CUWCD recommends 20% water use reduction

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

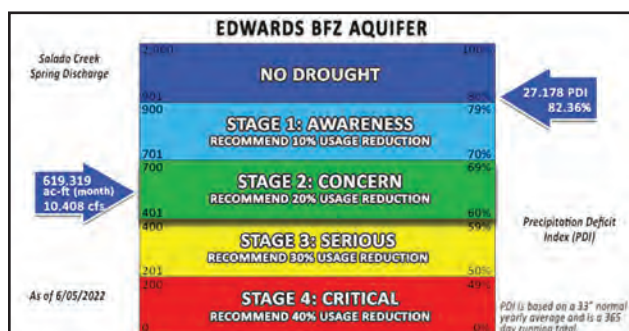

As drought conditions continue in central Texas, the Clearwater Underground Water Conservation District (CUWCD) alerted well owners in Bell County over the Edwards BFZ Aquifer Alarm that the district is now in Stage 2 of its Drought Management Plan (DMP).

Stage 2 of the CUWCD DMP recommends a 20% reduction in water usage by all well owners (both exempt and permitted wells).

"The aquifer system layer known as the Edwards BFZ is experiencing significant draw-downs in monitor wells and a drought trigger-based rate of reduction in Spring flows below 10,408 cubic feet per second," CUWCD General Manager Dirk Aaron said.

"Well owners failing to conserve their precious resource is often evident by expansive lawns and excess groundwater use," Aaron stated. "The aquifer is not just overburdened by large volume users but also by private well owners. We strongly urge all well owners of this sensitive aquifer system to reduce all outside water use to less than 1,500 square feet of irrigated turf and reduce your entire household use by 20%."

"The best way to conserve is to only water your lawns once a week during early morning hours," Aaron stated.

Aaron gives the following measures as ways to reach a 20% reduction in water:

- Limit watering of landscape (lawns, trees, shrubs, etc.) to only once every five to seven days. "Agriculture and horticulture operations are exempted from this measure but are encouraged to reduce tree, plant, and crop watering by 20%," he stated.
- Check for and correct all plumbing leaks.
- Re-use or re-circulate water whenever possible
- Water supply systems are encouraged to implement measures to achieve a 20% reduction in water usage.
- Only water landscape at night between the hours of 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.
- Keep swimming pools, landscape or decorative ponds and fountains covered (where possible), re-circulate water, and wait five to seven days to refill.
- Wash vehicles at car wash only as needed.
- Do not wash buildings, driveways, streets, patios, or other outdoor surfaces except as required for human or animal health and safety needs, or for fire prevention.

Water livestock in leak-proof troughs as much as practical.

Bell County is not alone. Bell County is part of the 78 percent of the state to find itself in drought status.

Storage in our water supply reservoirs is at 78 percent of capacity, six percentage points below normal for this time of year," stated Dr. Mark Wentzel, hydrologist with the Texas Water Development Board. "Drought is expected to expand and cover all but the northeast corner of the state by the end of August."

"Water supply storage has been trending below normal for the time of year since late October last year," he added.

Since April, Salado Water Supply Corporation has been in Stage 1 of its Water Contingency Plan, asking its customers to limit outside watering to ODD addresses Tuesday/Friday and EVEN addresses Monday/Thursday.

Ways to reduce water use in landscape & garden

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Adding compost to your soil is one of the best things you can do to reduce water usage in your garden and landscape.

Zach Zezulka said this to a group of people gathered for the first in a series of Barrow Brewing Summer Lectures on a Sunday afternoon as temperatures headed towards triple digits June 12.

He should know. He has more than two decades experience in the nursery business. He is the owner of Silver Sage Landscape and Gardens.

The organic nature of compost releases carbonic and humic acid into the soil, helping to bring the pH into balance. Humic acid binds to plant roots and helps bring water into them.

You can add inorganic material to the soil, as well. Expanded shale will help clay and soil from getting compact (and thus losing absorption of water due to run-off). "It's kind of like popcorn," he said. "It has these tiny pockets for water and air." If you incorporate that into the soil, it should be done in the top 12 inches of it.

