Favorite teachers/coaches/sponsors in SHS and why?

Corey Baird, I had Coach Baird as my fifth grade science teacher, freshman biology teacher and High School Cross Country and Track coach for all four years. Throughout these years she has inspired me to push hard at running and in the classroom. Due to her coaching, I have watched the Cross Country program grow in number and quality. It was exciting to compete at the state Cross Country meet and advance to regionals in Track for four consecutive years.

Katy Leiskau, I had Mrs. Leiskau as my Chemistry and OnRamps Chemistry and Biology teacher. She inspired me to pursue a science degree in college and encouraged me to attend medical school post college graduation. As our FCA Sponsor she has encouraged my spiritual life through organizing FCA meetings and morning Bible Studies.

Summer plans (work, college, travel): I plan to work as a nanny for a local family and enjoy the summer with my family.

Library Dist. celebrates 25th

Friends and supporters gathered at the Salado Public Library May 20 to celebrate 25 years since the establishment of the Salado Public Library District by an election of voters and 20 years since the Library moved into its new home on the north end of Main St.

But the origins of the library go back almost four decades to a 1985 meeting between the late Dr. Robert McConnell and the late Ross Greenwood, who was the president of the Salado Chamber of Commerce at that time. Nancy Mills Mackey reviewed the history of the Salado Library since before it was incorporated in 1986 as a 501(c)3 non-profit. Those early day committee members were Dr. McConnell, Thelma Fletcher, Ruth Howe, Richard Goodman and Jane Wilmer.

The first home of the Library was at the end of what is now called Old Town Salado shopping center. It was then called the Double Eagle Shopping Center. A ribbon cutting was held with Salado Chamber President Grace Jones and Library President McConnell. Ruth Howe was the first volunteer librarian.

The Library was accredited by the Texas Library System in 1988 and was funded by donations and run by volunteers.

In 1993, the Library moved into the downstairs of the Old Red Schoolhouse, which had recently been saved from condemnation by a volunteer effort led by the Chamber, Library and Salado Historical Society, as well as alumni of the 1924 school. Patty Campbell became an assistant librarian in 1994 and was the first employee of the library.

A long range plan was developed for the library and in May 1998, voters approved the formation of the Salado Public Library District along with a half-cent sales tax. The first board of directors included Luther Brewer, BJ McConnell, Susan Shobe, Lynn Epps and Carolyn Britt.

ter, the library outgrew its space there and in 2002, the Library District bought the building where it is now located, moving into it in 2003.

Mackey then listed the founders of the Salado Library: Drs. Bob and BJ McConnell, Adele Johnson, Pete Jennings, Dr. Luther and Marilyn Brewer, Teddy Dennis, Woodie Grisham, Carolyn Britt, Richard Goodman, Patsy Sanford, Holly Greenwood, Richard Rawson, SISD and its leadership, Mary Jane Taylor, Doodle Bridges, Lauralyn Carlisle, Adelle Johnson, Patricia Adams, Laurice McClellan, Georgann Bakke, Jackie Mills, Mary Belle Brown, Juanita Hardin, Jim and Ginny McCracken, Anne Thompson, Jeanne Berrier, Suzanne Berry, Joan Blum, Jack Buchanan, Lou Butler, Wynell Patterson, Jack Knox, Karin Borman, Judy Greene, Roy Hector, Patty Campbell, Lynn Epps, Tiffany McKeever, Perry Grisham, Connie Gillian, La Nora Miller, Mary Lou Williams, Jean Teal, William Wende, Blanch Kevlin, Richard Westlake, Susan Shobe, Pat Milford, Carolyn Britt, Alayne Fuller-Ramsden, Emmy Alvarez and Hulda Horton.

The current board of directors of the Library District are president Nancy Mills Mackey, vice president Emmy Alvarez, treasurer Joycelyn Miller, secretary Barbara Morris and member at-large Susan Starnes.

Library director Jeannie Lively told the audience that

“The most important asset of any library goes home at night – the library staff.”

