Salado Legends set July 22, 29, Aug. 5

Salado Legends will open its summer season at Tablerock Amphitheater on Royal St. July 22, July 29 and Aug. 5.

Salado Legends is a historical musical-drama. The story is the pre-history and history of Salado and Central Texas.

An original song, "Be Careful What You Wish

For," weaves the legends of the Tonkawa Indians, the dreams of the Spanish explorers, and the hopes of the McDougals from Salado's Scottish settlement into a panoramic tale.

Dinner will be served each night at 7:30 p.m. for $5 per person.

Theater tickets are $15 for adults and $5 for children for each performance, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

For reservations and tour information, contact 947-9205.

Tickets will be available at Peoples National Bank, First State Bank and Fletcher's Books & Antiques.

Charge tickets by calling Dillard's 1-800-654-9545.

Murder in the First

rated R

starring Christian Slater, Kevin Bacon, Gary Oldman

Our rating: ****

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Don't overlook Murder in the First during the summer explosion at the video store. If you enjoy Christian Slater or Kevin Bacon, Murder in the First should be near the top of your list.

Slater does a fine job as young lawyer James Staphill, assigned a shut-and-closed case of Henri Young, an Alcatraz inmate accused of murdering another inmate.

He quickly learns that Young (Kevin Bacon) is deeply disturbed after three solid years in the dungeons of solitary confinement. Bacon turns in one of the best performances of his career as the prisoner who would prefer dying in the gas chamber to returning to Alcatraz and assistant warden Glenn (Gary Oldman).

Murder in the First is a terrific period piece, but it falls just short of the mark left by The Shawshank Redemption, which should have won Best Picture and Best Actor last year.

Our rating system

* A dog  A dog with spots  Reaches mediocrity
* Better than many  One of the best

This week's day-after-a-day-off offering needs to come under the headline shown above - "Holiday Potpourri" since it will include a "combination of incongruous elements" as the old Webster notes.

The first of these differing items is for those of you who managed somehow to stretch a one day Fourth of July holiday into a four day break and took to the road in your horseless carriage.

While wheeling along at a respectable (and legal) 65 mph, did you notice cars and trucks passing you? Or, for that matter did you find anyone else driving according to the posted speeds?

We mention this only because there is a movement afoot in Congress to lift the federal speed requirement thus allowing each state to independently set its own limits.

Chances are the speed limit in the Lone Star State will jump to 70 during the day and 65 at night for cars, pickups and vans.

Those giant behemoths they call trucks nowadays will have to abide by the current 60 and 55 (day and night) limitations under the planned federal guidelines. Ha! There's a laugh. Have you ever seen a truck on a Texas highway wheeling along within the speed limit?

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

Even our county and state vehicles seem to have a hard time driving legally.

Nothing quite like a truck filled with gravel hitting 75 MPH, on some side road, with no load tarp and going around you like you were parked!

Speed limitations ought to be for everyone but when cars can go 70 - we have to wonder what speed trucks will be hitting? Not a pretty sight to imagine!

Whatever the reason for upping the speed limits - it can only spell danger until we somehow build highways designated for "trucks only" and leave the rest of the pavement for passenger cars thus giving them at least a halfway decent shot at getting from Point-A to Point-B without a side trip to the hospital or worse, the morgue.

Most Senior Reader

Every newspaper scribe - hopes what is written and later printed, is also read. This columnist is no exception so when we got a call from Ruth Berry Brown, who now lives in Waco, we were delighted.

Mrs. Brown subscribes to the Village Voice and reads it cover to cover each week. She claims to be particularly fond of "Off The Record". Now there's the way to start the day - hearing from a loyal and devoted reader.

Later on we found out that Ruth Berry Brown is a 95 year old former resident of Salado thus increasing our appreciation for her ten-fold.

This great lady is a mine of information about the history of Salado. She knows where the bodies are buried, as they say, and not a bit afraid to "tell it like it is". Ask her sometime about the cemetery situation just east of the civic center if you don't believe us.

