Dedication 10 a.m. Oct. 9 of Salado Civic Center

by Ken Clapp

The dedication of the newly renovated red school house on Main Street, scheduled for 10 a.m. Oct. 9, culminates a long and interesting history of the village and the citizens who have worked tirelessly to create a civic center that would be a hub of community activities.

The story rightfully begins with the closure of the old high school in January 1980 when the entire student body was moved to the brand new high school building on Thomas Arnold Road. From that day until November 1992 the old structure sat idle and lonely, seemingly missing the sound of hundreds of happy feet as students and teachers moved up and down the halls.

During the intervening years, there were movements by the community, spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce and the Salado school board to make use of the old building. The Chamber wanted a civic center put in the former schoolhouse and the school board could not decide whether to sell the property or fix it up for additional classes.

School trustees, in a split vote, agreed to hold a $750,000 bond issue election to renovate the school to house primary grade students. Voters overwhelmingly defeated the measure on March 15, 1986, but later approved bonds to expand the school complex on Thomas Arnold Rd. Thus the old Main Street school remained empty and forlorn until the idea of a civic center resurfaced in 1990 during the term of Becky McAulay as president of the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber became interested once again in a civic center and at the same time the Salado Village Voice began running a series of articles on the need to use the building as a village and tourist center. The need for public restrooms was another of the driving forces behind the initial movement since visitors' chief complaint when they arrived was a lack of toilet

Auditions set Oct. 10-11 for Tablerock Christmas play

Tablerock Festival of Salado announces an open audition for the production of Charles Dickens classic play A Christmas Carol. The play has been adapted by Gary D. Askins who will also direct this special presentation. The auditions are open to all interested actors and crew and will be held at Tablerock Amphitheater on Royal Street in Salado Oct. 10 and 11.

Auditions are planned for 2 p.m. Oct. 10 and 7 p.m. Oct. 11. Scripts will be available at the auditions for review. The play has roles for several children ages 8 to 17, plus people to work backstage with props, costumes, scenery, sound and lighting. All interested parties are urged to attend one or both of these auditions as the production schedule will be finalized with the play opening the night of Dec. 3.

Askins says his adaptation "has kept the true spirit of the original tale. Just as Scrooge found the true meaning of Christmas through his visitations by various specters and spirits, so do I hope that the cast, crew and audience will discover the special gift of this marvelous season in our truly unique community."

The production is scheduled for the first two weekends in December (Dec 3-4 and 10-11). The play's opening weekend will coincide with the annual Christmas Stroll.

Christmas in October will feature displays created by many of the Salado merchants.

Christmas Around World Oct. 14

Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary presents Christmas in October celebration 10-5 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Stagecoach Inn complex.

The theme for this year is "Christmas Around the World" with exquisitely decorated table settings for the season, a variety of fanciful trees and nativity scenes reflecting the theme.

The International Bake Sale, International Bazaar, costumes and music from around the world will enhance the wonderland created by the many volunteers of local merchants, auxiliary members and devoted residents.

The aromas that emanate from the baked goods bring fresh memories of the holidays and gives everyone the opportunity to stock-up their holiday fare ahead of time. The light refreshments offered at the French Sidewalk Cafe will be located in the Longhorn Room. To add to the savory delights the International Pantry will feature decorated jars of jams, jellies, pickles, sauces, mixes, seasonings and candies, just right for gift giving or to add to your holiday table.

Tickets will be available at the door for $4. Reservations are not necessary. Funds from this project are for the benefit of the community organizations: Salado Volunteer Fire Department, Girl Scouts, Salado High School scholarships, and the beautification of Salado.

Commodities to be distributed at UMC Oct. 11

Commodities will be distributed at the United Methodist Church of Salado at Thomas Arnold Rd. and Church St. 9:30-10:30 a.m. Oct. 11.

To pick up the commodities for family or neighbor, you must have a permission slip with a utility bill showing the person's address. To pre-register for the goods, you must have proof of income, proof of residency and valid identification with your present address. Any further information need, contact Miriam Oliver, 947-8030.