When choosing compost, Zezulka said, go for the dark stuff. "The finer it is and the darker it is, the better it is," he said.

Mulch is also helpful in the garden. It provides a buffer between the plant roots and "the scorching sun." Mulch also helps the soil to retain water. But there is too much of a good thing, Zezulka says.

He advises two or three inches of mulch. "If you have too much mulch and it piles up around the stem of the plants, bugs will get into it and the water won't."

Gardeners and homeowners can be more efficient with their irrigation.

Zezulka advises less frequent watering, but for longer periods of time. "This way, it encourages the growth of the roots into the soil," he said.

Watering once a week

for 30 to 45 minutes is better than watering every other day for 20 to 30 minutes.

He said homeowners should "know what their system is putting on the ground." They can do that by putting open tuna cans in different spots of the yard to test their sprinkler system for coverage and water amount.

Check your systems once a month for possible damage to sprinkler heads by mowers. "A busted head can waste a lot of water," he said.

A lawn needs an inch of water a week to thrive, but can survive on as little as a half-inch per week, he said.

June sales tax rebate check dips 5% for Village

For the first time in more than a year, Salado showed a noticeable dip in sales tax revenues when it received the June disbursement.

The Village received a $60,083.68 check for the June disbursement, which is 5.2% less than last June's payment of $63,396.44.

Three cities in the County are down for June: Salado, Morgans Point (-8.3%) and Rogers (-13%).

For the year, Salado's sales tax payments are 12.4% remain ahead of year-to-date payments through June 2021. The Village has received $385,195.14 compared to $342,707.51 through June 2021.

Salado Public Library District continues its upward trend in sales tax payments, although at a lower pace than previous months. In June, the Library District received $51,878.99, an increase of 1.6% over last June's payment of $51,043.51.

For the year, the Library is still running at a double-digit increase over 2021. Through June, it has received $319,755.20, compared to $274,726.50 paid through June 2021.

Bell County is also trending higher. The County received $2.56 million, an increase of 8.7% over last June's $2.35 million. For the year, the County is running 13.2% ahead of 2021, having received $15.15 million, compared to $13.39 paid through June 2021.

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar announced last week that he sent cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose taxing districts

$1.01 billion in local sales tax allocations for June, 11.6 percent more than in June 2021.

These allocations are based on sales made in April by businesses that report tax monthly. These allocations are based on sales made in March by businesses that report tax monthly and sales made in January, February and March by quarterly filers.

Fuel costs driving inflation to 6.8% annual rate

The Markets

It was not a pleasant week in the equity markets. As the 10th day of June opened, the Labor Department announced that the U.S. Consumer Price Index was up a stunning 8.6% over the trailing 12 months. Worse, the index rose 1.1% just in the last month, and even 0.6% when food and fuel were removed to get the "core" inflation measure.

The market reaction came as analysts concluded that the Federal Reserve would raise rates by a half-point in June, July, and September. That scenario puts the likely short-term rate at about 3.25% by the end of the year.

More than a few companies in the S&P 500 would find their debt service costs each month at that rate higher than their current profits. Those were the companies that led the market down for the week and that news triggered broad automated sell orders across the market. Those sell orders took the S&P 500 from around 4100, where it had been trading on Thursday down to 3900.86 at the close on Friday.

The Friday slump left the SPX down 5.05% for the week, 18.61% from its record high on January 3, and 7.98% lower than it was a year ago. The CRSP Mid-Cap Value Index, not wanting to be left out of the pity party, fell 5.16% to 2355.80 leaving it down 9.3% from its record high in January and 5.64% from this time last year. Once more, it is a good idea to keep longer-term returns in mind. After this week's slump, the SPX now has an average annual rate of return of 12.95% over the last three years. Measuring from the last time the market took a nosedive, in March two years ago, it is up over 74%. While it is hard to stomach, this is very typical historical behavior for the U.S. Stock Market. RBC Capital Markets issued a report that in their opinion, the S&P 500 will end the year at about 4700, about 20% higher than its current level. That would still not put it ahead for the year but would be a great recovery. Let's hope they are right.

