Village tackles regulations of short term rentals

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen will tackle the sticky issue of Short Term Rental (STR) regulations during their June 2 meeting.

STR regulations have landed Texas cities in the courthouse, where appellate courts have landed firmly on the side of the property owner, especially in the case of Austin, which tried to terminate all type-2 operating licenses effective in 2022.

In November 2019, the Third Court of Appeals declared the City of Austin's Short Term Rental Ordinance unconstitutional.

"The Court of Appeals' decision confirms that individuals do not surrender fundamental constitutional rights simply by renting a home for less than thirty days," said Chance Weldon, an attorney with the Texas Public Policy Foundation. "That's not only a victory for our clients, but for renters and property owners across the state."

"The denial of the City of Austin's motion for reconsideration by the entire Texas Third Court of Appeals is another win for private property rights and personal liberties in Texas," said Robert Henneke, general counsel for the Texas Public Policy Foundation. "The decision by the Texas appellate court affirms the right to lease one's property regardless for how long. And, all person staying within a residence have their constitutional rights to assembly affirmed without risk of government interference."

Property Owners in the Zaatari v. City of Austin case contend and the Third Court of Appeals agreed that provisions of the City of Austin STR ordinance "place owners and tenants of short-term rentals at risk of unconstitutional search and seizure. Specifically, they challenge the provision that added short-term rentals to the enumerated list of types of property that officials must inspect "to ensure compliance with this chapter and other applicable laws."

The Austin STR ordinance also terminated all type-2 operating licenses.

In 2019, Attorney General Ken Paxton intervened in the lawsuit, stating at the time that his office was doing so "over its onerous short-term rental ordinance, concerned that it exceeds the lawful scope of the city's authority and infringes upon residents' fundamental constitutional rights."

"This blatant overreach by local government infringes upon the constitutional rights of people who own and stay at short-term rentals," Attorney General Paxton said at the time. "The city of Austin's draconian ordinance defies logic and common sense, and must be struck down."

The Third Court of Appeals stated in its ruling that it does "suggest that the City of Austin is powerless to regulate short-term rentals or to address the possible negative effects of short-term rentals—in fact, it already does so with various nuisance ordinances. See, e.g., Austin, Tex., Code §§ 9-2-1-9-2-65 (noise ordinance), 9-4-15 (prohibiting public urination and defecation), 10-5-42-10-5-45 (littering ordinance), 12-5-1-12-2-44 (parking ordinance); see also Tex. Penal Code §§ 42.01 (disorderly conduct), 49.02 (public intoxication)."

Village aldermen will consider a proposed ordinance regulating STR within the Village boundaries.

The proposed ordinance was not available on the village website prior to the meeting.

Fredericksburg has also tangled with the blooming STR industry and what are said to be issues and problems stemming for the short term rental of single family homes on weekends.

Fredericksburg has almost 900 units of STR in their limits. It has held seven public input sessions and three City Council Work Sessions to gain public input on the proposed regulations.

One issue is on-street parking, particularly the number of vehicles parked at a single family home that advertises that it can house as many as 12-14 lodgers.

Fredericksburg will propose parking and occupancy regulations for STRs that operate in its limits.

The proposed Fredericksburg regulations include occupancy limitations of two per bedroom plus two guests for houses of four bedrooms or fewer and two per bedroom with no additional guests for houses of five or more bedrooms.

The proposed Fredericksburg regulations also require one parking space per bedroom.

Jim Farrell talked to aldermen at their May 18 meeting about the issues he is facing with a neighboring house that is being marketed as an STR.

"They park in the yard and streets. We also don't know who they are or where they're from. This is in an otherwise quiet neighborhood," Farrell said. "They advertise that they can put 12 people in house. The home was built for three to five people. There is not enough parking for large crowd. It is not a safe situation to not know who is going to be in the house next door."

Another issue with STR is reporting and collecting of occupancy taxes. While airbnb.com collects, reports and pays over the state occupancy taxes as well as local occupancy taxes for some governing bodies, STR owners are left to their own to collect and report occupancy taxes to local governing bodies.

Salado Village Voice contacted the Tourism Department to determine how many STRs are reporting, filing and paying taxes with the Village.

Remembering the flag on Memorial Day

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Ret. Army Maj. Nick Linville remembers how the day September 11, 2001 began and how it ended.

