BoA rejects ordinance on short term rentals

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Mayor Michael Coggin cast the deciding vote June 2 to kill a proposed ordinance regulating Short Term Rentals (STR) within the village.

Before discussing the ordinance, aldermen heard from a dozen citizens, the majority speaking against the ordinance.

Those speaking against the ordinance called it an overreach of the Village government. Karen Hanaker, owner of an STR in Mill Creek, said that she already follows any homeowners association (HOA) restrictions as well as rules, regulations and standards for upkeep, sanitation and safety from the host company that books her property. "I don't need another layer of regulations," she said.

Linda Reynolds called the existing STRs "the canary in the coal mine" and added that "at least we should get taxes from them."

Joanne Wiyle told aldermen that she limits the number of cars at her STR to two per stay and does not allow parking in the street.

Jim Farrell told alderment that when he bought his home in Salado, he did so in an established neighborhood and that he did not "want to live next door to a hotel." He added that STRs cannot properly vet guests other than the person who signs the rental. He said that the property owner who converted a home into an STR property "did not canvass the neighborhood to see if the Village Administrator or we wanted one," adding that it was "destroying our peace and quiet."

The proposed ordinance would have, if pursued, have required properties that operate as an STR to apply for an annual operating permit issued by the Village. The proposed ordinance did not have a cost for the permit. STRs would be required to publish the permit number on any and all advertisements for the STR, including internet booking sites and services.

A life safety inspection of the property would be required to receive the permit.

Any STR that was not registered with the Village as of June 2, 2022 would have had until Aug. 31 to be approved for a permit. Any STR that was registered with the Village as of June 2, 2022 would have had until Sept. 30 to be approved for a per-

The proposed ordinance would have regulagted the number of people staying at an STR to the occupancy loads set out in the 2009 International Building Code of one person per 200 sq. ft. For example, a 2,000 sq. ft. home would be limited to 10 people maximum.

The proposed ordinance would have required the designation of a "local responsible party." According to the proposed ordinance, "If called, a local responsible party must be able to and shall be present at the premises within 30 minutes of a call from a complainant or his designee."

The ordinance would restrict vehicles at an STR to "the number of available offstreet parking spaces."

Off'street parking is legally defined as "Off-street parking space means an area of land, not located on public right-of-way that is reserved exclusively for the purpose of motor vehicle parking," according to lawinsider.com.

Elsewhere in the ordinance, it states that "It shall be unlawful for an owner or person to pave or otherwise cover pervious soil to create additional on-premises parking without prior approval from the Village of Salado."

The proposed ordinance would also make it "unlawful for an owner or person to covert a garage into a living space, remodel, renovate, enlarge or otherwise modify premises to add additional bedrooms for use as a shortterm rental without prior approval from the Village of Salado."

"Don't throw the ordinance in the trash," Alderman John Cole said in making a motion to approve continuing to work and "wordsmith" the ordinance. "It preserves the integrity of Salado."

Jasen Graham gave a second to the motion to move forward with the ordinance.

Cole and Graham voted in favor while Paul Cox and Rodney Bell voted against. Jason Howard abstained, forcing a tie with Mayor Coggin voting against the proposed ordinance.

Salado Legends

Tablerock Festival of Salado invites you to the summer performances of "Salado Legends," an outdoor musical drama was written by Salado playwright Jackie Mills and is directed by Thom Wilson. "Salado Legends", now in its 29th season, will have performances July 23, 30, and Aug. 6. It was chosen by the Library of Congress' bicentennial celebration as a record of life in America at the end of the 20th century, information from the theater states. The play tells the story of the Scottish settlers, Tonkawa Indians and Spanish explorers in Salado. The Tonkawa Indians' stories are interwoven throughout the play. The Tonkawa Chief, played by Miles Ellis, will capture you with his authentic costume, his confident presence, and solid character. Mr. Ellis has returned to the Tablerock stage after being away for two years, but this will be his 17th year to be the Chief. (Courtesy photo)

SISD proposes $21.7M op budget

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado ISD Trustees voted unanimously June 7 to proposed a $21.7 million operating budget for 2022-23, as well as a child nutrition budget of $680,919 and a debt service budget of $7.9 million.