Growing old is a subject we all think and talk about from time to time. Reason is the alternative is so bleak. Some of us age gracefully and others fight it every step of the way.

We salute the happy warriors who are winning the battle of aging. The commanding general of these troops obviously has to be our very own Ruth Berry Brown.

This scribe made a date with Mrs. Brown for coffee so if you see me sometime in the coffee shop with a neat little old lady from Waco - don't bother calling the wife. She knows all about it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The Salado Women's Choral, now known by some as the Salado Chorus Girls, gave a highly successful performance to a standing-room-only audience on June 8th at Halley House. As their director, I want to acknowledge publicly the amazing amount of work they accomplished in six months of rehearsal.

There is special joy for me in working with Marg Kirkman. She combines the talent and facility of a fine concert artist with superb ability as rehearsal and performing accompanist. These are usually two separate careers for a pianist.

Finally, I salute the patrons who filled our auditorium and showed such a warm, gratifying response to our more serious choral numbers and had fun with our venture into rock and our dash back to the '20s for the Charleston with Patty Campbell.

As a result of the many tickets sold and generous private donations, we have been able to make the first payment on a beautiful six-foot-six Yamaha grand piano of which Salado can be proud. In a village which represents all of the arts except music we can now claim that distinction also.

Sincerely,
Katherine Wende

Dear Editor:

Please extend our deep regret to everyone concerned that we have not been able to set a date for the planned Vickrey House opening.

Due to critical family illness in our family we have not felt it wise to plan a date for meeting all our old friends here. If any would like the "Ten-minute Tour" our phone number is 947-5344. that way we can be able to make a few short term appointments that could be cancelled if we were called away.

The house was put on the market June 22 and has brought a number of inquiries, but we have not selected a final buyer. Stand by! We hope to put our half city block in hands that will please the National Register people, the Historical Society guidelines and all our neighbors and friends!

Warmly,
Bob and Sophia

The Weekend Workshop

Portable Rocking Armchairs

"Meet me in St. Louie, Louie, meet me at the fair." Remember the Judy Garland movie, Meet Me in St. Louis? Over 90 years ago, in 1904, there was a World's Fair held in the city of St. Louis, and the movie featuring Judy Garland was based on that event. Three things were introduced to the public for the first time at that fair: The ice cream cone, the hot dog and a new invention that was a portable lounge chair with a cloth sling that would comfortably seat just about anyone. This week's project is a hybrid of that early chair. It has arms that you can rest your arms on, and it folds up so you can store it out of the way. You can make it over a weekend with ordinary hand-held tools, and you can make modifications so that it is perfect for both the patio or deck and can be used inside as a lounge chair for the den or family room as well. This design is ergonomically perfect. That's a big fancy word that means it is the world's most comfortable chair. It automatically adjusts to fit your body size, height and shape. It is a rocking chair, also, and according to my children, great for old fogies like me since it is also easy to get into and out of.

You can copy this design or request plans to make it by specifying Project No. YF116 and sending $6.95 plus $2.00 postage and handling to:

Mrs. George W. Bush Speaks

Mrs. George W. Bush will speak at the Frank W. Mayborn Civic and Convention Center Sept. 26, at a luncheon to benefit the Bell County Museum. The First Lady of Texas will be introduced by State Representative Dianne White Delisi.

"We are honored and proud that Mrs. Bush has agreed to help preserve the special heritage of the county and region," said museum director

Stephanie Turnham, noting that proceeds from ticket sales will help fund exhibits, special projects, and programs.

Mrs. Clay (Anne Sewell) Johnson III of Dallas, a Bell County native whose husband is Appointments Director in the Bush cabinet, has been instrumental in organizing the upcoming event. "Both Governor and Mrs. Bush are avid readers of history," Mrs. Johnson said. "Also,

Mrs. Bush is a former librarian, so it is fitting that she is interested in speaking on behalf of the Bell County Museum, since it is housed in a restored Carnegie Library building."

