

Salado lights up for Stroll

Experience the magic of Christmas during the 59th Annual Salado Christmas Stroll held annually the first two weekends of December and presented by the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

"The Christmas Stroll is Salado's favorite event of the year," says Lara Tracy, Chair of the Salado Chamber of Commerce. "Generations of families return every year and make lasting memories."

This year's Salado Christmas Stroll will kick-off at 6 p.m. Dec. 5 with a Lighted Christmas Parade.

With more than 50 participants, this year's parade is set to be the largest to date for Salado. First Calvary Division's Horse Cavalry has been a favorite of parade goers along with the Military Band of the Military Grand Marshall courted by a locally owned WWII Jeep. The Lighted Christmas Parade will begin at the corner of Royal and Main and end at the Salado Civic Center. The annual lighting of the trees at the Salado Civic Center will take place at the close of the parade. Come early to get a seat along the parade route and seek out a Sirena Youth Ambassador to purchase your parade light up accessory. Several shops are set to be open after the parade, so stay a little longer and get a jump on your Salado Christmas Stroll shopping.

On the weekends of Dec. 6-8 and Dec. 13-15, dozens of decorated boutiques open their doors for you to enjoy Late Night Shopping Friday and Saturday until 9 p.m. (or later) and Sundays until 5 p.m. Salado's Boutiques will be well stocked with a variety of merchandise, so you are sure to find something for everyone on your Christmas list. Sip hot cocoa while strolling down Main Street, where you will be serenaded by Strolling Carolers and encounter Live Music throughout the Village. Horse Drawn Carriage Rides will guide you down Main Street as you take in all the lights, sounds and warmth of the season.

A newcomer to the Salado Christmas Stroll is Sisters on the Fly. Perhaps you've seen them on The Today Show? This fun, nationally recognized group of ladies will be bringing their trailer tour to the grounds of the Salado Civic Center during the first weekend of stroll! You will be able to tour more than 50 creative, clever and unique travel trailers that have all been decorated for Christmas. You will find vintage models, contemporary ones and then some- Shasta, Airstream, Winnebago, Boles-Aero, and more. See story in the Salado Village Guide (C Section).

Have you been naughty or nice? Visit Santa at his new headquarters, located at Main Street and Rock Creek Drive. Santa will be available 4-8 p.m. Fridays, 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Saturdays, and the noon-3 p.m. Sunday Dec. 8. Photos with Santa will be provided by local photographer Solas Gallery, and of course parents you are welcome to take your own pictures.

The "Greatest Story Ever Told" comes to life 6-8 p.m. Friday and Saturday evenings during the Salado Christmas Stroll. First Baptist Church of Salado presents their Live Nativity at 210 South Main Street both weekends of the Stroll.

Two long standing traditions during the Salado Christmas Stroll are the Tour of Homes and Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." The Salado Historical Society will host this year's Home Tour on Saturday, December 7 and includes seven homes.

Tablerock Amphitheater of Salado will present their 27th Annual Performance of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol". The show begins at 7 p.m. on Dec. 6-7 and Dec. 13-14. Tickets for both events may be purchased online at CentralTexasTickets.com.

Swing by Barrow Brewing Company and browse local handmade crafts at their Christmas Market Noon-6 p.m. Dec. 7 and 14.

There will be FREE parking throughout the Village of Salado, including the Salado Civic Center, Brookshire Brothers, First Baptist Church of Salado, Church of Christ, Thomas Arnold Elementary School and the Salado Junior High School. Multiple Trolleys will be operating to help get you to and from.

Rio Salado Cocina y Cantina new Tex-Mex coming to Royal

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Early this spring, Salado will have a new Tex-Mex restaurant at 109 Royal Street, Rio Salado Cocina y Cantina in a building that has a history of food... and feed.

At one time, the building was part of the Guest and Sanford Feed and Grain complex when Salado was principally a farming and ranching town in the 1940-1950s.

Later, Karen Lee moved her store The Dusty Rose from the old Double Eagle Shopping Center (now named Old Town Salado). At that time, the front of the building was still without the amenities of air-conditioning. Karen eventually moved to the desert of the Southwest, taking with her the handmade and painted Santa ornaments for which she had become well-known.

