

Mayor, aldermen races contested

So far, only the Village of Salado races will be contested with the filing deadline just a day away.

The last day to file for a place on the ballot of the three local races is Feb. 14 at the close of business.

Applications for the Village of Salado are available at the municipal office, 301 N. Stagecoach Rd. Applications for the Salado ISD Board of Trustees are available at the SISD Administration office in the Salado Civic Center, 601 N. Main St. Applications for the Library Board of Directors are available at the library, 1151 North Main.

The Village of Salado, unless something changes in the last days of filing, will have a new Mayor and two new Aldermen in May.

Frank Coachman and Michael Coggin have both filed for a place on the ballot in the Mayor's race. Since they are running for Mayor, they cannot run for re-election as Alderman.

Two two-year terms on the board of aldermen will also be decided in May. Three candidates have filed for those terms on the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen: Paul Cox, Jason Howard and Don Krause.

Mayor Skip Blancett announced that he will not seek election to a fourth term as Mayor.

The requirements/qualifications to serve on the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen are as follows:

Mayor: Residence -- 1 year in state prior to the filing deadline; 1 year in city prior to election day; Age -- 18 ; Must be a registered voter in territory elected from by the filing deadline

Alderman: Residence -- 1 year in state prior to filing deadline; 6 months in the city (or ward) prior to filing deadline; Age -- 18; Must be a registered voter in territory elected from by the filing deadline.

Three candidates have filed for three places on the Salado ISD Board of Trustees: incumbents Kim Bird and Troy Smith have both filed and Savannah Hennig has filed for the school board race. Three three-year terms will be chosen in the May election.

If no one files for a place on the ballot or files as a write-in candidate for the Salado ISD Board of Trustees, then the three candidates who have filed so far will be automatically elected to the board and the SISD election will be canceled.

An individual is eligible to be a candidate for, or elected or appointed to, a Texas school board if the individual: 1. is a United States citizen; 2. is 18 years of age or older on the first day of

Bridge reopens to traffic

The Main Street bridge over Campbell's Branch opened to traffic again on Feb. 9. Capital Excavation reopened the bridge before the 40-day deadline. The bridge at Rock Creek closed on Jan. 5, reopening 35 days later. Work began May 6 on Main Street by placing debris barriers for the first phases of the year-long project. Capital Excavation, the contractor for the $5.2 million project that replaces the Main Street bridge over Campbell Branch (near the intersection of Rock Creek Dr.) with a wider, longer, concrete bridge that meets current roadway safety and design specifications. The approaches to the structure will also be upgraded and replaced. Additionally, the project will include sidewalks, bike paths and street lighting and pavement upgrades at various locations within the project area of 0.98 mile on Main Street from Salado Plaza Dr. to the north end of College Hill Dr. Much of the project will fill the entire 100 foot right of way for Main Street in order to allow for sidewalks, parking, bike paths and drainage improvements. There are no plans for expansion of traffic lanes on Main Street. The project will rework parking throughout the right of way on Main Street. In some areas, parking will be back-in angled parking. Other areas will have parallel parking only and some areas will lose parking. Schematics can be found at saladovillagevoice.com showing the cross sections of the project as well as the impact on the right of way throughout the project. (PHOTO BY ROYCE WIGGIN)

China using less petroleum, causing lower global demand

The Markets

A strong rebound from the coronavirus scare was evident in the markets for the week ending on February 7. On Wednesday, our old favorite indicator, the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) closed at 3,334.69, both a memorable number and a new record, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average (the Dow) crawled back above the 29,000 level to close at 29,280.85. Unfortunately, as Thursday and Friday passed, the Indexes ended the week at 3,327.66 for the SPX and 29,102.51 for the Dow. The culprit behind the end of week sag appeared to be a renewed concern over the potential for the viral epidemic to have a significant effect on the world's economy and ours as well. Still, the SPX was up 3.17% for the week, and that was nothing to sneeze at!

The yield on the ten-year U.S. Treasury note followed the same pattern having risen as high as 1.68% midweek but sagging to 1.58% by the end of the week. The rise for the week was sufficient to barely neutralize the inversion in the yield curve we saw at the end of last week; however, the one, three, and five year Treasuries all are yielding less than the 90-day T-bill creating a less than good forecast for near-term economic activity. West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) failed to join the party as the price declined 2.38% for the week and is now down 17.66% year-to-date. There the reasoning was clear; China is using less petroleum and lower global demand has had its normal market impact, driving prices downward.

