, and an art collection featuring, among other things, originals and prints from Houston artist Charles Schorre and water colors, oils, and Bill's hand-painted china.

Chamber auxiliary's 'Christmas in October' celebration was one of the most successful

by Marilyn L. Fleischer
Managing Editor

"The Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary's Annual Christmas in October Celebration" was one of the most successful with over 865 people attending this one day event," according to Auxiliary president Marge Kirkman. With the many visitors from out of town as well as locals attending, the Bake Sale was completely sold out before the day finished.

The drawings held during this festive day resulted in the winners of many prizes.

The numerous gifts donated by the Salado Business Association were divided into five drawings. The winners of those drawings were Doris Denman, Barbara Beggs, Pat Herrington, Shirley Pinkston and Anne Marie Harwell.

Winners of the books written by Salado authors were Bobbie Carroll who won "Sirena" written by Jackie request "that my wordy not be buried in the grave with me, but shall live on through the lives of others".

Kempner

The Kempner Story as written by Rose is a contemporary love story and a story of triumph and self discovery. Rose as the writer uses excerpts of her mother's original text, who's main character was Carol Baker, and Rose creates a fictionalized daughter character Julie Baker Hargrove who becomes the interpreter for her mother's life and the actual writings done by her mother. The social and moral conflicts are evident between two generations of women, both in the fictionalized storyline and in the hints of truth that are evident. This unique approach to writing a book gives the reader a study in Generation writing styles and lifestyles between an actual mother and daughter and the characters they both created. It reflects the culture of Texas women and changes in the culture.

In 1994 Rose began her writing career with her first book Lottie Deno: Gambling Queen of Hearts, Clear Light Press. This is the biography of Charlotte Tompkins Thurmond, who during the 1870's was known in Texas as Lottie Deno the impressive lady gambler. Lottie mysteriously disappeared from the Texas Frontier and was not heard of again until Cynthia Rose pieced together her story. In 1995 this biography was signed for film by Producer Steven Hill and is under contract for a studio production in the coming years.

Film is also in the works for The Kempner Story with MAC Productions of Shreveport, LA. Cynthia Rose is actively involved with MAC Productions and producer Jim McCullough in his efforts for development of general audience and family film production. She works in the area of project funding for MAC.

The Paper Merchant is located in Magnolia's on the Square in Salado. Magnolia's is in a cluster of shops known as Salado Square, north of the creek on Main Street in the heart of town. Magnolia's telephone number is (254) 947-0323.
