SISD shows improvement on 1996 TAAS tests results

Salado ISD officials were recently informed of the 1996 Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) test scores. Test scores for 1996 were considerably higher than 1995 for students taking the exit level tests.

The TAAS Test is given to students in grades three through eight and 10th grade. The 10th grade test is exit-level and required for graduation.

For all grades, students showed an 88 percent passing average in the reading test, and 89 percent passing the math test and 92 percent passing the writing test for a district-wide average of 90 percent passing at least one test.

Eighty-eight percent of all third graders taking the tests passed all three areas, while 80 percent of fifth graders passed all portions, 81 percent of sixth graders and 85 percent of seventh graders passed all areas of the test.

Comparing the results of the exit-level tests for the 1995 and 1996 periods show marked improvements. Ninety percent of the 1996 sophomore mastered the reading test, compared to 83 percent for 1995 sophomores; 96 percent of 1996 sophomore passed the writing test, compared to 88 percent of 1995 sophomores passing and 77 percent of the 1996 sophomores passed the math portion, compared to 60 percent from last year's sophomores.

Eleven sophomores met all the requirement for exemption from the college test called TASP, which is required within the first nine hours of college.

Also, all seniors passed all the TAAS tests.

"Four years ago, our district goal was to reach 90 percent passing the TAAS by 1996," said Supt. Steven Ervin. "On the way to this goal, we have had several changes in personnel, a 35 percent increase in the student population over the last five years and many changes in TEA mandates. I wish to thank each of our faculty for their total support of our goals. This milestone is a major accomplishment for our staff and is a reflection of their hard work."

Ervin added that another major accomplishment for the district was that the Senior Class had an average of 980 on the SAT and 20.77 on the ACT, compared to 850 on the SAT and 19 on the ACT last year.

"These high scores are very good when you consider 76 percent of our high school was tested as compared to less than 50 percent tested statewide," Ervin said.

"We are focusing next year on getting ninth and 10th grade students to take the pre-tests and have the 11th grade take the SAT and ACT early," Ervin said, "in order that they can improve or increase their scores prior to the Senior year."

Salado ISD has received recognized status since 1994 when the high school was recognized. In 1995, the elementary school received recognized status.

This year, Ervin said, both campuses have met the criteria to achieve recognized status.

TEA honors school districts in the top 10 percent in the state by awarding "recognized" status.

School districts in the top 3 percent in the state are awarded "Exemplary" status, which has been a long-range goal of the school district.

To reach exemplary status, a school must have 90 percent mastery in all areas and grade levels taking the TAAS test.

New score written for Salado Legends

After months of hard work and re-arranging there is a new score for the 1996 production of Salado Legends.

For several seasons now, Salado Legends has been entertaining the community with the true story of the area's origins.

Through music, storytelling and dramatic action, Salado Legends educates audiences from across Texas while providing an action-filled night of entertainment and fun.

The show is a musical and therefore the dramatic plot is joined with the wonderful songs that audiences leave humming and whistling after each performance. The songs were written and originally arranged by several different people from throughout the region and therefore gives the show a variety of musical styles and cultural influences. The new music should make the already successful Legends even more worth seeing.

Michael Rasbury is the Composer. He was born and raised in Ruston, Louisiana. As a young boy, around the age of seven, he began to develop an interest in music as a pastime. As the years passed his pastime steadily grew into a career.

Michael attended both Louisiana Tech University in Ruston, Louisiana and Belmont College in Nashville, Tennessee to obtain a Bachelor of Arts with an emphasis in Music Technology and Business. He returned to Louisiana Tech University to earn a Master's Degree in Speech/Theatre. While in the uni-

Bush asks Texans not to light that firecracker on the Fourth

Interesting to note that Governor George Bush recently "asked" local officials across the State to consider banning fireworks on the Fourth of July, due to the drought and potential danger of massive grass fires.

