The Salado Art Fair is fun for all ages, as shown by these little ones trying out chairs at last year's Fair. This year's Art Fair will be held in beautiful Pace Park on the banks of Salado Creek Aug. 5-6.

Art Fair scheduled Aug. 5-6 in Pace Park

The 29th Annual Salado Art Fair August 5-6 in Pace Park will draw thousands of visitors to this quiet village.

The Art Fair also draws some of Texas' finest artists in several media, including all styles of painting, sculpture, jewelry, wood crafts, handmade clothing and handmade toys. This year, almost 190 juried artists, from a list of over 1,000 applicants, will show their work at the Art Fair.

The Art Fair is set in Pace Park, along the banks of Salado Creek. Admission to the Salado Art Fair is $3.00 per person, free to children age 12 and under. The Fair will be open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, August 5 and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday, August 6.

The annual event is the largest fund-raiser for the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

Proceeds support renovation of the Old Red School House, Pace Park, street lights, as well as other community projects and scholarships.

The Art Fair also helps to raise funds for many civic and school organizations in the village. Many of these organizations offer a variety of food and drinks. Salado Public Library holds a used book sale. The Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary handcrafted a beautiful quilt, on display at the Fair. A drawing for the quilt will be held August 7.

There are free parking areas in the village with free transportation to the Art Fair. Limited uncapped parking is available on the Pace Park fairgrounds. A hospitality tent provides shade for sitting, eating and relaxing. Free programs map artists' booth locations.

For more information about the Salado Art Fair, contact the Salado Chamber of Commerce at P.O. Box 81, Salado, TX 76571 or phone 817-947-5040.

PNB gives scoreboard for youth baseball fields

Larry McGregor, president of the Salado Youth Baseball Association announced that a new scoreboard has been donated by Peoples National Bank. The new Spectron scoreboard has been installed and is now in use at the #2 field at the Salado Youth Baseball Complex.

The scoreboard provides 18" lighted scores, 16" lighted inning listing and shows balls and strikes. McGregor, said the new sign is managed by a computer controller, providing easier operation.

McGregor said, "We have needed a scoreboard on this new field since its construction. We are most thrilled and appreciate the donation of this scoreboard by Peoples National Bank." McGregor added there are four to six games per week at this field, for age 9 and under boys and girls.

Recently, Don Owens, vice president and Susan Krueger, administrative assistant, at Peoples National Bank presented Larry McGregor with a donation of $2,700. for the new scoreboard. Don Owens, Peoples National Bank - Salado vice president, said, we are pleased to contribute to the success of our young people and at the same time, reinvesting in our community.

TNRCC continues clean-up on I-35 site

The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) is continuing the cleanup of contaminated groundwater at the site of the former gasoline station on the west side of I-35 at Thomas Arnold Drive. Groundwater at this location has been contaminated by a gasoline release. The treatment system processes eight gallons of water per minute and has treated over 300,000 gallons of water to date.

This is a temporary treatment system, providing interim control on the contamination. Future plans for this site include a complete investigation of the extent of contamination and the design and implementation of a remedial system.

As a part of this project, a monitoring well was installed near the corner of Thomas Arnold Road and West Village Road. This well has been sampled and found to be free of gasoline components.

Mill Creek yard of year competition slated

The Mill Creek Community Association will select a yard of the year and a runner-up. Last year's winners were Herb and Penny Taylor and Zel Elfrink's yard was the runner up.

This year the selections will be made from those members who register with the beautification chairperson, Julie Bayless at 947-5211 on or before June 24. Or call Jim Patterson 947-8587. Entrants should indicate if the front and back yards are included.

If back yards are included and are enclosed with a fence, they must be available to the judges with no dogs therein unless the owners are home on the day of the judging.

It is anticipated judging will take place during the week of June 26.

There are many lovely yards in the Mill Creek so all of the Mill Creek Association Gardeners should get on the phone and register right away. It is hoped many yards will be listed and the judges will have to really work at making a decision.

Boy, Michael Douglas has it tough. First, Glenn Close tries to boil his bunny in Fatal Attraction. Then, Sharon Stone tries to pick him in Basic Instinct. This after he sleeps with them.

Now, Demi Moore tries to frame him after he refuses to sleep with her.

Disclosure puts a new twist on the sexual harassment issue as Tom Sanders (Douglas) is harassed by his new boss Meredith (Moore). When Tom rejects Meredith's advances, she tries to set him up for sexual harassment, leading to a pretty predictable finale.

Disclosure is heavy on sex and light on much of anything else, as most films tend to be with Douglas in it (or Moore, for that matter). Some may find the graphic language and sexual content offensive.

Disclosure does have some fantastic computer graphics, but it turns out being a little silly with Douglas suspended in one of those virtual reality get-ups with a big face of Demi Moore chasing him through the hard drive of the company files or some such nonsense.

The term "Corporate Welfare" has been freely bandied about in Congress in recent months, particularly by Democrats who are trying to turn attention away from public welfare reform.

An examination of this business of federal assistance to corporate enterprises is interesting and certainly merits investigation and exposure for the purpose of reform just as is being done to the self-defeating public assistance programs that unnecessarily cost taxpayers up to $300 billion each year.