After sitting empty and being used as storage for Stagecoach Inn, it was renovated and opened as Lucye's Place Barbecue by Salado native Sonny Berry. Sonny formerly owned Lucye's Place in the house of his mother, Miss Lucye on Thomas Arnold Rd. That restaurant sold to the Arthur Wade Capps family, and then Johnny Bratton bought the small restaurant on Thomas Arnold and changed the name to Johnny's Steaks & Barbeque.

Back to the building on Royal Street. After it was Lucye's Place, it had a spell as The Salado Patio, serving Tex-Mex Food.

The place sat empty for a while before Ramble Restaurant and Farmhouse Grill opened up to serve high-end cuisine for two years before closing earlier this year.

A group of local investors are now coming together to fill the need in Salado for a Tex-Mex restaurant that serves great food at reasonable prices.

Graydon and KD Hill, owners of Barrow Brewing Co., announced recently that a group is purchasing the property at 109 Royal Street.

Joining the Hills as investors are Jay and Tricia Ritch, Eric and Ami Stone, Randall and Jami Fischer, Mike and Lora Zuber, TG and Connie Nessler and Gail and Jennifer Allard.

A formal closing date for the sale of the property will be before Christmas, KD says, but the group has leased the property for the month of December to get in and start cleaning up and preparing the site for its new life as a Rio Salado Cocina y Cantina.

"We're going to have a pop-up of it during the Stroll," Hill told Salado Village Voice, explaining that the doors will be open to visitors and that they will be offering chips and salsa and some of the drinks that will be served from the bar, as well as hot chocolate.

"We want feedback on what people want in a restaurant," she said.

The pop-up will be open 4-10 p.m. Friday of both weekends of the Stroll (Dec. 6 and 13) and 2-10 p.m. Saturday of both weekends (Dec. 7 and 14).

"We are shooting for a soft opening in March," she added.

Itty Bitty City Scavenger Hunt takes you through Village

Salado residents and visitors alike will want to take part in the Itty Bitty City Scavenger Hunt sponsored by the Salado High School Eagle Bots.

The Itty Bitty City Scavenger hunt will take place both Saturdays of the Salado Christmas Stroll Dec. 7 and Dec. 14.

Members of the SHS Eagle Bots will be taking pictures of images (not item for sale) in many various shops around the Village.

To get your packet for the Itty Bitty Scavenger Hunt, visit the SHS Eagle Bots at the Gazebo on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center beginning at 10 a.m. Dec. 7 and Dec. 14. The team will also be selling hot chocolate, coffee and Robotics T-shirts until 6 p.m.

A small entrance fee will be taken from participants and the selected images will then be made available to them to find during their stroll through the Salado shops. They will fill out the appropriate form with the location of the images and return to the Eagle Bots.

A drawing will be held among the participants who complete the Scavenger Hunt forms. If no forms are completed, the winner will be picked from the participants with the most correct answers.

The prizes include a 7" Fire tablet and gift certificates from participating Scavenger Hunt shops.

"We will break down the shops into zones so that participants will know approximately where the images are located but they will not know which shops specifically," said Karyl Small, sponsor for the Eagle Bots.

For more information about the Itty Bitty Scavenger Hunt, call 540-272-1004 or email kksmall.ks@gmail.com.

Salado Eagle Bots are the SHS Robotics teams, which competes in UIL competitions which also fall under the FIRST Robotics Umbrella. FIRST Robotics is an international organization which hold competitions throughout the U.S. and the world. The competition rules and the season's challenge are released every January. The teams are given six weeks to design and build a robot to meet this challenge. They then compete against other teams in district wide events. The winners of the district competitions compete at the state level. The state winners move forward to compete in the world competitions which are held in Houston every year. The world competition includes teams from across the U.S. as well as international teams.

"Unlike other team events robotics competes across the board with teams from all UIL levels. Many of these teams are from larger and better funded schools. These larger schools are able to provide better equipment and materials to build their robots. There is even a team from Houston that is sponsored & mentored by NASA robotic engineers," Small said. "Despite the obvious disadvantage our team has against these teams our students represent Salado well in both ability and attitude."

"Last year our team competed in the quarter-final rounds in both of the district competitions we attended. In the past the Eagle Bots were selected by the state championship team to join their 3-bot team to compete in the world competition," she added.