It began with planes crashing into the Twin Towers in New York City. But by the end of the day, someone had found an American Flag and flew it on the rubble that was once the landmark of American enterprise and economy.

"It meant everything to see that flag flying," he told the audience of more than 100 gathered for the annual Memorial Day Service at Salado Cemetery.

He told the audience that wherever the U.S. Flag floats, it is on territory that has been earned, "has been won. W.O.N." he said.

Nick shared the beginnings of Memorial Day with the audience. The first national observance of Memorial Day occurred on May 30, 1868. Then known as Decoration Day, the day was proclaimed by Commander in Chief John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic for the purpose of honoring Union soldiers who died in the Civil War.

Memorial Day was marked every May 30 until 1971 when the uniform holidays Act marked Memorial Day as the final Monday in May.

Around the country, Americans gather at cemeteries to remember the dead and their sacrifices. "They pay the ultimate price for our freedom," he said. "They make the ultimate sacrifice."

He also talked about how the flag is treated on this day of remembrance. The flag should be lowered to half staff from sunrise until noon, at which time it is briskly raised to the top of the staff until sunset, in honor of the nation's battle heroes.

Linville retired as a Nurse Practitioner with his last active duty station being Darnall Army Hospital. He then worked for the Veterans Administration before retiring a second time.

He read to the audience two poems from his collection entitled, Cactus Flowers: A Soldier's Poetry: A Soldier's Statement and The Flag at 1700.

Following his remarks, Ret. Lt. Col. Stephen Peters read the names of all vet-

A Soldier's Statement

If you cannot speak from your heart and mean every word,
If you cannot say with passion from the depths of your being,
But knowing all you say is true
And if you cannot live the life of a king in your thoughts while having nothing,
Do not try to travel with me on that road all speak about and believe so easy.
For words do not outweigh deeds,
And victory does not begin in battle
But only in the depths of the well-prepared soul.

Let all who hear these words take notice
That upon the sands and waters yesterday ran streams of blood,
And lifeless members of brave bodies lay all around.
Now, if the stillness, the true battle begins.
It is simpler to face those tearing objects—so pointed, so fast, and so sharp,
Than to face one demon of memory, guilt or pain.

Let the Flag fly before us and the fallen heroes be remembered.
And you set a seat for them at your dining,
Who, by chance, will come?

They died so we could live
And not by tradition did they die but by simple faith.
That they, the fallen, hoped to live a much brighter future
With spouse, children, and while growing old would gather their treasured afford which all the learned seek—
A life of family, honor, security, and above all, peace.

The Flag at 1700

I stopped at a busy intersection to watch the flag being lowered.

As I stepped outside and the cannon's blast drowned the sound of my engine,
I saluted.

I watched the colors lowered to be set at rest for another night
And remember those died so I could stand and watch.

The Flag is neither spirit nor god;
It is simply an emblem.
But over the soil that this emblem flies,
Freedom is promised.

I do not know the full price for its flying—
A price in blood shed on soils, in airways, and on decks of ships with heroes all
And too many unsung.

I can only remember those brave souls
Who gave everything for the promise of freedom
And only think about the unmeasured price for flying that flag through this day.

Market volatility driven lately by retail giants' earnings reports

There is a lot one can say about the past few weeks, but "boring" is certainly not on the list. The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) turned in a stellar week as it approached the Memorial Day weekend by rising to 4158.24, up an impressive 6.58%, half of its long-term average annual gain in a single week. It does though remain down 12.76% so far this year and is down 1.09% from a year earlier. Still, if there was a contest for bear-dodging, the SPX appears to be headed for first place. That rather spectacular rise also kicked the three-year average annual return of the Index up to 14.75%, well above its very long-term average. Not to be outdone, the other equity index we follow, the CRSP Mid-Cap Value Index, rose 6.54% to 2528.82, leaving it down only 2.64% this year and up 1.87% from a year ago.

The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note fell to 2.745%. With the 2-year note at 2.468% and the 30-year bond yielding 2.970%, the Treasury yield curve remains still well in positive territory, suggesting better times to come. Unhappily, the price of a barrel of West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) rose another 2% to $115.12 as summer vacation driving started, increasing demand, and Russian oil exports continued to decrease. The good news is that the U.S. is selling record amounts of oil and natural gas internationally. The bad news is that the global shortage is driving prices up both here and abroad.