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note reacted as expected to the inflation news as it rose to 3.162%. While the Treasury yield curve flattened, it remained positive with the 30-year bond yielding 3.169%, while the 2-year note remained lower at 3.065%. Stocks have clearly taken a hit, but the S&P 500 Bond Index is showing even more pain with that bond index now down 11.24% over the last year and showing an average annual rate of return over the last three years of only 0.57% even with interest reinvested. In a hint of at least less-bad news, West Texas Intermediate crude oil held almost constant for the week at $120.50 per barrel.

The Economy

Clearly the dominant economic news for the week was centered on inflation and guesses on what the Federal Reserve is going to do to eliminate it. Digging once more into the underlying numbers, it is clearly the price of energy that is driving the train. Motor fuel came in over 49% higher than it was a year ago, and since motor fuel is required to cultivate, harvest, and transport food, that price is getting passed on there. Throw in the 19.5% rise in the cost of private transportation, and the spike in prices we are seeing makes sense. China announced too that it was once more shutting down about half of Shanghai as COVID cases surged. The combination of the loss of much of the food and fuel that Russia and Ukraine have historically contributed to the world market is driving prices across much of the world upward at the highest rate we have seen in forty years. Lest you think that this is something we are feeling only here in the United States, the general inflation rate in the European Union was also announced this week, and it came in at 8.1% with a warning to expect higher numbers in the months to come. Still, there was a glimmer of hope in the Labor Report as the two-month total for core inflation was only 1.1%, equating to an annual rate of 6.8%, still quite high, but trending downward. Moody's is holding to their forecast that inflation will peak this quarter and moderate the rest of the year.

Looking at the rest of the economy, signs are appearing that high prices and rising interest rates may be having the desired effect of getting consumers to buy fewer goods. The U.S. trade deficit shrank 19% in April as imports fell for the first time in nine months, while U.S. exports rose 3.5%. New purchase mortgage applications fell 7% to the lowest level in 22 years, and home sales dropped to a lower rate than before the pandemic, suggesting that the house-price boom is slowing.

The bottom line remains largely unchanged. The economy is racing and booming, probably a bit too much. We are in the bumpy period we forecast would come, but we are still in the largest, most productive, and healthiest large economy in the world. Bumpiness will likely continue this year, but we remain confident that American companies will find a way to profit from this chaos and we will remain on top.

If it's hot for you, it's hot for pets and wildlife too

This year's weather is unseasonably hot and dry. Animals especially suffer in this kind of weather. They can't retreat to air conditioned homes and get a cold drink from the refrigerator! They are also wearing fur coats year round. These extreme temperatures are very hard for them. Please check any outdoor pets/livestock to be sure they have plenty of fresh water. They drink more in this weather and it also evaporates more quickly. Wildlife also suffers. Small streams that used to run until late July and August have already gone dry in May. Consider placing a container of water in a shaded corner somewhere outside your home -- in a place accessible for animals so that they can get a drink without having to cross a backyard with a dog in it to get to the water! ado seems to be missing the showers which are skirting us -- there are no rain puddles about...

These may seem like simple and common sense suggestions, but apparently not all people have common sense. -- I passed two women in a covered golf cart -- The women had sunglasses and hats on...and were happily chatting together as they drove down a paved road (Blackberry) with a dog on a leash trotting beside them on the hot pavement. This was on a very hot afternoon about 2 or 3 o'clock. I don't know how people can be so clueless ... If you are walking your dog -- try putting your own bare foot down on the pavement for awhile first -- for it is just as hot on your pets paws..

Hoping these early extreme temperatures are not just a foreshadowing of what is to come -- but it appears that we are going to have an exceptionally hot summer this year. Hope all will do all they can to take care of themselves, their pets, and wildlife..

A Father and a child can make a great family

BY DR. GLENN MOLLETTE

Father's Day is coming one more time and you still have a chance at having a great family.

Fathers like most all people have good days and bad days. They have great seasons of life and some that are more difficult. Few fathers will look back over their lives and say, "Every day I was a perfect dad." Some days were better than others.

