

Humbug! 30th anniversary Christmas Carol performances at Tablerock slated Dec. 2,3,9 & 10

A Christmas Carol once again hits the stage this December.

Thom Wilson will direct the 30th annual performance of the play based upon Charles Dickens' tale.

Thom has been active in both school and community theater for over 50 years.

He started his interest in theater at Lamar University where he was involved with several musical productions. While at Lamar, he also worked with a wonderful technical director who advised him on set design. In 1971 he won the South East Texas Collegiate Set Design Award for his revolving set for 'Oklahoma' and his set design with a working Water Mill cottage for 'Giselle'. After leaving College, Thom volunteered for the military in 1972 and served 20 years with the United States Army serving in Military Medical facilities, mental health clinics, and Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation Centers as a Behavioral Science Specialist and after 1988 as a Master Degreed Social Worker. He served in Georgia, Texas, Germany, and Washington DC Military Communities. While in the Military, he continued his activity with amateur theater acting and directing. Upon Retiring in 1992, Thom went to work at Scott and White Memorial Hospital. During this time, he was active in community theater in both Temple, through the Temple Civic Theater, and at the University of Mary Hardin Baylor. He and his family were attracted to the interesting aspect of theater an outdoor amphitheater offered and he became active with The Tablerock Festival of Salado and has appeared in "Fright Trail" as a guide and in 'A Christmas Carol' as a merchant, Jacob Marley, and Ebenezer Scrooge; he has also played the role of Mr. Tenney in 'Salado Legends' for 6 years. For the last three years, Thom has had the joy of directing both, 'A Christmas Carol' and "Salado Legends". As noted before, Thom is a talented set designer and has designed several of the sets for Salado Legends and "A Christmas Carol".

The gates for the show open at 6 p.m. Dec. 2, 3, 9 and 10. The performance will begin at 7 p.m. each evening at Tablerock's Goodnight Amphitheater located at 409 Royal St. Tickets are available at the gate: $15 for adults, $10 for students and $5 for children 12 and under. Tickets may also be purchased on-line at CentralTexasTickets.com. The concession stand opens at 6:30 p.m. nightly for cold and hot drinks, snacks, and candy.

Village seeks playground sponsors

The Village of Salado is calling on business owners and residents to consider making a financial or in-kind donation this holiday season to help make the development of an all-abilities playground in Salado a reality.

The Village has unveiled a unique fundraising initiative aimed at raising the $359,000 still needed to fund construction of the new all-abilities playground in Pace Park. This program of giving offers different sponsorship opportunities to help fund construction of the unique playground.

Depending on their level of giving, each project sponsor will receive sponsor benefits ranging from on-site recognition to donor gifts to access to special events relating to the construction and opening of the new playground. Sponsorships are tax-deductible.

"We want to give everyone an opportunity to help support the development of this amazing community project," said Village Administrator Don Ferguson. "Donors can sponsor individual elements of the playground, contribute as a general sponsor, or sponsor benches, trees, etc."

The search is also on for businesses interested in becoming in-kind sponsors by providing some of the construction services needed at no cost to the Village.

With the assistance of the community, the Village of Salado has approved plans for the development of the all-abilities playground that will be constructed adjacent to the current playground at Pace Park. The goal of this project is to create innovative play experiences and provide quality outdoor play for people of all ages and abilities that develop the whole child, the whole environment, and ultimately, benefit the whole community.

The estimated construction cost of the playground is $675,000. To date, $316,000 has been raised and $359,000 is still needed to fund development of the playground.

"With the holiday season upon us, the Village of Salado hopes residents and business owners become motivated by the holiday spirit and step up to become a sponsor of this outstanding community project," said Ferguson. "It's the season of giving."

For more information on how to become a sponsor of the Village of Salado's all-abilities playground in Pace Park, visit www.saladotx.gov or call the Village of Salado at 254.947.5060.

Correction: Clearwater tax rate

The Nov. 24 page 1A story entitled "Williamson Co. residents bringing annexation petition to Clearwater UWCD" stated the following:

"The ballot for the proposed annexation will have to state the maximum property tax rate allowable by law, which is $0.05 per $100 valuation. The current Clearwater UWCD tax rate is $0.02708 per $100 valuation." This last statement is incorrect. The Clearwater UWCD tax is actually $0.002708 per $100 valuation. The property tax due on $100,000 valuation would be $2.71. The 2023 budget for Clearwater UWCD is $907,422 of which $816,578 comes from property taxes.

