Religion historian Huston Smith will address Institute

Huston Smith, a pioneer in the study of world religions, will make two presentations in Salado, Nov. 1-2.

On Nov. 1, Smith will lead a seminar at the Allen House, 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m., on "The Human Spirit in the Third Millennium." On Nov. 2, he will speak at 4 p.m. at the Mill Creek Country Club on "The Universal Truths of the Great Religions." His lecture will be followed by discussion and a buffet dinner.

The weekend program will be the third event in the fall series on "The Person and the Collective" sponsored by the Institute for the Humanities at Salado.

Smith is the Thomas J. Watson Professor of Religion and Distinguished Adjunct Professor of Philosophy Emeritus, Syracuse University. For the past three years he has served as Visiting Professor of Religious Studies at the University of California, Berkeley.

Born of Methodist missionary parents in China, Smith lived in the town of Soochow until he was 17. His youth in China provided him with a stimulating background for his subsequent interests in comparative philosophies and religions.

Smith's most popular book, The World's Religions, has been for 30 years the most widely-used textbook for courses in world religions with over 1.5 million copies sold. He has published eight other books including, among them, The Search for America, Condemned to Meaning, Forgotten Truth, Beyond the Post-Modern Mind, and Primordial Truth and Postmodern Theology.

Smith has also been a pioneer in engaging the broader public in the humanities through television and film. He produced three series for the Public Broadcasting System while it was still National Educational Television: "The Religions of Man," "The Search for America," and (with Arthur Compton) "Science and Human Responsibility."

His films on Hinduism, Tibetan Buddhism, and Sufism have all won awards at international film festivals. He also produced a phonograph record, "The Music of Tibet," which became an important landmark in the study of music.

Sen. Fraser foresees water as Texas' next problem

by John Eubanks

State Sen. Troy Fraser, who represents Salado in the Texas Senate, believes the area's biggest problem in the coming years will involve water.

"The next 50 years, all of our battles will be over water," he told the Salado Lions Club during its Oct. 22 luncheon at Mill Creek Country Club.

Fraser, who resides in Marble Falls along the Colorado River, believes the control of such a precious resource should be with the citizens living within a particular river basin, for instance, and not outside of it.

As a member of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources, he fought against a plan that would have allowed the cities of San Antonio and Corpus Christi -- "which have not taken care of their water needs," he said -- to divert water from the Colorado and Brazos rivers.

"We blocked that, and it was a big victory," Fraser said.

Bell County, with two large reservoirs in Lake Belton and Stillhouse Hollow, is the largest of the 21 counties in Fraser's 24th District. The district includes about 550,000 citizens and stretches west to Mitchell County (between Abilene and Big Spring), north to Young County (northwest of Fort Worth), south to Burnet County and most of Llano

County and east to Bell County.

His district also includes the state's largest employer: Fort Hood, "the largest military installation in the free world," Fraser pointed out.

As a member of the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs and Military Installations, Fraser has been involved with legislation affecting the area's military personnel and veterans.

He co-sponsored a bill that will allow Texas military personnel stationed overseas to vote as long as their vote is received within a certain time of the election.

Fraser also supported the establishment of four state veterans homes, the first of which will be built in Temple. Fraser said the state has more than 500,000 veterans over 65.

Fraser was also the author of a bill that would make the University of Central Texas, presently a private upper-level college west of Killeen, a public university under the Texas A&M University system.

Fraser, a member of the Senate Committee on Education, supports an alternative -- perhaps a type of consumption tax -- that would replace property taxes as a way to fund local school districts.

"We have to come up with another way to fund schools," Fraser said. "One thing I would like to do away with is property taxes."

He said New Mexico has "a very broad sales tax" that funds education and, he believes, is a lot fairer than Texas' system.

"I fully expect we will address that in the next session (in 1999)," he said.

Among the 14 constitutional amendments up for voter approval Nov. 4 is one that would allow home owners to take out a second lien on their home, for something other than home improvements. (Homeowners will be allowed to only borrow on 80 percent of their home equity, and there will also be a waiting period after applying for the loan.)

IRS: AGENCY WITH AN ATTITUDE

"When all is lost, ask the IRS. They'll find something."
— Doug Horton, humorist.

In America, government is supposed to serve the people. This is our ideal, the essence of democracy. But when the Senate Finance Committee conducted hearings recently looking into practices of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), we learned how far short of that ideal one of our government agencies has fallen.

A steady stream of citizens came forward to recite their Kafkaesque experiences. There was the woman who was hit with $7,000 in back taxes stemming from a divorce, only to discover later that the amount had ballooned to $16,000 while the IRS sent notices only to her former spouse. The committee also heard the sad tale of a contractor who was coerced into paying $50,000 that the IRS assessed his company for taxes owed by a subcontractor.

Even high-ranking employees of the IRS came forward (at some risk to themselves and their careers), telling horror stories of how the agency pressures its employees to meet tax-collection quotas and promotes the use of methods which might be fairly characterized as intimidation. The IRS has encouraged its agents to use liens and levies to collect unpaid taxes, and has promoted them based on the number of successful cases they conclude.

As a result of such aggressive — not to say punitive — policies, nearly 42 percent of the $13.2 billion in IRS penalties assessed last year were eliminated after taxpayers challenged them.

In addition to the high-profile, high trauma cases, many more have reported the frustrating experience of being unable to get a straight answer to a simple question. People don't appreciate the agency's assumption of guilt until a taxpayer is proven innocent. And it is particularly galling that if the taxpayer makes a mistake, he pays interest and penalties, but if the IRS errs, all he gets is a bureaucratic shrug of the shoulders.