We all feel bad about the seasons of our lives when we had to work too much. Working all the time depletes energy we would prefer to spend on our families. The problem is that like most fathers we want to keep a roof over our heads and food in the refrigerator. Making car payments, house payments, and all the basic things of life typically keep most dads and moms very busy.

Even in a home filled with love and patience the average dad lives a juggling life. He is pulled between work, kid's ballgames, meeting the needs of his wife and household. Add to this school meetings, homework, fishing, piano lessons, family events, all while trying to maintain and add to his career.

Most of us looking back can think of some endeavors or activities we wish we had let go in order to spend more time with our families. For some weird reason at the time they seemed all so important but now they feel like wasted time.

Throughout life the way we typically learn is the hard way. Education is always expensive. Our vision is 20/20 looking back. People tell us what we will regret and what we should do but we rarely believe them. When we get past the "fifty-five" mark of life we start to realize what the "old timers" told us was true. You know how it is because you probably tell your kids about what is right and wrong and what they will appreciate or regret. In most cases they don't pay much attention to you.

The only season of being a father that you have is this one. No future is guaranteed and yesterday is gone. You do have today. Have a loving and forgiving heart. Extend grace and a second, third or fourth chance. Try to spend time with those you love. You are probably finding out now that your grown children are too busy for you. They have lives of their own and you may not be a priority. It hurts some but they probably are being like you used to be. Don't lose sleep over this but be available and reach out as you are able.

Finally, you have to be more than the human ATM machine. You can't buy your children's affection for the rest of your life. Every parent wants to help their children but the best thing you can do for them is work with them to help them care for themselves. You can either teach them to fish or spend the rest of your life fishing for them and this ends up being a hard life for you and cripples them.

Today is another opportunity to be a good father. This is also a good day for you to reciprocate love and affection to your dad. A father and a child working together can make a great family.

A Bluebonnet Evening

Salado Museum and College Hill Park invites you to enjoy two performances of music, drama, dancing, and a chance to experience the premier of year. The two performance being presented are Bluebonnet Road, a musical comedy set in Central Texas, and the return to the stage of Salado's own Songwriter, Richard Paul Thomas, (his friends call him RpT) performing My Life in Song.

This multi-media event is being held at the Salado Museum, 423 Main St. at 7:30 p.m. June 24 and June 25 and 2:30 p.m. June 26. Refreshments are available. Tickets can be purchased at www.CentralTexasTickets.com - the price includes all taxes and fees. A portion of the proceeds is being donated to the Salado Museum and College Park.

Bluebonnet Road - The year is 1979. The month is April. Two Grandsons, their mother, and a girlfriend head out on a journey to the old family farm a few miles away to spread the ashes of her father. The problem is that the old home place may be under water since the river was dammed years earlier. They all pile in the truck with Olive driving, Misty by her side and the guys singing in the back bed. They head out into the country with bluebonnet flowers lining the road.

The actors include Casey Davis (Jo Jo), Robert West (Noah), Christina Sanner (Olive) and Breanna Nutter (Misty). See the attached BIO for photos and more information.

Casey Davis (Jo Jo) Casey is a 16-years-old graduate of Salado High School, a graduate of Temple College with a General Studies Associates Degree, and a Baylor University Pre-Med Psychology major student. Casey Swims for Baylor Club Swim Team and the Tiger shark Swim Team out of Belton, Texas. He works Part-time as a cashier at Brookshire Brothers in Salado. When he has time, he likes to volunteer at various non-profits. His passions are music, animals, and anything related to cars. He tolerates his two younger sisters, Gabriella and Pypier Davis.

Robert West (Noah) Robert West, 28 years old living in Salado, TX working on a cattle ranch in Belton, TX. Prior to moving to Texas, a year ago, I lived in Florida and was involved in the water well drilling business, welding, and iron work. I am single, easy going, laid back, and enjoy a simple life with outdoor activities, I love fishing. Even though I am legally blind, this impairment does not keep me from living a full and successful life.

