EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado ISD extends Spring Break, may announce further closings

Salado ISD Superintendent Michael Novotny announced March 13 that Spring Break would be extended until March 23.

He told Salado Village Voice that the District will make a decision on March 19 about whether schools will remain closed. The closure also applies to all after-school care, extended day programs, field trips, extra-curricular and district-sponsored events, including our high school prom.

"This was not an easy decision to make due to the potential impact it will have on our families, but the safety of our students and our staff is our highest priority. Further, this helps protect our greater community, which includes those that are most vulnerable to the virus," he added.

Salado ISD has made this decision in conjunction with other local entities and with direction from the Bell County and State Health Departments. Salado ISD will continue to consult with lo-

Salado man quarantined in Germany

By TIM FLEISCHER

Jon Williams, who moved from Salado to Germany to take a position as Operations Chief for Communications Electronics Command (CECOM) Europe has been quarantined since late March 13.

He attended the Defender Europe planning conference (NATO) the first week of March in Budapest.

On March 13, he was notified that an Army officer attending the same conference who sat near him had tested positive earlier that day for COVID-19 Coronavirus.

Williams will remain quarantined in his house for 14 days. He reports to Salado Village Voice that he has plenty of groceries to last through the quarantine.

He also says that he has no signs of any illness. Like most government employees in Europe, Williams is on telework status.

While in quarantine, Williams is reading a series of legal novels by John Ellsworth. He has watched half of The New Pope season on HBO and watched Won't You Be My Neighbor, which stars Tom Hanks, who announced last week that he tested positive for Coronavirus.

He admits that he brought home some Polinka from Budapest and has been enjoying it (on occasion) while in quarantine.

He had planned a trip back to Salado in April, but that has been postponed to May.

Jon's wife Kasha and their children remain in Salado. Kasha owns the local shop Wash N Willow.

Local couple quarantined in CA

By TIM FLEISCHER

"We've been busy as cranberry merchants," Janice Means told me this week. She and her husband Vic have been in quarantine at Marine Corps Air Station Miramar.

The Means were on the Princess Cruise ship that had 21 cases of coronavirus on it after 45 people were tested on board the ship.

At the time I spoke to them via Facetime on March 17, the couple were awaiting the results of their own tests. They had been tested the day before and were expecting results by no later than March 18.

So far, the two have shown no symptoms of the virus. They have their temperatures taken daily.

Meals are delivered to the room in the lodging building on the base three times a day.

"We have to put on our masks in order to answer the door," Janice said.

The couple boarded the Princess Cruise ship on Feb. 22 for a 15-day round trip cruise from San Francisco that stopped at all of the Hawaiian islands.

It was on the return that the virus was detected on the ship. The Means were quarantined with all the other passengers and crew members for five days on the ship until they were moved to their present location for a 14-day quarantine.

"We have gotten to know each other better in the past couple of weeks than in 10 years of marriage," Vic joked.

He says they enjoy the time together, sleep late, watch movies, play cards and talk on the phone with friends back home.

"We're not coming back until we have a good negative result on those tests!"

Janice says. As long as the test results remain negative, the Means expect to come back to Salado by March 26.

Until then, they will keep busy with each other.

Two black swans and a bear drag down markets by 20+%

In markets and in the economy a totally unexpected negative event that moves markets is referred to as a “black swan.” Having one is unusual but tends to happen about once a decade. In the last two weeks we had two. The obvious first black swan was the advent of COVID-19, aka “the coronavirus.” The second was Saudi Arabia’s switch from often being the only adult in OPEC and friends, reliably stabilizing the oil markets for the last four decades or so, to suddenly being the instigator of what may be the most destabilizing price war in the history of petroleum. The result of two black swans was a bear market. Bear markets are defined as a relatively sudden decline in the value of the S&P 500 by 20% or more. This bear market appears to be quite a lot different from the bear of 2008-2009 or even that of 2000-2002. This one is

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

heavily front-loaded and so far, does not seem to be a result of a structural deficiency in our economy, instead it is exogenic, meaning it came from the outside. Exogenic bears tend to be front loaded, relatively short, and “V” shaped, rather than the “L” shape of bears that resulted from structural excesses inside our economy.