The 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. luncheon will be catered by Market Street Cafe, with entertainment provided by pianist Pam Bland. Tickets are $20 per person, and can be reserved by calling the Bell County Museum at (817) 933-5243.

Former Salado Students Selected in Math and Science

David Rainey, director of the Arkansas School for Mathematics and Sciences (ASMS), recently announced that 150 Arkansas high school sophomores have been selected to attend ASMS for the 1995-96 school year.

Former Salado student Adam Holland, son of George and Wanda Holland, of Jessierville, AK and formerly of Salado, was one of the sophomores selected.

AMS, which was authorized during the 1991 legislative session, is the state's only public residential high school for gifted and talented math and science students. The school is located in the former facilities of St. Joseph's Hospital in Hot Springs.

It opened in 1993-94.

Gregory's named 1 of best retailers

Gregory's, An American Crafts Gallery, was honored as one of only 400 craft retailers in America nominated in a national Craft Retailer Awards Program, at a reception and dinner held in May at Boston Park Plaza Hotel. The ceremony was held in conjunction with the Buyers Market of American Craft, a trade show where artists exhibit their original designs in production and limited edition work to craft retailer form across the country.

Gregory's is owned by Greg and Carolyn Dachs and has been open in Salado for over 18 years. Today, it is located at Shady Villa on Main St., across from the Stagecoach Inn dining room, phone 947-5703.

Ballots were collected from more than 2,500 professional craft artists throughout the country by NICHE magazine, a trade publication for craft retailers and sponsor of the awards program. Criteria for selection included performance in buying, payment, marketing, store presentation, and community outreach.

In making the presentation, Wendy Rosen, publisher of NICHE magazine, stated, It's important that the craft community recognizes that excellence in craft retailing is what makes our industry stronger. These retailers confidently market and merchandise some of the finest crafts available in the country."

Clean, Cold & Covered

To prevent food-borne illnesses from ruining picnics this summer, remember three simple rules: keep it clean, keep it cold and keep it covered.

"Most cases of food poisoning are caused by careless food preparation, storage and serving," said Dr. Corinne-Montandon, a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center and an assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine.

Montandon believes that safe food handling begins with a clean work area and clean hands.

"As you prepare your family's picnic favorites be sure that countertops, cutting boards and all the utensils that touch the foods are clean," she said.

"Always wash hands with warm soapy water before preparing, packing and serving foods, and take along disposable hand wipes in case there is no running water at the picnic site."

According to Montandon, bacteria multiplies quickly in foods left at room temperature so refrigerate foods soon after preparation.

Some foods are more susceptible to bacterial growth than others. Foods that require special attention include meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, meat-and-sea-food salads, potato salad, milk products, eggs, cream pies, and custards.

To keep foods cold for the picnic, place them in an insulated cooler or ice chest and cover with ice or commercial ice packets. If possible, travel with the cooler inside the car instead of the trunk. Once you reach the picnic site, place the cooler in the shade and only open it when necessary.

"Children love to make repeat visits to the ice chest for juice, sodas or pieces of ice. It's a good idea to bring along an extra cooler just for drinks," Montandon said.

Before you spread the table cloth and set out the food, Montandon recommends an inspection of the area. Make sure the spot is not a haven for birds, squirrels, flies or other unwanted guests that might contaminate foods. As an extra precaution, cover foods with plastic wrap before and after they are served.

Perishable foods should not be left out for long. It is best to return leftovers to the cooler as soon as possible.

Food-borne illnesses, such as salmonella, botulism and clostridium perfringens, can range from mild to severe. They can be especially dangerous for young children, the elderly, pregnant women, and others with weakened immune systems who may suffer from complications caused by vomiting and diarrhea.

If someone becomes ill, give them plenty of fluids to prevent dehydration. If you suspect a food-borne illness, contact your physician as quickly as possible.

Atty. Gen. on Homes

by Dan Morales
Texas Attorney General

For many Texans, the purchase of a home is the biggest investment they ever make. Many consumers buy a new home with little or no knowledge about the real estate process. Unfortunately, they are prime targets to get taken.