Christina Sanner (Olive) Christina Sanner auditioned to be in Bluebonnet Road to "find her way back to music and to become more a part of what makes our town, Salado, so unique," she said. "Its friendly charm, natural beauty, education, and love of the arts are what enticed me and my family to move here. She has lived here for four years with her husband, Colin, and 9-year-old son, Lucas. She holds a bachelor's degree in music from The Crane School of Music where she played flute, a master's degree in psychology at State University of New York at New Paltz, and a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology at The University of South Dakota. She is a psychologist in a group private practice in Georgetown. "I am playing the character Olive, a divorced mom who reluctantly agrees to embark on a journey to fulfill her belated father's wishes of having his ashes sprinkled over their old farmstead," she said. "During this adventure, her harsh tone and demeanor softens as she learns about how unspoken grief impacts herself and her family, and how the challenges of this trip helped tear down the walls that were built by tragic loss."

Breanna Nutter (Misty) Breana M. Nutter is a resident of Salado, with her loving and supportive husband- who is a recently retired Army Apache pilot. Together they own Gun-Pilot Farms, growing cattle, food, bees, chickens, their many kids (ages 22-6), dogs and more. By trade she is the owner of Hazel Eyes Design, with a bachelor's degree in sustainable interior design, which involves commercial and residential projects.

For fun, she is a competitive shooter, range safety officer, martial artist, gardener, animal caretaker, tractor driver, rock climber, hiker, artist, dancer, world traveler, musician, singer, and actress- just to name a few. She has lived in 13 states but has performed on stages throughout the United States with dance, plays, musicals, choirs, and bands- as a backup singer- and soloist. She has also been in several commercials and films- one of which she received IMDb credit for. She volunteers for several organizations, such as Scouts BSA, A Girl and A Gun, and others.

Portraying a 17-year-old in Bluebonnet Road (after not having been that age for a couple of decades) is a challenge, but she is up for it — musicals are one of her favorite things to participate in. "I want to thank her family for always supporting me throughout my many endeavors and hobbies," she said. "They all keep me young and happy."

Thomas's My Life in Song explores the many inspirations and challenges that are part and parcel of the creation of a song. His songwriting spans a wide range of musical genres and emotional experiences ranging from lighthearted fun to challenging one's convictions about life and our place in the world. Thomas is the author of Salado, the official song of the town of the same name. Salado has been featured for decades as one of the pivotal songs in Tablerock Outdoor Amphitheatre's annual performance of Legends.

Erwins at Crossroads to benefit Cedar Valley

Grammy-nominated group The Erwins will perform a night of their gospel music 7 p.m. June 17 at Crossroads Church to benefit First Cedar Valley Baptist Church.

Building the Wall will raise money to rebuild the First Cedar Valley Baptist Church. The church building was destroyed in the EF-3 tornado that ripped through the Cedar Valley and Southshore areas west of Salado.

Cedar Valley Baptist Church has brought The Erwins to Salado several times for gospel concerts.

The church is asking for donations of $20 or more during the concert.

"Singing is all we know and all we want to do. It's our life and our joy to serve the Lord with the voices He has given us," said lead singer Keith Erwin.

The Erwins started singing as soon as they were each able to talk. Appearing at over 270 dates a year with their father, who has been in full-time evangelism for 44 years, they have been traveling full-time their entire life singing in concerts, revivals, and conferences all across the country.

Three of the four siblings, Keith, Kody, and Kris performed as a trio until 2013, when the group announced that their little sister, Katie, would be joining the group full-time on stage officially making them a Mixed Group.

The Erwins are blazing new trails in Southern Gospel, proving to their industry peers and fans alike, that the future of Southern Gospel music is, in fact, secure with a young group like The Erwins.

Notice of Voter-Approval Rate: The highest tax rate the district can adopt before requiring voter approval at an election is 1.439300. This election will be automatically held if the district adopts a rate in excess of the voter-approval rate of 1.439300.