Quilt Show will benefit Mayfield Library, Museum

Friends of the Library and Board of Directors for the Mayfield Library and Museum are sponsoring a Quilt Show Oct. 9-10 at the future home of the Mayfield Library and Museum on Travis St. in Holland.

This colorful event will display many treasured quilts from the homes of local Holland people and neighbors in the surrounding communities.

One quilt dates back to pre-Civil War years, some were made in the 1920s and 1930s, a few were made during World War II and reflect American patriotism and many were made more recently.

Some of the quilts have stories to be told and will be presented to those attending the Mayfield Quilt Show.

Everyone in Holland and the surrounding communities are issued special invitations to attend this exhibition. Admission is $2 per person. Complimentary refreshments will be served. Show hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 9 and 1-5 p.m. Oct. 10.

Our rating: ***

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Lara Flynn Boyle is the best part of The Temp, but that's not saying a whole lot. The Temp is a mediocre-at-best thriller about office politics taken to an extreme.

Peter Derns (Timothy Hutton) is on his way up the corporate ladder. His trip is being made much faster because his competing executives and higher-ups are dropping like flies.

Peter believes that his sexy temporary secretary Kris Bolin (Boyle) is the reason for mysterious deaths of corporate executives.

To be frank, there is not a whole lot of suspense in this suspense movie. And Timothy Hutton is his normal bland self. How someone who is so inept at showing emotions of any sort, is allowed to continue in movies is amazing.

The Temp should be a fill-in, not your first choice at the video store. It is on video and available at IGA Village Foods Videos in Salado Plaza.

This Saturday, October 9, Saladoans plus area friends and neighbors will gather in the auditorium of the old red brick school house on Main Street to mark the completion of the massive renovation project that has turned the abandoned building into a bright and shining civic center. The dedication ceremony, slated for a 10 a.m. start, will last about half an hour, provided no one gets carried away with speechifying. This phase of the program will be followed by a tour of the building and refreshments. A short investment in time compared to the uncountable man-hours spent by volunteers who did the planning and fund raising and not even counting the 10 months of off-again, on-again construction.

This is truly a big deal for Salado, this new civic center. In fact, a "well done" deal for those who have contributed so much to make things better for everyone in Salado. Wish we could list all concerned: those who gave money and time and effort. They know who they are and to them we give a special salute and word of thanks.

tinue reviewing the amendments that will be brought before voters on November 2. Thus far we have gone over four of the proposed constitutional changes. This week we will take a look at amendment number two which would, if passed, allow companies, large and small to keep off the tax rolls any and all pollution control devices they might be required to put in place in their business or factory. These requirements could be federal, state or local. The company could build new, or add to their current capital investment, items that would normally be taxed under the ad valorem system and be allowed to exempt these items from any taxes starting January 1, 1994. This tax abatement could amount to hundreds of millions of dollars in lost tax revenues in some high density manufacturing or oil refining counties. Those in favor of the proposition say it is unfair to add a tax that comes as a result of a federal or state law and also that these companies might move to nearby states that offer the tax abatement.

Those not in favor of amendment two say that since the pollution is caused by the company it should be corrected by that company without causing taxpayers to pick up the tab which they would do since tax abatements are picked up and paid for by the other tax payers in the district.

Recommend this amendment be voted down. Temporary tax abatements are well and good to get companies started provided they will eventually hire people and create a large future tax base. Not when they are given in perpetuity for correcting a problem caused by the very ones re-facilities. When it was decided that a civic center would have plenty of restrooms, the merchants got behind the project and it was 'off to the races' with the chamber leading the parade. This was all being done in the middle to late months of 1990.

A committee headed by Bob Cottle was formed and it was in his hands and mind that the plan to renovate the building came alive. The men and women who have had and continue to have a part in the project are united in praising Cottle for his tireless work in bringing order to the planning and execution of the nearly half-million dollar effort.

The building committee set about their business in a workmanlike manner by first seeking a feasibility study to find out if renovation was practical and how much would the cost be to turn the old edifice into a functioning building.

