Preservation Week May 14-20

Historical Society plans May 4 meeting to discuss protecting district

Salado residents are encouraged to take time to review efforts of individuals and groups to identify, protect, preserve, and promote the history of our village during the week of May 14-20 which has been designated as National Historic Preservation Week.

The theme of Historic Preservation Week for 1995 is "Real People, Real Places, Real History."

In preparation for Historic Preservation Week, the Salado Historical Society is sponsoring an open meeting 6:30 p.m. May 6 at the Salado Civic Center to discuss historic preservation in Salado.

The meeting will address the history of the Salado

Historic District, the present state of the Historic District and methods to preserve the Historic District.

Voluntary guidelines were adopted by the Salado Historical Society and endorsed by the Salado Chamber of Commerce for the Historic District. The guidelines address new construction, signs and renovations within the Historic District, which includes Main St., Royal St., Victorian Oaks, Center Circle and other parts of the village.

The meeting is open to the public with light refreshments at 6:30 p.m., followed by the 7 p.m. program.

Real People

The Real People being memorialized this year are those whose photographs and biographies are displayed in the Salado Historical Society room in the Civic Center.

These Real People are: Col. Herman Aiken, Rev. George W. Baines, Sr., Louzelle Rose Barclay, Dr. Welborn Barton, Judge Paine Lee Bush, Cyrus Eastland, Thomas Jefferson Eubanks, Herbert Herrick Fletcher, William Earl Guest, Capt. Robert Bonner Halley, Elizabeth Pace Hodges, Dr. Samuel J. Jones, Dr. Carroll Kendrick, Col. Paul Kinnison, James Coleman Nichols, John Wesley Pace.

Maj. Gen. Thomas R. Rampy, Elijah Sterling C. Robertson, Maj. Archibald J. Rose, Hugh McNeill Sherrill, Levi Tenney Judge O. T. Tyler, Dion Van Bibber, Ruth Walker Van Bibber and Archibald C. Willingham.

Real Places

Real Places to be noted and appreciated are those designated sites around Salado where historical markers are located or which are well known to local historians but are not as yet marked, such as Old Salado Park Table Rock and Blue Hole on Salado Creek, and Campbell Branch.

A variety of types of markers are to be found namely Salado Landmark Awards, Texas Historical Commission, both subject and site markers, National Register of Historic Places, Texas State Centennial markers, and contemporary Markers designed erected by individuals or groups.

Historical markers to be found on Main Street include the James Anderson ago and went on its way to the House where it will need at least 100 eyes to pass muster since this is a Constitutional Amendment proposal that would repeal most of the current Homestead Protection Laws. Most legislative ob-

Masons plan May 7 Open House

Salado Masonic Lodge will hold an open house May 7, according to an announcement made by Joseph Lanthier, the Master of the Lodge. The Lodge is located on Church Street, behind the First State Bank.

The public is cordially invited to attend and view the lodge room and its unusual furniture and equipment, much of it looking exactly the same as it looked when Masonry first came to Texas in the early 1830's. Light refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Salado Masonic Lodge was founded in 1867, and has been in its present location since 1961. The lodge has a membership of Many local area leaders have been members of Salado Masonic Lodge over the years. Some of the best known include A.J. Rose, G. W. Tyler, and E.S.C. Robertson.

Although it is impossible to determine exactly when the first Masons came to Texas, we do know that Ben Milam came to the Tejas country about 1818, and General Zebulon Pike led an expedition into the area a few years later. Both were Masons.

By the 1830's, numerous Masons had come to the area from both Mexico and the United States. Antonio Navarro, Lorenzo de Zavala and Juan Seguin joined others like Stephen F. Austin, Anson Jones and Sam Houston in forming lodges. The first lodge was formed at Brazoria in 1835, and in the same year, the Grand Lodge of Louisiana authorized lodges at Houston, Nacogdoches and San Augustine.

In 1837, those first three lodges formed the Grand Lodge in the Senate Chambers of the new Republic of Texas, with General Sam Houston as the presiding officer, and a total of 27 members. Anson Jones, later to be the last President of the Republic, was elected the first Grand Master. Today, Texas Masonry has over 180,000 members and 954 lodges.

The incoming Master was asked, "What is Freemasonry?"

He answered: "Basically, it is a society of friends and brothers, banded together for their common good and the good of mankind--men who want to become better men. It's a voluntary organization, and does not solicit membership, but any man can make his interest known, and if he believes in God, and is basically a good man to start with, can become a Mason.

