

Howard files for second term as alderman

Jason Howard filed for re-election to a two-year term on the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen.

The Howards moved to Salado in 2018 and Jason was elected to the Board of Aldermen in 2020.

For the Howards, Salado held a special place in their hearts since a Christmas Stroll through the Village in 2001. He and his wife, Theresa, “enjoyed the quaint shops and the friendly charm of Salado during that stroll and endeavored to make Salado our home one day,” he said.

“Since my first visit to Salado in 2001, I’ve watched our village grow and change tremendously, and Salado continues to change. I, like many of my fellow citizens, want to ensure that these changes benefit our community members as a whole and that basic services -- like road maintenance and future development, police and fire services, and parks and recreation areas -- improve in our village,” Howard said.

Howard served in the US Army from 1999 to 2007, primarily at Fort Hood and in Iraq. Since his Honorable Discharge, he has earned a Bachelor’s Degree in Accounting and has worked and advanced in the fields of Management and Program Management, Information Technology, and Acquisition, managing budgets in excess of $10 Million per year.

Today, he continues to support the Department of Defense as a Systems Engineering and Technical Assistance (SETA) Contractor.

“When I am not working as your Alderman,” Howard said, “I love being ‘dad’ to my very talented 10-year old daughter and a loving husband to my wonderful wife.

Two of his favorite hobbies are woodworking at home, “and enjoying family walks with our dogs through our beautiful community,” he said.

Willingham retires after 42 years

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

After 42 years, Dr. Douglas B. Willingham is retiring from dentistry. At a retirement reception Jan. 31, he was greeted by the Marvin and Glenda Hill family, four generations of which he has served in his four decades.

Fresh out of dental school, Dr. Willingham set down roots in Salado in the community in which his great, great, great-grandfather Archibald Willingham is credited by historians as building the first home along Salado Creek, a log cabin built in 1849.

Dr. Willingham chose the historic Armstrong-Adams House, which was known to many old-timers in Salado as Dr. Guthrie’s place, at the corner of Main Street and Thomas Arnold. Bill and Pat Ashe had purchased the one-story rock house the year before and had restored it.

For most of its century and a half, the limestone building has served the practice of doctors, pharmacists and, most recently, dentist. Here Dr. Willingham began and built a practice that spanned four decades and generations of local families, including this writer’s.

“It’s scary how little I knew then about managing a dental practice,” he told Salado Village Voice. “Perhaps it’s just as well. The risks involved in beginning a dental practice in a village of 900 people are perhaps best taken by the young and the ignorant.”

And the dedicated, as Doug has proven throughout the decades. In the late 1980’s, Dr. Willingham oversaw the rescue and securing of the College Hill ruins by the Salado Historical Society, conducted by his long-time friend Tim Brown.

Dr. Willingham served on the Salado Historical Society board of directors when the Boles-Aiken cabin was discovered, rescued and rebuilt on the grounds of the Salado Civic Center, next to the Hamblen-Aiken family cemetery. He served on the revitalized Salado College-Robertson Colony Foundation board as it works to turn the College Ruins into an historic park.

Love of history comes naturally for the man who grew up in the red dirt of Lubbock. When he decided to build a home adjacent to his practice, he turned again to his friend Tim Brown. While his personal home captures the feel and character of Texas, it does so in a way that complements and contrasts with the historic Armstrong-Adams house. It is a much different style, done so purposefully in order to maintain the Texas Historical Marker and National Register on the Armstrong-Adams house.

At the center of his home is a two-story fireplace mantel moved to Salado from the Willingham ranch, dated 1880. A painting of the old Willingham place in Lubbock graces the wall of the living room.

A graduate of Baylor College of Dentistry, Dr. Willingham developed a long list of professional and community activities during his career. He served the Texas Dental Association in numerous positions, including editor of the award-winning Texas Dental Journal for seven years. Among other citations received both the Distinguished Service Award and the President’s Award, the Association’s highest honors. He is a Fellow of both the American and International Colleges of Dentists, the Pierre Fauchard Academy. In 1988 was among 22 other Texas dentists to be nominated for “Texas Dentist of the Year.”

Dr. Willingham has also been involved in Salado and Bell County organizations. A past president of the Salado Historical Society and the Railroad and Pioneer Museum in nearby Temple, Willingham has been involved in numerous historic preservation causes, such as his three-year chairmanship of the Salado College Preservation Project and his authorship of the applications for four Texas Historical Markers. He has served on the vestry and as Senior Warden of St. Luke’s Episcopal Church in Belton.