The board will hold a public hearing on the budget at 4 p.m. June 29 at the Salado Civic Center. The district will publish official notice in the Salado Village Voice, the newspaper of record.

Bell CAD will certify the values in July and Texas Education Agency will certify the Maximum Compression Tax Rate in August. Salado ISD will adopt the Final Tax Rate within 60 days of receiving the certified values.

Brandy Stanford, Chief Finance Director for the school district, told trustees that approximately 62% of revenues for the general operating budget is from local funds, 26.4% is from state funds and 0.9% is from federal funds.

Stanford told the board that salaries and benefits account for almost 75% of the total general operating bud-

The district is budgeting on enrollment estimates based upon a study by Zonda Education and an attendance rate of 95%. "Our attendance (pre-pandemic) has been 97%," she said, "but we are budgeting on a a conservative attendance estimate of

The proposed general operating budget is almost $2 million more than 2021-22 adopted budget, increasing to $21.7 million in operating expenses and revenues.

The vast majority of revenue for the general operating budget, $13.6 million, will be local revenues, principally from local property taxes. The Child Nutrition Fund budget is estimated at $680,919 in expenses, requiring a deficit budget of $135,333. The deficit will be recovered through the Child Nutrition Fund fund balance this year. The district can pay deficits in the Child Nutrition Fund either from its fund balance or from a transfer from the General Operating Budget.

The Debt Service Fund will have $7.9 million in revenue. Expenditures include $1.6 million in principal payment and $2.4 million in interest payments.

Maintaining the $0.50 tax rate will allow the district to pay an additional $3.9 million on the overall bond debt this year. This will allow the district to pay down bonds

Feds likely to raise interest rates to cool off spending

The Markets

Our flawed if preferred guide to what has happened in that amorphous thing, we call the "stock market", the S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX), turned in another seesaw week rising as high as 4176, falling as low as 4083 and ending the week at 4108.54, down 1.2%. That closing value leaves it still in "correction" territory, down 14.28% from its top in early January, and down about 2.87% from this time last year. The other side of that number is that the SPX is up 5.3% from its low point three weeks ago and remains up an impressive 83.63% from its low a couple of years ago in March 2020. The CRSP Mid-Cap Value Index closed at 2483.86, down 1.78% for the week. It is now down only 4.45% from its highest close, also in early January, and down 1% from a year ago. Both indexes were in positive territory for the week before better-than-expected employment report.

The benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note yield rose 7% to 2.942% to end the week, almost twice the yield it carried at the beginning of 2022. The prophetic Treasury yield curve though remained positive with the 90-day T-bill yielding 1.185% and the 30-year bond at 3.096% suggesting that disaster is not on the horizon. West Texas Intermediate crude oil, the U.S. benchmark for fuel prices, rose another 4.5% to $120.29 per barrel, suggesting that the pain at the pump is far from over.

The Economy

As happens when the Fed is focused on raising rates, we are in a "good news is bad news" phase for the markets. The news that took the stock market indexes down on Friday was that U.S. employers increased the number of workers on the job by about 390,000 for the month of May as the official unemployment rate remained at 3.6%. To hold a constant rate of employment, the U.S. only needs about 150,000 new jobs filled each month, so again, the U.S. economy is distinctly growing, and at a fast clip. Even considering that over the past 12 months we have averaged a filled jobs increase of about 500,000 per month, Friday's jobs news likely means that the Federal Reserve will need to crank interest rates up more than we have seen in order to cool down demand and hopefully take a bite out of inflation. Adding to the "good news for the economy is bad news for the markets" story was the additional report that wages grew 5.2%

over the last twelve months.

The reason that is bad news for the markets is we have about six million more people gainfully employed than we did a year ago and when about 158.4 million working people not only add another 390,000 new workers to their status, but get a 5.2% raise, that adds about another $100 million to the economy for them to spend. Given that we are experiencing a supply shortage because of a combination of ongoing COVID issues in China and the Russian invasion of Ukraine, that increase in spending money combined with a limited supply of things to buy is a sure-fire indicator that prices will continue to rise. The Federal Reserve cannot do anything about a limited supply of both goods and services, but they can, theoretically, slow down demand by raising interest rates, so that is what they are doing. The fear among investors is that the Fed will hit the brakes just as consumers are depleting their cash buildup and plunge the economy into a severe recession, a scenario we consider highly unlikely, but nonetheless

Meanwhile there is some inverted good news on the inflation front beginning to show. Lumber prices, after soaring to record heights during the pandemic, have fallen an astounding 40% since March, and July futures prices for wood are building and home improvement activities have started to slow. Another indicator that appears to be pointing in the right direction is the number of cargo ships waiting to dock and unload off Southern California's two big ports. In January there were an average of about 75 ships awaiting dock space, but that number has now dropped to 25. Unfortunately, there is still a record backlog of containers held up in rail yards across the country, so we have a way to go before supply chains get unsnarled and prices settle down. Perhaps the best indicator of how overheated the market for goods has gotten is the orders backlog for corrugated boxes. In February, the time from order to delivery for such boxes was about 22 days. Last month that delay had dropped to 14 days. As our capability to manufacture boxes has not grown, demand appears to be gradually coming down to something more sustainable. In a final be of improving news on inflation, surveys on consumer inflation expectations, which were running at about 3% a few months ago, have dropped to 2.5%.

down 52% as new home

Looking at all the data, we continue to believe that the chances of a severe recession in the next two years remain quite low. Consumers have substantially paid down their debt, still have an abundance of unspent savings, and have done an amazingly good job of capturing the low interest rates of the past two years on long-term debt. Surveys continue to show that they are still very interested in purchasing new vehicles and other long-term goods when they become available. Those indicators are all positive for the U.S. economy over the next couple of years.

A BARE MARKET

Beyond Juneteenth: Breaking the Chains to Access Capital and Achieve Real Freedom

By Vercie Lark Region 7 Great Plains Administra-

AND TED JAMES
REGION 6 SOUTH CENTRAL ADMINISTRATOR,
U.S. SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Being black and walking away from a person who legally owned you became reality on June 17, 1865, when Texas became the last state to implement the Emancipation Proclamation. The day, now known as Juneteenth, has become one of celebration for black Americans.

It was a start. As black Americans, however, we continually must ask the question: "Are we truly emancipated?"

While important to celebrate a day that freed our ancestors from the physical bondages and the inhumane capacity of slave owners to treat them as less than human beings, we must also look to the day as a reminder we have yet to successfully free black community, from the vestiges of restraints, controls and power structures that bond us far beyond the physical realm of being enslaved.

Participating in capitalism through business ownership is one of them. Many people were then, and still remain reluctant to accept our access of all that our country offers. The quest for equity, fairness and impartiality –at the least from the federal government – has been attempted through years of court rulings and reforms. Still, equity in America, even after 157 years, is a work in progress.

According to an analysis from the White House Council of Economic Advisers, differences in business ownership account for 20 percent of the wealth gap between average white and Black households. The analysis noted that people of color, women, and those from rural areas are underrepresented in their share of total Federal procurement dollars, even relative to their low rates of ownership in the general economy.

Seeing that a whole government corrective action was needed, the Biden/Harris Administration instructed by executive action more than 90 federal agencies to scour their agencies for changes they could make to provide more equity in services and programs to the underserved - a group which includes black Americans and other communities disproportionately impacted by poverty and inequity over the years. In response, agencies released a combined total of 300 new actions to address barriers to equity in federal services.

The federal government procures 90% of its goods and services in America each year, and is the largest purchaser in the world, so access to the federal market-place is an obvious key to economic equity.

The Biden/Harris Administration has set an agency goal of increasing federal spending to small, disadvantaged businesses by 50% by fiscal year 2025. Acting on that goal, the U.S. Small Business Administration made several changes to give disadvantaged small businesses more access to federal contracting dollars.

