Merchants tourney set Dec. 10-12

Salado High School will host the fifth annual Salado Merchants Invitational Basketball Tournament Dec. 10-12. The tournament is so named for the various area merchants who help sponsor the tournament.

Girls teams entered this year include these: Academy, Rogers, Holland, Troy, Moody, Dime Box, Snook and Salado.

The boys brackets includes teams from Academy, Holland, Lorena, Franklin, Copperas Cove J.V., Bruceville-Eddy, Troy and Salado.

Games begin at 10 a.m.

Dec. 10-11 and at noon Dec. 12.

The following merchants sponsor the tournament: Garlyn Shelton dealerships, B & B Athletic Supply, Country Place Bed and Breakfast, John Preston, Salado National Bank, B & B Specialties, Village Foods, Welder's Supply, HEB Belton, Gary Bartlett Construction, Century 21 Bill Bartlett, Centel, Grace Jones, Robertson's Hams, Susan Marie's, Centex Butane, Herff Jones, Stagecoach Inn, Briar Patch of Salado and Summers Mills Farms.

Patsy Sanford and LaJuan Shelton draw the name of the winner of the Caribbean Cruise during the Country Christmas Weekend, Dec. 6.

Cruise winner picked Dec. 6 during Stroll

Margaret Chandler of Temple was the winner of a Spring Break Cruise to the Caribbean. Her name was picked by Patsy Sanford and LaJuan Shelton during a drawing 6 p.m. Dec. 6 to top the weekend's activities at the annual Country Christmas Weekend.

Chandler and a guest will cruise the Caribbean on Commodore Cruise Line's Enchanted Seas for seven days. The Enchanted Seas departs from New Orleans and on to Cozumel, Mexico, to Montego Bay, Jamaica and to the Cayman Islands.

The trip was given as a gift by Garlyn and LaJuan Shelton, of Salado, to help the fundraising efforts to restore the old red Salado Schoolhouse on Main St.

Livestock Clinic Dec. 19 at SHS

There will be a Livestock Showmanship Clinic Dec. 19 for all Salado FFA and 4-H'ers.

Pigs will begin 7:30 a.m.-9:30 a.m.; cattle will be 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. followed by a half-hour break and then sheep will be noon-2 p.m.

Parents, students, and friends are welcome to attend. Contact Mr. Owen, the Salado Ag teacher, in advance.

Peoples branch manager named

Wendell C. Williams, President of Peoples National Bank, announces the appointment of Vice President Don R. Owens as branch manager for the recently-opened Peoples National Bank, Salado.

Owens assumed his new position Dec. 7. His duties include day-to-day supervision of the Salado office, as well as business development and consumer loan activity. He will continue to serve as vice president of marketing for Peoples National and director of the Heritage Club.

Don has been associated with Peoples National for over 13 years and is a graduate of Belton High School, Temple Junior College, and the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor. He is a member and deacon at First Baptist Church, member of the Belton Lion's Club, Development Advisory Board at

UMHB, and Belton Planning and Zoning Commission. He is Past President of the Belton Area Chamber of Commerce and Belton Lion's Club, is Vice President of the Belton Economic Development Council, founding Chairman of the Belton Adopt-a-School Partnership, former Chairman of the Belton Fourth of July Rodeo Celebration and is a graduate of Leadership Temple and mentor in Teen Leadership. Don's honors include Belton's Outstanding Citizen and Lion of the Year.

Don is no stranger to Salado having formerly worked and lived in Mill Creek from 1965 to 1973. Don and his wife Judy have two children, Jason, 16 and Erin, 12.

"Peoples National Bank is pleased with the new Salado branch and excited about Don's association with the bank. Don has proven over time his ability to become involved in the community while accomplishing his responsibilities within the bank, and we know he will continue to achieve success while directing our efforts in the Salado area," Williams said.

Customers and friends are encouraged to attend the bank's Christmas Open House 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Dec. 17 as well as the Salado Chamber Ribbon Cutting at 9 a.m.

Thomas Arnold Principal Rod Stockstill on the roof.

Stockstill hits the roof!!!

Rod Stockstill, principal of Thomas Arnold Elementary made a deal with the third grade classes that if they scored 90 percent or above on the TAAS test he would stay on the roof of the elementary school all day long. They did and he spent most of the day on the roof Dec. 4.

Around noon, as the cold weather moved in and the wind began to whistle around Stockstill, he received a reprieve from the the children as they voted to allow him down.

According to Stockstill this was just his way of showing his pride and love for the students of Salado schools. He said, "We have the greatest students in the world right here in Salado."

Patriot Games

rated R

starring Harrison Ford, Anne Archer, James Earl Jones, Richard Harris

Our rating: ****

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Patriot Games is an exciting rollercoaster ride through the halls of the CIA, down Ireland's battle-weary streets and into secret war games camps in the desert.

