OSSF sets auction for March 2

The Board of Directors of the Old Salado School Foundation announced this week that the date for the annual OSSF Auction has been set for Texas Independence Day - March 2, 1996.

The announcement came from OSSF President Ken Clapp, who noted that the auction, to be held at the school cafeteria, has been a great success in years past and since the Foundation that operates the Salado Civic Center, has a number of expenses pending for maintenance and operation of the center - "It seems that the popular auction is a just-right fund raising event for the foundation in order to have money to meet the budget requirements for 1996," Clapp noted.

Vice President Bob Cottle, who serves as director of building and grounds, noted: "Any large building that has the use we have needs annual maintenance and repair."

"The Civic Center is no exception. We have painting to do as well as some repair work for areas that are not holding up as well as expected. Since our rest rooms are opened seven days a week, there is a great deal of work done there each day to keep them spotless. We have had many compliments on our facilities for which we are proud.

We also know that there is a high cost involved in keeping things repaired and cleaned."

A number of exceptionally fine auctionable items have already been donated with more promised, according to Board member Patsy Sanford.

The evening of March 2, will present a slightly different face from previous auctions and will be a night to remember with music, great food, entertainment and of course the high class auction.

A display of Christmas villages and collectible Santa sculptures will be open Dec. 1-3 at the Salado Civic Center.

Christmas Stroll Dec. 1-3

Salado invites you to experience its beauty and elegance during the Christmas Stroll Dec. 1-3.

Luminaries, white-lighted Christmas trees, strolling carolers and a live nativity are just part of the enchantment during the Stroll.

Salado's many shops, galleries, boutiques, restaurants and cafes will be open late as carolers from around the state stroll through the village. Businesses will be open to 9 p.m. Dec. 1-2 and 6 p.m. Dec. 3.

Live Nativity scenes will be featured 6-9 p.m. Dec. 1-2 on the grounds of the First Baptist Church of Salado.

Following tradition of the past several years, the Live Nativity Scenes continue to delight all who stroll past their historic location at Creekside and

Main Street with their beautiful depiction of the Christmas story.

Costumed cast members, Mary, Joseph, shepherds, angels and wisemen stand frozen in time as if in the hills of ancient Bethlehem. Stable animals delight the younger audiences as well.

Viewers, feeling very much a part of the actual scenes, stroll along a luminary-lined pathway. Christmas carols add much to the atmosphere allowing all ages to enjoy the sights and sounds of the Nativity.

The Christmas scenes remain in place throughout December; however, live actors participate only Friday and Saturday evenings, Dec. 1-2.

Jim Wheat will display his extensive collection of Santas and Christmas scenes at the Salado Civic Center during the Stroll.

Wheat has collected over 300 antique and collectible Santa figurines, as well as several Santa's villages and Christmas scenes.

The display will be open 3-6 p.m. Dec. 1, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Dec. 2 and 1-5 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Salado Civic Center on Main St.

Admission to the display is $3 per person, children under 12 are $1.50. Proceeds benefit the Salado Historical Society, which is sponsoring the display.

Santa Claus (Gerald Bridges) will be at the Salado Civic Center 1-5 p.m. Dec. 2-3 to greet visitors to the Christmas village display.

The new Village Christmas Tree, given by the Salado Merchants Committee in memory of Thelma Fletcher, will be

Americans generate 25 million tons of trash during holiday season, 60% is recyclable

Between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day it is estimated that Americans generate 25 million tons of trash. Since there are over 250 million people in the United States, each of us doing a little bit adds up to a whole lot. If every family reduced their weekly waste during the holidays, the trash reduction could be rather staggering.

About 60 percent of our trash is recyclable. Join in the effort to stop throwing away items that can be reused.

Every second and fourth

Saturday of every month, 9 a.m. - noon is recycling time at the IGA Village Foods parking lot.

Dec. 9 and Dec. 23 are the December dates to mark on your calendar for recycling.

If you have any question call Karen at 947-5552.

Voter registration at Civic Center Dec. 6 for Salado incorporation

MaryBelle Brown, deputy voter registrar for Bell County, will be at the Salado Civic Center 9 a.m.-noon and 2-5 p.m. Dec. 6 to re-register anyone living in the Salado area whose voter registration card is incorrect.

Residents who wish to participate in the upcoming incorporation referendum and who live in the designated area, must have cards showing their exact residence address. Post office box addresses are not acceptable.

New residents to the area may also come by and change their voter registration to their new address.

For more information, call Laura McQueary at the Salado Civic Center.

Spaghetti supper Nov. 30 at school

The Thomas Arnold Elementary Annual Spaghetti Supper will be held 5:30-7:00 p.m. Nov. 30 in the cafeteria.

Open House will follow 7 p.m.-7:30 p.m. Parents are encouraged to visit the child's classroom and see what their doing.

Tickets will be available in the office or you may bury your ticket at the door.

MCCA annual dinner Dec. 4

The Mill Creek Community Association will hold its annual meeting and dinner on Dec. 4 at the Mill Creek County Club. Cash bar at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7 p.m. Cost is $15.50 per person or $31 per couple. Those attending may pay their 1996 dues of $20 per household.

Reservations may be made by calling Paulette Patrick at 947-8973 or the Pattersons at 947-8587.

TAXES. That terrifying five letter word that gives politicians pleasure when they denounce it and heartburn when they vote for it - is on Governor Bush's plate as we write.

The popular young Republican Governor took it upon himself to study the State's tax system and see if there is any way to relieve the current $9 billion pressure placed on property tax payers.

This is a gubernatorial initiative since we can discern no open tax rebellion going on at this time in Texas. Lt. Governor Bob Bullock, Speaker of the House Pete Laney and Comptroller John Sharp are going along with the study, but their hearts are not in the project. They know where it has to lead and they don't like the journey or the end result - which has to be an income tax of some sort or a hike in the sales or corporate levies.