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) topped out at 3,386.15 back on February 19, hit a presumptive bottom of 2,480.64 on March 12, for a total drop of 905.51 points, or 26.7% but then came roaring back on Friday the 13th, rising 9.36% to close at 2711.02, down 19.93% from its recent all-time high, and down 8.79% for the week. There is no way of telling at this point which way the SPX will go from here, so this may be a temporary reprieve or the shortest bear market on record. Our gut reaction is that this event is not over but if we could tell you the future you couldn’t afford to ask! The key here is to recognize that this bear market was caused by two very temporary if severe events. More on that below.

The U.S. Treasury 10-year note, the benchmark for bonds in general was the real shocker. The yield on the 10-yr. note closed at 0.569% on March 9 and despite the still-plunging stock market, for the next three days, the yield rose, and then rose again with the stock market surge on Friday. That means, beginning on Tuesday, March 10, the value of bonds fell substantially, even as the stock market declined! The spot price of gold, the mythical “safe haven” peaked on March 5, at $1,675 and then preceded to fall to $1,532 by Friday the 13th, down 8.62% for the week. The behavior of bonds and gold may seem irrational if you believe in safe havens, but what appears to have happened was that people and businesses suddenly found themselves faced with a cash-crunch and sold both Treasury bonds and gold to raise cash. We saw the same behavior in 2009. Things just “ain’t” what they used to be, and probably never were.

The real market shocker was the price of oil. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) closed at $32.97, down 21% for the week. The WTI price per barrel has now declined over 46% since the beginning of the year. The Saudis are opening their spigots, leasing super tankers, and flooding the market with cheap oil. Their stated target is the Russians, but the back blast is likely to sink a lot of shale drillers in the U.S.

The Economy

The American and world economies are faced with three major challenges. First, the COVID-19 coronavirus is the real thing. The best historical model we have for it is the 1918 “Spanish” flu epidemic. COVID-19 is a “novel” virus, meaning that no one has any immunity to it. It is very contagious and in a best-case scenario has about a 1% death rate. That may not sound like much but if only 40% (a low estimate) of Americans get it, we may see 1,300,000 deaths in the next six months or so. As a point of reference, influenza kills between 12,000 and 61,000 people per year. In a worst-case scenario where we all get sick at about the same time and overwhelm the hospitals, four to five times that number could die. Get ready to see restaurants, movie theaters, malls, convention centers, big box stores and anywhere else people congregate suddenly become empty money-losers. The light at the end of the tunnel is that in 1918 the worst was over in about six months. In that pandemic, another wave hit a year later in 1919, but we are confident that a year from now we will have an effective vaccine and nearly universal immunity. The key for the present is to slow the spread so we all don’t get sick at the same time.

Woke-era pandemic

The coronavirus outbreak is the first pandemic of the woke era, and as such it’s not surprising that there is a fierce debate over how to refer to it without offending against social justice.

Republican Rep. Paul Gosar of Arizona lost whatever sympathy he would have garnered in certain quarters over his self-quarantine when he referred to “the Wuhan virus,” a perfectly appropriate name that has been deemed grotesque and unacceptable.

Wuhan is in China, a

Rich Lowry

non-Western country, and people of color live there, so Q.E.D., calling the virus by the name of that city must be racist.

Luminaries across the left denounced Gosar. They even accused him of bringing what is technically the SARS-CoV-2 virus to our shores by misnaming it. Democratic Rep. Ted Lieu of California slammed the Republican’s reference to the Wuhan virus as “an example of the myopia that allowed it to spread in the U.S. The virus is not constrained by country or race.”