Last year Congress enacted the Taxpayer Bill of Rights II. This measure improved the procedural rights of taxpayers in dealing with the IRS. For example, it allows taxpayers who prevail over the IRS in court the opportunity to make a reasonable effort to corroborate the accuracy of disputed information. It also gives the IRS legal authority to lower or eliminate the interest on tax deficiencies and to return improperly seized property to a taxpayer.

But given recent testimony, the agency's methods still need serious revamping. Congress must demand accountability on the part of the IRS, and hold it to the same high standards the agency holds American taxpayers. Responsible oversight is the best way to ensure that not only is the government meeting the needs of the people, but it is the surest way of letting the people know that they have influence over, and a strong voice in, their government.

No honest taxpayer should have to fear an audit. Americans should be confident the IRS will treat them with dignity and respect. That said, it must be pointed out that many, many IRS employees work hard every day at what is a difficult and unpopular task. Rank-and-file IRS employees are not the villains in this case. If the committee hearings made any one unarguable point, it is that our tax system is bewilderingly complex, subject to abuse and flunks the fairness test. As a result of this complexity, many suspect that some among us are not paying their fair share. This attitude will not change until there is a major overhaul of the tax system that accomplishes the goals of simplicity and equity.

In the end, both our tax system and the agency responsible for its operation have to be made to truly serve the people.

Columnist finishes review of 14 proposed constitutional amendments up for Nov. 4 vote

Last week's column examined the first seven of the fourteen amendments that will be decided Tuesday, November 4.

This week we take a look at amendments eight through fourteen paying special attention to number eight which is creating the most excitement since it deals with changing our state constitution in a major way by allowing homeowners to secure loans based on the equity in their homesteads.

Voting at the Salado Civic Center will begin at 7 a.m. on November 4, ending some 12 hours later. Statewide predictions indicate a small turnout except where there are contested local elections.

AMENDMENT EIGHT

Amendment eight would, if passed, allow Texans to borrow money on their homestead equities. Homesteads could be used as collateral and would be subject to foreclosure and forced sale if the owner fails to repay the loan.

Our current constitution, written in 1876, prohibited this practice, allowing foreclosure only for failure to pay first mortgage payments, property taxes or loans created to improve the homestead.

This is a tough subject to tackle. History and tradition have caused many Texans to fear granting financial institutions legal permission to lend money on a homestead equity.

Texas is the last state to hold out in the home equity lending business and currently has the most restrictive homestead protection law in the United States.

In recent years banks have entered new and very green fields of money making. Selling life, health, auto and home insurance plus annuities, stocks, bonds and some have even gone into the travel planning business.

And now we find these very same banks plus savings and loans and other lending agencies, after years of legislative battles in Austin, finally getting an amendment on the ballot that, if passed, would allow these financial groups to lend money using a person's homestead equity as collateral.

To be fair - this particular amendment carries the most stringent of any home equity statutes in the nation. It would limit the amount of money that could be loaned to a homeowner. There would be a "cooling off" period between the time that loans are approved and signed. Even a second rethinking period after signing that gives borrowers several more days to change their minds.

Foreclosure would have to be approved by court order and banks would be required to check carefully into the ability of a person to repay such a loan.

A second feature of this proposed plan would be to allow a "reverse mortgage" which would permit a lender to advance home equity funds to older citizens living on small fixed incomes and have a need for either additional monthly income or for medical care and expenses.

This type loan would be repaid either when the borrower sells the homestead or dies.

The bank involved would then have first call on the sale proceeds to recoup the money advanced plus interest. The remaining money, if any, would go to the estate.

Many consumer groups as well as the Texas AFL-CIO and most realty groups, who have fought against home equity lending over the years, have thrown in the towel this year as they note that public opinion polls statewide indi- cate that homeowners overwhelmingly favor this plan that would allow them to borrow against their equity.

Those of us who grew up during the depression decade of the 30's, will always carry a deep-seated fear of bank failures and people losing their homes through foreclosure sales.

On the other hand perhaps this may just be an old timey worry that has outlived its usefulness. After all, say proponents of the plan, it is their home and their equity and more importantly - their responsibility.

The proposed law has strong safeguards and banks would probably fear the reaction should they do wholesale foreclosures hence they might be less greedy in their lending practices.

There is little doubt that this amendment will pass.

However, this writer cannot, in good conscience, recommend passage of amendment eight, but will leave its future to the good sense of voters along with a fervent prayer that nothing will go wrong in our economic future that would cause decent hard-working people to lose their homes during a recessionary downturn.

AMENDMENT NINE

Article III of our constitution authorizes the creation of rural fire prevention districts throughout the state as well as legislature has from time to time made a run at these funds, (with sticky fingered greed so typical of our political class), for projects not associated with helping crime victims.

The only way to stop raids on worthwhile funds is to add them to the list of "dedicated" monies that can be used only for a specific purpose, in this case aiding crime victims.

See Record, Page 3A

Record

The money for these funds comes from certain criminal court costs, grants, gifts, donations and federal dollars. These are currently placed in the general revenue fund of the state and unfortunately can be legally diverted by the legislature through statute.

Only through an amendment of this sort can we stop the potential misuse of these very useful and important funds.

Strongly recommend passage of Amendment Ten!

AMENDMENT ELEVEN
Amendment 11, if approved, would set a limit on the amount of borrowing the state could do at any one time. One of the finest parts of our current constitution is found in Section 49, Article III, which prohibits the state from creating debt.

This is the famous "pay as you go" feature of Texas' highest law.

