Salado Family Relief Fund Empty Bowl will be held 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Nov. 7 at the Salado High School Cafeteria.

As in former years, attendees will be able to purchase soup by the bowl for $10.

Soups are prepared by Salado restaurants and B&B's so there is a delicious selection of heart-warming soups.

Dining locations will be designated according to recommendations for social distancing.

There is also a TO GO option for $15 (32-oz container) for those that wish to participate in the fundraiser but are unable to dine in or would prefer to do pick up only.

The Empty Bowl Project is the only fundraiser sponsored each year by Salado Family Relief (SFRF) and allows the organization to help qualifying families with rent or utility payments.

SFRF organizes the Back-to-School program which provides much needed assistance to families with kids in the Salado Independent School System. This year, SFRF served more than 150 students.

Additionally, SFRF helps local families at Christmas by coordinating the collection and distribution of toys and clothing for over 150 kids each year.

Bell Co. Coalition opposes Salamander habitat

Bell County Adaptive Management Coalition (BCAMC) announced its comments that the group will be submitting to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service (FWS) concerning its proposed critical habitat designation for both the Georgetown and Salado salamanders.

The Coalition takes issue with the proposed critical habitat designation for the two local salamander species on the following areas that the Coalition says is supported by a better legal and scientific understanding of the species due to the research conducted and analyzed by the Coalition:

- The Coalitions questions the foundational science that the FWS used in support of the designation. The Coalition said that the science is not consistent with available literature, and should not be used as the basis for designating critical habitat.

- Water quality degradation should not be a factor considered for this designation because the Coalition continues to implement and manage research efforts and regulations that have improved water quality to stable conditions.

- Water quantity degradation should not be a factor considered for this designation because the Coalition continues to implement research, regulations, and ordinances that maintain sufficient water quantity for the Salado Salamander.

- Public identification of sites could increase impacts to the species and its habitat (i.e. site disturbance, species harassment, etc.)

- The associated Economic Analysis was not inclusive for all anticipated impacts in Bell County; and,

- Salado salamander sites located on Solana Ranch, a conservation easement in Bell County monitored by The Nature Conservancy (TNC), should not be included in this designation because of the existing, successful management by TNC.

The FWS proposed a revision critical habitat designation for the Georgetown and Salado salamanders on September 15.

In total, the proposed habitat would comprise more than 1,500 acres of Central Texas land in Bell and Williamson Counties. The proposal allows for filing public comments until Nov. 16.

The BCAMC is comprised of officials from Bell County, the Village of Salado, the Salado Water Supply Corporation, and the Clearwater Underground Water Conservation District.

Since 2012, the BCAMC has expended various resources on this topic, with the overall goal of increasing scientific knowledge of the Salado salamander, and adding to its conservation. "The combined effects of the Coalition's efforts have protected the Salado salamander and its habitat, rendering a critical habitat designation simply unnecessary and not prudent," according to Dirk Aaron, manager of the Clearwater Underground Conservation District.

Handouts concerning the Georgetown and Salado salamanders can be found at the Clearwater Underground Water Conservation District website: www.cuwcd.org.

"The importance of local participation with comments is so very crucial," Aaron stated. In his comments, the Coalition states that "the need for critical habitat designation is simply not prudent nor scientifically defensible under the statutory authority of US Fish and Wildlife Services who is proposing the designation rules."

The Coalition encourages local citizens to be engaged by submitting comments prior to the formal deadline of Nov. 16. Coalition members are willing to assist those who wish to submit.

In 2012, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) proposed to list the Georgetown and Salado salamanders as endangered, and designate 1,031 acres (ac) of critical habitat for the Georgetown

Pioneer Classic golf tournament Nov. 7-8

The ancient game of golf, played as it was during its earliest beginnings in Scotland, makes its first appearance here in Salado (a village settled by Scots) this November when Salado Museum and College Park hosts the inaugural Pioneer Classic Hickory Golf Tournament at Mill Creek Golf Course, Nov. 7-8. The two-man team event is sponsored by area businesses with all proceeds benefiting the museum.