The Economy

The economic news on the home front continues to be positive. The Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) announced that Personal Consumer Expenditures, the element that equates to about two-thirds of our GDP, rose a seasonally adjusted 0.9% in April, an annualized rate of 11.35%, while Personal Income rose 0.4% for the Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

month, an annualized rate of about 5%. Obviously, spending rising that much faster than earnings is not a sustainable trend, but as we have noted in the past, Americans are sitting on record levels of cash, and it appears they are spending some of it.

There was another figure in the BEA release that was perhaps even more encouraging. In that report is the Federal Reserve's preferred inflation index, the Personal Consumer Expenditure Price Index (PCE). For the month of April, it rose only 0.2%, which equates to an annual inflation rate of 2.43%. The PCE is indeed up 6.3% from a year earlier, and even the "core" PCI is up 4.9%, but the data is consistently pointing to a decreasing rate of inflation as 2022 progresses. Consumer spending, focused over the past two years on "goods" appears to be continuing to shift to "services". That is a real positive as much of the inflation that we have seen over the past year appears to have been generated by an outsized demand for goods, or as we like to call it, "stuff."

One of the things that has driven the relatively extreme volatility in the stock market over the past couple of weeks has been the very disappointing earnings reports from Walmart, Target, and Best Buy. A deeper look into those earnings reports reveals that the big-box store chains saw increased revenues and sales. The reduced earnings came from the fact that they apparently put in outsized orders and paid a premium last year for what their customers were buying during the heart of the pandemic. As the pandemic has ebbed, their customers are shifting their buying to a new set of goods, leaving stores with a large inventory of unsold items. On the other hand, Dollar General, Dollar Tree, and even Home Depot reported rising sales and good profits because they did not or could not get as many goods during the supply chain disruptions.

It appeared that the rise in interest rates may be having its desired effect. The sales of new homes fell to a two-year low and home prices seem to be stabilizing. S&P reported that U.S. businesses saw a reduction in their rate of growth to something more sustainable. On a scale where numbers above 50 indicate expansion and below 50, contraction, and numbers above 55 are likely to be both unsustainable and inflationary, the S&P flash U.S. Manufacturing Index fell from 59.2 to 57.5 in May while the flash services index dropped from 55.6 to 53.5.

All is not well in the world though. While there is now a consensus among economists that the probability of a U.S. recession in the foreseeable future is quite low, China, the world's second largest economy appears to be experiencing one of the sharpest declines in economic activity in decades. More, Russia's invasion of Ukraine has driven the price of food-grains up about 40%. That grain shortage and price spike has the potential to destabilize much of the developing world.

The U.S. economy continues to charge ahead with plenty of fuel and momentum. The growth rate appears to be slowing to something more sustainable and inflation appears to be moving down. All in all, things continue to look good from where we stand.

Things won't change... without changing things

Dear Editor:

Maybe we should take a look back at the basics...

In 1776 the Declaration of Independence stated the following with a litany of complaints against the English Sovereign as the framers' reasons for separating - "...We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government..." Those words were sufficient to mobilize an army primarily formed of citizen soldiers that defeated a larger, better trained and better armed English military.

In 1789 the Constitution of the United States was ratified, defining governing institutions and their duties. Then, in 1791 the U.S. Bill of Rights, the first ten amendments to the Constitution, was ratified outlining rights of the citizens. In the intervening 230 years the meanings of at least two of those amendments have been compromised, misinterpreted, distorted, expanded, and edited through the efforts of greedy corporations, their lobbyists and "bought" politicians; malleable and politicized jurists and courts; and so called "religious leaders". Today, illegitimate cries and claims of "my Constitutional rights" ring throughout the nation even though recognizing them often overrides the legitimate and defined rights of others. Here are two stated "rights".

Amendment I: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Amendment II: A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

These amendments are worded concisely and with much thought. The writers knew of historic atrocities committed in theocracies and by "state religions," yet today there is political movement to create one in the U.S. (Even "churches" engaging in political activities are extended tax-free status - a benefit expressly denied by the above First Amendment.) Freedom of speech has been applied to actions that have no relation to individuals' speech. (In

Your Voice

Letters to the Editor

Massachusetts, a lawsuit accusing corporate Exxon of lying for decades about the climate impact of fossil fuels has been countered by Exxon with a claim that the lawsuit violates Exxon's right to free speech.)