There are 98 Groundwater Conservation Districts in Texas. Clearwater UWCD was one of the early Districts to be formed by election of the voters in 1999.

Study shows U.S. labor force dropped by 6.2 million during pandemic as Boomers retired

Our dear old S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) turned in a quite decent Thanksgiving week as it ended its Black Friday activity early so traders could hit the stores. It closed above the psychologically important 4000 level at 4026.12 after rising 2.02% for the week. In keeping with our tradition of portraying the longer-term view of the SPX, it is still down 16% from its high point in early January as well as down 15.53% from this time last November, but it is up 12.4% from its recent bottom on Oct. 12, up a whopping 80% from March of 2020, and up about 15% from three years ago. Our other stock market indicator, the CRSP Mid-Cap Value Index, closed at 2438.48, up 2.15% for the week and is only down 6.11% from its January high point.

The benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note ended the week yielding 3.704%, a decline of 3.7% from last week, and well below the 4.475% of the 2-year note and the 4.284% of the 90-day T-bill, leaving us with a still thoroughly inverted yield curve. West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) continued its long downward price slide from its record-breaking highs around $120 back in June, ending the business week here in the U.S. at $73.60 per barrel, the lowest price we have seen this year. Our journey across Central Texas this week revealed some seriously lower gasoline prices advertised, as declining WTI prices begin to show their effect.

The Economy

The predominate news from the U.S. economy is still positive. One of the principal leading indicators of which way our economy is headed is the durable-goods report, which tracks the orders received by manufacturers for goods that are meant to last at least three years. The total value of those orders jumped 1%

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

month-over-month in October. The report for September was revised downward to 0.3%, which too was a good number, but was dwarfed by the surge in October. Transportation orders, particularly aircraft, sometimes distort that number, but even after eliminating transportation orders, the orders increased 0.5%. Another distortion is commonly caused by defense orders, but again, when we pull that out, but leave commercial transportation orders in, the value of was up a surprising 0.8% for that single month. Why are those numbers important? Because retail organizations making those orders tend to follow what their customers, who are mostly commercial enterprises, are telling them they want, and businesses can see trends moving in the economy far before either academic or government agencies do. The business, commercial side of our economy is anticipating growth over the next three years and more.

The reverse of that is quite evident in the housing market. New-home sales appear to be stabilizing after a dramatic fall, but that stability level is looking like it is below the pre-pandemic rate. Whether we will see significant home price declines is not clear, but the day of double digit rises in house prices seem to be over.

The weekly new filings for unemployment insurance rose marginally to 240,000 in the week ending on Nov. 19 but is still well below the break-even 270,000 number that would indicate stable employment rates. Quite a few more people have been reported to have been laid off, particularly in the headline grabbing large-tech firms, but the vast majority of those who lost jobs were able to find immediate employment and, as a result, did not file for unemployment insurance benefits. The single best indicator of the direction our economy is going is the labor market, and it is continuing to signal solid growth ahead.

We are still suffering from a shortage of labor, both skilled and unskilled. A recent study suggested that the U.S. labor force declined by about 6.2 million people during the pandemic. What the pandemic appears to have done was to push a large percentage of older “baby-boomers” into retirement who are now living on their retirement benefits and personal investments. Meanwhile farmers and farmer-organizations are pushing hard to get Congress to approve an expanded worker-visa program because they are having a lot of trouble finding agricultural workers.

Finally, the minutes of the Federal Reserve Open Markets Committee (FOMC) from their meeting early this month, revealed that there was majority support for decreasing the rate at which the Committee was raising rates to give the economy time to reflect what effect increased rates were having. At the same time, the FOMC supported going to a higher level before leveling off, suggesting that short term rates could rise to 5% or 5.25% from the 4.75% target set earlier this year. With the current fed funds rate at 3.75% to 4%, rates could about 30% over the next six months or so.

Elon Musk may not be so brilliant after all Lawsuit alleges Tesla vastly overpays CEO

By SAM PIZZIGATI

A good day’s work for a good day’s pay. Should this age-old wisdom apply to overpaid CEOs as well as their workers? A Delaware court will soon decide, a turn of events that must have the richest man in the known universe, Elon Musk, feeling more than a little bit uneasy.