She then highlighted the staff of the Library through its years, to include the front desk workers, the first face you see when you come in the door: Karen Kinison. Elaine Eddings, Andrew Hernandez and Nancy Shepperd and now Manuela Smith.

She then recalled those who have served as librarians: the first ones were Sylvia Schmidt and Alayne Fuller-Ramsden. Emmy Alvarez was the first children’s librarian. Other librarians were Kay Coleman, Elaine Eddings, Rachel Gerik, Amy German, Kim Manger, Geri Neemidge, Kristyn Pittman, and Jennifer Zavaglia.

Patty Campbell was hired as the first paid Library Director in 1995. She served for nine years. She was followed by our second director, Marsha McGuire. “These women were responsible for directing the library. They guided it down a path of growth and development. directing the library,” Lively said.

“And we continue to grow through the work of our current staff,” Lively said. At the front desk we have Manuela Smith, Jane Hackley, and Sarah Englekue. Our librarians are Julie Hoy, Adult Librarian, April Gatliff, Teen Librarian and Mia Wilson, Children’s Librarian.

“Our mission,” she added, “is to welcome, empower and enlighten everyone who walks through these doors.”

Memorial day ceremony set May 29

The Salado Cemetery Association will host the annual Memorial Day Service at 9:30 a.m. May 29 at the Historic Salado Cemetery on Baines Street.

The purpose of the Memorial Day ceremony is to remember the veterans buried not just in Salado Cemetery but in all of the Salado-area cemeteries, including family and church cemeteries, by a roll call of their names by LTC (Ret) Stephen Peters. All Veteran’s grave sites will have flags placed on them before the service by Cemetery Association Board members. The Veterans are from the Texas Revolutionary War, Early Day Rangers, Home Guard, Indian Wars, Mexican War, Confederate and Union Armies, Spanish American War, WWI and II, Korean War, Vietnam War, and from peace time service.

Bell County Sheriff’s Posse will again present the colors at the start of the service. Honors will be given to each of the armed services. Remarks will be given by Luke Duell, a local veteran. Taps will be played at the conclusion of the service.

Light refreshments will be served following the closing of the Memorial Day ceremony.

In case of rain, the Memorial Day service will be held at the Pace Park pavilion.

Mortgage costs causing home prices to drop

The S&P 500 Stock Index once more moved in a manner the week's headlines suggested it should not as it rose 1.65% to finish the week at 4191.98, its highest weekly close this year. It is now up 9.18% since the year began, over 17% since its low last October, 7.45% since this time last year, and nearly 40% since this time three years ago. At the same time, it remains 12.54% lower than its record high point in January 2022. Observers gave the credit for the gain to hope that the debt ceiling will be raised. The other stock index we follow, the CRSP US Mid Cap Value Index, rose 0.16% to 2266.71, leaving it down 3.1% this year, and 12.72% from its high last year.

The yield on the benchmark 10-year US Treasury note climbed to 3.70% from last week's 3.39%, leaving the yield up more than 9% this year but with the yield curve still strikingly inverted. Once more the one-month T-bill held the top rate, yielding an annualized 5.62%. All the Treasury issues out to one year also remained above 5% with the 30-year T-bond at 3.95%. While not so dramatic, the longer-term Treasury maturities yields have gradually been moving upward, suggesting that the bond market collectively is of the opinion that interest rates are going to be higher over the long-term. West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) rose about 2.3% to finish the week at $71.70 remaining in the trading range it has occupied for most of the last year.

The Economy

The U.S. Economy continued its counterintuitive trek, ignoring the pundits and soothsayers whose reading of economic tea leaves has had them warning of both a major recession that should have arrived by now and with it a Federal Reserve "pivot" with sharply

Market & Economic Update

by Jeffrey W. McClure

lower interest rates. During the week initial claims for unemployment insurance, widely seen as a proxy for lay-offs, slipped back into the pattern we have seen for the past six to nine months falling to 242,000, about where the average has been. Monthly retail sales rose for the second time in the last six months as consumer spending continued its shift from services to goods.