Years ago voters agreed to amend this section of the constitution so that under certain conditions, and with voter approval, the state could create debt through the sale of bonds for a variety of activities including water projects, park and agricultural development projects, construction of prisons - the list goes on and on.

This is a politically sneaky the taxing authority to pay for these important functions.

These districts are separate local governmental entities overseen by a board of five commissioners. Purpose is to provide fire protection for rural areas not covered by municipal fire departments.

Any change in the governance of these fire districts or the tax rate supporting these specialized units of government must be made through an amendment to the constitution.

In this instance the rural fire districts located in Harris County currently have a tax rate of three cents per hundred dollars of taxable value.

Amendment Nine would allow the commissioners of these specific districts to increase the rate to five cents per hundred dollars of taxable property provided the voters in each district approve such a rate hike.

Since this is strictly a local matter, with voters in each districts having the final say, there is no reason to deny this change.

Recommend approval.

AMENDMENT TEN
Amendment 10, if passed, would change the fund status of the Crime Victims' Compensation Act of 1979, that was created to provide compensation for victims of crime as well as others who might suffer a financial loss as a result of attempting to prevent a crime or apprehend a criminal.

These losses could come from medical bills, property loss, disability or death. The Attorney General's office awards compensation under this act.

What has happened, since the law was enacted, is that the way for lawmakers to avoid raising taxes while keeping the biennial budget within current income estimates.

Important thing however, is to remember that each time a bond series is authorized, the voters have already had a crack at it through a statewide amendment or proposition vote.

Amendment 11, is relatively simple. It would tell the legislature that when the debt service level on current bonds reaches five percent of the total general revenue fund - all future amendments calling for bond sales and resulting debt must cease!

This is a great amendment and one that should have been in place years ago as a barrier against unlimited state borrowing and debt.

Highly recommend that this amendment be passed resoundingly!

AMENDMENT TWELVE
Amendment twelve is a simple matter that would, if passed, tell the state Supreme Court they have a maximum of 180 days to determine if motions for rehearing are to be granted or denied.

Supreme Court watchers report that the highest court in Texas takes much less than 180 days to make most rehearing decisions, so this legislatively mandated deadline would cause no damage to the court's schedule, except in a few foot-dragging "special" cases.

Passage of this amendment might, in effect, allow the public to send a message to all courts to speed-up judicial matters thus invoking the ancient adage that "Justice delayed is justice denied"!

Recommend approval.

AMENDMENT THIRTEEN
Amendment 13, is one that would be very difficult to oppose since it deals with the popular "Texas Tomorrow Fund" that allows families to lock in the cost of tomorrow's college tuition and fees at today's rates, while their children are relatively young.

What could be better? Fact is the prepaid plan, now only a few years old, has caught on and thousands of parents and grandparents have paid in full, or are paying through installment plans, for their youngster's future college tuition and fees.

The advance payment money goes into the "Tomorrow" fund that in turn is invested "prudently and conservatively" by fund managers assigned to the Comptroller's Office who are assisted by paid experts in the investment field.

Today this fund is actuarially sound while earning a good rate of return so that projected dollar calls in the immediate years ahead can be easily met.

This proposed amendment would, if passed, place the "full faith and credit" of the State of Texas behind the fund so that should there be a shortfall in dollars when "payout" time comes, dollars from the general revenue would be diverted on a "first call" basis to insure payment to the students enrolled in the program.

The amendment would also give the fund constitutional status and protection so that it would be safe from potentially fickle legislative raids or mandates.

Framers of the current law under which the "Tomorrow" fund operates were aware of the possibility of future fund declines so they included a section to the effect that any shortfall "may" be covered through a general revenue appropriation.

Amendment Thirteen changes that "may" to "must" which guarantees funding regardless of earnings by the fund.

Any fund that depends on the money markets for earnings stands the chance of securing lower earnings than required from time to time as the economy has its ups and downs.

This amendment is necessary primarily to place the "Tomorrow" fund in a constitutionally protective status so lawmakers cannot raid it.

Insofar as the dollar guarantees in the amendment - this is bad public policy and changes, in the basic statute that created this program, need to be made to avoid taping the general revenue fund should the cost of tuition and fees (now climbing at the rate of 8 to 10 percent annually) exceed the earnings of the fund in the years ahead.

Recommend approval of Amendment 13 while urging voters to demand that lawmakers revisit the "Texas Tomorrow Fund" statute during the next session of the legislature for the express purpose of redesigning the inner workings of the fund so it will avoid ever needing "life support" from general revenue!

AMENDMENT FOURTEEN
The 14th and final amendment before voters next Tuesday, is easy to decide. It would, if passed, allow the legislature to set the qualifications for the office of Constable.

The constable position within each precinct of a county is a constitutional office (Article V, Section 18a) that describes the duties of this peace officer type job while saying nothing about qualifications.

Interestingly enough, after a careful study of the current constitution by some astute legal-eagles, it was discovered that this amendment is not needed since the very constitution that does not set the qualifications for this office also says that "where requirements for an office are not stated, the legislature may take over this responsibility".

A 1995 attorney general's ruling cemented this idea by noting that "the legislature is free to set the qualifications of those seeking the office of constable". In other words, lawmakers wasted their time and ours by creating this amendment!

Suggest we send a message back to the legislature to get on with more important business and quit mucking about by sending us unneeded and unnecessary amendments.

The message would include a strong "NO" vote on amendment fourteen and this writer recommends just that!

AND FINALLY

We are hopeful that the analysis of the 14 proposed amendments due for a vote this coming Tuesday, November 4, has been helpful - even if you don't agree with the personal recommendations.