Delaware’s little-known Court of Chancery normally provides business moguls a battleground where they can slug out their big-ticket differences. But the court also gives stockholders a chance to push back against the moguls — and one modest shareholder in the Musk empire has done just that.

Shareholder Richard Tornetta, a former heavy metal drummer, filed suit in 2018 against the company’s board for lavishing unnecessary billions upon Musk.

Tornetta’s challenge has ended up before the Chancery Court’s Kathleen McCormick, a judge who’s already demonstrated a distinct lack of patience with Muskian antics. Just this past October, McCormick ruled against Musk in another case. She might well again.

Musk’s current Tesla CEO pay plan, notes CNN Business, gives Musk “the largest compensation package for anyone on Earth from a publicly traded company.” Under the plan, the higher Tesla’s share price goes, the more new Tesla shares Musk gets.

Thanks to that connection, Musk’s personal net worth now sits at $189 billion, the world’s largest personal fortune. In 2018, the year Musk’s Tesla pay deal went into effect, some 40 billionaires worldwide topped Musk on the Bloomberg billionaire charts.

Back in 2018, major shareholder advisory firms recommended that Tesla shareholders reject the pay deal that Tesla’s corporate board — a panel that included Musk’s brother and assorted close pals — wanted to give Musk.

Musk himself, one advisory firm noted, already had plenty of incentive to work hard for Tesla’s success. He owned 22 percent of Tesla’s shares even before his new CEO pay deal.

The week-long trial on Richard Tornetta’s Delaware lawsuit against Musk and Tesla ended in mid-November. Judge McCormick’s decision in the case will likely come down sometime over the next three months.

McCormick’s previous ruling against Musk came when the billionaire tried to back out of the deal he cut last spring to buy Twitter. After that ruling, Musk had to go ahead with the purchase. Now he’s flailing about, trying to make others pay the price for his impulsive takeover bid. He’s already laid off half the Twitter workforce.

If McCormick rules against Musk once again, Musk will still walk away fantastically rich. But he won’t walk away happy. His ongoing Twitter debacle — and now the Tesla litigation — have dealt his reputation for unparalleled business “genius” a potentially fatal blow.

Under cross-examination in the Tesla case, for instance, Musk had to concede that he didn’t come up with the original vision for Tesla himself, the claim he’s been making for years.

Musk turns out to be as flawed as the rest of us. The key difference: Musk has the power and wealth to make others pay for his mistakes.

Musk has also benefited, unlike the rest of us, from billions in taxpayer subsidies. Handouts to his electric car, solar panel, and spaceflight businesses — all “long-shot start-ups,” the Los Angeles Times has detailed — gave his companies their secret sauce. Those subsidies launched Musk’s unparalleled personal fortune.

So what can the rest of us do to prevent another “brilliant” entrepreneur from building a fortune off the insights, labor, and tax dollars of others? We can deny subsidies to companies that pay their top execs hundreds of times more than what they pay their workers. We can tax the rich at much higher rates.

And we can put Elon Musk atop a rocket and send him off to where he has repeatedly announced he dearly wants to go — to Mars.

Kevin McCarthy’s Task

Kevin McCarthy may now have the hardest job in Washington.

Assuming that he becomes speaker of the House, which will require the near-unanimous support of his caucus and isn’t necessarily a foregone conclusion, he’s signing up for the most miserable experience of any congressional leader since John Boehner barely controlled a Republican House majority in the Obama years.

Boehner presided over a caucus infused with new tea party members who expected to do great things, when the leverage a congressional majority has over a president of the opposite party is inherently limited.

The mismatch between their hopes and their power led to continual frustration, which was taken out on Boehner. By the time he resigned, the Ohio Republican could be forgiven for wondering if his dog was going to turn against him.

Now, House Republicans will have a microscopic majority in a Washington still arrayed against them. It will be hard enough to pass anything consequential or controversial out of the House before it runs into a brick wall in the Democratic-controlled Senate. House Republicans presumably won’t be able to get their handiwork within hailing distance of President Joe Biden’s veto pen.

In light of this, the first priority for House Republicans should be tempering expectations. Their most important achievement has already occurred — namely ensuring that Nancy Pelosi will no longer be speaker with all that that entails for Biden’s agenda.

Making the most of their opportunity otherwise will require some realism, subtlety and creativity.