"We are very excited to be included on the Hickory Golf Association of Texas (HGAT) tournament circuit this year," says Dave Swarhout, Salado Museum executive director. "The money raised will enable us to continue renovations and preservation of our historic building and the college ruins and parkland on College Hill."

Sponsors for the tournament include Title Sponsor Stagecoach Inn; Mill Creek Golf Course; First Texas Brokerage; and Sloan, Cartagena and Associates, P.C. The golf weekend features special guest William W. Reed, past president of The Golf Heritage Society (a global non-profit organization headquartered in Lebanon, Ohio) who will display an extensive collection of historic golf equipment and artifacts at Mill Creek throughout the weekend.

"The public is welcome to come out for the opening tee-off ceremonies at noon on Saturday, which will include a Scottish bagpiper performing on the course, and to view the historic golf items on display in the clubhouse," says Swarhout. "Of course, there is no charge but donations to the museum are always welcome!"

What makes Hickory Golf unique is that the players use clubs that have a solid hickory wood shaft as did clubs used in the late 19th and early 20th Century. The players also dress the part, with men wearing vintage-style golfing knickers, jackets and caps.

According to the HGAT website, most of the hickory clubs in play today actually date from the late 1890s to 1935. Clubs manufactured during this period are original hickory clubs. There are several companies that make replica hickory-shafted golf clubs that are also approved for play.

To support the museum, donate online at www.saladomuseum.org, or mail a check to Salado Museum, 423 S. Main St., Salado, TX 76571.

New surge in COVID-19 cases Pushes market down 5.6%

The Markets

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) fell a whopping 5.64% for the week to close at 3269.96, nearly wiping out 2020's gain and taking it down to 8.7% below where it was at the beginning of September. The proximate causes appeared to be the new surge in COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations combined with an acceptance that the administration and the House were unlikely to agree on the size and targets of a fiscal support bill. The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note moved in the other direction, rising 5% to 0.879% as the yield curve steepened. West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) agreed with the stock market that a COVID resurgence was not likely to be good for the economy and sagged 10.5% to a money losing $35.59 per barrel.

With the SPX down nearly 9% and the generally accepted definition of a "correction" of a 10% loss, we are close to that metric. More, historically, the 10 largest S&P 500 companies tend to trade at about the same multiple of annual earnings as the whole Index, but they were priced nearly 60% higher recently. As we have written before, when large-cap growth stocks get this far out of line with the market, historically that divergence ends with, at the least, a correction. Fasten your seat belts, but also recognize that on the other side of this pandemic we are likely to see a substantial period of growth as we make up for lost time.

The Economy

In normal times the Commerce Department's quarterly GDP report is not only relevant but crucial in understanding where the economy is headed, but this time, with weekly data varying greatly, it is both old news and potentially

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

very misleading. The first estimate of third quarter U.S. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) indicated it rose 7.4% when compared with the second quarter. Unfortunately, each quarter's headline number is annualized, indicating the rate the economy would grow if it maintained the quarter's growth rate for a full year, which in this case would be 33.1%, and is unrealistic. To put that number in perspective, the first quarter GDP fell an actual 1.25% and the second quarter GDP fell about 9%. Then, the third quarter GDP rose 7.4%. The final number leaves us still down about 3.5%, from where we were at the end of 2019. In short, we have gained back about two-thirds of what we lost in the first and second quarters.

Again, because things are changing so relatively fast, even that estimate is probably a bit off. The bounce-back we saw in the third quarter was evident in the weekly and monthly data that came in over the summer and appeared to be largely driven by the generous fiscal stimulus earlier this year. With the cessation of the stimulus, current data is indicating a deceleration of the recovery. That deceleration is also being amplified by the new, record-breaking resurgence in COVID-19. Once more, the short story is that the delightful third quarter growth numbers may well be irrelevant as we enter the second month of the fourth quarter. The question at this point is whether the recovery will merely slow in this quarter or ultimately reverse and take us back into recession.

Speaking of COVID,

Texas has now had 18,283 deaths and the confirmed infection rate is now growing at an astonishing 10.3% per day. In Bell County, our death toll has reached 100 and the infections continue to grow.