One county in the Panhandle took his advice and a number of cities are doing the same. No doubt by the time the holiday rolls around a number of areas in our heat-tinged State will put the quietus on this noisy and dangerous toy that folks feel compelled to play with on Independence Day and at Christmas time.

The latter always has been a mystery - that of tying a religious holiday to firecrackers.

Anyway, back to Bush and what was "interesting" in his proclamation. It is noted that he did not place a "statewide" ban on fireworks citing his "belief" in local control.

That sounds fine until you peel away some of the facts of political life down in Austin. Truth of the matter is that the fireworks industry has one of the stronger lobbies in the Capitol City. These guys pass out so much money, to so many lawmakers, that a move against them can cause instant retaliation.

The Guv is heating up his legislative program that will be presented to the Legislature in January 1997, and doesn't want House and Senate members jumping ship, due to angry firecracker folks calling in chits for past contributions.

A Governor who fails to get his program through the legislature just before he gears up for reelection is asking for trouble. This can be avoided by smart maneuvers - like the weak plea to be careful with fireworks during a drought rather than the proper thing which would have been to tell everyone - "No" - not this year!

FREEMEN STANDOFF

No doubt you have been following the confrontation between law enforcement officials and a group called the Freemen who are holed up on a ranch in Jordan, Montana.

These loonies have declared they are not a part of the United States and therefore do not have to obey our laws. They passed out bogus checks and refused to pay taxes. Then when it came time to answer for their misdeeds, they went into armed seclusion while blaming everyone in sight for their troubles.

These folks have gone round the bend and like a few other groups, (who are also a bubble or two off plumb), they blame society and the government when told to obey the law or pay the consequences.

The FBI, local Sheriff's Department and Montana State Police have encircled the Clark Ranch in Jordan and are patiently sweating out the Freemen in hopes that isolation will accomplish what Ruby Ridge and Waco failed to do.

Since most of these nuts normally live in isolation on the wide ranges of Montana - keeping them by themselves is not a new adventure and probably won't work.

What needs to be done is simple!

Go ahead and accept the idea that they are a new nation. Put a boundary around their thousand or so acres. Give it a name and recognize it as a sovereign country.

Then all sorts of good things could happen. Ambassadors could be exchanged. The President might assign "Most Favored Nation" status so they could trade their wheat and cattle with the rest of us, of course without paying taxes.

And finally the coup-de-grace - offer the Nation of Freemen, foreign aid and large rehabilitation loans, (that naturally they would never have to pay back), and these cuckoos would be set for life.

Problem Solved!!!

Wonder why no one ever thought of doing this before?

NATION OF SALADO

Actually, since Salado eschews incorporation, maybe a move in the direction of nationhood might also solve our problems - imagined or real.

We could set up a benevolent kingdom and begin reaping the benefits of the "big dole" that comes from American loans, foreign aid and other assis-

ONE MAN SHOW

Turning to the more serious side of life in Salado, we are pleased to report that a recent newcomer to our village, Dr. Ray Carver, former San Angelo drama professor, is planning a one man show titled "A Class Act" for presentation at the Civic Center the evening of June 22.

Proceeds from the performance will go towards special lighting around the new bandstand.

Amazing how much talent we have in Salado and even more amazing is how these talents are shared with others for the benefit of the entire village.

Recommend attendance at this performance that drew rave reviews at San Angelo State University.

Edwards meets with Ag Sec. to discuss further drought aid

U.S. Representative Chet Edwards (D-Waco) met last week with the Agriculture Secretary to discuss further federal assistance for agriculture producers suffering due to the drought.

Edwards was joined by other members of the Texas congressional delegation at the Washington, D.C., meeting with Dan Glickman, secretary of agriculture.

"I believe that this meeting was a success and that the administration will be pursuing further avenues of assistance. Right now, the administration is working within the law and budget constraints to assist agriculture producers," Edwards said.

"I'm glad that Secretary Glickman has been to Texas and seen first-hand how serious the drought is and its effect on farmers and ranchers," Edwards said.