"Corporate Welfare" is currently described by the CATO Institute as being the "providing of special benefits to individual industries and companies through tax breaks, trade policies and actual spending programs".

The CATO group is a liberal think tank study operation in Washington. However, their findings in this "Corporate Welfare" study, are backed up by related studies made by non-partisan as well as conservative organizations plus the General Accounting Office.

Cost of this largess type give-away to commerce during the current fiscal year is running well over $87 billion and includes some of the wildest schemes imaginable. So wild that both political parties are talking about making major adjustments to reduce this mostly useless business of handing out money to some of our biggest and most profitable companies.

Several examples of this unique "welfare" program that are almost impossible to believe includes the $2.9 million dollars we (the government) spent through the Department of Agriculture to advertise Pillsbury Muffins and Pies to folks living in other countries! Or the $10 million promoting Sunkist oranges; $465,000 to entice foreigners to buy McDonald's Chicken McNuggets and $2.5 million to extol the virtues of Dole pineapples, nuts and prunes!

Taxpayer's bucks being spent here folks!

Presidents of both parties are guilty of promoting federal subsidies to help friendly businesses thus bringing about what many observers believe is an almost incestuous relationship between government and business. In fact, there is a close parallel between grants to business and contributions to political leaders and their parties! That surely needs further investigation by someone.

All of this handing out of our money to selected business entities helps destroy any level playing field that should exist among our free enterprise folks.

Few, if any, economic benefits have come from this passing around of our tax dollars. We recall the $1 billion spent on the Supersonic Transport study some years back. Result was not one person ever flew a single mile since America opted to fly the Concord and forget building our own version of the high speed flying machine.

Later $2 billion was spent on the Synthetic Fuels Corporation without producing a single kilowatt of electricity.

Obviously the cost of subsidizing certain crops such as sugar, feed grains, rice, cotton, wheat, honey and wool keeps these prices higher than they should be, thus hurting consumers in a big way.

Also, the giving to certain high tech companies a little "extra walking around money" does nothing.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor & All Saladoans,

It was with great pleasure that we read Mrs. Tarbutton's letter this past week. Her Thank You was well appreciated, although not necessary.

When we responded to Mrs. Tarbutton's call for help, it was not only our duty, but our pleasure to be of service.

We want all of Salado to know that the crew who went into the creek to rescue Mrs. Tarbutton has received some of the best training possible. This crew was also properly equipped to safely affect this rescue.

But, please keep in mind, that prior to this year, neither a trained or poorly equipped crew could have been available from the Salado Volunteer Fire Department. DONATIONS paid for this type of specialty training and equipment.

It is our hope to be able to train for a variety of emergency responses. These ranged from Swift Water Rescues, Hazardous Materials Spills, Radiation Incidents, Emergency Medical Calls, i.e. heart attacks or car wrecks, or just plain old house fires.

The Salado Fire Department must be able to meet this needs. This community CANNOT depend on outside agencies, such as the Belton Fire Department, for emergencies. Minutes count and other agencies may already be busy in their own city!

So, we hope you will remember that it could be you, one of your loved ones, a friend of the family or a total stranger who needs help from a well-trained and properly equipped department.

Of course, the only way to be able to have special training and proper equipment is to pay for it. That's why we keep asking for donations.

Again, Mrs. Tarbutton, we welcome your Thank You, but it was really our pleasure.

Salado Fire Department
 Alan Goodnight, Pres.
 Wayne Rutherford, Chief

Ole from Mexico topic at Auxiliary meeting

"Ole from Mexico" was the title of the musical program presented to the Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary on June 8.

Introduced by their grandmother, Minta Landrum, were: Sarah, who performed three folkloric dances from the interior of Mexico; Joshua, who played the guitar and sang "La Bamba" and several Christian songs in Spanish; Ruth and Hannah danced to La Bamba and an American number. The finale included the entire group singing "Las Mananitas, a song sung at all happy occasions in Mexico. Each number was performed in the traditional costume associated with it and the room was decorated to complement the theme of a Mexican Fiesta.

The Landrum children and their parents Craig and Brenda have been missionaries for eight years in Leon, Mexico, located between Guadalajara and Mexico City.

Following the program, refreshments and party favors were available to guests and members.

Business

Paulette Patrick called for volunteers to sell tickets for the quilt which will be given away on Aug. 6 at the close of the Art Fair. To sell tickets, call 947-8973.

Christmas in October, chairman Sue Carter reminds all Committee chairmen to attend a planning meeting 2:30 p.m., June 16 in Foster Room at the Civic Center.

ing except provide them with an unfair advantage over the rest of the gang in that highly competitive field. This was done in the beginning to keep the Japanese and Germans from taking over this industry, but the plan went awry.

Case in point - Microsoft - the leader and most profitable and innovative high tech corporation received nothing from the feds, yet while in litigation with the justice department, it was discovered - lo and behold, that the commerce department was spending hundreds of millions to prop up their less efficient computer industry rivals.

And to a lesser degree, we find that the Pentagon has handed over $100 million to a consortium called Sematech - located in Austin - to support the computer microchip industry.