Bush is smart enough to know that the timing is just right for a study of this sort of project since he has a lot of good will among voters at this point early in

Plenty of time remaining before he gears up for reelection in 1998 so any discussion of taxes can be over and done with early in '96 - with no residue left to

Most experts in the field of taxation say that there is a point-of-no-return relative to ad valorem levies.

When the tax on homes becomes unbearable, people begin to rent or move in with the home folks. This move away from home ownership is considered extremely dangerous for a nation that desperately needs a stable middle class.

"Tax The Other Guy"

The problem associated with reducing the tax on homeowner's property is that when you take away a tax from one source you have to add it to another.

For the crew of Apollo 13, it was a dream trip of lifetime. Their mission was to stroll the Moon's surface and collect data. That is, until a sober message came from space: "Houston, we have a problem." The world watched in silence for four days as the courageous crew and hundreds back at NASA's Mission Control worked around the clock to bring the crippled space capsule back safely to Earth.

Foot of turf ends Eagles season in 6-0 loss to Cobras

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

A foot of turf brought an end to the Salado Eagles football season in their 0-6 loss to the Industrial Cobras in AA playoffs Nov. 25.

The Eagles were a foot short of the goal line after driving 82 yards on 14 plays, all rushing by David Berumen and Shawn Easley early in the fourth quarter.

Trailing the Cobras by six points, the Eagles took over the ball at their own 17 yard line. The Eagles pushed the ball to the Cobra 8 yard line for a first down and goal with just under a minute remaining

The Eagles line up at the one foot line of Industrial on fourth and goal. Salado was stopped short, ending their play-off season with a 6-0 loss to the Cobras.

Easley dove to the 5 yard line, followed by Berumen pushing to the 2 yard line. On third down, Berumen was stopped at the 1 yard line, forcing fourth and goal inside the one yard line.

An offside call against Industrial brought the ball within the one foot line, but James Vaughn got through the Eagle line untouched and stopped Berumen in the back field. The Cobras took over at their own 1 yard line.

The Eagles did not threaten again, giving the Cobras a slim victory.

Basketball season will be starting soon which means that it is almost time for the seventh annual "Salado Merchants Tournament". The tournament has been a resounding success in each of the six previous years and has drawn praise from coaches, players referees and fans. Much of the credit for this success goes to the Salado merchants. With the support of the merchants they have been able to give special trophies and awards to the deserving teams and individuals and to provide a nice hospitality room for coaches and referees.

According to the Athletic Director, Daniel Wasik, "We believe the tournament has been a positive thing for our school and our community and we would like to continue the tradition of excellence brought about by your involvement. For a contribution of $25 or more we will recognize your business by listing it on a sign to be displayed during the three days of the tournament, announce your business during one of the 24 games and you will also receive two free tournament passes."

The dates for the tournament is Dec. 7-9.

the half on a 10 yard pass from Ashley Jalufka to Bart Vanlandingham.

Salado gave the Cobras the ball in great field position with 2:59 left in the half when they lost 20 yards before punting from their own 10 yard line.

The muffed punt went just 20 yards, giving the Cobras the ball at the Eagles 29 yard line.

The Cobras faced second and 1 to go at the Eagles 20 yard line when Jalufka was caught in the backfield for a 15 yard loss. A facemask call against the Eagles gave Industrial new blood and a fresh set of downs at the Salado 18 yard line.

Jesse Rodriguez took on option pitch 15 yards for a first and goal at the Eagles 3 yard line.

Two plays later, Jalufka lofted his pass above the outstretched Eagles defenders for the touchdown by Vanlandingham.

The Eagles had a touchdown called back by a penalty flag in the first quarter. William Culp took a Cobra punt 50 yards for the score, but a penalty for an illegal block brought the ball back to the Eagles 45 yard line.

The Eagles totalled 118 yards, all on the ground, while Industrial had 155 yards total offense, 138 on the ground.

Berumen had 15 tackles to lead the Eagles, followed by Rusty Wasik with 14 tackles.

The most certain sign of wisdom is continual cheerfulness. Her state is like that of things in the regions above the moon, always clear and serene.

ected by promising such nonsensical "soak the rich" schemes. And lobbyists by the hundreds fill the capitol halls trying to stop this shift of the tax burden towards their special interests.

A recent Texas Poll indicated well over half the citizens of the State would be happy to have an income tax - provided - it is paid by those earning over $100,000 per year! That is a fairly big "proviso" and proves the point that most of us want the other fellow to pay the lion's share of the tax bill.

Bush and his team, studying ways and means of shifting the $9 billion paid by property owners to some other tax, are probably wasting their time - even though they may be motivated by a sincere desire to help the hapless property owner.

Business cannot absorb this huge amount through the franchise tax - which is placed on capital goods or income (whichever is largest). It could and probably would drive industry out of the state - or so these folks say.

A personal income tax that omits the middle class would have a rate so high that the affluent would be forced to revolt and leave for greener pastures.

It also is unfair and goes against the philosophy that everyone should pay his or her fair share.

Fact is - there is no other source that can offset the multi-billion dollar ad valorem tax in our State than the combined personal and corporate income tax!

And that tax is despised, thanks to the unfair federal income tax that is so convoluted no one understands it.

Which leaves us where we were when this debate began. With a Governor who wants to give some relief to property owners; lawmakers who fear and hate the income tax and tax payers who will give everyone fits until something is done to take the pressure off the land.

Added to this equation is the continual movement from the federal level to push programs and related costs down to the States.

The state has been doing the same thing to local governments who in turn increase their chief source of revenue thus causing property owners to receive constantly escalating bills each fall.