"Building a robot, travel expenses, and competition entry fees are quite expensive," Small said. "Our team is responsible to raise our funds through various fund raising events."

"We have reached a point that, despite our prior successes," she said, "it is difficult to sustain our momentum and continue to compete against the larger schools without increasing both our fundraising and/or sponsorship activities."

Capital business investment grows by paltry 0.8%

The Markets

After peaking on the day before Thanksgiving at about 3154, the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) felt a bit overstuffed and sagged back a bit to 3140.98 as it closed out the day early on Black Friday. Still, it turned in a very respectable 1.21% gain for the shortened week. It is now up 3.4% for the past month and 7.4% for the trailing three months. To provide our traditional nonstandard perspective, the week's 1.21% gain puts the Index 3.8% higher than it was at the end of July and up at an annualized rate of about 4.6% since February 2018.

The ten-year U.S. Treasury note failed to get in the holiday mood as it fell 5 basis points to 1.782%. The Treasury yield curve remains essentially flat out to five years where it was showing a 1.635% yield. The curve is, in essence, predicting that interest rates will be slightly lower a year from now, at around 1.6%. The bond market is thereby collectively predicting a mild recession in 2020 but like most predictions, it is to be taken with a grain of salt. West Texas Crude oil (WTI) rather suddenly fell from $58 per barrel mid-day on Friday to close at $55.42 at the end of the day, taking it down 4.33% for the week. Traders credited the drop to a resurgence in pessimism on the U.S.-China trade war and resulting global demand for oil.

The Economy

The broad economic news initially looked fairly cheery this Thanksgiving week as the Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) revised the third quarter Real GDP growth rate with its "second" estimate, raising it from the first estimate's 1.9% to 2.1%. In the same report, the BEA reported the

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

core PCE Price Index, the Federal Reserve's preferred measure of inflation, was rising at a 2.1% annualized rate in the third quarter, almost exactly at the Fed's target of 2%. The report also revealed that the revised higher growth rate was primarily from increases in inventory, suggesting that pre-tariff hoarding was still a factor in the economy. Inventory buildup is, in effect, borrowing from future GDP numbers and in the event of a downturn can later become a negative GDP input.

While the revised third-quarter GDP data were pleasant, October, the first month in the fourth quarter, produced some less delightful results. For the first time in many months, personal income did not rise but rather came in at 0%. Disposable personal income sagged in inflation-adjusted dollars by 0.3%. U.S. household spending was up by what initially looked like a healthy margin of 0.3% for the month, but looking a bit deeper revealed the increase was from higher electric bills and more expensive gasoline. The darker side of the report revealed that spending for longer-lasting goods fell at a 0.7% rate. That core PCE inflation rate that reflects the change in prices on things that consumers actually buy each month, dropped back to a 1.6% year-over-year rate, indicating demand may be softening.

Another bit of concerning news the Wall Street Journal reported that capital business investment by the companies in the S&P 500 grew only 0.8% in the third quarter and without Apple and Amazon would have fallen. Back in late 2009, we reported that we were confident that the recession was over and good times were ahead because we saw dramatic increases in capital spending by major corporations. Capital spending, or investment, occurs when companies build or buy long-lasting equipment or buildings from which they intend to create profits in the future. A pullback in the capital spending rate has little short-term effect but bodes ill for the longer term.

Meanwhile, the CPB World Trade Monitor reported on Monday Nov. 26 that the volume of global trade dropped by 1.3% in September and is now down 1.1% from this time last year. It is important to remember that profits are generated by trade. A persistently declining trade volume globally will eventually create a global recession and we are part of the global economy.

Last but not least in the litany of news from the dismal science, the Conference Board's Index of Leading Economic Indicators (LEI) declined for the third consecutive month in October, down 0.1%, after falling 0.2% in August and September. Those declines bring the six-month average down to a -0.1%. The red flags are not up, predicting an imminent recession, but we are seeing yellow flags and if the LEI reports continue to fall, the probabilities of a recession in 2020 will grow from the roughly 50% level we are currently seeing.

Overall the data are strongly indicating a better than even chance of a mild economic recession in 2020.

The Check-the-Box Impeachment

Nancy Pelosi said she undertook impeachment "prayerfully," and apparently what she was praying was that she could get it over with as soon as possible.

The House is preparing to send a flagrantly incomplete factual record to the Senate as the basis of an effort to remove a sitting president for the first time in our history.