U.S. industrial production rose a surprising 0.5% in April despite a decrease in inventories. Normally, as businesses see excess inventory, we also see a decline in industrial production and manufacturing, but April's reports indicated that domestic manufacturing grew a full 1% after slipping 0.8% in March. The economy's maximum sustainable speed is measured in something economists call capacity utilization (Cap-U), which typically stalls at about 80% as weak links and bottlenecks have historically kept Cap-U below that number. In April Cap-U rose from 79.4 to 79.7, suggesting that goods manufacturing is running about as hot as it can get. For reference, last fall when the economy was clearly over speeding, Cap-U was at 80.6.

U.S. single family residences prices fell the most year-over-year in 11 years as April's prices came in 3.4% lower than at this time last year. It is becoming clear that higher mortgage interest rates are having an effect. The backside to that statistic though, like so much we are seeing in the economy now, went the other way as the NAHB Housing Market Index, a measure of homebuilders' sentiment, rose to 50 on a scale where that is the dividing line between growth and contraction. Single family building permits in April rose 3.1% as housing starts rose 1.6%, despite another increase in mortgage rates. Increased and increasing interest and mortgage rates are having an effect, but it is minor when compared with what was expected.

The wild card regarding which way the economy and stock market will go this year remains the debt limit. There continues to be universal agreement among business leaders and economists that a failure to raise the debt ceiling, resulting in the United States of America defaulting on its debts for the first time in its history, would very likely result in a severe recession and potentially a bear market in stocks. The Treasury announced that on June 1, outflows will be $75 billion greater than inflows, with another $22 billion hit coming on June 2, equating to more than the $92 billion the Treasury reported it had available as of May 17. If the Treasury doesn't run out of funds before June 5, it likely could make it until July, according to the Bipartisan Policy Center.

The bottom line remains much as it has been. Despite an inverted yield curve and negative leading economic indicators, the underlying U.S. economy appears to be on solid ground and growing at a sustainable rate. Were it not for the threat of a federal default on what it owes others, the route ahead looks far more like recovery and growth than like a pending recession.

To protect the children, tax the rich

A campaign to curb greed was key to the first fight against child labor. With GOP states putting young kids to work, we need that battle again.

By SAM PIZZIGATI | MAY 17, 2023

Ever since the middle of the 20th century, our history textbooks have applauded the reform movement that put an end to the child-labor horrors that ran widespread throughout the early Industrial Age.

Now those horrors are reappearing.

The number of kids employed in direct violation of existing child labor laws, the Economic Policy Institute reported this year, has soared 283 percent since 2015 — and 37 percent in just the last year alone.

More recently there was the alarming news that three Kentucky-based McDonald's franchising companies had kids as young as 10 working at 62 stores across Kentucky, Indiana, Maryland, and Ohio. Some children were working as late as 2 a.m.

Federal legislation to crack down on child labor has stalled out amid Republican opposition. And at the state level, lawmakers across the country are moving to weaken — or even eliminate — child labor limits.

One bill in Iowa introduced earlier this year would let kids as young as 14 labor in workplaces ranging from meat coolers to industrial laundries. And Arkansas just eliminated the requirement to "verify the age of children younger than 16 before they can take a job," the Washington Post reported.

Over a century ago, in the initial push against child labor, no American did more to protect kids than the educator and philosopher Felix Adler. In 1887, Adler sounded the alarm on child labor before a packed house at Manhattan's famed Chickering Hall.

The "evil of child labor," Adler warned, "is growing to an alarming extent." In New York City alone, some 9,000 children as young as eight were working in factories. Many of those kids, Adler said, "could not read or write" and didn't even know "the state they lived in."

By the end of 1904, as the founding chair of the National Child Labor Committee, Adler had broadened the battle against exploiting kids. He railed against the "new kind of slavery" that had some 60,000 children under 14 working in Southern textile mills up to 14 hours a day, up from "only 24,000" just five years earlier.

Adler put full responsibility for this exploitation on those he called America's "money kings," who he said were after "cheap labor." Alongside his campaigns to limit child labor, Adler pushed lawmakers to end the incentives that drive employers to exploit kids.