Doug says his favorite activity, however, has been that of father to his beautiful daughter, Sofie and husband to his wife of 16 years Carol Meyer Willingham.

In his retirement, he plans to spend more time with both and to travel and write.

“Fortunately for me, the citizens of this great community got behind me and supported me from the very beginning,” Dr. Willingham said.

Reed files for school board

Marlon Reed filed for a full three-year term on the Salado ISD Board of Trustees.

He and his wife Jaryl have lived in Salado since 2013. “We love this community and what it has to offer,” he said.

The Reeds are members of 3C Cowboy Fellowship in Salado.

They are parents of five children: Dakarai (24) who is currently serving with the Texas National Guard on the southern border, Jayten (16) who is a junior at the Salado High School, DeAndre and DeYanna (both 17) who live with Reed’s ex-wife in Killeen, and Marlen and Jaryl’s two-year-old daughter Maren

“I am a veteran of the United States Army, where I proudly served my country for eleven years,” he said. “In continuation of that service, I went to work for the Temple Police Department where I am currently employed.”

He is currently the Corporal in charge of logistics at Temple police department. He has served in Patrol, Community Police Unit, Juvenile Investigations, and SWAT.

“The family is the cornerstone of the community and parents are their children’s first teachers,” he said. “Parents should be included in every aspect of their child’s education and with that being said, I am running for school board for that reason.”

“I am not running to maintain the status quo, but to work with the citizens of Salado to bring a well-rounded education system that offers our children multiple avenues to successful careers via vocational training or academic achievement,” he stated. “To give parents a voice in their child’s education and bridge the gap between educators and parents.”

Marlon Reed

“Together, we will build resilient children that will be strong adults, ready for any challenge. Our schools should be teaching our children how to think and not what to think,” he said. “We must denounce a curriculum that teaches the tenants of CRT in all its forms, in our education systems. The first step was for it to be banned in Texas.”

“Together, in partnership with parents, teachers, and administrators, Salado ISD will lead the way in education,” he said. “I will represent the citizens of Salado and ensure that your concerns are heard. I can not wait to see you at the voting booth and I would be grateful for your vote.”

Masks, tests, vaccines available

The City of Temple, in partnership with Temple Fire & Rescue and the Texas Army National Guard, is hosting a COVID-19 testing and vaccination site 10 a.m.-6 p.m. weekdays through Feb. 11 at Draughton-Miller Central Texas Regional Airport.

The site will be set up inside a hangar and will be accessible through the Aviation Business Park Entrance for individuals ages 2+, as well as Moderna and Pfizer vaccines. Individuals ages 12 and up can receive either shot in the series or the booster for either brand with permission from a guardian.

Anyone interested in getting a COVID-19 test is encouraged to bring an ID. No registration is required, but individuals can complete pre-registration paperwork online.

For more information, contact Temple Fire & Rescue Chief Mitch Randles at mrandles@templetx.gov and Emergency Management Specialist Jennifer Henager at jhenager@templetx.gov.

Several other places in the Temple area offer vaccinations and testing, including CVS, Walgreens, Walmart, the Veterans Administration hospital, and the Baylor Scott & White Medical Center and clinics. Some locations may require appointments or allow walk-ins. Information about the nearest vaccine location can be found at <https://www.vaccines.gov/> or by calling 1-800-232-0233.

Free at-home test kits are available at <https://www.covidtests.gov/>. Tests are limited to four per household and are shipped through the United States Mail Service.

About 400 million N95 masks will be available in the United States free of cost through a federal program. Masks will be available at pharmacies and clinics throughout Bell County starting this week. Walgreens said the pharmacy now has masks available.

CLOSED THE LAST SUNDAY OF EACH MONTH

U.S. GDP grew by 6.9% in 4th quarter 2021, economy expanded by 5.7% for 2021

If you were following the markets all week and finally threw in the towel early on Friday, January 28, you may feel a bit like the KC Chiefs fans who left the stadium with less than a minute before what seemed surely to be a heartbreaking defeat for the Chiefs, who, of course grabbed a tie with mere seconds left in the regular game and won in overtime. On Friday the S&P 500 (SPX) started out sliding downward, looking like it was going to continue its slipping, sliding fall that has been its main theme since the beginning of the month. Then, in a flash of glory, the SPX soared 3.1% to close at 4431.85, up 0.71% for the week. That still leaves it down just over 7% this year, but it seems to have once more dodged the negative 10% bullet and thus avoid-

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

ed a full-scale correction. It also leaves the Index up 19.32% from a year earlier. Our other carefully followed stock index, the CRSP US Mid Cap Value Index, closed at 2493.91, up 0.21% for the week, but only down 3.98% year-to-date, and up a whopping 21.47% from this time last year. The driving factor in this almost-correction appears to be a deep fear that the Federal Reserve will recklessly hike interest rates so fast that it flips the economy into a recession. Given that both its chairman and its members have repeatedly stated they do not want that to happen, we believe the risks there are quite low.