"Freemasonry developed from the stone masons of the Middle Ages, and although Masons do not work in stone, they work on the lives of men, and use the stone mason's tools as symbols to teach Masonic philosophy. The terms "acting on the square" and "being on the level," are purely Masonic terms that have crept into our every day language.

"Although old by modern standards, Masonry isn't nearly as old as some would claim. The oldest Masonic document dates to just before 1400 A.D., or about 600 years. Early Masonry struggled for some 300 years, and then, in 1717, in London, several lodges got together and formed the first Grand Lodge. That was actually the true beginning of Masonry as we know it.

Freemasons work very hard to help people in time of need through the Shrine Crippled Childrens Hospitals; the Bums Institutes, George Tyler was an early Salado Mason and Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

Texas' incredible Scottish Rite Hospital for Children at Dallas; the Scottish Rite Learning Centers for dyslexic children; the many, many scholarships; the Grotto's dental care for the handicapped--all contribute to a better life for everybody.

Some of the world's greatest men have been and are Masons: George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, Norman Vincent Peale, Gerald Ford, Mark Twain, Astronaut Buzz Aldrin - 35 Texas Governors, all of the Presidents of the Republic of Texas many, many others.

As each of them would say, "Masonry has but one aim: the improvement of mankind."

34th annual Readers, Writers Roundtable set Apr. 30

The Central Texas Area Museum, Inc. will hold the 34th Annual Readers and Writers Roundtable on Sunday, April 30, 1995 at 2:00p.m. at the museum. The museum is located on Main Street Salado, across from the historic Stagecoach Inn. The public is invited to attend and meet several Texas authors who will be there to spotlight their works. Suggested donation to attend this program is two dollars per person.

Among the featured speakers is writer and columnist A.C. Greene of Salado. He will be reading and discussing excerpts from his latest work, 900 miles on the Butterfield Trail. Mr. Greene, an award winning author and historian, has written numerous articles and books on various Texas subjects. He recently received the T.R. Fehrenbach book award from the Texas Historical Commission.

Janice Woods Windle, author of the best selling novel True Women, will be discussing the family connections and research methods involved in bringing her epic tale of early Texas to readers world wide. She is currently the president of the El Paso

Community Foundation, a position she has held since 1977.

Ma's in the Kitchen: You'll know when its done! Is the title of the most recent work by Carl McQueary of Salado. The biographical cookbook outlines the life and times of the first woman Governor of Texas. It also features over 300 of her actual down-home Texas recipes. Mr. McQueary is director of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas Museum in Austin. He is also a member of the Texas Historical Commission.

Two special exhibits will be featured by the museum during the Roundtable. The University of Mary Hardin Baylor will beshowcasing their new book on the Sesquicentennial of the University. Dr. Jerry Bawcom will be on hand to discuss the project. Colonel Sam Floca, retired, military historian, will be exhibiting works related to his research into the military history of the United States.

For more information about the museum or the readers and Writers Roundtable, please call Mrs. Sterling C. Robertson at the museum, 817 947-5401.

Saladoans will have a splendid opportunity to meet, listen to and visit with, the various candidates running for the three places on the school board, tomorrow evening. Time: 7 p.m. and place: Salado Civic Center's auditorium.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the special event and has asked Jean Tarbutton to act as moderator. Tarbutton is a former board member and plans to allow each candidate time to give an introductory statement on his or her background and reasons for running for the important office of trustee. Each candidate will also be asked to respond to several pre-selected questions. All this will be followed, time permitting, by an audience question and answer session. Whole thing should be over, hopefully, by about 8:30 p.m.

Saladoans have traditionally taken great interest in their schools. Proud of faculty and student achievements - both on and off the playing fields - and willing to pay their fair share of the cost of education. This is not a good time to change those attitudes due to the challenges that are immediately in front of us in the district.

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

We have seen much growth in recent years and more is predicted to be on the way. We will need more classrooms and more teachers and all that costs money.

To lead us in the days ahead we will need strong trustees who can work as a unit and together with their administrative and teaching staffs, plan effectively and cost consciously to meet the needs of a growing community.

Eight citizens have volunteered their services and we should thank each of them for their interest. From this group we must wisely select three to serve on the board. In order to make these important decisions we have been given an excellent chance to meet the candidates, one-on-one, tomorrow evening. We need to be present and not let others attend to our civic responsibilities and obligations for us.

Voting is already underway in the school administration's business office. Election day is Saturday, May 6, in the school cafeteria.