Aiming to prevent the ultra rich from grabbing all the wealth they could, Adler called for a tax rate of 100 percent on all income above the point "when a certain high and abundant sum has been reached, amply sufficient for all the comforts and true refinements of life."

After the United States entered World War I, the national campaign for a 100-percent top income tax rate on America's highest incomes had a remarkable impact. In 1918, Congress raised the nation's top marginal income tax rate up to 77 percent, 10 times the top rate in place just five years earlier.

During World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt renewed Adler's call for a 100-percent top tax rate on the nation's super rich. By the war's end, lawmakers had okayed a top rate — at 94 percent — nearly that high. By the Eisenhower years, that top rate had leveled off at 91 percent.

Felix Adler died in 1933, before he could see the full scope of his victory. But by the mid-20th century those inspired by him had won on both his key advocacy fronts. By the 1950s, America's rich could no longer keep all they could grab, and masses of mere kids no longer had to labor so those rich could profit.

The triumphs Adler helped animate have now come undone. We need to recreate them.

Locating Burial Plots in Salado Cemetery: The Salado Public Library keeps a notebook for the Salado Cemetery Association. It is updated every year with the latest burials. The notebook also has a map of the burial plots. Using it will help individuals locate burial plots of specific individuals. Bill Pinkston, Salado Cemetery Board (254) 947-3372, has the master list of grave sites.

Members and guests are encouraged to attend and learn of future plans for GRK.

The Salado Ladies Community League will host their annual Membership Luncheon 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. June 29 at the Summers Mill Hillside Restaurant. JESSIE RUTH DAW JANUARY 14, 1935 MAY 15, 2023

Jessie Ruth Daw, 88, formerly of Salado, went to be with her Lord on May 15, 2023. Most called her Ruth.

Ruth was born in Nacogdoches, Texas on Jan. 14, 1935, to parents Jesse and Jewel Rogers Baker. She married the love of her life, Cooper Arlen Daw, on Oct. 1, 1953. They were devoted to one another through more than 65 years of marriage, and raising their six beloved children together was one of her life's greatest joys.

Ruth moved through her life with a smile and a song of praise on her lips. Her beautiful voice blessed many a Church of Christ congregation. She was strong, gracious, generous, humble, and most of all, unfailingly kind. She loved the Lord with all her heart.

She is survived by her children Karen Ruth Daw, Susan Diane Daw and wife Dianna J. Thomas, Roger Trent Daw and wife Marcia Crawford Daw, Phillip Wayne Daw and wife Diana Hutchins Daw, and Carol Jane Cailler; daughter-in-law Debra Murphy Daw; grandchildren Jesse Clay Daw, Jeremy Patrick Daw, Jonathan Kyle Daw, Phillip Joel Daw, Katherine Rebecca Daw, Jeannie Daw Martinez and husband Saul Martinez, Emily Rose Daw and husband Aaron Robert Boyle, Justin Michael Daw and wife Leslie Nelson-Daw, Eric Phillip Daw and wife Amanda Burkhalter Daw, Rachel Elah Hillock and husband Dustin Gene Hillock, and Eli Cooper Cailler; great-grandchildren Cooper Nelson Daw, Lachlan James Daw, Lola Ruth Hillock, and Arlen Burk Hillock; sister Robbie Baker Bayard; sister-in-law Eleanor Baker; and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents, son Randall Arlan Daw, daughter-in-law Mary Mercer Daw, brother Roger Baker, and brother-in-law Pete Bayard.

A graveside service was held at the Salado Cemetery in Salado, Texas at 11 a.m. on Friday, May 19. A memorial service was held at Creekside Church of Christ, 6113 Jack Finney Blvd, Greenville, Texas at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 20.

Burleson has been accepted into the Mays Business School at Texas A & M University, which offers students enhanced leadership development and experiential learning opportunities.