Nonetheless, the virus first became known in Wuhan, and the locked-down city has remained the epicenter of the Chinese epidemic ever since. As of mid-February, the Wuhan area accounted for 86% of all cases in China.

Naming a virus after the location of the outbreak that first brought it to attention is not unusual.

The West Nile virus emerged in the West Nile district of Northern Uganda in the 1930s. It is similar to the St. Louis encephalitis virus, which broke out around St. Louis, Missouri, in 1933, and the Japanese encephalitis virus that began in the 1870s.

Coxsackie in New York state, Marburg in Germany and Hendra in Australia all have viruses named after them. MERS, caused by a virus first identified in 2012, stands for Middle East respiratory syndrome, or even more offensively, the camel flu.

No one had a fainting fit over any of this, but we live in a more sensitive, and absurd, time.

The WHO issued guidelines a couple of years ago warning against naming diseases after geographic locations, or animals (swine flu, bird flu, monkey pox) or membership organizations or occupations (Legionnaires’ disease). With regard to the latest outbreak, the WHO has warned that “certain words and language may have a negative meaning for people and fuel stigmatizing attitudes.”

There is no doubt that a raging virus that got its start in China, has shut down all of Italy, and caused disruption and fear around the world may create negative associations around China. This would happen, though, regardless of the name.

Such international contention over the name of a virus or disease isn’t new. Syphilis was the Neapolitan disease, the French disease or the Polish disease, depending on who was naming it. The 1918 influenza came to be known as “the Spanish flu,” although Spaniards called it “the French flu.”

There was no good reason for naming the flu after the Spanish, though. The case of China is different. Its government tried to suppress warnings about the new coronavirus and looked the other way, giving it the room to become a national and then a global crisis.

It deserves to be connected to the virus it did more than its share to loose on the world, no matter what its foreign ministry or the sensitivity police say. Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Dear Salado ISD Parents and Employees:

Due to the latest announcements regarding the spread of COVID-19 in our county, Salado ISD will be extending spring break by one week. Schools will remain closed Monday, March 16, through Friday, March 20, as we continue to assess the situation. This closure also applies to all after-school care, extended day programs, field trips, extra-curricular and district-sponsored events, including our high school prom.

UMHB extends spring break, more announcements March 19

University of Mary Hardin-Baylor has extended Spring Break through March 20.

“There have been a number of significant events that have transpired in regard to the COVID-19 outbreak in the past 48 hours, and UMHB is continuing to closely monitor the situation. We are also continuing to follow the guidance from public health officials at the local, state, and national levels,” UMHB President Randy O’Rear stated in a letter to students and faculty.

“We are actively discussing the University’s best course of action for the period immediately following our extended Spring Break,” O’Rear stated. “We will do everything we can to protect the health and safety of our students, faculty, and staff; achieve continuity of academic student progress and University operations; and do our part to stem the spread of the COVID-19 virus.”

“It is our goal to return to normal operations as soon as it is prudent to do so,” he stated. “The University is committed to making these decisions in a responsible way. Due to rapidly changing conditions, for now our plan is to make decisions incrementally.”

Plans for the week of March 23 will be announced no later than noon March 19 and will be immediately posted to the UMHB website www.umhb.edu.

It is important to note that current online programs will continue as originally scheduled beginning March 16. This includes MyWay at UMHB as well as graduate Business, Education, and EXSS online programs.

“We are making good progress in determining the next steps that the University will take to help students complete their Spring classes,” O’Rear stated. “It is likely we will move to an online format for delivery of academic courses for at least a couple of weeks.”

It is unclear whether students can return to campus after the extended Spring Break. The university will announce a decision on this matter no later than March 19.

Salado Village Voice will make announcements online of any changes by UMHB.

Central Texas College extends Spring Break for all campuses break does not apply to online or blended classes

Central Texas College (CTC) is extending spring break at all Texas locations (Central, Fort Hood and Service Area campuses) an additional week for students only. Campus classes are suspended and campus events are cancelled for the period of March 16-22.