The referenced, specifically worded modifier, "...Militia necessary for the security of a free state...", has been discounted in interpretations of the Second Amendment. The intent to maintain a reserve of citizen soldiers has been distorted to the extent that a psychopath can purchase a military grade weapon and use it to take the lives of innocent individuals who expect and deserve protections described in the Declaration of Independence. There is little doubt that the U.S. government has been and is now failing to secure and protect the true basic rights of its citizens. Fortunately today "...the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government..." would not require armed insurrection - just a simple trip to the voting booth.

However, until the U.S.'s abysmal voting record is rectified, politicians will cater to their minority bases and financial benefactors to the detriment of the majority and against its wishes. Increased attendance at the polls would elicit a much greater response toward "instituting a new government" than marching around carrying signs.

Tom Curb

To the Editor:

I am tired of a "moment of silence." I am tired of "thoughts and prayers" being offered by elected officials. I am tired of the Second Amendment being referred to as a "right" and "God-given." I am tired of the endless violence which passes, and is accepted, as entertainment in our country. I am tired of the word "suicide" being used as a badge of honor for the sensational effects. I am tired of hearing of murdering shooters who seek recognition in copycat carnage. I am tired of our schools and other public places being the sites of open season on innocent victims.

Statistics say that there are 400 million guns in this country. our own city area has recorded 14 homicides this year alone. More children have been killed in school shootings by gunfire this year than law officers. Twenty-two percent of gun owners reported that they had no background checks. Background checks are federally required for licensed gun sales and none are required at gun shows and online. Democratic Hosue members introduced HR8, Bipartisan Background Checks Act. It has been stalled in the Senate for two years. An update was just posted on the day of the Robb School shooting as now being read and put on Legislative Calendar. Senator Ted Cruz has received $442,000 from gun rights groups and he was a key speaker at last weekend's NRA Convention in Houston. Senator John Cornyn received $340,000 in gun rights contributions. He has backed out of the convention. I ask our local elected officials (Shine and Buckley) what their contribution amounts are from NRA or other gun-associated entities as a public disclosure

There are other initiatives and legislation which can be passed to include ban of assault weapons and large capacity magazine outside of law enforcement/military. Red Flag Laws to disclose prior mental and domestic occurrences. Permitless Carry is already stacking up to be a ridiculous answer to citizen rights. The answer to gun violence is not more guns. We must vote for political candidates who are willing to have "Backbone" and run campaigns and mission platforms on common sense gun reform. Stand up to the gun lobbies and own a position of seeking bipartisan solutions to gun control. It is the only way to save our country from future barbaric slaughter.

Dear Editor:

Buck Buckman, a friend to many of us, passed away on May 13. The Community came together to Celebrate his Life on May 23, there were between 50 and 60 friends in attendance.

This came together pretty quickly, and there are so many people to thank beginning with Tommye Prater, Joe Oliver, Chris Graham, Billy Helms and all the owners of Mill Creek Country Club, to Tim and Marilyn Fleischer for getting the announcement in the newspaper at the last minute, and to Lynette Jones retired owner of McCains for the Food.

Bucks Family was so touched by the outpouring of Love they had no idea how much people cared so for Buck. I was such a BLESSING the way the Community came together to Celebrate Buck, a very special and loved friend to so many.

The Erwins perform June 17 to raise funds for Cedar Valley Church to rebuild Grammy-nominated group The Erwins will perform a night of their gospel music 7 p.m. June 17 at Crossroads Church to benefit First Cedar Valley Baptist Church.

Building the Wall will raise money to rebuild the First Cedar Valley Baptist Church. The church building was destroyed in the EF-3 tornado that ripped through the Cedar Valley and Southshore areas west of Salado.

Cedar Valley Baptist Church has brought The Erwins to Salado several times for gospel concerts.

The church is asking for donations of $20 or more during the concert.

“Singing is all we know and all we want to do. It’s our life and our joy to serve the Lord with the voices He has given us,” said lead singer Keith Erwin. “We will gladly go through any door He chooses to open, no matter how big or small. We know the Lord doesn’t need us, but He chooses to use us, and for that we are thankful.”