Newly elected president Pete Jennings took over the chamber reins and presided over the feasibility study that was finished in October 1991. The study indicated that it was not only practical to renovate the building but that it could be done for less than a half-million dollars which was the outside limit of the planned budget for the project by the chamber.

Cottle and his committee composed of Susie Epps, Jack Buchanan and Ken Clapp moved the speed notch to another level as they and the chamber made plans for a public hearing during a town hall meeting slated for April 30, 1992.

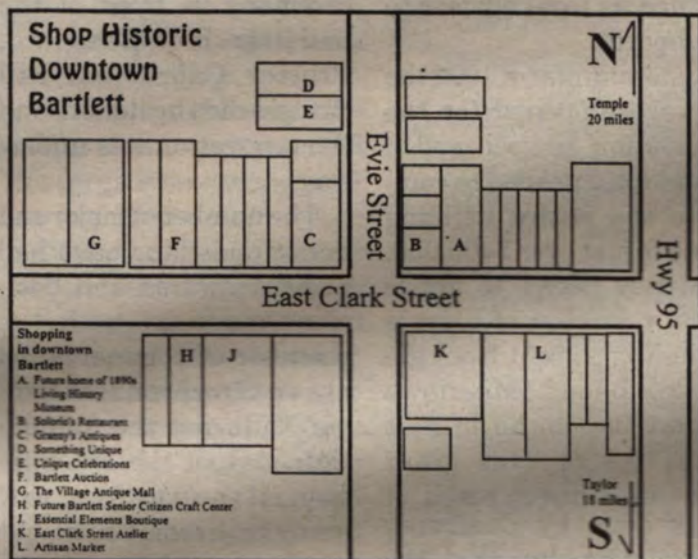

The chamber leaders were pledged to present every fact concerning the proposed project to the public and when this was done, to an overflow crowd in the high school cafeteria, the result was immediate and positive. Pledges from the group started that night and have continued to this date.

As the community geared up to raise money for the project, the chamber of commerce selected Don Legge, a local architect, to draw up the plans for the massive work program. While this was being done, the legal work for such a project was underway including applications for a charter to the Texas Secretary of State for the new entity that would be in charge of the building, the Old Salado School Foundation. When this request was granted and the official approval by the school board to lease the building to the foundation for 25 years, with an option for an additional 25 years, it was time to secure the elusive and difficult IRS approval and designation as a non-profit organization so that gifts would be tax deductible. This is a must for any organization wanting to raise money for public use projects. Helping with this all important endeavor was Wallace Vernon, a Killeen CPA with ties to Salado and an historic interest in the village and the old building. Vernon secured approval of the 501-c-3 designation and another hurdle was passed.

Local attorney Helen Zagona drafted the by-laws and incorporation documents for the Foundation, all of which were approved the state and newly appointed board of directors. The first board of directors includes these: President Stewart Smith, Vice President Wilma Williams, Secretary Jessie Foster, Treasurer Ken Clapp and members Denver Mills, Lois Shepperd and Egon Friedrich. Bob Cottle was named as the financial advisor to the board and Patsy Sanford as the chief fundraiser. Helen Zagona remained as legal advisor to the board.

Late summer of 1992 the bids were opened for the renovation project and a grand total needed to complete the entire building came to just over $400,000.

Money began to arrive from a number of sources including a grant from the Dallas-based Meadows Foundation in the amount of $117,000. This grant came as a direct result of work done by Chairman Cottle who prepared the documentation needed by the group to make a decision on the grant. The Paul J. Meyer family donated $39,000. The Salado National Bank approved an application for a $100,000 loan that would be needed to complete the project. Individual donations were led by Morris Foster, a 1961 graduate of the old high school and now the President and CEO of Esso International. The total amount raised through individual donations, to date, is over $140,000.

Groundbreaking took place in November 1992 with the three oldest living graduates of the former high school taking part in a ceremony in front of the building: Lois Sheppard, Proctor Capps and Bill Bridges did the honors and the renovation was underway.