Future career Plans: "I have been fortunate to grow up in a home with a large world view. Both of my parents share a love for other lands, languages, and people, and they have shared that love with me. Before I was in high school, I had already traveled outside the United States multiple times to serve and engage people in multiple countries. Since traveling abroad, hearing different dialects, trying different food, and meeting and working with different people, not only have I learned to adapt, but also appreciate the value of diversity. As a business major in college, I am going to focus on expanding that learning, seeking diverse paths which interest me, and refining my goals for service to a variety of people across the globe. I am pursuing interests in business management, marketing, ministry, and service work all of which reflect various passions that I have."

Any hobbies or other interests you have: Owner and Operator of an online retailer since 2018. Coffee house barista. Serving in church. Babysitting.

Favorite memories from Salado High

"One of my indelible memories occurred the Spring of our freshman year with the question, 'What do you mean we're not going back to school?!'" Then dealing with COVID-19 and its imprint on the rest of my high school days."

Outside of class, my favorite memories have definitely been with the Salado Girls Varsity Golf Team, enjoying time with my teammates and our roadtrips together. And of course, making practice 'fun' (and sometimes mischievous).

What value has attending school in Salado/growing up in Salado instilled in you?

"My family moved to Salado when I was 3 years old, young enough to not really know what was happening, but old enough to know we were in a new place. It was not the place however, that had the biggest impact on my life; it was the people in that place. Shortly after we arrived here, all of the personal connections started pouring over and into my family. Friends my parents had known since college reconnected with them here. An older man living here had served alongside my grandfather in the Navy. Two wonderful couples who had retired to Salado had first been great friends with my grandparents in Corpus Christi. One lady had known my dad since elementary school. Another gentleman and his wife had actually attended my parents' wedding many years prior. The relationships were amazing, and I knew we had found our home.

Although a job brought us to Salado, it was small town living that kept us here, as our involvement in the community and friends we had here were very deep. I am one of only a handful of students who can actually claim that they went pre-K to 12th grade here, and the stability of that, has provided for me an amazing foundation. I have developed lifelong friends in school, have had incredible teachers and mentors, and have enjoyed the familiarity and stability of calling this small familiar place home.

There is a saying that I think really describes our community, 'On the outside looking in you can't understand it, and on the inside looking out you can't really explain it.'

Favorite teachers/coaches/sponsors in SHS and why?

"Mrs. Kessler and Mrs. Leiskau are two teachers who have highly impacted me, both of whom I had for 3 years in class. In Spanish, Mrs. (Señora) Kessler placed us in uncomfortable situations, such as requiring us to converse in Spanish only. Yes, I learned a tremendous amount of Spanish language and culture, but most importantly I learned to strive to do my best in all situations and to support others along the way. In Chemistry/Biology, Mrs. Leiskau pushed us as her students to our limits. In her classroom there were no excuses for poor or incomplete work, including when we had extra-curricular activities that kept us out late! And yet, even though they were some of the toughest, I learned the most in her classes. Both of these teachers have been my best supporters and encouragers, and although challenging, their classrooms were also fun and full of some of my best memories I will take with me."

Summer plans (work, college, travel): After some summer travel with my parents, and summertime employment, I will prepare for college in the Fall.

and the ace of diamonds was cashed, on which West showed out.

At this point, declarer was in serious trouble. He tried dummy's queen of clubs, but West wisely refused to win, and that was that. South wound up with only seven tricks — three spades, a diamond, a club and two hearts — and finished down two.

Sadly, the fact is that not even an earthquake can stop South from scoring nine tricks if he plays correctly. While he was unlucky to lose the diamond finesse and run into a 4-1 division in the suit, South should have allowed for the worst and not subjected himself to the possibility of ill fortune.

Declarer lost his contract at trick one. Although the spade lead presented him with a "free" finesse, he should have put up dummy's king rather than play the ten. This would assure nine tricks. South would then play the queen of clubs and, if necessary, next overtake the ten with the jack and persist with the suit until the ace was driven out. With the ace of spades still in his hand as an entry, declarer would finish with at least four clubs, two hearts, two spades and a diamond for nine tricks.

All South needed to do was to give up the chance of gaining an extra spade trick in favor of assuring nine tricks by playing dummy's king at the outset.