Edwards has pushed for, and the USDA has recently approved, an Emergency Flood Program extension, designated Central Texas counties as eligible for emergency loans and approved limited haying and grazing on Conservation Reserve Program acreage.

The USDA will also consider a congressional request that Edwards supported requiring that grain reserves be released to help agriculture producers suffering due to the drought.

"A large percentage of Central Texas farmers and ranchers are in for a tough haul this summer if we don't get rain or there is no assistance," Edwards said.

"I believe we need to do everything possible to keep agriculture producers and their families on their feet during this disaster."

Methodist Church plans Vacation Bible School June 17-21

"We have an exciting summer program planned for the children in our community," said Pastor Bruce Baker of Salado Methodist Church. "This summer we will be transforming the church into Kingdom of the Son, where children will embark on a prayer safari." "We will be having lively songs, skits, crafts, games, Bible studies, and snacks - all of the things that make Vacation Bible school so popular with children and their parents. On top of that, we will be helping kids grow in their relationships to God through prayer."

"Everything draws to a joyful conclusion at the closing Program on June 21 at 6:30 p.m., when we will have an Open House, which we like to call, "Our Safari Tour". Here we will have the children sing a few of their favorite new songs, and show off our activities we worked on all week."

"We're looking forward to this very special opportunity for us to reach out to parents and children in our neighborhood, and share with them the joy of developing a personal relationship with God."

The Kingdom of the Son Vacation Bible School begins June 17 and continues through June 21. Classes are held at the Salado United Methodist church from 8:30 - 11:30 a.m.

For more information and pre-registration, call 947-5482.

Attorney General salutes Texas fathers who have role in kids' lives

by Attorney General Dan Morales

In commemoration of Father's Day, the Office of the Attorney General would like to recognize and thank those fathers who willingly and lovingly support their children.

Because we are in the business of collecting child support, we focus primarily on those fathers who do not honor their child support obligations. And, unfortunately, those fathers who shoulder their responsibilities and support their children are too often overlooked. That is why we want to send out a special message this Father's Day saluting those men who make the choice to support their children.

Fathers are needed

Fathers who stay actively involved in their children's lives make a positive difference in their children's futures. Studies show that children who are abandoned by their fathers face a greater risk of failure in school, drug abuse, suicide, juvenile delinquency and crime than do those children who have had the support and guidance of their fathers.

Even when children are unable to live with their fathers, they still require the emotional and psychological security which fathers provide. Mothers and fathers have different gifts to give to their children and one parent can never replace the other.

Having the love of both parents provides a stabilizing environment for children - a necessity in growing up feeling wanted and safe. Every child deserves that start in life.

Meaning of "child support"

One of the responsibilities of my office is to collect child support checks for kids. However, child support is much more than a check. Child support is love and emotional support. It is parents forming a partnership to raise their children - whether or not they reside in the same household. It is a child waking up every day without having to question the love and involvement of both parents.

Saluting fathers

If you are a father who has chosen to be a part of his children's lives, you are the person we want to acknowledge this Father's Day. You have our admiration and our respect.

Each day you reach out to your children in love, each time you offer support in difficult times, each month you provide financial support, you give your children an incomparable gift. And you give a gift to all Texans by helping to reduce the welfare rolls and by raising children who will have a greater chance to make positive contributions to our country in the future. This Father's Day, may this gift be returned to you a thousandfold.

Compost your yard debris into useful garden gold

(NAPS)—Coast-to-coast blizzards and late-winter flooding have caused the Federal government to issue more disaster declarations already this year than in all of 1995. Coupled with new laws that prohibit homeowners from sending leaves and downed branches to public landfills, the backyard aftermath of the Great Blizzard of '96 has folks scrambling to recycle their yard debris.

"The losses of winter are the homeowner's gain," notes Mike McGrath, editor-in-chief of Organic Gardening magazine. McGrath advises homeowners to collect, shred, and compost yard debris into "garden gold."

