Candidates file in local races

Three candidates have filed for election to the Salado ISD Board of Trustees, including two incumbents. Incumbents Kim Bird and Troy Smith have both filed for re-election and Savannah Hennig has filed for election to three-year terms on the board of trustees.

Nate Self told Salado Village Voice that he is not going to seek re-election to the school board.

"As much as I have enjoyed my time on the board, after a lot of prayer and consultation with family, I'm not going to run this time around," Self stated. "I feel like I need to tend more to my growing business and to my new duties as a deacon at First Baptist Church Salado—not to mention striving to be a good husband and father of four!"

"I so much appreciate the opportunity I've had to interact with such a wonderful board and school administration," he added. "I feel like we were able to tackle some challenging tasks, and I'm grateful to have been a part of it."

Three three-year terms on the Salado ISD Board of Trustees will be decided in the May election.

In addition to the school board race in May, there will be elections for the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen and the Salado Public Library District board of directors.

The last day to file for a place on the ballot in those local elections is Feb. 14. The last day to file for a declaration of write-in candidacy in those local elections is Feb. 18.

Two two-year terms on the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen will be on the ballot for May, as well as a two-year term as the Village of Salado Mayor.

Skip Blancett will complete his third two-year term as Village Mayor. We reached out to Blancett about whether he was going to file for re-election, but have not heard back from him as of presstime.

Frank Coachman will complete his third two-year term on the Board of Aldermen. He told Salado Village Voice that he has not yet made a decision about seeking re-election.

Michael Coggin will complete his first two-year term on the Board of Aldermen. He filed for re-election on Jan. 21.

Two two-year terms come up for election in May on the Salado Public Library Board. Bill Kinnison will complete his fifth term on the board and Nancy Mills Mackey will complete her third two-year term.

The last day to register to vote before the May 2 election is April 2. Early voting will be April 20-28.

The last day to apply for a ballot by mail is April 20. The last day to receive the ballot by mail is May 2.

Dr. Mann visits Salado Dems

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"The NRCC doesn't go after an opposing candidate if the seat is locked up," Dr. Christine Eady Mann told two dozen Salado Democrats Jan. 20. "This seat is far from locked up."

Dr. Mann, who is running in the Democratic Party primary for U.S. House of Representatives District 31, told the audience that the national Democratic party considers District 31 to be one of the top 20 seats in the country that could be flipped from red to blue in 2020.

M.J. Hegar came closer in 2018 than any of Rep. John Carter's opponents in his 18 years in office. Rep. Carter has beaten Democrat opponents by as much as 69.1% to 27.4%. In 2018, he won by 50.6% to Hegar's 47.6% of the vote.

Dr. Mann lost to Hegar in the Democrat primary runoff but has had a grassroots organization on the ground since then in hopes of facing off against Rep. Carter this term.

The top concern among voters she meets is healthcare. As a physician for more than two decades, Dr. Mann says that she has had "to fight back against big pharma and health insurance industry on behalf of my patients."

She says that universal healthcare is "beyond a moral benefit for our country, it is an economic benefit to our country."

Another topic of interest among voters in the district is immigration. Dr. Mann said she has traveled to the border to volunteer her services as a doctor in shelters and clinics for asylum seekers. At one time, the Border Patrol, she said, put asylum seekers on a bus and "told them to come back for their hearings." Catholic charities saw the need and stepped in to offer shelter, healthcare, food and clothing to those asylum seekers, until the decision by the Trump administrator to require asylum seekers to wait in Mexico until their hearings.

"They are victims of the cartels they are trying to escape," she said. "We can and we must do better."

Residents can take simple steps to thwart crime

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Simple steps by homeowners and residents could prevent the majority of the vehicle thefts and burglaries that have happened in the Salado area in the past several months.

"These crews have a certain M.O.," Police Chief Pat Boone told a group of about 70 local residents crammed into the meeting space at the Salado Public Library Jan. 18. "A driver drops someone off and he checks the doors of cars that are parked on the road or in the driveway. If it is unlocked, they always test the start button to see if the keys have been left in it. They also look for valuables to steal, especially guns."