The Economy

The Labor Department reported on Friday that the U.S. economy added a surprising 225,000 jobs in January of this year. At the same time unemployment rose to 3.6% as more workers who were not looking for jobs a month ago started doing so. At least part of that surge in reported new jobs may have been an inaccurate seasonal adjustment. For the past decade or so there has been a severe blizzard that impacted hiring in the northeast U.S. and the Labor Department factors assumed bad weather into January's jobs report. This year there was no blizzard, so the data may be inaccurate. The average hourly wage rose 3.1% year over year. The workforce participation rate, the percentage of working-age adults who are working or actively looking for work, rose to 63.4%, the highest since 2013. As a point of reference, the participation rate was as high as 67.3% in the year 2000 but has been declining since. Notably too, the coronavirus scare hit after the jobs survey, so next month may see a marked decline.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

In another breath of good news, the January 2020 Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) published by the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) rose to 50.9 on an index scale where numbers above 50 indicate growth and below 50, contraction. January's number was 3.1 points above December's 47.6. If this trend continues, it well may indicate that the economy has turned a corner and may miss the traditional zero-year recession. Still, it is good to remember that in the year 2000, the first three months of the year also had numbers that strongly suggested the risk of a recession were receding but what followed was certainly not a pleasant time in the markets or in the economy.

Yet another positive indicator was reported during the week, albeit one that is highly contrarian. According to the Wall Street Journal, during 2019 over half a trillion dollars were invested into bond funds and ETFs by individual investors even as they pulled a net $72 billion from stock funds. Historically, major market contractions have been preceded by large-scale inflows into stock mutual funds. If we use amateur investors' large-scale cash flow as a contrarian indicator, then we would expect to see a major market downturn in the bond market in 2020 rather than in stocks. Part of the rush to bonds can be accounted for by the record $100 billion that poured into municipal bond funds. That rush to tax-exempt bond fund in turn can be at least partially credited to the new tax law which capped interest rate deductions on home mortgages and deductions for state income taxes. High income investors in high tax states are being squeezed and have flocked to tax-exempt bond funds to take cover.

Things are definitely looking far more optimistic than even a couple of weeks ago, but there are at least two wild cards in the deck. First, the increase in average wages combined with falling imports from China could trigger a rise in inflation. That rise would drive interest rates upward causing the bond market to return to earth. Even a relatively small increase in interest rates could easily create a crisis in both heavily indebted companies and the federal budget. The second wild card is the still unknown impact of the Coronavirus epidemic. At present it appears to be very likely that it will have a significant negative impact on the Chinese economy but if it spreads to the rest of the world it could have a profound impact here as well.

As has been the case for the past several months, both the U.S. and world economies are on a thin edge. We could be looking at one or more years of continued growth or we could be on the cusp of a recession. Only time will tell.

And so 2016 finally draws to a close. It's been the longest election year in American history. It ran from Feb. 1, 2016, the date of the Iowa caucuses, to the Senate vote to acquit President Donald Trump in early February 2020. It's true that Nov. 6, 2016, was a signal event in this long election year, but it didn't really conclude anything, even though the result wasn't in doubt. Usually, contested elections are ties or near-ties. This is the first time an election has gone into overtime, with repeated attempts at what were in effect recounts, despite the winner comfortably prevailing (Donald Trump won handily in electoral votes, the measure that determines the outcome, 304-227).

Immediately Democrats concluded that they'd been robbed, and Hillary Clinton did indeed get some bad breaks during the campaign, most consequentially at the hands of then-FBI director James Comey. Such is life in the arena. But no one on the left was in a mood to move on.

Rather taking stock and recalibrating as warranted, Democrats remained fixated on 2016. Rather than simply mobilizing opposition to Trump's agenda and reelection, as any position always does, they

Steps that protect you from cold & flu work against coronavirus

An outbreak of respiratory illness caused by a novel (new) coronavirus first identified in Wuhan, Hubei Province, China, has caused an outbreak of respiratory illness and the United States has confirmed a handful of coronavirus cases related to travel. I want to assure you that our school district is keeping track of this situation through proven and trustworthy sources: our local health department, the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS), and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). These health officials believe the risk to our school community is low at this time.