The SBA worked with federal agencies to set up measures so they could accurately track spending and publicly report progress. That awareness has already raised governmentwide spending with Small Disadvantaged Businesses to 11% this year, from 5% the previous year.

Additionally, the SBA has allocated more funding to resource partners who counsel and train small businesses to enter not only the contracting world but to start and grow their businesses. This funding added 24 new Women's Business Centers in 2021, thus tripling of the number of centers located on the campuses of Historically Black Colleges and Universities and continues the expansion of largest WBC network in the history of the SBA. With these new additions, the complete listing of WBCs housed on the campuses of Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) now include:

1. Morgan State University, Baltimore (MD)

Benedict College,
 Columbia (SC)
 Virginia Union University, Richmond (VA)

4. Jackson State University, Jackson (MS)

5. Alcorn State University, Lorman (MS)

6. Winston-Salem State University, Winston Salem State (NC)

7. Bennett College,
Greensboro (NC)

8. Miles College, Fair

8. Miles College, Fairfield (AL)9. Bowie State University, Bowie (MD) 10. Savannah State University, Savannah (GA)

In an effort to increase the number of black Americans participating in the SBA 8(a) contracting program by 12,000 nationwide, the SBA is also increasing its outreach to the National Urban League, specific sororities and fraternities for black Americans, and business students at HBCUs to expand their knowledge about business ownership and federal contracting.

Being realists, we know these reforms will not work overnight to transform areas of poverty into wealthy enclaves or combat the many pockets in our nation where institutional racism or lending disparities still exist.

But if capitalism is to work to sustain our nation's people, our federal government, first, and then our whole country needs reforms. Poverty knows no boundaries. Struggle is struggle – even in a country that boasts the greatest wealth on earth. And the federal government alone cannot change that.

For capitalism to work - all of us must get engaged to individually and collectively provide solid financial and business learning and mentoring experiences to our children and build community ecosystems where the possibility of small businesses, wealth accumulation and a working capitalism can exist

The SBA and its resource partners are committed to providing training and counseling on creating and sustaining small businesses for every client – whether they live in a poverty pocket, a rural town or are held back because of skin color or gender designation. Visit us at www.sba.gov

As a start, the federal government is on the right track on this issue. It may bring a higher tide to lift some boats, but we are all going to have to paddle much harder together if we are to achieve equity and all of America's people can truly enjoy the freedoms promised by democracy and capitalism.

Right now, black Americans are still chained to systems of financial bondage. We must think beyond Juneteenth to continue to find ways to access capital, which brings real freedom.

Celebrating Salado's "Music Friendly" designation

Salado is a Music Friendly Community and you are invited to celebrate Salado becoming a certified Music Friendly Community by the Governor's Texas Music Office on June 14, at the Shady Villa Hotel's outdoor pavilion from 5:30 – 6:30 p.m.

Being a Music Friendly Community means the Village of Salado is dedicated to promoting the music community by supporting and connecting music industry stakeholders and aiding in measures that formulate a conducive environment for a thriving local music scene.

"Salado has a long history of supporting Music and the Arts. Being a part of this statewide certification program opens new opportunities to expand and strengthen Salado's commitment to Music." - Richard Paul Thomas, Chair of Music Friendly Community Advisory Board and musician/songwriter "Becoming an official music friendly community by the Texas Music Office is simply reinforcing what we've already known. Salado is, and has been, a friend and advocate for the live music world. From our many talented local musicians all the way up to national touring artists, Salado loves live music! I believe this designation gets us one step closer to showing that Salado is a destination and not just a quick stop on the way to another location." -David Seward, Vice-Chair of Music Friendly Community Advisory Board and music agent

"As a venue owner and board member, I am excited for the potential to create partnerships with other Music Friendly Communities in the state. If this designation can help increase the diversity of musicians performing here and opportunities for all musicians within the Village of Salado it will be a great thing for the community." - K.D. Hill, Board Member of Music Friendly Community Advisory Board and music venue owner

The purpose of the Music Friendly Community Advisory Board is to promote music in Salado by connecting and supporting musicians, songwriters, venues, and vendors and advising the Village of Salado on strategies and goals to address opportunities and challenges in the local music industry.

Summer Lectures launch June 12

Barrow Brewing Company's Summer Lecture Series kicks off this year on June

The Lecture Series started in 2017 when former UMHB Professor Kaleb Heinrich proposed the idea to brewery owner KD Hill. They thought it would be fun to "geek out" over [possibly] fascinating topics and craft beer. They were right! Heinrich and Hill were able to recruit other speakers and the series became an important part of the brewery's annual events. Speakers have included scientists, historians, authors and even a hypnotist. Come each Sunday at 2 p.m. to attend a lecture by a local professor, author, historian or researcher. The lecture schedule can be found at www.barrowbrewing.com/events. Lecture Schedule:

June 12: Zach Zezulka: Native Texas Plants

June 19: James Salter: Dramatic Action in Scripts June 26: Rachel Harber:

Creating Community July 3: Chadley Hollas: Goats, Dreams, and Everything in Between

July 10: Jeff McClure: Space

July 17: NPSOT: Texas Native Plants

July 24: Chris Coffey: Pre-1840 Rocky Mountain Fur Trade

July 31: LaVale Reavis: The Expat Experience

Aug 7: Doc Ray Eary: Dream Interpretation

Aug 14: Mark Laack: Beer Tasting & Pairing (limited, requires tickets)

Bluebonnet Evening features all-Salado cast

Join Salado Museum for performances of music, drama, dancing, and a chance to experience the premier of year. The two events being presented are Bluebonnet Road, a musical comedy set in Central Texas, and the return to the stage of Salado's own Songwriter, Richard Paul Thomas, (his friends call him RpT) performing My Life in Song.

Bluebonnet Road - The year is 1979. The month is April. Two Grandsons, their mother, and a girlfriend head out on a journey to the old family farm a few miles away to spread the ashes of her father.

The actors include Casey Davis (Jo Jo), Robert West (Noah), Christina Sanner (Olive) and Breanna Nutter (Misty).

Thomas's My Life in Song explores the many inspirations and challenges that are part and parcel of the creation of a song. His songwriting spans a wide range of musical genres and emotional experiences ranging from lighthearted fun to challenging one's convictions about life and our place in the world.

This multi-media event is being held at the Salado Museum, 423 Main Street Salado, Tx with evening performances 7:30 p.m. June 24-25 and afternoon matinee 2:30 p.m. June 26.

Tickets are $30 per person and can be purchased at www.CentralTexasTickets. com - the price includes all taxes and fees.

A portion of the proceeds is being donated to the Salado Museum and College Park Association.

Experiments at zero gravity

Laura Tomlin, a teacher at Salado Middle School, had the opportunity recently to fly student experiments aboard the Zero-G parabolic plane in Florida.

Salado Middle School sixth grade students and teacher Laura Tomlin were selected as one of four schools across the country to participate in the 2022 Zero-G Embedded Teacher program through Wisconsin Space Grant Consortium, NASA Flight Opportunities, and the Zero-G Corp.

Tomlin's sixth grade students designed experiments to answer several questions:

- · How do reduced gravity and microgravity affect water transport in Mars and lunar regolith (soil)?
- How do Mars-G, lunar-G, and zero-G affect water transport in ISS-VEGGIE growth substrate?
- · What effect does microgravity have on liver function?
- · How does microgravity affect the oscillation of springs? Student-designed experiments were tested in the classroom and flown aboard the Zero-G parabolic plane in Mars gravity, lunar gravity, and zerogravity. Tomlin flew with the experiments the week of May 9-13, 2022 from Ft. Lauderdale, FL.

"Students conducted these experiments with the equipment they made specifically for a microgravity environment," Tomlin said. "The experiments were then conducted by me aboard the Zero-G parabolic plane in Mars gravity, lunar gravity, and microgravity, and brought that data back to share with the students."

Applications for next year's flight are open for teachers through July 9 at https://spacegrant.carthage. edu/.

"Through meaningful research projects, students realize that careers in STEM are accessible to everyone," Tomlin said. "This project has encouraged students to begin exploring education and career opportunities now. I am very proud of how hard our students have worked."