Based on Tom Clancy's novel of the same name, Patriot Games is the follow-up to his highly successful novel and movie The Hunt for Red October. Harrison Ford stars as Jack Ryan, a former Marine officer and CIA agent caught in a web of terrorist attacks and counterintelligence when he thwarts a kidnapping attempt while on vacation in England.

Ford is terrific in his role as an older and wiser Jack Ryan. But, then again, Ford is terrific in every movie in which he appears. Like fine wine, Ford has definitely become better with age. The viewer can feel the underlying motivation of his character in Patriot Games, unlike so many movies in which the actor seems to just recite lines, or worse, overact the role.

Dynamic performances are given by supporting actors Anne Archer, Patrick Bergen, James Earl Jones and Richard Harris.

Patriot Games is a thrilling, intelligent movie.

Ethics is currently the most bandied about subject among those who are elected to public office as well as by those who do the electing. At the national level we have had scandal after scandal involving members of Congress (both houses), appointed officials and a few who work at the White House. Ethics has become a campaign buzz word for whatever that might be worth.

"Can I get by with it?" How close to the edge can I get?" These and a plethora of other sleazy questions are heard up and down the corridors of Washington from those who try to "get by" with things that have every appearance of being wrong. One up-to-date case in point. Our junior senator from Texas Phil Gramm who is currently trying to explain away a transaction that has most of his friends shaking their heads in disbelief and the rest chortling with glee at this "holier than the rest of us" lawmaker. This partisan paragon of finger pointing at all things Democratic!

Phil would have us believe, the story goes, that paying $63,000 for a $117,000 house is perfectly okay! The tale in a nutshell goes something like this: In 1987 a Texas building contractor and Savings and Loan owner and close friend of Gramm sent a crew from Texas to Maryland to finish building a country home for the Senator. Charge to the friend, Jerry Stiles, was $117,000. Cost to Gramm - $63,000! Reason for this great deal, according to Gramm, was that according to an oral agreement the lesser figure was correct. Stiles in the meantime had asked for help from Gramm due to his (Stiles) S. and L. that was headed for the dump. Gramm, as a leading member of the Senate banking committee with oversight of the thrifts, gave advice to Stiles - exactly what we don't know but eventually wrote to the S. and L. folks won behalf of his Texas friend.

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

End of story? Not quite. When the S. and L. went broke the FBI and FDIC took a look at the books of the failed bank and discovered the Gramm deal. At once Gramm borrowed the difference in what he paid for the house work and what was the actual cost paid by Stiles. He then ran to the Senate Ethics Committee to see if he had done "anything wrong." His friends on that august group assured him that all was well and Gramm kept the money for himself!

If all of this sounds a little "fishy" to you then you have uncovered the exact point of this report. There is an "appearance of misbehavior" which is the very thing lawmakers have been warned against.

It would appear once again that some of these elected folks - both Republicans and Democrats alike - feel they can do what they want, when they want, all because of their lofty position. It is this thing that must stop - not just the drunken philandering; outright illegal activities; selling of votes to the lobby or acceptance of questionable donations for reelection purposes. No, it is also actions that are taken by these high and mighty government Pooh-Bahs that cast doubt on the system; turn voters

Don Lowe, Century 21 Bill Bartlett, welcomes Lloyd and Mary Ellen Parks

Don Lowe, associate broker at Century 21 Bill Bartlett, would like to welcome Lloyd and Mary Ellen Parks to Salado.

Mr. Parks retired in June as president and chief executive officer of AMAX Oil and Gas, Inc. and vice president of AMAX.

Lloyd and Mary Ellen are moving from Houston and will be setting up residence at their retreat home in the Woods of Salado which overlooks Stillhouse Lake. The Parks plan to start construction during the first quarter of 1993 on their Mill Creek house at 907 Blaylock.

Time does not become sacred to us until we have lived it.

Letter to the editor from sup't

Dear Editor,
 The Legislature has been meeting for almost one month and nothing has happened. Representatives from the House and Senate have overlooked a common problem, i.e. failure to communicate with school boards and superintendents. Two weeks ago state auditor Lawrence F. Alwin reported to the Legislative Audit Committee concerning 55 school districts throughout Texas. After reviewing the results of the school management audit, the governor, lieutenant governor and house speaker directed Mr. Alwin to expand the project to all school districts in Texas. The timing of the news release will cause the current special session to fail.

Much has been made about administrative costs of various districts and if schools were consolidated almost $650 million dollars would be saved. The audit reported a Goal for 93-94 school year was to have administrative costs of 23 percent of the instructional budget. If half of the school districts in Texas reduced their administrative budget next year the state would save $99 million. However, in the Salado ISD the ratio of administrative costs to the instructional budget is $75,251 below average or only 18 percent. Yet when you look at the school districts that receive recognition it is because of good football or basketball programs, not on sound business practices. Salado continues to have the highest test scores in the county and will above the state averages. Since the beginning of TAAS testing the SISD has maintained an 86 percent mastery while the state average is 52 percent. Why is it that only low performing school districts are recognized for their gains in achievement?