There are 200 chipmakers in the country. Guess how many are helped by Sematech? According to a recent CATO report - a total of 14! That's right, 14 of 200 got their hands on that particular federal handout.

Not much of a level playing field there either.

Totals paid this fiscal year, thus far, support American industries and businesses to the tune of $87,287,400,000 (those are billion dollar figures) through a total of 129 "Welfare" giveaway programs.

Leading the pack of givers of tax dollars is the Department of Agriculture followed by Defense, HUD, Transportation, Energy and Labor. To a lesser degree come: Commerce, Interior, State, and a wide variety of independent agencies.

There may be some need for federal help to a few industries and companies from time to time but only when there is a proven national interest involved.

That is proper. However, the constant expenditure of nearly $90 billion dollars a year is far from proper or needed and really needs to be stopped.

We are in the process of slowing the growth of public welfare. We need to do the same with our corporate welfare. Both for the same reasons. To keep people and companies from becoming dependent on the narcotic of public money given without proven need or positive end results.

And finally, there appears to be a constitutional prohibition against this type spending by the government since it is well beyond the authority granted to Congress when it comes time to spend public funds. That will have to be saved for the legal eagles to thrash out someday when they have nothing better to do.

Gramm Missing In Action

Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) has missed a slew of votes in the Senate, since he began running for President several months back. More than any other member of that august body of lawmakers has skipped in recent years. This according to the Senate's vote counters who happen to currently be on the GOP payroll.

Phil, of course, is hopping from state to state trying to convince his fellow conservatives that he is "Mister-Far-Right" when it comes to matters-economic. With pockets jingling with campaign funds, our turtle-necked fellow Texan is staying clear of as many social issues as he is votes in the upper house.

He knows he cannot compete with the likes of Pat Buchanan who has a lock on the zealots but he can sure out-conservative those right-wingers who cannot find it in their conscience to vote for a balanced budget plus a cutback in taxes all at the same time.

Gramm is a sure-fire example of why so many citizens wish all the members of both the House and Senate were running for president. Keeps them away from the mischief making business of creating new statutes to plague the rest of us.

Dole In Tinseltown

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole (R-Kansas) lashed out at the purveyors of smut and filth in a recent speech in Hollywood. He told the makers of movies and records they have no conscience nor scruples as they proudly present depravity, violence and unabashed immorality to the American public.

Naming names, including Time-Warner records and a variety of movie moguls, Dole went on the attack in an attempt to shame those who sell degrading actions, hatred, racial unrest, murder and rape purely for the purpose of making dishonorable dollars while hiding smugly and happily under the protective umbrella of the Constitution.

What Senator Dole said was, without question, true and those of us who sit idly by and allow such trash to be sold in our communities and brought into our homes should also be ashamed.

An even greater impact on the problem in question would have been, had Dole - before taking up the gauntlet of morality for the first time since running openly for the presidency - removed Senator Bob Packwood (he of the many outrages against females in Washington) from the Chairmanship of the powerful Finance Committee and also lashed out against fellow GOPer Phil Gramm for that worthy's small but well documented (by the liberal press, no doubt) entry into the field of soft porn movie making. He could even have jumped over to the House Speaker's office and spanked old "Eye of the Newt" Gingrich for some of the steamy passages in his recently published novel.

Then with all that done, in his own backyard, Dole would have had the credentials to speak out in Hollywood without fear of being accused of platitude pumping for the purpose of trying to snare votes from the conservative moralists who remain nestled happily and noisily in Pat Buchanan's back pocket.

This writer firmly believes that what Dole said was 100 percent correct. However his motivation did not bring the matter to the level necessary to activate citizens who already feel our politicians would hypocritically say and/or do anything for a vote.

Summer sun exposure may be dangerous

It's just a little spot on your face, ear or neck. You can't remember how long you've had it — maybe a few months or maybe a couple of years. Maybe it's nothing. Maybe it's cancer. The bad news is that skin cancer is the most frequent cancer in young women under age 35, and its incidence is increasing rapidly. More than half a million Americans each year develop some form of skin cancer.

Innocent-looking bumps and blemishes shouldn't be ignored - especially if you have fair skin, blue eyes, blond or red hair - because these people are vulnerable to skin cancers, say the physicians at Scott & White Memorial Hospital and Clinic in Temple.

Scott & White Memorial Hospital and Clinic is one of the nation's largest medical centers, with nearly 440 physicians. Scott & White's mission is to deliver comprehensive, personalized, high-quality, health care enhanced by education and research. The institution consists of the main site in Temple, and 14 regional clinics situated throughout Central Texas.

The good news is that if skin cancer is caught early, the chances are high for a complete cure. "Ninety percent of skin cancers are small and can easily be treated. That's the best time to treat them," said Charles N. Verheyden, M.D., Ph.D., director of the Division of Plastic Surgery and professor with the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine. "Unfortunately, when they have progressed, more extensive surgery is indicated."

"We really like to see patients when these lesions are in the precancerous stages, when these spots may have years to go before they become cancer. We like to catch them early," said Delma P. Posey, M.D., director of the Division of Dermatology and associate professor at the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine. Earlier detection means quicker, more economical treatment with little pain and scarring, Dr. Verheyden added. Otherwise, delays can be costly, may require extensive surgery under general anesthesia and additional time for recuperation and reconstructive surgery.