Pelosi has affected a posture of heavy-heartedness since the outset of the process, saying that "there's no joy in this" and urging a somber spirit as Democrats pursue the facts wherever they may take them -- so long as that's not too far into an election year.

In substantive terms, the Democrats had a good set of public hearings before Adam Schiff's intelligence committee in recent weeks -- with one gaping hole. They didn't have anyone with first-hand knowledge of Trump's directives on Ukraine or his state of mind. The closest was EU ambassador Gordon Sondland, who, still, could only "presume" a quid pro quo over the defense aid.

There are people who probably don't have to presume, and Sondland named some of them: Trump's personal counsel Rudy Giuliani, acting White House chief of staff Mick Mulvaney, Vice President Mike Pence and Secretary of

Rich Lowry

State Mike Pompeo. They all were closer to this than Sondland, yet Democrats are happy to make the guy from the outer bounds of the inner circle their "star witness" and forgo the inner circle. To get the more central witnesses requires litigation since they all have at least colorable claims of privilege. The Democrats don't want to wait for the courts.

The minimum requirement of a historic impeachment case, only the fourth in our history, would seem to be a complete account of the facts. Schiff used to say as much: "We have to flesh out all of the facts for the American people. The seriousness of the matter and the danger to our country demands nothing less." Now, the seriousness and the danger are demanding that Democrats rush things along so the president can be impeached by the end of the year.

No matter how often Democrats say, "Let's honor the Constitution," their actions say, "Let's check the box."

Democrats have had the difficulty from the beginning of trying to build an edifice of impeachment and removal atop the narrow foundation of the Ukraine episode, and now they aren't even going to finish the edifice, content with what they could complete in a two-month investigation largely reliant on the testimony of people who weren't around for the main events (former U.S. ambassador to Ukraine Marie Yovanovitch) or were out of the loop (former Trump Russia adviser Fiona Hill).

With every day that passes it becomes a little more absurd to say Trump should be impeached and removed when the public can make its own verdict in the election. Besides, Democrats know that impeachment is going nowhere in the Senate, so why bother locking down the case to make it worthy of the gravity of the process?

They might as well go with what they have, a partisan impeachment pursued on a political timetable. During Bill Clinton's impeachment, it was his defenders who were saying, "Let's move on." Now, it's Trump's pursuers, who prayerfully and sorrowfully want to get impeachment over with.

Bell County Cities to receive Child Safety Fees Vehicle Registration County Fees

In 2001, Bell County Commissioners Court authorized the county to collect $1.50 on each Vehicle Registration.

In the Bell County 2019 Fiscal Year, $435,636.00 was collected with Vehicle Registrations.

By Texas Law, Transportation Code, Chapter 502.403, the amount collected must be distributed to the municipalities in the county based on population and must be used for Crossing Guard Programs.

If there are no crossing guard programs, School Districts can use the funds on health, nutrition, child abuse prevention and intervention, or drug and alcohol abuse prevention.

"The FY2019 amount is the largest amount collected since Bell County started this program and is $7,741.50 more than FY2018", Shay Luedeke, Bell County Tax Assessor-Collector said. "It's the result of registering 290,424 vehicles in Bell County during the fiscal year."

- Allocation of funds:
- Killeen - $161,651.45
  - Temple - $83,550.63
  - Harker Heights - $33,757.43
  - Belton - $23,014.65

  - Rogers - $1,529.08
  - Holland - $1,411.46
  - Bell County (Unincorporated Areas) - $67,358.04
- "These figures are calculated with the populations from the 2010 Census. In 2020, with the new census we will adjust our formulas accordingly. This is one of the many reasons why responding to the census is so important.", Luedeke said.

Bell County Commissioners approved the report on Monday, November 25th during Commissioner's Court. Over the next couple of months, the funds will be distributed at the regularly scheduled City Council meetings while some municipalities will be receiving theirs in the next couple of weeks.

St. Joseph's Episcopal Posada held Dec. 14

St. Joseph's Episcopal Church will continue the annual tradition of "Posada" on December 14. The procession will assemble at 5 p.m. at the Salado Museum and wends its way through the village with its final stop at St. Joseph's Church. Upon arriving the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated in honor of the Virgin of Guadalupe by the Rev. John Williams.