Finding the right home at the right price takes careful research and good judgment. Consider the following advice when shopping for a home. However, we encourage you to do more research to minimize problems when buying your dream house.

Expert advice

Because most consumers are unaware of the basic concepts and rules in buying and selling real estate, a small investment in wise counsel can save a bundle in the long run. Take the time to ask friends and relatives to recommend an honest, competent real estate agent, mortgage broker, and attorney to help you through unfamiliar waters.

You can check up on their recommendations by connecting your local Better Business Bureau, Attorney General Consumer Protection Office, and relevant professional organization.

Remember that even the best professional will not look after your interests as you will. So stay involved, and don't be afraid to ask questions.

Resolve credit disputes up front

Most Texans have to borrow money to buy a home. When you apply for a home loan, a reputable mortgage lender will run a credit check to make sure you are a good risk. If there is a problem with your credit report and the bank finds out about it first, you may lose the home you are trying to purchase while trying to work on your credit, or you may not be able to get a mortgage at all.

To help prevent possible problems, get your credit reports early. That way you can clear up any mistakes or explain any problems the reports may show. The following are the three major national credit report services: Equifax (800-685-1111), Trans Union (800-851-2674) and TRW (800-392-1122).

Get it in writing

The law provides that an oral agreement for the sale of real estate is not enforceable. You should therefore make sure that all agreements you reach when buying a house are made in writing. For example, if the home needs any repairs, improvements, or any other work, you should list those in writing on your contract.

Types of contract

Most home purchases are conducted pursuant to a general warranty deed in which the seller warrants (guarantees) that the seller's title to the property is good. If it later turns out that the seller's title was not good, the buyer (or subsequent buyer) may sue the seller for economic loss resulting from the title defect. If the seller is unreachable or without funds to pay a successful lawsuit, the buyer could still be protected under a title insurance policy.

Although there are other types of deeds that are sometimes used in special situations, most residential real estate transactions involve a general warranty deed.

Unless you know real estate thoroughly, ask your lawyer for an explanation if a general warranty deed is not being used when you purchase your home.

You should be especially leery of a contract for deed, which, unlike a general warranty deed, does not transfer title to the buyer until the house has been totally paid off. The seller can take the property back if the buyer does not meet any of a wide range of preconditions, such as failing to pay taxes, insurance, monthly payments or not keeping the house in good condition. Worse yet, if the seller forfeits the house (because of bankruptcy, for example), the buyer with a contract for deed has no equity and may have no claim whatsoever - on the property in question. In other words, under a 30 year, contract-for-deed agreement, you could conceivably make payments for 29 years and 11 months, miss the last payment, and lose everything.

Some people choose a contract for deed because it allows the buyer to move into the house without paying closing costs or a substantial down payment. However, this type of deed often ends up being nothing more than a long-term rental agreement.

Rep Opines Desecration

U.S. Representative Chet Edwards (D-Waco) said that the U.S. flag will be protected from desecration under a Constitutional amendment approved by the U.S. House of Representatives Wednesday.

"When I see the American flag, I think of the one million American citizens who have given their lives in defense of our nation," Edwards said. "I think of think of the million veterans who have fought for our nation. Some things should be sacred, and the American flag is one of those."

The amendment to the Constitution to protect the flag against desecration passed 312 to 112.

"The freedom of speech is a right that all Americans cherish," Edwards said. "I will fight to protect that right, but for those who would burn the flag I say 'use your voice and not a match.'"

The amendment was strongly supported by veterans organizations. Forty-nine states, including Texas, have passed resolutions supporting an amendment banning flag desecration.

The U.S. Senate must now approve the amendment. After Senate approval, it must be ratified within seven years by 38 of the 50 states before the amendment becomes part of the Constitution.

The amendment would allow Congress and the states to determine what constitutes desecration. Burning and other acts of destruction could be included in definition of the flag desecration.