In further news offsetting the soaring third quarter GDP figures, Caterpillar and 3M, both normally reliable bellwethers for the economy, reported falling sales. Caterpillar reported this week that revenue was down by at least a fifth (20%) in the latest quarter in construction, mining, energy, and transportation. At the same time, consumer durable industries, like Whirlpool were having trouble keeping up with demand as people refurbish their homes and buy new vehicles. An indicator that business investment is also recovering appeared as orders for capital goods, items used for manufacturing, increased one percent in September as well.

With the new GDP estimate, the United States appears to be in the middle of the large economic blocs across the globe. The Asian nations cumulatively have largely brought COVID under control and are leading with net positive annual GDP numbers. The Europeans are at the tail end and, particularly as new shutdowns are appearing as the pandemic is again surging there to new records. The U.S. appears to be riding in the middle but, as we mentioned above, much is dependent on what if any relief the Congress approves as well as how severe this second wave of COVID-19 turns out to be.

Texas veterans need our help, especially during COVID-19

By NATHAN L. HECHT AND TERRY TOTTENHAM

Texas has the second-highest population of veterans in the country—nearly 1.5 million—and many of these veterans are poor or homeless. While groups around the state are tirelessly working on veterans' behalf, there is always more to be done to ensure their civil legal needs, like eviction and the inability to access medical care, are being met as they reintegrate back into civilian life—especially during a global pandemic.

Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, nearly 5.2 million Texans, including a significant number of veterans, qualified for civil legal aid. This number is only expected to increase as we continue to see the devastating financial and economic fallout, unemployment and uncertainty caused by COVID-19. Veterans aren't exempt from this; they are an already vulnerable group made even more vulnerable by the coronavirus pandemic.

Legal issues amount for five of the top 10 unmet needs of homeless veterans, according to the annual survey of homeless and formerly homeless veterans by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. Legal aid programs, local bar associations, law schools and pro bono lawyers all help provide civil legal aid for veterans, but they struggle to meet demand without adequate funding. Veteran legal issues—including credit problems, accessing benefits, landlord/tenant disputes, restoring a driver's license and denial of critical medical care—are essential legal issues that must be handled in order to keep Texas veterans from falling through the cracks.

The Texas Access to Justice Foundation (TAJF), created in 1984 to provide funding for civil legal aid in Texas, is committed to the vision that all Texans will have equal access to justice, regardless of income. Last year, The Foundation awarded more than $6 million in two-year grants to 13 Texas legal aid providers to provide civil legal services to low-income veterans. This year, in response to the coronavirus pandemic, grantees of the TAJF, the Texas Veterans Legal Aid Coalition pivoted from coordinating in-person veteran legal aid clinics to virtual clinics across the state, along with creating a series of videos about benefits available for veterans.

In an additional show of support for Texas veterans, TAJF established the Joe Jamail Endowment for Veteran Legal Services in 2017 to ensure veterans have fair and equitable access to the justice system. Earlier this year, the Endowment reached a milestone $1 million in donations, which will be used to provide legal representation to veterans throughout the state.

This year is also the 10th anniversary of Texas Lawyers for Texas Veterans, a collaborative effort between local bar associations and legal aid organizations that specifically addresses the need for pro bono civil legal assistance for veterans and their families.

Each year, the week of Veterans Day is designated as Texas Veterans Legal Aid Week (TVLAW). This year from Nov. 9-13, local bar associations, legal aid organizations and law schools across Texas are hosting free, virtual legal clinics to serve veterans with the support and civil legal guidance they need. To find a clinic in your area, visit texaslawhelp.org/tvlaw-2020 or call the state-wide hotline at 1-800-622-2520.

Texas veterans are at an increased risk of displacement, unemployment, requiring medical care and other problems arising from the COVID-19 pandemic, and it's on us to make sure they are adequately being taken care of. We must ensure they can access the resources and services they need to reintegrate back into civilian life and thrive even despite the current public health crisis. Legal aid services can make a real difference in the lives of veterans who qualify, and support for these services ensures that veterans aren't left behind as the state works toward COVID-19 recovery.