The spring break extension does not apply to online and blended courses currently in progress nor those that start on Monday, March 16. The face-to-face portion of the blended classes will be postponed or moved to the online format.

Employees will resume their normal work schedule on Monday, March 16 with a focus on continued planning and preparation for a virtual instruction and work environment should the need arise. As with the normal spring break schedule, each CTC campus will be closed to students and visitors during the extension.

Due to the spring break extension, the following CTC functions and activities will also be closed/cancelled: the Child Development Center, the Mayborn Science Theater, Continuing Education classes, the Veterans Benefits Expo and the CTC Bookstore.

While classes are scheduled to resume Monday, March 23, CTC will continue to monitor the COVID-19 pandemic and provide updates to students and employees in a timely manner through email, emergency alerts and the CTC website.

Salado Village Voice will make announcements online of any CTC changes by UMHB.

TC extends spring break for Temple, Taylor, Hutto campuses

Due to the threat posed by COVID-19, Temple College administrators have decided to extend Spring Break for students and cancel classes the week of March 16-20. No online or in-person classes will be held during this time at any of the college’s three teaching locations – Temple, Taylor and Hutto.

“The health and wellness of students, faculty and staff of Temple College is our highest priority,” said President Dr. Christy Ponce. “Out of an abundance of caution, Temple College will be making temporary changes to the way we provide instruction and operate in light of the growing concerns related to the coronavirus.”

Faculty and staff members will spend the week of March 16-20 preparing to transition to working, teaching and learning remotely if it looks like that will be necessary.

Ponce said when classes resume on Monday, March 23, most will probably be offered in an online or hybrid (combination of in person and online) format.

“Final decisions about changes related to the delivery of instruction and student services will be communicated as soon as they are available,” Ponce said.

All Temple College events on campus will be canceled or postponed until further notice. This includes the Temple College Jazz Festival, which was scheduled for March 26-29. It also includes a Preview Day in Taylor that was scheduled for March 27.

All external events and meetings being hosted on campus also will be postponed until further notice.

The National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) has postponed all play until April 3.

Ponce said Temple College will continue to monitor the ever-changing situation and work closely with regional health agencies, governments and education partners. For the latest information on how COVID-19 is impacting the college, visit www.templejc.edu/coronavirus.

UIL suspends all activities to March 29

To support the health and safety of students and communities, the University Interscholastic League (UIL) is suspending all UIL-sanctioned contests, rehearsals, practices and workouts due to the outbreak of COVID-19 (Coronavirus) in Texas. Effective March 16, all UIL interscholastic activities are suspended through March 29.

According to the UIL website, during school closures, schools shall not conduct practices or use school facilities or equipment. School practices include open gyms, open facilities, and open weight rooms. All athletic facilities should remain closed for both non-school and school activities.

If school is in session, then normal use of the in-school athletic period is allowed, not to exceed 60 minutes when classes meet every day (300 minutes per week for block schedules). Schools in session shall not conduct after school practices or use school facilities or equipment.

Soccer Bi-District play-offs have been rescheduled for April 14, according to UIL. Area will be played April 18 and Regional Quarterfinals District Academic Meets, originally scheduled March 23-28, may now be held March 30-April 11. This includes speaking events. Entry deadlines may be adjusted as needed. We ask that schools and local District Executive Committees work collaboratively and reasonably with one another in rescheduling district competitions.

One-Act Play District/Bi-District certification deadline, originally scheduled March 26, has been extended to April 7. One-Act Play Area certification deadline, originally scheduled for April 4, has been extended to April 14. Sunday contests will be allowed.

Academic Regional Meets are still scheduled for April 17-18 and One-Act Play Regional dates remain April 15-18. Current sites are subject to change.

"We are urging our member schools and their communities to stay vigilant and take every possible precaution to remain safe and healthy," said UIL Executive Director Dr. Charles Breithaupt. "We understand there is a lot of uncertainty during this unprecedented time. Please know UIL leadership is working diligently to adjust to this rapidly evolving situation and will share updates as soon as possible."