Protection from sun is key

The sun hits hardest on children, who are the most vulnerable and who burn the easiest. However people don't immediately realize the long-term harm because cancers start to appear as they grow older.

"If you have had several bad sunburns as a child under age 18, you're more apt to develop skin cancer later in life," said Dr. Posey, M.D. "Medical researchers formerly believed that skin cancer was caused by an accumulation of sun exposure over a long period of time. Now we think that just one childhood severe sunburn with blisters will markedly increase your chance of melanoma and skin cancers by two-fold." In other words, one sunburn in a lifetime is one too many.

People are exposed to two types of UV rays. UVA rays penetrate deeply into the skin, injuring blood vessels and destroying underlying cells, collagen and elastin. UV radiation that tans your skin also causes sunburn and increases your risk of skin cancer. "Tanning is your body's response to radiation injury, so today's golden tan may result in cancer 20 years later," Dr. Posey added. One of every six Americans will develop some form of skin cancer.

Safe summer sun for children

Parents should be especially careful to make sure their children are protected from the harmful effects of the sun. "Eighty percent of the damage is done by the time you're 18," added Jeff Smith, M.D., pediatrician at the Scott & White Clinic, College Station, and assistant professor with the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine.

"It's extremely important that parents make sure their children are protected from the sun." Dr. Smith lists some guidelines for parents who want to assure that their children are protected from the sun:

- The sun's harmful rays are at their peak during midday. Arrange your child's schedule so that outdoor playtime is before 10 a.m. and after 4 p.m.
- Insist that your child wear plastic sunglasses and a wide-brimmed hat or baseball cap when outdoors.

- Use a Sun block at least SPF 15, preferably

Scott & White in Temple opens Central Texas Poison Center

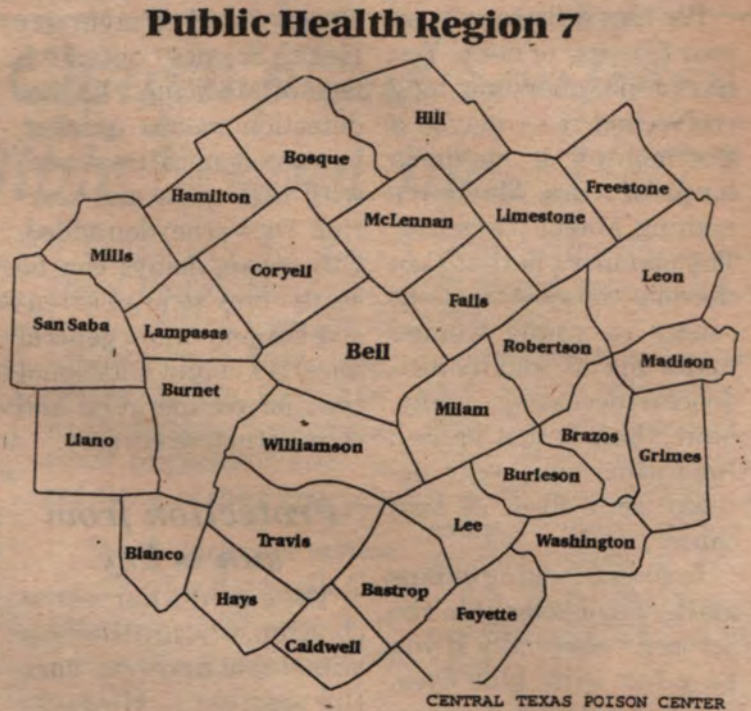

Scott and White announced the official opening of the Central Texas Poison Center at Scott and White in Temple June 6. The Center is currently located on the first floor of Scott and White Memorial Hospital and Clinic.

A statewide toll-free number (1-800-POISON) or (1-800-764-7661) dialed from anywhere in Texas now provides access to the nearest poison center 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Scott and White is designated by the State to serve the two million people living in the 30 counties which comprise Public Health Region 7.

According to Doug Borys R.Ph., A.B.A.T., Managing Director for the Central Texas Poison Center, "More than 6,800 calls were received during March and April, and, nearly one-third of those calls were actual exposure cases."

Staffing for the Center is comprised of a team of poison information specialists consisting of registered nurses and pharmacists with training in toxicology (the science which deals with poisons and their effects on people).

Dr. Patricia Rosen, Medical Director for the Central Texas Poison Center, said, "These specialists provide safe and effective poison treatment advice for poison exposure or ingestion to both the public and to professionals."

Dr. Rosen emphasized that "they can answer most questions about the hazards associated with household chemicals, medicines, plants, insects and snakes."

"In addition to the 24-hour poison emergency telephone services, the Center provides public education, professional education, data collection and research," said Borys.

To date in 1995 more than 10,000 each of stickers, magnets, brochures, and cards promoting the Texas Poison Center Network have been distributed in educational and information presentations. In addition, representatives have passed out nearly 20,000 Central Texas Poison Center brochures, stickers, and plant poison guides, as well as 6,000 "Mr. Yuk" stickers (green stickers displaying a wincing face with the tongue out).