Nathan L. Hecht is chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas and is a U.S. Navy veteran. Terry Tottenham is on the board of the Texas Access to Justice Foundation, a U.S. Marine Corp veteran, and served as the president of the State Bar of Texas from 2010-2011, during which time he founded Texas Lawyers for Texas Veterans.

In 2019, a well-known environmental organization, the Center for Biological Diversity, filed a lawsuit challenging FWS' failure to designate critical habitat for both species (Center for Biological Diversity, Case 1:19-cv-01607). Subsequently, a Stipulated Settlement Agreement was made on Feb 26, 2020, requiring FWS to propose critical habitat by Aug 12, 2020, and finalize it by Aug 12, 2021 (Center for Biological Diversity, Case 1:19-cv-01607-KBJ).

On Sept 15, FWS proposed 732 acres of critical for the Georgetown salamander, and 787 acres for the Salado salamander (85 FR 57578). In total, this redesignation increased 116 acres from that originally proposed in 2012. The public comment period is 60 days, ending on Nov 16.

JANICE IRENE TAYLOR
 JUNE 3, 1945
 OCTOBER 28, 2020

Janice Irene Taylor, known as Gigi by her grandchildren and their friends, went to be with her Lord and Savior on Wednesday, October 28, 2020 at her home in Abilene, Texas after a brief battle with cancer. Janice was born in Stamford, Texas on June 3, 1945 to Glenn and Eunita Taylor of Breckenridge, Texas. She would spend her childhood and youth growing up in Stephens County. She attended school in Breckenridge and graduated third in her class from Breckenridge High School in 1963. She was a graduate of Tarleton State University with a bachelor's degree in biology. While at Tarleton she was involved in choir, was a member of the Tarleton Players fine arts organization, and was selected as a "Little Colonel" by the Tarleton State University ROTC. She met her first husband Cavin Sullivan while attending college in Stephenville. They were married at the First United Methodist Church in Breckenridge on July 31, 1964. They went on to raise three children together: Melissa Irene, Brent Anderson and Shaun Cavin. Cavin served as an army officer taking Janice and the children all over the United States and military installations abroad.

In the summer of 1983, Janice moved herself and children to Abilene to be near her family in Breckenridge. There she began a successful career as a financial advisor to educators across the Big Country. She served as a member of the Tarleton Alumni Board of Directors for many years and was the President from '97-'98. This is where she would meet her loving husband of seventeen years, Herb Taylor. She and Herb retired to Salado in central Texas to play golf and travel the world together. They spent many years traveling and remodeling a summer home in Fairfield Bay, Arkansas prior to moving to Abilene to be closer to family in 2017. Janice was an active member in the United Methodist Church, a Stephens minister, and a dedicated member of a 12-step program leading many people in a deeper walk with the lord while in central Texas and Abilene. She was a wonderful friend and loving supporter to everyone she met.

Janice was preceded in death by her parents and brother William Taylor. She is survived by her husband Herb Taylor of Abilene, daughter Melissa Autrey of Abilene; granddaughter Staci Driskill and great-granddaughter Kinsley of Abilene. Sons Brent Sullivan and wife Lisa of Plano; grandchildren Cassie, Leigh Ann, Brianna, Caleigh and Gavin Sullivan and Rollin Place, great-grandsons Luciano and Gabriel. Shaun Sullivan and wife Amber of Bedford, Ross Taylor and wife Kristi of Frisco; grandsons Micah and Jared Taylor. She also leaves many other family members and friends who will miss her greatly.

The family would like to thank the staff and nurses at Hendrick Hospice Care of Abilene, Mandy and Alysia from Home Instead Senior Care who all cared for her and loved on her in her final days. Your kindness and love will never be forgotten. Funeral services were held Tuesday, November 3 at 10am at Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home Chapel of Faith, at 5701 Highway 277 S, followed by a private burial in Stephens County.

The family received friends from 5pm to 7pm at the funeral home on Monday, November 2, 2020.