Hatred In Our Times

Who among us will ever be able to forget the picture of the fireman gently carrying a little child from the rubble of the bombed Oklahoma City federal building? The baby died and the fireman along with his brave associates continued to search for others they hoped might still be alive.

That picture is the stuff from which Pulitzer Prizes are awarded. The scene should remind us of the fragility of life and the end result of blind, unreasoning hatred.

We do not know for certain what motivated the madmen who created this hellish scene in Oklahoma but there appears to be a strain of hatred splashed across all preliminary accounts.

Hatred of our government in particular in this case, but for those who hate there is never a shortage of things to be against. Hate groups with their extreme and fanatical far right views are among us daily. They are growing and they are armed!

We need to be careful that we do not allow these same types to take over our political system - per

And what Forrest Gump has done is follow the tide through the latter 20th century, from the football field to the battlefield, from the company of Presidents to the clutches of the media, into the arms of his one true love.

Wallace named to Conference on Aging

Aliceanne Wallace of Belton, Texas, was recently named by Congressman Chet Edwards as a delegate to the 1995 White House Conference on Aging (WHCOA) to be held May 2-5, in Washington, D.C. The 1995 WHCOA is the fourth such conference in history and the last of this century. More than 2,250 delegates from all 50 states and the U. S. territories will gather at the Washington Hilton Hotel in May to develop resolutions which will shape aging national policy over the next decade. Texas has been permitted approximately 90+ delegates.

The theme of the Conference is, "America Now and Into the 21st Century: Generations Aging Together with Independence, Opportunity, and Dignity."

The agenda consists of four issues: 1) Assuring Comprehensive Health Care Including Long Term Care, 2) Promoting Economic Security, 3) Maximizing Housing and Support Service Options, and 4) Maximizing Options for a Quality Life.

Two cross-cutting concerns pervade the agenda and will influence discussions at the Conference. These are: 1) interdependence among generations and among members of extended families, and the responsibility of individuals to plan for changes that will occur throughout their life; 2) unique contributions and needs of special populations, especially veterans, caregivers (including grandparents), rural elderly, women, minorities and individuals with disabilities.

Wallace is Vice Chair of the Texas Department on Aging Board, Regional Coordinator over four congressional districts in the AARP/VOTE program, president of the Texas Silver Haired Legislature Foundation, an active member of the Bluebonnet Club and City Federation of Women's Clubs, both of Temple, and both affiliated with the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, as well as a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee. She is listed in the current Who's Who in the South and Southwest and the soon-to-be-published Who's Who in American Women.

"I am excited to have this opportunity to represent older Texans at the 1995 WHCOA," says Wallace. "Our work in 'Washington in May' will help to define a national aging policy for our country. The follow-through to implement policy is also an extremely important part of the process."

Eagles undefeated in first half of district after wins over Lexington, Academy

The Salado Eagles rolled over the Lexington Eagles April 18 by a 10-0 score. The route was mainly because Lexington pitchers had trouble finding the strike zone.

Six of the first seven Salado batters received walks. Singles by Chris Frazier and Shawn Easley and an error by the Lexington second baseman accounted seven first inning Salado runs.

Salado scored one run in the second inning. Jereme Hosch walked and stole second. He was driven home on a single by his brother Jason.

The Eagles added single runs in both the fourth and fifth innings to end the game due to the ten run rule.

Chris Frazier drove in the fourth inning run and Jereme Hosch the fifth inning run.

Easley and Jereme Hosch both collected two hits on the night. Frazier pitched the complete game for the Eagles. He allowed four hits and struck out five on the night.

On April 21, Salado made a clean sweep of the first round of district games. The Eagles defeated Academy 18-5. As in several other district contests, the inability of the opponents pitcher to throw strikes greatly aided Salado's offensive output.

The Eagles scored one run in the first inning without the aid of a base hit. Salado seemingly put the game away in the top of the second with nine runs. The Academy pitcher walked six batters in the inning, but Salado collected several key hits in the inning. Jerome Peoples had a single, while Shawn Easley and Brent Cabaniss both doubled. William Culp had a single and a grand slam home run in the inning.

After jumping out to a 10-0 lead and having not played in a close game in about a month the Eagles relaxed a little too much in the bottom of the second. After Salado pitcher Josh Goodnight struck out the first two Academy batters, the Eagle defense committed four errors to allow five unearned runs.

With the lead cut in half

Salado came back with two runs in the top of the third. Jereme Hosch walked and stole second and third and scored on an overthrow of third base. Jason Hosch walked, stole second and score on Chris Frazier's double.