The number of major and minor questions have had to be answered and decisions made by both the chamber of commerce led by two-term president Denver Mills and the foundation, stagger the imagination, all the way from how many bathrooms to be put on the second floor to the budgeting by the chamber in order to underwrite some $50,000 in construction costs and at the same time maintain the activities normally associated with the high profile chamber.

And now, the project is within days of being completed and dedicated. It is expected to attract several hundred local and area visitors including many former students and graduates of the old Main Street school.

Land Grant

This story on the background of the renovation project would hardly be complete without something said concerning the land grant from the Hamblen family in 1924 that provided the acreage for what was to become the main public school of Salado.

It was in 1924 that Mrs. William K. Hamblen and her family donated four and a half acres of land to the trustees for a new Salado school site. There was an urgent need for this since the Salado College had burned for the third time and was not to be rebuilt. It was at the college site that village students attended school. When the school burned, they went to classes in the various churches in the village. According to historical records, there was a two-story rock home of the current school site and was the home of the Hamblens. This gift was given in memory of Mr. Hamblen, a Church of Christ minister, trustee of the Salado schools for 20 years and a trustee of the Salado College.

The two-story red brick school was built in 1924 and the first students entered in January 1925. It was used for all grades until 1967 when the Thomas Arnold Elementary school opened and thereafter the Main Street building was used only as a secondary school until January 1980 when the students moved to the new campus on Thomas Arnold Road.

New tax law makes year-end gifting more attractive

Part 1 of 2
As the end of the year approaches, many individuals begin to think about giving assets to others. The last quarter of the year is traditionally the time people start thinking about making holiday gifts or using gifting as a strategy for year-end tax planning. And, in light of recent increases in tax rates, many more individuals may turn to charitable giving this year as a way to control their tax bills.
If you're considering gifting assets for the tax advantages, you should be aware that the recipient of the assets is significant for tax-planning purposes. When classified by recipient, there are really two types of gifts: gifts to charity and gifts to individuals.

Mike Miller

Charitable Gifts
The tax deduction allowed for charitable gifts makes this type of giving a popular year-end tax-planning strategy. If you gift assets to charity, that gift will result in a current income tax deduction, generally equal to their fair market value of the gifted asset. In general, you may claim that value as an itemized deduction within limits that vary depending on the type of asset (cash, stock, etc.). For instance, if you contribute cash to charity, your deduction may not exceed what amounts to 50% percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI) for the year in which you make the gift. If you gift long-term capital gain property (i.e. property you've held for more than one year), such as stock. Your deduction of the fair market value of that stock cannot exceed 30 percent of your AGI for that year.

Gifts to Individuals
Gifting assets to another person, such as a family member, won't get you a current income tax deduction. However, this strategy still offers tax benefits. Particularly if you're concerned about the effect that taxes may ultimately have on your estate. Giving away assets removes their value from your estate and potentially lessens your estate's exposure to estate taxes. In addition, gifting those assets means that you will no longer have to report and pay taxes on the income those assets generate.

During your lifetime, you may gift up to $10,000 per person per year ($20,000 if you're married and your spouse agrees to gift splitting). Gifts to your spouses are unlimited. You need not report gifts less than this amount to the IRS, and you will owe no gift tax. In addition to the annual exclusion, you may give up to $600,000 cumulatively during your lifetime. If you opt not to gift during your life, your estate may transfer up to $600,000 free from estate taxes upon your death.

Develop your Gifting Strategy Early
Gifting can be a very effective component of an individual's year-end tax-planning efforts. However, it is a strategy that requires a reasonable amount of time to prove worthwhile. If you're planning to gift assets before year-end with the hope of receiving the tax benefits, start early. Work with your accountant, investment broker or other financial professional to identify opportunities for using this potentially valuable strategy.

The annual meeting of the Salado Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for 7 p.m. Oct. 11, in the high school library, according to an announcement from chamber president Denver Mills.

Mills noted that the annual meeting is actually a general membership meeting during which a slate of potential nominees to the board of directors is selected. The nominating committee, chaired by Pete Jennings, past president of the chamber, will present a list of candidates for election to the chamber board. Nominations from the floor may also be added. The complete roster of nominees is then mailed to all members with the top four vote winners taking office on January 1, 1994 for three year terms.