Salado ISD continues to grow at a rate of 10 percent per year. Our enrollment has increased from 450 students five years ago to 629 students today. The village of Salado should be proud of the accomplishments of your schools. The next time you talk to a teacher, tell them how proud you are of a job well done.

Understanding Investment Risk

If you're searching for higher-yielding alternatives to today's CDs, be aware that to find such investments you will probably have to take on some additional investment risks. Taking risks means accepting the prospect that your investment results could be either greater than you expected or less than you anticipated.

Some degree of risk is inherent in every investment, but you shouldn't allow that to scare you away from investing. Rather, by understanding the types of potential risk you face, you can select the investments that are right for you. Here are definitions for common types of investment risk:

Credit Risk
 The possibility that the entity issuing a security (e.g., a municipality or a corporation that issues a bond) may be incapable of meeting interest payments on a timely basis, or may fail to return the original investment amount on the stated maturity date.

Market Risk
 The possibility that the price of a security could rise or fall over time. For instance, when the entire stock market performs poorly, an individual stock may not perform well, despite the performance of the issuing company. Even when the entire market performs well, an individual stock may not necessarily perform well.

Interest Rate Risk
 This is a form of market risk tied to interest rate movements. If the interest rate atmosphere significantly changes after you've purchased a bond, shares in a bond mutual fund or an interest rate-sensitive stock, the resale value of the security will generally vary for this reason alone.

Mike Miller

The value of such investments moves in an opposite direction from interest rate changes. For example, if interest rates rise, the value of a bond falls. This relationship occurs partly because when interest rates increase, the value of an existing, lower yielding bond becomes less attractive to new investors.

Generally, values of interest rate-sensitive stocks (specifically utility stocks) react in a similar manner, moving opposite to changes in overall interest rates.

Reinvestment Risk
 The possibility that the rate you will be offered when a CD or bond matures is markedly different—higher or lower—than the rate you may receive today. For instance, three years ago you might have purchased a CD paying more than 9%; if you must renew that CD today for a three-year term, you might be offered less than 5%.

Inflation risk
 Inflation occurs when the general level of prices increases, causing your dollars to be worth less. When this happens, the original value of an investment, even if returned in full to the investor, won't buy as many goods as when the investment was purchased.

As stated earlier, you shouldn't allow risk to frighten you away from investing. Once you understand the different types of risk you face and know how much risk you can tolerate, you are in a good position to choose investments that meet your needs.

Chisholm Trail ABWA to meet Dec. 17

The Chisholm Trail Chapter of the American Business Women (ABWA) met Nov. 24. at the Salado Church of Christ.

The program was presented by chapter members Wylene Williams and Linda Ellis. The program was timely and dealt with the blessings of Thanksgiving. An additional portion of the program was presented by Nelwyn Persky, who reported on the National Convention held earlier in the month in Washinton D.C. Wylene Williams presided over the business meeting

ABWA will meet 6 p.m., Dec. 17 for a dinner and social with members exchanging gifts at the home of president, Wylene Williams.

Services held for Byron Bunker

Maxwell Byron Bunker, age 89 of Salado died Nov. 29, 1992 at a Belton Nursing Center. Funeral services were held Dec. 2, at the graveside in Salado Cemetery. Rev. Joe Bentley officiated.

Bunker was born May 2, 1903 near Salado. He was the son of William Reuben and Ida Florence Porter Bunker. He married Velma Ardella VanLoh in Clara, Tx in 1925. After retirement in 1946, he moved back to Salado and began to farm and ranch. He was one of the organizers of Salado's Chamber of Commerce and served as it's president. He was an organizer of the Salado Volunteer Fire Department, active in the Historical Society and was a life time member Active Bell Count Farm Bureau and Republican Party. He was an active member in the Salado Methodist Church. He served on the Salado school Board. He was a voluntary unofficial custodian of Pace Park, Salado Creek area and Salado Cemetery. He was preceded in death by his wife January 1984.

Survivors include 3 sons Dr. William Marvin Bunker of Ormon Beach, Fl., Col. Gerald B. Bunker of Salado and Frederick M. Bunker of Tyler, 2 brothers William R. Bunker of Salado and Robert E. Bunker of Little River Academy. He is also survived by 9 grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Memorials can be made to the Salado Cemetery Fund c/o of Kenneth Townsend or the Old Salado School Fund at the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

Salado ESP meets Dec. 14

Salado E.S.P. will meet 10 a.m., Dec. 14, at the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

To accomodate the guests the program will be presented at 12:30 p.m. A longer period of time will be allowed for fellowship and games. Lunch will be served at noon.

The program will be a quartet with the Chisholm Trail Chorus of Sweet Adelines International from Temple. The quartet will be singing barbershop music in four-part harmony. Everyone 55 plus is invited to bring a covered dish and join the group.