Some of these changes are of historical importance and citizens are urged to weigh the pros and cons before voting since there will be an almost immediate impact should several be enacted.

And last, but not least, do vote on November 4.

Next week's column will be much shorter although we predict it will contain some items of vital village interest.

Salado Eagles fall to Hutto Hippos, 14-7

Salado's varsity football team lost to the Hutto Hippos 14-7 at their place Oct. 24, crippling the Eagles' playoff hopes.

The loss dropped Salado's record to 4-4 overall and 1-2 in District 26-2A. It was the third last-minute loss this season.

For Salado to have a chance at the playoffs, it must beat Jarrell and Holland in the season finale, and hope that Holland beats Hutto Oct. 31.

The Eagles host the Jarrell Cougars at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 31. The Cougars, 3-5 overall, are 0-3 in district after last week's 33-7 loss to Florence. It was Florence's first district win.

Salado beat Florence 29-6 on Oct. 17, the day before Coach Joe Mullins turned 50. A win over Hutto would have been icing on the cake, but it wasn't Salado's night.

The Eagles, who outgained the Hippos 250-150 in total yardage, couldn't punch the ball in on four tries from inside the 1-yard line with time

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE FOR WHOM ARE YOU WORKING?

"Seek good and not evil, that you may live, that the Lord the God of Hosts may be firmly on your side, as you say he is."
— Amos 5: 14-16

The word, occupation, literally means "the principal business of one's life." If we were asked the nature of our occupation, most of us would reply by giving the name of the corporation for which we work, the school we attend, or a program in which we are enrolled. The world tries to convince us that the principal business of our life is making money or serving our company. Eight centuries before Jesus Christ was born, the prophet Amos encouraged his people to realize that the principal business of their lives was serving Yahweh. Amos' words speak to us today as well. Perhaps it is well for each of us to consider for whom we really are working.

running out. "We ran the best we had at them and didn't get in," Mullins said. "I'm proud of the kids. Just like the other two (close) games, they fought to the end."

Running back Taylor Hutton, who rushed for 120 yards on 20 carries, scored Salado's lone touchdown, a 34-yard run in the first quarter. Josh Lee booted the extra point. It was 14-7 at halftime.

Joe Barron had his most productive game this season, rushing for 63 yards on six carries. The effort earned him Offensive Player of the Week honors. Outside linebacker Paul Mashburn, also the team's starting quarterback, recorded eight tackles in his first start and was named Defensive Player of the Week.

Under varsity teams take 2 from Hutto

The Salado High junior varsity football team defeated Hutto's JV 28-14 at home Oct. 23.

The Eagles (5-2-1) scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and led 14-7 at halftime.

Rory Oldham scored on an 18-yard run and Matt Fleck added a 4-yard TD run. Michael Schoepf booted the extra points.

In the second half, Schoepf threw a 14-yard pass to Jeremy Whitacre and also scored on a 45-yard run. Oldham added the two-point conversion.

Offensive standouts were Schoepf, Oldham, Whitacre, Sail Ricks and Adam Wigley.

Defensive standouts were Matt Fleck, Kevin Keller, Garland Hennig and Kelley Peckham.

EIGHTH GRADE

Edward Chavez scored three touchdowns, including a 60-yard run with under two minutes to play, as Salado defeated Hutto 21-14 Oct. 23 at home.

The eighth-graders (6-1) trailed 8-0 at halftime, after Hutto scored on the game's first play from scrimmage.

Chavez scored on a 10-yard run in the third quarter, and Jeremy Grimm scored the two-point conversion on a pass reception.

Chavez scored on a 20-yard run in the fourth quarter, before scoring his game-winner. Grimm added the extra point after the final TD.

Grimm, Sam Silvers and Jon Culin were named offensive standouts. Defensive standouts were John Kirk, Aaron Gonzales and Dan Watson.

SEVENTH GRADE

The seventh-graders lost to Hutto 14-0, despite a good effort against a much larger team.

"Vast improvement in this week's contest," Ken Barrow, who coaches the team with Bob Liles, said. "I'm really pleased with the progress. We hope that will carry over to Jarrell."

The team will end the season at Jarrell Oct. 30. There will be no seventh-grade game Nov. 6 against Holland, which does not have a seventh-grade team.

Offensive standouts against Hutto were Lane Wolfe ("best blocker"), Brian Johnston ("hustled well") and Brian Stoefel ("worked hard").

Defensive standouts were Bo Bartlett at cornerback and Francisco Ruiz at tackle.

SHS Spanish Club raises $725 with links

The Salado High Spanish Club raised $725 for its scholarship fund by selling 2,900 Spirit Links at 25 cents apiece.

Two winning links were chosen during the Oct. 17 homecoming pep rally.

First place went to Paul Lucas, who won a Sanyo portable CD player. Second place went to Kendall Anderson, who won $25.

Spanish teacher Yvonne Harmon wants to thank the students, faculty, staff and community for supporting the Spanish Club Scholarship fund by purchasing links from the students.

Last year, the club awarded two $500 scholarships to Alisa Allen and McKenzie Brown to use for their college tuition.

The club's next fund-raiser is the "Tree of Hope" at Christmas to raise money for a local family, who otherwise wouldn't have a Christmas for their children.

Volleyball girls win 1st district match since 1995 over Holland

The Salado High varsity volleyball team won its first district match since the 1995 season, beating Holland Oct. 25 at home, 15-6, 12-15, 15-10.

The victory gave the Lady Eagles records of 6-18 overall and 1-4 in district play entering their season finale Oct. 28 at Academy.