This may be one reason why there is so much discontent with schools, cities and county governing boards. Not that they are doing a bad job - just that they are out there soaking up tax dollars as they try to handle the new mandates placed on them from above as well as from local voters and patrons.

A lose-lose sort of deal. One need not wonder why so many veteran lawmakers, school officials, teachers and others associated with government are checking out and going for early retirement or some other line of work.

The study of tax reform and relief is hard work simply because there is a limited reservoir of tax dollars and seemingly unlimited needs by the various governmental entities.

We salute the Governor for trying and suggest he and his tax study group continue looking into the matter of tax equity.

If we have honestly reached the limits of the current tax sources - then either reduce spending or enact some combination of a personal/corporate income tax while reducing the ad valorem levy.

And when that comes to pass, as it no doubt will in the next decade, be certain we put a leash on some of our legislators who may want to have both the full property tax plus the income tax rather than giving relief to landowners.

This is where the real fear lies in the minds of thinking Texans when it comes time to discuss taxation and the "T" word.

Will try to come up with a more seasonal column next week as we head for Christmas and New Year's Eve.

Democrats of Salado meet Dec. 4 with Rick Rhodes

The Democrats of Salado will have their December meeting at 6 p.m., Dec. 4. The new time is due to the time change. The meeting will be at the party house of C.B. and Mary Hodge. Rick Rhodes, soon to announce, candidate for Texas State Senate, is planning on attending providing his schedule can be adjusted. Mr. Rhodes is a conservative Democrat from San Angelo.

This meeting will also serve as the Christmas party and everyone is urged to attend and bring a "Covered Dish" for an evening meal.

New officers for the coming year will be selected and the goals of the club will be discussed.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

The National Endangered Species Act Reform Coalition applauds Congressman Chet Edwards for cosponsoring H.R. 2275, the Endangered Species Conservation and Management Act. By cosponsoring this legislation, Congressman Edwards has shown his dedication to bringing common sense back to the Endangered Species Act.

The Endangered Species Act is one of the most significant, powerful and well intentioned pieces of environmental legislation ever enacted, anywhere in the world. There are, however, major problems with the Act that must be addressed. H.R. 2275 faces these problems head on and not only guarantees that endangered species will be protected, but that the rights of America's citizens will be safeguarded as well.

Right now, the private citizens that own land that is habitat to protected species are afraid of what the law will do to them and their ability to use their property. In fact, Assistant Secretary for the Interior George Frampton has gone so far as to say, "From a private landowner's point of view, the Endangered Species Act is like a nuclear weapon."

Congressman Edwards, as well as each of the bill's 120 cosponsors, has pledged to make the Act work better for people and nature. Despite the accusations that have been levelled by the environmental community, H.R. 2275 will not "gut" the Endangered Species Act. On the contrary, it gives people reasons to want to protect species on their property and at the same time safeguards the private property rights of all Americans.

Once again, on behalf of the nearly 10 million people represented by our coalition, I thank Congressman Edwards for supporting this legislation which will guarantee both the protection of our rights and the survival of our Nation's rich natural heritage.

Sincerely,
James A. McClure
Chairman, National Endangered Species Act Reform Coalition

Dear Marilyn:

Yesterday, when we were decorating the outside of the house for the Christmas Stroll, a couple passed by and asked why in the world we were decorating a tree with tin can lids?

I explained about the "Ojode Dios" and the "farol" The man said, "You ought to put that in the Salado Village Voice That's very interesting."

I am enclosing the letter I wrote last year about our decorations and if you can put it in the paper again. I would appreciate it.

Minta Landrum

Editors Note: I think I probably would have asked the same question. Here is a rerun of last years letter for those who are not familiar with the Mexican traditions.

Dear Editor:

With the coming of the Christmas Stroll, I would like to explain why I have a Mexican lantern hanging on our tree in the front year, one Christmas tree decorated with tin lids and a decoration called "Ojode Dios" or Eye of God".

The lantern called a farol (fa-role" is lighted on December 16 and is lighted every night through January 6, the Day of Kings. The lighted farol symbolizes the love of Jesus Christ in the home and in the heart.

The "tin can tree" is used in some villages of Mexico where the people do not have ornaments and so they use tin to decorate their trees.

The Ojo de Dios" or the "Eye of God" is used in Las Posadas which is a ceremony of Joseph and Mary seeking shelter and being welcomed at the "Inn" or "The Sheltering Place". Each family has an "Ojode Dios" similar to the Scottish Clan having a plaid of its own.) One member of the family carries it "Ojode Dios" in the procession while everyone else carries a lighted farol.

I was born and raised in Eagle Pass across the river from Piedras Negras, Mexico. Also Cy and I lived there for 18 years after we were married. We enjoyed our living in Eagle Pass so very much that this influenced us to build a Mexican home and carry out Mexican customs.

Minta Landrum

Salado Family Christmas fund established

The Salado Volunteer Fire Department, along with the Salado Village Voice, IGA Village Foods, First State Bank and Peoples National Bank are working to gather Christmas toys and meals for needy children in the Salado area.

Toys and foods gathered will be distributed to the families Dec. 23.

The Salado Volunteer Fire Department invite all Saladoans to an open house 2-7 p.m. Dec. 9, during which visitors to the fire station can drop off toys or food items.

The open house will also give visitors a chance to view the fire and rescue equipment, as well as meeting the volunteer fire-fighters in person.

Other drop-off locations for donations are the Salado Village Voice, IGA Village Foods, First State Bank and Peoples National Bank.

First State Bank and Peoples National Bank have also established Salado Family Christmas Funds for monetary donations to be used to buy toys and Christmas dinner for the underprivileged families in and around Salado.

The Salado Village Voice has contributed $150 to begin the fund drive. All Salado businesses or individuals matching the donation will be listed in the newspaper the week of Christmas.