If the car does start, they steal it and may use it within a few hours to commit other crimes in the area. "They know that the car won't be reported until the homeowner wakes up and goes out to the car to head to work. That usually gives them a few hours."

"They know that we live with the sense of safety and security that you can leave the doors of your house and cars unlocked," Chief Boone said. "They are counting on that."

Recently, Salado police recovered an AR-15 that a suspect dropped in the garbage of a house on South Ridge as he fled on foot from police. The suspect later knocked on the door of a house on Whispering Oaks and told the resident that he was from Killeen and visiting family in Salado and got lost. Later, the suspect stole a car from the driveway of a home on Cedar Park Circle, which was discovered the following day abandoned in Killeen.

"They could have been stepping up their game," Chief Boone said. "I believe they were going for a home invasion, but the video alarm and dog may have scared them off."

Chief Boone says that the recent thefts and burglaries are being committed by gang members.

He asks residents not to engage with them, if they should come knocking late at night or early in the morning. "If someone is knocking on your door at these late hours of the night and early hours before morning, you do not have to answer the door," Chief Boone said.

The safest thing to do, he told the audience, is to dial 911. "You may not think it is an emergency," he said, "but if they are suspicious to you, they are suspicious to us."

"If you try to stop them on your own, they won't think twice about doing something to you," Chief Boone said.

Having a well-lighted yard, driveway, porch and entry way will help prevent these types of crimes. "The more visible the perimeter of the property, the better it is," Chief Boone said.

Boone told the audience that Salado police are patrolling the residential areas at night. "We're not going to check your car doors," he said, "that would be going on your property and trespassing."

Salado PD has a patrol service for when you leave town. Residents can fill out a form for the dates that they will be out of town and Salado PD will patrol the house more closely. The form allows you to report cars that you expect to have at your home (house cleaning, yard service, in-home care, etc.) as well.

He encouraged residents to pursue forming Neighborhood Watch programs on their blocks. "We can't do this for you, but we can help you," he said.

The Village has an active Citizens on Patrol program to patrol residential and business areas of Salado. Volunteers check business doors after hours and report any suspicious activities that they might see. If you are interested in volunteering for the COPS program, call Larry Nathanson at 254-947-4907.

Joining Chief Boone at the meeting were Sgt. Pence, Constable Rolly Correa and Bell Co. Sheriff's Deputy Sam Mikeska.

18% of S&P 500 value sits with just 5 companies

The Markets

As we cruised into the third week of the new year, the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX), our preferred indicator of the health and attitude of that entity we call "The Stock Market", soared 1.97% in five days to 3,329.62 as it continued to break record high levels each day. There is no question we are now in a run-away bull market bearing little or no relationship to corporate earnings or much of anything else that can be measured or witnessed in the real world. It has now become so routine for the stock market indexes to break records that the news media has ceased to report it. On Wednesday the Dow Jones Industrial Average (the Dow) busted through 29,000 with barely a whisper in the news. A mere 2.2% rise in the Dow put it over the 30,000 mark.

Some perspective is due here. One way of looking at where we are today is not that on January 26, 2018, the SPX closed at 2,873 and has appreciated 15.9% or about 8% per year from that early 2018 high mark in two years. The other viewpoint is that the Index is up almost 25% from one year ago. Is the market being completely rational or are we seeing, once again, irrational exuberance emerging from over-optimistic investors? Only time will tell.

The U.S. Treasury 10-year note yield didn't exactly join in the party but didn't avoid it either, rising 2.36% to yield 1.831% at the end of the week. West Texas Intermediate Oil declined in price by 0.69% to close the week at $58.72.

The Economy

The U.S. economy is sending the same signals it has been transmitting for the past several months, only stronger. Alphabet, Google's parent company, became the fourth publicly-traded company in history to top one trillion dollars in value, following Apple Inc., Ama-

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

zon.com Inc., and Microsoft Corp. in a valuation surge for the 50 biggest publicly traded companies. Tesla, the electric automaker, surged to a valuation of $81.39 billion passing Ford's record $80.81 billion set in 1999 even as the company struggled to turn a profit. The big profits are in the banking sector though. JPMorgan, the biggest bank in the United States by deposits, reported its most profitable year on record with earnings up 21% while Citigroup's profits increased 15%. Both reported that their soaring profits were primarily not from lending money but rather from investment banking activities (new stock offerings). The S&P 500 Index now has 18% of its total value concentrated in five companies, Apple, Microsoft, Alphabet, Amazon, and Facebook.