By protecting the American flag we pay respect to all Americans who fought in war to defend the ideals of freedom," Edwards said.

"Most Americans would never consider burning the American flag or dishonorably displaying it in any way. I believe a person who want to make a political point can make it in ways other than by disrespecting the American flag.

Common cancer among young men can be detected early

It's the most common cancer among young adult men and yet many have never heard of it.

Testicular cancer can occur any time after the age of 15; however, it is most common between the ages of 20 and 35. Many young men do not realize they can prevent its becoming a major problem in their lives.

"Two groups of men are at greatest risk for developing cancer of the testicles," said Dr. Seth P. Lerner, a urologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "They are men whose testicles were not descended from inside the body into the scrotum at birth and men with maternal estrogen exposure during pregnancy. And it is four times more likely to occur among whites than among blacks."

In past years, testicular cancer was frequently fatal, but "today it is among the most treatable of cancers," Lerner said.

That's where testicular self-examination comes in.

"The best time to do a monthly testicular self-exam is after a warm bath or shower because the heat causes the scrotum to relax, making it easier to find anything unusual," Lerner said.

Use both hands to gently examine each testicle, placing the index and middle fingers underneath the testicle and the thumbs on top. Gently roll the testicles between the thumbs and fingers. During the self-exam, feel for any abnormal lumps, which are usually painless.

Lerner cautions that men should not confuse a lump with the epididymis, a cord-like structure on the top and back of the testicle that stores and transports sperm.

"If you feel an abnormal lump within the testicle, you should contact your physician right away," Lerner said. "The lump could be the result of infection, but it could also be cancerous. Early detection of testicular cancer by self-examination is the best way to cure this disease."

Cancer seldom occurs in both testicles, and only one testicle is necessary for full sexual function.

Lerner also suggest that testicular examinations be included in routine physicals. That's also a good time to seek a physician's advice on how to correctly perform a testicular self-exam.

VBS CODE J.E.S.U.S. July 10

First Baptist Church of Salado will hold Vacation Bible School July 10-14 for children entering 1st-6th grade. The theme for this year is "CODE J.E.S.U.S. - Investigating the Good News with Paul!"

"CODE J.E.S.U.S." is a five-day learning experience featuring active Bible learning, fun crafts, games and music.

Bible school will begin at 9 a.m. each day and end at 11:30 a.m. A parent's

Financing for Farm and Ranch

The Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, administered through the Texas Department of Agriculture, is accepting applications for a new loan program that helps individuals purchase up to $150,000 worth of farm or ranch land, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"Our Farm and Ranch Finance Program is for producers who want to buy their first place or for those who want to expand their operations," Perry said. "Applicants must have at least three years of farming or ranching experience."

A Texas A&M University study conducted among producers and financial institutions in May 1994 found that a demand exists in Texas for almost $300 million in loans to help individuals, who are farming and ranching, buy land, Perry said.

Many producers nowadays lease land and have been unable to save enough for a down payment," Perry said. "Our Farm and Ranch Program will allow those who don't have a large amount of cash on hand to buy a limited amount of acreage."

Applicants must be Texas residents and show that they have earned at least 25 percent of their gross income from farming and ranching over the last three years.

Applicants will be required to complete a business plan demonstrating that they intend to be full-time agricultural producers, and they must provide evidence that their net worth is less than $250,000. Applicants also must prove that they have finances available for necessary farming and ranching equipment and operating costs.

Applications must be completed in cooperation with a local lending institution. The maximum loan of $150,000 may not exceed 95 percent of the land's appraised value or 95 percent of the purchase price. Interest rates are based on market conditions and will be adjusted over the life of the loan. The rates must be approved by the lender and the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority. As of June 5, the interest rate was 9.75 percent.