For those who wish to make memorial donations in memory of Janice, please make your donations to Serenity House, 150 Orange St, Abilene TX 79601 or a charity of your choice. Paid obituary

Grace Church Shootn' and Safety

The Men of Grace Church Salado hosted a hunter's gun safety and practice event entitled "It's Shooters Time, Again" in the Woods of Salado on Oct. 24. This is an annual event is staged by the church just before deer hunting season. It provides an opportunity for the church to care for the community in a very unique way.

The ultimate goal of the event is to help keep our brothers, sisters and neighbors safe in the field while pursuing that trophy buck or turkey.

The event, featured presentations and demonstrations from Shane Hodyniak, MSgt (ret), a certified big game & safari guide, as well as, Neal Trent, Col. (ret), a Gun Magazine contributor.

The event included a comprehensive review of how to select your ammunition, important safety practices, hunting ethics and courtesies. Following the training there was live practice for both pistol and rifle users; where the men could actually zero-in their rifles at 100 yards.

Following the sessions the men enjoyed a lunch of sausage wraps, hot coffee and chili, which was well received on that chilly morning, as were the variety of unusual hunting tales.

For further information Grace's men's activities, contact Ron Hendrix at 858-344-2963.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

A common method of defense against a suit contract is to try to shorten declarer's trumps by forcing him to ruff. This is most likely to be effective when declarer and dummy together have only eight (or fewer) trumps. Here is a typical case. South ruffed the second round of hearts, led a low spade to the king and finessed the jack on the return, losing to West's queen. West led another heart, and declarer ruffed again. He was now down to the lone ace of spades in his hand, having led trumps twice and ruffed twice. After drawing West's last trump, declarer crossed to the club ace, led the ten of diamonds and finessed. West won with the king and cashed two hearts to defeat the contract two tricks. The repeated heart leads had exhausted South's trumps and brought about his downfall. But analysis shows that South did not handle the situation in the best manner. He could have made his game by exercising better trump control. After ruffing the heart at trick two, he should have played a club to the ace and finessed the ten of diamonds before tackling the trump suit. If the finesse wins, the contract is virtually assured. If the finesse loses, South is in a much better position to deal with the heart return. He ruffs and still has the A-J-6 of spades as well as the established diamonds. A low trump to the king is followed by a trump to the ace, deliberately rejecting the finesse. When West follows suit, the contract becomes a certainty, even though the trump queen is still outstanding. Declarer simply runs his tricks in the side suits, losing only a trump whenever West (or East, if he has the queen) elects to ruff. In effect, South plays for a normal 3-2 trump division instead of yielding to the temptation of winning a trump finesse. Percentagewise, this offers him the best chance of success.

Eagles crush Rockets 66-0, named District 9-4A, Div. 2 Champions

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

The first minute of the Salado Eagles' District 9-4A game against the Robinson Rockets was indicative of the remaining 47.

Caden Strickland started off with a 35 yard kick return, followed by a 27-yard run on the first play from scrimmage by Reid Vincent and a 20-yard touchdown run on the second play from scrimmage by Noah Mescher. Wrook Brown kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 11:19 left in the first quarter.

Kofi Stoglin recovered a Robinson fumble at the Rockets' 22 yard line. Three plays later Vincent ran through the Rocket defense for a 10 yard touchdown with 8:53 left in the first. Brown kicked the PAT for a 14-0 lead.

The Eagles defense forced Robinson to punt from their own 9, setting up Salado at the Rocket 32 yard line. Mescher took it from there, through the middle of the defense for a touchdown at 6:31 in the first. Brown's PAT made it 21-0.

A minute and seven seconds later, after Lucas Morvant recovered a fumble by Cooper Petty, Salado scored on a 27 yard pass from Hutton Haire to a wide open Kole Maedgen. Brown made it 28-0.

The Eagles added one more touchdown in the first, driving 35 yards before Stoglin bulled his way in from the 4 yard line, scoring with 1:28 left in the first. Brown made it 35-0.

Another three-and-out by Robinson and a piddling 31-yard punt, followed by a 38-yard run by Brown, set Salado up at the Rocket 21. Hutton hit Brown for a TD strike and Brown toed the extra point for Salado to go up 42-0 with 11:33 left in the first half.