If this situation sounds familiar, then your memory of the economy and the markets must extend back over twenty years. As we entered the year 2000, the scenario was eerily similar. What we called the "dot-com" companies back then are the "tech" companies of today. Corporate earnings across the broad market had been declining in 1999 but there was a consensus that the behemoth "miracle" companies with their high-tech, new economy magic would somehow be able to generate good profits even if the broad economy sagged. That same consensus is once again appearing in print. The more we look, the more this looks like early 2000.

The Senate passed the USMCA, NAFTA's replacement and sent it to the President to sign. That bipartisan vote marked an end to the threat of NAFTA being pulled by the administration with no replacement. While the provisions are not markedly different between the two agreements, the key is that North America remains a free-trade zone, one of the cornerstones to the economic growth of North America over the past twenty-five years.

The U.S. Treasury announced that the official deficit for calendar year 2019 has exceeded $1 trillion. The government collected $3.5 trillion in revenues, 5% more than in 2018, but spent $4.5 trillion more than last year, an increase in spending of 7.5%. Additionally, the Treasury announced it would soon be issuing 20-year bonds to help bridge the gap. The annual federal deficit now equals 4.7% of our Gross Domestic Product with that number projected to double in about a decade.

The always dependable Bureau of Labor Statistics released 2019's estimate of the change in the Consumer Price Index and it was up 2.3% for one year. Another release this week from the Federal Reserve was less impressive as the Fed reported that U.S. Industrial Production was down 1% from a year ago and was falling at a 3.6% annualized rate in December.

The stock market is roaring upward, consumer spending is robust, although perhaps losing momentum, commercial investment is negative, and industrial production is sagging. Not much has changed but the disconnect is large enough that something will have to at some point. Either the core of our economy will begin to grow rather than shrink or the consumer will eventually run out of steam. Stay tuned.

You can't be the beacon, if your light don't shine

Dear Editor:

01/04/2020

Maudie and I arrived at the airport in Austin to fly to Portland Maine. We split up at the security check lines, she went to one and I to the other. I asked the officer if I had to remove my shoes since I was 77 years old, he said that at 75 a person does not have to remove their shoes. Of course, Maudie already had hers off and upon my notification that she didn't need to remove them she just slipped them back on and was standing there with untied boots waiting to go through the security cameras. A very sweet young lady walked up and asked her if she could tie them for her, which she did and everyone around smiled. Tender moment.

01/05/2020

We were walking down the shoreline in Portland Maine, it was cold but snow and ice had started to melt. We were doing just fine until we turned a corner and noticed we were about 5 yards on black ice, we were slipping and sliding on the iced over sidewalk-not good. A man appeared out of nowhere, told us to stand still and he would assist us in getting off the ice. He took Maudie's arm and told her to step on the snow and took her to the pavement and safety. He repeated the same thing with me and parted with "hope you enjoy Maine"! Where did he come from?

01/06-01/08/2020

Fast forward and we were in Brunswick Maine and Boston Massachusetts. In Brunswick we arrived by cab to our upscale hotel to find "no one at home". I finally found someone in the back and she explained they were having electrical issues and had been for some time. We both agreed that since I had booked the reservations directly with the hotel- we should have been told. Not only did the very nice lady call a competitor and book us a room, she loaded our stuff into her car, drove us there and apologized again. Classy lady! PS Brunswick in the winter looks like something you see on a Christmas card.

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

A couple of days later I asked the desk clerk at our Boston hotel to call us a cab for the airport. He said he would but said that should we want to save a little money, there was a subway station directly in front of the hotel and it was only two stops to the airport buses that dropped us off at the airline gate. So, we could get to our gate for about $5 instead of the $30 cab ride. Now, I may be a liberal politically however when it comes to money-well. We pulled our 3 luggage bags out to the subway entrance. Oh no- the gates were down a steep staircase and here were two old people wondering if I had made the correct choice. A "panhandler" was sitting in a wheelchair, he very politely said: "there's an elevator on the other side of that wall". Problem solved. When we got to the gate to go through to the subway train it was early and no one was even in the room with us. Of course, we were having to try to figure out how to use the ticket machine. Maudie saw a man walking from the trains toward the exit gates and said, "go ask him". Really? I always do what my wife tells me so I approached the gentleman who had by this time come through the exit gate. It became clear that neither of us spoke the other's native language but that was not at all necessary. We both knew exactly what the other was thinking. He reached into his pocket, pulled out his pass. He inserted it and we went through the gate. I pulled out my wallet and he smiled and said "no-no".