A fiesta dinner followed by piñata will be held at the adjoining parish hall at 7 p.m. The public is invited to participate.

The origins of the posada are centuries old. The custom was developed as a way of teaching people the story of Joseph and Mary's journey to Bethlehem. Traditionally, the procession stops three times at different locations. At each stop St. Joseph asks for shelter for his wife who is pregnant. At the final stop the innkeeper suggests they stay in the stable. The "pilgrims" then enter the church for the service. If you would like to participate in the posada by singing, please Rene Oas, parish administrator at St. Joseph's for a copy of the music.

Wylene Freeman Williams
1937 - 2019

On November 27, 2019, Wylene Freeman Williams received the ultimate gift... her heavenly home. Because of God's amazing grace, Wylene is enjoying renewed strength with special friends and family members who have gone before her.

Born in Ripley, MS, on August 30, 1937, to S.A. and Zora Freeman, Wylene learned to worship, serve, and give generously to people in need. Being a preacher's daughter, she learned to be confident and adjust to change, as they moved from one town to another, finally graduating from high school in the west Texas town of Olton.

Wylene's college years were spent at Abilene Christian College, where she played French Horn in the Big Purple Band and served as majorette during the football season. She not only left ACC with an Elementary Education degree, but also with Bennie Williams, her devoted husband of almost 61 years, who has faithfully cared for Wylene "in sickness and in health." They made a terrific team, raising three children, and fostering one other, all while teaching school and managing a variety businesses in Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Waco, Colorado, Temple, Salado and Talpa.

Wylene enjoyed cooking, sewing, camping, painting, and collecting antiques. She was an active member of civic groups, performed with the Salado Chorus, and faithfully taught young children at the Salado Church of Christ. During her later years, Wylene became a loyal fan of the San Antonio Spurs, keeping up with their stats, news, and players as if they were members of the family.

Wylene was a committed wife to Bennie, devoted mom to Marci, Mindi, and Barry, "Nanny" to Travis, Hannah, Ty, Michaela, and Mychal, and a loving big sis to Doyle Freeman.

Because of her caring nature, she became a surrogate mother to many others in her life, such as Doug, Beth, and Bonnie.

All that we love deeply becomes a part of us."*

In lieu of flowers, donations may be given in her name to Cherokee Children's Home.

The 7th and 8th grade Faith Formation class of St. Stephen's Catholic Church would like to extend a heart-felt "thank you" to all of the St. Stephen's parishioners as well as to the Village of Salado. Your generosity helped the St. Vincent de Paul food bank in Temple feed the hungry and homeless in our area. Because of your kindness and goodness, the students were able to collect 998.5 pounds of food and collected $375.00 in monetary donations for the food bank. Caitlin, assistant executive director at St. Vincent, was very appreciative of the students' desire to help those less fortunate. She told the students that this is the first time in the twenty years that she has been around St. Vincent that a private organization has ever conducted a personal food drive for the food bank. The youth group is hoping to make this a yearly a project, and they hope that you will continue to support them and those in need in future food drives.

Enchilada Fundraiser accepting orders Dec. 5 at Thomas Arnold

Salado resident Belia Rodriguez and others in the Sunday School class at First Baptist Church in Salado are holding a fundraiser for HL and Sheila Jennings, a couple that are rebuilding their Vidor home after Hurricane Harvey in 2017 and Hurricane Imelda earlier this year.

"They couldn't save their furniture and had to toss almost everything," Rodriguez said. "Right now they are still living in a camping trailer in the front yard."

Rodriguez learned of this from the couple's son during Sunday school class where he is a member.

"Sheila visited us one Sunday and told us her story," Rodriguez said. "She shared how hard this has been on them but what really touched my heart was that she was more concerned for others than herself and talked about the work they were doing to help friends, neighbors and even those they didn't know in Vidor and the surrounding area. So our class decided to help them."

They are selling pans of a dozen enchiladas for $15. The deadline to order them is Dec. 5. You can reserve yours by sending an email to Belia at belia\_us@yahoo.com.

The enchiladas will be ready for pickup 11 a.m. - noon on Dec. 7 at Thomas Arnold Elementary Building 2 (formerly Salado Intermediate School at 560 Thomas Arnold Rd.).

You can order cheese or beef and cheese enchiladas or combo (six of each).