The Center also provides a teletype for the deaf and hearing impaired (TDD/TTY - Telecommunications Device for the Deaf/Teletype).

The Central Texas Poison Center is one of six poison centers in the State of Texas. The others are located in Amarillo, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, and San Antonio.

The Central Texas Poison Center at Scott and White serves the 30 counties in Public Health Region 7, which include Bastrop, Bell, Blanco, Bosque, Brazos, Burleson, Burnet, Caldwell, Coryell, Falls, Fayette, Freestone, Grimes, Hamilton, Hayes, Hill, Lampasas, Llano, Lee, Leon, Limestone, Madison, McLennan, Milam, Mills, Robertson, San Saba, Travis, Washington, and Williamson.

Take charge of life is seminar topic

The next Women's Health Seminar - titled "The best defense is an offense: How to take charge of your life and prevent cancer" will be June 24.

The session will be 8:30 a.m.-noon in the Options for Health Learning Center, 3016 South 31st St., Temple, next to Western Auto in the Market Place Shopping Center. The program will center on ways people can take charge of their lives to prevent several kinds of cancers.

Topics to be discussed will be:

- Preventing cancer: Can diet and exercise help?
- How can women avoid cancers of the uterus, cervix and ovaries?
- Lung cancer: An ounce of prevention

Speakers will be the following:

Veronica Piziak, M.D., chairwoman of the Scott & White Division of Endocrinology, and professor in the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine.

Patsy Sulak, M.D., Scott & White obstetrician/gynecologist and associate professor in the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine.

William G. Petersen, M.D., Scott & White pulmonary medicine specialist and assistant professor with the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine.

The series is designed to educate people about cancer prevention and to enhance Scott & White's commitment to cancer prevention and care. The Scott & White Center for Cancer Prevention and Care recently received three-year accreditation from the American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer. Scott & White was cited for the excellence of its educational and multidisciplinary program which includes quality control, monitoring primary and supportive treatments.

This recognition means that Scott & White is among the top 3 percent of institutions in the nation for cancer diagnosis, prevention and care. In 1933, Scott & White was the first hospital in Texas to receive accreditation by the American College of Surgeons for cancer surgery.

This seminar is another monthly presentation in Scott & White's series focusing on health issues and is open to men and women. The Women's Health Series is designed to inform women and their loved ones about important issues and their options for treatment. Dr. Sulak and Dr. Piziak are the coordinators of the Women's Health Program. "By arming women with knowledge, we hope to motivate them to actively participate in and take charge of their health," said Dr. Piziak.

Fire extinguisher part of first line of defense

by Ilene C. Miller
Co. Ext. Agent

Every home needs a first line of defense from fire. Second to the smoke detector which alerts occupants of a fire, the fire extinguisher is the first line of defence. A fire extinguisher is designed for use when the fire is first beginning and damage can be reduced to minor impact.

Fire extinguishers are typically rated by their ability to extinguish a given amount of fire of Class A (paper), Class B (flammable liquids), or Class C (where something that could be on fire has energized electricity in or around it). The rating system was developed by the National Fire Protection Association to classify fire extinguishers by their ability to extinguish a specific class of fire of a specific size.

Stripling named to ACU Dean's List

Rochelle Stripling of Salado was among 800 students from Abilene Christian University named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring 1995 semester.

Stripling is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey Stripling, of Salado.

To make the honor roll, a student must complete at least 12 semester hours for grades and earn 3.45 or higher grade point average.

ACU, affiliated with the Churches of Christ and with an enrollment of more than 4,200 students, is one of the largest private universities in the Southwest. Last fall U.S. News & World Report named ACU a "best value" for its cost, financial aid and academic quality. The campus, located 150 miles west of Dallas/Fort Worth has been recognized by the Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas a part of a statewide model for efficiency and innovative programs to keep the costs of higher education.

The university offers 117 bachelor's programs through its three colleges, arts and Sciences, Biblical, and Family studies and Business Administration and the School of Nursing. The ACU Graduate School offers 39 master's programs and one doctoral program.

The most practical type of extinguisher to purchase for the home is a 2-3/4 pound ABC rated dry chemical pressurized extinguisher. This type of extinguisher should be of a pressurized type with a gauge, listed by Underwriters Laboratory or another recognized testing agency. Aerosol type extinguishers may be listed by UL or other testing organizations, but they do not have a pressure gauge to indicate their readiness and their limited size restricts the length of time they can be used to suppress fire.

While many other types of extinguishers are on the market and are capable of extinguishing and controlling fires in the home, the ABC dry chemical type is the most cost-effective, the easiest to maintain and the safest use. A minimum of one 2-3/4 pound dry chemical extinguisher is needed in the kitchen area where most home fires occur. It is very desirable to have a second extinguisher of 5 pound ABC dry chemical in the garage or workshop area.

Fire extinguishers must be maintained to assure they will perform the job they were designed to do. Maintenance involves observing the pressure gauge at least every three months, if not more often. Make sure the gauge indicator is in the safe opening range indicated on the gauge. Other maintenance includes keeping the extinguisher clean and easily accessible for the operator to use in the hazard area of the kitchen, garage or workshop.