Fund Balances

Dr. Howard Horton returns to Salado Legends to assume his role as Governor Sam Houston

Howard Horton returns to portray Sam Houston in Salado Legends

Dr. Howard Horton returns to Salado Legends this year to assume his role as Governor Sam Houston. His photo has a remarkable resemblance to the true photo of Sam Houston. Dr Horton has a robust personality and a heart of gold. This year will be his 24th year to be in Salado Legends. The Shady Villa Hotel was chosen for the photo shoot to replicate the very place where Governor Sam Houston made his speech in 1861. Howard is a native of Goliad and a 1961 graduate of Goliad High School, where he lettered in football, basketball, and baseball. "Tablerock Amphitheater," says Howard, "is a beneficial organization to Salado. It is an opportunity for young people to apply public speaking, leadership, and teamwork skills and to earn a college scholarship." Dr. Horton has been vital to the success at the Tablerock Amphitheater, with the roles of General Sam Houston in Salado Legends for 24 years, the Ghost of Jacob Marley in A Christmas Carol for 23 years and serving as Secretary for the Tablerock Board of Directors for 22 years.:

SAM HOUSTON DR. HOWARD HORTON

Howard earned his B.B.A. in General Business, May 1965 from Southwest Texas State College (now Texas State University) - a three-year letterman in baseball. He earned an M.B.A. from Southwest Texas State University, June 1973, and a Ph.D. in Higher Education from Texas A&M University-Commerce, May 1996. Dr. Horton is a retired Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army, with 27 years of service.

He retired from UMHB in January 2005 as an Associate Professor of Business Management. Since then, he has been a part of the Bartlett Independent School District.

Howard and his wife Nancy, a retired Bartlett 4th Grade Elementary Math Teacher, have three very successful adult children and 6 grandchildren.

"Salado Legends", now in its 29th season, will have performances July 23, 30, and August 6th. It was chosen by the Library of Congress' bicentennial celebration as a record of life in America at the end of the 20th century, information from the theater states. A catered dinner will be served to those with dinner tickets at 7:15pm with seating at Tablerock picnic tables under the shaded trees at the Tablerock Trail next to the amphitheater. Dinner Tickets are $13 per person and advance purchase with reservation is required 24 hours in advance through Central-TexasTickets.com.

Show Tickets are $25 for adults, $10 for students with ID, and $5 for children 12 and younger and can be purchased through Central-TexasTickets.com or can be bought at the gate before showtime at 8:15pm.

Boaters urged to “Clean, Drain, and Dry” to stop spread of aquatic invasive species

With temperatures rising, Texas are getting out on the water. Now more than ever, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) urges boaters and paddlers who enjoy water recreation this summer to do their part to fight back against aquatic invasive species that threaten Texas lakes.

“While we want everyone to have a great time, we also want them to avoid giving free rides to invasive species and helping them travel to new lakes,” said Brian Van Zee, TPWD Inland Fisheries Regional Director. “The best way to prevent the spread of many destructive aquatic invasive species is to clean, drain and dry your boats and equipment – every time.”

Zebra mussels and giant salvinia continue to spread to new areas in Texas. Yet while they remain some of the biggest threats to Texas lakes, other highly invasive species can also be spread or be introduced by boaters, including water hyacinth, crested floating heart and quagga mussels.

Brookeland Aquatic Habitat Enhancement Team Lead. “We also need Texans to take action to help protect their lakes. It only takes a tiny fragment of an invasive plant to create a new infestation and preventing aquatic invasive species introductions avoids costly, long-term efforts to manage these species once they infest a lake.”

Giant salvinia, a highly invasive, free-floating aquatic fern that can double its coverage area in a week, is one of the major threats to our lakes. The invasive plant can produce thick surface mats that make fishing, boating, swimming and other water recreation nearly impossible.

Giant salvinia is currently present on 23 East Texas lakes and numerous rivers, creeks and marshes between Houston and Beaumont. While TPWD efforts have kept giant salvinia from limiting angling or boating access in Texas public waters, they could still hitchhike from one lake to another on a boat, trailer or other equipment.

Zebra mussels, a non-native shellfish that attaches to hard surfaces, also pose a significant threat to our lakes. These invasive mussels damage boats and infrastructure for water supply and control, alter lake ecosystems and cause harm to native species. They also litter shorelines with hazardous, sharp shells that impact lakefront recreation.