The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note continued its relentless rise to end the week at 1.778%, up about 0.7% since last week, leaving adequate steepness in the yield curve for the economy to have plenty of room to grow with the 30-year bond yielding 2.083%. West Texas Intermediate crude oil joined in the climb, rising nearly 3% to $87.25 per barrel. Wall Street analysts are estimating we will see $100 per barrel prices in the summer, so get ready for some pain at the gas pump.

The Economy

The big economic news, announced early in the week by our beloved U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis, was that the 2021, fourth quarter U.S. GDP grew at an annualized rate of 6.9%! Presuming that first estimate holds, it means that for the whole year of 2021, the economy of the United States expanded at a 5.7% net rate of growth. Note that inflation is subtracted from the GDP, as is the trade deficit, so that 5.7% is a net number and the fastest economic growth we have seen since 1984. There is a caveat here though. A substantial portion of that high annualized GDP number came from businesses restocking inventory as the supply chains started to unkink. We will not see that kind of inventory build in the first quarter of 2022, and it appears that we may see inventory drawdown as the massive number of COVID-related sick days builds up. We are already seeing grocery store empty shelves and hardware shortages limiting manufacturing. Inventory drawdowns reduce GDP, so best estimates for GDP growth in the first quarter of this year are running about 2.2%.

Related to that, manufacturing output started slowing in December and decreased between 1% and 2% across the country. Durable goods orders, driven by transportation orders, followed suit and fell 0.9%. If we exclude transportation from the orders, they rose 0.4%. The underlying reason appears to be the onslaught of Omicron causing large numbers of workers to stay home sick.

Consumer spending also fell in December by 0.6%, the first decline in 10 months. That slump was driven in part by people doing Christmas purchases early, back in November, but primarily by Omicron. The patterns were there that as Omicron surged through the population centers on the east and west coasts, consumer spending fell. Sick people and people scared of getting sick tend not to spend much money. Economists are predicting that consumers will open up their pocketbooks again as soon as Omicron looks to be in the rear-view mirror. The reasoning is sound since the cash in consumer balance sheets remains at near record levels and a New York Federal Reserve survey of consumers showed that households across the country are planning to spend more in 2022 on food, clothing, housing, utilities, and transportation than they have in the past two years. Those factors coupled with a substantial increase in wages suggest that sometime in the second quarter of 2022, the U.S. consumer, who is responsible for about 2/3 of our GDP, will return to traveling, the internet, restaurants, theaters, and stores to celebrate.

So, what about the stock market? All the data available when parsed against history strongly suggests that this semi-correction we are seeing is nothing more than that. The earnings yield of the S&P 500 is still higher than bond yields, the yield curve is still forecasting better times ahead, and the Omicron tidal wave appears to have peaked in the areas it hit first. Barring a Russian invasion of Ukraine or another, more severe virus variant, the future looks bright. We will need some patience as the first quarter is likely to be bumpy, but beyond that we expect some very good times ahead.

Opening lead — king of spades.

Generally speaking, there are two schools of bidders. The first is composed of those whose chief goal in bidding is to reach the best possible contract for their side. This group represents the overwhelming majority of bridge players.

Members of the second school are those whose chief purpose is to try to prevent the opponents from reaching their best contract. The tactics employed by these players can take many forms, but the aim is always the same — to do as much damage to the opponents' bidding structure as possible.

It is evident from this deal, played in the 1978 women's world pair championship, that North-South, who shall remain nameless, were both full-fledged members of the second school.

South opened the bidding in third seat with one diamond, presumably because it was her turn to bid. West doubled, and North, attempting to muddy the waters, bid one spade! East entered the fray with two hearts, employing her partnership's peculiar system of bidding what you have rather than what you don't have.

West raised two hearts to four, and this rolled around to South, who apparently thought she had not yet expressed the full value of her hand. Accordingly, she bid four spades! West, who no doubt could not believe her ears, found a double, and North retreated to five diamonds, also doubled.