The six victories are two more than last year; the win over Holland is the first in district in Coach John Black's two years at the helm. Salado won two district games in 1995 and one in 1994 under Marilyn Salisbury.

"This was probably by far, the best team performance this year," Black said.

Salado had lost to Holland in first-round play, 6-15, 15-4, 15-12.

"We dug especially well," Black said, noting that only a handful of Holland kills ("four or five") hit the floor on Salado's side of the net during the entire match. "The back row (play) was tremendous."

The Lady Eagles played a solid game one, Black said, noting that Nikki Jackson served the last six points.

In game two, "there were five net calls that really hurt and took away some momentum," he said.

But, in game three, when it counted most, the Lady Eagles "came out and led the whole way, playing relaxed with a lot of confidence," Black said.

He singled out Sara Summers, who had two kills from her middle hitter position, and Jackson, who had the last hit to win the match.

"Overall, everybody played well," Black said. "Everybody contributed."

The team played without Lori Matthews, who received minor injuries in an automobile accident.

The Lady Eagles were coming off a 15-2, 15-11 loss at Rogers Oct. 21.

"It looked like they picked up where they left off in the first match against us," Black said referring to Rogers' 17-15, 15-3 win over Salado Oct. 7.

The Lady Eagles improved in game two, thanks to better setting, but could only get as close as 11-9. Lori Matthews was credited with three blocks.

The Salado JV evened its season record at 9-9 with a 12-15, 15-1, 15-2 win over Holland. The win also gave the team a 3-2 district mark.

"We should have won the first game, but had too many serving errors," Black said, noting that the girls missed eight serves in game one.

"After that, they got their serves down and rolled in the last two games. Tessa Schreiner had a very good game serving."

Black said the team was playing without some key players, "and the subs stepped up and had a good game."

The JV was coming off a 15-9, 15-13 loss to Rogers.

"We made them earn everything," Black said. "In the second game, it was 13-13 at one point and then each team went three rotations before Rogers served out the last two points."

Sarah Buchanan was singled out for her serving and digging.

What makes for safe cookware?

by Ilene C. Miller
Co. Ext. Agent

What cookware is not safe? Questions about safety often accompany the purchase of more decorative and sometimes imported cookware. Brass and copper are two metals used for cookware that can be dangerous.

Brass is an alloy of copper and zinc and a mixture in varying amounts of other metals such as lead. Zinc is too toxic to be used for cooking utensils or pans. And, since there is no easy way to know if lead is in a piece of brassware, cooking and serving food in brassware is not recommended. Brass corrodes if uncoated, so tarnishing of brass would indicate that the metals are reactive.

Copper cookware is an excellent conductor of heat, especially good for top-of-range cooking. It is often preferred for cooking delicate sauces and foods that must be cooked at precisely controlled temperatures. Copper cookware is safe if it is lined with tin or steel. The inside of these lined pieces of cookware will be silver, rather than copper-colored.

Unlined copper cookware should not be used because the metal is relatively easily dissolved by some foods, causing the release of copper into food in amounts great enough to cause nausea, vomiting and diarrhea.

Ceramic ware is another type of cookware that has raised safety question concerns. Consumers should look for a label on decorative ceramic ware stating that the item is not for food use and that it may poison food. Earlier concerns were expressed by FDA about lead leaching from ceramic ware, particularly with mugs used for hot beverages. Hot acidic beverages such as coffee and tea cause the greatest leaching. This leaching of lead can be especially dangerous to pregnant women.

While most responsible manufacturers produce safe ceramic ware, consumers may want to avoid storing acidic beverages such as fruit juices and tea in lead-glazed pitchers.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.

Letters to the editor

To the editor,

I am not normally a "Letter to the Editor" person, but I feel a need to respond to the letter from Wayne Rutherford about the Salado Volunteer Fire Department.

The men and women of the fire department are dedicated to preserving our community's property and lives. They have to be dedicated because they are not paid any other way. They don't respond to a call because they are paid to do it; they respond out of desire to provide a service to our community and they put their lives on the line every time they do.

They spend hours training, reading, and attending courses (without pay, of course) to improve their skills and we should be thankful that we have these men and women in our community that are willing to do this for us.

If we, as a community, want faster service, then we should dig into our pockets and provide the department with more funds, as their total means of support is county money (which is minimal at best) and private donations.

Perhaps then, the department will have the money to pay for someone to be at the fire house to respond to calls more quickly. Until that time, let's be extremely grateful to these people, not critical of them.

Sincerely,
Judy Rice

Dear Editor,

In the recent fire which damaged a section of Salado's historic Stagecoach Inn, Salado's Volunteer Fire Department responded minutes after the call was reported.

The call came in at 5:02 a.m. in reference to smoke in a room. The blaze took hours to completely conquer, and our firefighters risked their lives to save this building.

Our team, along with several other departments from neighboring villages, quickly dehydrated as the sweat poured down through their soaked bunker gear.

I, along with two others, went to several area businesses for donations of bottled water and Gatorade.

Exxon generously donated all the Gatorade and water they had in the back storage room, and the Presbyterian Church also donated money to buy any more beverages we would need. We would just like to thank Exxon and the Presbyterian Church for their generous contributions to the Salado Volunteer Fire Department in our time of need.

Your help will linger in our hearts, and your service will not soon be forgotten.

Yours truly,

Amber Preston

Art does more than brighten up a wall, it defines society

by Tumbleweed Smith

There is a small patio at the Gage Hotel in Marathon that has a most intriguing wall sculpture. It is an arrangement of about 40 cow skulls. Some have horns, some do not. The placement of them makes an attractive design on an otherwise dull stucco wall.