"It is foolish to throw away grass clippings and leaves," McGrath explains, "and then go to a store and buy fertilizer and mulch." So-called yard waste, says McGrath, is just a few steps away from becoming "better fertilizer and mulch than you can buy anywhere."

The key, McGrath reports, is to learn the basic recipes for good, clean compost. Done correctly, converting volumes of yard debris into an enriched soil conditioner takes as little as two weeks.

The first step, however, is collecting the debris.

• Get light on your lawn. "Sweep up the lawn first," advises Tim Gilbert of The Patriot Company, manufacturers of chipping, shredding and vacuuming machines. "Get ground clutter off the turf, so that sun and air can reach the grass."

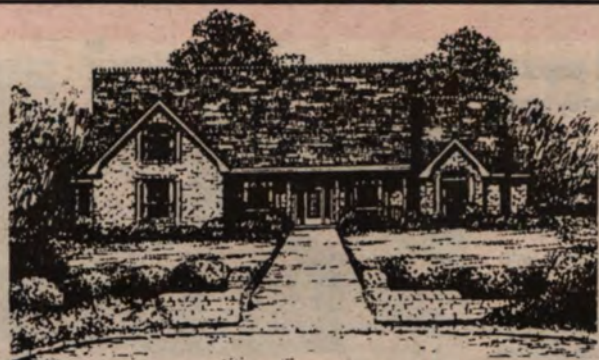

Patriot makes a machine to speed lawn clean-up, a combination chipper blower vacuum. Resembling a lawn mower, it vacuums leaves as you walk behind it, shredding and depositing them neatly into a collection bag. The built-in chipper converts pruned branches into coin-sized landscaper's chips. Then, says Gilbert, that newly made mulch is ready to prevent—or smother—weeds.

• Turn down the volume. "The early snow last fall trapped a lot of leaves on people's lawns," notes Jean Nordgren of The Toro Company. Reducing the sheer volume of debris, according to Nordgren, is a key concern among homeowners—especially those with urban lots or limited space.

To break down the volume, Nordgren says an electric blower-vac with a special vacuum mode chops up fallen leaves as it picks them up. Cutters reduce leaves tenfold, making them ideal for composting. Toro also makes compost bins, which according to Nordgren, encourage the proper mix of moisture, air and temperature, promoting faster compost-making.

• Free information. Homeowners seeking advice on composting and yard clean-up should contact the Yard Waste Hotline toll-free at (888) 798-CHIP (2447) for a free brochure.

Andy G. Carroll graduates WOCS

Andy G. Carroll has graduated from the Warrant Officer Candidate School (WOCS) and received an appointment as an Army warrant officer at Fort Rucker, Daleville, Ala. The school is an intense 240-hour course conducted in a very rigorous, high-stressed environment. Candidates receive training and experience in leadership, Army doctrine and tactics, drill and ceremonies, military uniforms, land navigation and physical training. Military history, professional ethics, and requisite traits, skills and qualities required of an officer are part of the military education and training.

The warrant officers continue to further their training through technical and tactical certification. As the officers gain progressive levels of expertise and leadership, they operate, maintain, administer and manage equipment, support activities or technical systems throughout their careers.

Carroll is the son of John D. and Lilo Carroll of Rural Route 3, Belton.

He is a 1989 graduate of Salado High School.

written by Pat Daugherty, helped the musical to gain recognition as the best new collegiate musical of 1990 by the American College Theatre Festival.

Michael has spent time in Monroe, Louisiana, where he served as Manager and Chief Engineer for JY Recording, a twenty-four track production studio. He is an award winning jingle writer and a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) and excels in the art of electronic music. His music has been heard around the nation in theatrical productions and television including the Miss Louisiana Pageant and the national broadcast of the Miss America Pageant.