The Eagles regained total control of the game with six more runs in the fourth inning. Salado again benefited from four walks by Academy. Delivering big hits in the inning were Chris McGregor with a single, Goodnight with a double and Jason Hosch with a home run.

William Culp went 2 for 2 on the night and was the only Eagle to collect more than one hit. Goodnight pitched the first three innings for Salado and collected the win. He allowed two hits and struck out six. Jereme Hosch pitched the last two innings He did not allow a hit and struck out four.

The J.V. baseball team tied Lexington on April 18, with four last inning runs. Vinny Michna led the way with two hits. On April 21, the J.V. pounded out 16 hits to defeat Academy 21-1 Roger Buckley collected 4 hits, Drew Oldham had 3 while Paul Mashburn, Chad Kiphart, and Courtney Dodge all added 2 apiece.

Vaccinate Dogs For Lyme Disease

Pet owners who live near wooded areas, and even those who occasionally visit the woods and forest with their dogs, should have their pets vaccinated for Lyme disease — and the earlier the better. At a recent meeting of the American Veterinary Medical Association Dr. Steven A. Levy, of Durham, Connecticut reported on a study of the Lyme disease vaccine.

The vaccine was introduced in 1990 and, according to Dr. Levy, has proven effective in protecting pets from the disease. The vaccine is not only effective in protecting dogs that have not been infected from the disease, but even dogs that have been infected with Lyme Disease may benefit from the vaccine.

"With most vaccines you wouldn't expect protection in the animals already infected — but with this vaccine, antibodies can be produced in dogs already infected," Dr. Levy said. The vaccine was effective in about 58% of previously infected dogs.

Lyme disease is the most common tickborne illness affecting both dogs and human beings. It was first discovered in the Northeastern U.S. in 1975 and became endemic to the area. Today, the disease can be found in the northern Midwest, Pacific Northwest and in northern California — and it continues to spread.

According to Dr. Levy, a 1988 study in northern California indicated that 40-50% of dogs in the area had been infected with Lyme disease. The disease is emerging in new areas, including Missouri and parts of eastern Texas. Lyme disease has been reported in 46 of the 50 states.

Both people and dogs can get Lyme disease when they are bitten by infected ticks. In people, the bite usually results in a rash. The rash may be followed by severe neurologic, cardiac, or arthritic symptoms. Dogs that are bitten most often show signs of lameness and in some cases may suffer kidney damage.

If it is detected early, Lyme disease can be treated with antibiotics, which are effective in about 85% of the cases. Even when the disease is treated successfully, it may flare up again later.

Dr. Levy recommends that dogs who spend any time at all in wooded areas be vaccinated as part of their puppy series of vaccinations. Dog owners should discuss the disease and the need and advisability of vaccination with their veterinarian.

Salado traces roots to Panic of 1819

You might say Salado was born out of disaster, for it was the financial Panic of 1819 that propelled large numbers to search for their Shangri-La in the West.

It was Stephen F. Austin, our capital's namesake, who brought the first families to Texas. But those who were left behind clamored for a chance to find their new homes beyond the western horizon.

Sterling C. Robertson gave them that chance. He obtained land grants from Mexico and offered homesteaders this new land in the Bravos River Valley 200 miles long and 100 miles wide and was originally termed the Nashville Colony and later called Robertson's Colony. By 1835 Robertson had imported more than 270 families and 100 single men and some 200 families came later. They came from Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. Some 30 counties in Texas were carved out of this land grant.

But of those who came, relatively few chose Salado as their home. In fact, old records show that in 1850 only "57" whites settled along the 35-mile stretch of Salado Creek, about six per mile. The hundreds of bold, clear, bubbling springs on the Salado Creek at the crossing of the old military road, later the stage route which connected with the Butterfield Stage Line across the state and now Interstate 35, were well known long before the organization of the county. It had been a favorite camping place for the Tonkawa Indians for ages past.

So far as is known, the first white settler in what is now Salado was an old man, Archibald Willingham, who with his two sons, Jack and Wilson, and J.C. Ballard, was residing there as early as the fall of 1851. It is said that the Indians and these early settlers believed the spring water of Salado Creek to hold "special curative powers".

Colonel E. Sterling C. Robertson, the son of Sterling C. Robertson, after serving in his father's Ranger Company and as assistant Postmaster General for the Republic of Texas, State Senator and Secretary of the Senate moved to Salado and was married in 1852. He and his bride moved into the old Willingham cabin at first and later Robertson built a 22-room, Classic-Revival plantation which still stands today.