Fire Chief Wayne Rutherford asks that toys be either new or in good, usable condition for gifts.

Firefighters have volunteered to pick up toys from those who cannot get to the drop-off locations. Call Rutherford at 947-5773 or the Salado Village Voice at 947-5321 to arrange a convenient time.

There is a great need for toys and clothes for children this Christmas at the elementary school.

Ages and sexes of underprivileged Salado school children are these:

Girls:

Four 4 year olds, four kindergartners, four first graders, a third grader, a fifth grader, a fourth grader, three sixth graders.

Boys:

Four 4 year olds, two kindergartners, four first graders, a second grader, two third graders, four fourth graders, a fifth grader and four sixth graders.

Dana Britt is working with the group to organize the needs for junior high and high school children.

For more information, call Marilyn Fleischer at 947-5321.

Home Health Care Week Nov. 27-Dec. 1 marked by Nov. 30 visit with Reavis staff

The nursing staff and other employees of Reavis HomeCare, located in Salado Plaza are joining with other groups across the nation in celebrating National Home Health Care Week Nov. 27-Dec. 1.

Area residents are inited to come by the office at 175 Mill Creek Dr. 10 a.m. Nov. 30 to visit with the staff to learn more about home health care.

Taking care of the sick in their own homes was the natural thing to do for centuries. Extensive and prolonged hospitalization is a fairly new concept. For a few years Americans thought that hospitalization was the ultimate answer in caring for the sick but, because of spiraling cost of health care and the increasing population of those who were not being cared for, the medical experts began to explore ways of meeting health care needs and in keeping cost down.

We have now come full circle and have found that caring for patients in their own homes has certain advantages over hospital care, the most obvious of which are shorter time spent in the hospital, thereby greatly reducing costs, and the patient has the advantage of remaining in or returning to their own homes with their own families involved in their care. It has been found that this frequently hastens the recovery period.

Many types of services are available to the patient in the home, including skilled nursing care, home health aides, respiratory therapy, physical therapy, speech therapy, occupational therapy, nutritional therapy and medical social services.

Some of our elected officials will be visiting our office during the week and will visit some of our patients in their homes.

Bridal shower held for Turner Nov. 11 in Belton

Tracy Turner, bride-elect of Ricky O'Banon, both of Belton, was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the parlor of the First Baptist Church of Belton, Nov. 11. Hostesses were Tanya Hersha, sister of the bride-elect and Janice O'Banon, step-mother of the prospective groom.

Special guest were Pamela Turner, mother of the bride-elect, Beulah Warren, great aunt of the bride-elect; Patsy Flynn, mother of the prospective groom and Geneva O'Banon, grandmother of the prospective groom. The couple plan a Jan 27, 1996 wedding at the First Baptist Church of Belton.

There is nothing so consoling as to find that one's neighbor's troubles are at least as great as one's own.

Christmas Keepsakes workshop at museum

The Bell County Museum is sponsoring "Christmas Keepsakes," a holiday ornament workshop and open house 1-4 p.m., Dec. 9.

"Christmas Keepsakes" will feature several types of Christmas tree ornament which can be made for only $1 per ornament. The ornaments are derived from 19th century Texas traditions.

For example ornament makers can choose from a variety of material to make a Victorian - inspired paper cone. "Paper cones were popular tree trimmers in the 19th century," said museum director Stephanie Turnham. "They were usually filled with candy or other treats, and therefore provided an edible dimension to the tree."

Ornaments derived from natural, local materials will include corn husk angels and tree trimmers made from cotton. Participants can also make a "crazy quilt" ball of velvet and satin ribbon. "The crazy quilt balls are not only beautiful and fun to make, they are also inspired by the museum's crazy quilt collection, one of which will be on view," Turnham said.

Holiday refreshments will be served. The museum's Victorian Christmas Tree will also be on view.

The Bell County Museum is located at 201 N. Main in Belton.

The economy changes, the real estate market changes, but some things will never change...

- Quality service will be prized as a precious possession
- Business will continue to go where invited, and remain where appreciated.
- The extra mile will have no traffic jams.
- Performance will continue to outsell promises
- Enthusiasm will be contagious.

After another record-breaking year, I wish to thank my clients, friends, and associates for their confidence in the past and ask for your continued support and referrals in the future.

Stroll

Christmas Stroll is Gerald Bridges, who has been the Santa Claus at the Highland Mall in Austin for over 13 years.

After the lighting, everyone is invited to a Christ-lit 5:30 p.m. Nov. 30 at the Salado Civic Center.

The Village Christmas Tree donated by the Merchants Committee is a fast growing Afghan Pine. A Red Sandstone marker dedicated it to the late Thelma Fletcher will sit at the foot of the tree. The marker has been carved by Sandra Edwards, of Salado.

Santa Claus will be there, as well as members of the Salado High School band, Salado Ladies Chorale and the newly formed Salado Men's Chorale to perform carols and other Christmas music.

Santa Claus for the festivities as well as the mas party in the upstairs auditorium of the Salado Civic Center.

Cast members of A Christmas Carol will perform a short skit from the play scheduled for Dec. 1-2 and Dec. 8-9 at Tablerock Amphitheater.

Marge Kirkman will play the new piano for a sing-along of the Christmas carols.

There will also be refreshments, provided by the Merchants Committee of the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

The Christmas Tree Lighting kicks off the Christmas Stroll, Dec. 1-3 in Salado.

The Christmas Stroll is sponsored by the Merchants Committee of the Salado Chamber of Commerce. For more information, call 817/947-5040.

Merry Mistletoe Marketplace Dec. 2-3

Merry Mistletoe Marketplace, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Dec. 2 and 11 a.m. - 5 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Bell County Expo Center, is the final arts and crafts show before Christmas. This well known Sami Christmas Market is one of the biggest of its kind in the area.