Any time the extinguisher is used, even for a small fire, it must be inspected and recharged by an approved or licensed fire extinguisher service company. Today, mass production often makes it more economical to replace the extinguisher with a new one than to have it tested and recharged.

ABC dry chemical extinguishers are available from hardware, department, discount and home improvement supply stores.

Tips given to help busy family manage its morning time

by Ilene C. Miller
 Co. Ext. Agent

"Bzzz." The alarm goes off and you hit the ground running. Every morning, seems to be a battle with the clock as you get yourself and your family out the door. Except the clock seems to be winning the battle and you end up late or leaving undone.

Your morning routine can be made easier with a little planning:

- If possible, allow yourself enough time to get ready without having to get a child ready at the same time.
- Be sure to eat a quick, but nutritious breakfast. Bagels, fruit, yogurt, frozen waffles, juice and cereal are good choices.

• Have a morning routine. Children feel a sense of control when they know what to expect each morning.

• Allow extra 'wake-up time' for the slow to wake-up child. Giving them the extra few minutes they need can reduce everyone's stress level.

• Reduce distractions. Set rules about when television can be on and when it's okay to play with toys.

• Designate a place for coats, keys, school work, lunches, etc. so there is only one place to check before going out the door.

• Be sure to have an extra set of keys in a convenient place just in case you can't find yours.

• Allow children to do what they are able to do. Teach preschoolers how to dress themselves. Let them help 'make breakfast' by keeping utensils and cereal at a level where they can reach them.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
 Recently, I have heard considerable unfounded and unwelcome rhetoric about Mr. Ken Clapp, President of the OSSF and Mr Roy Hector, President of the Salado Chamber of Commerce. Both of these men have contributed hundreds of hours in their respective positions to make Salado a better place for all of us to live in. Mr. Clapp in guiding the OSSF to its present elite position in our community and Mr Hector with his many contributions to the Salado Library, The Salado Lions Club, as manager of Pace Park and of course, watching out for the public's interest as President of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is time, in my judgement, the small number of their critics learn to disagree without being so disagreeable.

Sincerely,
 Doris H. Cottle

Breakfast Puff Pancakes

Vivienne Mooney

3 eggs
1/2 c. buttermilk biscuit mix or pancake mix

1/2 c. milk
2 T. margarine or butter
Grated peel of 1 orange

Heat oven to 425°. Beat eggs with electric mixer until foamy. Gradually add biscuit mix alternately with milk. Beat until smooth. Melt butter in 9-inch oven-proof glass or metal pie pan. Meanwhile, beat egg mixture at high speed for 3 minutes more. Stir in orange peel. Remove hot pie pan from oven. Pour batter in pan. Bake 17 to 20 minutes, or until pancake is puffed and brown. Serve at once, with syrup or confectioners' sugar, or fresh or canned fruit.

Buttermilk Pancakes

Harriet Brodie

1 1/4 c. flour
2 T. sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda

1/2 tsp. salt
1 beaten egg
1 1/3 c. buttermilk
1 T. cooking oil

Stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Combine egg, buttermilk and oil; add all at once to flour mixture, stirring until blended, but still slightly lumpy. Add additional buttermilk to thin batter if necessary. Pour about 1/4 cup batter onto a hot, lightly-greased griddle or heavy skillet for each standard-sized pancake, or about 1 tablespoon batter for each dollar-size pancake. Cook until golden brown, turning to cook other side when pancakes have a bubbly surface and slightly dry edges. Makes about 8 (4-inch) pancakes or about 30 dollar-sized pancakes.

These are our favorite pancakes. Blueberries may be added to mix.

The above recipes are from the cookbook, Salado Country Cooking, published by the Monday Club of the Salado United Methodist Church. It is available for purchase at the Salado Chamber of Commerce in the Salado Civic Center on North Main St. and at many shops throughout the village. For information, contact the Salado Chamber of Commerce at 947-5040

NOTICE OF PETITION

Central Telephone Company of Texas ("Centel") has filed a Petition with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") to establish a fee for the purpose of recovering lost revenues and increased costs associated with Expanded Local Calling Service ("ELCS") petitions for several Centel exchanges pursuant to the Commission's Substantive Rule 23.49(c)(12) passed as a consequence of S. B. 632, 73rd Legislature-Regular Session.

If approved, the monthly increase in charges to Centel's local exchange customers will be $0.67 per month per access line. Prior to final approval by the Commission, all Centel customers subscribing to basic local service who are not already paying a $3.50 or $7.00 ELCS charge will be billed the additional monthly amount beginning on an interim basis no sooner than the July 1, 1995, billing cycle. Centel has requested this rate be implemented on an interim basis, subject to refund, until such time as the Commission has entered a final order on this matter. The net annual effect on the revenues of Centel will be $0.00 as the requested fee replaces lost revenues and reimburses Centel for the increased direct cost of service associated with all of Centel's ELCS in service by June 1, 1995. The total lost revenues and increased costs associated with ELCS for Centel's ELCS in service by June 1, 1995, is $1,237,393.