Updated information from the CDC on coronavirus in the United States can be found at: <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html>. The most recent information about coronavirus in Texas may be found at: <https://dshs.texas.gov/coronavirus/>.

Much is being learned about this newly emerged virus. Based on the current information, health officials are recommending local communities and schools should take the same steps

by Dr. Michael Novotny

to protect against coronavirus as we take to prevent the spread of everyday illnesses like the common cold or the flu:

- Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with unwashed hands.
- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Stay home when you are sick.
- Cover your mouth and nose with the inside of your elbow when you cough or sneeze.
- Clean and disinfect frequently touched objects and surfaces.

The 2019 novel coronavirus is believed to be spread through the air when an infected person coughs or sneezes, much in the way the flu and other respiratory viruses are spread. Symptoms can be fever, cough, or difficulty breathing. At this time, persons considered at risk are those with travel to China, or those in close contact with persons infected with novel coronavirus.

While a new type of illness can be scary, we can protect our students, teachers, and the broader community by using simple everyday actions that protect people from other types of respiratory viruses. Our teachers, school nurses, and staff are working carefully to encourage these simple and effective habits of frequent handwashing, covering every cough or sneeze, and cleaning classroom tables/surfaces frequently. This is important not just to help prevent the spread of coronavirus, but to help prevent the spread of other infections that can lead to student illness and absences.

Thank you for your support of our district, our schools, our students and our teachers and staff.

The end of 2016

And so 2016 finally draws to a close.

It's been the longest election year in American history. It ran from Feb. 1, 2016, the date of the Iowa caucuses, to the Senate vote to acquit President Donald Trump in early February 2020.

It's true that Nov. 6, 2016, was a signal event in this long election year, but it didn't really conclude anything, even though the result wasn't in doubt. Usually, contested elections are ties or near-ties. This is the first time an election has gone into overtime, with repeated attempts at what were in effect recounts, despite the winner comfortably prevailing (Donald Trump won handily in electoral votes, the measure that determines the outcome, 304-227).

Immediately Democrats concluded that they'd been robbed, and Hillary Clinton did indeed get some bad breaks during the campaign, most consequentially at the hands of then-FBI director James Comey. Such is life in the arena. But no one on the left was in a mood to move on.

Rather taking stock and recalibrating as warranted, Democrats remained fixated on 2016. Rather than simply mobilizing opposition to Trump's agenda and reelection, as any position always does, they mused about how to reverse the 2016 result. Rather than acknowledging the near-possibility of removing a duly elected president, they indulged in fantasies about how to do exactly that.

Above all, they obsessed about Russia as the cause of their undoing in 2016. With enough investigation, all would be made plain, the Trump-Russia conspiracy would be unraveled, the walls would close in, and the world would be restored to its axis. The rightful winner of 2016 wouldn't take office, but the wrongful winner would be vanquished. What voters in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin failed to do, the grinding machinery of investigation would achieve.

When the Mueller probe didn't produce the impeachment that the Democrats had expected with such fervent certainty, it seemed briefly they'd finally have to accept the outcome of 2016, however grudgingly. Then, Ukraine emerged, and impeachment was, thankfully and gloriously, back on.

Russia was a proximate cause of the impeachment over Ukraine. The Democrats charged that Trump sought Ukrainian interference in our elections, just as he had sought Russian interference (for all their interest in the Mueller investigation, Democrats have never absorbed its conclusion that there is no evidence that Trump colluded with the Russians). Absent their conviction that Trump is an illegitimate president, Democrats would have been, understandably, outraged by Ukraine and determined to investigate it, but they wouldn't have impeached over it.

In this sense, the Senate trial is the last act in the 2016 election. It establishes, once and for all, that he won't leave office prior to the end of his first term. It makes it clear that another election, not some other mechanism, will be necessary to remove him. It represents the final failure of the investigatory apparatus around Trump's alleged Russia collusion to deliver Democrats from the consequences of their 2016 defeat.

Trump, obviously, isn't blameless in any of this. But he is not a Russian agent. He won the presidency in a free and fair election, and despite his attempted removal, will have a chance to do so again. On to 2020. Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review. (c) 2020 by Rich Features Synd., Inc.