Other stately homes were to follow like that of Dr. B. D. McKie built in 1867. It consisted of 15 rooms, six fireplaces and 22 inch thick walls. There was also the grand Tyler House owned by Salado's first Mayor, Judge O.T. Tyler and the Barton House built by Dr. Welborn Barton.

Today, these homes all bear Historical Markers and students of architecture still study these contributions to the field. Salado rests halfway between Waco and Austin and it became a natural rest stop for stagecoach lines. Obviously needed was an established town and something to insure its future. At a "tent meeting" called October 8, 1859 to discuss the problem, Robertson donated 100 acres for a town and a college.

From this point on, the history of Salado is so intertwined with that of the college it is difficult to tell of one without telling of the other.

At the tent meeting a joint stock company was organized, the land surveyed into blocks, lots and streets by Colonel Hermon Aiken and Major A.J. Rose. Some of the land was sold that fall and winter.

On February 8, 1860, the Texas Legislature passed 'an act incorporating Salado College for a period of twenty years. In the meantime a temporary school building had been erected and plans drawn for a stone building for the college. Families began moving into the new town at once and houses were being built... some of logs, some of local limestone and a few others of pine lumber hauled from mills near Bastrop. Cypress logs were hauled from Houston by slaves and hewn on the sites at Salado.

The village not only grew in quantity but in quality. Many of the early families were people of education and refinement and all were appreciative of the value to their children of good schools and good society.

They were a sober, honest, industrious and intelligent group who gave to their beautiful little town a reputation for a high character that was unsurpassed by any community of the state. The Salado residents were determined that their children be raised and educated in the best environment possible. This is exemplified by the resolution made by the Board of Trustees of Salado College at a meeting held November 18, 1859. It read: "The said board urge upon the legislature the insertion of a clause inhibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors, the keeping of billiard saloons and ten pin alleys on the land donated by E. Sterling C. Robertson for college purposes and for as great a distance around the same as Practicable, in the act of incorporating the same".

The testimony of a soldier who passed through the town in July, 1869, may indicate something of the attitude of the people of Salado: "The village of Salado is particularly impressed upon my mind as being the first teetotal "sure enough", total abstinence village that I ever visited".

But in 1870, temperance was put to the test and as you might suspect, temperance was the victor.

It seems that things were going well in Salado.

The town was flourishing; the College was growing and peace and contentment were a way of life. But the people of Salado were no different than people anywhere and as often happens they became complacent and while they were enjoying the good life without the evils of whiskey, those persons representing whiskey were playing politics.

Before you could say "cheers", the entire Bell County including Salado was declared "WET" and before their astonished eyes the man with the saloon had come.

The city fathers talked, pleaded and demanded that the saloon-keeper take his den of iniquity elsewhere but to no avail. And unfortunately the young men in town were drawn like a moth to a flame, mostly out of curiosity.

When all attempts to close the saloon failed, six women who met weekly in a Mother's Prayer Meeting, met, prayed and decided on a plan to close the saloon. They knew the man had a legal right to a saloon in Salado, but they also knew that if he couldn't get any customers he would have to leave.

So they worked in sets of two, each set working a shift. Two at a time, from daylight to midnight, they would sit in the saloon with their knitting and they knew no man or boy would come in to buy a drink as long as they were there. After one day's vigil, the saloon-keeper closed his doors and there hasn't been another such den in Salado since.

Enrollment in Salado College reached its peak in 1861 when Texas entered the Civil War. Salado's involvement in the war was limited although the people of Salado did spend much of the war procuring supplies for the 'Confederate Army and Captain R. B. Halley organized the Salado Mounted Troops, which later joined the first contingency of Confederate soldiers from Bell County, at his home in Salado.

Perhaps the only time alcohol was prevalent in Salado was during the Civil War when Alexander's Distillery, which bears a historical marker, was reopened by Governor Francis R. Lubbock to produce alcohol strictly for medicinal purposes for wounded Confederate soldiers.

After the war, Salado did not feel the sharp pains of reconstruction. The economy was improving and there were eight mills on Salado Creek. Well-known was the Davis Mill which had wool carding machinery and machinery for grinding grain and ginning cotton. The Historical Marker states that Davis never charged a widow for grinding her corn into meal.

Salado was prospering and the College had an average enrollment of 250 students. The first circulating library was formed at the College as well as the state's first two literary societies. It is not surprising that Salado was often called the "Athens of Texas".