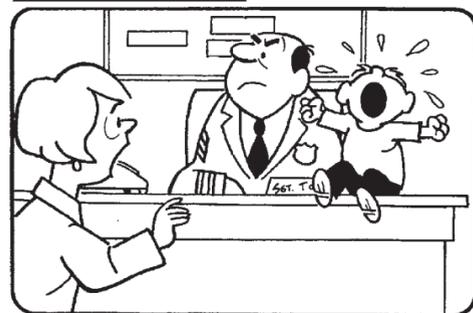

Then came five spades and six diamonds, both doubled, at which point the bidding mercifully came to a grinding halt. Declarer finished down six — 1,700 points — and North-South were left with a gnawing feeling that perhaps something had gone wrong with their system.

Welding team earns FTW reserve champ

A welding trailer, constructed and exhibited by Josh Adams, Waylon Padleski, Zachary Dunlap and Carter Marquis of Salado FFA in Salado was named Reserve Champion in the Trailers Division at the 2022 Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo.

Displaying the talents, skills and knowledge of Texas youth, the Junior Agricultural Mechanics Project Show is a highlight of the Stock Show's opening weekend. Members of 4-H and FFA organizations spend countless hours designing and constructing equipment (livestock and wildlife feeders, trailers, cultivation tools, etc.) to suit a variety of farm and ranch needs. There are also divisions for outdoor recreational equipment, as well as a division for the restoration of farm and ranch equipment (tractors and horse-drawn equipment). The contest has experienced significant popularity among 4-H clubs and high school agricultural science programs since 2013.

Kaylee Bragg, a 4-H member from Salado captured Red Angus Reserve Junior Champion with H/H Ms Pride 0156 at the 2022 Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo on January 23. The 2022 Show is hosting junior exhibitors from across Texas competing for awards and more than $2,250 in Red Angus Heifer premiums.

With 4-H and FFA members from 239 of Texas' 254 counties competing in livestock shows, judging contests and other competitions, the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo takes pride in providing learning opportunities in agriculture and livestock production. Their experiences not only enlighten them on the importance of stewardship and helping feed the world, they help provide the means to attend college and enter exciting career paths.

"Of everything we do, opening the minds of these amazing youth to the important role livestock production serves for the benefit of society is probably at the top of the list," said Stock Show President and General Manager Bradford S. Barnes.

Eagles beat Lake Belton, Taylor

Salado Eagles outscored the Lake Belton Broncos 22-17 in the fourth quarter, during which the lead changed five times, to take home a 67-64 district road win Jan. 28.

The Eagles took the final lead of the game after Lake Belton turned the ball over with a minute left to play and the score knotted at 62-62.

Drawing two defenders to hit at the top of the key, Josh Goings passed off to Noah Self who drained a three-pointer for a 65-62 lead with 47 seconds left in the game.

Salado sent Easton Hammond to the line with 23 seconds left and he drained both shots to narrow the lead to a point.

The Mustangs fouled Darius Wilson with 5.5 left on the clock and he sank both free throws giving Salado a 67-64 lead. With time running out, Hammond missed a tying three-pointer.

The Broncos outshot Salado with 50% compared to the Eagles' 40%, but Salado made the ones that counted, hitting seven of their 18 three-point shots while the Broncos made just two of their 11 three pointers. Salado outrebounded Lake Belton 30-23.

Goings hit seven of his 21 shots from the field but converted 10 of 11 free throws on his way to 25 points in the game. He added 5 rebounds, 3 assists and a deflection.

A student-athlete's athletic success is often publicly celebrated and recognized, however, the hard work and commitment needed for academic success is often overlooked. Our football coaches are to be commended for not only supporting our athletes in the classroom but also taking the time to nominate their team for this prestigious award. At a time when students need the support of

Congratulations to the following varsity football players, head coach Alan Haire, and assistant coaches Blake Rives, Emery Atkinson, Scott Balmos, Dusty Youngblood, Chance Sherrill, Caleb Perez, Robbie Gillen, Kyle Cathers, Troy Byrd, and Harrison Sims.

What forms of identification do I need to vote in Texas?

If you have been expecting your voter registration card to come in the mail, it won't be coming.

Instead, you will need an acceptable form of photo identification to vote in person.

According to votetexas.gov website, Senate Bill 5, passed by the 85th Legislature, Regular Session, requires voters who possess an acceptable form of photo identification for voting listed below to present that identification in order to vote in person in all Texas elections. For voters aged 18-69, the acceptable form of photo identification may be expired no more than four years before being presented for voter qualification at the polling place. For voters aged 70 or older, the acceptable form of photo identification may be expired for any length of time if the identification is otherwise valid.