THERE'S NO 'GREAT AMERICAN COMEBACK'

TRUMP IS COUNTING ON THE WORKING CLASS HE'S BETRAYING MOST AGGRESSIVELY. CAN THE LEFT GET OUT OF AFFLUENT SUBURBIA AND BACK TO ITS ROOTS?

By PETER CERTO
EDITOR, OTHERWORDS

There's an image burned into my brain from childhood: the graffitied train tracks along the intersection of Fifth and Patterson in downtown Dayton, Ohio.

It's a slightly shabby landscape dotted by warehouses, churches, fast food restaurants, and — at the margins — an old art-house theater. If you look closely, you can see the building where I went to kindergarten, and maybe even the dive bar where my wife and I had our first date.

A photo of this familiar landscape greeted me recently in an unfamiliar place: at the top of a New York Times feature headlined, "How the G.O.P. Became the Party of the Left Behind."

It followed an out of work union teamster in nearby Moraine who'd voted Democratic for years, only to shift to Republicans in the wake of plant closures that left him adrift. In 2016, the story goes, Dayton's Montgomery County — population 530,000 — swung narrowly for Trump. It was the first time the county had gone red in nearly 30 years.

We've met these voters in countless articles since 2016. And they're exactly who President Trump was pitching in his recent State of the Union address, where he boasted of "a great American comeback" and a "blue collar boom," crediting himself generously.

First, let's be clear: There's no "great American comeback."

Low overall unemployment means little when half of Americans now work low-wage jobs. Manufacturing remains in decline, farm bankruptcies are spiraling, and union membership just hit an all-time low. Even as 140 million Americans are poor or low-income, the administration is working relentlessly to shred Medicaid, Social Security, and the food stamp system.

Trump has little to offer this class but half-truths about the economy and hateful lies about immigrants. Still, he's only accelerated a partisan realignment along class lines for white voters.

In the 1990s, the Times story observed, Republicans "received roughly the same share of the vote in richer and poorer counties." Yet by 2016, the GOP "won almost twice the share of votes in the nation's most destitute counties... than it won in the richest."

And the Democrats? After their sweeping midterm victories, GoBankingRates.com reported, they found themselves in control of each of the 10 wealthiest U.S. congressional districts — and 41 of the top 50.

Democrats still outperform Republicans among voters making under $50,000 a year, while Republicans still dominate the $100,000-plus crowd. Yet the gaps have narrowed since 2012, as Democrats have seemingly traded many white working class voters for more affluent ones.

It speaks to the power of Trump's nativist scapegoating that he's accomplished this working class coup even as the GOP has embraced its most overtly plutocratic agenda ever.

Thanks to Trump and the GOP, those blue collar Moraine workers now pay higher tax rates than Trump and his fellow billionaires. Republican lawmakers made millions off the corporate tax cuts they passed, while companies like GM took their tax cuts and laid off tens of thousands of workers anyway.

These are huge vulnerabilities. Yet to date, the most visible Democratic case against Trump has focused on comparatively arcane subjects like abusing aid packages to Ukraine — an issue that plays better in affluent suburbia than in lagging Montgomery County.

As Trump made clear in his speech, he will almost certainly try to get the Democrats' left on trade and jobs — and cover his tracks with nativist nonsense — if they let him. They shouldn't. With the Ukraine mess ignobly disposed of in a sham Senate trial, what progressives need is a multiracial, working class-led case against the administration's policies.

That would be a "blue collar boom" to be proud of.

GRACE CHURCH
CONTRIBUTOR

On Saturday, February 8, the Men of Grace Church Salado hosted breakfast with the theme of "Courageous Manhood" on Feb. 8 with more than 40 men, some with their sons, attending.

Jason Goings, Grace's Pastor of Preaching and Vision, expounded on the virtues and challenges of being a courageous man in today's rapidly changing and increasingly secular world.

Goings shared God's plan for man by citing verses from Genesis 2:15, which describe what God has given for man to do and to be. His talk was based on two Hebrew words, "avav", which is translated "to work". He then expanded on its definition by sharing that it also includes the ideas of, to serve, to labor, to cultivate or to perform acts of worship. The second word "shamar" conveys the concept of "to keep". This Hebrew word can mean to guard or to protect.