Deadline-driven fights loom over the debt limit and budget next year. Republicans will want to extract their pound of flesh but shouldn’t overestimate their influence. They aren’t going to reform entitlements or put the U.S. on a fundamentally different fiscal path in a dramatic, down-to-the-wire confrontation over the debt limit or a possible government shutdown. Usually, the aggressors in such fights lose, and it’ll be hard to maintain GOP unity with more cautious Republican senators hesitant to go down this path.

Republicans would be well-served to choose a few plausible policy objectives at the outset of these fights — say, revoking the new Biden IRS agents — rather than coming up with large, superficially attractive demands that inevitably have to be abandoned.

Then, there are the investigations. Here, Republicans don’t have to worry about the balancing act involved in getting to 2018 votes. The House Oversight Committee can simply get busy. There are still pitfalls to avoid, though.

The Hunter Biden investigation obviously needs to focus on the public corruption and the question of the president’s involvement more than Hunter’s lurid personal life. Republicans should steer clear of any counterprogramming on January 6, especially given what the midterms showed about the political costs of any association with “Stop the Steal.” And impeaching Biden without even a majority in the Senate would be an exercise in futility.

Otherwise, the field is wide open for probes that could be substantively important and politically useful, whether on the origins of COVID-19, how the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and other government entities responded to the pandemic, the Afghan withdrawal, and government pressure on social media companies.

Finally, House Republicans should pass legislation, not in the hopes of getting any of it signed, but to show that the party has a solution-oriented agenda. This was an element of the party’s message that was woefully lacking in the run-up to the midterms. They should pass bills to address inflation, support families, control the border, move toward a more merit-based legal immigration system, push back against the “woke” education bureaucracy, reduce college costs, and point in a more sensible direction on crime.

The party should demonstrate that it’s pro-family and pro-law and order, while trying to sell itself to the middle again as serious and competent.

This will be no small task with a very narrow, fractious majority, but no one said Kevin McCarthy’s job would be easy.

Salado United Methodist Church recently organized two Thanksgiving mission projects. On Nov. 16, the church assembled 72 Thanksgiving food boxes with items collected during their "Great Days of Sharing," (shown above). This event, coordinated with Heart and Hands food pantry of Salado, provides essential items for a traditional Thanksgiving meal to local families in need. 2022 marks the 12th year SUMC has supported this community ministry. DOROTHY JEAN WESTLAKE (NEWTON)

MARCH 9, 1931
NOVEMBER 25, 2022

Dorothy Jean Westlake (Newton), passed away on Friday, November 25, 2022. While her friends and family will miss her greatly, we are also profoundly grateful for her final days. She passed in peace and at home the day following a wonderful Thanksgiving feast where she was the joy-filled "Star Of The Show" amongst her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Dorothy was born in Hillsboro, Texas on Tuesday, March 9, 1931, to Elihu Vestal Newton and Mattie Viola Abel-Newton. The family moved to Dallas when she was three years old, where she remained until 1951. In Dallas she attended W.E. Greiner Junior High and later graduated from Sunset High. While at Greiner, she met a young man named Dick Westlake, though they didn't start dating until they were seniors in high school.

On January 6, 1951 she married Dick at Edgefield Church of Christ in Dallas. The newly married couple immediately moved to Lubbock, where Dick was attending Texas Tech. Dorothy worked and took classes until 1952 when Dick graduated and they moved to Austin for his law school.

They enjoyed their time in Austin, then their lives changed dramatically in late 1955 – early 1956. Upon graduation, Dick was drafted into the Army and sent to Fort MacArthur in San Pedro, California. Dorothy stayed with family in Dallas until delivering her first child (Richard Lee) and within weeks they joined Dick in California for the next two years.

After the army, and a brief stint back in Dallas, where their second son Ronald David was born, they moved to Midland in May of 1958 where she had her daughter Brenda Donise. During their 36 years in Midland, they raised their family and made many wonderful life-long friends. They especially enjoyed living close to Dorothy and Bill Cotner, who they had known from high school in Dallas.

In 1993 they moved to Salado, Texas where they spent the next twenty wonderful years. They filled those years with volunteer work on many worthy causes, such as Meals on Wheels, the Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary and the Salado Public Library.

To be closer to their children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, in 2013 they moved to the Northwest Houston area. In April of 2018 she lost her beloved husband of 67 years but has since had the joy of living in her daughter's wonderful guest house. Her last few years were filled with the almost continuous joy of seeing her children, her children's children, and their children. Her last years could hardly have been better, for which we are all most grateful.