Founding

The Stagecoach Inn, built by W. B. Armstrong in 1852, played an important economic role with such clientele as Stephen F. Austin, General Sam Houston, General Robert E. Lee, Quantro, and Lt. Colonel George Custer. The inn was originally called the Stagecoach Inn but later was changed to the Lone Star Hotel, Shady Villa and finally was called the Stagecoach Inn, the name it bears today. The news of Salado's prosperity was far-reaching and entire families were moving in... Like George Washington Baines and his family. Baines, who taught at Salado College, was a Baptist circuit rider whose great grandson, Lyndon Baines Johnson, would become President of the United States.

Like Major A.J. Rose who was paramount in organizing the first Grange and Grange Store and who would become Grand Master of the Masons and President of the Texas A&M University Board of Directors.

In 1867, the town of Salado was duly incorporated with Judge O. T. Tyler elected Mayor and today Salado might well have been another Austin or Dallas. But just as a depression had spawned its early growth, the Panic of 1873 changed Salado's destiny. Lack of financing caused the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad to stop before it started. When the railroad did finally come, it came no closer than Temple, about 15 miles to the north and Salado's shadows began to lengthen. Its population dropped from 900 in 1882 to 400 by 1914 and about 200 in the late 1960's.

The College, whose charter expired in 1880, retired with a diploma few succeeding institutions can display... twenty years of work without a dime of endowment, all debts paid entirely by student tuition.

In the late 1880's, the College became Thomas Arnold High School, based on the British system of academics. It was organized and headed by Dr. Samuel J. Jones, a graduate of Vanderbilt University and formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Texas. Appropriately, the high school produced a Rhodes Scholar.

While in the Army, Mr. Dion Van Bibber and his wife Ruth, lived in Temple and would relax on the banks of Salado Creek on Sundays. They looked longingly at the sagging Stagecoach Inn and could visualize a tea room by the highway.

Ruth's banker advised her against investing in the ramshackled old building but she persisted. That was in 1943 and soon the idea of a tea room had expanded to a dining room and within two years the Stagecoach Inn was among the top 13 restaurants on the Duncan Hines and Gourmet lists.

An underground river flows under Stagecoach Inn feeding the big spring on Salado Creek. The underground river flows beneath a cave which was used by bandit, Sam Bass, as a hideout and also by frontiersmen as protection from Indian raids. During World War II, the cave was designed by the military at Fort Hood as a bomb shelter.

As you stroll through Salado, remember that Salado Creek was designated as Texas' first Natural Landmark by the Texas Historical Society. This award was given only to natural landmarks that are identified with the broad cultural, political, economic, military or social history of Texas. Salado Creek met all this criteria.

Salado Creek was also the site of the first suspension bridge built in Texas and you can still see signs of active commerce by the wagon wheel impressions in certain areas along the creek bed. Remember, too, that there were many great cattle drives from 1866 to 1885 as Salado was situated on a feeder trail of the famous Chisholm Trail. At Salado, the giant herds came right through the heart of town and crossed the Salado Creek at the big boiling spring, just below the present highway bridge.

Salado was also located in the center of the route of the Santa Fe Expedition and much traveled military road where soldiers marched and wagon trains hauled supplies to various forts throughout the states.

But with all the activities that took place in and around Salado, it was not in the cards for the little village to grow into a

Carl McQueary nominated to State Historical Commission by Gov. Bush

Saladoan Carl McQueary is among seven new members nominated to the Texas Historical Commission by Gov. George W. Bush. This commission provides leadership and services to county historical commissions, historical societies and other organizations with an interest in the preservation of historical heritage in Texas. The commission also administers the Federal National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 and directs the state archeological program. Among the new members appointed was Carl R. McQueary of Salado, Texas.

McQueary currently serves as director of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas Museum in Austin. He has been active in the historic preservation movement for many years. Prior to becoming a part of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas organization, he was responsible for the design and creation of the exhibits of Bell County Museum in Belton following a year-long restoration of the 1904 Carnegie building which houses the museum. During his time at Belton he acquired the extensive Governor Miriam Ferguson collection for the museum. This collection, which chronicles the lives of Governor James E. Ferguson and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, is the largest of its kind related to two of Texas most famous political leaders.

McQueary is the author of Ma's In the Kitchen, a biographical cookbook related to Governor Miriam Ferguson which contains her collected recipes and household hints. His latest work is entitled Miriam and is a serious biography of the first woman Governor. It is due to be released June 13, of this year. He is also a contributing author to Texas Heritage magazine.