The Erwins started singing as soon as they were each able to talk. Appearing at over 270 dates a year with their father, who has been in full-time evangelism for 44 years, they have been traveling full-time their entire life singing in concerts, revivals, and conferences all across the country.

Three of the four siblings, Keith, Kody, and Kris performed as a trio until 2013, when the group announced that their little sister, Katie, would be joining the group full-time on stage officially making them a Mixed Group.

The Erwins are blazing new trails in Southern Gospel, proving to their industry peers and fans alike, that the future of Southern Gospel music is, in fact, secure with a young group like The Erwins.

Depiction of the Church scene in Much Ado About Nothing by William Shakespeare, painted by Alfred W. Elmore in 1846. Artwork is in the public domain. (WIKICOMMONS.ORG)

Much Ado About Nothing set for June 3-4 at Tablerock

Shakespeare on the Rock this summer will bring Shakespeare's comedy Much Ado About Nothing to Tablerock Amphitheater 7:30 p.m. June 3-4.

Gates open at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children 12 years old and younger. Tickets can be purchased at CentralTexasTickets.com or buy them at the gate on show nights. For more info go to Tablerock.org or call Tablerock Festival of Salado, (254) 308-2200 or email info@tablerock.org.

The comedy will be performed by theater students from McLennan Community College, under the direction of Kelly Parker.

According to Shakespeare.org, Much Ado About Nothing is about falling in love and falling out of love. Count Claudio falls in love with Hero, the daughter of his host. Hero's cousin Benedict (a confirmed spinster) and Benedict (an eternal bachelor) are each duped into believing the other is in love with them. Claudio is deceived by a malicious plot and denounces Hero as unchaste before they marry. She faints and is believed dead, but recovers to be proved innocent by a chance discovery. Benedict wins Beatrice's love defending her cousin's honour, and to his surprise, Claudio is reunited with Hero, who he believed dead.

Tables will be colorfully decorated for the annual Salado Area Republican Women's Association Fine China Luncheon on June 7 in the Blue Heron Room of Tenroc Ranch.

Fine China Luncheon set June 7

Salado Area Republican Women have great plans to celebrate the 15th anniversary Fine China Luncheon and Fundraiser on June 7 in the Blue Heron Room at Tenroc Ranch.

This event has grown since the initial luncheon in 2006, and boasts record ticket sales, attendance, and fund-raising yearly. The tables are elegantly decorated by local individuals and a few businesses.

There are still openings for individuals wanting to host a table.

The sponsors can be expected to decorate a table but are not obligated to sell tickets for the entire table; however, they have the option of selling to as many for their table as they wish.

Classic Events of Texas will cater the meal for the event.

Information about sponsoring a table or for ticket information contact Barclay McCort, Third Vice President of Fundraising, at barclaymccort@gmail.com or at 254 760-4266.

Proceeds from all SARW sponsored projects fund civic, educational, military, and political campaigns. In addition, the club awards two scholarships annually.

American Legion donates trailer to SHS FFA Club

Salado High School Future Farmers of America took delivery of a covered trailer on the last day of school, purchased and donated to the local program by the Joe Kott Post #317 of the American Legion.

In addition to purchasing the trailer for the vocational education program at Salado High School, the local American Legion post also gave three $2,000 scholarships to graduating Salado High School seniors.

Jeff Stockton, known to most people as Uncle Eagle, the moniker he uses for his Schoolboy Sports webcasts, was able to connect the Joe Kott Post and the Salado FFA.

"I know how great our FFA kids are here in Salado," Stockton said. "I also know how much the American Legion gives in the community. I was happy to make the connection."

The Joe Kott Post #317 meets on the third Tuesday of the month with the executive board meeting at 6 p.m. and the general membership meeting at 7 p.m. The Post is located at 201 West FM 487 in Jarrell. Post #317 accepts members from Jarrell, Salado and Florence and contributes to the schools and students in those schools.

The American Legion was chartered by Congress in 1919 as a patriotic veterans organization. Focusing on service to veterans, servicemembers and communities, the Legion evolved from a group of war-weary veterans of World War I into one of the most influential nonprofit groups in the United States. Membership swiftly grew to over 1 million, and local posts sprang up across the country. Today, membership stands at nearly 2 million in more than 13,000 posts worldwide. The posts are organized into 55 departments: one each for the 50 states, along with the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, France, Mexico and the Philippines.