Cash or checks only are being accepted. Checks should be made out to Belia Rodriguez with memo for Jennings Fundraiser.

Tablerock's Christmas Carol stays true to Dickens

By JACKIE MILLS
TABLEROCK

Twenty-five years ago, after winging it through two years of A Christmas Carol, I called Harry Sweet and asked him to direct a true version of Dickens' A Christmas Carol.

"What script do you use?" Harry questioned. After I hemmed and stammered around a bit, Harry said, "In other words, Jackie, you want me to write a script based on Dickens' story of A Christmas Carol and then direct the play?"

"Exactly." I explained. And he did.

Both Dickens and Harry Sweet have passed on to their greater rewards, but the story and the play lingers and grows more important to everyone each Christmas than any other story except for the Bible's history of the birth of Jesus Christ.

Harry kept the play exactly like Dickens wrote the story; with only one minor addition. Dickens did not name Nephew Fred's wife in his story. Harry's age, his love of the theater and the fun loving twinkle in his eye made him name Fred's wife "Ginger" for the play. Harry must have watched a lot of Fred Astair and Ginger Rogers movies in his misspent youth. I feel sure Dickens forgave Harry! And the minor change took nothing away from the story that has always renewed our faith in our fellow man, gave us Hope for the future and taught us the true spirit of Charity. We always leave the amphitheater appreciating our family and loved ones and firmly set on a more righteous path. No wonder it is a favorite Christmas play!

In 2019, for the 25th year, Charles' story and Harry's adaption for the stage will once again grace Tablerock's Goodnight Amphitheater on Friday and Saturday nights of December 6-7 and December 13-14 with the Yuletide rendition of A Christmas Carol.

Director Thom Wilson will oversee a cast and crew of more than 60 zealous actors and polished crew members to entertain the masses.

Ticket sales at the gate will be sold starting at 6 p.m. with the performance beginning at 7 p.m.. Ticket prices are a nominal $10 for adults, $5 for students of any age and $3 for children 12 and under.

Popcorn, nachos, hot dogs, hot chocolate and funnel cakes will be ready for the concession stand to open at 6 p.m.

For groups of 20 or more please call 254-947-9205.

In Harry's will he bequeathed his A Christmas Carol script to Tablerock with instructions to "Keep the play true to Dickens."

And we do.

Join the cast this weekend to see for yourself.

Marley's ghost will be portrayed by Howard Horton.

Several holiday shows highlight Mayborn Science Theater's December

The Mayborn Science Theater announced its December show lineup which includes several holiday-themed shows. Featured holiday shows are the animated "The Alien Who Stole Christmas" and "Let It Snow: A Holiday Music Journey" along with "The Mystery of the Christmas Star and the laser light show "Laser Holidays." Also featured during the month are Laser Friday, Warren's Star Tour, Classic Movie "Nite" and weekday matinees.

The Saturday matinee lineup begins at 11 a.m. with "The Alien Who Stole Christmas." The show takes the audience on a tour of the winter's night sky with jolly ol' Santa Claus and concerned friendly alien, Mr. Freep, as they explore the solar system and meet the Christmas Eve needs of kids on other planets.

"Dinosaur Passage to Pangaea" is at 12 p.m. This adventurous and educational thrill ride follows two children as they embark on a field trip back in time where they witness incredible geological wonders and learn the mysterious process that created our present-day continents. From racing across the landscape atop dinosaurs, to plummeting to the center of the Earth, this animated spectacle is an invigorating look at the basic forces that forged our world.

At 1 p.m. is "Kiuguyat: The Northern Lights" which showcases the dancing lights known as the aurora borealis. During winter months, those living above the Arctic Circle are treated to a magical display of vibrant colors and movements, as these lights fill the entire sky. The audience will also enjoy this beautiful splendor through stunning time-lapse photography. The show introduces the audience to the indigenous residents of Alaska's Far North as they share traditional stories, songs, personal experiences, celebrations and generational knowledge related to the Northern Lights and how they are a familiar and welcome sight.

Journey back 2,000 years for the holiday show "Mystery of the Christmas Star" at 2 p.m. This modern retelling of the Christmas story investigates the signs in the sky remarkable enough to cause the wise men to follow a star across the desert from Babylon to Bethlehem just to see a newborn king.