Further elaborating on the subject, Jason used ideas on how men can be the men God called them to be. First, was the concept of having the courage to go, knowing that if God is calling you to go, he will provide the means and work it out. Abraham, who left the Ur of the Chaldeans, was a good example of this type of courage. Secondly, he said that a courageous man must be "willing to stand". This is particularly important when God is calling you to do something and others are saying you probably shouldn't. Noah was a good example of this type of courage. Next, Jason shared that a man must be willing "to fight". Again, we see an example in Genesis, where Abraham failed to fight for his wife Sarah on two occasions. Lastly, a man is called "to be", that is, to be in the moment, especially for his family and community.

Regarding the challenges men face today, he shared that men are often not taught on the importance of the sovereignty of God, but also that men must have the courage to have "hard" conversations with those he loves and serves. That according to Revelations 21:1-7; cowardly manhood angers God.

Prior to Goings' talk there was an announcement and slide show that featured Forest Glen - Springs, a Christian camp in Rosebud, which will be the site of Grace's first overnight Men's Retreat, on April 24-26.

For further information on Grace Church's men's activities or the retreat, contact Ron Hendrix at 858-344-2963.

Jane Voigt

NOVEMBER 26 1941-FEBRUARY 7, 2020

On February 8, 2020, Jane (Janie) Voigt entered into heaven to live eternally with her Heavenly Father.

Jane is now enjoying renewed strength with family members and special friends who have gone before her.

Born Janie Marie Gommert, to loving and devoted parents Fred and Elsa Gommert, on November 26, 1941, in Bartlett, Texas. Jane was 78 years old at the time of her death. She is preceded in death by her parents and sister, Doris Gommert.

Jane grew up in Bartlett, Texas, and lived there until her graduation from Bartlett High School in 1960.

After high school, she attended Texas Lutheran College in Seguin, Texas.

Jane worked for several employers in the Austin, Texas, area over the course of her life, including the Austin Police Department, The University of Texas, and the Austin Independent School District where she was a Teaching Assistant at Cook Elementary and Wooldridge Elementary. She met many wonderful friends over the years that she had the opportunity to work with.

Since she was a young child hosting pretend tea parties for cousins and friends, Jane always had a dream of owning her own tea room. That dream became a reality in 1997, when she opened her first tea room, J'Anna Rose, inside the Antique Mall in Round Rock, Texas.

After moving to Salado,

Texas, with her husband, Darrell Voigt in 2001, she soon opened her second tea room, Ambrosia, in downtown Salado. This was truly a dream come true for Jane! She absolutely loved planning the menus, decorating, preparing the food, and serving her guests on elegantly adorned china plates accompanied by hot tea in pretty china cups. She was especially known for her delicious scones and cheese wafer appetizers. Jane believed that our world had become much too fast paced and wanted Ambrosia to be a place where friends and families could gather and visit while not being rushed and hurried.

Jane loved to cook and bake, especially for others. Jane was taught to cook by her mother who also shared her gift of hospitality with her. Jane prepared food that was not only delicious, but also attractively presented. She authored two wonderful cookbooks, Ambrosia Tea Room Cookbook and More Recipes from Ambrosia Tea Room.

Furthermore, Jane was gracious and kind. She brought joy to others and brightened many people's lives.

She was very creative and talented in many ways. She had beautiful handwriting and taught herself calligraphy. She lovingly crafted many special documents and addressed many an envelope in her gorgeous calligraphy. Jane always loved flowers and plants. She had great success growing most any type of plant and had a talent for designing attractive bouquets and floral arrangements.

Jane was truly a blessing to her family who loved her dearly. She is survived by her husband, Darrell; her daughter, Paige (Jolly) Cantrell and husband, Tommy; her son, Cory Jolly and wife, Justin; her grandchildren, Courtney Cantrell, Presley Jolly, Tyler Cantrell, and Jett Jolly; her sister, Joyce Brooks; and many cousins, loved ones, and friends.

Jane's service will be held at the Chapel at Broecker Funeral Home in Salado, Texas, on Saturday, February 15, 2020. There will be a visitation time at 10:00 am, with the service at 11:30 am. Burial will follow at St. John's Lutheran Cemetery in Bartlett, Texas.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be given in her name to New Hope Baptist Church, P. O. Box 377, Jarrell, Texas 76537 or Triple 7 Baptist Fellowship, 1501 Riverside Dr., Killeen, Texas 76542.