The deadline for intervention in this matter is August 7, 1995. Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission no later than August 7, 1995. All requests to intervene should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 4580256, or (512) 458-9221 for text telephone, or by writing the Public Utility Commission.

NOTIFICACION DE PETITION

La Central Telephone Company of Texas (Compañía Central de Teléfonos de Texas) ("Centel") ha presentado una petición a la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas ("Comisión") para establecer una tarifa, con el propósito de recobrar los ingresos perdidos e incrementos de costos relacionados con las peticiones del Servicio Extendido de Llamadas Locales (Expanded Local Calling Service), ("ELCS" por sus siglas en servicio, para varlas centrales de teléfonos Centel, conforme a las Normas Permanentes de la Comisión 23.49(c)(12), que fueron aprobadas como resultado de la S.B. 632, la 73rd Sesión Regular de la Legislatura. Si se aprueba, el incremento en los cargos mensuales a los clientes locales de Centel, será de $0.67 al mes por cada línea de acceso. Antes de la aprobación final de la Comisión, todos los clientes de Centel abonados al servicio local básico que aún no están pagando un cargo ELCS de $3.50 U $7.00, se les cobrará una cantidad mensual adicional de manera provisional, comenzando no antes del ciclo de cobro del primero de julio de 1995. Centel ha solicitado que esta tarifa se lleve a cabo de manera provisional, sujeta a reembolso, hasta que la Comisión tome una decisión final en este asunto. El efecto anual neto en los ingresos de Centel será de $0.00 ya que las tarifas solicitadas reemplazarán los ingresos perdidos y reembolsarán a Centel por el incremento del costo directo de los servicios asociados con todos los ELCS en servicio para el primero de junio de 1995. El total de los ingresos perdidos y el incremento en los costos asociados con el ELCS para el ELCS de Centel en servicio para el primero de junio de 1995 es de $1,237,393.

La fecha límite para la intervención en este asunto es el 7 de agosto de 1995. (NAPS)—If you're tired of power washing and applying sealants, stains and preservatives or if you find yourself replacing deck boards after every winter or rainy season, you may want to consider new options. There are composite products now on the market that may provide a permanent solution to repair and maintenance problems. With summer fast approaching, now is the time to replace old, rotted decks or build new ones. It's also the time when termites and carpenter ants are looking for new digs and when winter's damage is highly visible.

First, assess the damage. Check deck boards and rails for splitting, splintering, buckling, popped nails and small round holes from insects. Damage assessment will tell you if you need a new deck or just replacement boards. Then, you can look into conventional or new materials on the market.

Traditionally, homeowners have had the limited choice of pressure-treated wood, redwood or cedar. However, these wood products require continuous care. It can be a losing battle when rain, humidity, sunlight and insects eat away at a wood deck. Plastic lumber seemed to be an alternative, although many homeowners don't find it aesthetically appealing or slip-resistant when wet.

A new category of building material, known as a wood-polymer composite, has emerged as a solution to long-term maintenance. Joe Brunner, a contractor who replaced a deck for The Neptune Beach Club in Southampton, Long Island last summer, used a wood-polymer composite called Trex, which resists moisture, UV rays, insects and saltwater. The deck also serves as the club's dance floor and is under constant traffic from thousands of partiers all summer long.

Club owner Vince Maggio said one year later and after 50 inches of snow, the deck looks like new. "The deck has not deteriorated, it looks like the day Joe installed it. And, since my customers often come right from the beach in bare feet, they can enjoy another summer of no splinters or popped nails."

Maggio had a choice of two colors, natural and colorfast brown. "I chose natural because it turned a silvery gray after a few months exposure to air, and blends in well with an ocean setting," he explained. Although the material requires no sealants to stay looking new, it readily accepts paints and stains if the homeowner chooses.

Alternative decking materials may cost more per board than conventional wood, but according to Bob Lattanzi of Snavely Forest Products, a lumber wholesaler in Pittsburgh, PA, a side-by-side comparison shows that during a 10-year period, the costs of maintaining a pressure-treated deck brought its total cost to $6,152.22 compared to the wood-polymer deck at $4,574.46. Lattanzi noted that the comparison is based on a 26 x 12 foot deck and includes the limited amount of conventional wood needed for the support structure in the wood-polymer deck. "There's also not much difference in the initial costs," he said. "A pressure-treated deck is calculated at $3,971.78 and the wood-polymer deck at $4,256.88."

Lumber dealer Jim Justus of Justus Lumber in Minneapolis also noted that homeowners are looking for safe, worry-free decking. "Resistance to the elements as well as no splinters and excellent traction make these new materials even more attractive."

Mobil Chemical Company added that the wood-polymer is made from all reclaimed materials and therefore does not deplete natural resources.