As this is a fluid situation, the UIL will continue to follow the direction of state and local officials to monitor this situation and will make additional announcements as needed.

Salado Village Voice will announce schedule changes online as they happen.

Don Caddon performs original music and poetry

Don Caddon performs at Salado Cowboy Poetry and Music Gathering May 1-3

Don Caddon is scheduled to perform during the Salado Cowboy Poetry and Music Gathering in Salado on May 1-3.

Caddon was born in Gonzales, Texas (The cradle of Texas liberty) in 1946. His family moved to the Austin area in 1951, and Don graduated from a small rural school, Del Valle, in 1964. He graduated from Southwest Texas State University (now Texas State), and served 6 years in the National Guard, including 3 years as a paratrooper in the Texas 36th Division.

Don spent part of his working career in advertising for Austin radio and television stations. He earned a Texas real estate broker's license in 1981, and was involved in farm and ranch brokerage, building, and commercial remodeling for many years. During that time he was able to live in the country, near Dripping Springs, Texas, and run livestock.

Don has two grown daughters, and his wife, Pam, has a grown son and daughter. They have four grandchildren.

In 1990, he read about the Texas Cowboy Poetry Gathering in Alpine, Texas, and decided to go see what it was all about. He found kindred spirits, and performed at that event for the next 30 years, eventually becoming the president of the operating committee. Pam also served on the committee.

He first met Apache Adams at the Alpine Gathering, and they became good friends. Don and Apache leased a ranch south of Marfa, Texas, and for the next 20 years they ranched and worked cattle together around Far West Texas.

In 2007, Don and his wife Pam, were able to retire and move to Alpine. They bought 60 acres of raw land in the mountains south of town, and built a home there. Don continued to run cattle on leased land and day work for friends and neighbors.

Since 1990, Don has performed his original music and poetry at gatherings around the west, from Alberta to South Texas. But more importantly to him, he has formed a close relationship with many of the performers who consider themselves "The Tribe"... wonderful western folks who love the land and enjoy putting words into songs and poems.

last trump lead. Declarer then tried the A-K-Q of diamonds but had to concede a diamond to East at the end for down one.

South's method of play had about an even chance of success. Had the diamonds been divided 3-3, or had the jack fallen singleton or doubleton, he would have made the contract. However, since he overlooked a safe way to guard against either opponent holding the J-x-x-x of diamonds, the outcome cannot be attributed solely to bad luck.

After taking the ace of spades, the best line of play is to cash the trump king and lead a trump to the ace. When both East and West follow suit, the A-K of diamonds are played.

At this point, the contract becomes certain. Declarer trumps a low diamond with the queen, leads a low trump to dummy's jack and discards his 9-3 of spades on the Q-10 of diamonds. That's all there is to it.

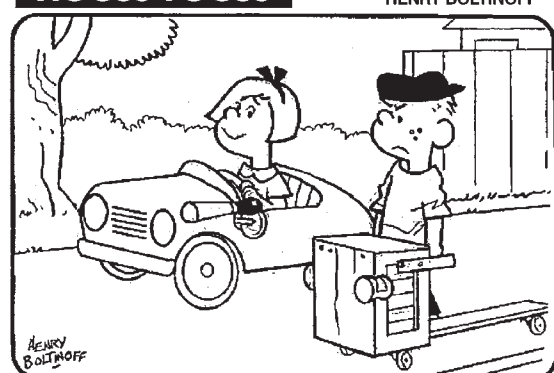

If the opponents' trumps were divided 4-1, declarer would find out when he cashed the second heart. He would then have no choice but to continue drawing trump and hope for a favorable diamond division.

Observe that the recommended method of play — drawing only two rounds of trump if both defenders follow suit — assures the contract whenever the opposing diamonds are divided 3-3 or 4-2 (86 percent), while drawing three rounds of trump stakes the entire outcome on a much less likely diamond division.