I have taken several pictures of that unusual cow skull mural. Sometimes I stare at the photos and try to figure out how someone could create something so unique and beautiful from things not especially known for their artistic merit.

Looking at that work of art pleases me. It is relaxing. I stop thinking about everything else and concentrate on the design, the concept, the simplicity of it. Sometimes I think to myself, "I wish I had thought of that." It gets my creative juices flowing.

When you are involved in artistic pursuits, you clear your mind and open it to new and exciting ideas. It is a welcome challenge and a change from ordinary day to day activities.

Looking at a work of art transports us to Walden Pond. And we contemplate the whole of life. I took a drama course in college and the professor had a student just walk in a circle on stage. "It was something I could do very easily," said the student. He is now a prominent scientist with a Ph.D. and credits his accomplishments to that easy start into thinking.

We've all seen the results of how art has changed the lives of youngsters. Children growing up in poverty and crime have been given art instruction. As a result, their grades improve. They latch onto something they can do. They are encouraged to create and aspire to greatness. They are praised for their work and their lives are enriched. Creativity fosters new satisfaction in personal achievement and affects the morale and soul of our country. Federal, state, county and city governments should do their part to encourage cultural activities in schools.

A person will never write a poem without reading one or paint a picture without seeing one or create a song without hearing one.

Art is the symbol of a country's genius. It is the great unifying and humanizing experience. It expresses emotions and embodies values. It can only exist in a free society. When the creative impulse cannot flourish freely and is deprived of spontaneity, then the root of art is severed.

The purpose of the artist is to make the world a more human dwelling place, to build a bulwark against the chaos. The artist's life is marked by intense application and intense discipline. We should listen to the artists, for they have perspective both on their work and on life. It is from the artist that society gains its loftier images of itself.

We could not have gone from wilderness to the most powerful and technologically advanced nation in the world without art and culture. Since the emergence of man, art has been a concern of every fully developed human being. Culture is the free world's most powerful ally in leading its citizens to a truly humane society. The artist and society are bound to each other.

Hurry to Cio to purchase your tickets to the he Second Annual Fall Fashion Extravaganza and Luncheon Nov. 1 at the Salado Civic Center.

The benefit show begins at 12:30 p.m. It will feature a delightful Salado luncheon with exciting fashions presented by Cio ... A Unique Ladies Boutique of Salado.

Fall, holiday fashions will light up the runway. Cio will donate 10 percent of all purchases Nov. 1-3 to the Garden Guild.

"We are delighted to present the show for the Garden Guild," said Virginia Cosper, co-owner of Cio. "They are doing a magnificent job of landscaping the church grounds and we are happy to assist their efforts with a benefit fashion show."

The Salado Methodist Church was restored this past year and the Garden Guild has undertaken the beautification of the church grounds. The Guild has researched the type of plants that would have been used in the 1800s when the church was built. Much time and effort have been put into the beautification project.

Tickets are $10 per person and seating is limited to the first 100 guests. Tickets must be purchased in advanced and are available at Cio, #3 Salado Square on Main Street in Salado, or from all of the Garden Guild members.

A drawing will be held at the show, and drawing tickets are also available. "The prizes are spectacular this year," Cosper said. "Our designers have been very gracious and generous. When they heard about the projects the Garden Guild has planned, they were anxious to help with wonderful prizes."

Double D has donated a winter white antique vest and matching skirt -- a $600 value.

Sharon Young has donated a blouse and skirt ensemble -- a $300 value, and Brighton has donated a two-tone handbag -- valued at $250.

Other prizes are a $100 gift certificate from Cio of Salado, a silver bath salts shaker and a brocade powder mitt. Drawing tickets are also available from Cio. You do not have to be present to win.

Stagecoach Inn thanks Salado volunteer fire department

To the editor:

In addition to our letter of thanks to our Salado Volunteer Fire Department, we want to publicly express our appreciation for the excellent job during our recent motel fire.

We want to share excerpts from a letter received from our insurance company regarding the fire. Mr Sparks, with the insurance company, said that the manner in which the Salado Volunteer Fire Department handled the fire was exemplary. He said that many times in areas where there are volunteer fire departments, the response is just not adequate. In the case of the Salado Volunteer Fire Department, the response was unbelievable. The Salado Fire Department is to be commended for their actions on behalf of all concerned.

He also stated that the residents and businesses in Salado should feel very fortunate that they have dedicated individuals willing to perform these services for their community.

All of our thanks go to the Salado Volunteer Fire Department for their great efforts in handling this catastrophe. It was truly a job well done,

Sincerely,
Geneva Aiken

Lions

"Polling shows it will pass overwhelmingly, 80 (percent) to 20, 90 to 10," Fraser said. "The expectation is that all 14 will pass."

One of the main issues expected in the next legislative session (in 1999) will be de-regulation of electric utility companies. Fraser is on the committee that will look into this matter.

"Anytime you see de-regulation (occur), you'll see prices drop on those services," he said.

His concern in this matter involves "rural reliability" -- will a company still service rural areas, and at what cost?

As a member of the Senate Transportation Committee, Fraser said the committee will study the state's major highway arteries. He's particularly concerned about the congestion on I-35 and the safety of it.

Fraser is also interested in the ongoing port-to-plains highway, which would connect the Panhandle to the Gulf region of Texas. Much of the highway would likely pass through Fraser's district (from perhaps Abilene to Bell County). Fraser also said the high-speed rail plan, which died a few years back for lack of support, will be looked at again.