During his career, McQueary has received numerous awards for his efforts in preserving Texas history. McQueary was recognized as an outstanding historic resource by the State of Texas Cultural and Historical Resources Committee in 1991. He has also been recognized by the Texas Association of Museum and the Texas Historical Commission for outstanding exhibit design and publications while working in the museum field. Mr. McQueary is a two-time graduate of the prestigious Winedale museum seminar.

McQueary noted that the Historical Commission meets quarterly in Austin and other points around the state and will not affect his other civic and work-related duties.

"I've had the opportunity to work in a small way with Mrs. Bush (Laura) and have found both the Bushes to be very gracious and historically minded. I look forward to working on this state commission."

"I also want to thank MaryBelle Brown and Mrs. Boston and other during the nomination process," McQueary said.

Carl McQueary makes his home in Salado with his wife Laura Lee and son Kendall.

McQueary is the son of Walter and Hollie McQueary of Amarillo, Texas. His term expires in 1997.

The Woman's Exchange will host an Herb Festival 10 a.m.-5 p.m. April 29 under the Oak Trees at the shop located on Main St.

Throughout the ages, herbs have been used to heal the sick, nourish the body and soul, aid to beauty, repellent of insects and dye for fabric as quoted in Virginia Matthews Old Time Recipes.

The festival herb growers will have usual and unusual herbs, plants, fresh cut, dried, wreaths, oils, native plants and antique roses.

Judy Barrett, hosts of PBS series, the New Garden and editor of The New Garden Journal will be signing her book Tomatillos: A Garden's Dream, A Cook's Delight.

The Herb Festival will also have handwoven baskets, garden gifts, embellished nests, herb books and fresh herb tea. The herb growers will be on hand to advise and offer suggestion on growing culinary and crafting herbs.

Karen Kinnison will have her handwoven baskets ready to fill with a special gifts for Mother's Day.

Guest herb growers will include Nancy Voight from the Bird's Nest Farm in Georgetown and Paula Hill from Hickory Hill Herbs in Lampasas.

Nancy is a certified Organic Grower and will have fresh cut herbs, kitchen dried blends, fresh herb swages, herb plants, tomato plants, pepper plants, and native plants.

The books from the pen of Susan Albert will be available. Titles include: Thyme & Seasons Herbal Teas and Herbs of the Zodiac.

Batista Shaw, known for her beautiful handmade quilts, will bring handmade lace and ribbon embellished vests and pillows.

Also available will be the latest garden gift...words inscribed in stone. These are used to gift weight to your words, express your sentiments, encourage friends or acknowledge triumphs. Stones and carved limestone bird baths are created by a local artist.

Orders for Saffron corms can be placed during the festival. Saffron is called the Spice of Kings. The rarest of spices, it is sold by the gram. Their corms are sprawling metropolis, even though it had all the prerequisites. . . eternally spring-fed Salado Creek, good farm land, an educational level far superior to its neighboring towns and hardworking, industrious townspeople. The fact remained, the railroads and industries had passed by Salado.

Texas grown, delivery will be in August, complete with instructions. Harvest is in October. Saffron is easy to grow and the ultimate addition to your garden.

It is ironic, but because Salado did not grow and has remained much like it was 140 years ago, today the little Texas village is more attractive to travelers and big-city dwellers. Some say it is sad that Salado never reached great proportions as a major city, but the really sad thing is that all those people screaming past on IH35 and in supersonic jets overhead cannot take the time to stop and enjoy Salado and its people. We think you'll be glad you did.

News of the Churches and people of our village

Work day at Cemetery Apr. 29

The Salado Cemetery Association has scheduled a work day at the cemetery April 29.

This a reminder that each individual or family owning lots in the cemetery or those who have family members buried there are members of the Cemetery Association and are encouraged to help with this clean-up in preparation for our annual Memorial Day Service.

Volunteers should bring hoes, rakes, weed-eaters chain saws, wheel barrows and should wear gloves and protective clothing. Fire ant spray is also needed.

Drinks, refreshments and a place to rest under the trees will be provided by local women.

Christmas flowers should be removed from graves by individuals if they wish to keep them. Otherwise all Christmas arrangements and other faded flower arrangements will be removed.

Owners of lots which are curbed are expected to keep their own lots clean and free of weeds and grass. If you are unable to clean your lot, let members of the Cemetery Board of Trustees and arrangements will be made to clear the lot for you.

The cemetery Association is responsible for keeping the Old Original part of the cemetery and walkways and open spaces.