The new music for Salado Legends marks Razz's fourth score for outdoor drama. Michael's first musical score for outdoor drama was Blue Jacket by W. L. Mundell, produced by First Frontier, Inc in Xenia, Ohio. Since then, Michael has composed the musical scores for a new Mundell outdoor drama called Shadows in the Forest and The Legend of Daniel Boone by Jan Hartman, both produced by Fort Harrod Drama Productions, Inc., in Harrodsburg, Kentucky. Michael's latest project was sound design and composition for the 1996 internationally acclaimed Humana Festival for new American playwrights at Actors Theatre of Louisville, Kentucky.

"It was such a challenge to arrange the new score for Salado Legends, Rasbury said. "When an arranger attempts to rearrange songs that people already love the way they are, the challenge is heightened even more. Because most of the Salado Legends songs are very good, I was left with much creative freedom. All of the songs in the show have good melodies that "stick" in your head. This fact allowed me to experiment with many different chord structures and musical styles. However, with this freedom came the challenge. I felt it was important to keep the elements of each song that audiences have continued to be happy with. Why change something that already works well? I spent many hours joining my ideas with those of the original writers and arrangers in trying to preserve their brilliant ideas. I felt my job was to act as a musical editor and try to strengthen the existing elements instead of changing them. It is truly amazing what a little "tweaking" of chord structures can do to strengthen a song."

"We wanted the music to sound very orchestral and to be perceived as if there were an orchestra present playing live at the Tablerock Amphitheater. It was also important to be able to change the music at anytime to accommodate updates in the production each year. Just a few years ago, the only option would have been to use a real orchestra and reorganize the orchestra to make changes.

"With today's computers and musical keyboards, it only takes one to do what once took the work of fifty musicians. I recorded the songs of Salado Legends using sampling keyboards and an Apple Macintosh computer. Sampling keyboards are musical instruments that can trap real sounds by taking digital snapshots of them. The user can then play these snapshots on the keyboard. The computer records each note I play and remembers the length, pitch, velocity and location of that note," he said.

It is one of the beautiful compensations of this life that no one can sincerely try to help another without helping himself.

The Inn at Salado

The Inn at Salado, Salado's first bed and breakfast, has the newest owners, Robert and Suzanne Petro.

Renovated to its original 1872 splendor, The Inn at Salado offers nine bed and breakfast rooms all with private baths ranging in price from $65 weekdays to $105 weekends. The homemade gourmet style breakfast served guests receives rave reviews.

The Norton-Orgain House has both a Texas Historical Marker and a National Register Listing.

The Norton-Orgain House on Main St. is a classic example of Texas Greek Revival architecture. It is believed to have been built in 1871 by Edward R.A. Buckles, who was the owner of the famous Stagecoach Inn and a founder of Salado.

Nimrod Lindsay Norton had an illustrious life prior to ownership of the house. He moved to Texas after the Civil War and later to Bell County, where he became a charter member of Texas Grange No. 1 in Salado. In 1879, Governor Oran M. Roberts selected Norton to survey lands designated by the State to be sold to finance a new state Capitol building. His surveys and descriptions were important in opening the High Plains to settlement.

He served on the Capitol Building Commission in 1880. Norton and his business partners, W.H. Westfall and G.W. Lacey, donated the Texas Pink Granite for the Capitol Building.

John and Kate Alma Orgain bought the house in 1882. They were significant figures in Salado and Central Texas in the late 1800s.

After being wounded while seeing limited duty in the Civil War, John Orgain returned to the Salado area to pursue businesses which included the Davis Mill and other enterprises with Capt. Barbee. He was instrumental in the organization of Thomas Arnold High School and served as county superintendent of schools in 1898.

Kate Alma taught school at Salado College in the late 1860s. She was the first president of the Amasavourian reading society. This group, whose name literally means "love of knowing," raised funds for the purchase of books which become the basis for the Salado circulating library.

Kate Alma also taught at Thomas Arnold High School and wrote or edited several teaching books.

Today, the Norton-Orgain House, with its covered porches and rock fireplaces, is the perfect home for Salado's first bed and breakfast.