Outgoing directors who have served the past three years include: Glenda Hill, Jim Pringle, Geneva Aiken and Ken Clapp.

Directors who are completing their second year on the board include Steven Ervin, Dave Gardner, Stewart Smith and Cathy Sands. Freshmen members include: Dr. Wayne Baden, Jap Barrett, Bill Heath and Wylene Williams.

Voting for the four new members will be done by mail and following a canvassing committee count during the first week in November, the new members of the board of directors will be announced in the Salado Village Voice following the Nov. 8 meeting of the board.

Eagles shut-out Moody, 31-0

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

The Salado Eagles owned the fourth quarter in their homecoming battle with the moody Bearcats.

The Eagles also owned the first, second and third quarters as the Big Red Machine rolled on for another shut-out. And blow-out, 31-0.

But this is nothing new for Salado fans, who have watched Salado outscore their opponents by a total of 160-47.

Salado starting scoring on the Bearcats, who beat Salado in 1992 before a Moody homecoming crowd, with a 34-yard field goal by Andrew Voelter.

Richard Berumen added an 8-yard touchdown in the second period. Voelter's point-after gave the Eagles a 10-0 lead at halftime.

Shawn Easley dove for a two yard touchdown in the third period, followed by Voelter's PAT to give Salado a 17-0 lead.

The Eagles scored twice in the final period of play on a 14-yard touchdown run by Jason Hosch and Berumen's second touch-down of the night.

Voelter was good on both PATs to give Salado its final lead of 31-0.

The Eagles offense devoured 408 yard of turf, 366 yards on 47 carries and 42 yards on 3 pass completions by Richard Jackson.

Berumen carried 13 times on the night for 110 yards, followed by Jason Hosch with 10 carries for 82 yards and Jeremy Hosch, with 7 carries for 51 yards.

Chris Duzich added 38 yards on 5 carries while Easley and Richard Jackson each carried four times for 32 yards.

Salado averaged 7.79 yards per carry and 14 yards per completion. With offense like that, Salado will continue its winning ways.

The Salado defense also performed well, causing five turnovers and holding the Bearcats to just 99 yards rushing on 36 carries and 38 yards on five pass completions.

Fans can expect the Eagles to soundly defeat the

CAC holds auditions for children's play Oct. 14-15

The Cultural Activities Center has planned auditions for "Mr. Scrooge," a children's musical theatre production directed by noted children's theatrical director Paul Blackstock. Auditions will be held 4 p.m. Oct. 14 and 15 at the CAC.

The production will be open to all children currently in grades 4-7. There are 23 speaking parts and a number of chorus parts. Between 30 and 40 members will be chosen to participate and there are no fees of any kind associated with the production.

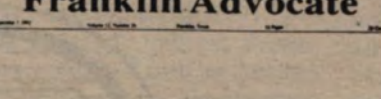

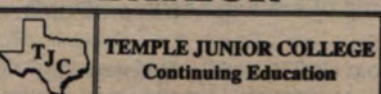

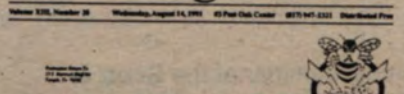

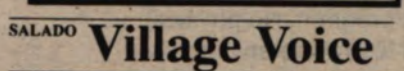

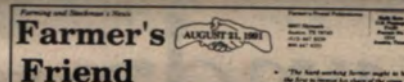

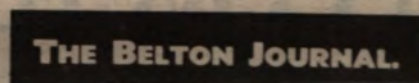

Rehearsals for this full-scale musical production will begin Oct. 16 and continue weekly through performances on Dec. 4-5. at the CAC. Audition materials can be obtained by calling the CAC at 773-9926.

"Mr. Scrooge" is a delightful musical comedy based on the Charles Dickens classic "A Christmas Carol." Full of singing and dancing, this production will be a great experience for children who wish to participate in musical theatre.