"Tales of the Maya Skies" is at 3 p.m. The audience is immersed in Maya science, art and mythology and is transported back to the ancient jungles of Mexico where the Maya built cities and temples aligned to movements of the sun, moon and planets. The show weaves together a rich combination of science, culture and legend while taking viewers to the "seventh wonder of the modern world" to revisit the sounds and sights of an ancient way of life.

At 4 p.m. is "Pandas: The Journey Home." Presented by National Geographic, the show gives the audience unprecedented access to meet all of the pandas at the Wolong Panda Center in China as they get ready for their new lives in various parts of the world. The audience will see these cute, lovable creatures as never before and learn about their fascinating habits and personalities.

The evening shows begin with a festive holiday program at 7 p.m. "Let It Show: A Holiday Music Journey" features a variety of joyful holiday classics performed by Frank Sinatra, Chuck Berry, Burl Ives and Brenda Lee. Other standards are performed by Ella Fitzgerald, Harry Connick, Jr., John Denver and Gene Autry. It also features a must-see, stunning multi-media finale by the Trans-Siberian Orchestra. The soundtrack is visually enhanced with thematic animation, laser imagery, special effects and full-dome scenery.

At 8 p.m. is the laser light show "Laser Holidays" which offers an eclectic blend of musical genres from orchestral to country, new age and good old rock and roll. Traditional holiday tunes such as Bing Crosby's "White Christmas" and Burl Ives' "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" are presented alongside modern artists such as Mariah Carey's "All I Want for Christmas is You" and "Christmastime" by the Smashing Pumpkins.

"Totality: Explore the Wonder of Eclipses" is at 9 p.m. The show examines the phenomena of eclipses - what they are, how and when they occur and what wonderful sights they create. The show offers a look back to a fascinating period in scientific discovery when general relativity was proven with the photographic recording of a total solar eclipse.

Laser Friday is December 13 and features three laser light shows. First is "Laser Rush 2112" which includes the entire breakthrough album by the classic rock band Rush set to high-tech laser imagery. At 8 p.m. is "Laser Holidays" followed at 9 p.m. by "Laser Magic." This show offers a diverse set of pop and rock favorites from artists like Elton John, Will Smith, Shania Twain, No Doubt, Third-Eye Blind, Joan Jett and many others.

On Saturday, December 14, explore the constellations and stars of the current night sky with Warren's Star Tour. Then enjoy weekday matinees on Wednesday, December 11 and December 18 at 3:30 p.m.

The Mayborn Science Theater will be closed December 20 through January 4 but will be open for Classic Movie "Nite" on Friday, December 27 with the holiday fun of "Elf" at 1:30 p.m. and "Polar Express" at 3:30 p.m. Matinee shows will also air Saturday December 28, Friday, January 3 and Saturday, January 4 at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Sisters on the Fly bring Winter Wonderland IV to Salado

Sisters on the Fly wants its members to get up, get outdoors and get together. Sisters on the Fly (SOTF) is the largest women's organization in the U.S., with a focus on the outdoors. There are members in all 50 states as well as a presence in Canada, Australia and France.

SOTF members are known for their very cool vintage campers. Members and their elaborately painted and decorated trailers have been featured on the Travel Channel, Texas Country Reporter, the Today Show and Oprah.com.

Winter Wonderland IV will showcase more than 50 campers decorated inside and out for the Christmas season. Salado Christmas Stroll will welcome the sisters to the grounds of the Salado Civic Center for interior tours from 2 - 4 p.m. Dec. 6 and 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. Dec. 7. On Friday you can check out the exteriors until 9 p.m.

SOTF is a membership-based community that supports women in their efforts to experience the outdoors with a style, color and passion that's unique the organization. With a network of over 5000 actively participating women and an impressive calendar of events that take place all over the country, year round. Sister activities (member-hosted events like Winter Wonderland) and corporate-organized GO Sister Trips, include everything from Girls' Night Out to horseback riding, camping, hiking, outdoor gathering, wine tasting and most famously, restoring and touring vintage campers. Above all, Sisters on the Fly offers a safe and supportive social structure and culture for women of all walks of life to come together, enjoy each other's company and enjoy the great outdoors.