This opportunity was funded through NASA Wisconsin Space Grant Consortium's Zero-G Embedded Teacher Program and NASA Flight Opportunities. Four teachers from around the country were chosen to teach students about microgravity, design experiments, and fly those experiments in weightless-

The bidding: North East West South 1 🚓 Pass 3 NT Opening lead — eight of spades.

It is an essential principle of declarer play that when the outcome is in doubt, you proceed on the assumption that the cards are divided in a way that permits the contract to be made. To play otherwise would be self-defeating.

The same principle applies to defensive play. A defender should not credit declarer with a hand that makes the contract impregnable.

Consider this deal, where East applied the principle very effectively. He won the opening spade lead with the king

From then on, South was fighting a losing battle. He won with the ace and returned the king of clubs, but West, of course, ducked. This rendered the dummy useless to declarer, and he had returned a low heart instead. In that case, South would win with the queen, establish dummy's clubs and, with the ace of hearts still in dummy.

The spectacular king-of-hearts play has a sound foundation. East reasons that if declarer has the ace of clubs. the contract cannot be defeated. He therefore credits West with that card.

it follows that the only way to neutralize dummy's clubs is to dislodge dummy's side entry. There is no way East can be certain that his plan will succeed, but he knows that unless he attacks boldly, his cause is almost

Note that South can't thwart East's plan by ducking the first heart. In that case, East simply continues hearts to achieve the same result.

Inside the Ropes: McDougal gets unique look at PGA

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Inside the ropes.

A term for golf enthusiasts referring to being inside the rope that separates the general viewing public from the players on the course.

Saladoan Michael Mc-Dougal got inside the ropes for the recent PGA Championship tournament May 16-22 as one of more than 600 volunteers.

He and his wife Carol made the trip to Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, OK, where Michael volunteered as a laser operator.

Prior to being inside the ropes, McDougal and others had to get trained in their jobs, spotting, tracking and marking the shots by the pros, for statistics and announcers to use during the tournament.

Geared with a touchscreen laptop, McDougal was stationed on the fairway five hole that is described as "A dogleg left, uphill par 5 offers experienced golfers a risk/reward opportunity. Those with the distance in their game can "cut the corner," leaving 125-165 yards remaining."

McDougal said his favorite part of the first day of the tournament was his interaction with Patrick Reed. Reed's shot hit a tripod and bounced into the rough at about 330 yards. "The first thing he said as he approached us was 'Did I hit anyone? Is anyone hurt?' When we said we were okay, the next thing he said was, 'Good, now can you help me find my ball?"

After his four-hour shift, McDougal was able to watch the tournament from the sidelines and followed Will Zalatores, who ended up winning second place and $1.6 million.

of hole #4, a 450-yard par his game," McDougal said of the 25-year-old golfer. "He is a decent person, too. He was highly focused but also friendly to the volunteers and watchers."

> McDougal also got to watch Tiger Woods as he shot a very respectable 69 on Friday of the tournament to make the cut. The wear and tear of the tournament took its toll on Tiger, who ended up withdrawing from the tournament before the final round.

> "You could see the toll it was taking on him," Mc-Dougal said. "Each day his limp was more noticeable."

> The PGA Championship was the second tournament Woods has competed in since a car accident in 2021 caused a traumatic injury to his right leg requiring reconstructive surgery last

McDougal had a second slot as a laser operator, this "He is very confident in time on the greens. "You really get to see how good they are there," he said.

The best shot that Mc-Dougal saw was by Webb Simpson, who put the ball in the water. When he put the ball two club lengths' out of the hazard, he had to hit under and around a tree.

"It was an impossible shot to be able to carry the ball that low and that far and to hook it around the tree and land it on the green," McDougal recalled, "but he did it and saved par for the hole."

Notable for his absence was Phil Mickelson, who won the PGA Championship last year.

But despite that, McDougal said he had a once-in-alifetime experience inside the ropes, one which he said he hopes to repeat in the fu-

"Oh yeah," he said, "I definitely want to do that again,"