Along with Assistant Director Sue Cornan, Blackstock has planned an outstanding production which will celebrate the Christmas spirit and surely be on of the highlights of the Christmas season.

Florence Buffaloes 8 p.m. Oct. 8 in Florence. While the Eagles sharpen their talons on the Buffaloes, who are having another rough year, they should work on ball-handling and cleaning up the game.

Salado turned over the ball on two fumbles and an interception. The Eagles were also called 8 times for 80 yards in penalties (almost as much yardage as the Bearcats could muster on the ground).

Getting a handle on the ball and yellow flags will make the Eagles a force to be reckoned with in district play.

Fortunately, Salado will have home field advantage against both its toughest opponents: Liberty Hill on Oct. 15 and Thorndale on Oct. 29.

JV Eagles beat Moody

The Salado Junior Varsity Eagles trounced the Moody Bearcats 28-12 for their fourth win of the year.

The Eagles started out with a 60 yard touchdown run in the first quarter William Culp. Lyn Gillespie scored in the second quarter on a 1 yard touchdown dive to give Salado a 14-6 lead at half-time.

William Culp scored in the third quarter on a 60 yard touchdown jaunt, followed by Rusty Wasik's 1 yard touchdown in the fourth quarter to give Salado its final lead of 28-12.

Leading the Eagles defense were Wasik and David Berumen with 12 tackles each. Other defensive stand-outs were Cody Hall, Chris Brown, Justin Hodge and Kirk Salisbury.

8th Graders
The Salado 8th Grade Eagles fell to the Moody Bearcats in the final minutes of their contest last week.

Moody scored in the first quarter but failed to convert the extra point to take a 6-0 lead at halftime.

Cortney Dodge caught a touchdown pass from Paul Mashburn early in the third quarter. Mashburn connected again with Dodge for the two-point conversion to give Salado an 8-6 lead going into the final period.

Moody scored with only a minute left in the game to secure the win, 14-6.

Defensive stand-out for the young Eagles was David Kirk. Salado 8th Graders now have a 1-3 record.

7th Graders

The Salado 7th Graders beat Moody last week, 14-6 to up their record to 3-1.

The Eagles converted on a 30-yard drive in the first quarter with a Taylor Hutton 3-yard touchdown run. Hutton ran for the extra point.

Josh Lee ran a reverse for 30 yards to Moody's 5 yard line in the third quarter. Mark Weddell ran for a 4 yard touchdown, but the extra point failed.

Defensive stand-outs were John McLaughlin, Chris Michna, Taylor Hutton and Micha Drake.

According to coaches, the team played aggressive football and the line did a good job of blocking.

Salado junior varsity and junior high teams face the Florence Buffaloes Oct. 7 at Eagle Field.

Miller tells tale of Bill Longley, old west

Rick Miller shared stories about badmen Sam Bass, John Wesley Hardin, Ben Thompson and Bill Longley with the Salado Lions Club at their recent luncheon meeting.

Miller told Lions how Saladoan Alfred Evans went looking for Longley after he killed Evans' former slave Green Evans in Evergreen.

Capt. Evans went to Giddings to get justice but was unable to find none, nor was he able to find Longley, who would later claim to have killed 32 people during the mean days of Reconstruction.

"A lot of the gunmen of this era were not thieves or robbers, but young men who would strap on a gun, drink whiskey and raise Cain," Miller said.

After a stint in the Cavalry and desertion (twice) from the Cavalry, Longley came back to Texas.

Longley claims to have been hung for a killing, but survived because the rope broke. "This was hanging number one," Miller said.

So Longley comes back to Salado with a bad case of the measles, but finds that his family has left town, Miller said.

He is captured in Louisiana and taken back to Texas to be tried for murder. He is found guilty and sentenced to hang by the neck until dead.

He is sentenced to hang on Oct. 11, 1878.

"Longley goes up the steps of the gallows, asks for forgiveness and has the rope put over his head," Miller said. "The trapdoor drops, the ropes slips on the beam and his feet hit the ground. This was hanging number two."

"So, they haul him back up and let him hang for 11 minutes," Miller continued.