It all began on a fishing trip in August of 1999 with real life sisters Becky Clarke and Maurie Sussman. Raised by an adventurous mother who taught them how to enjoy the outdoors and become capable, independent women.

While fishing in Montana, the two realized "We are having way too much fun to keep all the good times to ourselves. Let's invite some of our girlfriends to come along on the next trip." And that's just how Sisters on the fly was born.

Becoming a SOTF requires registering at sister-sonthefly.com. According to the website: A Sister must be at least 21 years old to join but other than that, there aren't too many rules...except these: "No men, no kids, be nice and have fun!"

The Sisters on the Fly

movement is about sisterhood at its best.

The group is more than just a collection of creative outdoorsy women, at the heart of Sisters on the Fly is love and support. It is a fellowship of sisters celebrating and caring for one another. Sharing ideas, expertise and having each others back unconditionally.

Part of that fellowship is the support of the Mazie Morrison Foundation, created in honor of the founders mother and inspiration for the Sisters on the Fly organization. The foundation provides charitable grants to women and girls to enhance the well-being of their lives.

The bidding:

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

A defender is often forced to assume that a specific lie of the cards exists without knowing whether in fact it actually does. The defender makes the assumption after reaching the conclusion that if the desired situation does not exist, there is no hope for a favorable outcome.

Consider West's predicament in this deal. He led the club jack, taken by dummy's king. The jack of hearts was then finessed, losing to West's king. The question at this point was what West should do next.

After considerable thought, he found the only play to defeat the contract: He led the queen of diamonds! Declarer won with dummy's king, drew trumps and tried a spade finesse. East won and returned a diamond through the J-6, and declarer went down one, losing a spade, a heart and two diamonds.

The queen-of-diamonds play was far from just a lucky shot. It was based entirely on what could be seen in dummy and the play to the first two tricks, as well as the bidding.

West realized that if declarer had the king of spades together with the strong hearts and ace of clubs he was already known to hold, there was no possibility of beating the contract. He therefore had to assume that his partner held the spade king.

However, that would give the defense only three tricks — a spade, a heart and a diamond. One more would be needed, and the only hope lay in diamonds. Furthermore, the trick had to be established before the king of spades was dislodged; otherwise, South could discard at least two diamonds on dummy's spades.

Once this determination was made, the only remaining question was which diamond to lead. The play of the ace or a low diamond would hand South a second diamond trick whenever he held the jack; only the lead of the queen could neutralize declarer's jack if he had it.

So West led the queen, and South had to go down one.

Christmas Tour of Homes slated for December 7

The Salado Historical Society will present its annual Christmas Home Tour 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Dec. 7. The one day event will feature six homes and two historic log cabins decorated for Christmas.

Tickets are $20 in advance and $25 the day of the event. Purchase and print online tickets at CentralTexasTickets.com or begin the tour by purchasing a ticket at the Salado Public Library until 2 p.m., no tickets will be sold at the homes.

Members of the Salado Historical Society will be at the Salado Public Library from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Friday for advance ticket sales, cash or check only.

The tour homes are:
 The Stucky Home - Features primitive barn doors, light fixtures, shiplap, decorated in a Ranch style decor.
 The Allen Home - with lovely dual chandeliers in the dining room, an orb crystal fixture in the entry, and apothecary jar pendants in the kitchen this home is beautifully lit for the season.

The Walsh Home - This ranch style orange stone home features an antique fireplace and a custom floor plan that is one of a kind.

The Tyson Home - designed by the architect Darwin Britt with old pine piers and beams reclaimed from wooden warehouses.

The Corbin Home - A one-of-a-kind home on a hill curated with an eye for Frank Lloyd Wright's Prairie Style.

The Newman Home - Inspired by homes and gardens in the Colonial Williamsburg Historic Area.

The Baran Home - With a magnificent view of the golf course and the tranquil club pond and fountain, each room in the home offers themed Christmas trees and decorations.

The Salado Historical Society Cabins - The Aiken-Boles cabin, the Denman Cabin and the Writer's cabin, all Bell county originals, are located behind the Salado Civic Center will be open for viewing. Christmas trees decorated with themed ornaments made by the Salado fourth grade classes will be on display in the Boles-Aiken Cabin. You do not need a ticket to see these creative ornaments.

Proceeds of the tour fund the efforts of the Salado Historical Society, including the preservation of the historic cabins.