While waiting on the subway train there was one person waiting with us. She was a native of Colombia but knew enough English to ask if we needed help in order to get on the correct subway car. Odd thing was she was holding a quart of milk the entire time. She was going home-just like us. When we started to exit the subway and get on the airport bus, as if some unknown force existed she and Maudie arose from their seats on the subway, they moved towards each other and exchanged a small embrace. Wow!

When we got home, we gave thanks for a safe trip but we also wondered if the young lady at the airport who tied Maudie's boot laces, the gentleman who helped us to get off the frozen sidewalk, the employee of the hotel in Brunswick who took us to a competitor, the desk clerk at the hotel in Boston who sent us to the subway, the panhandler, the gentleman who let us use his pass, the Colombian lady with the quart of milk were all there just by happenstance? I don't know-all I do know is that the good people of this earth are still out there.

Past Travis' message this past Sunday was spot on - quoting (almost): "You can't be the beacon if your light don't shine". Light 'em up boys and girls-let it shine-let it shine-let it shine!

Antique Pilot Association of Salado, Texas “We flew them, they retired them”

By DAVID WILLIAMS AND BILL MULKINS

I used to wonder what happens to pilots when they grow old. Pilots are an interesting group of individuals. Pilots tend to be independent, confident, self-initiators, risk takers, and best of all story tellers. It is usually not hard to tell when a group of pilots are in conversation. A sure give away is seeing a lot of hand movement, a loud lackadaisical tone to their voice, and all other's eyes fixed on the speaker with an occasional smile or nod of agreement. Such is the atmosphere on any given Saturday around brunch time at McCain's Café in Salado, Texas.

Salado is a small village in Central Texas with a population of about 2,000. One-third of the inhabitants are over the age of 65. Many folks come to settle in Salado from all over the country. It has a wonderful little creek that passes through the middle and quaint little shops, restaurants and galleries to keep the tourists busy. One such restaurant is McCain's Café, located on Main Street next to the red brick Civic Center, which use to be the original elementary and High School, but now is the Independent School District Offices and the local courthouse.

McCain's Café is a meeting place for many citizens of Salado and the nearby home-steads. It became a meeting place for some local pilots about 10 years ago. Prior to this group becoming the Antique Pilots Association of Salado in 2017, they were just known as the Pilot's Club. Unofficially, it was for pilots only, whether you were a military pilot, former military pilot, or civilian pilot. It also did not matter if you flew airplanes, helicopters, or gliders; you just had to have been a designated pilot.

It is a come as you are collection of pilots who enjoy meeting together for comradery and storytelling. There is a Topic of the Week that is sent out via email or text prior to the meeting. Everyone who joins in the brunch will have to tell a story related to the topic, which never seems to be an issue, as pilots all have similar adventures at one time or another. Stories about initial flight training, flight instructors, bad and good co-pilots, best and worst flying conditions, in-flight emergencies, unusual passengers or cargo, pilot call signs or nicknames, fastest speed, highest altitude, best or worst airfields, flying in foreign countries, unusual cockpit equipment, and the list goes on and on.

As I sit in these gatherings and listen to the stories, I can't help but think of the rich history being unfolded in front of me. To the speaker, they are just a way of life as a pilot. You just did what you had to do at the time. You never really thought that your contribution would be an important part of History. You find that many of the pilots enjoy telling the stories, but few feel the need to capture them in writing. They are personal and not always fond memories. Aviation comes with its casualties and difficulties remembering friends who served faithfully and gave their all for their family and country. Allow me to share with you some of those pilots who belong to the Antique Pilot Association.