Artist and craftsmen from all over Texas and points beyond gather to show and sell their finest work. Betty Todd of Wichita Falls, Texas brings her finely handcrafted quilts and afghans. Suellen Brown of Meridian will be showing her whimsical painted Santa gourds. Bill Barborka of San Antonio will display his unique metal sculpture. Katie Mumford of Davis, Oklahoma will sell teacher related gifts.

The sights and sounds of Christmas will be everywhere as the arena floor plays host to a multitude of booths filled with pot-pourri, wreaths, reindeer, Santas of every description and yard decoration and gifts to delight young and old.

Tickets for adults is $3 and children under 12 are free. Admission is good for both days.

CCHS language classes present program

The Foreign Language Classes of Copperas Cove High School will present a Children's Christmas Program for the kindergarten classes at Salado Elementary School, 9-11 a.m. Dec. 7.

The students will be introducing the traditions, cultures and songs from the French German and Spanish speaking countries. There will be lot of fun and activities for the children and students.

The Copperas Cove teacher of Foreign Language classes initiating this interactive school project is Heidi Clement-Owens of Salado.

The program will include French, Spanish and German Christmas traditions as well as Christmas Songs. Activities will include making sailor hats and coloring and many more surprises.

In the poorest of circumstances, talent, energy and creativity unleashed can make a difference, as illustrated this year by products on display at the annual La Caldera Quilt Exhibit in Salado. The exhibit will be held December 1-3 in the Upstairs Gallery of the Central Texas Area Museum and will be open, free of charge, to the public from 1 to 6 p.m. Friday and Monday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

The theme for this year's show is "Victory quilts," because of what the quilts signify in the lives of the makers and their families. The quilts are the product of a partnership between financially impoverished villagers in back country Mexico and Christian friends in Central Texas. Village women actually create and produce the quilts, while their Texas friends assist with raw materials, instruction and marketing, all as a free service.

The village is in a remote part of a desert-mountainous region of the state of Coahuila. The environment, though hauntingly beautiful, is harsh and provides little in the way of resources. Because the villagers have had so much difficulty finding a sustainable source of income sufficient to feed their families, income from the quiltmakers has made a big difference and has enabled villagers to achieve victory over hunger—thus the theme for the exhibit "Victory Quilts".

Bob Burleson, a leader of the Central Texas group who assists the people in the La Caldera area, observed that "here we consider it distressful if the government shuts down for a few days, but what if you were in Mexico and the government never provided anything for you and you were starving?"

In days past the government did locate these already poor people in the middle of an unfriendly environment and set them up as an "ejido" or agricultural commune, hoping they would populate and develop the region in the course of finding a way to make a living from it. They were given no education, little if any assistance, and no resources, and they were eight hours on bad roads from the nearest town and market with only two old, worn out trucks for transportation.

Their chances for success were almost non-existent. They tried raising cattle, not easy in the desert, and cleared about $.65 a day per man. Then they tried goats, with less success—in fact, losses. They gathered candelilla plants to produce a crude form of commercially popular vegetable wax—hard, hot labor for a pittance as a return. Now the commune system seems to have failed, and the people are on their own with no assistance from the government, except for an occasional school teacher and a rare visit from a government doctor.

Some of the men have commuted, by horseback or by hitching a ride in the back of a pickup, to the nearest florspar mine, where there is no OSHA to guarantee some protection. There have been many accidents and such close calls that a number of the men have quit in fear of their lives. Because families did not like being separated during the week, entire families have moved to be near the mines, a destitute area where there is no water, no shade and no school for the children. The women and young girls have continued to be part of the quiltmakers cooperative in order to supplement their incomes and to have meaningful work.

In 1983, a group of Christians working under the guidance of the Texas Baptist River Ministry began to serve in the area, trying to fill needs as guided by the local and attempting to work hand-in-hand in partnerships, in a manner similar to the Peace Corps. The difference was that this Central Texas Corps went sharing their Christian faith. Membership in the group is varied and includes Christians from different churches and different denominations.

They claim that, Although our work has certainly been flawed, because of our humanity, it has been greatly blessed because of God's intervention, oversight and his tendency to make amends for our errors. We hope that means that, at least, our hearts have been on the right track."

"The crafts and quilt ministry has indeed been blessed," claims Elaine Tomlin, long-time group member from Temple. "We began the quiltmakers cooperative in 1983 with seven participants. Now there are 40 or more. All of the adult women in La Caldera are making quilts, as are most of the girls from age 12 on up. The girls begin quilting with their mothers at a younger age, and by 12 they are experienced enough to launch out on their own."

Susan Foster, of Temple and Killeen, says "Many women from outlying areas have also joined the group and have rapidly swelled the numbers. In fact, in the last three years, the group has almost doubled."

The women and their families have become dependent upon the quilt income, and the work of the Central Texas group is critical to its Production.

The group has been supported by a number of area churches over the years, including the lead church, Fellowship Baptist of Morgan's Point, as well as First Baptist of Moffat; First Baptist, Lorena, and First Baptist, Troy, who originated the ministry.

Other ongoing work of the group includes medical and dental ministries, community improvement and construction projects, educational, agricultural and mechanical assistance, clothing distributions, and Bible study and worship services.

Mickey Burleson long-time leader of the quilt ministry, says that "New quilts will be brought in just before the show; so the supply will be varied and should be good. The nice thing about our quilts, as opposed to, say,, those coming out of China, is that each is made entirely by hand and each is one-of-a-kind. You will never see a pile of La Caldera Quilts in which every quilt is exactly alike. Each of our quilts is a creation of one artisan. There are no assembly line techniques used here."

Burleson says that in years past many quilts were sold and removed from the exhibit in the early hours; so those who want to see the full range of quilts need to come to the exhibit as early as possible.