Another three-and-out gave the Eagles the ball at their own 44 yard line. The Eagles went to work on a sustained drive nine plays, taking almost five minutes off the clock when Vincent scored on an 11 yard run with 4:50 left. Brown made it 49-0.

Salado forced another three-and-out but this time Kory Walker blocked the punt to give Salado the ball at the Rocket 19 yard line. Stoglin again was given the ball on a second and goal to score from the 1 yard line with 1:50 to go and Brown kicked his eighth PAT of the game for a 56-0 first half lead.

Salado called off the dogs in the second half, but the defense continued to stifle Robinson. After a three-and-out, Salado took over at their own 34 yard line. The Eagles drove to the Rocket 6 yard line, setting up Drew Bird's TD run with 4:39 left in the third. Brown kicked the PAT for a 63-0 lead. Strickland carried the ball for gains of 37 and 16 yards on the drive.

The Eagles defense forced another three-and-out and Salado took over at their own 34 yard line with 2:42 left in the third. Nine plays later, Brown kicked a 24-yard field goal with 8:44 left to play and the final lead of 66-0.

Held to three-and-outs on all but their first possession, the Rockets drove from their own 32 yard line to the Salado 15 yard line before time ran out. The drive was costly as senior running back Petty was carted off the field with an injury that required the ambulance.

Kory Walker led the defense with 7 tackles, a tackle for loss (TFL) and blocking a kick.

Greg Washington made 3 tackles, 5 assists, 2 TFLs and caused a fumble.

Lucas Morvant made 3 tackles, 2 assists and recovered a fumble.

Ethan Bagley made 3 tackles, an assist and a TFL.

Braydon Sumners made 3 tackles.

Salado Police Report: Chief's notes

Chief's Notes: We have been receiving numerous complaints of phone calls to our residents which appear to be scams.

The common complaints are telephone and email scams where the caller/sender pretends to be a employee of a government agency. They may threaten or demand immediate payment to avoid arrest or legal action. They will commonly ask you to pay with cash, gift cards, pre-paid debit cards or wire transfer. The government will NOT have you pay a fine in one of these ways! DO NOT BE FOOLED!

If you receive a suspicious call:

1. Hang up!
2. Do not give money or personal information
3. Report the scam at www.OIG.SSA.GOV

Texas A&M Forest Service launches TreeMD app

Texas A&M Forest Service has launched an app to help users quickly identify the "root cause" of tree problems, whether they be from insects, diseases or other factors.

BY: LEIGHTON CHACHERE, LEIGHTON-CHACHERE@TFS.TAMU.EDU

The TreeMD app is part of the Texas Forest Information Portal, and its main feature is a diagnostic tool that allows users to quickly find results from TreeMD's vast database. Users are prompted to enter the tree species, prominent symptoms exhibited or even the specific part of the tree that is being affected to help diagnose the problem.

In the event there are still questions on the actual cause, users can upload pictures and connect for input from a professional.

"TreeMD was created when we saw a need to provide a rapid identification process of tree issues for landowners, homeowners and natural resource service providers," said Sam Rhodes, Texas A&M Forest Service staff forester.

Users can filter lists of suspected causes by potential health problems. Once a pest or environmental factor has been selected, additional information, images and possible treatment options are provided by the user-friendly application.

"I love it," said Sean Jacobson, City of Denton planner. "I was able to easily find an answer within roughly one minute."

While TreeMD is a useful tool in investigating potential tree problems, it is not intended to be a substitute for the recommendations and management planning of a professional service provider.

"One of the most frequent calls we get in the office is from landowners asking what is wrong with a tree," Rhodes said. "This app was created to give users an initial start in diagnosing the cause of their sick tree."

For users who need assistance in identifying their trees, there is an app for that too. Texas A&M Forest Service's My Tree ID app helps identify tree species based on leaves, flowers, seed, bark or location using a key, descriptions and full-color images.

"We have a gallery of helpful tools available to Texans that are interested in natural resources and the great outdoors," Rhodes said. "The Texas Forest Information Portal includes numerous applications designed to assist in everything from land mapping and forest markets to finding big trees and beautiful scenic views across the state."