Our oldest pilot is John “Jack” Oliver, COL USAF Retired. Born in 1925, now 95 years old, he flew as a B-24 “Liberator” bombardier/navigator in WWII in southern Europe, completing 53 Combat missions. He later became a jet pilot and flew numerous aircraft for the US Air Force. He has logged time in B-19, B-24, C-47 Gooney Bird, T-6 Texan, P-51 Mustang, and his beloved M-20 Mooney. Many of his stories revolve around his time flying during WWII over southern Europe and being sure we all remember the 169 aircraft lost and 1,479 casualties during that time. Other stories centered on flights over South America, several trips to the North Pole “Operation Looking Glass” while on active duty in the Air Force, and many trips within the United States in his Mooney aircraft with his beloved wife of 74 years, Miriam. Jack retired from the United States Air Force as a Colonel with over 30 years of service.

Charles “Chuck” Wood, Lt. Col. USAF. He was a fighter jet pilot with multiple tours in Vietnam and test pilot qualified. His nick name by his fellow pilots in Vietnam was “Claw”. Once he was on your Six O'clock position behind an enemy aircraft, he would not let them go. Currently owns and flies his twin engine B-60 Beechcraft Duke. There are very few Air Force jets that Chuck has not flown at least once, including Russian made aircraft. He was even qualified in the Navy F-18 Hornet and flew off an aircraft carrier for six months with the Navy. In his younger days he flew missions in the U-2 “Dragon Lady” spy plane.

Janos “John” Karo, a retired Army Chief Warrant Officer, helicopter pilot, and served in Vietnam. He has the distinction of being a S-64 Skycrane Heavy Lift Pilot. He also logged time in UH-1 Hueys and AH-1 Cobras. John's story begins with learning to fly in Hungary during the Russian occupation. His escape and opportunity to join the US Army while living in a refugee camp in Italy is only the beginning of one adventure after another that took him through Army flight training, Vietnam and culminated with countless stories of flying in Europe with NATO and US Senior Officers as his passengers. His pilot story telling is unmatched and often the source of ribbing from other pilots as John is known for his lengthy, detailed, and colorful descriptions.

George Romfh, a retired Army Chief Warrant Officer, helicopter pilot, served in Vietnam, who went on to fly with the Commercial airlines and large Cargo Jets. He also logged military time in UH-1 Hueys, AH-1 Cobras and C-90 King Airls. The majority of stories revolve around commercial aviation and what really happens in those airliner cockpits. George is still an active pilot and a home designer enthusiast.

Bob Blake, former Army Captain, another helicopter pilot who served in Vietnam, went on to fly corporate helicopters and airplanes and completed a career as a Captain for Continental Airlines. He also logged time in UH-1 Hueys and AH-1 Cobras. Bob has flown in many, many foreign countries. His stories add a cultural context to flying abroad.

Ed Thomas, retired Army Major, served in Vietnam, primarily a helicopter pilot. Occasionally seen wearing his cowboy hat and driving a Baby Blue 1965 Ford Mustang. Ed served as the Program Manager during the initial development of the AH-64 Apache helicopter. He also logged time in UH-1 Hueys and AH-1 Cobras. Been there, done that, is a major theme with Ed.

William Mulkins, retired Army Captain, served in Desert Storm, flew AH-64 Apache helicopters as a Chief Warrant Officer. Bill is part of that breed of aviator who is post-Vietnam and at the same time on the forefront of advancing army aviation capability. His stories revolve around the capabilities of the AH-64 Apache while flying in Europe and Asia. Bill also relates stories as a glider pilot.

Christiana Mulkins, both a single engine aircraft pilot and a glider pilot, originally from Berlin, Germany, adds to our stories with a knowledge of flying without engines and the importance of knowing your weather patterns and being observant of positioning. No wind... no lift! Christiana also graces us with flights about her Cessna 140.

Marty Verhagen, served a tour in the Marine Corps, was honorably discharged and joined the Houston, Texas Police Department. It was there he had the opportunity to become a helicopter pilot for the Houston Police Department, flying Hughes 300s and 500s in and about Houston's buildings and wires chasing bad guys making for some interesting stories. The HPD ground units all knew Marty's call sign, “Fox”, HPD eyes in the sky.