Dorothy was the youngest of five siblings, all of whom are now deceased.

She had three children: Richard Lee and wife Julie, Ronald David and wife Judy, and Brenda Donise Walker and husband Wes. She was also blessed with ten grandchildren: Laura Westlake, David Westlake, Sarah Westlake, Lindsay Walker-Cortez and husband Sean, Brittany Walker-Pratt and husband Kevin, Christian Walker, Elizabeth Westlake, Katherine Westlake, Meriel Westlake and Ridge Westlake. She currently has seven great-grandchildren: Walker Cortez, Archer Pratt, Cason Cortez, Max Richard Pratt, Oliver Pratt, Paisley Cortez and Holly Pratt.

A private graveside service will be held in Salado on December 3rd. Memorial donations are welcome at the American Heart Association (donatenow.heart.org), or the charity of your choice.

Services are in the care of Broecker Funeral Home, Salado. To send messages to the family go to www.broeckerfuneralhome.com.

"Surviving the Holidays" event scheduled In Salado

Holidays are a time when the difficult emotions of grief can hit even harder. People may become overwhelmed with heartache and despair after the loss of their loved one. There may be inevitable changes to long-term holiday traditions. Those who are grieving may need guidance and encouragement to make it through the holidays.

"Surviving the Holidays" is a free event, open to the public, that introduces people to resources and tools that will help them better navigate the annual holidays. It will be held 10 a.m.-noon Dec. 3 in the Fellowship Hall of Grace Church Salado, 5798 FM 2484.

Attendees will also be introduced to the benefits of the Grief Share group concept.

The program will include a video, complementary workbook, and small group discussion. Light refreshments will be served.

Register online at www.GraceSalado.com/events or call Mary Hendrix at 858-232-4692 for questions and information on the "Surviving the Holidays" event or the "Grief Share" program in Salado.

The home of E. J. and Robin Van Sickle.

Van Sickle Home on tour

BY CAROL WILSON
SALADO HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The first Salado Home Tour was held in 1959, a springtime event that featured only historic homes. Over the years this tradition has experienced a few changes and some pauses, however little has changed since 1983 when the tour became part of Salado's multi-event holiday extravaganza. The roster of featured properties changes each year to ensure that the experience is as novel as it is magical and a theme of blending old and new has come to define the tour. The Historical Society is indebted to the families who so graciously open their doors each year allowing us to meet that goal. Among this year's hosts are E. J. and Robin Van Sickle.

The Van Sickle House on Ambrose Drive fits in perfectly with the homes tour vintage-meets-contemporary theme. It is a new house, completed in 2020, but contains some delightful surprises in the form of antique furnishings and fixtures. An old farmhouse near Westphalia, once the home of Robin Van Sickle's great grandparents, was the source for certain pieces of antique furniture from Germany, an old porch swing, a clawfoot tub in the master bathroom and a drainboard sink in the laundry room.

After owning the lot for some 15 years, it was the realization of a dream for E. J. and Robin to move into their new home last year.

Robin is creative and that talent is visible in the home's custom features and her holiday decorations. In partnership with a nephew and inspired by traditional and craftsman styles, Robin designed this house from its very conception.

The Historical Society invites you to see this and the entire array of homes on Dec. 3. Homes Tour hours are 9 a.m.- 5 p.m.

Homes on the tour are the following. Each home has been featured in the Salado Village Voice newspaper.

The Rose Mansion at 903 Rose Way, home of Scott and Kellieann Hyderkhan.

The home of Pat and Marsha Suggs, 335 College Hill Dr.

The home of Greg and Jane Westerfield, 313 Home Place Lane.

The home of Bill and Lynne Wilton, 310 Van Bibber.

The Home of E.J. and Robin Van Sickle, 1217 Ambrose Dr.

Tickets are $20 when purchased in advance at centraltexasitickets.com.

Tickets will be available for in-person purchase 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m. Dec. 3 at Salado Public Library, 1151 N. Main St. for $25 per person. No tickets will be sold at the homes.

king after declarer played low from dummy. But he correctly decided that there was no future in a spade continuation, so he shifted to a low club, which sounded the death knell for the contract.

Declarer played low, West winning with the eight and returning a low club to East's king. There was no recovery for South, whatever he did, and he eventually lost a spade, three clubs and a diamond to go down one. East unquestionably earned his success by abandoning spades and shifting to a club at trick two, but he should never have had the opportunity to beat the contract. South erred grievously when he played low from dummy on the opening spade lead. He was asking for trouble, and he got it.