Zebra mussels are found in 33 Texas lakes across six river basins, as well as in river reaches downstream of infested lakes. Quagga mussels, a close relative of zebra mussels, have also been detected in Lake Amistad. Zebra mussels are in both Stillhouse Hollow Lake and Lake Belton. The TPWD and partners monitor numerous at-risk lakes around the state for early detection of zebra and quagga mussels, but once they’ve been introduced and become established in a lake, nothing can be done to control or eradicate them.

“Zebra mussels and quagga mussels can be attached to boats or even carried by anchors or attached to plants clinging to boats,” said Monica McGarrity, TPWD Senior Scientist for Aquatic Invasive Species

Zebra mussels can clog water pipes, cooling intakes on boat motors, and almost anything else left in the water in infested lakes.

Management. “Microscopic zebra mussel larvae can be transported in residual water in the boat. Taking just a few minutes to clean, drain, and dry boats can make a huge difference in our efforts to prevent further spread of this highly damaging species and harm to Texas lakes.”

Boaters need to remove all plants, mud and debris from boats, trailers, vehicles and gear and drain the water from the boat, all equipment and on-board receptacles before leaving the lake. In addition, boats should be dried completely before visiting another lake, preferably for at least a week. If drying isn’t possible, washing the boat and compartments using a carwash or spray nozzle on a water hose before visiting another lake can help reduce the risk of spreading aquatic invasive species.

If you have stored your boat in the water at a lake with invasive mussels, it is likely infested and poses an extremely high risk for moving these invasive species to a new lake. Before moving your boat, call TPWD at (512) 389-4848 for guidance on decontamination.

The bidding:
North 1♥ Pass 3♣ 5♦ Pass 6 NT
East Pass 4♣ 6♣ Dble
South 2♠ 4♠ 6♠ Pass
West Pass Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead — three of diamonds.

It is said that in war every new weapon gives rise to a counterweapon. In much the same way, many bidding and play conventions can frequently be turned against their users.

Consider this deal where the bidding went as shown. South's two-spade bid was not based on the normal complement of at least 17 high-card points usually needed for a jump-shift response, but his bid was quite reasonable, considering the enormous trick-taking power of his spades. South knew he was on the verge of a slam the moment his partner opened the bidding, and he wanted the two of them to be on the same page.

East's subsequent double of six spades was conventional. In the given sequence, it asked West to lead the first suit bid by dummy — namely, hearts. The significance of the double was not lost on North, who realized that a heart lead through the A-Q could prove fatal. So, he wisely ran to six notrump, a contract that proved unbeatable against any opening lead. He lost a club trick, but that was all.

East was in the unfortunate position where, if he passed six spades, West would probably lead a diamond, while if he doubled, he risked chasing the opponents into six notrump. On the whole, East was right to double, since there was no assurance that either North or South would budge against the double. In the actual case, East was a goner either way.

Pond Algae Control seminar held June 21

BY ADAM RUSSELL
TEXAS A&M AGRILIFE

A Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service webinar from 6-7 p.m. June 21 will cover how to identify and successfully manage various forms of algae found in ponds.

The webinar will provide a how-to educational program focused on all things algae, along with cyanobacteria, or forms of photosynthetic bacteria.

Brittany Chesser, AgriLife Extension aquatic vegetation program specialist in the Department of Rangeland, Wildlife and Fisheries Management, Bryan-College Station, will present the program.

Registration is $35 and closes at noon June 20. Instructions to access the webinar will be emailed when payment is received. The email will include a receipt, registration confirmation and instructions for accessing the webinar.

Chesser said a link to the recorded program will be made available upon request for people who register. Identify and control algae Chesser will cover how to identify the main groups of algae. The biology and role of these algae in pond ecosystems and how to manage them will also be covered.

Specific management strategies, including mechanical, biological and chemical options, will be covered for each grouping. Chesser will also discuss the importance of correctly calculating copper treatments, which is an algaecide, applications and treatment timing for effective control.

"Some of the major mistakes related to treating algae in ponds revolve around treating all algae the same," she said. "That is why identification and treating with the correct copper concentration at the right time is critical to successful management."