Other issues Frasers touched on during a question-and-answer session with the Lions were:

-- No fault-insurance. "I would vote for it," Fraser said, adding that the chances of it becoming law are slim.

-- Premises liability. If you loan a piece of property to the Boy Scouts, for instance, and one of them gets hurt, you're liable, Fraser said. The same as if a kids gets hurt in your front yard while playing, he explained.

"Texas law is very unfair on premises liability," Fraser said. "Don't get me started on that."

-- Immigration. Fraser said a group is looking into this, but noted that California's attempt to address the problem (cutting medical care and education) was overturned by the courts.

-- DWI and minors in possession. Fraser said a plan to lower the legal drinking level from 1.0 to 0.8 was turned down during the last Legislative session (dying in the House before it made it to the Senate).

Reporter's notebook: Rep. Fraser is the chief officer of PalEx, the largest producer of new wooden pallets in the U.S. As of last week, the ever-expanding company had 28 facilities, most of which are located in the Southeast, Southwest and West Coast. The company also has approximately 3,000 employees.

"I have the largest number of employees of anyone in the Legislature, so I tend to migrate toward business issues," Fraser told the Lions.

His wooden pallet manufacturing and recycling company, Fraser Industries, started as a backyard business.

While serving in the Texas House from 1987 to 1992, Fraser was named the 1991 National Republican Legislator of the Year and honored by the Texas State Chamber for his work as a co-sponsor of the 1989 Workers' Compensation Reform.

He was out of office from 1992 to 1996, before his election to his current position.

Watercolor by Dorothy Johnson

Village Artists slate watercolor workshop

Salado Village Artists Inc. will hold a watercolor workshop Nov. 12-14 at the Salado Art Center.

The artist leading the workshop will be Dorothy Johnson, who has taught other workshops in Salado. The workshop is open to anyone interested in learning or improving watercolor techniques.

Cost for the three-day workshop is $120.

Johnson earned her B.A. degree in graphic art from Texas Tech University. After a career designing and preparing camera-ready art for clients in the advertising world, she was an instructor in the art department at Texas State Technical College.

She has an ardent enthusiasm for painting on location. She enjoys finding picturesque places in Texas and elsewhere to paint. She has brought back colorful watercolor from New Mexico, Colorado, Bermuda, St. Maarten Island and the French Riviera.

Johnson looks for unusual subjects or she tries to paint ordinary subject matter with an unusual creative approach. Her watercolors have been described as playful, "happy" painting with lots of action and a unique personal style.

She is an award winner on many paint-outs and exhibits. She is a member of the Southwestern Watercolor Society, the Waco Art Center, the Central Texas Watercolor Society, the Waco Calligraphy Guild and the Waco Advertising Club.

Johnson's previous workshop in Salado have been very popular, according to those in the organization. Students have commented about the vibrant colors in her work and her ability to communicate with students. Salado Village Artists Inc. is pleased to have Johnson in Salado again.

The workshop is open to all levels of students, from beginner to advance. You may make a reservation by sending a deposit of $50 by Nov. 5 to Salado Village Artists Inc., P.O. Box 363, Salado, TX 76571. If you need more information, you may contact Jack Hardin (947-9245).

Historical marker unveiled honoring School of Nursing

Salado's MaryBelle Brown, a graduate and former instructor in the Scott & White Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, assisted with the dedication and unveiling of a Texas State Historical Marker honoring the school on Oct. 24 in Temple.

Dr. LaVerne Gallman, former assistant director of nursing education, gave the dedicatory address. Peggy Armstrong, assistant administrator for nursing at the hospital, read the marker inscription.

Dr. John Roberts, president of Scott & White Memorial Hospital, unveiled the marker assisted by Brown.

Brown was a member of the Class of '47 and represented her class at the ceremony. Members of the class celebrated their 50th anniversary with a reunion in Temple in conjunction with the marker dedication. Class members are living throughout the United States, and several states were represented at the reunion.

Brown is also a member of the Bell County Historical Commission, which played a major role in securing several Texas State Historical Markers, which have been dedicated during the celebration of its Centennial Year by Scott & White Memorial Hospital.

David Evans, also of Salado, serves as chairman of the Historical Markers and Research Committee for the Commission. Brown also serves on the committee.

SALADO Visitor's Guide

October 29, 1997 Salado Village Voice, Page 1B

Members of the Quilt Show committee Barbara Pipes and Jo Griffitt work on the quilt to be raffled April 1998.

Quilt to be raffled for April 4-5 Show

Do you have a quilt on the drawing board? If not, start now to make the quilt you always wanted to make, in time for the Third Annual Quilt Show April 4-5.

Teresa Tolbert, the show's committee chairperson, said the committee "has worked diligently to complete a beautiful watercolor quilt to be displayed very soon."

The quilt will be raffled at the show.

"We would like to have as many quilts as possible to display in the Civic Center," Tolbert said.

The categories will include hand-made and hand-quilted, machine-made and machine-quilted, wall-hanging, children's quilts and more.

"We will have more information out real soon, but we want to encourage everyone to please feel free to enter your quilt for judging," Tolbert said. "There will be a category for everyone."

Tolbert said the committee is building on the past show's expertise "to grow bigger and better each year."

The Salado Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the show, Tolbert said, "and has had excellent response from merchants and other organizations. The committee thanks them and will welcome volunteers to participate in any way."

Other members of the committee are co-chair Barbara Pipes, Jo Griffitt, Shirley Pinkston, Doris Metcalf and Carolyn Hampton.