Both the bidding and the opening lead clearly marked East with the king of spades, so it was unnecessary to try to protect the queen by playing low from dummy. There was more pressing business at hand.

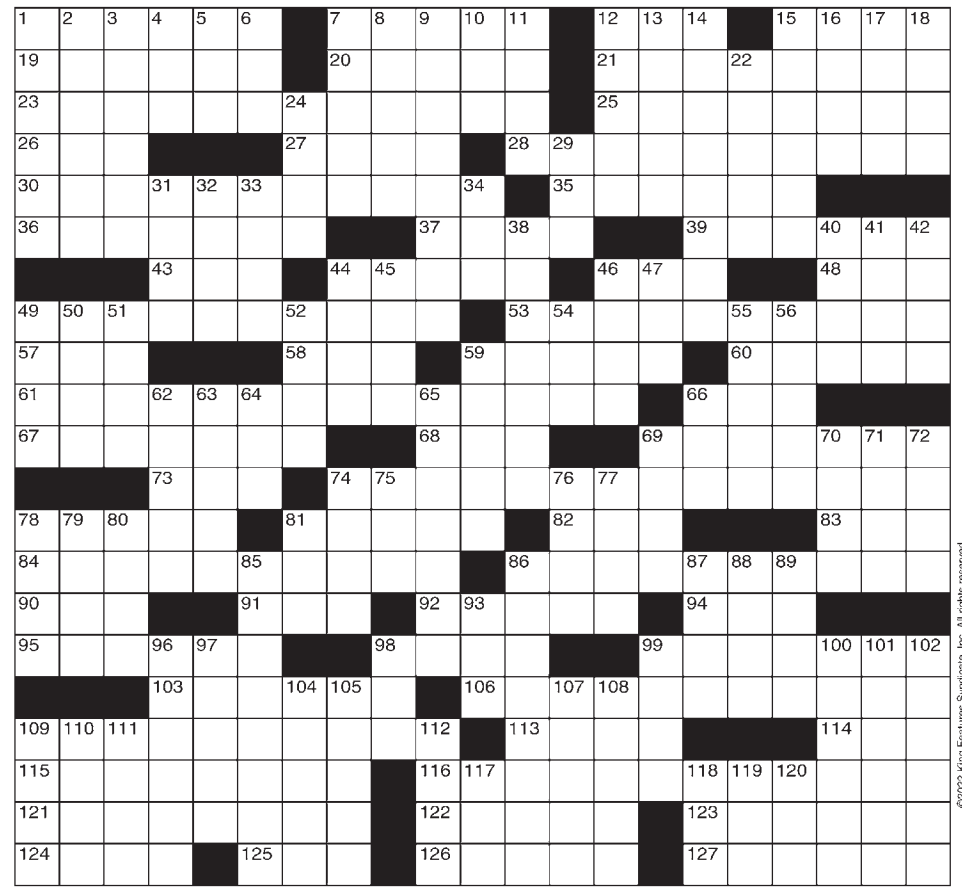

Dummy's diamonds needed to be attended to before declarer's weak spot in clubs could be exploited. South should therefore have gone up with the ace of spades at trick one and attacked diamonds at trick two. Had he done so, South would have had no trouble scoring nine tricks.

Six Salado cheerleaders march in Macy's Parade

Six Salado cheerleaders traveled to New York City to participate in the Macy's Thanksgiving Parade on Nov. 24.

To be invited to perform in the Macy's Day Parade, the cheerleaders received a Spirit Star Award at the 2022 summer cheer camp held in Irving-Las Colinas conducted by Express Cheer June 9-12.

The Spirit Star Award is announced on the final day of camp when cheerleaders perform for their parents. To receive the elite award, a cheerleader must demonstrate leadership, spirit and athletics. Candidates are nominated by a team member at the camp, to be considered for the award the athlete is required to try out in front of the Express Cheer Coaches (performing three jumps, motions, dance and a cheer). Cheerleader nominees are judged and awarded by Spirit of America Cheer Staff

With this award the athlete receives an invitation to represent their school and participate in the Annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade sponsored by Spirit of America productions.

The six Salado cheerleaders marched alongside 500 cheerleaders from around the United States that have received the Spirit Star Award. This group will represent Macy's in the parade wearing a red, white and blue Macy's uniform.