The Inn at Salado, within walking distance of Salado's finest shops, boasts five swings and hammocks, two gracious tree-covered brick terraces, the original hand-dug well, and two beautifully landscaped acres framed with white picket fencing making the Inn's history and hospitality one-of-a-kind.

In addition to the bed and breakfast facilities, the Inn at Salado offers meeting facilities at The Allen Hall.

The Allen Hall offers a tranquil place to meet for business or pleasure. Customized events ranging

Corn root worm is in big trouble in East Bell County

by James M. Davis
County Extension Agent

Air and ground applications of a new corn rootworm bait will begin this week north of Little River Academy.

All of the corn fields within the block bordered by Highway 95 on the east, Hartrick Bluff Road on the west, FM 436 on the south and FM 93 on the north will be treated.

Last year we treated some fields by air which attracted a lot of attention from motorists, home owners, and farmers wanting to know why we were spraying the corn. This year we are getting the word out so everyone will know what is going on.

The insecticide we will be using is called SLAM. Slam is an insecticide bait containing a beetle feeding stimulant called cucurbitacin, which is very attractive to adult beetles, inducing them to compulsively consume the bait. The bait also contains very small amounts of an insecticide, carbaryl (Sevin), which kills the beetles when the bait is consumed.

The new bait will be one of the most environmentally safe products on the market. Only about one-half (0.5) ounce of carbaryl will be applied per acre in the bait. This amount of carbaryl is much less than a home owner would use in the home garden. It is about the amount that is contained in a single pet flea collar, but will be equally distributed over an acre of corn. Since cucurbitacin is attractive only to rootworm beetles, the bait is target specific; thus, only corn rootworm beetles will be killed, saving friendly beneficial insects. Since such low levels of carbaryl will be used, there will be no threat to wildlife and man. This is a targeted pest treatment.

The new bait will be applied. See SLAM, Page 10B

Bone up on bones!

Bones are complex, living tissue which are affected by diet & exercise

by Irene C. Miller
 Co. Ext. Agent

Bone is not a hard and lifeless structure, but a complex, living tissue. Bones provide structural support for muscles, protect vital organs and store the calcium essential for bone density and strength. Because bones are constantly changing, they can heal and may be affected by diet and exercise. Until the age of about 35, you build and store bone efficiently. Then as part of the natural aging process, your bones begin to break down faster than new bone can be formed. In women, bone loss accelerates after menopause, when ovaries stop producing estrogen the hormones that protect against bone loss.

Think of your bones as a savings account. There is only as much bone mass in your account as you deposit. The critical years for building bone mass are from prior to adolescence to about age 30. Some experts believe that young women can increase their bone mass by as much as 20 percent — a critical factor in protecting against osteoporosis. To determine if you have osteoporosis or may be at risk for the disease, see a physician who will ask a variety of questions about your life-style and medical history. Your doctor will want to know if anyone in your family has suffered from osteoporosis or if they have fractured bones. Based on a comprehensive medical assessment, your doctor may recommend that you have your bone mass measured. A bone mass measurement is the only way to tell if you have osteoporosis. Specialized tests called bone density tests can measure bone density in various sites of the body. A bone density test can help detect possible fractures before they occur. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.

Management (IPM) system, whereby farmers may need to use very low rates of planter-box insecticide seed treatments, and/or very low rates of granular soil insecticides to protect seedling corn roots from early attacking soil insects such as wireworms and southern corn rootworms. Additionally, during mid-May to mid-June corn will have to be monitored with beetle traps to determine when to apply SLAM. SLAM, marketed by BASF Corporation, will be evaluated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's AREAWIDE PEST MANAGEMENT RESEARCH UNIT, College Station, Texas. The proposed study is funded by cooperative agreements between the USDA Agricultural Research Service, Texas Corn Producers Board, BASF Corporation, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Pilot studies conducted by the Extension Service and USDA on a 90-acre field in Bell County in 1995, reduced beetle populations by more than 90%. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.