Paid Obituary

Save Valentine's with this classic dinner

You've waited too late to book reservations at your favorite restaurant and Valentine's day is around the corner. You can still save the day by following these easy recipes from Whole Foods Markets.

Herb Roasted Steak and Lobster

Ingredients
4 tablespoons unsalted butter softened
1/4 cup chopped fresh flat-leaf parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh chives
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh rosemary
1 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped fresh oregano
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3/4 teaspoon coarse sea salt divided
2 (4- to 6-ounce) shell-on lobster tails thawed and cut down the middle with kitchen shears
2 (12- to 14-ounce) rib-eye or New York strip steaks
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 1/2 teaspoon extra-virgin olive oil

1 lemon cut into wedges

Method

Preheat the oven to 450°F. Line a baking sheet with foil.

In a bowl, stir together butter, parsley, chives, rosemary, oregano, lemon juice and 1/4 teaspoon of the salt. Spread 1 teaspoon of the herb butter over meat on each piece of lobster and place, cut-side up, on the prepared baking sheet. Roast until just cooked through and opaque in the center, 8 to 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, season steaks all over with remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat oil and 1 tablespoon of the herb butter in a large cast-iron skillet over medium-high heat. Add steaks and cook, flipping once, until deeply browned and medium-rare (about 130°F) or to desired doneness, 8 to 10 minutes total.

Top each steak with 1 tablespoon of the herb butter. (Reserve remaining butter for another use.) Let steaks rest for 5 minutes and then serve alongside lobster with lemon wedges.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

Assume you're in four spades and West leads the jack of diamonds, which wins, and then the ten of diamonds, on which East plays the king. How would you play the hand?

There seems to be nothing to the play, so let's say that you ruff the diamond and start drawing trump. You get a rude jolt when East shows out on the second round, and you now realize that the contract is irretrievably lost.

At this point, West has one trump more than you have — which he is bound to score — and you also have to lose two heart tricks, so you're sure to go down at least one whatever you do.

This is very unlucky, you might think to yourself — after all, a 5-1 division occurs only 15 percent of the time. Nevertheless, you must assume a full portion of the blame.

There was a simple and uncomplicated way to make the contract, and it was virtually certain to succeed. Instead of ruffing the diamond lead at trick two, it would have been wiser to discard a heart, which is a loser in any case.

If diamonds were then continued at trick three, you'd once more discard a heart in order to guard against a possible 5-1 trump division. While such a division is certainly not what you'd ordinarily expect, it costs you nothing to try to protect against it. It can't be right to run even a small risk when the risk can be avoided altogether.

By adopting the suggested method of play — which means deliberately conceding the first three tricks to the opponents — you raise your chances of winning the next 10 to nearly 99%.

Lander to perform with All-State Band in SA

Daniel Lander a member of the Salado HS Band will perform with the Texas All-State Band in San Antonio, Feb. 15 at the Henry B. González Convention Center as part of the 2020 Texas Music Educators Association Clinic/Convention.

Lander was chosen for this prestigious honor through a competitive process held this year across the state at District, Region, and Area levels. Daniel is a student at Salado HS under the direction of Charla Kelley who is a member of the Texas Music Educators Association, a 19,000+ member organization headquartered in Austin. This is Daniel Lander's third time to perform as a member of a TMEA All-State organization – the only band student in Salado HS history to make all-state 3 years in a row. Daniel Lander is the son of Jeff and Jodi Lander.

High school students selected to perform in the All-State concerts have competed through auditions to qualify at the state level. All-State is the highest honor a Texas music student can receive. 1,795 students are selected through a process that began with over 66,800 students from around the state vying for this honor to perform in one of 15 ensembles (bands, orchestras, and choirs). Texas Music Educators Association sponsors the Texas All-State competition. This competitive process begins throughout the state in auditions hosted by 33 TMEA Regions. Individual musicians perform selected music for a panel of judges who rank each instrument or voice part. From this ranking, a select group of musicians advances from their Region to compete against musicians from other areas in eight TMEA Area competitions. The highest-ranking musicians judged at the TMEA Area competitions qualify to perform in a TMEA All-State music group. Only the top 2.6% of musicians who initially audition become All-State musicians.

The 2020 convention will be even more distinct because TMEA is celebrating 100 years as a music educators association.