Over the years, the Legion has influenced considerable social change in America, won hundreds of benefits for veterans and produced many important programs for children and youth. Following is a chronology of significant dates in Legion history:

If you have served at least one day of active military duty since December 7, 1941 and were honorably discharged or you are still serving active military duty honorably, you are eligible for membership with The American Legion.

High School students share Computer Science skills with Howton's first grade students by using Ozobots

On Thursday morning May 19, Mrs. Howton's first grade class had the opportunity to visit the High School and interact with Coach Brown's high school Computer Science class using Ozobots. It also gave the older students the chance to give back to the school's growing CS program in an effort to foster interest in STEM at a young age.

Ozobots are tiny robots that are designed to introduce students of all ages to coding. These Ozobots follow lines that can be hand drawn and perform tasks that control their speed, direction, or just do some cool moves. The first graders worked in small groups in the beginning to gain a basic understanding of how to control an Ozobot before breaking out into stations each led by high school juniors Sam Redelsheimer, Evan Hardt, Jaxson Leiskau, Evan Croftcheck, and Landon McKee. These stations engaged students in various activities ranging from racing around a track to robots meandering through a maze.

If the students stick with the track, they will go on to learn more advanced languages including Python and Java in the AP courses. The program has grown to about 75 students annually.

Mrs. Howton was able to purchase the Ozobots through a grant from Salado Education Foundation.

The Computer Science path at SHS in the first year covers learning about bits & bytes, web design with HTML/CSS, and games/animation with JavaScript.

declarers cashed five diamonds and five spades, leaving South with only the Q-10 of hearts.

On the last spade, West — who had been reduced to the K-8 of hearts and queen of clubs — had to discard before dummy, which held the A-9 of hearts and jack of clubs. West was squeezed, so both declarers finished with all the tricks.

The squeeze succeeded only because West had the king of hearts and the club queen. But there was a much better approach available that would have yielded 13 tricks even if East had held the heart king.

The proper line of play is to win the club lead and ruff a club. Declarer then cashes dummy's K-Q of trump and, after he sees that the missing trumps are divided 3-2, ruffs another club.

A spade to dummy's jack is followed by a third club ruff with South's last trump, the ace. Declarer then crosses to the ace of hearts, draws East's last trump with the jack while discarding the queen of hearts from his hand, and scores the last four tricks with the A-K-Q-10 of spades.

Ruffing dummy's J-10-7 of clubs is better than relying solely on West to hold the heart king — a 50% chance. The suggested line of play will succeed whenever the trumps are divided 3-2, a 68% probability.

This deal occurred in the match between Italy and the United States in 1951. It is notable chiefly because both declarers misplayed the hand but made the maximum number of tricks anyway.

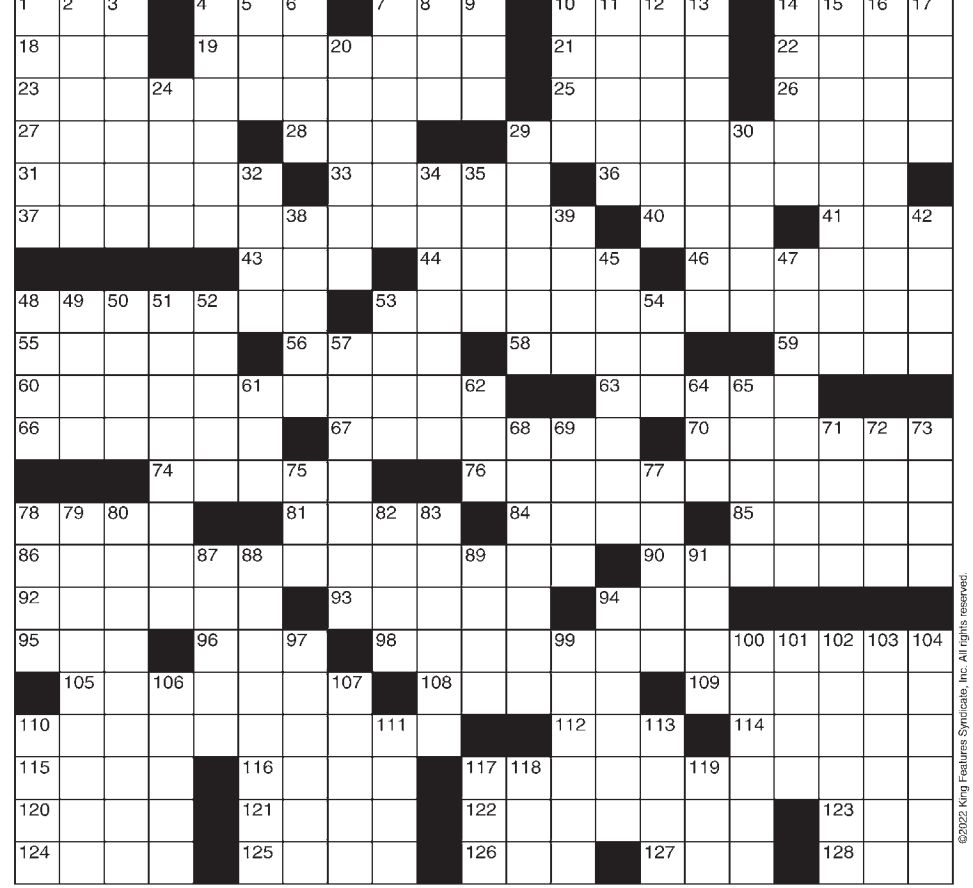

The U.S. team gained 750 points because its North-South pair bid seven diamonds while the Italians stopped in six diamonds at the other table. Both Wests led the king of clubs, and after taking the ace, both Registration opens for Texas A&M Beef Cattle Short Course

Internationally recognized event set Aug. 1-3 in College Station

By KAY LEDBETTER
AGRILIFE SERVICE

It's time for beef cattle producers from all over the world to begin making plans to attend the 68th annual Texas A&M Beef Cattle Short Course, the largest event of its kind in the nation, scheduled for Aug. 1-3 on the Texas A&M University campus.

The event is hosted by Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service and the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences' Department of Animal Science at Texas A&M. From the Texas Aggie Prime Rib Dinner to the Cattleman's College, the nationally and internationally recognized three-day event annually attracts over 2,000 participants.

"High input prices and ranchers' response to them will be a major theme of this year's conference," said Jason Cleere, Ph.D., conference coordinator and AgriLife Extension beef cattle specialist in the Department of Animal Science.

Both in-person and online attendance is being offered. Cost is $240 for in-person attendance and $160 for online if registered by July 27. A $40 late registration fee will be charged after that date. To register, go to tx.ag/BCSC22Reg or call 979-845-6931 for more information.

Something for everyone

The program is expected to offer a full agenda for everyone, from the novice livestock operator to the seasoned professional, Cleere said.

"Ranchers are facing some really tough times now due to a lingering drought across most of the state, coupled with input costs that are nearly double what they were a year ago," he said. "Many of our sessions will be addressing these issues. One of our forage sessions will discuss grazing management in response to drought and high fertilizer prices along with how to move forward economically with high seed prices (winter pasture), hay prices, high fuel prices, etc."

The Cattleman's College will feature more than 20 concurrent sessions, with topics including animal health, nutrition, reproduction, breeding, genetics, selection, research, marketing and handling. The management sessions will cover business, forage, range and purebred cattle, and speakers will also address landowner issues and fence building.

At least nine pesticide continuing education units and 14 veterinarian continuing education credits are available to attendees.

Additionally, over 150 agriculture-related businesses and trade show exhibitors are expected to attend the course.

Farmers Market /Garage Sale at Davilla Community Center

The Davilla Community Center will hold a Farmers' Market and Garage Sale 9 a.m.-1 p.m. June 4 and July 16. The Davilla Community Center is located at 20803 FM487, Davilla, TX 76523.

Booth space is $15 inside the building and $10 outside the building. Sun covers and or tables are not furnished for outside booth spaces.

Snacks and Drinks will be available for sale.

For more information or to sign up for the Farmers' Market and Garage Sale, contact Inky Tatum at 254-721-2922.

The Community Center will host a Potluck Dinner and Game Night at 6 p.m. Aug 6.

The annual Fall Festival is 5-9 p.m. Oct. 1.