UMHB Community Chorus presents
Messiah oratorio 7:30 p.m. Dec. 5

The University of Mary Hardin-Baylor Bell Community Chorus will perform George Frideric Handells oratorio, "Messiah," December 5, at 7:30 p.m., in W. W. Walton Chapel on the UMHB campus.

Assisting the 100-voice chorus will be Glenda Bundick, organ, David Mace, harpsichord, and Shawn Sanders, cello. Dr. George Stansbury will conduct the performance. Soloists are: Charles Barganier, tenor; Joel Shoemaker, baritone; Renee Allen, mezzo-soprano; Bert Harbison, bass; Bob Van Matre, bass; Leslie Whitley, soprano; Marianne Grabenhofer, mezzo-soprano; and Seok Hee Choi, soprano. The presentation is one of the last of a series of events celebrating UMHB's sesquicentennial year. The concert is free and open to the public.

Unique to this rendition of the popular choral work is a new "definitive" edition containing the latest scholarly research on Handells great work. The performers will seek to reenact the original style and intent of the composer.

The 65-minute presentation will include only Part One of the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the larger work. Part One could be summarized as the prophecy and promise of the redeeming Messiah. It includes the Old Testament prophetic scriptures, the Christmas story, and a commentary on Christ's ministry on earth. The traditional "Hallelujah" chorus will conclude the concert.

Although often sung at Christmas, "Messiah" was originally performed during Lent in a secular hall. It is set in three 'parts' and encompasses the birth, death, resurrection and second coming of the Messiah. And though the work has become one of the favorite pieces to perform in churches, it was not written as church music. Rather, it is more like opera of the time, music for entertainment.

American Lung Assoc. drawing contest set for Christmas Seals

The American Lung Association, in Partnership with the National Education Association and Triaminic Parents Club, invite children ages six to 15 to enter the 1995 Christmas Seals Drawing Contest by drawing what "Feeling Good At The Holiday's" means to them.

For every contest entry form submitted, Triaminic will donate $1 to support the American Lung Association's programs for children, helping more than 19 million American children who live with breathing problems every day, including asthma.

"The Christmas Seals Kids' Drawing Contest is a child's own special way of having fun while helping other children at the same time," said Edward Carter, President of the American Lung Association of Texas. Artwork of the 1993 contest first Prize state winners are featured on the official Christmas Seals that will be mailed to 30 million homes nationwide during this holiday season.

Christmas Seals have been a Primary source of support for the American Lung Association since 1907.

"Donations to the Christmas Seal Campaign help Support the American Lung Association of Texas' educational programs, advocacy efforts and scientific research," said Carter. Contest participants must be between the ages of six to 15 years old. All eligible drawings must be in color on a sheet of 8 1/2 x 11 white, unlined paper.

Children will compete on the state level for a My First Sony Personal electronic sketch pad. The Grand Prize winner will receive an Intel Personal Computer, color inkjet printer and graphics software. Winning drawings will be chosen from each of the 50 states, plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, U.S. Virgin Islands and from the American military families living abroad.

Entry forms are available by calling 1-800-LUNG-USA.

Women who take care of family, career must take care of themselves

Women who take care of their family and career often forget to take care of themselves.

A new brochure from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston recommends ways women can reduce their risk of disease by incorporating a healthy lifestyle into their hectic lives.

The brochure, "Women's Health: Ideas for a Lifetime of Wellness," produced by Baylor's Office of Health Promotion addresses ways women can reduce their risk of disease including breast cancer, heart disease and osteoporosis.

For example, a regular breast self-examination should be a part of a woman's monthly routine. Suspicious lumps should be examined by a physician. "Also, few people know that heart disease is the leading cause of death in older women," said Dr. Raye C. Hurwitz, an assistant professor of medicine at Baylor.

Besides age, Hurwitz says other major risk factors in women include high blood pressure, obesity, high cholesterol, smoking, and a family history of heart disease.

A woman's emotional health is also important to her overall health, said Hurwitz.

"Menopause is one condition that not only causes physical and sexual changes in a woman, but also psychological changes," she said. "Trouble concentrating, memory impairment, and depressive symptoms can be frequent at the onset of menopause and can be relieved with treatment."

She suggests some lifestyle changes to increase your physical and mental well-being:

Eat a high-fiber, low-cholesterol, low-sodium, low-fat diet, including fruits, vegetables, fish, and lean meat. Drink alcohol only moderately, if at all. Exercise regularly. Take brisk walks, go bowling or do aerobics.

Don't smoke.

Get regular check-ups that include cholesterol, blood pressure, and bone density screenings.

Get plenty of sleep.

For a free copy of the brochure, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Women's Health, We Care for You, Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, Texas 77030.

Now is time to get lawn, garden tools ready for winter season

In the late fall many gardeners roll up the hose, push the lawn mower into a corner, put the sprayer away and promptly forget about them until spring. However, in order for your lawn and garden equipment to operate smoothly and efficiently come spring, they really need a few minutes of your time and attention now to carry them through the winter in good shape.

All of us know that a small fortune we have invested in garden tools, equipment and supplies. So it just makes good sense to protect this investment. And it only takes a few minutes to do so. Here are some suggestions from an Extension horticulturist aimed to help you winterize your lawn and garden equipment.

Lawn mower, rototiller, gasoline edgers, etc.: Run the engine until empty. Do not leave gasoline in the tank this winter. Once the engine has cooled, clean the housing thoroughly, scraping off accumulations of mud and grass clippings. Disconnect spark plug wire, then remove and sharpen mower blades. Drain oil and tie a reminder tag on the handle to fill with oil in spring. Store in a garage or storage building out of the weather.