Al Sidaras, a former Navy Aviator, flew primarily airplanes and flies a corporate King Air aircraft. Al is stingy in giving away flight stories from his military days, but an occasional story pops up about his corporate flying. Al is the Chief pilot of his executive flying business, flying Business and Corporate executives around the country.

Mike Stollberg, retired Army Chief Warrant Officer, Scout and UH-60 helicopter pilot. He currently continues to fly UH-60 variants as an Army Contract Maintenance Test Pilot. Mike often down plays his pilot time in the Army, but once you get him going his stories usually put a smile on the rest of us.

Mike Gunter, owns and flies a Cessna 180 and has owned and flown other civilian single engine aircraft throughout the years. Strictly flying civilian, he no less has interesting stories of near misses with deer on runways, and engines ready to quit upon landing sand airborne Bulldozers in his oil field days.

Dennis Fletcher, retired Army Chief Warrant Officer, flew H-60 Blackhawks. In retirement he flew Bell Long Rangers for medical evacuation. Plenty of stories from South/Latin America and an occasional reference to his former co-pilot and now wife Christine.

Christine Fletcher was also an H-60 Blackhawk pilot and former Army Chief Warrant Officer, shares occasionally the same stories as her husband Dennis, but often has a different point of view on how things went.

Charles “Chuck” Miller, Vietnam Pilot and Veteran who is also Jack Oliver's cousin from Hillsboro, Texas. Chuck was an Air force C-141 pilot who flew missions in and out of Vietnam and Southwest Asia during his career in the Air Force. Later he became a Braniff Airline Captain before settling down as a gentleman Rancher/Farmer in Hillsboro.

Chuck now flies his two seat Citabria to Salado every Saturday morning for our meeting and parks his plane at the Salado airport. Chuck has a long colorful aviation career and adds much to our Saturday mornings. He has designed our group's hat with an embroidered Biplane and a motto that states “The Adventure Continues” and it does!

David Williams, retired US Marine Corps Colonel, was primarily a UH-1N Huey pilot. Another post-Vietnam era pilot. The token U.S. Marine Pilot in the group, and is the weekly topic and group leader. Dave gets his share of ribbing from others, but manages to add flying stories that come from U.S. flying, Okinawa flying and ship-board flying; not to mention one crash in the country of Estonia. One of Dave's more interesting stories was during his Naval Academy Midshipmen days when on a summer cruise on board a US Frigate and it's encounter with a Russian submarine; quite an interesting story!

There are other pilots who occasionally join us in our brunch and humor everyone with stories of their own. All pilots are welcome, but come early if you want a seat because space is limited.

These are the men and women of the Antique Pilots Association in Salado Texas.

Lady Eagles varsity soccer wins their own tournament

Salado Lady Eagles won their own varsity classic soccer tournament, beating Brownwood in the Championship match on Jan. 18.

The girls opened the annual Salado Eagle Classic tournament with a 4-0 win over Santa Fe on Jan. 16. Goals were scored by Anna Lesley (2), Hannah Reavis, and Maria Pauer. Aubrey Heffner, Anna Lesley, Hannah Reavis and, Holly Wright recorded the assists. Mackenzie Miller and the Lady Eagles offense worked hard to keep possession throughout the entire game. "Our team did an incredible job of playing possession that helped us put the four goals in the back of the net," says Grace Graham. Avery Wright recorded the shut out.

The Lady Eagles started their day on Jan. 17 with a tie against China Spring. The Lady Eagles worked hard, but weren't able to get the ball in the back of the net. "Unfortunately we weren't able to finish but we still have more to prove in our upcoming games" says Hannah Reavis.

Later in the day, the Varsity Lady Eagles recorded a 7-1 win against Leander Glenn. Goals were scored by Mackenzie Miller, Madison Spradlin (4), Holly Wright, and Sam Vargas. Mackenzie Miller, Madisyn

"Hannah Reavis and the Salado Eagles offense worked hard to keep possession in the attacking, according to coach Michael Goos.

"We came out together as a team and it payed off," said Mackenzie Miller.

The Lady Eagles faced Brownwood in the Championship on Jan. 18, finishing with a 2-1 win. Both goals were scored by Mackenzie Miller. Maria Pauer and Anna Lesley recorded the assists.