Bowen Therapist schedules stop at Angelic Herbs Nov. 1

Mary Jo Elliff, RMT and Certified Bowen Therapist will be at Angelic Herbs Nov. 1. The Bowen Method is a therapeutic touch that sends signals to muscles and reminds them of the job they were created to do.

The human body is a sophisticated and intelligent self-adjusting system. In our high stress lives, however, the body doesn't get enough time to recover from one physical or emotional crisis before it has to gear up for another. The normal tension level we call "relaxed" tends to ratchet upwards until we become chronically tense, often without realizing it.

The Bowen Technique, developed in Australia, often leads to improvements in a wide range of musculoskeletal problems and sports injuries, as well as conditions such as asthma, headache and hay fever. The Bowen Technique is not massage, acupressure or chiropractic. No oil is used and most of the work is done through clothing. There is no heavy manipulation or painful pressure. A Bowen session, usually 35 to 45 minutes long, is gentle and relaxing enough that many people fall asleep.

The Bowen Technique's specific series of muscle and connective tissue "moves" assist the body in restoring the muscles to a relaxed state. The gentle Bowen moves, often likened to the plucking of guitar strings, send signals to the muscles and connective tissues. The body starts the process of self-adjustment during the Bowen session: muscles relax, joints are freed, adhesions loosen. The body continues to readjust itself gradually over the next several days, often releasing major physical constriction without discomfort.

For more information about the Bowen Therapy or appointment availability, call C J at Angelic Herbs 947-1909.

Bell County has 12 motels that aid those with cancer

In Central Texas, the Guestroom program isn't very well known to the general public. Most people don't even know such a program exists - unless they or a loved one has had cancer.

The Guestroom program was developed by the American Cancer Society in conjunction with hotels and motels across the country. If a cancer patient is receiving outpatient treatment in a distant city, the American Cancer Society can usually arrange for them to stay at one of the member hotels at no charge. The American Cancer Society doesn't pay for the room; the hotels donate the lodging out of goodwill for the community.

In Bell County, there are 12 hotels that are currently participating in the Guestroom program. They are Best Western Inn at Scott & White, Belton Inn - Budget Host, Fairfield Inn, Hampton Inn, Guest-House Inn, LaQuinta, Ramada Inn, Howard Johnson, Holiday Inn Express, Stratford House Inn, and Super 8 Motel.

The coordinator of this program is Joyce McLean. "I enjoy working with the hotels and the patients. These people are very thankful to be able to stay with their families instead of causing a hardship on everyone. We really appreciate these hotels," said McLean.

The Guestroom program is available in most cities where there is a major cancer center like Scott & White. Dallas, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Fort Worth, and other cities all maintain working programs for patients and their families. Because the hotels are giving the rooms, there are restrictions about length of stay and eligibility that are given when the patient applies.

Friends of Salado Library still collecting books for Nov. 8 book sale at Lions Park

The Friends of the Salado Public Library are still collecting books for the fall book sale to be held 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Nov. 8 at Lions Park on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center on Main St. Book donations may be taken to the Library, or arrangements may be made to have books picked up by calling the Salado Public Library at 947-9191.

Book sales, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, are one of the major fund-raising activities of the Library. In the past, the Friends have held and annual book sale at Pace Park in conjunction with the Salado Art Fair. Holding a fall book sale at Lion's Park places the activity near the library, which is housed in the Salado Civic Center.

By holding an additional book sale in the fall, the Friends hope to avoid the excessive heat of Texas summers.

If Nov. 8 is not a glorious fall day due to cold or rain, the book sale will be held in the Salado Art Center, also on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center.

The Friends of the Library have received several large donations of quality materials and this sale will feature quality rather than quantity.

Shoppers are urged to come early while the best selections will still be available. The sale will close at 4 p.m. or when all books have been sold.

The Fifth Annual Salado Parent and Teachers Golf Tournament Sept. 22 at Mill Creek Country Club raised more than $6,000, despite the inclement weather.

SPAT will use the proceeds to donate three computers, accelerated reader books and other projects and activities at Thomas Arnold Elementary.

"Thanks to tournament chairman Jim Ervi and other parent and teacher volunteers, the tournament was our most successful ever," Miriam Ervi, SPAT president, said. "I am so appreciative of the widespread support for our kids from community members and businesses. More importantly, I would like all those involved to know the kids benefit directly from this project throughout the year."

SHS students participate in first Career Day

Salado High students participated in their first Career Day Oct. 22 at the high school.

Students listened to two different speakers of their choice tell about their careers, including job qualifications, education requirements, job outlook and entry-level pay.

Speakers included Melinda LaPrade, a Scott & White nurse; Melisa Durrett, director of marketing at PDI; Jennifer Reynolds, a photographer with the Temple Daily Telegram; and Ed McGory and Keith Stone with Stone Media.

Other speakers were Scott & White physical therapist Gary McMurtry; Fred Churchil, state game warden; Michael Perez, DPS trooper; Stephen Niemeier, CPA; and Michael Lindberg, service manager with Garlyn Shelton.

Also speaking to the students were Jack Crowson, a retired chemical engineer; Michael White, attorney; Jon Kendall, veterinarian; Clay Runnels, doctor at Scott & White in emergency medicine; John Wiprud, also a physician at Scott & White; and K.W. Johnson, marine biologist at the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor.

Students were surveyed earlier in the year about careers that interest them. Speakers were chosen based on the students' surveys. After the speakers were invited, the students then chose the two that interested them the most.

The speakers' comments about SHS students were that they were well-behaved and asked good questions. The students commented that they enjoyed the program and that it helped them in making career decisions.