Voters who do not possess an acceptable form of photo identification and cannot reasonably obtain one of the forms of acceptable photo identification listed below may present a supporting form of identification and execute a Reasonable Impediment Declaration, noting the voter's reasonable impediment to obtaining an acceptable form of photo identification, stating that the information contained in the declaration is true, that the voter is the same individual personally appearing at the polling place to sign the declaration, and that the voter faces a reasonable impediment to procuring an acceptable form of photo identification.

This requirement is effective immediately.

Texas Driver License issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS)

Texas Election Identification Certificate issued by DPS

Texas Personal Identification Card issued by DPS

Texas Handgun License issued by DPS

United States Military Identification Card containing the person's photograph

United States Citizenship Certificate containing the person's photograph

United States Passport (book or card)

With the exception of the U.S. Citizenship Certificate, which does not expire, for voters aged 18-69, the acceptable form of photo identification may be expired no more than four years before being presented for voter qualification at the polling place. For voters aged 70 or older, the acceptable form of photo identification may be expired for any length of time if the identification is otherwise valid.

Election Identification Certificates are available from DPS driver license offices during regular business hours. Find mobile station locations here.

Here is a list of the supporting forms of ID that can be presented if the voter does not possess one of the forms of acceptable photo ID and cannot reasonably obtain one:

copy or original of a government document that shows the voter's name and an address, including the voter's voter registration certificate;

copy of or original current utility bill;

copy of or original bank statement;

copy of or original government check;

copy of or original paycheck; or copy of or original of (a) a certified domestic (from a U.S. state or territory) birth certificate or (b) a document confirming birth admissible in a court of law which establishes the voter's identity (which may include a foreign birth document).

After presenting one of the forms of supporting ID listed above, the voter must execute a Reasonable Impediment Declaration.

Procedures for Voting

New version: When a voter arrives at a polling location, the voter will be asked to present one of the seven (7) acceptable forms of photo ID that is current or, for voters aged 18-69, expired no more than four years. Voters aged 70 or older may present one of the seven (7) acceptable forms of photo ID that is expired for any length of time that is otherwise valid. If a voter does not possess one of the seven (7) acceptable forms of photo ID and cannot reasonably obtain one, the voter may present a supporting form of ID and execute a Reasonable Impediment Declaration, noting the voter's reasonable impediment to obtaining an acceptable form of photo identification, stating that the information contained in the declaration is true, that the voter is the same individual personally appearing at the polling place to sign the declaration, and that the voter faces a reasonable impediment to procuring an acceptable form of photo identification.

Election officials are still required by State law to determine whether the voter's name on the identification provided (acceptable photo ID, or supporting form of ID, if applicable) matches the name on the official list of registered voters ("OLRV"). After a voter presents their ID, whether it's an acceptable form of photo ID or a supporting form of ID (if applicable), the election worker will compare it to the OLRV. If the name on the ID matches the name on the list of registered voters, the voter will follow the regular procedures for voting.

If the name does not match exactly but is "substantially similar" to the name on the OLRV, the voter will be permitted to vote as long as the voter signs an affidavit stating that the voter is the same person on the list of registered voters.

If a voter possesses an acceptable form of photo ID but does not have it at the polling place, the voter will still be permitted to vote provisionally. The voter will have six (6) days to present an acceptable form of photo identification to the county voter registrar, or fill out the natural disaster affidavit referenced in the Exemption/Exceptions section below, or the voter's ballot will be rejected. Alternatively, a voter who possesses an acceptable form of photo ID but does not have it at the polling place may choose to leave the polling place and return before the close of the polls on election day with said acceptable form of photo ID to, if the voter would otherwise qualify, vote a regular ballot at that time.

Exemptions:

Voters with a disability may apply with the county voter registrar for a permanent exemption to presenting an acceptable photo identification or following the Reasonable Impediment Declaration procedure in the county. The application must contain written documentation from either the U.S. Social Security Administration evidencing the applicant's disability, or from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs evidencing a disability rating of at least 50 percent. The applicant must also state that he/she does not have a form of identification prescribed by Section 63.0101 of the Texas Election Code. Those who obtain a disability exemption will be allowed to vote upon display of their voter registration certificate reflecting the exemption, and will not need to execute a Reasonable Impediment Declaration. Please contact your county voter registrar for more details.

Voters who have a consistent religious objection to being photographed or who do not present an acceptable form of photo identification listed above or follow the Reasonable Impediment Declaration procedure because of certain natural disasters as declared by the President of the United States or the Texas Governor, may vote a provisional ballot, appear at the voter registrar's office within six (6) calendar days after election day, and sign an affidavit swearing to the religious objection or natural disaster, in order for the voter's ballot to be counted. Please contact your county voter registrar for more details.