Donations are welcomed to help defray expenses of keeping the cemetery clean and doing needed repairs. For further information, please call MaryBelle Brown at 947-5331.

Wal-Mart donates to Peacable Kingdom

Wal-Mart Stores has announced a unique donation program to benefit local non-profit organizations. Each time a customer purchases a SAM'S American Choice soda from a vending machine located at our store, five cents will be donated to a local nonprofit organization at the end of each Wal-Mart fiscal quarter.

"The associates of the Belton Wal-Mart are proud to present this check to Peaceable Kingdom Retreat for Children," said Liz Martinez, representative of the Belton store. "The Central Texas area has been very supportive of our company, and Wal-Mart associates are pleased to do everything we can to show we really care."

Stores may change their recipient organization four times during the year (once each quarter). This is an ongoing program for all stores and their communities.

Eagle Network Summer Camp explores space

Students are invited to experience Space via the Eagle Network. Technology and computers will be the connection to explore the realms of space flight and discovery. Thomas Arnold Elementary is offering a Summer Camp for students interested in technology.

The Space Camp will be held June 12-16 at the Thomas Arnold Elementary Computer Lab. Registration fee for the camp is $50. Applications may be picked up at Thomas Arnold Elementary. Due to limited facilities, each session will accommodate 24 students.

Session A will be held 8 a.m.- noon, for grades 3-4. Session B will be held 1-5 p.m. for grades 5-6. An Open House is scheduled for 6-7 p.m., June 16.

Teachers that will be conducting the camp are Betty Gregurek, Terry Summers and Dana Thomas.

Some folks say we lost our innocence as a nation during and after the Vietnam war and now, they further say, we have lost our feeling of being safe and secure following the middle America bombing of a federal building. Only time will tell the full story about these sociological thoughts. In the meantime we need to pray for those who are suffering in Oklahoma. Give great credit to our law enforcement people who quickly found some of the ones who insanely created this disaster. And, work to keep our country from becoming terror-stricken or worse yet - allowing us to lose faith in this great nation of ours.

Home Equity Bill

The Home Equity Bill (SB 301 and SJR 25) introduced by Senator Jerry Patterson (R-Pasadena), passed the upper house, by a vote of 21-10, several days ago and went on its way to the House where it will need at least 100 ayes to pass muster since this is a Constitutional Amendment proposal that would repeal most of the current Homestead Protection Laws. Most legislative observers think passage all but impossible in the lower house - due, in the main, to Speaker Pete Laney's opposition to the idea. Salado's Senator, Bill Sims (D-Paint Rock) was one of the ten who voted against repeal of the homestead laws.

Rep. Debra Danburg (D-Houston) is carrying the bill in the House of Representatives where the current whip count shows an 80-70 split favoring passage - about 20 votes short.

Representative Layton Black, (D-Goldthwaite) Salado's man in the House could not be reached at press time for his comment on how he plans to vote on the equity bill.

This business of allowing Texans to borrow money on their homestead is not new - fact is, the idea surfaces nearly every session thanks to the banking lobby. Texas is the only State in the union to consistently turn down such a law due in large part to the efforts of the Real Estate and Home Builders lobby plus pressure from retired citizens groups.

Fear has always been that by allowing folks to borrow, on their current foreclosure protected homestead, they could at some point in time lose their home and be forced out on the streets. Current law does not allow anyone to borrow on their home equity unless it is to finance construction additions to one's place of residence. By the same token, no one can take your home away from you unless you fail to pay for the additions or for failure to pay state or federal taxes.

There is one section of the proposed law that might just be worth looking at and that is the Reverse Mortgage Provision. In this we find a plan that would allow a family to borrow money on their home equity (normally a family's largest paid-for asset) and have nothing to repay until the home is sold or following the owners death at which time the property would be sold and the debt plus interest paid in full. This gives a family an opportunity to secure a relatively large chunk of cash, at one time, in order to perhaps pay for the outrageously high cost of sending kids to college; taking care of medical expenses or nursing home care; or simply to have the funds paid in equal installments over a long period of time to supplement retirement income.

There seems to be a number of safeguards in the bill and the amount that could be borrowed would be limited to such things as value of the homestead, life expectancy of the borrower and what use the money is to be directed to.

What might be a good idea would be to delete all the provisions in the equity proposal and stick to just the reverse mortgage section. This would preserve the homestead features of our law while allowing homeowners to borrow needed money against equity while at the same time keeping their homes free from being sold until they move, sell or pass away.