Rechargeable electric shears, edgers, etc.: Many of these products suggest they be stored discharged. Ted Fisher, Travis County Extension Horticulturist, reports he gets best results when he recharges his equipment and runs it several times during the winter. Whatever you decide to do, be sure to clean and oil the blades before storing.

Sprinklers, hoses and other watering devices: Protect from freezing weather. Sprinklers have tiny reservoirs and passages that collect water. If allowed to stay out during the winter, the water freezes and can easily break the equipment.

Hoses should be drained, rolled and stored inside. The high quality flexible hoses are fairly durable and can remain outside provided you don't step on them or try to move them while they are frozen.

Fertilizer spreaders: Rinse these carefully and thoroughly if you have not already done so. Let dry a few hours, then wipe over with an oily rag to protect metal surfaces. Oil all moving parts. Really it is best if you will follow these steps each time you use the spreader.

Spray equipment: Wash thoroughly with detergent and warm water if you failed to do so last time you sprayed. Put the equipment under pressure to clean out the nozzles. Hose-on type sprayers should not need much attention, though "black-flushing" is advisable to clean out the siphon tube.

"Friar" Tuck & the F-4 Phantom

by C.L. "Jack" Jones

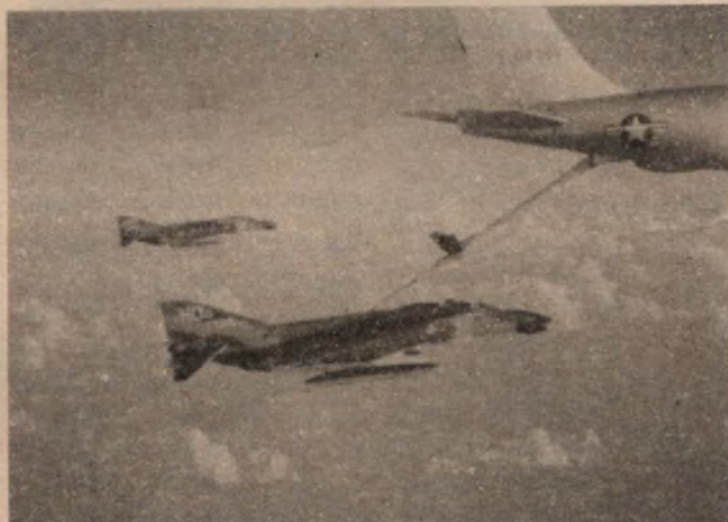

The fighter Mafia of the U.S. Air Force knew him as "Friar" Tuck (Col. James Tuck - now retired and a Salado resident). During his days in the wild blue yonder, 1955-1977, Tuck winged around the troposphere in F-84, F-100 and/or F-4 fighters. During the Vietnam War he rode the work horse fighter of the world, the F-4D Phantom II - the standard multi-role fighter (twin-engine jet) for our Navy, Marines and Air Force.

I regard Tuck not as a Friar but more as a Brother since it was not too long ago that yours truly was a member of that merry band of blue-suited gentlemen known as Air Force fighter pilots - jovially headlined as The Fighter Mafia by the Air Force Times in 1988.

Brother Tuck caught m by surprise during our interview Nov. 6 for this column. He revealed that Nov. 6 was the 29th anniversary of his shoot down of a MIG 21 fighter over North Vietnam (flown by a North Vietnamese). It was the first enemy jet destroyed by a radar guided Sparrow air to air missile.

In just three minutes of lethal aerial combat ranging from 31,000 feet down to low altitude, Jim Tuck downed his first enemy aircraft. In that same brief time his wingman, Lt. Joe Latham, shot down a second MIG 21 using a Sidewinder heat-seeking air to air missile. The F-4 Phantom could carry four Sparrow radar missiles as well as four Sidewinder heat-seeking missiles.

On that day Brother Tuck was leading a flight of four F-4s at 31,000 feet acting as escort for an Air Force EB-66 twin-engine electronic radar jamming special type aircraft. The sly, furtive MIG pilot's priority was to destroy the EB-66 immediately; which they would have accomplished had not Tuck intervened by warning the EB-

Return from Vietnam (1972): Squadron leader Jim Tuck air refuelling from a KC-135 tanker over the Pacific en route to Hawaii, a 12,000 mile flight. Photographed from an accompanying F-4.

66 crew via radio command "MIG! MIG! MIG! Break right!" As the EB-66 dove away to the right, a missile fired by the leading MIG missed the craft by only a few feet.

Tuck waged a desperate fight to prevent the MIGs from downing the EB-66. The Friar even gave thought to "brushing" his big sturdy F-4 against the smaller less rugged MIG.

The shoot down of the two MIGs in such a short time along with the collateral result of saving seven American lives aboard the EB-66 was an event of such intensity and excitement that it has left me insufficient time and space to adequately tell about Brother Tuck's hair-raising years of flying such widow makers as the F-84 Thunderjet and the F-100 Super Sabre. Each fighter was capable of delivering an atomic-bomb.

Tuck earned his Air Force wings in 1955 just in time to fully participate in what became the commonplace practice of deploying large groups of single seat single engine fighters such as the F-84 and F-100 to Europe, the Pacific rim and the Middle East. With the addition of air refuelling capability to fighters and the positioning of large fuel tanker aircraft en route, it became possible to deploy a 'policing' force anywhere in the world on short notice. A deployment across the Atlantic or the Pacific could demand as many as six aerial refuellings and twelve hours of continuous flying time while strapped in a tight single seat cockpit. In Jim Tuck's 22 years of service he made eight crossings of the Atlantic and five crossings of the Pacific.

I asked Brother Tuck how in heck he could manage to sit there in one place, for 12 solid hours. His instant response, "Cause you don't have no where else to go!"