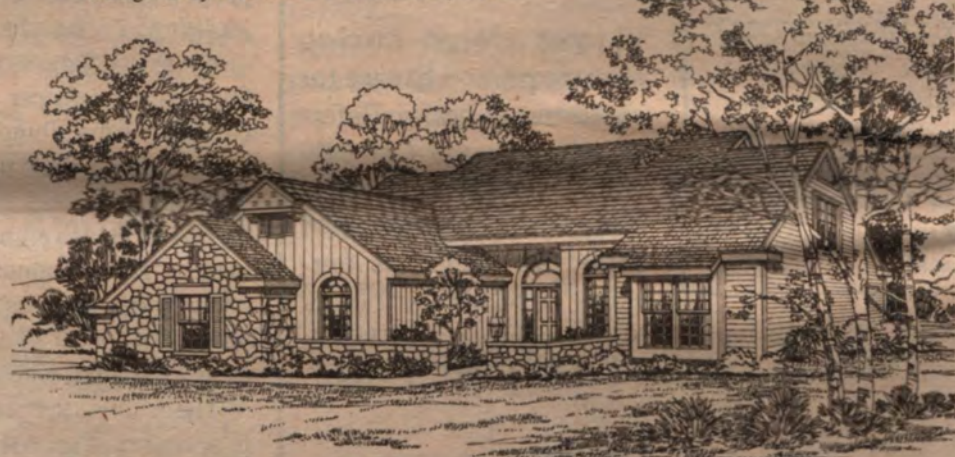

Municipalities, national parks and state agencies began the trend toward using high-performance, environmentally safe materials. "We initially developed Trex for nature trails, docks, playgrounds, and seaside boardwalks," said Roger Wittenberg, technical manager, Composite Products Division, Mobil Chemical Company. "But homeowners made the connection that if the material can withstand an oceanfront setting, it will perform well in their backyards."

For a full color brochure with a variety of ideas on how wood-polymer composites can be used for decks or to find a dealer near you, call 1-800-BUY-TREX.

water resistant. Some manufacturers are now making sunscreens formulated especially for children. Read the label on the bottle. Use a lotion that contains no PABA and is hypo-allergenic. These are safe for children older than 6 months.

- Keep infants under 6 months out of the sun. Sunscreens are not appropriate for tiny babies.

- Apply the sun screen every two hours, even if your child is only in the back yard. If the child is playing in water or sweating, apply the sun screen more frequently.

- Make sure your child is wearing loose-fitting clothes and a hat. Light colors will reflect the sun light. Some clothing manufacturers are now producing cotton tops that have a sun protection factor specially woven in them.

If your child does get sunburned, Dr. Smith recommends parents do the following:

- If the skin looks pink, take your child out of the sun immediately.

- Cool the area with cool water. If blisters form, don't pop them.

- For red, irritated skin, apply a soothing ointment such as aloe vera or a medicated skin cream, such as

- If the child is uncomfortable, a child's-strength tablet of acetaminophen (such as Tylenol) may help the pain.

Tips for Adults too

Although the use of sunscreen lotions has doubled in the past decade, only one-third of adults regularly use them. Dr. Posey recommends sunscreen lotions or creams with a Sun Protection Factor of 15. The number indicates how much longer a person can stay in the sun before burning. Higher SPF numbers don't really add that much time.

If you normally sunburn in an hour, using Sun Protection Factor 15 will allow you to stay in the sun for 15 hours without burning," he said. "If you have fair skin and normally sunburn after 15 minutes, using Sun Protection Factor 15 lets you stay out four hours before burning."

Apply sunscreen 30 minutes before going into the sun. Reapply every few hours, especially after swimming or if you perspire heavily. Opaque sunblockers containing zinc oxide provide extra protection to the nose, lips and ears. These come in vibrant colors as well as white and have become a sensible fashion fad on many beaches.

If a rash develops, you might be allergic to the chemicals in the sunscreen. There's a great variation in sunscreen formulations, so it's a good idea to buy a small amount to see if it works for your skin type. Avoid lotions containing PABA, a potential irritant, Dr. Posey said. Other smart sun tips he advises:

- Wear loose, long-sleeved clothing, hats, visors and sunglasses. Tightly woven cotton fabrics give some protection against the sun's rays. Most clothing offers Sun Factor of about 7. New on the market this year are T-shirts and other casual wear with Sun Protection Factor 30 woven into the fabric.

- Limit sun exposure, even when you are wearing sun screen, during the middle of the day, when the sun's rays are the strongest.

- Some medications can increase your sensitivity to the sun, which can lead to damaged blood vessels, rashes, burns and reduced immunity. Photosensitive medications include common drugs such as antihistamines, ibuprophen and some antibiotics. Be sure to ask your doctor or pharmacist about these drugs if you are going to be in the sun.

- Cloudy days are no protection against UV rays. Watch out for sun rays reflected from sand, water, snow or light surfaces. Nearly 80 percent of the sun's burning rays can penetrate clouds and reach swimmers three feet below the surface of the water.

- Avoid tanning parlors and sun lamps. Although some sun lamps are advertised as being safer than the sun, researchers say that they may be more dangerous because the UV rays penetrate the skin more deeply than sunlight.

- Remember that radiation increases with altitude and tropical latitudes. So, you receive more UV rays in the mountains or on a tropical vacation.

- Wear sunglasses. Eyes are especially sensitive to sun damage. Increased exposure to ultraviolet rays may speed up development of cataracts. Wear sunglasses with at least 95 percent blockage of UVB/UVA for outdoors. This protective coating is also available in prescription eye wear.