Presley Maddux and the Lady Eagles defense fought hard to keep Brownwood from getting close to the goal.

"Our work ethic sets us apart from other teams. Even when we were tied for a few minutes our team was able to keep our heads high and kept working to score one more," said Grace Graham.

JV Lady Eagles

The JV Lady Eagles defeated the JV Belton team 4-0 and Jan. 14.

Salado Winery Co. hosts Guthrie art reception Jan. 26

Salado Winery will host an art opening reception for Melton R. Guthrie from 3 - 5 p.m. on Jan. 26.

Guthrie, a self-taught artist from Rockdale, Texas infuses his work with an unmistakably personal humor. Don't let the chuckles fool you though, many of his pieces confront the viewer with topics you usually don't discuss with strangers. Themes range from aging to politics and religion presented by soulful characters (both human and animal) in surprising situations.

His works will remain on display at Salado Winery Co. through the month of February.

Texas Stagecoach Wine Trail hits the road this weekend

Embark on a memorable journey to the finest wineries in central Texas during the Texas Stagecoach Wine Trail Jan. 24 - 26.

Along the way, you'll drive routes that were operated by western stagecoaches for over sixty years. While the stagecoach was rendered obsolete in the 1880s, it survives as a rugged symbol of the West. This trail is more than just a group of wineries, it is a nod to the history of our region and the spirit of adventure we all share.

As a holder of a Texas Stagecoach Wine Trail ticket you will have the opportunity to taste three complimentary wines at each of the 10 wineries on the trail. Also, you can create a special photographic memory at each of 10 wineries in addition to a commemorative glass.

This package deal is valued at more than $95, but tickets are just $29.95 per person and can be found online at <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/texas-stagecoach-wine-trail-january-2020-tickets-56429148101>

Designated Drivers can participate in the special photographic memory as well.

You will have three days to visit the ten wineries and enjoy your tastings.

Check in to all 10 wineries on social media, using #TxStagecoachWineTrail & #TxWine and you may be entered for a prize.

Business hours vary among wineries so verify their business hours as you plan your route.

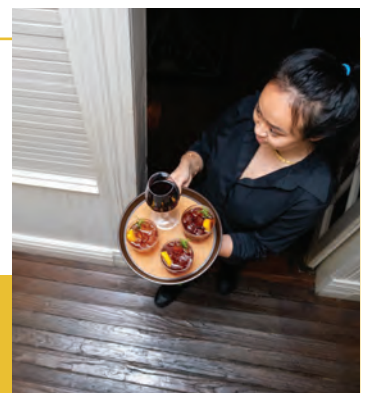

You may check in at one of many wineries in order to receive your Texas Stagecoach Wine Trail commemorative glass. You may select which winery to start at when you purchase your ticket.

At each winery, there will be plenty of opportunities to purchase additional wine tastings, and buy cool souvenirs, so bring your wallet. You must present your tickets to receive your tastings at each winery.

Participating wineries include Salado Winery Co., Axis Winery, 3 Texans Vineyard, Country Spring Vineyard, Dancing Bee Winery, Kissing Tree Vineyards, Moose and Goose Winery, Red Caboose Winery Clifton, Valley Mills Vineyards and Waco Winery.

with the ace and is faced with the question of whether to draw trump. Let's see what happens if he does.

Since the spades are divided 4-1, he must play four rounds of them, and then must set about establishing a club trick. East wins the first club and returns a diamond, which declarer ruffs. Another club lead produces another diamond return, forcing declarer to use his last trump. After South ruffs, he can do no better than cash the A-K of hearts and finish down one.

Now let's go back to trick two and have South lead a club instead of drawing trump. East wins the club and returns a diamond. South ruffs and plays another club. The defense wins the club and again returns a diamond. Declarer ruffs and leads the third round of clubs, taken by West.

The wisdom of delaying the extraction of the opposing trumps now becomes apparent. Another diamond lead from West would be ineffective, since declarer can ruff in dummy, draw trump and claim the balance, while any other return from West would prove equally ineffective.

The advantage of playing clubs at trick two is that it guards against a 4-1 trump division while costing virtually nothing if the trumps are divided 3-2.