During the cold war years, Tuck and the fighter boys were standing nuclear war alerts with a 2200 pound atom bomb (10 kiloton yield - one kiloton equals 1000 pounds of TNT). One bomb per fighter. Later as nucs were improved and downsized, the fighter carried an 1800 pound bomb but the yield had been increased a thousand fold to 1.1 megatons (a megaton equals a million pounds of TNT). The Hiroshima bomb had a yield of 12.5 kilotons. Tuck has stood nuclear alert duty in the U.S., Alaska, Germany, Italy, Turkey, Japan, Taiwan, The Philippines and Okinawa.

The inevitable happened on Okinawa. Late one night the alarm sounded scrambling Brother Tuck and his flight of four to get to the runway for immediate take off for the region of Vladivostok. Their take off was prevented by the Wing Commander who drove his staff car onto the runway in front of the lead fighter blocking his take off. A false alarm!

No doubt Friar Tuck went into a truly ecclesiastical Thanksgiving mode later that night.

Fox will sign new book Dec. 2

James D. Fox will be signing his new book A Summer to Remember...1947 2-4 p.m. Dec. 2 at Fletcher's Books on Main Street.

Fox was born in January of 1929, and grew up in Wichita Falls, Texas during the great depression of the 1930's.

"We moved to the desert high plains of Cedervale, New Mexico in 1944. It was ranching country, seven thousand feet elevation on the flat, and the mountains rose up from that. There was good deer hunting, and it was very remote. My father's health was poor and we were lured by the prospects of making a living by raising pinto beans for the war effort. That's right, we were going to get rich raising beans in the desert. I graduated from High School in Corona, NM, and perhaps that was the only success the family had in those years.

We moved back to Wichita Falls in 1946 to keep from starving. Someone failed to tell us that raising anything in the high plains of New Mexico was a chancy business. My father was a mechanic, not a rancher nor a bean farmer.

I was basically a "country" boy with an older brother, two older sisters and two younger sisters. I grew up milking cows, chopping firewood, feeding chickens, slopping hogs, and other associated chores. My brother was ten years older than me, and went to the Navy in 1937. He was lost off Guadalcanal in August of 1942, so I never really knew him. My youngest sister is ten years younger than me, so it can be seen that I was raised as the only boy with four sisters. We were very close.

During my growing up years, we sometimes lived in "town" and sometimes we lived in the "country..." Even when we lived in town we heated the house with wood stoves and we had a cow for milk, chickens for eggs, and a garden for vegetables.

I have hunted game with a gun, with a sling shot, and with bow and arrow. I have herded cows and broke wild range horses to ride and to sell. I have plowed fields with a tractor and dug post holes without a tractor.

My older sisters tell me that I have been telling stories since I was old enough to talk. Saturday was the day that they took me to the movies. They had to listen to me repeat the Saturday afternoon movie we saw together over and over all during the following week.

It was great fun for me to sit with the "grown-ups" when "company" came, and to listen to their stories. I can remember my mother's brother Dave from Oklahoma.

Perhaps it was the stories that I listened to when just a kid that put the wonder lust in my heart. I even stated that "Some day I want to go around the world!" A pretty brash wish for a kid with mv beginnings, but it all came true for me, and much more."

Robyn Womac wins local competition, advances to area level with peace poster

Robyn Womac, a 6th grade student at Salado's Thomas Arnold Elementary School, has taken the first step to becoming an internationally-recognized artist by winning a local competition sponsored by the Salado Lions Club.

Womac's poster is among thousands of entries submitted worldwide in the eighth annual Lions International Peace Poster Contest. "All the people of the world should join hands and pledge to recognize that Peace Will Set Us Free". The eleven year-old from Salado said, "Out of all the posters created by Salado's Thomas Arnold Elementary and Junior/High School's students, Womac's entry best portrayed the contest's theme 'Peace Will Set Us Free'".

Salado's Lions Club President E. Roy Hector said he was pleased with all the work the Salado students put into the project. "From looking at all the entries, it was obvious all the students have strong feelings about peace," Hector said. Hector also complemented the Lions Club Peace Poster Contest Committee, Chaired by Lion Jack Hardin, assisted by Lions Bill Nienast and Wilson Manning for an outstanding performance in making the contest a resounding success.

Womac's Poster now advances to round two district competition in China Spring where her entry will compete against entries from many other schools in the area. Womac's poster will face stiff competition through the district round and in three more rounds on international competition if she is to be declared the international grand prize winner, Hector said.

Lions Clubs International is sponsoring the contest to underscore the importance of world peace to young people everywhere. Ultimately, one grand prize winner will be selected from 24 international finalists. The grand prize includes a cash award of $1500, plus an all-expense-paid trip for the winner and two family members to New York City for the awards ceremony at the United Nations in March 1996. As merit award winners, the remaining 23 finalists each will receive certificates and a cash award of $250.

We know Robyn has a long way to go, but we're all cheering for her", Hector said. In addition, to winning the privilege to enter the International competition Robyn Womac won a cash award of $150 from the Salado Lions Club.

The Lions Club also awarded second prize winner Kendall Anderson and third prize winner Alicia Powell $1 00 and $50 respectively. Robyn, Kendall and Alicia were the three top winners from a field of 24, eleven, twelve and thirteen year old students of Salado's Thomas Arnold Elementary and Junior/High Schools. The other twenty one, all of whom entered excellent posters exhibiting a lot of artistic ability and a deep sense and appreciation of world

Luminarias ready to be picked up at Civic Center

Candles and white bags for luminarias can be picked up now at the Salado Civic Center. Civic Center is open 9 a.m.-12 noon and 1-5 p.m.

The luminarias are available for those who prepaid in October.

Sand will be available Nov. 30 at the back of the Civic Center.

If you need to purchase extra candles and bags, contact Laura McQueary at 947-5040.

Solitude is fine when you are at peace with yourself and have something definite to do.