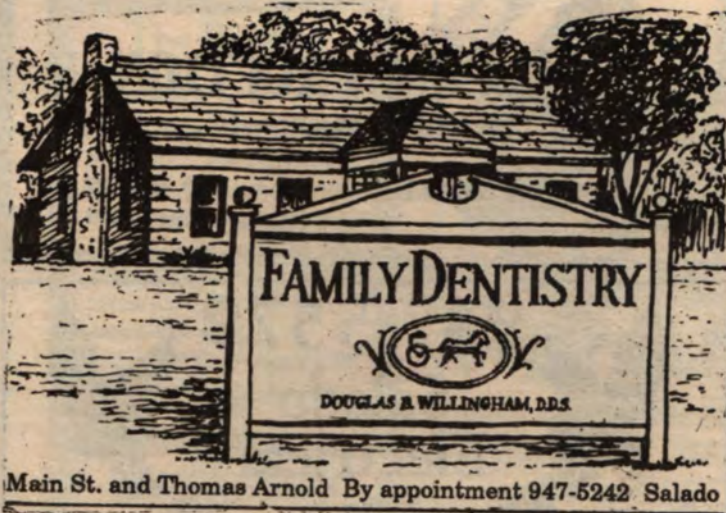

In addition to the Farm and Ranch Finance Program, changes have been made in TAFE's Young Farmer Guarantee Program to encourage more applicants. The program was established to help those between 18 and 40 years old start their first agricultural operation. Loans guarantees may be used for purchases of feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, poultry, farm or ranch equipment, farm or ranch buildings or to lease farm or ranch land.

Changes in the Young Farmer program are: the maximum amount of agricultural income an applicant may earn to be eligible for the program has been increased from 25 percent to 50 percent; the down payment has been reduced from 20 percent to 5 percent; and the program's application form has been streamlined. Applicants will still be required to complete a five-year business plan.

To receive an application for any loan program administered by TAFE, or for more information about these loan programs and others, call TDA in Austin at (512) 475-1619; fax (512) 475-1762 or write: the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711-2847.

Nothing New Under Sun

The recently enacted educational reform law that goes into action on September 1, is touted as having all sorts of new things for schools to contend with including local control; higher wages for some of the teachers and not for others (what a screwed up legislative touch there) and hopefully less paperwork.

One of the "new" things enacted into law is the matter of allowing local superintendents to issue teaching certificates to certain individuals whose expertise is needed and who might otherwise not be permitted to teach in the public schools due to a lack of college courses in education.

Included would be those who have special skills in the fields of art, science, music, engineering as well as the building and automotive trades.

Bet you didn't know that from the start of public education in Texas back in 1854 down through the passage of the famous Gilmer-Aiken laws in 1948-50, every superintendent in the state could issue a certificate to anyone they felt could handle a classroom full of little rug rats.

Now we are back to local control of certification for specialized teaching. It makes sense today just like it did in former days - only the problem was we let our lawmakers get involved back in the early 50's. And you know what always happens when politicians get interested in things in which they have little or no ability - which is most everything they touch!

Fun Folks

The Salado branch of the infamous and international "Do-No-Gooders" club (who meet with alarming regularity at the Stagecoach Coffee Shop) became almost giddy with hilarity several days back when they learned that four or five of their curmudgeon-like comrades had been tagged as "trouble-makers"!

Calling a DNGer a "TMer" is sort of like calling General Custer a Native American population control expert.

Thank goodness these hijinkers did not take personally the name calling - "goes with the territory", they quipped with good humor.

Fact is, a number of the resident DNGers had their feelings sort of hurt when they were omitted from the list.

If we ever lose our community or personal sense of humor we will be lost.

Thank goodness for the men and women in our village that can shoulder responsibility on a volunteer basis, accept the slings and arrows with a laugh and keep on-keeping on.

That's -30-

We, the family of Charles Edward Smith, cannot begin to express how grateful we are to the Salado community. In our hour of need and sorrow, many, many Saladoans opened their hearts and pocketbooks. Your gracious and selfless spirit lifted our family during this sad and desperate time.

So many have given so much. Please forgive us if we haven't listed you specifically. Our heartfelt thanks go out to all Saladoans and a special thank you goes out to those friends and merchants listed below:
