Music & Heart

Soprano Gilda Cruz-Romo appears at Institute Nov. 6

Gilda Cruz-Romo, one of the great sopranos of our time, will be the third lecturer in the Institute for the Humanities at Salado's fall series HOPE: BEYOND SURVIVAL. Her performance and lecture entitled MUSIC AND THE HEART will be November 6th at Mill Creek dining room.

Gilda Cruz-Romo, a native of Mexico, has sung and frequently been engaged to open the season in many of the world's great opera houses, including La Scala, Covent Gardens, Metropolitan Opera, and Teatro dell' Opera in Rome. She has sung leading roles in many operas including "Madame Butterfly," "Aida," "Otello," and "La Traviata."

"Aida" was Gilda Cruz-Romo's European debut at Covent Garden. She repeated the role the following year for her La Scala debut. As a result of her success there, La Scala invited her to sing both "Aida" and "Tosca" on its tour to the Bolshoi Theatre in the U.S.S.R.

Gilda Cruz-Romo is an assistant professor of voice at The University of Texas at Austin. Her accompanist, Elden Little, is currently a doctoral student at UT. In 1990, he was the first recipient of the Sidney Wright Award for Excellence in Accompanying.

The Gilda Cruz-Romo performance and lecture is funded in part by The RGK Foundation in Austin. If you are interested in learning more about the Institute and its programs, call or write: The Institute for the Humanities at Salado, P.O. Box 527, Salado, TX 76571; (817) 947-5829

Gilda Cruz-Romo is scheduled to appear before the Institute for the Humanities in Salado Nov. 6.

Skirl of the Pipes

Gathering of the Clans Nov. 11-13

The skirl of the pipes, the rattle of drums, the swing of the kilt - it can only mean one thing: It's time for the 33rd Annual Scottish Games, Nov. 11-13. The games will feature bagpipe band competition, Highland dancing, Scottish vendors, athletic events, sheep dog trial and nightly Scottish entertainment.

Sponsored by the Central Texas Area Museum, the event not only promotes the Scottish heritage, but also stands as a landmark to the impact of Scottish immigrants on the history of Central Texas. Preliminary events begin on Friday morning with Scottish vendors, museum exhibits and a Genealogy Workshop at 1 p.m. A special supper is hosted at the Stagecoach Inn at 6 p.m. to be followed by Scottish entertainment in the Longhorn room]

Perhaps the biggest attraction of any Scottish Games is the bagpipe and drum competitions. Pipe bands from Austin, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio will performing a Massed Bands parade for both the Opening Ceremonies on Saturday at noon, and the Closing Ceremonies on Sunday at approximately 6 p.m.

In addition, solo piping and drumming competition will be held throughout the day on Saturday with the bands going into head to head competition on Sunday. Each band will compete in two events; a Medley of tunes and a March, Strathspey and Reel. The bands will be judge by some of the best pipers and drummers in the world. Several of whom will be coming all the way from Scotland just for the events. Prizes will be awarded at the closing.

Nov. 12, events will include two Ceilidhs (pronounced "Kay-lee" Celtic celebration) will be hosted in the Salado High School Auditorium at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. The Scottish sheep dog trials will start at 8 p.m. and Saturday's events will wrap up with a Tartan Gala at 9 p.m. including dinner.

In addition to pipe band competition, Nov. 13, events include a Scottish church services. Country Dancing and Wee Scots Games on the Village Green and a 10K run.

Adult admission to the grounds on Nov. 11 and Nov. 13 is $4, while Nov. 12 is $5 Children under 12 will receive admission to the grounds for $2 per day.

Nov. 11, evening Stagecoach Supper will be $8.50 per plate. Admission to either of Saturday's Ceilidhs will be $4 for adults, $2 for children under 12.

Nov. 12, Saturday evening's Tartan Gala will be $35 per plate or $55 per couple.

The Hudsucker Proxy

rated PG

starring Tim Robbins, Jennifer Jason Leigh, Paul Newman

Our rating: **

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

The Hudsucker Proxy is a novel idea, much like the Hula Hoop around which the movie is based.

But the novelty of the movie quickly wears off and it is left there, like a cast-off fad, looking kind of silly.

What The Hudsucker Proxy tries to capture is the essence of the old 1940 and 1950s films, with tough-talking bosses and wise-cracking office girls.

When the founder of Hudsucker industries (played by Charles Durning) dives out the 45th floor window (including the mezzanine), stockholders try to find a dupe to run the company until January 1, so that they can buy up all the public stocks at cheap prices and rebuild the company themselves.

Paul Newman stars as the cigar-smoking partner who brings in mail clerk Norville Barnes as the new president. Tim Robbins stars as Barnes, who carries his great idea drawn on a piece of paper stuffed in his shoe.

Jennifer Jason Leigh stars as Annie Archer, a tough-talking newspaper reporter who wants to break the story on the "imbecile" head of Hudsucker Industries. Leigh is very reminiscent of Kathryn Hepburn in her speech and mannerism. She does it well enough to make you want to see the actual thing, as opposed to the imitation.

Robbins tries to come across as a Jimmy Stewart, but ends up coming across as a rube, a numbskull, an idiot. Where Stewart is funny, Robbins is insipid.

You would do better to watch one of the originals rather than this weak copy.

By this time next week the tumultuous 1994 mid-term election will be history. Gone will be the hoopla, the rantings and ravings, the near and far truths. The hopes and dreams of some will be shattered while for others the future will appear bright and unlimited. Many political observers predicted a wild and wooly series of races - and they were right thus far. Within a few days will come the "morning after" as reality will set in for those who must now either make plans to keep campaign promises or in some disingenuous manner convince the public they didn't say or mean what was shouted from the roof tops! Most of us will be happy if the pledges made in the heat of a campaign battle are left unfulfilled - they are generally too costly or won't work in the best of circumstances.

All in all - the 1994 campaign, at least statewide, has been about normal to date. If you call normal all that is going on at the gubernatorial level. Also, and for what it is worth, candidates in Texas spent more this year on TV and print advertising than ever before in our history.

Next week we will, as

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

promised, present a complete comparison between the recent high school student vote and the final tally from Salado's adult population.

School Bonds

Last week the steering committee, set up to advise the Salado school trustees concerning a needed bond issue, were almost unanimous in suggesting that the board call for a $4.5 million bond program, using the funds to construct a new high school on a separate campus, plus upgrading the present facilities. Cost of which is estimated to increase ad valorem taxes by 15 cents per hundred dollars valuation.

It is expected that sometime near the end of November, a town hall meeting will be held to go over the details of the bond proposal and if all goes well at that point in time - the calling of a bond issue for January.

Welfare

We have all heard a lot about welfare during the course of the mid-term campaings. It almost became a litmus test for both Democratic and Republican candidates at all levels but especially in the gubernatorial contest. What are the facts about welfare in Texas in 1994? Is it as bad as we have been led to believe? Better yet - what all does it cover right here in Bell County. For answers to these and other questions we visited with the Austin headquarters of the state Human Services Department - formerly the old Welfare Department. The officials were quick to respond - with more info than we could ever present - but the basic facts are clear. The "welfare" program in Texas in general and Bell County in particular includes three main undertakings: First; the Food Stamp program which goes only to families with children who live below the poverty level. The second feature of Human Services is Aid to Families with Dependent Children which is a grant of some $58 for each child living with a single parent or caretaker. The last of the major planks in "welfare" is Medicaid - which is the health phase given to the poverty stricken citizens of all ages. These three areas of "wel-

Complete domination.

That's what the Salado Eagles showed against the Lexington Eagles Oct. 28 in Lexington during a 36-0 route.

The Eagle defense completely shut-down the Lexington offense, holding it to 16 yards total offense (21 yards rushing and -5 yards passing).

The defense was led by Marshall Adams with 13 tackles, Jereme Hosch, 12 tackles, Rusty Wasik, 11 tackles (3 for losses), David Berumen, 11 tackles (3 for losses) and Michael Sierra, nine tackles (4 for losses).

The offense also dominated, tallying 22 first downs and 381 yards total offense (313 rushing, 68 passing).

Jason Hosch led all rushers with 187 yards on 18 carries. David Berumen followed with 64 yards on 13 carries and Jereme Hosch

Junior Varsity

With the district championship on the line, the Salado JV Eagles fell to Lexington, 45-20, last week.

Salado held close throughout most of the game, trailing 13-20 at the half.

The turning point in the game came in the third quarter when a 60-yard touchdown run by Cody Hall was called back on a Salado penalty. The touchdown would have tied the score a 26-26, but the penalty took the air out of the tires for Salado.

Lexington then poured on 19 points in the last quarter of the game to win decisively, 45-20.

Hall scored all three touchdowns for the Salado Eagles. He had two touchdown runs of 60-yards and another touchdown run of 40-yards.

Scott Arnold and David Kirk also had good games for the JV Eagle offense.

The Junior Varsity will play Academy at 7 p.m. Nov. 3 in Academy for the season finale. The Eagles are 7-2 on the year.

8th Grade

The eight grade Salado Eagles were able to keep their record unblemished with a hard fought victory over a fine Lexington team. Besides remaining undefeated, there was also a revenge motive for Salado. As 7th graders last year, Lexington defeated Salado 32-0. The Eagles defeated Lexington 28-12 last week.

Things looked tough for Salado early on. Penalties stopped their first drive at the Lexington 40. A fine punt by Mark Weddell backed the opponent up to their own four yard line.

After both teams exchanged punts, Lexington broke the ice with a long run by their speedy tailback. The conversion attempt failed and Lexington lead 6-0.

Salado came right back with a 60-yard drive that resulted in a 1-yard quarterback sneak for a touchdown by Ryan Gillespie. Weddell threw a sweep pass to Manual Guajardo to give Salado an 8-6 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Weddell set the Eagles up at Lexington's 35-yard line with a punt return of 25 yards. From there, Salado marched toward the endzone. Taylor Hutton plunged in from the 4 yard line with 32 second left in the half. The conversion failed, giving Salado a 14-6 lead at the half.

Lexington received the second half kick-off and recorded a couple of first Judge Pemberton, of a pioneer Texas family, has lived all his life in Central Texas. His life is an open book, and he doesn't have to depend on rumors and innuendos. We have known him for years and practiced law with him, on the other side from him, and before him. We have seen him in the practice of law, in his church and civic work, as a citizen, a judge, and a man. We recommend him unhesitatingly.

We do not do so anonymously, but are proud to place our names openly on this endorsement. You may quote us.

Our combined experience as lawyers totals more than 740 years, and the number of cases we have tried runs into the thousands. Our only interest is in having good, qualified, able judges experienced in Texas law.

LOOK WHO'S SUPPORTING SENATOR BILL SIMS ...

"Senator Bill Sims has established himself not only as a conservative voice in the Senate, but also as a leader of bipartisan cooperation in state government ... a knowledgeable, but down-to-earth politician who understands the people and needs of this district."

Abilene Reporter-News
Sunday, October 16, 1994

"Sims has been anything but bashful about proposing legislation of his own ... sponsoring 555 bills during his six sessions in the legislature. Because Bill Sims has demonstrated the ability to work with both sides of the aisle and has garnered the respect of his Senate colleagues he would make an effective spokesman in the Senate for Bell County and the rest of Central Texas."

Temple Daily-Telegram
Sunday, October 23, 1994

"He's a rancher, small businessman and a conservative legislator whose credentials already are established around the Capitol in Austin. Sen. Bill Sims is the man we should elect to represent District 24."

Killeen Daily-Herald
Sunday, October 23, 1994

"Bill Sims has been a fierce advocate for agricultural interests in the Senate. He led the successful fight for boll weevil eradication legislation, which will mean millions of dollars a year to producers and the state."

San Angelo Standard-Times
Sunday, October 16, 1994

"The Texas State Teachers Association is committed to excellence in our educational system. Sen. Sims has worked with the TSTA to help us insure a quality education for our students and to improve the status of teachers and other educational employees."

Richard Kouri
President of TSTA

"The 1993 legislative session was one of the most successful for business in many years. A great deal of the credit goes to key legislative leaders like Sen. Bill Sims, who was instrumental in making sure the needs of the business community were so favorably represented in the Texas Capitol."

Bruce Gibson
President of the Texas Chamber of Commerce

"Sen. Sims understands that small business is the backbone of our nation's economy and is fighting hard to resist attempts by state government to mandate benefits that would interfere with small business operations."

Robert S. Howden
State Director of the National Federation of Independent Businesses/Texas

"Not only is Sen. Sims important to us as a senator, we consider him one of us as well. As a farmer and rancher, he is keenly aware of the problems that face agricultural producers. And he shares our concerns about property rights and government regulations."

John Baker
Farm Bureau member

"Sen. Sims was instrumental in ending liberal parole policies that were releasing 150 inmates a day - often violent offenders - onto the streets. Under Sen. Sims leadership, parole has been cut back by two-thirds."

Claude Hart

downs, but the Eagle defense stiffened and forced a punt.

A 70-yard drive by the Eagles ate up all but 12 seconds of the third quarter. There were several big plays in the drive, including a 20-yard run by Weddeell, a reverse to Guajardo and a big third down run by Hutton. The turning point of the game was during the drive when Salado faced fourth down and seven to go. Gillespie fired a pass to a diving Chris Michna for the first down, keeping the drive alive. Michna also capped off the drive with a 16-yard touchdown run on a reverse. Hutton the conversion for a 22-6 lead.

Lexington was able to score early in the fourth quarter to stay in the game. Salado came right back with another score on a 4-yard run by Hutton to secure the win. The conversion failed, giving Salado its final lead, 28-12.

"The win was a total team effort with the offense and defense playing equally well," said coach Melvin Bates.

The undefeated 8th Graders face Academy 6 p.m. Nov. 3 in Academy.

7th Grade

The 7th Grade Eagles fell to a superior Lexington team last week, 28-0.

Rory Oldham and Larry Whitt had good games for the junior high Eagles.

"All the boys gave a good effort," said coach Craig Bales, "but they were beaten by a team with superior athletic ability."

The 7th Grade Eagles faced the Academy Bumblebees at 5 p.m. Nov. 3 in Academy.

Eads named to Who's Who list

Temple Junior College student and Salado resident Melissa Eads is among the 52 students selected as national outstanding leaders and will be listed in the 1995 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Students were selected based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success.

fare" account for nearly all of the money spent jointly by the federal government in cooperation with state governments. For example food stamp money comes 100 percent from the Agriculture Department whereas AFDC and Medicaid is a 50-50 proposition. Many welfare programs have a federal mandate to them - some are not funded although required.

Bell County has a total of 13,250 kids on the food stamp and AFDC programs. Cost is a little over $4 million a month. We also have some 5,000 adults on medicaid services in the county at a cost of $2.5 million a month.

Facts appear to point to the conclusion that nearly all of the "welfare" money spent in Bell County goes to children and senior citizens - all of whom have to pass a poverty level test to be included. If this is the case - why do our politicians spend so much time taking pot-shots against such programs that feed and care mostly for the desperately helpless?

The answer may lie in the fact that these socially underclass have few organized pressure groups speaking for them. They are for the most part voiceless and defenseless.

We are not talking here about the adults ripping off the program and there are many of those. The welfare mothers and useless fathers who make a mockery of a program designed to help.

Is there an answer? Is there a better system of caring for the needy young and the old? The answer has to hopefully be yes! Somewhere in the area of education, parenting, job training, religion and a revival of the home we may find the answers. Until then - it is mean spirited to want to just cut or reduce children and the old from food and health programs.

After all - kids don't ask to be born into families that are poor, ignorant, without love and without hope. Old people don't enjoy poverty and charity.

Our political class needs to spend time finding solutions and stop railing at the helpless recipients of welfare - namely the children and aged who are without funds, friends or family.

No doubt some readers will confuse this week's offering with the grumblings of liberals the nation over who want more and more for the lazy at the expense of the working taxpayer. Not so! Only a plea for the helpless and a request for all of us to help find a solution to an age-old problem of what to do with the poor among us - short of giving up and continuing the welfare cycle we appear to be caught up in after six decades of throwing money at a problem that will not go away - because it cannot go away by itself.

Politicians of all political stripes bear the responsibility of leadership in seeking workable answers to difficult problems such as welfare. That is one reason we elected them - not to just say "cut them off" and forget the young and old who we have turned into modern day beggars.

Unfortunately these mouthy politicians are aided and abetted by the screaming senseless ravings of many of our current

TV and radio loonies who appeal to many folk's baser instincts.

Remember - we are talking primarily about children and old people here.

That's -30-

The New Texas Difference

- Placed new emphasis on keeping violent criminals behind bars—building 75,000 new prison cells, doubling the prison time for violent crimes and cutting the number of parolees by two-thirds
- Created more than 980,000 private-sector jobs—more than any other state in the nation for the past three years
- Initiated immunizations for all children against preventable diseases, all told more than 250,000 children were immunized just this past year
- Signed the Health Insurance Bill to offer small businesses affordable medical coverage for their employees
- Passed insurance reform to protect consumers
- Demonstrated fiscal responsibility—now Texas' state budget has gone from a $4 million deficit to a $2.2 billion surplus
- Passed the lottery which allowed Texas to spend $900 million more on prisons and education
- Led the effort to move more than 500 companies to Texas

Working together, we'll make Texas a better place for all our families.

Dust off your life insurance policy

When was the last time you reviewed your life insurance policy? Do you know how much you have? Better yet, with today's changing times, are you even sure policy is enough to meet your dependents' financial needs? Life insurance is often a necessity that once purchased, is rarely reviewed to see if the policy is outdated. No longer provides enough coverage or no longer addresses changing long-term financial needs.

Mike Miller

The goal of life insurance is simply to provide an investable sum of money to provide for your dependents after your death. How much life insurance you should have is a complex issue. Many experts estimate that families will need approximately 75 percent of gross income should something happen to a family bread winner.

However, not two families have the same needs, so quick formulas or "rules of thumb" may lead to incorrect assumptions. Family circumstances may change, responsibilities may change, children may come along, incomes grow and net worths build. For these reasons and others, you should regularly review your insurance needs.

When determining your life insurance needs, you should first make a list of expenses that family members may incur if something were to happen to you. These might include funeral and other final expenses, estate taxes, the cost of paying off the mortgage, other family debts, college funds and any other special needs.

Next, you should figure the amount of money that they normally need for household expenses. You can determine this amount by subtracting taxes, mortgage payments and savings from your income. For example, if the Smith family had an annual income of $75,000 and had $25,000 in annual savings and $12,000 in mortgage payments, their wage base would be reduced by annual expenses of $37,000. The Smiths would have household expenses of $38,000 ($75,000-$37,000).

If the Smiths multiply their household expenses by a target percentage of 75 percent, they will find should Mr. Smith pass away tomorrow, Mrs. Smith's annual expenses would be about $28,000 ($38,000 X .75). After subtracting Mrs. Smith's annual net income from her annual expenses, the Smiths would realize approximately how much extra income they would need per year to cover expenses. The Smiths would then divide the amount of extra annual income needed by a conservative annual rate of return for an income-producing investment. After adding funeral or medical expenses incurred at Mr. Smith's death to this amount, the Smiths have determined the amount of life insurance. Because this is just an example, you may find your needs are much different when you calculate your life insurance coverage. Deciding exactly how much insurance you'll need will depend on your personal situation. But before you change your existing policy, contact your investment broker to clearly define your financial needs.

Boyd named PNB Spirit of Salado winner

Salado High School student William Boyd has been named the recipient of the People's National Bank Spirit of Salado Award for the first six weeks.

The award was established to recognize students in grades 9 through 12 at Salado High School for leadership, respect for others, willingness to serve in community/school services. The Spirit of Salado is presented to one student each six weeks.

William, a senior is chairman of the Student Council public relations committee, student representative to the Site Based Management Committee, secretary of the Salado FFA, Vice President of the Cen-Tex District FFA and Vice President of the Speech Club. He also participated in One Act Play, Salado Legends and the First Baptist Church Youth Group.

Honors include, president of the Senior and Junior class, National Honor Society Treasurer, Who's Who Among High School Students for three years, National Young Leaders Conference, and U.I.L. Current Events Regional Qualifiers.

In Bill's spare time he enjoys computers, hunting and fishing.

His plans include attending Texas A & M and pursuing a career as a military specialist in the computer science field.

Bill's parents are Donna and Jon Boyd of Salado.

The recipient receives a $200 savings bond, Spirit of Salado Award, and his photograph displayed at the high school and bank lobby.

The presentation will be made by Wendell Williams, president of Peoples National Bank.

SPAT Golf Tourney is set Nov. 7

Salado Parent & Teacher Organizations will be holding their Second Annual Golf Tournament Nov. 7. The tournament is open to all golfers.

This event is a major fund raiser for the organization which will benefit the Salado ISD school children.

The 1993 fall tournament was a great success with over 100 golfers participating. Area businesses and individuals backed the tournament by sponsoring holes. Support by the entire community attributed to the success.

The tournament will once again be held at the Mill Creek Golf and Country Club with a shot-gun start at 1 p.m.

The format will be a four man scramble. Teams will be drawn. First, second, and third place trophies will be awarded. Complimentary beverages and hors d'oeuvres will be served at 5 p.m..

The fee is $30 per person. If you would like to participate in the tournament, contact Susie Hanson at the Pro Shop 817-947-5698.

Or, fill out the adjacent form and mail it in.

Second Saturday Session is Nov. 12

The second of five "Second Saturday Sessions for Actors" will be held at Tablerock's backstage theater on 9 a.m.-12 noon Nov. 12, 1994. Aspiring actors, adult and children, are invited to attend. Fee is $5.00 per person.

Diane Howard will conduct the acting workshop which will concentrate on the body in acting. She will work with techniques in mime, body language, and stage movement.

Howard is Drama and Speech Professor at University of Mary Hardin-Baylor. She has her Master of Education Degree in Gifted Education and Performing Arts and is currently completing coursework at the University of Texas toward a Ph.D. in Curriculum & Instruction and Speech Performance.

Among the University Drama courses Mrs. Howard has taught are: Acting, Production, Directing, Children's Theater, Drama Ministry, Drama as an Educational/Therapeutic Tool, Theater History, American Musical Theater and Public Speaking. She has directed Quilters and Oklahoma at Tablerock Amphitheater and UMHB. A few plays she has directed at UMHB are: Les Miserables, Fiddler on the Roof, Steel Magnolias, The Rainmaker, Godspell, and Bus Stop.

Not only is Howard a teacher but is very active in performing. Her most recent stage role was Mrs. Pardoo in The Music Man, Dolly in Hello, Dolly! at the Temple Civic Theater, and was a soprano soloist in The Messiah at Fort Hood.

Howard, recipient of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation's Award for Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership UMHB, April 1990, has also written and directed drama projects and pageants for the First Baptist Church of Belton.

Wildlife personnel with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently completed annual deer population surveys here in Bell County. The counts resulted in an estimate of 58 deer per 1,000 acres or about 12,000 deer county wide.

antlerless deer in Bell County.

After reviewing the results of the recent deer population surveys, local wildlife personnel recommend that Bell County landowners located west of IH-35 try for a harvest of one doe or antlerless deer for every 150 acres and one buck for every 300 acres. East of IH-35, does should be harvested in limited numbers and only in those pockets where a deer population is well established or where deer are causing serious crop depredation problems. The recommended rates result from the need to better balance the sex ratio observed in the herd and from a desire to produce a healthier deer population that is properly matched to the existing supply of deer foods in the county.

your acreage shows signs of overpopulation (a lack of brush and weeds available at and just above ground level, less than optimal deer weights and poor quality buck antler development within each age class, low fawn survival, etc.), then you probably need to harvest your deer population at a higher rate and/or reduce livestock grazing pressure by reducing numbers or rotating your stock. On the other hand, if you have good deer habitat and an adequate supply of quality deer foods available, but seem to be short on deer numbers, then possibly you should harvest at a lighter rate than that recommended for the county.

Landowners interested in closely managing their local deer herd need to conduct their own on-site fall population surveys, with resulting harvest recommendations that meet their specific management objectives. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wildlife personnel are available to assist with more specific wildlife management recommendations for individual tracts of land.

This year in Bell County the deer season opens on Nov. 5, and runs through Jan. 1. All Bell County hunters and landowners need to make special note of the restricted deer bag limit that is in place again this year. Hunters are limited to 3 deer, with no more than 1 deer with hardened antlers and no more than 2 antlerless deer in the bag for the entire hunting season. Special attention must be given to using the proper tag off of the hunting license on any deer harvested in Bell County this year. Doe permits or special doe tags will not be issued nor required to harvest antlerless deer here in the Edwards Plateau. Hunters will need only the appropriate tag off of their hunting license, and landowner permission, to bag doe or

These harvest rates are based on compartment averages derived from survey lines located in this and several other surrounding counties. Therefore, the recommended rates may not be completely suitable for each individual ranch in the county. In general, if

The Little Brown Church in the Dale

by JD FOX

It wasn't little, it wasn't brown, it wasn't a church, and it wasn't in the 'dale'. Instead it was a red brick multistory jail, but the gospel song of a similar title always takes me back to fond memories of my youth.

In the late '30s times were much simpler for a little boy that had a bicycle. I was free to attend any Sunday School that was within the range of that bicycle, and Mama gave me a nickel to put in the plate.

From our house at 1700 Austin Street, it was only a couple of miles to the 'Boy's Club' in downtown Wichita Falls. The membership was free, and a new member got a real membership card.

The Boy's Club was a big interest in my life in those days, because of all the neat things that you could do there. They had all kinds of wood working equipment that was free for a boy to use. If you wanted to make a 'rubber' gun or the stock of a 'sling shot', it was made easy with an electric jig saw instead of trying to do it with a hand saw or pocket knife at home.

My discovery of the Boy's Club was important to me in several ways, but my dad didn't approve of me going there. He felt that it was for underprivileged boys, and he didn't want me to think I was under privileged. He was very proud that he had never been in the 'bread line' all during the great depression of the '30s even though he only had a third grade education. My dad provided for his six children without the help of outsiders, and especially the government. It was more than pride, it was a matter of honor. For me to go down town to the Boy's Club was as if he had somehow failed.

He didn't approve, but neither did he tell me that I couldn't go. His method of control for me was to tell me what he thought on a subject, and then when I asked permission to do something he would tell me that I could do "anything I was big enough to do." It was his way of saying that ultimately, I was responsible for my actions. It was important that I knew right from wrong, but in the final judgment, I was going to be accountable for my actions. Personal responsibility was a heavy burden for a young boy, but it was training for when I was older and had my own family. It was my dad's way.

The Boy's Club was in an old red brick building on the west side of Ohio Street somewhere near 10th or 11th Street. Next door was the police station, and on the second floor of the police station was the city jail. The Boy's Club was also on the second floor, and with a stick, a boy of my size could reach across the open space, into the cells of the prisoners in the jail.

No, nothing bad ever happened, but with a stick, we boys would take money from the prisoners, and go buy them chewing gum, candy, and sometimes cigarettes, if the boy was big enough to buy such things. I wasn't old enough for that, but often was part of the group that was 'helping' those unfortunates in the next building.

We weren't thinking of wrong doing, but just doing something for someone that couldn't do for themselves. After all, that was what we were taught in Sunday School, wasn't it?

On Sunday morning, an old man that was called 'Judge' taught a Sunday School class, downstairs below the city jail. The 'Judge' was a kindly old man that had recruited me and others from the boys next door in the Boy's Club. He told us of his weekly class for boys next door, and encouraged us to "Come see me."

My mother attended to my spiritual training. She sometimes took me to Church with her, but when she couldn't attend, she sent me alone. She did not make me go to a certain church or to a particular denomination, but she did make sure that I went somewhere. On one Sunday I would go to the Church of Christ up on 10th and Austin Street. The next Sunday, I might go to the First Christian Church down on 9th Street. My uncle Roy taught a class there, and was a Deacon as well. So, I was not a 'regular' at any one place, and when the 'Judge' gave me a personal invitation to attend his class, I was flattered and eager to attend.

The lessons taught by the 'Judge' were simple, and have long since blended in with the thousands of other Sunday School lessons that I have attended since those days. There are certain memories, however that remain clear and bright to this day.

The classroom was near or on the front of the building, and I remember it had some large posters on the wall showing the outline of the female figure. It was showing the debilitating effect on the spinal column because of wearing high heel shoes. I remember the chart emphasized the 'S' shape that would be developed by those that would wear those terrible high heeled foot coverings. They were the cause of 'hump' shoulders and 'pouch' stomachs. It's been a long time since I've heard anyone speak of the negative effects of wearing high heel shoes.

The 'Judge' taught his class and at the end all the boys attending were given an ice cream cone. Now, boys and girls, you must know that in those days you could get a large 'double dip' ice cream-cone for a nickel. It was real ice cream too, and not any of this 'nearly' ice cream they sell today. The ice cream was cheap, but to get a 'free' ice cream-cone was a real treat because no one had a nickel.

All of those things I remember, but what I remember most and with fondness was when the 'Judge' picked several of us kids to come up front and sing as a group. The song that was my favorite was "THE LITTLE BROWN CHURCH IN THE VALE." We didn't have enough song books to go around, so we had to share, and I never did get the name right. I sang it with an ending of 'DALE' instead of 'VALE'.

It is a good memory, even if I never got the name right, because I remember the Judge's concern for a bunch of little boys. I sometimes wonder if his choice of classrooms was because it was the only space available, or perhaps he reasoned that the proximity to those older boys upstairs in cells might add emphasis to the lessons he taught.

Belton Wal-Mart donates money to Peaceable Kingdom Retreat

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. with the support of its valued customers, has announced a unique donation program to benefit local non-profit organizations. Each time a customer purchases a SAM's American Choice soda from a vending machine located at their store, five cents is donated to a local non-profit organization at the end of each Wal-Mart fiscal quarter. "The Belton Wal-Mart is proud to have presented a check to the Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children," said store manager

Roy Valladares. This is an ongoing program for all stores and their communities. Wal-Mart is headquartered in Bentonville, Ark. operating 2,043 Wal-Mart stores in a 49 state-trade territory and Puerto Rico. The Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children is a retreat in western Bell Count to which chronically ill children come, free of charge, and without regard to race, religion, or ability to pay. It serves children over a broad area of Central Texas.

Why Has the Texas Farm Bureau Endorsed Chet Edwards for Congress?

Three years before most people had ever heard of a golden-cheeked warbler, Chet was fighting hard to stop abuses of the Endangered Species Act and other over-reaching federal regulations. We saw firsthand Chet Edwards leading the fight to stop the 33 county warbler habitat plan dead in its tracks.

Now Chet is continuing the fight for private property owners as the co-sponsor of the Private Property Owners Bill of Rights and as the author of HR 5144 to stop additional listings of endangered species or habitat plans.

What counts? Action counts. Chet Edwards is a TRUE FRIEND OF RURAL TEXANS.

"Chet Edwards has worked tirelessly and effectively in behalf of private property rights."