"Jim Brown puts Bill Longley's body in a sack and buries him in the Giddings cemetery.

"Campbell Longley said in the Belton Journal 10 years later that it was a hoax, that a box of rocks was buried in Giddings and Bill Longley now lived in South America," Miller said.

Some believe that Campbell Longley lied to the Belton Journal to keep Bill's memory alive for his mother, Sarah Longley, who died in 1890.

To find an answer whether or not Bill Longley survived three hangings, the Smithsonian Institute excavated eight graves in the pauper's area of the Giddings Cemetery.

"Of those eight graves excavated, none were filled with rocks," Miller said. "But none showed evidence of having a broken neck, so the myth lives on."

The Salado Lions will meet again 11:30 Oct. 6 at Mill Creek Dining Room.

First State Bank now open in Salado

First State Bank, Temple's locally owned independent bank announced today that its merger with Salado National Bank has been consummated. Effective Oct. 1, the former banking location of Salado National Bank at Main Street and Thomas Arnold Road reopened as a full service bank branch of First State Bank. The bank is staffed by the former employees of Salado National and its house of operation remains unchanged.

Donald R. Grobowsky, president and chief executive officer of First State Bank, noted "This merger will not disrupt any of the banking services which Salado National customers have enjoyed and is believed to offer even greater banking services and convenience for our new and existing customers." Grobowsky further noted: "The acquisition of locally based, independent Salado National Bank is consistent with our goal of expanding into additional attractive markets in the Central Texas area."

This further expansion effort by First State Bank has increased its Central Texas banking network to five full service banking offices. In June 1992, a full service branch facility was opened in downtown Temple at 402 N. Main and in October 1992, a full service bank opened in downtown at 233 Live Oak. First State Bank also maintains a Chilton office in Falls County which is located at 111 6th St. The Bank's main offices are at 5550 SW H.K. Dodgen Loop in Temple.

After the Salado National Bank merger on Sept. 30, 1993, First State Bank has $77,800,000 in total assets, $43,250,000 in net loans, $68,700,000 in total deposits and $5,150,000 in total stockholders' equity.

Great Example
The creation of the civic center as a modern renovation project is a fine example of a community working together for a common goal. Despite the years of indecision as to the final use for the Main Street school building there were leaders within the community and especially the chamber of commerce that could see a better use for the edifice than having it stand alone and lonely on Main Street, an eyesore that was slowly disintegrating.

From the chamber and the village came the direction and leadership and money to make the dream of a new civic center come true,

If time and space were not so prohibiting, it would be possible to list everyone that has had a hand in creating the new multi-functional building. Suffice it to say that it was and is a community-wide effort and thanks have to go to hundreds. It is an example of what can be done in a small unincorporated village without the direction and interference of an elected government;

On Saturday, Oct. 9, a brand new civic center will be open complete with the Salado Public Library, the Salado Chamber of Commerce, a visitors center and the new home of the Salado Historical Society.

Amendment Three

Amendment three deals with only a few people in just two counties but will correct an injustice and should be approved. Seems that back in 1824, Stephen F. Austin was handing out land grants to settlers willing to come to Texas. Mexico owned the land and Austin was given permission to bring 300 families to a new colony in what is now East Texas. One of the leagues of land (4,428 acres) thus granted was partially abandoned and returned to Mexico. When the revolution came the State of Texas took over, and the land in question, located in both Austin and Fort Bend Counties, was sold. Taxes have been paid and generations of some families have lived on some of the land without dispute until an oil lease was being considered and the defect found. The State's General Land Office claims it belongs to the state while the owners claim their rights as possessors for the past 150 years. It would take a gaggle of Philadelphia lawyers to untangle the mess. Those in the know say it would end up with the land remaining in the hands of those who have held the land and paid taxes for years. In order to keep away from the expense of lengthy court battles the matter has now come before the people since the state cannot give away "public land" without permission of the voters. In this case the term "public land" is in question. Recommend this amendment be passed to settle the 1824 dispute once and for all. Save the owners and the state a bundle in legal fees and besides it appears to be the right thing to do.
